

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, OCTOBER 6, 1931

NUMBER 1

The Renaissance of Primitive Christianity

By G. Eldred Marsh

“Thus saith the Lord, Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls. But they said, We will not walk therein.”—Jer. 6:16.

OUR theme suggests both a question and an answer to the question. The phrase, “Primitive Christianity”, suggests the question; and the word “Renaissance”, the answer. Placing the accent upon the word, primitive, would imply that while Christianity exists at the present time, the Christianity of today differs in some manner from its original form; that through the course of the ages it has lost something of its pristine vigor, something of its freshness and vitality, something of its power and interest. Assuming that this is true, the word, renaissance, would indicate the revival of Christianity from its long period of slumber, and the restoration of its ancient meaning and power.

To carry this thought to its ultimate decimal point would be assuming more than is justified by events at the present time. Christianity has not returned altogether to the “old past”. Christianity has not forsaken all of the false gods it had raised up unto itself.

There are significant transitions taking place in the religious world that indicate that thoughtful and devout men are beginning to “ask for the old paths, where is the good way,” that they may “find rest for (their) souls.”

The zealous intensity of the early disciples gave the church an initial impetus along the pathway of truth that heathen influences could not easily or quickly overcome. An arrow shot into the air will continue to fly in a straight line until it loses its original velocity; but when that first power of motion is exhausted, it may easily be turned from its way by the lightest passing breeze.

So it was with the church during the first few hundred years of its history. The memory and the inspiration of the Lord's presence remained with His people. They were constantly thinking about Jesus Christ and His coming again. The early disciples were motivated in all they did and thought by that glorious hope. “When the heavens might part asunder at any moment, and reveal the final doom,” as Lightfoot expresses it, they had no time to consider the philosophical vaporings of “them that knew not God,” and much less were they inclined to be led away by them.

The theology of the primitive church was very simple. There was nothing elaborate or complex about it. No one dreamed in those days of attempting to compile any finished exposition of God's purposes in His relation to man. Duty was too pressing; the Lord's coming was too near. The fathers could not take the time to question vaguely about the triune nature of God and the immortality of the soul. Jesus was coming! The judgment was near!

“No, nothing else will matter when the King we see,
And stand before the great eternal Majesty!

Nothing else will matter then!”

Such was the state of mind of the early believers. Intricate theological questions, labored interpretations of esoteric scriptures held no interest for the primitive church.

They who had heard the youthful Stephen preaching the Lord Jesus Christ as the promised Messiah of Israel; they who had witnessed his stoning without the walls; they upon whom his final words had fallen so wondrously sweet, so tenderly kind, as he offered to the Father his final prayer, “Lord, lay not this sin to their charge”; they who had been scattered abroad as a result of the great persecution that arose against the church at Jerusalem carried with them, wherever they were driven by the relentless fury of their enemies, just one big thought, one great inspiring idea: The Lord is coming! Such, history, sacred and profane, declares to have been the first tenet of Christian faith.

It is true they believed in God; but it was the God of Israel in whom they believed, the One of whom it was

(Continued on page 6)

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879

F. L. AUSTIN, Editor

MARY A. GESIN, Assistant Editor

WATCHMAN, WHAT OF THE NIGHT!

STEALTHFULLY, but rapidly, the world is unwittingly entering deeper and ever deeper into the darkness of the night of man's rule. Ever more trying and more difficult seem to be life's ways. While the world was by jealousy or enmity kept separate in nationalities it seemed to be quite possible for one or two of those families to be in the agonies of deep depression without affecting materially other members of the world family. But as the world becomes ever more closely inter-allied as a result of the rapid and marvelous perfection of instruments of communication, transportation and commercial exchange, it becomes more closely tied and knit together like the members of a private family. It becomes ever more difficult for one portion to be seriously afflicted without all the other portions suffering with it. Like the human body, if one member suffers, then all the members suffer with him. As this condition develops, the strain upon the world body as a whole becomes ever more serious.

It is of this very thing that prophecy has unburdened itself so fully and assigned the fulfillment to the closing days, yea, hours, of this Gentile dispensation. Daniel's prophecy of successive universal empires is by John in Revelation carried forward to a point of complete federation of all such powers. Revelation 13 certainly portrays an era, brief in duration, when all the world other than those standing obedient to Christ will be federated under one mighty blasphemous sovereign opposing God and all that is called God.

What of the night! To the writer it seems as though we are rapidly approaching this time of world-wide federation. Financial, commercial, political, religious tendencies all lead toward such a climax.

No cause for alarm here, that is, to the Christian. The voice of the archangel, the trump of God, the shout of the Messiah will all break forth to call and gather Christ's own elect unto Himself before this vicious federation of the world shall pour its anathemas upon unbelieving man. The signs of the night indicate this call soon.

Let him who is following the Master do so in the richness of Christian sincerity. Let him stand openly and gladly for Him whose soon coming will begin a world-wide correction, restitution, and final perfection.

Let us remember that God's promised word is that the entire curse of earth is to be erased, that every opposing power will finally be overthrown and destroyed, and that the whole earth will be made new and radiate the righteousness and glory of God and the redemptive glory of Christ.

As we silently, unwittingly drift with the tide into the ever falling darkness of the night that precedes the early dawn, let us do so with our hearts of faith truly and firmly interlocked with the heart of the Master.

ADIEU

AND now the editor, after nine years of pleasant service, comes to the time of bidding farewell, editorially, to the many readers of THE RESTITUTION HERALD. Earnest though his effort has been to enter the unbounded field of opportunity and though prayerfully he has engaged in his work, yet he realizes that many weaknesses and errors have been revealed. For these he is sincerely and deeply regretful. But for the many words of appreciation, for the many hearts and hands of cooperation, for the many friendships formed and established, for the opportunity of service, he is sincerely thankful, as well as also for whatever Christian good and advantage may have been sent forth in these columns.

Bro. G. Eldred Marsh, who becomes successor as editor of THE HERALD, is one whom most of the readers know. He needs no introduction. It is with pleasure that in turning the work over to another, I turn it over to one who is so capable, so intently sincere, and so Christian in conduct. I bespeak for him the heartiest cooperation of all and ask that both writers and readers will reveal such fullness of confidence in him as to graciously abide by his editorial decisions and assist him in carrying them out.

Praying God's blessing to rest upon THE HERALD family and that God may lead and guide into fullness of truth unto salvation, I am

Yours in the Master's service,

F. L. Austin.

APPRECIATION

AS BRO. AUSTIN severs his connection editorially with the National Bible Institution, I wish to express my appreciation of the opportunity I have had of laboring with him as assistant editor. The duties that fell to me, though they may have been wearying at times, have been filled with joy, and they have their own recompense in the knowledge of the cooperation and Christian love that has grown between myself and you, my readers, all over this broad land. Through association with Bro. Austin and because of the opportunities of service thus afforded me, I feel today a greater consecration to my Master than I did two years ago. And if in any way I have been able to lighten Bro. Austin's load I am well repaid.

Mary A. Gesin.

OREGON'S NEW PASTOR

AFTER our last conference was adjourned, the Executive Board having arranged with Bro. G. Eldred Marsh of Los Angeles, Calif., to oversee the religious phase of the work of the National Bible Institution, and the local church, having arranged with Bro. Marsh to become its pastor, the undersigned gladly consented to continue his work until November first to give Bro. Marsh ample time to make his change. But through the kindness of the Los Angeles congregation, arrangements were made whereby he would not have to return to California. He is therefore in position to assume all of his duties in Oregon at this time. Accordingly the writer offered to make this change at this time instead of waiting until November first. As a result, Bro. Marsh assumes duties with the National Bible Institution upon the morning of October fifth. The installation service as pastor of the Church of God at Oregon will be held on Sunday morning, October eleventh, the writer closing his pastorate with Sunday, October fourth. Asking God's blessing to rest upon Bro. Marsh in all of his labors, and asking all working with him to lend hearty and prayerful cooperation, I am

Yours in the Master's service,
F. L. Austin.

AN EXPLANATION

TO CORRECT a false impression that seems to be in the minds of some, both locally and throughout the National Bible Institution field, the writer wishes to say that he is not discontinuing his labors and efforts and interest. It is not correct, as some seem to think, that he has refused to carry any of the work. What he did refuse to do was to carry the responsibility of all departments as heretofore and in particular he notified the last conference in session that he would not continue the executive branch of the work, that is, the business branch.

The writer is just as much interested in the prosperity of the National Bible Institution in all of its departments as he has been from its organization. He hopes to be actively engaged in Christian work in one way or another after a very brief rest. His address will be 5439 Ohio St., Austin Station, Chicago, Illinois.

SOME DIFFICULT TEXTS

By C. A. Smead

"Because thou wilt not leave my soul in hell, neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see corruption."

THE above text is quoted by inspiration of the Holy Spirit from Psalm 16:10, which signifies that the Lord uses the Greek word for hell, hades, as equivalent to the Hebrew word for hell, sheol. The English word, hell, meant "a hidden place" at the time the Authorized Version was translated.

Sheol is also translated "the grave," and "pit". If the passages where sheol occurs are carefully studied, it will be found that it properly means the condition of death. That condition is described in Ecclesiastes 9:10: "For there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave (sheol), whither thou goest." The above is a very good description of nothingness, cessation of all activity.

There is another word for hell in the New Testament, which is, gehenna, a transliteration of the Old Testament word, gehenna, which signifies the Valley of Hinnom, a valley outside Jerusalem where fires were continually kept burning for the destruction of the refuse from the temple and the city. What the fire did not consume, the worm did. See Mark 9:44.

In the future there will be a terrible day of judgment when the dead, small and great, will stand before God. Rev. 20:12. The unworthy ones will be destroyed; their dead bodies will be burned in fire, as the dead bodies from the temple were burned in the fire of gehenna. Therefore we should not fear man, who can kill; for that is all he can do to us. But we should fear God, who after He has killed, can destroy all hopes of future life in the fire of gehenna, Luke 12:5, which is unquenchable but will burn and burn until there is nothing left for it to burn. That is the "everlasting punishment" of Matthew 25:46. "Punishment" comes from the Greek word meaning "cutting off".

"Everlasting" is aionian in the Greek and signifies a period of time of indefinite duration. It means, forever, or as long as life shall last. For instance, one could become a servant forever, Deut. 15:17, or until death. Therefore if one were tormented in gehenna forever, he would be tormented just as long as it took the fire to put an end to his life. Gehenna is a place where all that are cast into it are cut off from life now and forever, there being no hope of a resurrection. After all the wicked have been destroyed the fire will go out from lack of fuel.

Then will God come and dwell on earth with men, and they shall be His people, and He will be their God.

SAVING OR LOSING

By F. L. Austin

“For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it.”

SALVATION is by man properly regarded as the greatest gift of God through Christ. All too frequently though the evangelist works upon the fears of the people, picturing extravagantly distorted visions of punishment and hell; and, contrariwise, strained visions of salvation, as though by the combination of whip and sweets they could rush men into salvation as floods rush over the valley. Men and women are urged to seek Christ and salvation as though salvation were a divine gift that could be given freely and as indifferently as leading politicians sometimes bestow favors upon those of their own cliques. But salvation is not to be realized in such a way. Indeed, man is urged, Phil. 2:12, to work out his “own salvation with fear and trembling”. It is a goal to be attained, to be labored for.

Just as it “is impossible for God to lie”, because a lie would be untrue to righteousness and thus break and destroy the very foundation upon which Jehovah builds, so also is it impossible for God to give salvation as a gift to one who at heart is unrighteous or is contrary to Himself. While salvation is a gift of God, yet it must be sought and worked for by man. Man is either following in the way of his forerunner, Adam, or in the way of his forerunner, Christ. The one way leads to death, to final nonexistence; the other way leads to life, to final eternal life. The one leads to salvation; the other to loss of life.

Toward the realization of salvation for man, God has provided an open way, a competent helping Hand, a competent Savior, a competent King to rule, to direct, to guide. God has done all that divinity can do. He has provided all that is necessary and that is usable by man.

If the acorn seed is to develop into the oak, the acorn, as such, must lose itself completely. If the boy is to realize manhood's ideals, the boy must cease to be the boy; he must lose his childhood. If the man of Adam is to realize fulness in Christ, salvation in its greatest degree, he must lose, must sacrifice, must devote his first and former self in order that he may realize the larger end in view. Salvation is a starting along the great pathway of God's processes toward the realization of God's purposes. And he who is going to arrive at that station and proceed farther must surely leave the starting point.

True Christianity is first made possible by God through Christ; but it is realized by the individual weaving his life into the warp provided by our Savior, and thus perfect the pattern that the Master would have perfected. True Christianity ends in salvation. Salvation is a commodity of great value which must be paid by him who would attain the goal. It costs the giving of one's life, the devoting of one's being, the sowing of the seed with such completeness and thoroughness that the seed shall become ruined as it grows into the new structure.

It is undoubtedly this that must be comprehended in the statement of the Apostle when he said, Gal. 6:7, “Whosoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.” And again in the verse following, “He that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting.” To sow is to give; it is to give one's being unto apparent destruction that out of it the new may result.

And so salvation of the individual depends now upon the individual himself. God has wrought, wrought faithfully. Christ has wrought, wrought wholly. His gift and His work were complete, thorough. It is now left for man to do his part.

In giving himself to his Master he, at the moment of his dedication, renders obedience. But this momentary obedience, contrary to what is so frequently presumed, is not sufficient for salvation. Salvation requires continuous obedience, continuous devotion, continuous losing, giving of self.

And this giving is not merely in thought, or in words of praise and adoration. Rather it includes also that that is nearest and dearest to the individual, his lifelong devotion, his lifelong loyalty. It includes whatever man is possessed of that by the giving will further his Master's cause, will reveal himself as wholly interested in his Master's service. To save himself of such giving, to preserve unto himself that which were it given would be of value to the Master, is but to lose one's own salvation. But to give, even though human reason might say that it was the undoing of self is but to place one's self completely into the hand and keeping and power of his Savior, of Christ. To “lose his life” for the sake of service to the Master is but to “find it”.

SOME DAY

“Some day,” we say, and turn our eyes
Toward the fair hills of Paradise.

Some day, some time, a sweet, new rest
Shall blossom, flower-like, in each breast.

Some time, some day, our eyes shall see
The faces kept in memory.

Some time their hands shall clasp our hands,
Just over in the morning lands.

Some day our ears shall hear the song
Of triumph over sin and wrong.

Some day, some time, but oh! not yet;
But we will wait and not forget,

That some day all these things shall be,
And rest be given you and me.

So wait, my friends; though years move slow,
The happy time will come, we know.

—Selected by Alice B. Curtis.

COMMUNION

By George B. Alldridge

(Continued from last week)

THERE is so far only one feature of the slaying of the anti-typical Passover Lamb completed and that is the saving of the firstborn. What is to follow? the saving of the world of mankind. But be careful, brethren, how many you include in this. All Israel after the flesh was given the opportunity to enter the promised land, but only two of that great number that crossed the Red Sea entered—Joshua and Caleb. The question of the resurrection we will consider in another article. Let us in conclusion go back again to 1 Corinthians eleven.

What does Jesus command us to do? "Do this in remembrance of me." "For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do shew the Lord's death till he come." Under the type only those who were of the house of Moses could partake; in the antitype only those who are of the house of Christ. Read Hebrews 3:1-6.

In 1 Corinthians 1:24, Paul makes it very plain who these are. "Who now rejoice in my sufferings for you, and fill up that which is behind of the afflictions of Christ in my flesh for his body's sake, which is the church."

In 1 Corinthians 11:29, we read, "For he that eateth and drinketh unworthily, eateth and drinketh damnation to himself, not discerning the Lord's body." In other words, Paul means that if he is not a member of the Lord's body, as set forth in Colossians 1:24, and filling up that which is behind of the afflictions of Christ in my flesh," he "eateth and drinketh damnation to himself." For notice the following verse: "For this cause many are weak and sickly among you, and many sleep." Weymouth makes it a little clearer: "That is why many among you are sickly and out of health, and why not a few die." Solemn words are these, brethren!

Now if in the apostles' day they could not discriminate who were proper persons to partake, we had better not try to do so, who are living nearly two thousand years from that time.

Bro. Lyon, our pastor, is a clear thinker and a close student of the Scriptures. We meet the first Sunday in each month. (I prefer the fourteenth day of Nisan.) Bro. Lyon, who usually presides, never invites any to partake except those who have been baptized into Christ, and understand clearly that the death He is commemorating, means the death unto sin, and having a part with Christ in saving the world from sin and death when He returns again.

Dear brethren, this question of open and close communion wa had better not use as a test of a brother's or a sister's standing in the ecclesia, but leave it where the apostles did—with the individual and not the ecclesia. "But let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of that cup."

Brethren, I will not deal in recriminations, but will say there are many things more important than quibbling upon this question, that are practiced among us that to our cheeks bring a blush of shame. To show what this leads to, an ecclesia in Cleveland, Ohio, probably claiming to be the strictest of the close communion bodies (that is, when it suits their convenience) rejected a brother from becoming their pastor because he had been pastor of a body accused of open communion. But in this case as the sequel has proven, their loss has been the brother's gain. I am sorry to say I signed the letter informing him of their action.

In most of these controversies, really in the abstract, what do they amount to? Jesus in the days of His flesh met the controversialists of that day. "The washing of pots and pans," etc. It seems to me as I stand on the sidelines and watch the game, that the struggle for preeminence among the brethren recalls to my mind Paul's words, "For ye are yet carnal: for whereas there is among you envying, and strife, and divisions, are ye not carnal, and walk as men? For while one saith, I am of Paul; and another, I am of Apollos; are ye not carnal? Who then is Paul, and who is Apollos, but ministers by whom ye believed, even as the Lord gave to every man? I have planted, Apollos watered; but God gave the increase."—1 Cor. 3:3-6. "Now this I say, that every one of you saith, I am of Paul; and I of Apollos; and I of Cephas; and I of Christ. Is Christ divided? was Paul crucified for you? or were ye baptized in the name of Paul?"—1 Cor. 1:12, 13.

Amid all these controversies has this thought occurred to you that there is a unanimity of belief in the statement that, "because he hath appointed a day, in the which he will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom he hath ordained; whereof he hath given assurance unto all men in that he hath raised him from the dead"?

"And he shall send Jesus Christ, which before was preached unto you; whom the heaven must receive until the times of restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began."

So let us submerge our petty opinions and differences and unite as one brotherhood to proclaim as Jesus and His disciples did, that the kingdom of God only will end these days of depression and bring back to earth its rightful King, who will establish a condition of peace, equity, and justice upon this sin-troubled world. Let us give the right hand of fellowship to all who have obeyed the gospel in putting on in baptism the all saving name of Jesus, a symbol of death and resurrection.

"Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering; (for he is faithful that promised;) and let us consider one another to provoke unto love and to good works: not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another: and so much the more, as ye see the day approaching."

"For, brethren, ye have been called unto liberty; only use not liberty for an occasion of the flesh, but by love serve one another. For all the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this: Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. But if ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not consumed one of another."

THE RENAISSANCE OF PRIMITIVE CHRISTIANITY

(Continued from front page)

said, "He shall send Jesus Christ, which before was preached unto you: whom the heaven must receive until the times of restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began."—Acts 3:20-21.

It was not a mysterious, triune God, "having neither body, part, nor passion," but the great I AM, the God of Abraham and of Isaac and of Jacob, the God of their fathers, whom they worshiped. They did not look for Jesus to come as God. They expected Him to come with the power and with the authority of God; but beyond this simple conception their theistic philosophy did not go.

God was a very real person to them. They believed that He saw, heard, and felt. They believed that their beloved Lord Jesus Christ was actually on the right hand of God in the heavens on their behalf; that it was from there that He would soon come again to receive unto Himself His own.

They had nothing to say about the salvation of those who had died in the past—those who had died in ignorance of the one true and living God and His Son, their Lord. There were too many millions dying in sin and dying in ignorance right then, for them to divert their attention to any extent to the needs of past or future sinners.

The Lord was coming! The day of His coming had already been determined by the Father. Paul voiced the faith of the entire early church when he assured the Athenians that God no longer winked at the ignorance of men: "But now commandeth all men everywhere to repent: because he hath appointed a day, in the which he will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom he hath ordained; whereof he hath given assurance unto all men, in that he hath raised him from the dead."—Acts 17:30-31.

Suppose they had worshiped "strange gods"? suppose they had bowed down before "gold, or silver, or stone, graven by man's device"? What did the past matter now? Jesus, the Judge of all the world, was coming. Let all else be forgotten; let that one great truth remain, vibrant in their hearts and lives! The early church must never pause; they must never loiter; they must never retreat; they must carry the glad tidings of a coming Savior to living men and living women. "Let the dead past bury its dead"; they must carry on!

If they gave any thought to the past, to those who had lived and died without knowledge of God, they probably said with Hezekiah, their ancient king: "The grave cannot praise thee, death can not celebrate thee: they that go down into the pit cannot hope for thy truth. The living, the living, he shall praise thee, as I do this day: the father to the children shall make known thy truth."—Isa. 38:18-19.

We cannot preach to the dead, for "the dead know not any thing." But we can, and must, like our Lord and Master, "preach the kingdom of God to other cities also: for therefore (are we) sent."—Luke 4:43. Like the Apostle

Paul, they felt very deeply the responsibility that rested upon them. "For though I preach the gospel, I have nothing to glory of: for necessity is laid upon me; yea, woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel!"—1 Cor. 9:16.

This constant urge to preach the gospel acted as a strong wall of protection against the entrance of false and demoralizing ideas. They thought about nothing, they cared about nothing, save the coming of the kingdom of Christ.

As the church grew in numbers and in influence, it drew to itself many who in the past had been "aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise," and, as far as salvation is concerned, they had "no hope, and (were) without God in the world."—Ephesians 2:12.

These strangers found in the church of God a sanctuary of beauty, surpassing anything they had ever known when they worshiped in the temple of their gods. But while they recognized and appreciated its glory, they were not altogether freed from their former religious ideas. Some of those false theories they brought with them into the church.

The Jewish element already in the church, and which formed at the beginning its entire membership, struggled long and valiantly against these encroachments of error. In spite of the prophetic warnings of the apostles, many such erroneous theories did creep into the rapidly growing body of believers, and soon demanded a place among the accepted doctrines of the church.

As Jews and Jewish influence diminished in the church, and Gentiles gained in numbers and in consequent power, the demands of the former Greek and Roman religionists were granted in a measure. Through the influx of foreign and unchristian philosophy, the church lost much of its early simplicity both in doctrine and practice. Among other losses of tremendous importance beginning some five hundred years after Christ, that which had ever been the greatest of all Christian doctrines, the hope of the coming of the Lord to establish His kingdom upon this earth, began to be questioned.

Under Constantine, the church became a national institution in a measure. It received national recognition and worldly emoluments from the rulers of Rome, which was still the Mistress of the World. This close association, and in a measure, cooperation, with carnal governmental affairs deadened the millennial hopes of the believers. Why should they look forward to the coming of Christ to establish His kingdom when they were in possession of one already? Could they consistently acknowledge the supreme authority of Rome and at the same time pray, "Thy kingdom come"? Could they devote their time to the furtherance of Roman political interests and at the same time really desire the Lord to come and overturn that government?

With the passage of the centuries, the one great hope of the humble followers of the Nazarene was buried deeper and deeper under the false theories of men. God did not permit, however, that blessed hope to be entirely forgotten. In the early centuries it had been incorporated in the most widely accepted statement of Christian faith in the familiar phrase, "from thence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead", but interest in carnal politics had robbed the phrase of its power and meaning.

Another great doctrine of the early church closely associated with that of the coming of Christ was likewise cast aside in deference to the demands of the heathen philosophers who had entered the church. That was the doctrine which, perhaps, is the most distinctly and peculiarly "Christian" of all the teachings of the church: The resurrection of the body.

The church of God was founded on the resurrection of Jesus Christ. It was a cardinal tenet of Christian faith because, among other important reasons, it was the means God had employed to establish the truth of Christianity. Paul makes mention of this in the text we have quoted: "(God) hath appointed a day, in the which he will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom he hath ordained; whereof he hath given assurance unto all men, in that he hath raised him from the dead."—Acts 17:31.

The resurrection of Jesus was the vital element in Christian teaching for many reasons. Peter agreeing with Paul, as he always does in matters pertaining to essential faith, in adducing the resurrection of Jesus as an evidence upon which to build Christian hope of a future life, says, "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead."—1 Peter 1:3.

Paul makes the resurrection of Jesus more important from the standpoint of Christian evidence by affirming that by it God acknowledged the divine sonship of Jesus Christ, and declared Him to be "the Son of God with power, according to the spirit of holiness, by the resurrection from the dead."—Rom. 1:4.

The resurrection of Christ was more than the "chief cornerstone" in the foundation of Christian faith. It comprised the promise, the assurance, the evidence, of individual life after death. To attach to the resurrection of Christ an evidential value in support of his sonship and mission only is to overlook one of the richest purposes of that glorious event. For Jesus died to show unto us the way of life; He died in demonstration of our own mortality; He was buried that He might take every step in the road to life that other men must take; and then He rose from the dead to show the possibility and the certainty of life after death, and, equally important, the manner in which future life will be obtained. Thus, the resurrection of the body occupied a very important place in the theology of the primitive church, if so simple a system of belief may be termed "theology".

When the church and the Roman Empire were wedded, as we have seen, the church lost its interest in a future kingdom on the earth because such a kingdom was out of harmony with their desires. In losing their interest in an earthly kingdom to be set up in the future, they naturally lost all desire to be restored to life after death upon the earth. By the introduction of heathen philosophy and political power into the church, the two most important and most uniquely Christian doctrines were discarded.

Now, however, as one of the most impressive signs of the times, interest and belief in both of these primitive apostolic articles of faith are being gradually developed. Religious leaders are not yet ready to acknowledge all their errors of the past. They must cling a little longer (perhaps they will cling too long), to some of the heathen ideas that have found their way into the church.

One significant truth which they have recovered and are now generally confessing is that the future life cannot be complete without the body. Further, that the hope of the Christian is not going to heaven at death, but the coming of Christ and the resurrection from the dead. Life, radiant and deathless, in a new and glorious body—such is the desire and hope of thoughtful men, and that this hope is to be realized at the coming of our Lord and Master Jesus Christ.

---

PREACHING AND SHOWING

---

"AND it came to pass afterwards, that he went throughout every city and village, preaching and shewing the glad tidings of the kingdom of God, and the twelve were with him."—Luke 8:1.

Commenting on the above text in a sermon at the recent Virginia Conference, Bro. H. A. Sheets said: "God has given us as followers of the Lord Jesus Christ but one great task to accomplish, and that task is to preach and show the glad tidings of the kingdom of God. In His miracles of healing, He demonstrated the manner in which the love of God would be poured out upon mankind in the kingdom of God."

---

"Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find: knock, and it shall be opened unto you: for every one that asketh receiveth, and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened."
Matt. 7:7, 8. "Ye ask, and receive not, because ye ask amiss."—James 4:3.

---

Bishop Perowne—"The immortality of the soul is neither argued nor affirmed in the Old Testament."

Olshausen—"The doctrine of the immortality of the soul and the name, are alike unknown to the entire Bible."

Archbishop Whatley—"In fact no such doctrine is revealed to us. The wicked are never spoken of as being kept alive, but as forfeiting life."

Dr. Parker—"Christianity treats man not as immortal but as a candidate for immortality."

Wm. E. Gladstone—"Another consideration of highest importance is that the natural immortality of the soul is a doctrine wholly unknown to the Holy Scriptures and standing on no higher plane than that of an ingeniously sustained philosophical opinion."

"FOR MY SAKE"

Three little words, but full of tenderest meaning;
 Three little words the heart can scarcely hold;
 Three little words, but on their import dwelling,
 What wealth of love those syllables unfold!

"For My sake" cheer the suffering, help the needy,
 On earth this was My work, I give it thee;
 If thou wouldst follow in thy Master's footsteps,
 Take up My cross, and come and learn of Me.

"For My sake" let the little ones be tended,
 All that I gave unto the needy keep;
 I took them in My arms, received, and blessed them,
 Do now the same for Me, Feed now My sheep.

"For My sake" let the harsh word die unuttered,
 That trembles on the swift, impetuous tongue;
 "For My sake" check the quick, rebellious feeling
 That rises when thy brother does thee wrong.

"For My sake" ever press with patience onward,
 Although the race be hard, the battle long;
 Within My Father's house are many mansions,
 There thou shalt rest and join the victor's song.

And if in coming days the world revile thee,
 If "for My sake" thou suffer pain and loss,
 Bear on, faint heart, thy Master went before thee;
 They only wear His crown who share His cross.

—Selected.

---

THE PENTATEUCH

By Harvey Krogh

THE first five books in the Bible contain more than any other books found in God's Word. A good outline of God's complete plan is found in these first books. After studying them we see the greatness of God's plan; we marvel at the manner in which types and signs are woven into the history of Israel, God's chosen nation. We are impressed by the wisdom of every inspired word of God's great Work.

Genesis may well be termed, "The Seed Bed of the Bible." "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." He created all vegetation and the living creature. Then He made man in His own image. God placed man on trial in the garden of Eden. Man failed and was condemned to death. All of his posterity inherited his sin and all inherited the sentence of death. At the pronouncing of this sentence God promised a Savior. The world became very wicked and God caused a flood to destroy all flesh except Noah and his family and the animals which were in the ark with him.

Abraham was the next righteous man with whom God dealt. God promised him a large tract of land in which his descendants were to dwell. God also promised him that in his Seed, that is, Christ, all families of the earth should be blessed.

During the great famine the grandson of Abraham, Jacob, and his family, went down into Egypt where Joseph had stored corn enough to last seven years. Jacob, whose name was changed to Israel, became a great nation in the land of Egypt although in slavery.

The book of Exodus, the book of redemption, begins with the names of the children of Israel and the birth of Moses. Moses spent forty years in the courts of Pharaoh and forty years in the land of Midian before he was fitted for his great task. God called him and showed him miracles to strengthen his faith. Moses then went to Pharaoh and after bringing upon him and his people many plagues, he succeeded in taking Israel away from Egypt. As soon as they were in the wilderness they began to murmur against Moses for delivering them into a fruitless land to starve rather than die by the hands of Pharaoh's taskmasters. The Lord heard them and gave them manna.

Moses went up into Mount Sinai and God gave him the law, the ten commandments, and its interpretation. God gave Moses instructions how to make the ark of the covenant, the altars, and all of the tabernacle and its furnishings in perfect detail. The priest was appointed and his garments were made. The kinds of offerings and the manner in which they were to be given were also described to them.

The next book, "Leviticus," is the book of worship. The Hebrew word which is translated "Leviticus" has nothing to do with the word translated "Levi". This little word literally means, "And He Called," which really pertains to the Levites whom God did call to take the place of the firstborn that He saved in Egypt.

In this book we have the instructions for the sacrifices and offerings and the law governing each. The Levites were separated and were consecrated to the Lord in the place of the firstborn. The Levites were set completely apart from the rest of Israel to wait upon the Lord and to do His service. The Lord was their inheritance and they received only the tithe and the sacrifices. Many minor laws and ordinances were given at this time. They were told in what manner they were to punish one who had committed a certain kind of sin, what offerings were to be offered for them, etc. Laws for the tithe and the clean and unclean beasts were also given.

The fourth book of Moses is called "Numbers". The Hebrew name for this book is rendered, "In the wilderness". It is the book of sojournings. God told Moses to first take the sum of all the children of Israel, and then He told him to place each tribe in its camp. There were three on the east, three on the north, three on the south, and three on the west. The Levites were numbered and were placed in the center of the camp around the tabernacle. Each group of Levites was given a definite service to do in the tabernacle. They carried the tabernacle when they marched,

(Continued on page 10)

EXPECTATION, REALIZATION, JOY

By M. A. Woodward

BRETHREN, have we ever had a better paper published than this September twenty-second number was from start to finish? What splendid seed-thoughts, starting with, "Between Death and Resurrection", by Bro. Marsh. We began to wonder just what he would tell us. After reading it I said, "If only every person who has formerly believed in the immortality of the soul and going to heaven at death, would prayerfully read this article, hiding his creed and former theology behind Christ's own words, 'I am the resurrection and the life, he that believeth in me though he were dead, yet shall he live'."

"Though he were dead." Christ was talking to the sisters whose brother was dead. He gave them the hope of seeing him alive at the awakening of the dead, no thought of his being in heaven, but in the grave, and it was from the grave the Savior called him. O, that people would believe the Bible words and not pagan theology!

Following this article was Bro. Austin's editorial, "The kingdom of God". O, how it thrilled every nerve with joy! For forty years my beloved husband and I journeyed together from state to state, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, telling the good news of the kingdom. That was the message Jesus came to deliver, and never did we tire of telling it to eager listeners. And again I stopped to thank God for a son, so willing to sacrifice and give some of the best years of his life to the dear ones who have so splendidly developed into "workers together with God."

Then followed Bro. Marsh, with his splendid thoughts for our Bible Training Class. Turning the leaf we read Bro. Williams' splendid article, "Beauty for Ashes". Brethren, if you have not yet read it, do not wait a minute, but sit down and read it. It will fill your mind full of food for a whole day, and at night you will rest better thinking of the glorious transformation from ashes to beauty, at the resurrection.

And that delightful article from Bro. Judd's niece, Kathryn. How I did thank God for her! And I prayed He would give her strength to carry on and "keep smiling" in that far away field of labor, where it is so necessary that His truths be taught and the Bread of Life given them. For Jesus says, John 6:35, "I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst."

Following her good words was the clipping from dear Sr. Holland, "New Evidences of Scripture Truth." Beautiful, glorious; how glad we are of every evidence that will beat back the awful tide of skepticism that is sweeping the world today. Even the fleeing swine and the evidence of the "steep rock wall" prove Christ's power to banish evil spirits from man and bring him to the light of God's love.

Again we turn the page and find Bro. D. G. Harvey realizing "The Great Lack in Everyday Life." Aunt Mary Renner and I were just talking of this and of our failure to stop our stubborn wills from thinking and acting impatiently, instead of keeping them stayed on the divine will. It is so hard to stay sweet always, when we want to say something cutting and sharp, and we can only stay the angry word by quickly asking for divine help. I began to read Bro. Harvey's article and said, "Aunt Mary, here is just what we need tonight", and I read the article aloud, for our dear Sister Renner is now nearly blind. We could not keep the tears back when we read, "Shall we say we are afraid to trust God?" We have the promise that all things work together for good toward us. (Rom. 8:28.) We thanked God for this article and again asked the dear Father to subdue our wills, make us patient and just toward all. We wiped away our tears as we read, "Be ready for our King when He comes," and thanked God for Bro. Harvey.

As we read Sr. Gesin's, "Faithful Stewards," we said, "O, Sr. Gesin, you surely wrote this under inspiration. You have given so many good thoughts for our dear young people." I laid the paper away, praising God for a son who had helped so many lift and carry the banner of the cross, and I prayed God to give him more years in which to work. I also prayed for our dear Bro. Marsh and family, who now will have a heavy load to carry. But God is ever ready to help and to him we leave the work.

This morning I took up the little Bible Faith Mission Standard, and the first thing I saw was, "One Hundred Years of Adventism", from a sermon by our dear Bro. M. W. Lyon, one of the first boys who went out from the Training Class, now doing such splendid work for the Master at Cleveland, Ohio. His words filled us with joy in the thought of the soon coming Christ to restore all things and to teach men what the gracious Father and His Son will do, when this mortal will have put on immortality, and all the earth is made new. Praise God for His promises!

We cry out with Horatius Bonar:
 "Great Master, touch us with Thy skilful hand;
 Let not the music that is in us die!
 Great Sculptor, hew and polish us, nor let,
 Hidden and lost, Thy form within us lie!
 Spare not the stroke! do with us as Thou wilt!
 Let there be naught unfinished, broken, marred;
 Complete Thy purpose, that we may become Thy perfect image, O our God and Lord!"

One day a harsh word, rashly said,
 Upon an evil journey sped,
 And, like a sharp and cruel dart,
 It pierced a fond and loving heart.
 A kind word followed it one day;
 Flew swiftly on its blessed way.
 It healed the wound, it soothed the pain,
 And friends of old were friends again.
 It made the hate and anger cease,
 And everywhere brought joy and peace.

—Selected.

THE PENTATEUCH

(Continued from page 8)

and set it up when they stopped. Several miscellaneous laws were given and the altar was dedicated.

After the children of Israel were given orders as to how to march and how to follow the cloud over the tabernacle, they journeyed in the wilderness. They became discontented and murmured. They wanted to eat meat as they had done in Egypt, and so God sent quail over the land. While they were eating gluttonously of the meat, God sent a plague upon them and many died.

When they neared the promised land Moses sent twelve spies to search out the land. Ten of them gave an evil report when they returned, and the people, having little faith, were afraid and would not go and possess the land as God commanded. Because of this God told them to turn again into the wilderness. All who were above the age of twenty years except Joshua and Caleb, the two faithful spies, were to die in the wilderness without seeing the promised land. The people mourned and said that they would conquer the land anyway, but God was not with them then, and they lost in battle. Some instructions were then given for the day when they might enter into the land.

A son of the tribe of Levi and a son of the tribe of Reuben gathered some of the people together and rebelled against Moses. The Lord consumed these men with fire and the children of Israel murmured against Moses and gathered against him and against Aaron. God told Moses and Aaron to come out from among the people that He might consume every one of them. But Moses and Aaron immediately burned incense and made atonement for them. Fourteen thousand seven hundred died of the plague before it was withdrawn.

God told Moses to take twelve rods, one for each of the tribes of the children of Israel, and to write their names upon them. He was to write Aaron's name on the rod of the tribe of Levi. The next day Aaron's rod had budded, bloomed, and produced almonds. This was a sign unto them that Aaron and the Levites were still God's priests and to remind them of the rebellion and its results.

Aaron died and Eleazer his son took his place. The people again spoke against God and Moses, and God sent fiery serpents among them and they were bitten and many died. They saw that they had sinned and they came to Moses. He made them a serpent of brass and whosoever looked upon it after being bitten would live. Thus the people were rebuked for idol worshiping.

Israel was numbered for their inheritance. The Levites received no land but the Lord was their inheritance. Laws and instructions for offerings were given. Laws for vows and other laws were also given at this time.

The Midianites were destroyed by Israel as God commanded. Israel destroyed their cities and brought back the spoil. The land on the east side of Jordan was divided and given to two of the tribes by lot. The instructions were given for the cities of refuge so that anyone who committed a great sin by accident might flee to one of these cities to be given a trial.

The Hebrew title for the book of Deuteronomy is "The Words". The book of Deuteronomy is somewhat a "copy of the law," the meaning of the word, Deuteronomy. The people are given instructions and warnings of all kinds that they may live righteously in the land when they came to possess it. Moses used most of this book in exhorting the children of Israel to obey God, to keep wholly from evil of all kind, to place God first and to always keep His commandments. Moses told them of the many blessings that had been given them when they followed God and of the curses that came when they disobeyed. God set before them a blessing and a curse, and they had the privilege of choosing the right or the wrong.

Moses also gave them instructions concerning the year of release. He reviewed the three fasts, the passover, etc., and gave them instructions as to the place and manner of them. In addition he gave them many civil laws.

Moses spoke the words of a song to the people. This song tells them of God's goodness, of their wickedness in forsaking Him, of the judgment He would pass upon them, and of His not forsaking them.

Moses went up into the mountain of Pisgah and the Lord showed him all of the promised land, for his eyes were not dim. Who kept his vision clear? Moses died there without entering into the promised land.

These first five books of the Bible are the basis of all God's written works. God told us of the beginning and gave us His laws upon which all law is based. We are given hints of the redemption of the human race from sin. There are types and signs all through these books pointing to Christ, to the church, and to the kingdom. May we diligently study these words of God, the most wonderful of all written words.

WHO ARE THE HEATHEN?

THE following story tells the truth in plain language:

A Chinaman applied for a position as cook in a western family. The lady of the house and several members of her family were members of a fashionable church, and the Chinaman was questioned closely.

"Do you drink whiskey?"

"No, I Christian man."

"Do you play cards?"

"No, I Christian man."

He was employed and gave great satisfaction. He did his work well, was honest, upright and respectful. After some weeks the lady gave a euchre party and wine was served. John Chinaman was called in to serve refreshments, which he did without much comment. But the next morning he waited on the lady and told her he wanted to quit work.

"Why, what is the matter?" she inquired.

John replied, "I Christian man. I tell you so. I no work for heathen American."—Selected.

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 124 N. Parkside Ave., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois
For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"BEHOLD, THE FEAR OF THE LORD, THAT IS WISDOM; AND TO DEPART FROM EVIL IS UNDERSTANDING."—JOB 28:28.

"'Today' unsullied comes to thee—newborn,
Tomorrow is not thine;
The sun may cease to shine
For thee, ere earth shall greet its morn.

"Be earnest, then, in thought and deed,
Nor fear approaching night;
Calm comes with evening light,
And hope and peace. Thy duty heed today."

KNOWLEDGE

How often we hear the expression, "If I had only known!", or, "Why didn't I find out?" If we would only take the trouble to learn when we have the opportunity, we could save ourselves trouble and sorrow.

Boys and girls go through school doing as little studying as possible. Their object is simply to pass examinations and not to acquire knowledge. If they could only know how often they would look ruefully back in later years upon the opportunities that they passed by so lightly. When these same students realize that they cannot come near to the realization of their ambitions in life, they will spend any amount of time and money to learn the things that they "slid over" in their school days.

Knowledge is not always gained from books. Books contain the results of others' observations and investigations. We are given eyes, ears, and other faculties with an unlimited scope of territory in which to exercise them. We should use every opportunity possible to enlarge our store of knowledge of any subject. Stored away in the recesses of our brains it helps us to make our decisions and fills us with self-confidence.

It is through observation of the work of God's hand that we come to know Him. One may say, "I am not interested in botany or astronomy or anatomy". But there is no true science which will not increase our knowledge of God, if we delve into its intricacies. By knowing the things which He has created we come to know Him and realize His presence in everything about us.

And God's Word—what a treasure house! If only our minds were capable of grasping all the knowledge set forth upon its pages. And we need not question its statements as we often do those of men, for we know that "all scripture is given by inspiration of God and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness."

WISDOM

WHAT is wisdom? It is the application of knowledge. In Job 28:28, we are told, "The fear of the Lord, that is wisdom, and to depart from evil is understanding."

The Lord appeared to Solomon in a dream and asked him what he most desired. Solomon asked that he be given wisdom to discern good and evil. The Lord was pleased by the choice that Solomon made and gave him honor and riches, so that there would be not another like him. He was to be given long life if he walked in the Lord's ways as did his father, David.

In many places the wisdom of Solomon is well proven. In one instance two women came unto him, each saying that the living child was hers, and the dead child was the other one's. Solomon said to bring in a sword and to divide the living child. The woman to whom the child really belonged prayed that the child be given to the other woman, so that it should not be slain. The other woman said that it should be divided. Solomon gave the first woman her child, and all Israel heard of the wisdom of Solomon's choice.

Ecclesiastes 2:13: "Then I saw that wisdom excelleth folly, as far as light excelleth darkness."

Josephine Hammond, Anaheim, Calif.

A BIBLE GAME

The letters of the alphabet may be written on paper cut into squares. These squares are placed with blank side up in a pile before the circle. Some one turns up a square quickly in full view of all. The purpose is to see who can first give the name of a Bible character whose name begins with the letter on the square. The same name cannot be given twice. The same letter can be written on several squares.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

PAUL IN CORINTH

WHEN Paul left Athens, he went to Corinth, the capital of Greece. It was a center for commerce and known as a very wicked city. All strange beliefs and forms of idolatry were to be found there. It required one with much courage to preach to and live among these people. But we have already seen how courageous Paul could be.

All Jews had been ordered by the Roman emperor Claudius to leave Rome. Among others who had fled to Corinth were two tentmakers, Aquila and Priscilla. Now Paul had also learned to make tents, and so he found Aquila and Priscilla, and lived with them and worked with them to earn his living.

However, every sabbath Paul went to the synagogue and reasoned with the Jews and Greeks.

Silas and Timothy finally arrived from Macedonia. Then Paul went to preaching more earnestly, telling the Jews that Jesus was the Christ. But, of course they would not believe him, and so he shook his clothing as if to show he had given them a chance, and if they refused it he was not to blame. He said, "I will go unto the Gentiles."

Accordingly, Paul began preaching next door to the synagogue in the home of Justus, one who really worshiped God. Many came to hear this teaching, and after hearing, believed and were baptized—even Crispus the chief ruler of the synagogue. Paul must have been greatly encouraged. Then one night God spoke to Paul in a dream, and this is what He said, "Be not afraid, but speak, and hold not thy peace: for I am with thee, and no man shall set on thee to hurt thee: for I have much people in this city."

Wasn't that wonderful to Paul to have God again promise to be with him and protect him? How his courage must have been increased!

Just so will God be with us when we are brave enough to speak the truth and tell others what we know about God and Jesus.

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Read Acts 17:22-32.
2. How was Gallio careless? Read Acts 18:12-17.
3. Read 1 Corinthians 13. What words describe Paul's character?

ARE WE as charitable as Paul teaches in 1 Corinthians the thirteenth chapter?

WE BELIEVE the dead are unconscious. "His breath goeth forth, he returneth to his earth, in that very day his thoughts perish."—Psalm 146:4.

NATURE QUESTION

23. The Israelites longed for cucumber, melons, leeks, onions and garlic. Numbers 11:5.

24. Under what tree did Deborah sit while judging Israel?

MY PLACE

Some flowers in the garden
Are beautiful and tall,
And then there are some others
Quite sweet but very small—
Still for a proper garden
The gardener needs them all.

I cannot sing like Susie;
I have no curls like Grace.
I wish I hadn't any
Brown freckles on my face.
Still in God's children-garden
I have my own wee place.
—Alice Crowell Hoffman.

"ENJOY your own life without comparing it with that of another."

THE NEED OF TOLERANCE

There is an old Eastern tale which has been published from time to time through the years, and which is supposed to illustrate the need of tolerance. The story is of four men, strangers, who happened to be making the same journey together and who knew but a little of each other's language. The subject of fruit was mentioned, and each expressed his preference. The Turk said the best of all was azum; the Arab thought nothing was equal to aneb; the Persian contended for the superiority of angar; while the Greek claimed excellency for staphylion.

As they journeyed they disputed the question, and were getting angry, when they met a gardener with a donkey laden with grapes. "Azum!" exclaimed the Turk. "Aneb!" shouted the Arab. "Angar!" cried the Persian. "Staphylion!" said the Greek. For each had found his favorite fruit.

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 3. — October 18, 1931

PAUL IN THESSALONICA AND BEREIA

Acts 17:1-15; 1 Thessalonians 2:1-12

Devotional Reading: Psalm 119:9-16

GOLDEN TEXT

Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law. —
Psalm 119:18.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: Two Kinds of Hearers.

Basic Truth: "The invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse."—Rom. 1:20.

I. All Have Heard. With regard to hearing God, the Scriptures repeat that all have heard Him. God's righteous wrath "against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men", Rom. 1:17, 18, is justified in vv. 19, 20 because "God hath shewed" unto men, "being understood by the things that are made", "his eternal power and Godhead". Even the invisible things of God are manifest by the visible things created. In quoting by inspiration from Psa. 19:4 Paul thus reveals to his Roman brethren the great truth of David's that the words of the heavens of God have "gone out through all the earth, and their words to the end of the world". Therefore, Rom. 1:20, they are without excuse.

II. All Are Responsible. Possibly not unto Christ, but surely unto Himself, God is holding all the world responsible. Of Judas Jesus declared, "It had been good for that man if he had not been born."—Matt. 26:24. He very clearly infers Judas' responsibility for having betrayed his Master. Through all of Pharaoh's hardness of heart and opposition to God, nevertheless God preserved him and used him as an example of God's exceeding great power superior to that of Egypt. See Ex. 9:16. But Pharaoh was held responsible for his choice of rejection.

III. The Difference in Hearing. As in hearing God, so in hearing Christ, some being devoted hear to understand and to obey, others being resistant hear to criticize and oppose. The former advance toward the Father or the Son. Their faith increases; their life grows. The latter become hardened, rebellious, and defiant. Joshua well placed the responsibility upon Israel when he said, 24:15, "Choose you this day whom ye will serve." Elijah placed like responsibility upon his people in 1 Kings 18:21; Ezekiel, in 20:39; Jesus, in John 6:67, when He said, "Will ye also go away?"

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

Worthy of God: Paul and his collaborators in their work at Thessalonica endeavored to get the people to "walk worthy of God". 1 Thess. 2:12. They encountered many hardships in this effort. The opposition soon developed into an organized campaign against them. They accused Paul and his aides of "turning the world upside down" and preaching "another king, one Jesus". Opposition did hinder, but could not stop this God-backed movement. Many did walk worthy of God, which meant, they received the Word of God as of God and not as the word of men, 1 Thess. 2:10-13;

they allowed the Word to effectually mold their lives;

they became ensamples to all that believe, 1 Thess. 1:7;

they embraced the hope of Christ's return to earth, 1 Thess. 1:10; 2:19.

No individual can walk worthy of God that does not walk in accordance with the foregoing. In walking with God we must be in agreement with God. Amos 3:3. When an individual walks with God, he is in agreement with God, and when he is in agreement with God, he pleases God. Enoch walked with God, and he pleased God. Gen. 5:22; Heb. 11:5. —C. E. R.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

"Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law."—Psalm 119:18.

When Paul was in Thessalonica, our lesson text tells us that the Jews caused much trouble. Paul tried to tell them that Jesus was the Christ, and had they been well versed in the law and prophets, they ought to have known that Paul was heralding the gospel message. But they did not believe. Had they been as David and prayed that their eyes might be opened, they no doubt would have recognized the Christ.

The law was given to the Jews, and Paul said it "was our schoolmaster to bring us unto Christ." We are not under the old law, but we are guided by a law given by Christ; and it is just as needful for us to pray that our eyes may be opened that we may see the wonderful things that were given by Christ as it was for the Jews to "behold wondrous things out of thy law."

Let us not be negligent, but let us profit by learning all we can concerning the law of Christ, and then be careful to keep the spirit of that law that we may be accepted of Him when He comes.—L. A. R.

SENIOR AND ADULT CLASSES

The two classes of hearers are those that hear and heed and those that hear and heed not. The former class is subdivided by our Master in his parable of the sower and the seed. (Matt. 13:1-23.) (1) The "shallow soil" group who readily accept but soon fall away because they cannot stand temptation or loss of popularity. (2) The "thorny ground" group of worldly inclined ones who allow the "cares of this world and the deceitfulness of riches" to "choke the word." (3) The "deep soil" class that hear, understand, accept and continue in the word.

The second division, those that heed not, are subdivided into two classes. (1) Those that have no interest in the eternal, (2) those religious ones who follow "theology" instead of the truth.

When the people of this latter class discovered that Jesus was teaching doctrines different from the opinions (commandments) of men handed down in Talmudic writings, they began to plot against His life. One writer has said: "An opinion on any matter is the medium between knowledge and ignorance, and to maintain an opinion because it is yours, and not because it is true, is to prefer yourself above the truth." The scribes and Pharisees did prefer their "opinions" to the truth and tried to vindicate their position by opposition to the followers of truth.

It might be well to ask a few questions: Should the gospel be tested by theology or should theology be tested by the gospel? Is theology the power of God unto salvation, or was Paul correct when he said that the "gospel is the power of God unto salvation" (Romans 1:16)? If Paul was correct, then should we continue to accept theology even if written by doctors of divinity? Should we "teach for doctrine the commandments of men", thereby worshiping God in vain (Matt. 13:8, 9), or should we accept God's revealed Word? Our answers will determine what kind of hearers we are.—H. A. S.

INTERMEDIATE CLASS

Let us follow Paul and Silas on the map from Philippi, where we left them last Sunday, southeast, about thirty-three miles to Amphipolis; then southwest, about thirty miles more to Apollonia; and then west, almost forty miles beyond that to Thessalonica. What place did Paul look for first on his travels? Why? How was he received here? Vv. 4, 5. Always they trumped up some sort of charge.

On they journeyed to Berea, a city about fifty miles west of Thessalonica. History tells us that it was a city of beautiful trees, flowing streams, and charming scenery. The people must have partaken of the beauty of nature about them and it was instilled into their lives. For they heard Paul gladly and "searched the scriptures daily", to see "whether those things were so" that he was telling them. What did the "scriptures" consist of which they searched?

Let us also spread the glad news wherever and whenever we can.—M. G.

DOINGS AMONG THE CHURCHES

FAREWELL TO BRO. AUSTIN

On Friday evening, October 2, the members and friends of the church gathered in the church basement and tendered a farewell banquet to our beloved pastor. At the conclusion of the supper, toasts were given by the following:

Bro. Fred Knodle, "To our departing pastor"; Sr. Rogers, "On behalf of the choir"; Sr. Ruth Gesin, "The love of the young people for their pastor"; Sr. Mary Gesin, "How our pastor has aided our Sunday School"; Bro. Andrew, "Our beautiful new church"; Bro. Conner, "To my fellow minister"; Bro. Marsh, "To my predecessor"; and Bro. Austin, "To my successor". Toasts were also interspersed, "To Bro. Austin's smile" and "To our pastor's mother and his wife." Our laughter and tears intermingled as events of the past nine years were reviewed.

At the conclusion of the supper we assembled upstairs to the strains of the organ, where we enjoyed a beautiful musical program given by Sr. Leila Mae Doeden, soloist, and Mr. Franklin Lundstrom, violinist, under the direction of Sr. Rogers. A purse was presented by Bro. Carpenter to our departing pastor on behalf of members and friends of the church.

At the close, the audience united in singing, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again", and a fervent silent prayer arose from our hearts that God would be with our pastor wherever his labors may lead him.

BIBLE TRAINING CLASS

The following students were on hand for the opening of the N. B. I. Training Class at its opening session on October 5: Lucille and Richard LeCrone, Harvey and Dorothy Krogh, Ida Lapp and Gerald Cooper. Clarence Lapp and Cecil Smead were expected to arrive during the day from South Bend and Burr Oak, Indiana, where they were holding services on October 4.

Sr. Lucy Lapp, daughter, Ida, and son, Paul, a high school student, formerly of Sunnyside, Washington, are now located at Oregon, Illinois. The church gladly welcomes these new members into its midst, and trusts they will enjoy and profit by their stay here.

Brothers Vernon and Lawrence Robins and Sisters Ednah and Margaret Cooper accompanied Bro. Gerald Cooper to Oregon and attended Rally Day, October 4.

DIXON'S RALLY

Rally Day at Dixon brought out 60 to Sunday School and about 80 at church services in the morning. The program consisted of special music by the choir, a solo by Mr. Curtis Rice and a cello solo by Mr. Samuelson. We listened to a wonderful sermon by Bro. Conner on "The Coming of Christ, and What It Means to the World".

Basket dinner in the basement was enjoyed by about 60 members of the Dixon church and surrounding towns. The program given in the afternoon by the Sunday School was well attended, the church being full. The young folks, as usual, did their best and the program was most enjoyable. The Dixon folks are very happy over their Rally Day.

Grace Drew.

Our Prayer Column

"Be careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God."—Phil. 4:6. "Pray without ceasing."—1 Thess. 5:16.

REQUESTS FOR PRAYER

In the closet of daily prayer, in the family circle of prayer, at the "Prayer Meeting" of the church, "always in every prayer of mine for you all", Phil. 1:4, may God-fearing believers in prayer make "request" of God "with joy" for these our brethren, who are in special need of God's blessings.

The prayers of all those who believe in specific and persevering prayer have been asked for those whose names follow. And we ask that they will respond with faithful testimony. Other will be gladly added upon request.

Sr. C. E. Randall, Fonthill, Ont.
Sr. H. L. Luper, Arkansas City, Kansas
Sr. J. S. Hindman, Winfield, Kansas
Sr. Harriet Reed, Arkansas City, Kan.
Sr. Franklin Moore, Niagara Falls, N. Y.
Sr. Riley Hoskins, St. Cloud, Minn.
Wilbur Hagenbush, Argos, Ind.
Mrs. Alice V. Blakesley, Rt. 1, Bx. 25
Sumas, Washington

Bro. and Sr. Chas. Stedman, Miami, N. M.
Sr. C. Seely, 710 Brown St. Healdsburg, Calif.
Mrs. Daisy Pietenen, daughter of Sr. Seely.
Sr. Angeline Harrington, Tring, Alta., Canada
Bro. Stephen Cronkrite, Brantford, Ont.
Sr. Melvin J. Osborn, Culver, Ind.
Bro. C. H. Nye, North Anson, Maine
Sr. Agnes Murray, Pasadena, Calif.
Sr. Sarah Dashwood, Dunville, Ont.
Mrs. Florence Hanson, Knappton, Wn.
Sr. Ada Daniels, Alma, Mich., Rt. 3, Bx. 46

INCREASED POSTAGE TO CANADA

Your attention is called to the fact that it now requires three cents postage to send a letter to Canada. Where insufficient postage is put on the letter it is often held at point of mailing and a post card sent me announcing that a letter is being held there because of insufficient postage. It takes three cents postage to send a letter after the first one, besides it causes at least a week's delay.

C. E. Randall.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICHIGAN

While the pastor was at Blanchard for Conference Sunday, September 27, Bro. Coursan, of Grandville, filled the local pulpit.

Several carloads of our local church motored to Blanchard for the fall conference, leaving the adult attendance at home quite reduced.

Sr. Craig continues to be confined to her bed, but we feel she is improving.

Sr. McCroden of Dutton, well known for many years in Michigan church circles, recently had a slight stroke. Her friends are thankful for the prospects that she will come out of it all right.

The Dorcas society held its first meeting of the season on October 1.

We hope next week to be able to report a successful Rally Day.

F. E. Siple, Pastor.

AT RIPLEY, ILLINOIS

Next Saturday evening and Sunday, October 10 and 11, Bro. C. E. Lapp will hold services at Ripley. We are trusting that a full attendance will be present at these services.

FALL CONFERENCE AT MORA

The Minnesota Fall Conference will be held at Mora, commencing October 23 and holding over Sunday, the 25th. We will be glad to have anybody come that would like to come. We trust God will bless us at these meetings.

Mrs. Thos. M. Savage, Sec.

ACTIVITIES IN IOWA

The Hickory Grove church near Maxwell, Iowa, held an all-day meeting on September 20, with Bro. G. Eldred Marsh in charge, assisted by Bro. Arlen Marsh. Several from Ames, Nevada, Colo and Stanhope attended.

The Quarterly Conference of the Churches of God in Iowa, will convene, the Lord willing, at Eagle Grove, on October 10 and 11.

Bro. Williams will also give a sermon at Stanhope on Monday evening, October 12, on "The Coming Earthquake." All who can please attend.

Esther Sealine.

ELDORADO, ILLINOIS

Our series of meetings began on September 20, and came to a close on September 27. The sermons by Bro. C. E. Lapp were not only interesting but were filled with exhortation and instruction. Each service was well attended. We enjoyed good attention and special music. To make it more interesting a carload from Herrin drove over on Sunday evening, September 20—Bro. and Sr. Margrave, Sr. Donleson, and Bro. and Sr. Jeffrey. We were very glad indeed to have all with us again.

Our Sunday School is progressing nicely, with an attendance of 44 last Sunday. The beginners class, has Juanita Loyd as teacher; intermediates, Ethel Davenport. We had a social on September 26. There were 28 present and it was a very enjoyable time for the children. On September 25, after preaching service, the young people all gathered at Sr. Davenport's and had an enjoyable evening.

It is plain that Bro. Lapp's efforts are appreciated and enjoyed by this little congregation. The seed he has sown will assuredly come up in due time.

Fred Shain.

BRUSH CREEK, OHIO

We are glad to report a good interest in the church work here at Brush Creek. On Tuesday evening, September 22, just before our Berean meeting, three were baptized. These are Bro. and Sr. Harry Kipp, and Bro. Ralph Klepinger. The first two are husband and wife of middle age, and the latter is a young married man. Both men are members of our male quartette, and the church should be benefited much by their talent of song.

Arrangements have been made for our meeting with the Lawrenceville church the fourth Sunday of each month for services. We trust to be able to help them and are indeed glad to be given opportunity.

Sunday, October 4, is set as Rally Day for our Church. A report of the attendance will be given next week.

Sydney E. Magaw, Pastor.

CLEVELAND, OHIO

Rally Day

We are planning for October 11 to be a red letter day for our Sunday School and church rally, and hope not only to have one hundred percent attendance but to see new faces with each of our members. Let us make this not only a Rally Day, but a Rally Week in all departments of our church work.

At our Sunday School teachers' meeting last Monday evening, plans were made to raise funds for Sunday School expansion and equipment purposes. We are outgrowing our present quarters and need better facilities for the beginner and primary departments.

Ladies Aid

The ladies are giving a "Chili" supper on Thursday, October 8, to start their fall activities. None will want to miss this or any future suppers, for the writer knows how good they are from experience.

On Thursday, November 5, the Ladies Aid will hold a Bazaar and are asking all who can to contribute to its success.

So please mark the above dates in your little red book and let us start our winter activities in real earnest.

Beauty and Convenience

At one of our church official meetings last August, someone suggested we have cluster lights installed on the walls of our church auditorium, not only to beautify but for convenience in class work.

Last Sunday the lights were in operation; thanks to Brothers H. Stadden, Sr.; Herbert Stadden, Jr.; and Richard Lindstrom for their electrical ability and desire to beautify God's house. This proves how a worthy idea can soon become a reality if we all do our part in the great cause of the Master.

W. J. Halls, S. S. Supt.

ORGANIZATION AT KOKOMO, INDIANA

The brethren at Kokomo, having decided that much greater work could be accomplished in our locality by organized effort, held a business meeting on September 13, after Sunday School services. Twenty members attended and the following officers were elected: Elders, Omer Parker, Deo Harvey; Deacons, Harold Bengel, Bert Maroney; Deaconesses, Mrs. Martha Parker, Mrs. Margaret Bengel; Secretary, Edgar Harvey; Treasurer, Mrs. Martha Parker; Trustees, Jesse Dowden, Elzie Pritchard, Otis Dowden.

After the election a communion service was held.

The work at Kokomo started with a small Sunday School class at the home of Bro. and Sr. Parker four years ago. At that time there were six members of the church in Kokomo. At present there are thirty-one members enrolled.

We are greatly indebted to our state evangelist, Bro. J. H. Anderson, for the success of the work here. We are also grateful to Bro. V. Long and C. Drabenstott for their kindly assistance during our first two years.

With all due respect for our brethren at Hillisburg, we feel that a united effort cannot be put forth without a local organization, and we have therefore requested that our names be withdrawn from the list of Hillisburg membership.

Services will be held each Sunday as follows: Sunday School, 9:30, a. m.; Adult Bible Study, 6:45 p. m.; Scriptural Talk by the Elders, 7:30 p. m. The Senior Berean Society meets each Monday at the church at 7:30 p. m.

When passing through Kokomo, please accept our cordial invitation to attend these meetings.

In the Master's service,
Edgar Harvey, Sec.

RALLY DAY AT OREGON

From 9:45 in the morning until 8:45 in the evening the services on Rally Day were a continual inspiration to all. Attendance at Sunday School numbered 158, Golden Rule Class having the largest number of visitors. Our new Cradle Roll numbered eight, and the Home Department, which is also a new feature, numbered nineteen. At the morning and evening services the church was filled, being Bro. Austin's final services as pastor. After the morning sermon we rejoiced to witness the baptism of Bro. Hugh Welch of Chana, Illinois. Several others will be received into the church by letter next Sunday morning, at which time Bro. Austin will conduct the installation services for our new pastor, Bro. Marsh.

Basket dinner at noon was enjoyed by a large company, all enjoying the fellowship with Bro. and Sr. Austin and Bro. and Sr. Marsh and Arlen.

The day from beginning to end was filled with joy and yet with sadness; joy because of the evidences resulting from the rally efforts put forth by our pastor and his committees during September, and sadness because we realized that this day terminated Bro. Austin's pastorate with us.

The choir, under the direction of Sr. Rogers, added very much to the services by beautiful music. One number, the chorus of women's voices, was a new departure and was greatly enjoyed by all.

We trust that the growth of Rally Day will be a permanent one and that we will be able to maintain the goals we have reached and even surpass them, to the honor of God and His Son, our Savior.

PARK HILL (IOWA) CHURCH ACTIVITIES

Quite a number of our people attended the Iowa State Conference at Waterloo, and greatly enjoyed the meetings and congenial fellowship of other members of the fraternity, as well as the outing, sleeping in tents, etc. There will be an increased interest and better service during the coming year on account of the annual gathering. We are glad to note that Bro. J. W. Williams was returned to his former circuit.

Thursday, September 17, 1931, was a notable day in this vicinity. The people from Koszta, Waterloo, and Cedar Falls, as well as this place, gave a surprise picnic dinner and entertainment to Bro. and Sr. Williams, the occasion being the twenty-first anniversary of their wedding day. No bells were rung, but music and other festivities took the place of the aforesaid ceremony. About thirty-five partook of the refreshments, and no one went away hungry. The bride and groom were permitted to take the bouquet of lovely flowers (given by Mrs. Lily Starbuck of Cedar Falls) and the pink and white frosted wedding cake, intact, home with them, with congratulations and wishes for many happy returns of the day.

We are contemplating the organization of a senior Berean class soon. It is as much needed as the junior class, and we look forward to a good attendance and well learned lessons. The juniors have been somewhat remiss in meeting of late, but we believe they will soon renew their meetings with new vigor and interest. We still continue our weekly Bible lessons, and interest and enthusiasm increase with knowledge.

Publicity Committee.

OUR BLANCHARD TRIP

It had been ten years since we were at Blanchard. So many changes had taken place, but it was a real privilege to meet with the brethren there again for a week of meetings. We made our home with Bro. and Sr. Decker, who in the meantime have passed their golden wedding anniversary, and are still faithful defenders of the cause.

Blanchard has a good church building, and possibilities for a very active work if things can be started in the proper way. We trust that the prayers and desires of some may be realized and that some regular work can be undertaken this fall.

F. E. Siple.

REPORT OF IOWA CONFERENCE

The Forty-fourth Annual Conference of the Churches of God in Iowa is now history. The attendance was not great but was an interested one. It was encouraging to note the large number of young folks, and many who were there had not attended for several years.

Brothers Paul Hatch, Melville Lyon, and F. L. Austin, out of the state speakers, were much enjoyed, as well as those in the state, Brothers J. W. Williams, O. J. Allard, and C. W. Howe.

New and interesting thoughts were brought out in the Bible sessions lead by: adult class, Brothers Paul Hatch and O. J. Allard; young people's class, Bro. M. W. Lyon; junior class, Bro. J. W. Williams; primary class, Sr. Virginia Phillips.

Mrs. Harry Fisher of Waterloo held the audience spellbound with her lecture on her trip to Palestine.

The election of officers resulted as follows: H. S. Hunt, president; C. W. Howe, vice president; Florence Allard, treasurer; Mayme Jones, recording secretary; Esther Sealine, corresponding secretary.

Esther Sealine, Sec.

REPORT FOR SEPTEMBER

Sermons: Pleasant View, 2; Rensselaer, 2; Plymouth, 1; North Salem, 1; Burr Oak, 1; Hillisburg, 3; Brumfield, Ky., 5.

Money received in Indiana: Pleasant View, $26.00; Rensselaer, $30.00; Plymouth, $15.00; North Salem, $6.00; Burr Oak, $10.00; Hillisburg, $34.00. Expense, $15.00. Paid to Conference Board, $36.00.

Note: We still have a few tracts, "Rich Man and Lazarus," 10 pages, 5 cents; "Present Conditions in the Light of Prophecy—the Cause and the Remedy," 24 pages, 10 cents.

J. H. Anderson,

Michigantown, Indiana.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

Published by
National Bible Institution
Oregon, Illinois

Subscription Rates.—51 issues per annum, $2.00; 6 months, $1.00; 3 months, 50 cents. Sample copy, Free.

Receipts.—The change of date on your address label is your receipt. If date is not changed in two weeks after payment of subscription, please notify this office.

Change of Address.—When ordering change of address be sure to send us both old and new addresses.

The RESTITUTION HERALD advocates: the soon coming of Christ, Acts 1:11, and life only through Him, Col. 3:3; the literal resurrection of the dead, John 5:28; the immortalization of those in Christ, 1 Cor. 15:53, 54; the final restoration of Israel as the kingdom of God under the kingship of Christ, Luke 1:32, the church being joint heirs with Him, Rom. 8:17, and Israel to be made head over Gentile nations, Isa. 60:13; the "restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began", Acts 3:21. It also firmly advocates repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, Acts 2:38, and a consecrated life as essential to salvation.

Doubling the Security of Your Investment

IN THESE days of depression and financial uncertainty many conservative men and women are withdrawing their funds as rapidly as possible from banks and corresponding institutions and suffering the consequent loss of interest in order that they may at least preserve their capital. Others whose investments consist of bank stock are endeavoring to dispose of such securities because they have reason to fear the possibility not only of sustaining the loss of the total amount so invested, but also a double loss in the event of a bank failure, as in such an event they would be required to furnish an additional sum equal to the face value of the stock held. Still others who have invested in bonds and other securities, the value of which is rapidly diminishing, believe it is better to dispose at once of such securities even at a considerable loss in order that they may be able to salvage something out of the financial wreck.

Under these depressing conditions it is time for the Christian investor to consider the assurance he may enjoy by investing in the business of Almighty God! There is no form of investment equal in its certainty and in the largeness of its return as is assured to the one who places his money at the disposal of the Father to be used in the carrying on of His work. For God has promised a hundred-fold return on all that we may invest with Him in the present time and in the world to come life everlasting.

You believe the Lord is coming soon, and that when He comes all present business institutions will be swept into oblivion. What better investment, then, could you make, and what investment more in harmony with your faith, than to place a few hundred or a few thousand dollars in the active service of the Lord before He comes?

The Church of God, YOUR CHURCH, as represented by the National Bible Institution, is very much in need of funds to meet immediate demands. The Institution is willing to pay six percent interest for the use of such funds and pledges itself to use them only in the Lord's work, and in harmony with the desires of the brotherhood as expressed at the last General Conference. To secure these funds in a practical, business way are the entire properties of the National Bible Institution, consisting of the Golden Rule Home and Greenhouse, the two-story brick building occupied by our offices and printing plant, together with our entire equipment. Six percent from the National Bible Institution today, with your investment fully secured, and one hundred percent from the Heavenly Father "in this present time" in satisfaction and assurance!

The time to invest in the business of God is limited. The Lord is coming! So send in your available funds and such other funds as you may be able to secure through the disposal of unprofitable and uncertain securities which you may now hold. Place them at the disposal of your own National Bible Institution, your own Church, and in the immediate service of Him who guarantees both temporal and eternal interest on your investment!

G. Eldred Marsh, Secretary.

---

REASONS FOR NOT TITHING

1. THE first objection to tithing is that it is so difficult to find out with accuracy what one's income is. I reply that, if there were no other advantage in the practice of tithing than the fact that it compels a man to find out what his income is, that of itself would commend it as a good practice. As stewards of God, have we a right not to know what our income is? We are beginning to recognize very generally that we are stewards of God in all that we possess. We own nothing in our own right as toward God. As toward our fellow men, we have our property rights, but not toward God. The Bible tells us that "it is required in stewards that a man be found faithful." Have we any right as stewards of God to pass on from year to year without knowing how much of God's substance has been committed to our trust? What would you think, if you had a business and employed a man to conduct the business for you and, on the day of settlement, he had said, "I have no idea how much this business has made this year?" It is our duty to keep accounts, not only because we are stewards, but also for many other reasons, and if there were no other advantage in tithing, it would have the advantage of compelling us to keep accounts.

But is it impossible for us to ascertain what our income is? I have known people of a great variety of occupations to practice tithing; lawyers, physicians, ministers, public officials, merchants, bankers, farmers, teachers, clerks in stores, seamstresses, almost every sort of calling in life. The occupation of farming presents the greatest difficulties in reckoning one's income with accuracy. But successful farmers have told me that the questionnaires sent out by the Government for reckoning the income tax will enable even the farmer to arrive at a correct estimate of his income. It is, at least sufficiently accurate to satisfy an exacting Government, and, no doubt, sufficiently accurate for tithing for religious uses.

If the case were reversed and God were to tell you that, if you would give a reasonably accurate statement of your income, He would add one-tenth to it, instead of taking one-tenth from it, you would have little difficulty in forming a satisfactory estimate of your income.

—From a tract.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, OCTOBER 13, 1931

NUMBER 2

The Heaven of Human Desire

By G. Eldred Marsh

"Now they desire a better country, that is, an heavenly."—Hebrews 11:16.

MEN of all time and of all races have dreamed of a "home at the end of the road," a time and a place where the frustrated hopes of a lifetime will be realized, where the severed cords will be rebound, where the cause of sorrow will be vanquished, where the "creeping palsy" of old age will be stayed, where "the inhabitant shall not say, I am sick"—Isa. 33:24—where "there shall be no more thence an infant of days, nor an old man that hath not filled his days," where "youth is renewed like the eagle's"—Psa. 103:5—where sorrow and pain and death shall be no more.

Such, I say, has been the dream of the ages; such has been the desire of every human heart. And hence, men have painted their pictures of "Heaven" in the blended colors of their dreams! Vain are the dreams and vain are the hopes of men unless their expectations rest upon a sure foundation of truth.

When we turn to the Bible, to the amazement of the many we find revealed in the promises of God a vision of "The Heaven of Human Desire" that broadens out wide enough to satisfy the richest and deepest longings of the human heart!

"Lo the poor Indian, whose untutored mind

Sees God in the cloud, and hears Him in the wind—" looks forward to a "Happy Hunting-Ground" at the end of his journey that is filled with the abundance of forest and field, the rivers of which teem with fish, while birds and beasts await the hunter's flying arrow on every side.

So the Indian draws his picture of the "home at the end of the road" according to the visioning of his own mind, according to the desires of his own heart. Yet, behind those "longings, yearnings, strivings" that animate the savage bosom, there lies a great truth, and a hope that is justified by the promises of the eternal Father of us all. Resolved into its simplest terms, the hope of the Red Man is the hope of a fruitful land, a land of sunshine and plenty, a land where the eye of the Great Spirit rests kindly upon His children of the earth.

And that is the promise God has made; that is the assurance He has given! The time is coming when the earth shall be filled with fruitage and the forest teem with life. But the conditions prevailing then will be quite different from those pictured in the Indian's dream of a "Happy Hunting-Ground". When that day shall dawn, neither man nor beast shall "be afraid for the terror by night; nor for the arrow that flieth by day; nor for the pestilence that walketh in darkness; nor for the destruction that wasteth at noonday."—Psalm 91:5-6. For "the wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them."—Isaiah 11:6.

Here, surely, is a "Heaven of Human Desire" that all men can understand. It is not located upon some distant sphere, but upon this earth. It is not peopled by invisible and mystical spirits of the dead, but by living men and women and children like unto those whom we know and love today. The soft hand of childhood twines itself into the tawny mane of the lordly lion without fear and without danger; the feathered songsters flit from bough to bough unharried by the fowler's shaft. The peace, the quietude, and the safety of forgotten Eden prevails throughout the earth! The reason for this wondrous condition is clearly stated: "They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain: for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the LORD, as the waters cover the sea."—Isaiah 11:9.

"The Heaven of Human Desire" differs in its attractions and in its allurements according as one man's desires differ from another's. Yet there is something there for all!

(Continued on page 26)

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

“Teach me, O Lord, the way of thy statutes. Give me understanding. Make me to go in the path of thy commandments. Incline my heart unto thy testimonies. Turn away mine eyes from beholding vanity. Stablish thy word unto thy servant.”

THE EDITOR'S PRAYER

MOST GRACIOUS FATHER: Into the feeble and inexperienced hand of Thy servant has been consigned the editorial supervision of THE RESTITUTION HERALD, a journal dedicated solely to the promulgation of the Gospel of the Kingdom of God and to the upbuilding of Thy people. The responsibility is heavy and the task beyond human strength to bear alone. “Give, therefore, thy servant an understanding heart . . . that he may discern between good and bad:” give unto him wisdom and ability; give unto him devotion and sympathy and love that he may be able to carry forward the great work of religious education and evangelization through the columns of this Thy paper in harmony with Thine own eternal purposes in Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

OUR EDITORIAL POLICY

UNDER the able supervision of Brother F. L. Austin, THE RESTITUTION HERALD has maintained an editorial policy consistent with the lofty ideals and purposes of the Church of God. A constant effort has been made to emphasize the spiritual phase of Christianity without neglecting the practical and the dogmatic. It will be the aim of the present editor to continue the same general policy. No sudden or radical changes are contemplated. Committing our way unto the Lord, we purpose to do all we can to increase the influence of THE RESTITUTION HERALD for good, and to broaden its field of activity as far as possible.

Beyond this plainly stated purpose we make no promises.

OUR ASSOCIATE EDITOR

THE service rendered so efficiently in the past by Sister Mary A. Gesin as Assistant Editor of THE RESTITUTION HERALD will be continued and extended in the future, as Sister Gesin has been appointed Associate Editor by the incoming management. Among the diversified duties that will devolve upon her will be the supervision of the department headed, “Doings Among the Churches.” It is the desire of the editor to make this department even more interesting and beneficial than it has been in the past. If local work can be planned sufficiently in advance, information concerning forthcoming services and other activities of the churches may be given to the public through these columns to the great advantage of all concerned.

FULNESS OF JOY

“Thou wilt shew me the path of life: in thy presence is fulness of joy; at thy right hand are pleasures for evermore.”—Psalm 16:11.

THESE words of the Psalmist suggest a walk with God more beautiful and rich than is generally experienced by His children. It brings before us the possibility of communion and association with the Father that is both intimate and sympathetic. It recognizes and confesses to the leadership of Jehovah and expresses an abiding confidence in Him. It looks forward into the unseen future and finds “fulness of joy” in such contemplation.

Too many of us live by anticipation alone. We stretch forth our hands into the future; we long and pray for the life that is to be when Jesus comes. We concern ourselves more with questions pertaining to the future than with those that have to do with the present.

Not that a looking forward to better things is wrong. Far from it, indeed! It was for the joy that was set before Him that Jesus endured the cross and bore up under the shame of His crucifixion. The hope and the expectation of future reward is a constant incentive to service and to sacrifice. Moses chose “to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season; . . . for he had respect unto the recompence of the reward.”—Heb. 11:25, 26.

But the blessedness of Christian experience is not reserved altogether for future enjoyment. There are blessings to be obtained at the present time—blessings which God takes pleasure in pouring out upon His people now, and one of the greatest of those blessings is that suggested in this text: "In thy presence is fulness of joy!"

"Just to trust in the Lord, just to lean on His Word,
Just to know I am His ev'ry day;
Just to walk by His side, with His Spirit to guide,
Just to follow where He leads the way!"

THE BLESSED LIFE

CHRISTIANITY is more than a religious theory, more than a moral philosophy, more than an organized system of theology. Christianity is a walk, a life, an actual present experience. Those of us who have not as yet met with this experimental stage of our religion have missed much of comfort and much of assurance.

We have believed the truth about the gospel of the kingdom of God. We are looking forward joyfully to the Lord's coming. We are fully persuaded that when He does come all will be well with us and with the world. But the realization of our faith all lies out in the future. It all rests beyond the advent of our Lord. We have little or nothing to clasp to our hearts now. And, after all, that present joy and that present comfort and that present assurance are what we need the most.

As Dr. F. B. Meyer declared so truly, "There is a Christian life, which, in comparison with that experienced by the majority of Christians, is as summer to winter, or, as the mature fruitfulness of a golden autumn to the struggling promise of a late and cold spring. . . It may be termed the Blessed Life."

GODLINESS

WE HAVE said that Christianity—Godliness were the better term—is more than a religious theory. It is more than a doctrine. It is much more than a mere statement of faith. "The beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God; as it is written in the prophets," (Mark 1:1-2) is contained in the "glad tidings of the kingdom of God," that glorious and world-wide Empire of Righteousness over which Jesus is to reign as King of kings and Lord of lords. That Kingdom is still in the future.

Wondrous pictures of it are painted by inspired artists in the Word of God. Wonderful promises are to be fulfilled to the church, to Israel, and to the nations when the Kingdom comes. It is the culmination of the divine purpose. It is the summing up and the completion of salvation.

There is, however, a Christianity for today. There are hopes that may be realized now. There are blessed experiences to be known by the faithful follower of Jesus Christ before He comes again, in this present life.

Remember the Master's words when Peter said, "Lo, we have left all, and followed thee. And he said unto them, Verily I say unto thee, There is no man that hath left house, or parents, or brethren, or wife, or children, for the kingdom of God's sake, who shall not receive manifold more in this present time, and in the world to come life everlasting."—Luke 18:28-30.

No, it is not necessary for the Christian to wait for all of his hopes to be realized until the Lord comes! Some of the blessings will be bestowed upon him now.

THE CONDITION OF THE DEAD

By John Denchfield

ALWAYS, at any time or place, truth is better than error. We read the words of Paul which are found in 2 Timothy 2:15, "Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." Just as men always strive for health rather than endure disease, so may we always attain unto truth rather than abide in error. May we consider the subject, "hell," with an earnest endeavor to find the truth concerning it.

The word "hell" is a translation of the Hebrew word, sheol, and the Greek words, hades and gehenna. At the time our King James version of the Bible was translated (1611) the word "hell" did not carry the same meaning as that which we generally derive from it today. At that time it merely meant to cover or in some way to render unseen. Such phrases as "helling the potatoes" or "helling the house" were of common usage. For instance, "helling the house" meant covering the house as with shingles or other roofing material.

The Hebrew word, sheol, from which "hell" is translated is found sixty-five times in the Old Testament. Three times it is translated "pit"; thirty-one times, "the grave"; and thirty-one times, "hell". It signifies oblivion, the state or condition of the dead.

May we give the rendering of sheol in a few scriptures? Gen. 37:35: "For I will go down into the grave (sheol) mourning." Jacob is very sad when informed that his son Joseph has been killed and says that he will go down into the grave, into sheol, which is also translated "hell", mourning. Psa. 16:10: "For thou wilt not leave my soul in hell (sheol), neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see corruption." Here we have one example of the word, sheol, translated "hell".

The one word sheol in the first case is translated "the grave" and in the last, "hell". There is no difference in the meaning of the word sheol. The only difference was in the minds of the translators, and we must also remember that at the time this was translated the meaning of "hell" was not the same as it is now. We find this same contrast of translation throughout the entire Old Testament. Always sheol signifies the state or condition of the dead.

(Continued on page 22)

GOD'S PLANTING

No wind that blows can ever kill
 The tree God plants.
 It bloweth east; it bloweth west;
 The tender leaves have little rest;
 But any wind that blows is best.
 The tree God plants
 Strikes deeper roots, grows higher still,
 Spreads higher boughs, for God's good-will
 Meets all its wants.

There is no frost hath power to blight
 The tree God shields.
 Its roots are warm beneath soft snows;
 And when spring comes it surely knows,
 And every bud to blossom grows.
 The tree God shields
 Grows on apace by day and night,
 Till, sweet to taste and fair to sight,
 Its fruit it yields.

There is no storm hath power to blast
 The tree God knows,
 No thunderbolt, nor beating rain,
 Nor lightning flash, nor hurricane.
 When they are spent, it doth remain.
 The tree God knows
 Through every tempest standeth fast,
 And from its first day to its last
 Still fairer grows.—Selected.

WHERE DO YOU BELONG?

By Samuel E. Haney

"Men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth: for the powers of the heaven shall be shaken." Luke 21:26.

FEAR, worry, and trouble are interchangeable terms, one the begetter of the other; fear usually being the initiative. Man becomes frightened over something imaginary or real—usually the former—which puts into action a train of somber thoughts impelled by worry. *Fortunate is the one who can head off fear, thereby avoiding the chronic (habitual) stage called trouble. Often the whole affair is engendered by a decoy of the enemy.

This analysis applies to fallen nature. The Christian is exempt only to the degree of sincerity of his consecration and his fidelity to God's commandments.

There are different degrees of faith which develop different resultant effects. But no fear is more vital to man's whole being—body, soul, and spirit—than is the effect of the fear of our text.

To this end let us note a few Greek scholars' versions of it: "Men fainting, or expiring," R. V. "Men fainting, or dying," Roth. "Men swooning with panic and foreboding," Moffatt. This fear being in evidence by the facial appearance, words, and acts of sane adults in all walks and phases of life has ceased to be conjectural. It has become a mental infectious dis-ease-ment, as obnoxious and deteriorating to the whole organic system as was the world's flu plague. It accounts for the increase of insanity, death by "heart disease" and suicides. The causes of this fear are rapidly on the increase; the maximum—Daniel's time of trouble—is just around the corner where a spark, some day ere long, will ignite it.

The worldly wise influential men of affairs—national, financial, political, and nominal religion are straining every nerve to quench the rapid advancement of God's wrathful indignation.

Many theoretical panaceas are proffered, but nobody seems to have a practicable idea; all are quicksand foundations which intensify fear, worry, and trouble.

The latter clause of verse twenty-five is concurrent with our text and with current events, namely, "Upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity; the sea and the waves roaring." Again we refer to R. V., Roth., and Moffatt, respectively, "Roaring of the sea and the billows." "And on the earth anguish of nations in embarrassment—sea and surge resounding." "While on earth the nations will be in dismay with bewilderment at the roar of sea and waves."

Jesus is here referring to prophecy, Psa. 65:7, "Which stilleth the noise of the sea, the noise of their waves, and the tumult of the people." Recent current events prove that these words have a literal precursory application relative to our Lord's return and to our release from this wilderness of sin and misery. Read again Matthew 8:26.

The reading public has been almost daily reminded during the past decade of the literalness of the words of Jesus in our lesson: tidal waves caused by hurricanes and submarine earthquakes at sea and devastations inland caused by extraordinary protracted rains of such destructive magnitude as hitherto unheard of. Fifty-millions, one-eighth of China's population, have been suffering beyond description during the past few weeks by deluge of water from sea and clouds. Myriads have drowned and millions made homeless and suffering with starvation.

"For the power (the devil's authority) of the heaven (other versions are plural, 'heavens') shall be shaken". Earth's orb or spherical atmosphere seems to be the original thought. Paul clarifies the point in Ephesians 2:2, "In which at one time ye walked, according to the age of the world, according to the prince of the authority of the air of the spirit that now energizeth in the sons of disobedience." Roth.

"And then shall they see the Son of man coming in a cloud with power and great glory." V. 27. The "they" refers to the present "blind" world. But verse 28 is addressed to the "watching" ones with their oil-filled lamps, trimmed and burning.

Jesus' final admonition to the church is recorded in Mark 13:32-37, "But of that day and that hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels which are in heaven, neither the Son, but the Father. Take heed, watch and pray: for ye know not when the time is . . . lest coming suddenly he find you sleeping. And what I say unto you I say unto all, Watch."

These words are often quoted as proof that no one shall know the time of the Lord's return. But for three reasons such a position is absurd and untenable. First, the warning is given in the present tense. Second, the object of watching is not to be caught "sleeping", unaware—as the world will be—when the "master of the house suddenly cometh." Third, any other conclusion would be irreconcilable with verse 28 of our lesson, namely, "And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption ('deliverance,' Diag.) draweth nigh."

Dear reader, which of these two classes are you in league with—the ones in fearful anticipation of imminent trouble, such as never was, or the ones who are "looking up" with joyful expectancy of their future everlasting joy? There are many these days of the former class who are "taking a gambler's chance" of getting into God's kingdom some time, and in some way other than the Way prescribed by the Lord. But, while there are "tricks in all trades," many are likely to discover, when too late, that there are no tricks (John 10:1) in God's plan of man's redemption. Read again John 3:1-9; Romans 6.

On the other hand, if you are of the "looking up" class our text, to you, is joyful news, because you can see "these things have begun to come to pass", and can understand their glorious significance, causing cheerfulness instead of fearfulness, and placing you in a position where you can hear God and His Son speaking to you: "Fear thou not; for I am with thee: be not dismayed; for I am thy God: I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness. For I the Lord thy God will hold thy right hand, saying unto thee, Fear not; I will help thee."—Isa. 41:10, 13.

And the Psalmist extols, "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea."—Psalm 46:1, 2.

And why should not Christians sing as they see their deliverance drawing nigh? These lines come to mind: "How Thou canst think so well of us, and be the God Thou art,

Is darkness to my intellect, but sunshine to my heart."

We cannot quite understand it, but it is so. Let us therefore get it into our hearts, if we do not quite get it into our intellect; and be strong in faith, giving glory to God.

Dear one, God has permitted that trouble of yours—be it what it may—to come to you just for an opportunity to get you out of it, that it may be another stepping-stone nearer His throne, "by way of the cross".

Child-like implicit faith, void of fear and doubt, obedience to God's Word and an abandonment of self and the world constitute the simple solution of fear, worry and trouble.

---

RECONCILIATION

---

By Gerald Cooper

---

WE FIND that the word, reconciliation, means "restoration to harmony or friendship." Thus when we speak of the reconciliation of man to God, we mean the restoring of the friendship once manifested between God and man.

In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth and found them good. Then He created man in His own image and placed him in the garden of Eden. Man at this time was sinless and thus was very close to God. But we find temptation entering in the form of a serpent, and man fell, sinning for the first time. God then pronounced the curse of death on the race for the punishment of sin.

Later we find that God chose Abram and told him that his descendants would be His people. Following the wanderings of these people, we find that God instigated the tabernacle service for them. The tabernacle contained two parts: the Holy Place and the Holy of Holies, wherein God dwelt. The high priest was the only one who could enter the Holy of Holies, and this but once a year. The people brought their offerings to the high priest to kill and offer to God in the Holy of Holies, but before he could do this, he first had to offer a bullock for his own sins, because he could not offer himself.

We see then that the high priest made reconciliation for the sins of Israel by taking their offerings and presenting them to God. This continued for a long time, but God saw that Israel did not continually fulfill His wishes, and so He rejected them.

Thus we find that man and God were not reconciled to each other during the first four thousand years of this old earth. But there came a time when God foresaw the need of someone to again bring the world to a closer friendship with Him. Acting accordingly, He created Christ, who lived on the earth, teaching and preaching the coming kingdom. He was tempted in all points as we are, so that He would be the more able to be a faithful High Priest. So, as Aaron and his descendants were the high priests who made reconciliation to God for the people of Israel, Christ is our High Priest who makes reconciliation to God for us. He used no substitute, as did the old order of high priests, but offered Himself to God for reconciliation between man and God.

We find in several instances the Bible plainly stating that Christ is our High Priest and that by His crucifixion and shedding of blood we are again reconciled to our God in heaven. "But now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off were made nigh by the blood of Christ. For he is our peace, who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition between us; having abolished in his flesh the enmity, even the law of commandments contained in ordinances; for to make in himself of twain one new man, so making peace; and that he might reconcile both unto God in one body by the cross, having slain the enmity thereby."—Ephesians 2:13-16.

"Therefore in all things it behooved him to be made like unto his brethren, that he might be a merciful and faithful high priest in things pertaining to God, to make reconciliation for the sins of the people."—Hebrews 2:17.

Studying on, we find that there will be a time when man is once more completely reconciled to God and that God will once more walk on earth and dwell with men. "And I heard a great voice out of heaven, saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God." We also find, because of reconciliation of men unto God through Christ who reconciled them, that the curse of death, pronounced when man first became estranged from God, will be removed.

"And there shall be no more curse: but the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it; and his servants shall serve him."—Rev. 22:3.

---

It required Eliphaz to show Job that his fear was the result of self-pity and self-"uprightness", "for the thing which I greatly feared is come upon me, that which I was afraid of is come unto me. I was not in safety, neither had I rest, neither was I quiet; yet trouble came."—S. E. H.

THE CONDITION OF THE DEAD

(Continued from page 19)

"Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave (sheol) whither thou goest." Eccl. 9:10. This is a most positive statement respecting sheol. There is no work, device, knowledge, nor wisdom in sheol, the condition of the dead. Again in Psalm 6:5 we find a clear statement proving the unconsciousness of man in death. "For in death there is no remembrance of thee; in the grave (sheol), who shall give thee thanks?"

Sheol does not mean the literal grave or tomb in the sense of a four by six plot. There is another Hebrew word used for grave, as grave literally. It is qeber. We find the Hebrew word, qeber, used in Genesis 50:5. "In my grave (qeber) which I have digged for me in the land of Canaan, there shalt thou bury me."

Jonah was not in a literal grave when he was swallowed by the whale, yet we find in Jonah 2:2, he says he was in sheol. "Out of the belly of hell (sheol) cried I, and thou heardest my voice."

In Psalm 49:14 we find this statement, "Like sheep they are laid in the grave (sheol)." Sheep are not put into graves as men usually are, yet sheep do go into the state of death. Men like sheep enter into sheol, the condition of the dead.

Psa. 89:48: "What man is he that liveth and shall not see death? shall he deliver his soul from the hand of the grave (sheol)?" This question, with its implied answer that none can escape; all must be delivered into the hand of sheol, shows us clearly that all men must pass into that state or condition of the dead, which is called sheol.

The Greek word, hades, which is found eleven times in the New Testament is the equivalent of sheol in the Old Testament. May we draw a comparison between two verses, one of the Old and one of the New Testament which will show conclusively that the meanings of these two words agree? Psa. 16:10: "For thou wilt not leave my soul in hell (sheol): neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see corruption." Here the Psalmist is speaking of Christ, for we find the inspired comment in Acts 2:31: "He seeing this before spake of the resurrection of Christ, that his soul was not left in hell (hades), neither his flesh did see corruption." The two words, sheol and hades; one Hebrew, the other Greek, are here used in practically the same way, under the same circumstances, referring to the same condition.

Once, of the eleven times used, hades is translated "grave". 1 Cor. 15:55: "O death, where is thy sting? O grave (hades), where is thy victory?" Thus we find that all which holds true regarding sheol is also true of hades. It is the state or condition of the dead.

Gehenna, a Greek word used in the New Testament and six times translated "hell", has no connection whatever with either sheol or hades. It refers to the Valley of Hinnom, which was just outside the walls of Jerusalem. It was into the fire which was kept burning in this valley that all the refuse of the city, the remains of beasts offered for sacrifice, and the dead bodies of criminals were thrown for the purpose of destruction. This valley is first mentioned in Joshua 15:8. In olden times it was used as a place of worship to the idol Moloch. Gehenna as used in the New Testament always means destruction, complete destruction by fire. It is that final destruction as spoken of in Revelation 20:14, "And death and hell were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death." The lake of fire is gehenna, which is the second death, simply meaning destruction and nothing else but destruction.

"Hell," translated from the Hebrew word sheol and the Greek hades, is the state or condition of the dead. In it there is no knowledge, work, or wisdom. It is a state of oblivion. There is no escape; all men must at some time enter into it; no man has the power to release himself from it. As far as he himself is concerned he would never have so much as a hope of release.

There is One who has power over death; that One is Christ. He gave His life that He might be able to release mankind from death. We must all pass unto death, into sheol, the condition of the dead, but what precious hope that some day Christ will release us from the power of death to reign with Him! "Then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written: Death is swallowed up in victory. O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?"

THE REVELATION OF JOHN

By Lyman Booth

(Continued from issue of September 22)

IT IS a singular circumstance concerning this book that its authenticity was generally, if not universally, admitted during the first two centuries, yet in the third it should be questioned! This seems to have grown out of a misconception of the millennium, which was based upon this book, by those who held those opinions and therefore endeavored to discredit their tenets by denying the authority of the book itself. But this was too late, for its divine original had been established by the clearest and most positive evidence. No doubt it was written by John, the Apostle, to whom the title of "the divine," or "the theologian," was added some time after. The reason for this was the deep and mysterious truths relative to the nature and counsels of God, with which his writings abound, or because he spoke so much about the divine person of the Lord Jesus and His glory.

The book is styled the Apocalypse, or the Revelation, as consisting of matters mostly prophetic which were immediately revealed to John from Jesus Christ. This was given while he was on the Isle of Patmos in the Aegean Sea. The book opens with the Apostle's account of an extraordinary vision which he had of the Lord Jesus Christ appearing to him in glory. Then follows seven short epistles from Jesus to the seven principal churches in Asia, after which follows a series of prophecies, some of which a great many writers claim have been fulfilled, while others claim they all relate to a future era. But as to either opinion one should exercise great caution before venturing to adopt one.

Some who are called Christians and also ministers of the gospel have derided every attempt to explain the mysteries of the book, while others have shown a desire to be wise above what is written and have applied private interpretations in a presumptuous manner. This should teach others the lesson of modesty and reverence for the teaching of the Holy Spirit in all their interpretations. But if we are enabled to study and write, in this manner, there can be no doubt but that we may derive much useful instruction and an increasing impulse to our faith.

They who censure and dissuade the study of this book do so because they have not studied it themselves, and they imagine the difficulties greater than they are. Our opinions, whether correct or false, cannot change its truthfulness, for it is still "the sure word of prophecy," and men of learning cannot be engaged in better employment than in the study of this book, provided they do it as Lord Bacon advised, "with great wisdom, sobriety, and reverence."

The folly of interpreters has been, as Sir Isaac Newton observed, to foretell times and things by this prophecy, as if God designed to make them prophets. By this rashness they have not only exposed themselves, but brought the prophecy into contempt. But this was not God's design. He gave this and the prophecies of the Old Testament, not to gratify man's curiosity by enabling him to foreknow things and events, but that after they were fulfilled they might be interpreted by the event, and his own foresight, not that the interpreter's opinion might be manifest to the world. It should, however, be admitted to give the pious and attentive reader a general assurance that the cause of truth and righteousness shall finally fill the whole earth.

When the most learned and respectable men attempt with manifest exactness to explain those predictions which are evidently not fulfilled, it usually happens that others oppose their interpretations by some other scheme, supported by plausible arguments; and while several are thus engaged, each in defending his own conclusions against those who oppose them, their readers become perplexed instead of being convinced.

The difference between that which is fulfilled and the unaccomplished predictions seems to disappear. The evidence arising from the fulfillment of prophecy, and demonstrating the divine inspiration of the Scriptures, fails of producing its full effect, and very frequently the whole subject is laid aside as uncertain, seeing the most learned men advance such varied opinions. In most other controversies, truth is supposed to lie on one side, or the other.

(To be continued)

"Suppose I am in debt. Should I pay my debts before tithing my income? No. As well talk about not paying the interest on the money you borrow to use in business because you owe your grocer or other debts. Your Tithe is of all debts the most sacred. Under such a rule, all you would have to do to escape all obligations to give or pay anything would be to keep in debt. Besides, the universal experience of the very large number who have commenced tithing while in debt has been, that with the remaining nine-tenths they were able to pay their other debts more easily and promptly than they had previously succeeded in doing.—From How to Tithe and Why.

THE UPWARD LOOK

I don't look back; God knows the fruitless efforts,
The wasted hours, the sinning, the regrets;
I leave them all with Him who blots the record,
And mercifully forgives, and then forgets.

I don't look forward; God sees all the future,
The road, that short or long, leads home.
And He will face with me its every trial,
And bear for me the burdens that may come.

But I look up into the face of Jesus;
For there my heart can rest; my fears are stilled;
And there is joy, and love, and light for darkness,
And perfect peace, and every hope fulfilled.

—Annie Johnson Flint.

"HE LEADETH ME"

In pastures green? Not always; sometimes He
Who knoweth best, in kindness leadeth me
In weary ways, where heavy shadows be;
Out of sunshine, into darkest night.
I oft would faint with sorrow and affright,
Only for this—I know He holds my hand;
So whether in the green or desert land
I trust, although I may not understand.

By waters still? Ah, no!
Ofttimes the heavy tempests round me blow,
And o'er my soul the waves and billows go;
But when the storm beats loudest and I cry
Aloud for help, the Master standeth by,
And whispers to my soul, "Lo, it is I."
Above the tempests wild I hear Him say,
"Beyond the darkness lies the Perfect Day;
In every path of Thine I lead the way."

So, whether on the hilltop high and fair
I dwell, or in the sunless valleys where
The shadows lie, what matter? He is there,
And more than that, where'er the pathway lead,
He gives to me no helpless broken reed,
But His own hand, sufficient for my need.
So, where He leads me I can safely go;
And in the blest hereafter I shall know
Why in His wisdom He has led me so.

—Selected by Bro. A. L. Brady.

"Shew me thy ways, O Lord; teach me thy paths."

WITHOUT CHRIST

THERE is a good deal of "Christianity" without Christ. Many today are assuming that they can appropriate the fruits and results of Christianity and leave out the central fact of Christ, who Himself is our Atonement and Atoner. A missionary in the Philippines writes an interesting comment on this, quoting from a sermon he recently heard, which brought out the fact that the very word Christian implies that a Christian is one who depends upon Christ. "For if the word 'Christ' is removed from the word 'Christian,' nothing is left that makes any sense."

"Whereupon I began to think of what is left of the word Christian when the part Christ is taken away, and I discovered but three letters: i-a-n. Is it true, I asked myself, that this syllable has no meaning of itself? After trying to twist these three letters about to make them spell a word, I decided to try building a sentence with them. This is what I found: I - A - N . . . I - AM - NOTHING. How very true it is that 'apart from me (Christ) ye can do nothing!'"

—Selected.

MIRACLES

By George B. Alldridge

THE late Andrew Carnegie remarked in one of his books, "Knowledge is power." This saying is not original with him. A wise philosopher, four hundred years before the Christian era, expressed this same thought. The Bible writers, from Moses to the Apostle Paul, wrote a great deal about wisdom and knowledge.

Cowper, the poet, points out the difference between these two. He said,

"Knowledge and wisdom, far from being one,
Have oftentimes no connection. Knowledge dwells
In heads replete with thoughts of other men;
Wisdom in minds attentive to their own.
Knowledge, a rude, unprofitable mass,
The mere materials with which wisdom builds,
Till smoothed, and squared, and fitted to its place,
Does but encumber whom it seems to enrich.
Knowledge is proud that he has learned so much;
Wisdom is humble that he knows no more."

God, through the Prophet Isaiah, invites us to reason: "Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord," Isa. 1:18. Since reason is one of the greatest faculties of the human mind, it is very apparent that God desires us to exercise it. I do not know of any subject in which this can be exercised to better advantage, than considering this question of miracles. Skeptics take delight in trying to embarrass the child of God by pointing out to him the impossibility of miracles harmonizing with the laws of nature, according to the phenomenal descriptions of them recorded in the Bible.

In this article I wish to write only upon three. All the others, though, can be treated in harmony with faith, reason, and sound common sense. The three are, the children of Israel crossing the Red Sea; Joshua and his host passing the River Jordan; and the sun and moon standing still at the command of Joshua.

The child of God lives by his faith, and that is not based upon credulity. "Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." As evidence proves or shows facts, we are therefore compelled to prove the facts recorded in the Bible itself.

THE CROSSING OF THE RED SEA

THE other morning when you opened your paper, the front page had a glaring headline: "Terrible Hurricane at Belize, Honduras, Great Loss of Life."

Suppose we read a verse or two from the narrative as recorded in Exodus 14:21, 22: "And Moses stretched out his hand over the sea; and the LORD caused the sea to go back by a strong east wind all that night, and made the sea dry land, and the waters were divided. And the children of Israel went into the midst of the sea upon the dry ground; and the waters were a wall unto them on their right hand, and on their left."

Now, my skeptical friend, is not this in harmony with natural law and reason? Why do you think God had recorded the fact that He caused a strong east wind to blow all night, if it was not to reveal to you by what means this miracle was performed? Did you question the power of the hurricane at Honduras the other morning, or of the tidal wave that swept the city?

"Oh," you say, "Explain the wall. How could the water stand up like a wall?" Now read it again and leave out "were"—it is not in the original: "A wall unto them on their right hand, and on their left." It was the waters on their right and left protecting them as a wall protects you in a dwelling. It was the strong east wind that held the waters back from overwhelming Israel.

Civil engineers who have visited that section report that a strong east wind blowing all night would bring about this condition. As a boy I witnessed that during the spring tides, the waters at ebb-tide, if the wind was blowing from the north, would flow back a great distance, leaving the bed of the sea dry.

History records the fact that Napoleon with his cavalry crossed in this same region at low tide. Since the tide rises and falls eight or nine feet at this point you can appreciate the stupendous part the tide and wind played at this time.

Read Exodus 14:23-27. Note what happened to the Egyptians. "And Moses stretched forth his hand over the sea, and the sea returned to his strength when the morning appeared; and the Egyptians fled against it; and the LORD overthrew the Egyptians in the midst of the sea." V. 27.

The same element that protected Israel destroyed the Egyptians. The rapids at Niagara convey to the mind what a current of water, flowing rapidly in one direction, will accomplish, and that is just what happened to Pharaoh's hosts.

THE PASSING OVER JORDAN

RECENTLY I finished reading a very interesting book, Living Africa, by Bailey Willis, Research Associate of Carnegie Institution, Washington. He gives his impressions as a geologist wandering through the Riff Valley.

On Page 121, he says:

"Not long ago Lake Karu (or rather the valley it fills) drained northward to the Nile. But volcanoes arose along its course; their lava flows laid a dam across the valley, and it became a lake basin. In a few decades the waters rose to a low pass at the southern end, flowed out there and produced the Awzizi River. Its deep gorge is a fine example of youth. Some of the rivers that are tributary to Lake Tanganyika trace back to the same origin."

In Joshua 3 we read the record of this wonderful event. Verse 13: "And it shall come to pass, as soon as the soles of the feet of the priests that bear the ark of the Lord, the Lord of all the earth, shall rest in the waters of Jordan, that the waters of Jordan shall be cut off from the waters that come down from above; and they shall stand upon an heap." I have not space to quote the remaining verses, but note especially verse 16.

The city of Adam is about twenty miles; then there is a narrow gorge. It is said that "in the year 1267 a dam was formed here by a land slide, which left the bed of the Jordan dry below it, for several hours." This is just what happened when Joshua and the host of Israel crossed over. The record says, "That the waters which came down from above stood and rose up upon an heap very far from the city of Adam, that is beside Zaretan: and those that came down toward the sea of the plain, even the salt sea, failed, and were cut off: and the people passed over right against Jericho."

Probably the best way to describe the water in a lock of the Welland Canal is, "And they shall stand upon an heap". To an observer below, standing on the deck of a ship on its way to the River St. Lawrence, while looking up, the water the other side of the lock would to him appear standing upon an heap.

(To be continued)

PRAYER THOUGHTS

By M. A. Woodward

I COULD not sleep Sunday evening after hearing and seeing so much of the church booming along so nicely, and my mind (strange thing this mind of ours) would stray from the Rally Day exercises to my class of bright boys. Such active lads, every muscle and nerve in their bodies asking mutely for activity! I thought, if I can be a help in starting these minds in the right direction, it will not have been in vain that my life has been prolonged thus far.

Monday evening Sr. Crysler came in with a clipping from a Toronto paper. I said, "O Sr. Crysler, that is just what I want to help my boys to learn to make the home altar a happy place. It may help some mother to see the need of teaching the children to pray at the family altar, or to ask a blessing at the table."

It is entitled, "Grateful Hearts". The first especially favorite prayer is, "Make us mindful of the needs of others, Lord, and give us grateful hearts."

The article continues: "A mother of my acquaintance has adopted this for her three year old boy, and he refers to it, not as grace or blessing, but as grateful hearts. This little family was having lunch down town the other day, and after they had begun the meal he stopped suddenly and said, 'O, Mama, we haven't had our grateful hearts.' They all bowed their heads and repeated the little favorite prayer and then proceeded with the meal."

We hope the lad will always remember to be grateful to the Giver of every good and perfect gift.

Here is another:

"We thank Thee, Lord, for this our food,
For life and every good.
May manna for our souls be given,
The Bread of life sent down from heaven."

If the children learn how to thank the dear heavenly Father in their youth, it will not be so hard for them to take up family worship when they have homes of their own. It is such a relief to go into a family and hear them at the family altar offering prayer. In our home the children were early asked to lead at family worship, and it was not unusual for them to be asked to pray in church. They were not embarrassed, for they were used to it at home. O, brethren, let us all have a family altar, where the children may be heard in prayer, and where they may hear Father and Mother pray.

---

THE HEAVEN OF HUMAN DESIRE

---

(Continued from front page)

Something that will appeal to the old and to the young, to the weak and to the strong, to the one who is filled with a consciousness of strength and vigor demanding action, and to the one who has grown weary of the toilsome road and is longing for rest.

To the young and ambitious person, the church of God today, and the kingdom of God tomorrow, offer wider and more promising opportunities for service and assurance of richer and more lasting rewards than any other possible vocation or calling.

The pictured "Heaven" of our fathers no longer appeals to young men and young women who have tasted somewhat of the joy of service. They have learned to find pleasure in work, in the perfecting of plans, and in the fruition of their own efforts. They do not look with satisfaction upon a picture of "Heaven" where they are assigned a place in the orchestra of the angels, strumming a harp throughout eternity!

Young people of this age of research and of learning have discovered that true satisfaction is found only in accomplishment. A "Heaven" of perpetual idleness does not appeal to their sense of the desirable. They demand activity. They demand development. They demand an opportunity to increase in knowledge and power and service.

And that is what the kingdom of God promises to the young man and the young woman of today—an endless and limitless capacity for growth! For it is said of Him whose "name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace," that "of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end. . . ."—Isa. 9:6,7. Where growth continues without cessation, where increase goes on forever, there is opportunity for the continued learning of new things, and unending fields for active service.

Paul assures us that Christ "must reign, till he hath put all enemies under his feet."—1 Cor. 15:25. All the enemies of man are not enrolled among the soldiery of the world. When "all kings shall fall down before him:" when "all nations shall serve him" (Psalm 72:11), there will still remain rich fields for future conquest. All of the mighty forces of Nature must be subdued. All of the hidden resources of the earth must be revealed. All of the vast riches of the ocean's depths must be explored. The earth, the air, and the waters of the sea open up before us limitless vistas of opportunity and research. As limitless as the universe are the possibilities of those who, through faith, become "heirs of God, and joint heirs with Christ."—Rom. 8:17.

The promise has been made "if ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise."—Gal. 3:29. And what is included in this promise? "For the promise, that he should be the heir of the world, was not to Abraham, or to his seed, through the law, but through the righteousness of faith." Rom. 4:13. "Joint heir with Christ!" "Abraham's seed!" "Heir of the world!" All this is assured to the one who believes in the Lord Jesus Christ and is united with Him in baptism.

But all are not young and ambitious! Many have grown tired of the struggle and are longing for rest. And this is how the kingdom of God, the "Heaven of Human Desire," provides for these weary ones of the earth. "Behold, I create new heavens and a new earth: and the former shall not be remembered, nor come into mind. But be ye glad and rejoice for ever in that which I create: for, behold, I create Jerusalem a rejoicing, and her people a joy."—Isaiah 65:17, 18.

Does this beautiful picture possess a meaning for Israel alone? Surely it reaches farther than that favored nation! When "the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David: and he shall reign over the house of Jacob forever; . . ."—Luke 1:32, 33—we shall reign with Him; for He has promised, "To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in his throne."—Rev. 3:21. When "the moon shall be confounded, and the sun ashamed, when the Lord of hosts shall reign in mount Zion, and in Jerusalem, and before his ancients gloriously"—Isa. 24:23—He shall not reign alone. When "Jerusalem is a rejoicing, and her people a joy," we shall be there to see and to enjoy it all with them!

Rest—yes! Glorious, eternal rest, such as men have never known; rest untroubled by fears of coming evil; rest of body and mind and spirit! "They that wait upon the LORD shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint"—Isa. 40:31—for "in that day there shall be a root of Jesse, which shall stand for an ensign of the people; to it shall the Gentiles seek: and his rest shall be glorious."—Isa. 11:10.

"The Heaven of Human Desire!" How inspiring the thought! And soon those "desires" of the human heart will be realized by some! Will you be among them when Jesus comes? Will you be of that number of glorified children of the Most High who will join in the glad song of eternal rejoicing? "And they sung a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation; and hast made us unto our God kings and priests: and we shall reign on the earth."—Rev. 5:9, 10.

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 124 N. Parkside Ave., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois

For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"I KNOW WHOM I HAVE BELIEVED, AND AM PERSUADED THAT HE IS ABLE TO KEEP THAT WHICH I HAVE COMMITTED UNTO HIM AGAINST THAT DAY."—2 TIMOTHY 1:12.

THE DANGER OF UNBELIEF

MANY years ago, a certain vessel named the Thetis was cruising in the Mediterranean in search of a shoal, said to exist beneath the treacherous waters. The Captain, after all his efforts to find the rock had failed, decided to give up the search, declaring "that the reported danger was all a dream."

An officer on board, being of a different opinion, went out by himself on an expedition afterwards into the same waters, and there discovered a reef of rocks which he reported to the Admiralty, and it was inserted into the charts, the discoverer being rewarded with a high appointment.

The news came to the Captain's ears; he could not believe in the discovery. He was a shrewd, practical, clever man, but unscientific, incredulous, and obstinate.

"The whole thing is a falsehood," he exclaimed one day, adding, "If I ever get the keel of the Thetis under me again in those waters, if I don't carry her clean over where the chart marks a rock, call me a liar and no seaman."

Two years after, he was carrying in the same vessel the British Ambassador to Naples. One night when the wind was blowing and the waves running high, he and the master went up to examine by the light of a lantern the chart, when suddenly the latter pointed out very hurriedly the sunken rock on the map.

"What!" exclaimed the old seaman, "Is this invention to meet me in the teeth again? No! I declared I would sail over the spot the first chance I had, and I'll do it."

He went down into the cabin, and merrily related the story to the company, saying, "Within five minutes we shall have crossed the spot." There was a pause—then taking out his watch, he said, "Oh, the time is past; we have gone over the wonderful reef."

Presently, however, a grating touch was felt on the ship's keel; then a sudden shock, a tremendous crash—the ship was floundering! Through great exertions most of the crew were saved, but the Captain would not survive his own folly—the last seen of him was on the dark hull of the Thetis, as the foam dashed around her bow and stern.

He perished! and why? He possessed a chart, a good chart, but he neglected its warning note. HE WOULD NOT BELIEVE.—Selected.

PRAYER

"THERE were three hours of prayer in the daily round of the Godly Jew. They were the time of the morning and evening sacrifices (Ex. 29:38, 39) and on another occasion (Psa. 55:17; Dan. 6:10). Why should any who know and follow the Lord do less? We profess to have greater light and gospel knowledge in our day. Do we pray? The apostles and early disciples continued to go to the temple, as the epistles had not yet been written, and gradually the truths of Hebrews 10, 12 and 14 came to them during the transition period. These types and shadows were removed at the removal of the temple in A. D. 70 (Matt. 23:37). Those temple services and sacrifices have not been renewed. These disciples were going in to public prayer. Private prayer is a needful preparation for public prayer."

"THE greatest thing that men can learn to do is to praise the Lord."—From a sermon by H. A. Sheets.

SELF-DENIAL MONTH

OCTOBER is "Self-denial Month" in Illinois. Probably the amount that most of us will have to spend on "luxuries" this year will not be as much as in previous years, but let us see if we cannot find just as many pennies as ever to put into the fund for relief work. Those needy ones will need our help more than ever. Can we not deny ourselves just a little more than ever this year?

BIBLE MOUNTAINS

1. What mountain did God say should not be touched? 2. On what mountain did Aaron die? 3. Near what mountain did Moses see the burning bush? 4. Of what city is it said, "The mountains are round about"? 5. On what mountain did Elijah put to the test whether Baal or the true God should be worshipped? 6. From what mountain did Jesus ascend to heaven? 7. On what mountain did Moses die? Who wrote, "Flee as a bird to your mountain"?—Selected.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

THE TRUST

MARK was very happy.

"I trust you to take this package safely," said his father. "Go straight home, and do not stop on the way."

Mark carried the package very carefully.

"Hello, Mark! come see my rabbits," called Tom. But Mark never stopped.

"See the new knife my uncle gave me," called Ned. But Mark walked on. At last he reached home. That night his father said, "You did well, Mark. I can trust you, for you came right along home today. I want to tell you about another boy who could be trusted.

"His name was David. Once his father sent him out to watch his sheep. Now, David was very careful, and he loved the sheep. One day a lion came, and the heavenly Father gave David strength to kill the lion. Then a bear came, but David took care of the sheep, for the heavenly Father was with him. When David's father heard about it, he was pleased.

"A boy who can be trusted in little things will some day become a man whom all trust."—Junior Home Magazine.

HOW OLD WAS

1. Jesus when He first visited the Temple?
2. Moses when he died?
3. Josiah when he began to reign?
4. Enoch when he was translated?
5. Jairus' daughter when she was raised from the dead?
6. Mephibosheth when his nurse dropped him, and he became lame?
7. Adam when he died?

EVENTS IN CHRIST'S LIFE

1. Where was Jesus' first miracle performed?
2. Where was Jesus when He read: "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me"?
3. In what river was Jesus baptized?
4. Where was Jesus when He called Peter and Andrew?
5. Where did the centurion's servant whom Jesus healed, live?
6. How many brothers had Jesus?
7. Where did Jesus feed the five thousand?
8. Where did Jesus meet Zacchæus?

THE following prayers were included in Sr. Woodward's article, and not having room for them on that page, we give them here. We know that some of you will want to learn one of them. Here they are:

"Thank You for the world so sweet;
Thank You for the food we eat;
Thank You for the birds that sing;
Thank You, God, for everything."

"We thank Thee, Father, for Thy care,
And for Thy bounty everywhere;
For this and every other gift,
Our grateful hearts to Thee we lift."

"We thank Thee, Lord, for food and friends,
And all the good Thy mercy sends,
In Jesus' name, Amen."

"Dear Heavenly Father,
We thank Thee for this bread and meat,
And all the good things that we eat.
May we strong and happy be,
And always good and true like Thee."

THE PROMISE FENCE

IT WAS September when Harold's family moved into the pretty new house along the busy highway.

"There is so much to do about a new place," said Harold's father, "I don't see how I am going to get the fence built before winter sets in."

"Well, it wouldn't matter so much about the fence if Harold would stay in the yard. But he dare not play on this much-traveled road the way he did where we lived before," said Mother.

Harold's saw that his father's face looked much more troubled than ever.

"Would it help you out, Father, if I promised to stay right in the yard just as if there was a fence all around it?" asked the boy eagerly.

"Well, I guess it would!" said Father. "You would be building a promise fence, and that would be even better than a fence of iron."

"A promise fence!" exclaimed Harold. "I'll build it right now."

All fall Harold romped and played in the big yard and stayed within the promise fence. Several times he almost forgot and ran right over it, but this never quite happened. When other boys came to play with him, he told them about the promise fence, and they all played within it in safety.

"I don't believe we'll build the fence at all," said Father in the spring. "Harold doesn't need it. He knows how to keep a promise."—Selected.

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 4. — October 25, 1931

PAUL IN CORINTH

Acts 18:1-17; 1 Corinthians 13

Devotional Reading: 1 Corinthians 13:1-8, 13

GOLDEN TEXT

And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity. — 1 Corinthians 13:13.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: Christianity in a Cosmopolitan City.

Basic Truth: "Covet earnestly the best gifts."—1 Cor. 12:31.

Outline: I. Christianity. II. Racial and Denominational Religious Prejudices. III. Strategic Points of Approach. IV. Christianity's Unifying Influences.

I. Christianity. The word, Christianity, is used with at least two distinct meanings; one, that likeness and power and spirit and truth of Christ which is gendered within the heart or life of the individual and which makes him Christian indeed; and two, that system of religion which is distinct from and above other religious systems. In this lesson we are using the word in this latter sense. With the Jews the doctrine of Christianity was a religious system, declaring Jesus to be the Messiah of Old Testament prophecy, and as such, in their fear, nullifying Moses and his teachings and exalting in his stead Jesus as the Messiah.

II. Racial and Denominational Religious Prejudices. As the Savior found the prejudices of the scribes and Pharisees to be of the greatest hindrance to the reception of His truth, so the apostles found their greatest opposition to arise from the prejudices of the different peoples unto whom they proclaimed Christ. E. g., Acts 16:20, 21; 5:26-28.

Prejudice is that state of mind reached by not having fully considered the evidences on both sides of a question. In this sense and to the degree that it exists, prejudice reveals ignorance of the question. Throughout the centuries prejudice more than understanding has prevented a comprehension of the truths of Christ.

In a large city made up of many races and creeds, prejudice is rampant, as it was at Corinth, and requires the most of honest cunning and of spirit energy that one can be possessed of to introduce a truth which corrects treasured error.

III. Strategic Points of Approach. To approach confused error in the masses with correcting truth, one needs, for the success of Christian truth, to carefully select his approach. Jesus approached Jewish error by healing their sick and raising their dead and through mighty works in nature. By these mighty works He revealed God's approval of Him. He was therefore worthy of their confidence. By entering their synagogues He revealed His sympathy with them religiously. He would be their true Friend. Such were His approaches.

On the day of Pentecost the apostles were filled with Holy Spirit—their approval by God could not be questioned. Peter wrought an amazing miracle which revealed that he was their friend in the truest sense. Five thousand that day accepted Peter's religious correction.

Entering Corinth Paul, a Jew, sought the synagogue. Numbers recognized his service of God and sympathy with the people. Soon many recognized the truth of his teaching and became believers. His approach was well selected.

Those who today approach the promiscuous multitudes by some point of favor common to all hold best attention.

IV. Christianity's Unifying Influences. Jew and Greek, Syrian and Roman, having truly accepted Christ's teachings and promises, came to be unified in hope, brethren in life's efforts, friends and comrades' regardless of racial differences. The love of Christ through them included all, regardless of previous religious tenet or governmental claim.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

Paul in his work at Corinth when "pressed in spirit", preached "Jesus was Christ". This truth all along had been a stumbling stone to the Jews. Every Christian must embrace this all important truth.

We must

- believe that Jesus is Christ;
- believe that He died for our sins;
- believe that He was raised from the dead;
- be in Him to be saved;
- be built upon Him to resist temptation;
- confess Him if He is to confess us;
- serve Him in order to be partakers with Him;
- live for Him, if we are to live with Him;
- believe that He is coming again.

There were three things which the Corinthians did during Paul's stay among them. Acts 18:8.

They heard
They believed
They were baptized

Note the order of events. Hearing preceded believing and believing preceded baptism. Is this the order one should follow to get into Christ? Should the last step ever precede the first two? Enumerate the things a person should believe and understand before he is baptized.—C. E. R.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

"But now these three remain,—Faith, Hope, Love,—but of these the greatest is Love."—

1 Cor. 13:13, Diag.

This thirteenth chapter of first Corinthians is known as the love chapter of the Bible. It contains much food for thought and is worthy of our closest thought and intense study. The word "charity" is used instead of "love" in the King James Version, but it is generally accepted that the true meaning of the word is "love", and is so given in different translations.

Love was from the beginning and will endure through eternity. The time will come when hope will be realized, and faith will be turned to sight, but love will never change. It was God's "love" that prompted Him to send His Son to die that we might live. Love endureth all things and will never fail. Prophecies will be fulfilled; tongues will cease; knowledge will vanish away; but love will last as long as the Father in heaven rules, and that will be without end.—L. A. R.

SENIOR AND ADULT CLASSES

Working for Christ

Within the heart of every person there is buried the desire to live endlessly. Some realize that the desire is there and others seem ignorant of its presence. The former class are usually to be found actively engaged in religious work. The latter class may be working for something that will survive time. One may build a mighty bridge that will perpetuate his name. Others will lead armies; some will paint beautiful pictures or carve eternal marble. Some write; others invent. Napoleon divorced Josephine and remarried that his name might continue to live in a son. Thus in some way or other each one tries to bridge death that he may continue to live in some manner or other. Man hates death and doesn't want to be conquered by it even for a moment. (This is one reason why the theory of the immortality of the soul is so popular.)

The universality of this latent desire is proof of its potential power. The gospel is the stimulus needed to release this potential power that it may become kinetic energy. Saul, on the road to Damascus, was potential (possible) power for Christ. Paul, after Damascus, was the great kinetic (active) power that carried the gospel to the Gentiles.

Paul's message was the hope of eternal life through Christ. He understood this hidden desire of the human heart and used it with all his God-given ability. The human heart can be touched by this theme today. Whether in the city or country, the theme is the same, even if the methods should differ.—H. A. S.

DOINGS AMONG THE CHURCHES

YOUR PAGE

The expression of confidence placed in me by our new editor, Bro. Marsh, is deeply appreciated, and the new office of associate editor is assumed in a spirit of humility and earnest desire to further as much as possible the cause of the Master we all serve. My fervent prayer is that at all times my duties may be discharged in a manner that will be acceptable to Him and that will never bring reproach upon His name. It is the desire of the editor to enhance the value and interest of the church page, and this can best be done by a hearty cooperation on the part of the brotherhood everywhere. Will you not all, then, assist me in making this page, in truth, Your Page?

Mary A. Gesin.

FROM HERE AND THERE

Bro. Fred M. Brough of Jackson, Mich., formerly of Grand Rapids, has a very painful broken arm.

Sr. Pearl Hatten, who has been employed in Oregon, Ill., for the past two years, has moved to Aurora, Ill., during the past week. She will be missed at church services.

Sr. W. D. Tilton of the Oregon (Ill.) membership has been quite sick for the past month. She is now receiving treatment at the Oregon hospital and was reported yesterday as slightly improved.

Sr. Ida Lapp accompanied her brother Clarence to Ripley, Ill., last week end, assisting him with the musical part of his services. Bro. Gerald Cooper also took this occasion to visit the home folks and home church.

Sr. Alice Cryster of Golden Rule Home has been indisposed by a heart attack, but is again up and around, her cheerful self. Bro. Johnson, superintendent of the Home, also took a few days' vacation nursing a severe cold, but is again "back on the job."

The members of the church at St. Cloud, Minn., rejoice in the fact that they have a new pastor, Adna E. Hoskins, who began services with them in that capacity on October 11. May the Lord's blessing rest upon the workers in that place.

Sr. Helen Lewis of Ripley, Ill., has been quite ill for the past six weeks and recently submitted to an operation. A word of cheer to her would be very fitting. She may be addressed as follows: Mrs. Thomas Lewis, Marietta Phelps Hospital, Macomb, Ill.

We glean from Bro. Randall's bulletin that Sr. Franklin Moore continues to gain, though slowly. Let us persist in prayer for her. Also, Bro. George Rennard is still suffering from neuritis. He is now at Memorial Hospital, Niagara Falls. A word of cheer would be of benefit, we know.

We shall await with pleasure reports from Cleveland's Rally Day which was held on October 11. They have set their goal at 200. Judging from "Golden Rule News," all departments of the church are "pepped up," Sunday school, Ladies Aid, Berean society and all. The third anniversary of the dedication of their church must have been an inspiring service on Sept. 9.

PRAYER COLUMN

For the present, at least, the prayer column will not appear in its previous formal style. Not that we have lost faith in fervent, sincere, and continued prayer to our Father in heaven! No, indeed! We know from our own experience that the God we worship is a prayer-hearing and a prayer-answering God. We believe that He is concerned with the least as well as the greatest of His creatures. We rest assured that He cares for our every necessity, if we are faithfully and continually striving to serve Him in the way in which He would have us serve.

Let us not forget one of the names which we have been bringing before our Father, but let us continue to petition Him for their several needs. And let us bring to Him others from time to time, as we see their desires noted informally through the columns of this page. Let us know, brethren, of the sick, the sorrowing, the distressed among us, and let us all remember them at the Throne of Grace. Associate Editor.

LOS ANGELES ACTIVITIES

A very pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. Wm. H. Derr on August 2, 1931, in Trinity Lutheran Church, Pasadena, when Miss Nina Blackwell, daughter of Mrs. S. H. Blackwell, formerly of Toronto, Canada, was united in marriage to Kermit J. Olsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Olsen of Pasadena. After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, in El Sereno, after which the couple left for a wedding trip to Colorado.

This announcement of the marriage of Sr. Nina Blackwell is clipped from a local paper. The church secretary was out of town at the time and wishes to apologize to Sr. Nina for the delay in sending in a report.

Bro. Geo. J. Rahn is moving his family to El Centro again for the winter. We have enjoyed having them with us at services during the summer.

The annual business meeting of the Dorcas sewing circle was held on Oct. 1st at the home of the president, Sr. Emma Railsback. Our secretary-treasurer, Sr. Laura McCallister, gave a very encouraging report of the work accomplished in the last year. Sr. Nettie Crundwell, corresponding-secretary, reported progress in the work among the isolated sisters. A new committee to distribute tracts and Restitution Heralds in hospitals, etc., is headed by Sr. Georgia Fiscus. All officers were reelected. A quilting is planned for our next meeting to be held with Sisters Fiscus and Orchard at 1927 Orchard Ave., on Oct. 15.

Sr. Eva L. Stearns returned to her home in Rapid City, S. D., in September, after spending the summer months with her father and other relatives and friends in Los Angeles. The church hopes that she will come often.

Bro. and Sr. Howard H. Moore and little sons dropped in on our Bible study class on Sept. 30, having driven down on a brief business trip. They returned to Red Bluff on Oct. 3.

In the report of Work in Indiana for September there is a mistake. It reads, "Paid to Con. Board, $36.00." It should be $6.00.

J. H. Anderson.

SERVICES AT PLUM RIVER

Bro. C. E. Lapp will be with the congregation at Plum River (Ill.) next Sunday morning and evening, Oct. 18. Sunday school at 10 o'clock, preaching services at 11 and 7:30. All those finding it possible to attend are urged to do so.

NEW PASTORATE BEGUN

Bro. G. Eldred Marsh began his services as pastor of the church at Oregon, Ill., in their prayer meeting on Thursday of last week. The evening was a most inspiring one, bringing pastor and congregation together in a mutually uplifting service to the Father in heaven. A full report of the installation service of October 11, will appear next week.

THE TRAINING CLASS

In the last minute scramble of getting the news ready for this page last week, we unintentionally omitted the name of Arlen Marsh among the list of students in the Training Class of 1931-32. Arlen is by no means a negligible factor in the student personnel. The first week of class has been most enjoyable on the part of both students and teachers, and the sessions give promise of interest and profit.

THE BLANCHARD MEETINGS

The quarterly meeting of the Michigan Conference convened at Blanchard on Friday evening Sept. 25 and continued over Sunday, with Bro. F. E. Siple conducting the services in a manner that was a real inspiration and spiritual uplift. The burden of his discourses was the nearness and the importance of the coming of the Savior.

On Sunday a large delegation from Grand Rapids and other sections was present and a potluck dinner was enjoyed. Arrangements were made to secure, if possible, the services of Bro. Siple, for meeting at regular intervals at this place. It is felt that much good will accrue from this series of meetings.

L. Bridegam, Sec.

MONTHLY BOARD MEETINGS

In conformity with the policy of the newly elected Board of the N. B. I. at the close of General Conference, the Board continues to meet regularly on the first Tuesday of each month, to consider all matters pertaining to the work of the Institution.

In an effort to meet the requirements of the present general financial depression, a consistent effort to reduce expenses in all departments has been inaugurated. Among other efforts made along this line, the business manager has accepted the resignation of Mr. Charles W. Moore, the efficient and faithful grower employed for some time, and has placed Mr. Raymond Wallace, Mr. Moore's former assistant, in charge of the work.

Our new treasurer, Brother T. J. Ellis of Waterloo, Iowa, has appointed Miss Hazel Wilde as his assistant. Miss Wilde is thoroughly conversant with the business of the Institution, having been employed for the past year as our bookkeeper. It will be her duty hereafter, as the office representative of Bro. Ellis, to receive and account for all funds, and to keep the treasurer informed of everything pertaining to his office through weekly reports.

RALLY DAY AT BRUSH CREEK, OHIO

The morning attendance at our Rally Day services was one hundred nineteen at Sunday school and about the same for the morning worship. At our evening service the church was well filled. A count was not made, but the attendance was near the two hundred mark.

At the close of the morning sermon Mrs. Weaver accepted the gospel invitation, and at the close of the evening sermon Mr. Macy, one of our young men, came forward in answer to the call. A baptismal service will be held on Sunday, October 11, and a report more in full will follow in reference to our recent additions.

We are glad to know God is blessing the Brush Creek church with additional members, and trust that under divine guidance the interest may continue to develop.

Monday morning, October 5, we had the pleasure of addressing the high school students of Tippecanoe City. These numbered about one hundred seventy-five, gathered in a regular chapel service.

Sydney E. Magaw, Pastor.

RALLY DAY AT EDEN VALLEY

"At our services of Rally Day at Eden Valley (Minn) church we had a total attendance during the day of 575—at Sunday School, 202; morning church service, 183; evening service, 190. The collection, which was taken for the National Berean relief work, amounted to $17.09. This has been sent to Sr. Sanford. Altogether we feel greatly encouraged over the prospect of our work here," writes Bro. John Denchfield, formerly of the N. B. I. Training Class, now pastor at Eden Valley. "The more I get acquainted, the more good workers I find. We are enjoying the maps we received for new subscriptions, finding them of help in our studies, and we desire to thank the N. B. I. for them."

We all rejoice with Bro. Denchfield in his new opportunities for greater service for the Master.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICHIGAN

Rally Day at South Lawn Park church was a big success in every way. Not only were there 262 eager faces in the various classes, but God's Book was exalted in the service and impressed on the hearts of all.

Bro. Townsend and his committees had worked hard. The pulpit end of the church was curtained off and a large Bible about seven feet tall stood in the center. While Sr. Doan very effectively read parts of Bible history, the great Bible would open and the characters in their order step forth, dressed in in costumes of the ancient days.

The ones on the program and their helpers had labored hard, and the service was impressive. Some special musical numbers were enjoyed, too.

And now we turn toward our fifth birthday, Oct. 25, and pray for the success of the meetings to begin that day.

F. E. Siple, Pastor.

HERALD RECEIPTS

McFarlane Children's Home (by Rockford Ladies Aid); Mrs. Victor Smith; Mrs. Etta Elton; L. A. Wright; Mrs. Etta Hatch; Mrs. E. C. Gates; G. A. Driskill; Aaron Leatherman; Mrs. Ella Skeels; Mrs. Lottie Graham; Fred C. Smith; Mrs. C. L. McCallister; Mrs. Lillias Sweeney; Pearl Hatten; Mrs. C. C. Ezell; Mrs. J. S. Hindman; Mrs. J. Hoffman; Mrs. J. A. Hutchins; Mrs. Elizabeth O. Frier; Mrs. Lucy Lapp; Mrs. Edna Gruber; Mrs. Lillian A. Greiner; Mrs. F. Moran; C. E. Randall; William Austin; Fred M. Brough; C. H. Belshaw; C. B. Compton.

"IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE"

We have been interested at headquarters to peruse the church news as featured in Bro. Lyon's "Golden Rule News" from Cleveland, Ohio, and in the first copy of the "Church of God Messenger," a bulletin issued in the interest of the churches of Fonthill and Niagara Falls. Both of these are full of interest and are good advertising for their respective churches. "It pays to advertise," even in the Lord's business.

HOLBROOK, NEBRASKA

On Sun. Sept. 26th the pastor, Bro. Gordon baptized Miss Ethel Tibbetts.

We rejoice to know that this splendid young lady has taken a stand for her Master. May she ever be faithful and true to Him.

Sunday, October 4, was Rally Day in Holbrook. The attendance at Sunday school was sixty, at church services, ninety.

The pastor, Bro. Grover Gordon, preached an interesting sermon from Revelation 6:12. The special musical selections added much to the exercises of the day. Following the sermon, the right hand of fellowship was extended to Sr. Ethel Tibbetts.

At noon eighty-three enjoyed a basket dinner in the basement of the church.

At 2:30, Bro. A. Hornaday gave a splendid Bible lesson from Psalm 132.

The day was an unusually happy one for the Holbrook brethren.

CONTRIBUTIONS RECEIVED

Instead of mailing acknowledgments to our contributors, we will list them here each week. If you have remitted to the Dollar-A-Month Club or have sent a special contribution to the N. B. I. and do not see your name listed here, drop us a card. Contributions have been received from the following since Oct. 5:

Happy Woods Sunday school, Hammond, La.; G. L. Huffman; Irena Margrave; Mary E. Carter; Mrs. Chas. Blomquist; Mrs. R. V. Gardiner and daughters; Miss Janet Nicholson; Margaret J. Donaly; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Netts; Mrs. Anna Beck; Sunshine Class of the Lawrenceville church and Lawrenceville (Ohio) church; Harvey Krogh, Sr.; Dorothy Krogh; Vivian Magaw; T. M. Savage; W. M. Bowers; Sadie Savage; Mrs. J. H. Adams; Lutrella F. Hollenback; Mrs. H. E. Russel; C. B. Compton; C. A. Kelly; Mrs. C. Seely; W. A. Reid; Lila Lathrop; Elder G. A. Brown.

MEETINGS AT BRUMFIELD, KENTUCKY

On the afternoon of Sept. 28, Bro. J. H. Anderson and son Harold and Mr. Raymond Coffman, of Michigantown, Ind., with Bro. Omer J. Parker of Kokomo, Ind., arrived here at the Brumfield church, where Bro. Anderson began a meeting which continued until Oct. 2. Bro. Anderson gave us some very fine sermons which were appreciated by all, especially the one he gave on the light of prophecy. Bro. Parker very ably assisted us in the song services. This was his first visit among the brethren here. We appreciated his coming, and hope he enjoyed it enough to return again at some future time.

On Thursday evening after services, the members gathered at the home of Bro. B. F. Skeels, where the Lord's supper was made ready. Bro. Parker led in prayer and very beautifully impressed upon our minds that as often as we do this we show forth the Lord's death until He comes. This service is one which brings us closer together, and makes us feel the need of each other more and more. David says, "Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

Bro. Anderson is one who can say with Paul,

"I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ; for it is the power of God unto salvation." The weather was ideal and a fair sized audience greeted each service. Bro. Anderson will be with us again on Monday night, Oct. 12, as he will be passing through on his way to North Carolina. Before closing I wish to say to brethren who might be passing through Kentucky, that the church is located about eight miles west of Brumfield, and all who care to stop will find a welcome here.

We trust that good seed has been sown, and that we may remain faithful to the name of Jesus, and be able to gain the crown of life.

Yours in faith,
Quincy L. Carpenter.

THE END TIMES

The rapid thickening of the political-social-business skies should spur every Bible student and worker to increased zeal and earnestness in Sunday School work, as also in every line of Bible work. Children and young people have need that their seniors will ever keep the prophetic Beacon encircling its far flung rays upon present world conditions. They have not yet attained years to especially attract their attention to the meaning of current happenings and conditions.

Upon the rapidly increasing financial and labor distress the searchlight of James 5 may well be intently focused.

Upon those accomplishments which make possible the great increase of transportation under greatly increased speed, Daniel's distinctive prophecy of 12:4 may well be blended with 2 Tim. 4:1-5. It is amazing, when one stops to analyze, how pleasure and crime are furthered by increased traveling facilities.

Upon the fact of the tendency of nations to unify, harmonize, and federate their problems and the solution thereof, may well be concentrated all those prophecies foretelling these, and still more far-reaching, results: Rev. 13:1-8; Dan. 2:43 with 44; 7:24, 25 with 26, 27; 2 Thess. 2:1-12.

Everywhere across the screen of current events may be seen the words of God as they are projected over our heads by prophets of old to the stage before.

Let us aid the young to understand the writings before them.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

Published by
National Bible Institution
Oregon, Illinois

Subscription Rates.—51 issues per annum, $2.00; 6 months, $1.00; 3 months, 50 cents. Sample copy, Free.

Receipts.—The change of date on your address label is your receipt. If date is not changed in two weeks after payment of subscription, please notify this office.

Change of Address.—When ordering change of address be sure to send us both old and new addresses.

The RESTITUTION HERALD advocates: the soon coming of Christ, Acts 1:11, and life only through Him, Col. 3:3; the literal resurrection of the dead, John 5:28; the immortalization of those in Christ, 1 Cor. 15:53, 54; the final restoration of Israel as the kingdom of God under the kingship of Christ, Luke 1:32, the church being joint heirs with Him, Rom. 8:17, and Israel to be made head over Gentile nations, Isa. 60:13; the "restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began", Acts 3:21. It also firmly advocates repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, Acts 2:38, and a consecrated life as essential to salvation.

THE RECOMPENSE OF YOUTH

By Arlen Marsh

AMONG the most important problems confronting the religious world is the question regarding the position young people should occupy in the church. One faction declares that youthful enthusiasm, quick and naive thinking, and ability to seize upon a new idea and carry it to a practical conclusion are necessary for church positions. The opposing faction insists that youth is too inexperienced, too undeveloped spiritually, too prone to recklessness to be entrusted with the responsibility of leadership. Youth itself replies that it can never develop unless granted actual experience, and that it resents the constant and frequently condescending supervision of its elders.

In 1 Timothy 4:12-13, Paul urged, "Let no man despise thy youth; but be thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity. Till I come, give attendance to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine." Timothy, at that time Bishop of Ephesus, was not merely to act as an example for other members of the church; but he was actually to take the responsibility of the most important positions in it.

But in 65 A. D. Timothy was forty. There is no wonder that Paul should have thus exhorted a man of middle age to be a leader. However, there still remains the question as to why Paul should have addressed him as youthful. The answer lies in the old, but justifiable, cry, "Times have changed!" In that day, no one was considered a man until he reached thirty; under that age, he was a "child," subject to his parents in all respects. It is not, therefore, surprising that Timothy was termed a "youth."

There are good reasons, moreover, why the young people, as we consider them young today, are quite as fit to govern as those whom the Jews of the first century considered young. Today, the average high school student graduates with a far better general education than that Paul received after years under Gamaliel; today, the training the school organizations offer students gives to their officers and members experience and consequent developed ability in leadership. The modern boy has had more experience in leading and has received a broader education before he is fifteen than Timothy had received when he was forty.

But the ability to lead and a broad general education are not the only requirements for church officers. Paul, in 2 Timothy 3:14-15, writes: "But continue thou in the things which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them; and that from a child thou hast known the holy scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus." It is quite probable that Paul would never have written Timothy as he did, had it not been for the biblical teaching given the young man in his early years.

This conclusion is substantiated by Paul's statement of the qualifications of bishops and deacons, in 1 Timothy 3:

1-12. It is certain that no young person under twenty can fulfill all the requirements outlined for church officials. Few are not "novices" or "newly come to the faith"; few are sufficiently educated in the Bible or of adequate ability to teach successfully. (Paul does, however, leave us with a remedy for this lack of knowledge in 2 Timothy 2:15: "Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.")

It is obvious that young people are incapable of ruling properly in the church. This is the province of those older; this is a province requiring vision, experience, spirituality, and knowledge, combined with a practical disposition. True, the young are visionary, and they may have knowledge; but they are not sufficiently pragmatical or spiritual to be permitted the reins of church government. Their experience should be gained elsewhere—in the Sunday School, in the Berean society—and not in the church proper. But when they are fitted for the position by their work with their own organizations, then—and not until then—they should be granted an official place in the sphere of church activity. It is theirs. They have earned it, and it should not be denied them.

IS IT WRONG TO TEACH THAT TITHING PAYS?

AN OBJECTION urged against tithing is that the advocates of the tithe appeal to mercenary motives by representing that if we give the tithe, we will receive material blessings as a reward. We should be very careful not to set standards for ourselves higher than those set in the Word of God, and not to assume to be more righteous than the Scriptures.

TAKE THAT classic quotation from the third chapter of Malachi. The Jews had been greatly afflicted by drought and pestilence, by the locust and the caterpillar. They cried out in their distress and sought to know the reason for their affliction. God's answer to them through Malachi was, "Ye have robbed me," but they said, "Wherein have we robbed thee?" He replied, "In tithes and offerings. Ye are cursed with a curse; for ye have robbed me, even this whole nation." Then He gives them this challenge: "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it."

God here challenges His people; He dares them. He says to them, "Prove Me, put Me to the test. Come back to your duty in paying tithes and see if I will not drive war and pestilence, the locust and the caterpillar from all your coasts. See if I will not open the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it."—From a tract.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, OCTOBER 20, 1931

NUMBER 3

THAT BLESSED HOPE

By Lottie E. Young

NOT so many years ago the Second Advent of the Lord Jesus Christ was a discredited subject among many of the established churches; but now it is a perfectly "safe" subject on which to touch as an introduction to a religious talk. Many affirm that this return has been in the past, or that the Lord of Life comes at death, which is not all in harmony with the Scriptures. The doctrine of the return of the Savior is a

Personal doctrine. "This same Jesus" was to come back as He went away, with hands and feet, a head and a body. Not an unsubstantial spirit, unseen by men, but One "whom every eye shall see." It is also a

Primitive doctrine. It is no new belief, as the first adventist was Enoch, the seventh from Adam, who prophesied, "Behold, the Lord cometh with ten thousands of his saints." In addition it is a

Prophetic doctrine. It was foretold by worthies of old. Isaiah told not only of the One who should sit upon the "throne of David" when "of the increase of his government and of peace there shall be no end"; but he also told of the "man of sorrows and acquainted with grief". Daniel had wonderful visions of the time "when all peoples, nations, and languages should serve him"; while Zechariah foretells when "his feet shall stand upon the Mount of Olives." It is likewise a

Principal doctrine. It is a fundamental doctrine of man. There can be no Kingdom of God on earth without Christian faith and teaching. It is the "blessed hope" of the church, for without it there is no glorious future for the coming of the King. In like manner it is a

Prominent doctrine. It is mentioned more often in the Old Testament than the first advent of Christ, and in the New Testament it is spoken of three hundred eighteen times. It is the burden of the last prayer in the Bible, where John calls longingly, "Come, Lord Jesus," while the hymns, prayers and sermons of the early church are permeated with the doctrine. Nevertheless it is a

Plain doctrine. There is no mystery about it; it is stated in the clearest language. Jesus said on the last night He was on earth, "If I go away I WILL come again". None need be in doubt or ignorance concerning this glorious truth. Yet it is a

Perverted doctrine. It has been denied by many of earth's learned ones. It has been scoffed at, misrepresented, and explained away. Modernism laughs at the thought, and there were some even in the days of the Apostle Peter who said, "Where is the promise of his coming? for since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation". To this the answer was given, "The day of the Lord WILL come as a thief in the night." Unbelief, selfishness, worldly ambition have no use for the doctrine; STILL it shines forth from the pages of the Book. For it is a

Precious doctrine. It is full of comfort, blessing, encouragement, and hope to the Christian. It gives us something worth while to look forward to, to live for, and to work for. The thought of His coming fills us with cheer and gladness, for it means deliverance from sin and sorrow, when pain shall be unknown and even death—"the last enemy"—shall be conquered forever. And more than all else, it is a Practical doctrine. It exalts Christ as does no other view of Him. Some day every knee shall bend, and every tongue shall proclaim Him Lord over all. It magnifies other Bible teaching. There is no other doctrine in the Bible that becomes so great an incentive to sober, righteous, and godly living right here in this wicked world as that of the second personal coming of Christ.

No one can be a faithful student of the Bible and deny this doctrine. The knowledge of His soon coming should transform our lives and send us forth to be living epistles of the "blessed hope". May God keep us faithful unto the end and soon send back to earth His only beloved Son to be our King,

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.
G. Eldred Marsh, Editor Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

“He that oppresseth the poor reproacheth his Maker: but he that honoureth him hath mercy on the poor. There is that scattereth, and yet increaseth; and there is that withholdeth more than is meet, but it tendeth to poverty.”—From Book of Proverbs.

THE EDITOR'S PRAYER

OUR FATHER: In Thee we recognize the Author of “every good and perfect gift” which we enjoy. From Thee come all the necessities and comforts of life. Permit us, therefore, Father, to show the appreciation we feel for these multiplied blessings by remembering the poor in their time of greatest need. We offer our praise and we invoke Thy continued mercy in the name of Thy Son our Lord. Amen.

“REMEMBER THE POOR”

AMONG the “necessary things” which the apostles and elders at Jerusalem required of the Gentile Christians who came into the church under the teaching of Paul was that they should “remember the poor” (Gal. 2:10). As this requirement of Christian service has never been abrogated, it must still be binding upon the disciples.

The heavenly Father insists both in the Old and in the New Testaments that His children should exercise great generosity with regard to the care of the poor among them. In His law for Israel as revealed in Exodus 23:11, He required that each seventh year the land should be permitted to “rest and lie still; that the poor of thy people may eat.”

This requirement is enlarged upon in Deuteronomy 15:7 and 10: “If there be among you a poor man of one of thy brethren . . . , thou shalt not harden thine heart, nor shut thine hand from thy poor brother: . . . thou shalt surely give him, and thine heart shall not be grieved when thou givest unto him: because that for this thing the Lord thy God shall bless thee in all thy works, and in all that thou puttest thine hand unto.”

HONORING GOD

THE wise preacher of old declares, “He that oppresseth the poor reproacheth his Maker: but he that honoureth him hath mercy on the poor.”—Prov. 14:31. When the rich young man came to Jesus seeking the way of life, the Master commanded him, “Go thy way, sell whatsoever thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven.”—Mark 10:21.

It is true that the requirement of Jesus regarding our care for the poor is not the natural attitude of humanity, but no element of Christian faith or practice is according to nature. It is not in accord with our carnal inclinations that we should “lend, hoping for nothing again” (Luke 6:35).

The spirit of Christ, however, which animates the “new creature” prompts us to think and feel and act as Jesus would under the same circumstances. So we come to sympathize with the poor and to desire to share our blessings with them.

The approaching winter will witness a great deal of privation and suffering among the less fortunate. May each member of the body of Christ be moved by tender compassion to their relief, especially to the relief of the needy ones in our own congregations.

THE DISPENSING OF RELIEF INTELLIGENTLY

HOWEVER regrettable, it is nevertheless true that selfish people sometimes embrace the opportunity afforded by a general time of need to impose upon the charity of the public. Experience has demonstrated that those who are the most worthy and who suffer the greatest need are the last to ask for assistance, while others who are really able to care for themselves will call repeatedly and insistently for relief.

It is advisable, therefore, for those who are the husbandmen of the Lord's bounty to consider carefully the actual condition of those whom they are asked to assist. The need is too great and the number requiring assistance too vast for us to apply any funds available for the relief of the worthy poor to the enrichment of designing men.

In order to avoid being imposed upon in a time like this, it would be advisable that the larger part of such relief be dispensed through established agencies which are prepared to investigate the worthiness of each individual case. The Relief Committee of the National Berean Society, of which Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, is Chairman, is such an agency. Money or other forms of relief for the poor will be distributed by Sr. Sanford judiciously and in such a manner that those who are most greatly in need will be the first to receive assistance.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ST. MATTHEW

By C. E. Lapp

“Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion; shout, O daughter of Jerusalem: behold, thy king cometh unto thee: he is just, and having salvation; lowly, and riding upon an ass, and upon a colt the foal of an ass.”

THERE are many Old Testament scriptures predicting the day of Christ's coming, but the above from Zechariah 9:9 presents Him very forcibly coming as King of the Jews and as He was written of by Matthew. He was prophesied of as a King coming unto the Jews and yet what a contrast between His coming and that of an ordinary king. We think of a king as one who comes with royal pomp, splendor, and great power, with many attendants waiting on his every wish and desire. Christ came in an entirely different manner. He came to redeem men from their lost condition; He came meek and lowly, serving others instead of being served and humbly, riding upon a colt.

Matthew first gives the genealogy of Jesus and the place of His birth which was at Bethlehem. He was born during the reign of Herod the Great, who was at that time ruler over the Jews. Wise men came from the East to Jerusalem seeking Jesus and said, “We have seen his star in the East and have come to worship him.” Herod and the high priests showed great concern, and Herod inquired diligently where Christ was to be born. The wise men said, “In Bethlehem of Judea.” He then called the wise men and told them that when they had found the young child to return and let him know that he might also go and worship Him. But the wise men were warned by God in a dream to return another way and not to notify Herod because he wanted to take Christ's life.

After the wise men saw Jesus, Joseph was warned of God in a dream to flee into Egypt because of Herod. A decree was sent out over the land to kill all the male children under two years old, but the Child, Jesus, was in Egypt and so was saved. Herod was soon judged by God for this act of debauchery, and he died a painful death. God again told Joseph to return with Mary and Jesus to the land of Israel, and he did as bidden and dwelt in Nazareth. God's protecting hand was made manifest many times by the way He cared for Christ.

The next we hear of Christ He is being heralded by John the Baptist. John told the people to repent, for the kingdom of heaven was at hand. And how could there be a kingdom without any king? He then came to John the Baptist for baptism, and as He was baptized God's Holy Spirit came upon Him enduing Him with great power from on high. Immediately after His baptism Christ was taken of the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted or tested of the devil to ascertain whether He was worthy of being King. After these testings Christ started to teach and preach concerning the kingdom. He first gave the famous sermon on the mount, teaching His disciples the great truths of the kingdom and the ethics governing it. He also taught them in parables that some might see and others might not see.

After the kingdom had been proclaimed to the people, Christ proceeded to proclaim the King that was to rule over the kingdom. He did not do it so much by word of mouth as by the miracles He performed, by showing His power to heal the sick, to make the lame walk, and the blind to see, and by showing His authority to cast out evil spirits and to forgive sin. He also showed His authority over the elements, when He spoke to the wind and the waves, and they became calm. In all His works He proclaimed Himself King by showing His power and ability to rule.

Christ then took Peter, James, and John into a high mountain and was transfigured before their eyes that they might see the glory which He was to have, when His kingdom should be established. He told them of the suffering He would have to bear before He could be glorified in His kingdom. He taught His disciples in parables how He was to be rejected of men, how they would refuse to believe on Him and try to kill Him, and finally how one of His own disciples was to betray Him to be crucified. He also taught concerning the rewards of those that were faithful and served Him diligently.

Christ and His disciples then went to Jerusalem, and as they neared the place He sent several of them to find the colt that no man had ever sat upon. It was on this beast that He rode into Jerusalem. People welcomed Him with great rejoicing. Then He went into the temple and cast out the moneychangers and those selling doves for offerings. It was during the next day that He cursed the fig tree, thereby showing His authority over even the trees of the field.

Jesus then continued to speak to His disciples in parables teaching how the kingdom was to be rejected. He also taught them of things that were to happen to Him, that is, concerning His death and resurrection, but they did not understand. They asked for a sign of His coming again, and Christ gave many prophetic glimpses of the future when He should come in power and great glory.

He and His disciples then went to the upper room and ate the last supper together. It was at this supper that Christ revealed who should betray Him. He also instituted the communion service and gave them a lesson in humility.

After the supper was over, Jesus and His disciples went out into the garden of Gethsemane. He left the disciples

(Continued on page 42)

BRINGING BACK THE KING

The air is full of party strife,
 And conflicts loud and long;
 Each leader has some new device
 To remedy the wrong.
 Men vainly strive from age to age
 Earth's golden age to bring;
 But tell me why is there never a word
 Of bringing back the King?

The earth is waiting for her King;
 The whole creation cries;
 No other hand but His can bring
 The rest for which she sighs;
 His power alone can right her wrong
 And heal the serpent's sting.
 O Earth, break forth in the glad, new song,
 He's coming back, our King!

—A. B. Simpson.

---

MIRACLES

By George B. Alldridge

(Continued from last week)

THE SUN AND MOON STANDING STILL

THERE has been, and is today, more controversy over this miracle than probably any other recorded in the Scriptures. Many of my brothers, some of them ministers, actually believe that the sun and moon stood still.

According to the narrative the Gibeonites, to save their lives and cities, entered into a league with Joshua. Joshua 9:3-18. The five kings of the Amorites became fearful of the Gibeonites for making a treaty of peace with Joshua. Joshua 10:1-5. The Gibeonites appealed to Joshua to save them from the five kings and their armies.

Joshua was instructed by the Lord to make war upon the Amorites, and was told that they would be delivered into his hand. Joshua 10:8.

“And the Lord discomfited them before Israel, and slew them with a great slaughter at Gibeon, and chased them along the way that goeth up to Beth-horon, and smote them to Azekah, and unto Makkedah. And it came to pass, as they fled from before Israel, and were in the going down to Beth-horon, that the Lord cast down great stones from heaven upon them unto Azekah, and they died: they were more which died of hailstones, than they whom the children of Israel slew with the sword. Then spake Joshua to the Lord in the day when the Lord delivered up the Amorites before the children of Israel, and he said in the sight of Israel, Sun, stand (margin ‘be silent’) thou still upon Gibeon; and thou, Moon, in the valley of Ajalon.” Joshua 10:10-12.

The Amorites were sun worshipers. Joshua knew that if the sun failed to shine, the Amorites would feel that their sun god was angry with them and that it would not be so propitious for winning a victory as it would be if the sun were shining upon them.

Joshua prayed that the sun would “be silent” or dumb. Notice: “Joshua therefore came unto them suddenly, and went up from Gilgal all night.” Joshua 10:9. So it must have been before day break when the attack began.

Does the sun shine during a terrible hail storm such as here recorded? Why were so many Amorites killed by the stones falling from heaven, and why was Israel immune? It says, “As they fled from before Israel.” It was a stampede, and men travel very fast in a stampede. More were killed by the stones than by the sword of Israel because they ran too fast for Israel to overtake them.

Since Joshua had prayed for daylight to be prolonged, why did he make an appeal for the assistance of moonlight? It must have been a full moon, and Joshua desired the light of both sun and moon to be obscured. There is nothing unusual in the phenomenon of a dark day. God could hear and answer Joshua's prayer by clouding the light of the sun and the moon. Besides, even though the sun and the moon actually stood still, the earth kept on revolving, and it would be only a few hours, before Gibeon and Ajalon would have passed their meridian and the sun would, as it does now, pass on to the west.

But, you say, explain, “So the sun stood still in the midst of heaven, and hasted not to go down about a whole day.” Read on, brother. It is quite interesting to find what happened to the five kings who hid in a cave.

Now we are down to verse 27: “And it came to pass at the time of the going down of the sun (or sunset), that Joshua commanded, and they took them down off the trees, and cast them into the cave wherein they had been hid, and laid great stones in the cave's mouth, which remain until this day.”

So upon this day, as upon all other days since God made two great lights—the greater light to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night—the sun went down true to the schedule God had established when He created it and placed it in the heavens.

In conclusion, verse ten gives the key, “And the Lord discomfited them before Israel.” This means, according to Strong, “To make an uproar or agitate greatly.” As the darkness and the storm continued unabated, the Amorites were terrified and believed that their god's, the sun and the moon, no longer fought for them. They, like the prophets of Baal at a later period, realized that their gods had abandoned them. See 1 Kings 18:21-40.

---

THE BIBLE IS PICTURED AS:

1. Mirror—revealing (James 1:25).
2. Lamp—illuminating (Psalm 119:105).
3. Milk—nourishing (Hebrews 5:12-13).
4. Meat—developing (Hebrews 5:13-14).
5. Honey—delighting (Psalm 19:10).
6. Water—cleansing (Ephesians 5:26).
7. Gold—enriching (Psalm 19:10).
8. Fire—refining (Jeremiah 23:29).—Sel.

THE REVELATION OF JOHN

By Lyman Booth

(Continued from last week)

IT is a well known fact that where there are several discordant opinions advanced upon any subject only one can be right, and even that may be wrong. Debates often produce a kind of skepticism in the minds of many, so that they begin to doubt the whole matter. In order to avoid this great care must be exercised to mark strongly the differences between that which is fulfilled and what is not; to draw the line between these as exactly as may be, that the uncertainty as to the grand outlines may not appear to attach to those parts which have already received their accomplishment, but be wholly confined to the other part. Even in respect to those predictions which are supposed to be fulfilling in this, the most wonderful period, peculiar caution is very necessary, because an unexpected turn in the affairs of nations may, after a few years, confute some of the most plausible and confident opinions of the expositors, and weaken the credibility in the minds of men, even of those interpretations which are well founded.

It does not appear that the prophecies being fulfilled in any age should be clearly understood any more than that impartial histories should be written by men of their own time. It cannot be always readily known how the success and advancement of some, and the subversion of other powers may terminate, and until that is known the application of the transactions of our own age to the events predicted in Scripture must be attended with a greater or less degree of uncertainty. Our nearness to the objects tends to magnify them to us, and we are too apt to conclude that such important transactions must have a prominent place in prophecy.

The prophecy in this book resembles a map of the world on a small scale, in which only countries and their capital cities, and perhaps some very remarkable places are given notice, so that they who dwell near cities of considerable size are disappointed in not finding them on the map. Thus the events of a century of any country or even a continent, being told in a few verses, or even in a whole chapter, we shall look in vain for many transactions which may appear to us of very great importance. But they who shall come after us, on reading the history of the country and comparing it with the prophecy, will doubtless perceive a sufficient coincidence, to enable them to say, "Thus it is written and thus it must be". They may find the accomplishment of the prophecy differing much from what the most of us suppose it would be.

This fact is made plain in the case of Israel concerning the coming of their Messiah. They had concluded from prophecy that He would come as a mighty conqueror, but instead He came as a babe. As they were so badly mistaken in their interpretation of prophecy, we may also find the accomplishment of the prophecies in this book differing greatly from our present interpretations.

It is impossible to construct an exact classification of modern interpreters of the Revelation. They are generally placed in three great divisions. The first is the historical or continuous expositors, who teach that the Revelation is a progressive history of the future of the church from the first century till the end of time.

The second division is the praeterist expositors, who hold that the Revelation has been almost altogether fulfilled in the time which has elapsed since it was written; and that the book refers to the triumph of Christianity over Judaism and paganism, signalized in the downfall of Jerusalem and of Rome. The German critics favor this interpretation.

The third class are the Futurist expositors, whose views show a strong opposition against some extravagances of the preceding schools. They believe that the whole book, excepting perhaps the first three chapters, refers principally, if not exclusively, to events which are to come.

There may be objections raised against all of these divisions, but we believe less against the Futurist. My reason for this view is gathered from the reading of verse ten of chapter one. The Apostle says plainly that he was "in the Spirit on the Lord's day." We understand that the Lord's day refers to the millennium, which has not yet arrived. He was simply transported in vision forward at least eighteen hundred years and saw these things concerning which he wrote.

The book is a revelation of Jesus Christ which was given Him by His Father, for the purpose of showing to His servants the things necessary to have done speedily. (Diaglott.) Then Jesus sent and signified it by His angel to his servant John. The term, "to have done speedily", does not carry the idea that it had to be done immediately after the order was given, but when the time for its doing arrived it was to be done speedily. This view is offered as my opinion, not as an absolutely correct interpretation regarding the three schools.

(To be continued)

PROOF

If radio's slim fingers
Can pluck a melody
From night and toss it over
A continent or sea;

If the petaled white notes
Of a violin
Are blown across a mountain
Or a city's din;

If songs, like crimson roses,
Are culled from thin, blue air,
Why should mortals wonder
If God hears prayer?

—Ethel Roming Fuller.

ARE YOU ASHAMED OF JESUS AND HIS WORDS?

By Rufus A. Curtis

"Whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess before my Father."

POSSIBLY, if the terms of discipleship did not exact self-denial, and said nothing about presenting "your bodies a living sacrifice" unto God, and His truth, as "your reasonable service," more people would be willing to march under God's banner, which has been displayed because of the truth. (Matt. 16:24; Gal. 5:26; 6:14; Heb. 6:20; Rom. 12:1; Psa. 60:4.)

"For ye see your calling, brethren, how that not many wise men after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble, are called." 1 Cor. 1:26. It was "the common people" that "heard him gladly." (Mark 12:37.) The plan of salvation is not dependent upon popularity for its success. Deliverance from the deluge was not decided by numbers. (1 Peter 3:20.)

If "the high and lofty One that inhabiteth eternity," "whose years shall have no end," condescends to reason together with frail creatures of earth, whose transient life is compared to "a vapour, that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away", does it not seem like monumental stupidity to be ashamed of Jesus, and the joyful news of life through His name? (Isa. 57:15; Psa. 102:27; Isa. 1:18; 1 Cor. 15:47; James 4:14; John 10:10; 20:31; 1 John 5:11, 12.)

We need not tarry too long over the question as to whether few or many will be saved, or whether any of the rulers or noted personages believed on Him lest while doing so we might incur the gentle reproof, "What is that to thee? follow thou me." (Luke 13:23; John 7:18, 21.) Worthiness or unworthiness will come into the final reckoning, by the Judge of all the earth, who will do right, by extending mercy and abundantly pardoning the wicked man, if he will "forsake his way, and unrighteous man his thoughts," and submissively "return unto the Lord." (Luke 20:35, 36; Acts 13:44-46; Gen. 18:25; Isa. 55:6-9.)

If you would be on the side of final victory, it is imperatively necessary that you should be on the side of truth, even though to attain that position would necessitate your standing alone, forsaken of all men, but not forsaken of the Lord. (John 8:32, 36; Rom. 6:22, 23; 1 Cor. 15:54-57; 2 Tim. 4:16-18.) In the great conflict between truth and error, God calls for decision of character. "Who is on the Lord's side?" is a question of as vital importance today as it was in the days of Moses. (Deut. 32:25, 26.) "How long halt ye between two opinions? if the Lord be God, follow him: but if Baal, then follow him." (1 Kings 18:21; Matt. 6:24; 1 Cor. 10:21.)

Jesus said, "He that is not with me is against me: and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad." (Matt.

12:30.) "Whosoever therefore shall be ashamed of me and of my words in this adulterous and sinful generation, of him also shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he cometh in the glory of his Father with the holy angels." Mark 8:38.

"And now little children, abide in him; that, when he shall appear, we may have confidence, and not be ashamed before him at his coming." 1 John 2:28.

I append the following suggestive thoughts, concerning loyalty to Christ, and the kingdom of God which He preached.

WOULD I? WOULD YOU?

One day in loved Jerusalem,
There rushed a shrieking, maddened crowd
Upon a lowly kneeling form,
Before his God and Savior bowed,
And when with cruel stones they crushed
His beautiful and gentle life,
He prayed the Father to forgive
Their ignorance and raging strife.
This man was Stephen. Lo, a Jew,
Who died for Christ.
Would I? Would you?

See! far upon a lonely isle,
An aged man with snowy locks,
Exiled to labor in the mines,
His only temple wind-swept rocks.
Ah! once he leaned on Jesus' breast,
And gazed with fond adoring eyes
Into that face where love divine
Still beams upon us from the skies.
This man was John beloved, a Jew,
Witness for Christ.
Am I? Are you?

A Galilean fisher stood
Amid a fierce and angry throng,
No tremor spoke of hidden fear,
His face was peaceful, calm, and strong,
And when they nailed him to a cross,
As they nailed his blessed Lord,
He gloried thus to die for Christ,
And counted it a rich reward.
This man was Peter, lo, a Jew,
Who died for Christ.
Would I? Would you?

A captive bound was brought one day
To Nero's judgment seat at Rome;
For Christ he wore the heavy chain;
For Christ he had no wealth nor home;
The noblest martyr Rome could boast
Of all the thousands that she slew,
The great Apostle sent by God
To Gentiles with the message true.
This man was Paul, e'en Paul the Jew,
Who died for Christ.
Would I? Would you?

DEAD AND YET ALIVE

By Samuel E. Haney

"For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God."—Colossians 3:3.

TO THE unspiritual minded person this text should be a paradox—a self-contradictory statement. Logically—to the natural mind—how could a man be dead (lifeless) and yet have his life hid with Christ in God? How absurd! and yet, how well the Spirit simplifies the solution!

We are in fact considering a dual personage, two natures created and controlled at different periods by different spirits—evil and good—one having its affection set on the visible things of this crumbling world, the other enjoying prospectively the invisible things of God's kingdom. Paul admonishes the old and new natures thus: "Lie not one to another, seeing that ye have put off the old man ('old nature', Moffatt) with his deeds; and have put on the new man ('new nature'), which is renewed in knowledge after the image of him that created him."—Col. 3:9, 10. The Revised Version rendering, "For ye died", places the "old man's" occupancy of the body in the past tense, thereby making room for the "new man", or new nature. John discriminates between the old and new man thus: "He who has the Son, has the life; he who has not the Son has not the life." R. V. and Diag. The "old man" (Adamic nature) is entirely ignored by the A. V. thus, "He that hath the Son, hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God, hath not life".—1 John 5:12.

The Apostle in verse 19 clarifies and stresses verse 12, "And we know that we are of God, and the whole world lieth in wickedness ('in the evil one', R. V.)"—reckoned, therefore, by God as dead; and the only way to secure God's recognition and His special blessings is through repentance and a whole-hearted obedience.

We shall note a few texts by Paul bearing on reckoned, or symbolic death. "We that are dead to sin"; "He that is dead is freed from sin"; "If we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with him"; "Reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord"; "Wherefore, my brethren, ye also are become dead to the law by the body of Christ"; "Even when we were dead to sins, hath quickened us together with Christ"; "But she that liveth in pleasure is dead while she liveth". Note concordance.

Every tried and true Christian is well aware that this reckoned dead "old man" (flesh) is not a petrified corpse. Paul keenly realized this (Rom. 7). It has many aliases, and it often tries to assume indefeasible prerogatives, self being its chief nom de plume. Isaiah rips off the mask: "But we are all as an unclean thing, and all our righteousnesses are as filthy rags; and we all do fade as a leaf; and our iniquities, like the wind, have taken us away" (64:6).

Let us now go to a greater than Paul; the greatest of all teachers of all time, whose word is like "the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not". Now, inasmuch as "God is no respecter of persons" (Acts 10:34) Jesus' remarks here to Nicodemus (John 3:1-12) apply to every person born of woman, regardless of time; and also, God makes no distinction between Jew and Gentile. In verse two we are assured that Nicodemus recognized Jesus as "a teacher come from God". And everyone who has the same candid conception of the Son of God places himself in the shoes, so to speak, of this Pharisee, a ruler of the Jews.

Theologians all down the age have tried to invalidate Jesus' statements to Nicodemus in verse three. But being truth in the person of the Son of God, they have a Gibraltar anchorage: "Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again (from above, margin), he cannot see the kingdom of God." The same is true of verse five: "Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God". These divine statements are fiat, ex cathedra, not subject to discount.

"Born of water" relates to baptism (immersion). Paul confirms this by his reference to God's immersion of His typical people, Israel, into Moses (1 Cor. 10:1, 2), "Moreover, brethren, I would not that ye should be ignorant, how that all our fathers were under the cloud, and all passed through the sea; and were all baptized ('immersed', Diag.) unto ('into', Diag) Moses in the cloud ('by the cloud', Moffatt) and in the sea". The water being banked up on either side, they were immersed by the great spray; doubtless all were thoroughly drenched. Antitypes are always more significant than the types, hence the emphasis "except" in verses three and five.

It is by baptism that the "old man"—Adamic nature—is both symbolically put to death and buried. The coming up from the watery grave symbolizes our resurrection. The whole procedure is a "likeness", being computed. Paul explains, "Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death? Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life. For if we have been planted in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection"—Romans 6:3, 5. This being God's method, it is the only way of ultimate success over the world, the flesh, and the devil.

If the above instructions of Jesus and Paul are intelligently, sincerely, and whole-heartedly adhered to the only sure, quick, and easy way of subjugating the "old man"—the flesh—will have been accomplished, thereby avoiding the spirit of necromancy and enchantment that is so prevalent in the religious world these days. The manifest effect of such a spirit is becoming more and more pronounced by the religious and secular world's tendency to remove the Christian religion further and further from practical results, therefore causing the impression that what religion needs is a little more applied Christianity that man, though he was "shapen in iniquity, and in sin conceived", may know that by accepting Jesus Christ as his Savior he can

(Continued on page 42)

THE COMING REIGN

O, we dream of a day that is nearing,
 A day of sweet promise and trust,
 When the captive and long-trodden city
 Of Zion shall wake from the dust;
 When Salem in beautiful garments
 Shall shake off her burden of pain,
 And the north and the south without money
 Shall loosen her captives again;

When the hoped for Messiah of Ages
 Shall bring the bright mansions adown,
 And shall take a gift from the Father,
 Of earth's mighty kingdoms the crown;
 When the fierce haughty rulers of nations
 To him in submission shall bow,
 And the cruel, cold steel of the warrior,
 Be changed for the hook and the plow;

When the saints in their raiment of glory,
 Shall sit with the Son on His throne,
 And shall make to all nations and kindreds
 The blessing of Abraham known;
 When the band of the harpers shall praise Him
 With song that none other may learn,
 And the palm-bearing ones, give their service
 Wherever His footsteps may turn.

O, we dream of a day that is nearing,
 A day of sweet promise and trust,
 When the earth in her vestments of beauty,
 Shall be the bright home of the just;
 When forgotten the day of our trouble,
 The tears shall be wiped from our face,
 And the sorrow and crying and anguish
 Have never in Eden a place.

—S. Roxana Wince.

BLESSINGS FOR TITHING

PONDER these words: "There is that scattereth and yet increaseth; and there is that withholdeth more than is meet, but tendeth to poverty;" or this: "Honour the Lord with thy substance and with the firstfruits of all thine increase; so shall thy barns be filled with plenty," or this, "Seek first the kingdom of God . . . and all these things shall be added unto you."

Once more, our Savior said, "Give, and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down, and shaken together, and running over, shall men give into your bosom." In this passage, there is the unmistakable promise of material blessing to those who honor the Lord with their substance. The truth is, however, that the material and spiritual blessings are so interwoven with each other that it is difficult to separate them and unnecessary to do so.—Sel.

RECONCILIATION

By John Denchfield

DR. BULLINGER, commenting in the Companion Bible on the word, reconciliation, says, "The word reconcile, which our translators adopted from the Vulgate, is simply the transliteration of the Latin reconcilio, to bring together again, to unite or re-unite."

Let us use an illustration in order to gain a clearer insight into the proper meaning of the Greek word. You are a land owner, and I a tenant on one of your farms. You have certain rules and regulations which, when I began work with you, I agreed to observe. All work proceeds nicely until one sad day I, knowingly and willingly, violate your regulations. I consequently lose my position with you; but you would like to have me come back. Certain steps are taken, but they are not sufficient to mend the break between us. Finally, your son, through a supreme effort and under your direction, succeeds in bridging the gap. I am reconciled to you, reunited, re-connected with you. Again work proceeds as it did formerly.

God created Adam, the first man. He placed him in Eden and gave him work to do. Adam worked faithfully until one day the serpent, Satan, introduced himself upon the scene, endeavoring to deceive Adam into disobeying God. The subtlety of the serpent was too much for Adam. He yielded to temptation, pitifully disobeying his Creator. God had said, "In the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die."

The penalty of death came upon Adam and upon all mankind after him. He became separated, estranged from God. But God loved man and did not want him to remain separated as he then was. He prepared a great plan whereby man might be once again reconciled to Him.

God ordained a tabernacle service for the Israelites, His chosen people, which, He tells us, "are the figures of the true". According to the old tabernacle service, the High Priest took the blood of the sacrifices into the presence of God in the holiest place with which he atoned for the sins of his people. This, however, was not reconciliation; it was but a type of that true reconciliation which was to be effected.

Christ, the Son of God, was born into the world. He lived a life of obedient service to God, the Father. He suffered untold agony in Gethsemane and on the cross that He might be the means of reconciling man to God. He died; by the power of God He was raised again, and entered into the holiest place by His own blood with which He made reconciliation for you and me. We read in Hebrews 9:24: "For Christ is not entered into the holy places made with hands, which are figures of the true: but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us." And again, verse 26, "But now once in the end of the world hath he appeared to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself."

THESE DO NOT CHANGE

By G. Eldred Marsh

"Now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; but the greatest of these is love."—1 Corinthians 13:13.

CAUGHT in the current of events ourselves, carried onward with breath-taking rapidity by the irresistible force of circumstance, we do not grasp the magnitude and the meaning of the changes that are occurring about us. We are a part of it. We are contributing to the transitory and illusive happenings ourselves, and we have no occasion, no opportunity to pause on the brink of the River of Time to study the perplexing situation thoughtfully.

It is only when we are whirled into an eddy for a moment that we turn to each other and say, "Why, these things have almost all happened in my lifetime!" And then we are swept on again into the resistless current of modern life.

Everything we know and see and have and are is subject to this same law of ceaseless change. Nothing seems to be permanent, nothing final. We are always wondering what is going to happen next. And when it does happen, it is generally the unexpected. However startling and revolutionary its nature may be, it is quickly swept aside by some newer development of equal strangeness.

And thus the years of our lives go by!

The prophet Daniel, having finished the message he had received of God, was commanded to "shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time of the end: many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased."—Daniel 12:4.

This prediction applies with remarkable accuracy to the days in which we live. Never has there been so much "running to and fro" in every sense of the term as there is today. It is a development of the "last days." It is a characteristic tendency of the "time of the end."

Iconoclasm prevails: the old temples are being torn down; the old altars are being razed; the old gods of the world are being, one by one, overturned and destroyed. In science, in politics, in society, in religion—everywhere these tremendous changes are constantly occurring. We stretch forth our hands and grasp a supposed principle of nature itself, but in a moment it is snatched from our fingers by some "advanced" student or philosopher, and we are made to see that it was false.

It is confusing, disturbing, and altogether distressful to be unable to say of anything, "This, at least, is permanent!" We cannot stand still; we cannot rest. Pressed onward by those around us, we are compelled to change with them.

But in the midst of all of this uncertainty and doubt, in the midst of these shifting scenes indicative of growth, perhaps of improvement, we find certain great elements of bedrock truth that absolutely nothing can move. It is of those that I desire to write at this time.

Let us begin with ourselves. Regardless of the sophistry of the metaphysician as to the unreality of the material, we know that we live; we know that we are. By no stretch of the imagination can we believe that any future discoveries of science will be able to destroy that fact. With all of the changes that occur and can occur, that at least remains unchanged. We exist as individuals.

But what is existence? Of what is it composed? What goes into its makeup? In other words, what are the necessary and permanent elements in human nature? the elements that make us men and women?

The changes to which I have referred are not so much in us, as they are around us. We remain unchanged. The style of our clothes changes almost with the changes of the moon. The contentious doctors, with their vitamins A, B, C, and D, and with their learned disputations about calories, are ordering constantly changing systems of diets for us. The dealers in motor cars are always inviting us to observe the "improvements" they have added to their new models.

But with all of these changes in "style" and "diet" and "wheelbase" through which we are passing, the gauntlet of change through which we are being driven by circumstance, we remain about the same. The elements of character that make us men and women are not affected by the riot and confusion of modern life.

The changes that have taken place have mostly been outside of the real man. They have been external rather than internal; they have been material rather than moral, functional rather than organic. The moral structure of the world has been affected but little by these outward evolutionary phenomena.

The primary needs and the primary emotions of men have been the same throughout the ages. With all the changes the world has experienced, with all of the improvements that have been made, people come into the world in the same way they did a thousand years ago. They live about the same allotment of years, and then they die exactly as their fathers died before them. Invention and science and discovery of whatever nature has not changed the basic facts of life.

It is with those basic facts that our text has to do. "Faith, hope, and love: these three," like life itself, are abiding principles; they are eternal principles. Without them, life would lose its meaning and its appeal; for they are the materials of which life is made.

Paul speaks in his familiar argument of certain changes that may take place, and assures us that such changes cannot affect these three elements of truth. "Whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away."—1 Cor. 13:8.

That is as near perfection as we may hope to come in this present life. We never graduate from the school of experience. We are ever learning some new thing; we are always acquiring some new fact. The new things crowd out the old; they take the place of the old. As the new ideas come to us, we throw the old ideas into the scrap heap of useless plunder. We have no further use for them.

But here are three things, three splendid ideas, which can never be crowded out; for they are a part of man himself. It would be like plucking his heart from his bosom to seek to take them from him.

No matter how many new things we may learn, we shall still exercise the function of faith. No matter how many new things we are given to enjoy, we shall still hope for something better in the future. No matter how many new things we come to cherish, no matter how many new sensations we may experience, love will continue to be the deepest and most precious emotion of our hearts. For "now abideth faith, hope, love, these three: but the greatest of these is love."

---

DEAD AND YET ALIVE

---

(Continued from page 39)

avoid being a sinner by choice.

On the other hand, an indifference toward divine instructions makes the battle for eternal life appear insurmountable by increasing the difficulty of keeping the "old man" dead: a process of dying by inches. Jude says, "Snatch some from the fire, and have mercy on the waverers, trembling as you touch them, with loathing for the garment which the flesh has stained" (22, 23, Moffatt).

There are two classes of Christians these days who are typical of two historical people's characteristics, namely, Mrs. Lot and Paul. Mrs. Lot was warned not to look behind her "lest thou be consumed". Gen. 19:17. There are many such these days, whose heart and mind's eye are being enhanced by misplaced love of the things and customs of this sin-cursed world that is seething with moral putrefaction, and whose horrible desolation is very imminent. The warning to the just people of the plain was, "Escape for your life"! And this warning is being repeated today: "Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues".—Rev. 18:4.

But let us imitate Paul who gave no thought of "those things" behind him. "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus".—Philippians 3:13, 14.

David and Paul remind us: "For he is our God; and we are the people of his pasture, and the sheep of his hand. To day (during the Christian era) if ye hear his voice (recognize Him as did Nicodemus) harden not your hearts, as in the provocation ('contention,' margin), and as in the day of temptation in the wilderness" (Psa. 95:7, 8; Heb. 3)—a type of the Christian's "wilderness" of sin. "For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God".

---

"I BELIEVE that the Bible is to be understood in the plain and obvious meaning of its passages; for I cannot persuade myself that a book intended for the instruction and conversion of the whole world should cover its true meaning in any such mystery and doubt that none but critics and philosophers can discover it."—Daniel Webster.

---

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ST. MATTHEW

---

(Continued from page 35)

there and went apart from them to pray. Even Christ, though He was the Son of God, needed to pray to receive strength from the Father. He prayed now for strength to endure the coming trials. He returned to the disciples, and while he was yet speaking with them, Judas came with the soldiers and the multitude and betrayed the Christ into their hands. He was then taken before the high priests and the governors to be tried.

Many false accusations were brought against Christ, but no true witness could be found to testify against Him. He was taken before Pilate, the Roman governor, and Pilate said he could find no fault with Him and that He was a just man. But the Jews wanted to kill Him, and for fear of the crowd Pilate released Him to be crucified. Then after much abuse and mock servitude, they took Jesus and crucified Him.

When the Savior died there was a great earthquake, and even some of the dead were resurrected. The veil of the temple was rent from top to bottom, revealing the Holy of Holies. Christ had passed through the veil of death and had made the supreme sacrifice, and so there was no more need for the holy place in which to make sacrifices.

Joseph of Arimathaea took the body of Jesus and wrapped it in spices and a linen cloth and laid it in a new tomb. And near the morning of the first day of the week there was a great earthquake, and an angel from heaven came and rolled away the stone, and Christ was raised to be the Firstfruits from the dead.

Many saw Him after His resurrection, and He went into Galilee to be with His disciples. He spoke to them there and gave them that great commission to go and teach all nations, baptizing them, and He said, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." What a wonderful promise for those who take this great commission for their life work!

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 124 N. Parkside Ave., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois

For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"NOT WALKING IN CRAFTINESS OR HANDLING THE WORD OF GOD DECEITFULLY, BUT BY THE MANIFESTATION OF TRUTH, COMMENDING OURSELVES TO EVERY ONE'S CONSCIENCE IN THE SIGHT OF GOD."

TESTIFYING FOR THE WORD OF GOD

PRESENT day education has brought forth a class of people who are apt to "stump" us when we try to prove that the Bible is the inspired Word of God. We have reached a time when only a few of our more learned and convincing scholars are able to cope with the situation.

We are unable to convince others that the Bible is without error or misstatement in its moral and spiritual teaching and as a record of historic facts, and so they go away in a scoffing mood, and the very cause of truth and righteousness which we are supposed to defend goes down in shameful defeat.

Have we accomplished anything? Does this same party reconsider at some future time, thinking that perhaps he was wrong? Indeed not!

Youth of today, unable to harmonize the conflicting thoughts which partisans claim can be proved by Scripture, are inclined to leave it all as unreliable. They point out that "the Roman Catholic finds in the Bible the primacy of Peter and the supremacy of the church. The Protestant finds in it the strongest refutation of the whole method and character of the priesthood." The Baptist and the Presbyterian are both convinced that they are right concerning baptism. The Kaiser found in the Bible the Lord of Hosts, leading his army to battle for imperialism, while the Quaker declares that "they who take the sword shall perish by the sword." The Stern Calvinist and the Universalist each find hundreds of texts in support of his view of salvation. The Mormon bolsters up his polygamy with certain picked phrases from the Bible, while the Shaker does likewise in advocating celibacy.

Is it any wonder that some feel inclined to reject the Bible entirely? Let us not dwell quite so strongly upon dogma with those who are so precariously balanced between acceptance and rejection of the Scriptures.

Suppose we start from another angle. Let us forget for a time the question of whether or not the narratives are literal and exact records of sober historical fact or that all the scientific references and conceptions contained therein are in agreement with the well established conclusions of modern knowledge. It will be time enough to discuss the Bible from this side when we can prove every assertion that we make. Until then we do more harm than good.

There is a more vital question, however, concerning which every child of God should be able to speak boldly and convincingly. Using our own lives as an example, we can show how the terse vigor of the moral statement of the Bible, the depth of its spiritual insight, its sweep of vision, that certain divine something which it contains lifts us out of our lower selves into our real selves, making our lives more noble and self sacrificing.

The teachings of the Bible afford us those conceptions of God, of man, of destiny which reason and conscience may accept as valid beyond any other competing conceptions; they afford us helpful guidance when we would think upon the obligations and high privileges of human life at its best. The Bible proves itself "a lamp unto our feet and a light unto our path" by those who are seeking to walk in those ways of thought, feeling and purpose which tend upward; it makes men wise unto salvation and furnishes them thoroughly for all good work.

When we can prove that the Bible can do all this in satisfying measure, then one must admit that its teachings are true to life, true to our deepest needs, true to our highest aspirations, true in a sense that they get us where we want to go.

Once one has accepted the Bible as a guide to better living and higher ideals, even though he may not concede its infallibility and historic value, we have accomplished something. As he learns to love and use it as such he will gradually come to that knowledge which only familiarity with those pages can bring to one—that it is surely the inspired Word of God. Then studying to show himself approved unto God he will, by prayer and with God's help, rightly divide the Word of truth.

NEW JUNIOR BOOK

The new junior Berean book, "The Hebrew People," is now ready for distribution. Send your order to National Berean Society, Oregon, Illinois.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

Ephesus, Galatia, Asia Minor,
53 A. D.

from heaven, even the Son of man which is in heaven."—
John 3:13.

Dear Galatians:

Brethren, help one another in a loving way. You have been baptized into Christ, so that you are now under the law of Christ. This law may be expressed in one word—Love. "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

If you are real Christians, you will naturally keep the laws of the land. But if you hurt one another, and say unkind things to one another or about others, you will be in a dangerous position.

Do not try to live like the "world". Many of the world live unclean lives, hating one another, fighting, killing, drinking. They envy one another, and try to "outdo" one another. Many give themselves entirely to selfish pleasures, and forget all about God. Thus they cannot inherit the kingdom of God.

These people are not walking after the Spirit, or in God's way. The fruit of God's way is love which harms no one, joy in making others happy, peace that comes from doing right, patience for things to work out God's way, gentleness, goodness, and faith in God and His promises.

Meekness and temperance are also fruits of the Spirit—and there is no law against them. By temperance you must live quietly, and not go to extremes in work or play. You must not eat or drink anything that will hurt your body or mind.

"If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit."

"Brethren, the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit." Amen.

Paul.

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Read Junior Class in the Quarterly.
2. Later paste it into your scrap book.
3. Make a list of "fruits of the Spirit."
4. Find where Jesus gave this law of love in Matt. 22.
5. Read Romans 13:1-14.

NATURE QUESTION

24. Deborah sat under a palm tree while judging Israel. Judges 4:5.

25. What insect does Solomon use as an example of industry?

WE BELIEVE that the dead are unconscious—"And no man hath ascended up to heaven, but he that came down

TODAY IS THE DAY

Today is the day to live,
For yesterday's passed away.
So live every minute
For all that is in it;
You're sure at least of today.

Today is the day to smile;
Let yesterday's sorrow lie.
Be brave and courageous,
For smiles are contagious;
You need to be happy—try.

Today is the day to work,
The task that is set for each one.
Don't wait, for tomorrow,
From future to borrow
May leave your life's work undone.

Today's the day to forgive;
Cast hatred and wrath away.
For some day don't wait,
It may be too late;
Just clean off the slate today.

—F. W. Workman.

A NEW COAT GETS INTO TROUBLE

Mark wore his new sweater one day. When the other boys saw it, each thought, "Wish I had a sweater like that!" And the more they saw it, the more they wanted it. And they said, "We don't want to play with Mark."

Now that made Mark feel very sad. He did not know what to do. "I'll get even with you some day," he said.

When he got home he was so angry that Grandma said, "I want to tell you some more about Joseph. He was proud of his new coat, too. But his brothers were very unkind to him. 'We wish we had a coat like yours,' they said. And the more they saw Joseph's coat, the more they wanted it. Then they made fun of Joseph's coat to make him angry. Poor Joseph did not know what to do.

"One day his brothers sold Joseph to some men who took him off into a far country called Egypt. Joseph was very lonesome for his father.

"One day a strange thing happened to all of them. But that is in our next story."

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 5. — November 1, 1931

WORLD'S TEMPERANCE SUNDAY

Galatians 5:13-26; Romans 13:1-14

Devotional Reading: Romans 14:13-21

GOLDEN TEXT

And be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the Spirit. — Ephesians 5:18.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: Reasons for Total Abstinence.

Basic Truth: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."—Gal. 6:7.

I. For the Christian. First, because he that maintains liberty in Christ does so by ever bringing forth the fruits of the spirit. He who bears such fruit will automatically love his neighbor as himself. V. 14. Such love of service and helpfulness will respect and observe every God-honoring law. The law of the land requires total abstinence; therefore, were liquor not even harmful to one's being, the Christian in the liberty of Christ must respect the law against its use.

It is undeniable that present day intoxicating liquor is injurious to physical well being. It is undeniable that its use is a response to the lust of the flesh. Scripture is positive that habitual yielding to the lust of the flesh forbids the abiding presence of God's spirit.

He who serves flesh lust does so at the expense of God's spirit. No individual, as a pleasure of the taste, ever partook of injurious intoxicants under the direction and leading of God's spirit. God's spirit never yet directed the smoking of one cigarette.

II. For the Non-Christian. Because every patriot is loyal to the laws of his country. Disloyalty is traitorism. To break the law merely because numbers dislike it, is to undermine, weaken, and eventually overthrow the country built upon that law.

Because intoxicants destroy individual ability and longevity, rob the home family of its rights, deprive children of their preparation for livelihood and despoil the nation of its prosperity.

Because propaganda for the increased use of liquor is put forth only by those who seek to benefit financially at the expense of him who purchases, with full knowledge that the purchaser does not get beneficial value received for his money.

The manufacturer seeks only a profit; the bootlegger seeks only a profit; the advertising and sustaining press seeks only a profit; the friendly politician seeks only a profit; the defending legalist seeks only a profit: all look to the purchaser to pay all profits. Apparently, all seek to live by injuring others. Hit, grab, and run, is the "racket". The user is the "hit" party.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

Temperance is one of the fruits of the spirit. Gal. 5:23. It is a vital and necessary part of Christian growth. 2 Peter 1:6. It is not limited to a few things, but in striving for the mastery, we must be "temperate in all things." 1 Cor. 9:25.

We must be temperate in our speech. "Yea, yea" and "nay, nay". Matt. 5:37.

Our communications must not be corrupt. Eph. 4:29.

Idle words should be restrained. Matt. 12:36, 37.

We should never speak evil of another. Titus 3:2.

Christian temperance leads to virtue and purity. The worth of these cannot be computed in dollars and cents. Prov. 31:10. Purity can never be attained unless the individual pursues temperance.

Some very interesting class discussion can be had by discussing some of the things in which the church of today needs to be temperate. Do you think that professing Christians of the present day are tending towards intemperance? Has the eighteenth amendment to the constitution aided in bringing about temperance as far as drinking is concerned, or has it created intemperance? Discuss what part Christian people who believe in temperance and are temperate should take in molding public opinion along the lines of temperance reforms and the securing of legislation to this end. Do laws that prohibit that which is wrong create intemperate conditions?—C. E. R.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

"And be not drunk with wine, by which comes debauchery; but be filled with spirit."—Ephesians 5:18, Diag.

Our text gives us two extreme conditions—the one so low that thinking men and women never stoop to that condition; the other so high that it is living close to the Father Himself, and for Him, and working with the Son and doing His bidding.

The one condition brings nothing but misery, poverty, loss of self respect and loss of everything else that is good. The other condition brings love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance. Take your choice and reap the results.

The wise man said, "Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth his colour in the cup, when it moveth itself aright. At the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder."—Prov. 23:31, 32. This of course means death, but being filled with spirit will result in life everlasting.—L. A. R.

SENIOR AND ADULT CLASSES

Reasons for Total Abstinence

There are a number of reasons why a Christian must be a total abstainer of strong drink.

(1) The law of our land forbids its use, and Christians are commanded to obey the laws of the land. See Romans 13:1-4. To the earnest, zealous, God-fearing Christian this one command is all-sufficient. (2) Drunkenness is forbidden to the children of God. See Romans 13:13. (3) No drunkard can inherit the kingdom of God. See Galatians 5:19-21; 1 Corinthians 6:10. (4) Drunkenness will keep a person from being ready for Christ's coming. Read Luke 21:34. (5) We are not to commune with a drunkard. Read 1 Corinthians 5:11.

The question is often asked, "Is there any harm in drinking a little if one doesn't get drunk?" There are three very good reasons why Christians should forego even this. (1) The law of the land forbids even that except as medicine. (2) One cannot take even an occasional drink without the danger of acquiring the habit. (3) We must live to be an example unto others. We might take an occasional glass and still not sin. But some weaker brother might try the same and be overcome. Paul said it was permissible for him to eat meat offered to idols because he, knowing idols were nothing, ate and blessed God. But because weaker brothers ate and blessed the idol, thereby sinning, Paul said he would eat no meat. If we mislead a brother we are not a "living epistle," but we are the "law of sin and death" to him.

—H. A. S.

INTERMEDIATE CLASS

Topic: Reasons for Total Abstinence.

This Sunday we have what is called the World's Temperance Lesson, and all over the world where the international lessons are being studied, Sunday Schools are studying about temperance. What does temperance mean? Does it refer only to strong drink? I'm sure you'll all agree that it includes many more things. First of all it means leaving entirely alone things like alcohol and tobacco and drugs that injure body and brain. Then it means using in moderation the things that are good for the body, such as food, exercise, and recreation, but which same things are harmful if taken in too large quantities.

We see on every hand people who are of no use to themselves nor to the world, because of bad habits, and we shudder when we think of what it would mean to our future if we followed in their steps. But we do not see so clearly what it means to overeat, overwork, or overplay. These things will harm the body just as surely as the more obvious ones, though more slowly.

Never forget that we are all our brothers' keepers.—M. G.

DOINGS AMONG THE CHURCHES

BIBLE TRAINING CLASS NEWS

The Bible Training Class assembled for its first business meeting on Oct. 5th. The following officers were elected:— Cecil Smead, Pres.; Clarence Lapp, Vice Pres.; Ida Lapp, Secretary; Dorothy Krogh, Treas.

The class has now been in session two weeks. The lessons are being greatly enjoyed by all, and much good is being received therefrom.

We of the Training Class wish to take this opportunity to thank all the dear brothers and sisters of the faith, who have contributed so liberally of their fruits and vegetables to help us through the winter. We feel very grateful to you, one and all, for the bountiful donations and as we say "Thanks" most sincerely, we also pray, "May the Lord bless you abundantly and keep you until He shall come."

The Bible Training Class,
Ida Lapp, Secretary.

RALLY DAY AT BLAIR

The Church of God at Blair held its Rally Day on Sept. 27. The program of the day was as follows: Sunday School at 10 a. m.; a short program by the children given at 10:45; sermon by Bro. Richard LeCrone at 11:00. A basket dinner at noon was held at the home of Bro. Harvey Krogh. A sermon was given by Sister Lucille LeCrone at 2:30; Berean class at 7 o'clock and sermon by Bro. Almus Adams of Omaha at 8:00. A good attendance was present at all services and much benefit was derived.

ROCKFORD'S RALLY

Our Rally Day (Oct. 11.), although not attended by as many as we had expected, was, nevertheless, very inspiring and encouraging. The attendance at Sunday school was 49, which is one of the largest we have ever had, and our church attendance was also good—one hundred percent in so far as our own membership is concerned, with a few extra ones. The special musical numbers were much appreciated as was also Bro. Thayer's sermon on "God's Great Jubilee." We expect to carry our Rally Day activities throughout the year and hope to show a gain next Rally Day, both in numbers and spirituality.

In our Berean Class we are having some very interesting and helpful studies from Revelation. We were glad to have Bro. and Sr. Marsh and Bro. and Sr. Paul Johnson and little daughter from Oregon with us on Oct. 16.

Our Dorcas Society is now busy making little garments for Sr. Sanford to use in aiding the needy ones.

We are in receipt of a post card announcing the Rally Day of the Los Angeles Church, which has been set for November 1st. They are planning on several special features, which will add to the interest and value of the services. We pray God's richest blessings on their efforts.

A brief report of Cleveland's Rally Day is at hand, stating that their attendance at Sunday school was 212; and also that their collection on that day amounted to $20.38, which is to be the nucleus of a building fund. That is fine! But we are wondering what you are going to build, Cleveland, a Sunday school addition to your beautiful little church?

INSTALLATION SERVICES

On Sunday morning, October 11, an impressive service was conducted by Bro. Austin, assisted by Dr. Bickenback, retired minister of the Presbyterian Church, when Bro. Marsh was installed as pastor of the church body at Oregon, Ill. Beautiful music added greatly to the services. Dr. Bickenback spoke very fittingly on behalf of the ministerial body of Oregon, welcoming Bro. Marsh into its midst, and portraying some of the duties and opportunities of a minister, with special reference to his position before the citizens of the town in which his church is located. Bro. Austin then commended to the care and keeping of Bro. Marsh, the brotherhood of which he has been pastor during nine and one-half years, pointing him to the joys as well as the sacrifices in the life of a consecrated and earnest shepherd of a flock.

The following was then read and presented to Bro. Marsh by Bro. B. H. Carpenter:

"In behalf of the Oregon Church of God, we, the undersigned Elders thereof, do hereby appoint you, G. Eldred Marsh, to its Pastor.

"As such Pastor, you are requested to serve in all that is to be biblically understood by the word, including that of being, as chief Elder, Teacher, and Advisor in matters spiritual, Leader and Overseer of all branches and departments of our church work, and to so outline and direct our church activities as to best provide for our cooperation therein with a view to our best and greatest advancement in Christian development.

B. H. Carpenter
F. H. Knodle
Glenn M. Birkey
Elders

Dated this October 11, 1931.

GROWTH AT BRUSH CREEK

In addition to the three new members recently reported, four others were baptized on Sunday, October 11th. With the addition of these seven new members the church is much encouraged. The names and addresses follow: Mr. Ralph Klepinger, Brookville; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kipp, Troy; Mrs. Zelma Weaver, Troy; Emory, Laurel, and Olevia Macy, Troy. The first four are married people, and the last three are brothers and a sister of high school age.

A service extending the right hand of fellowship to these newly baptized members will be given on Sunday morning, October 18th, after which the Lord's supper will be held in memory of the Savior's death.

We are indeed glad to welcome into our number these new members, yet we know there are many others that we should yet enlist in the Master's service, and we pray that the spirit of God may so lead that these too may come to a saving knowledge of the Lord.

Sydney E. Magaw, Pastor.

KENNEDALE, TEXAS

Dear Brethren and Sisters in Christ: Our oldest daughter Annie Lee was operated on yesterday, Oct. 9, and is very low. Possibly you would like to write her some encouraging word. May we have an interest in your prayers? Write her at the above address and she will get it.

Yours in the Christ,
Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Drinkard.

FALL MEETING AT NIAGARA FALLS

Just as we were going to press the following telegram was received: "Annual Fall Meeting to be held at the Falls Church, November 1st. Full program in next issue.

"C. E. Randall."

We have just received an announcement of the marriage of Bro. E. W. Moses of Houston, Texas, to Mrs. Marie Braum, which occurred at that city on Oct. 10. We extend to Bro. Moses and bride our heartiest felicitations.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

Our church group is happy over the improvement in health of Sr. Craig, and that also at last word Sr. McCroden was better. Many prayers have arisen for these and others in poor health.

At present we are preparing for Anniversary Sunday, Oct. 25, and for the series of meetings to follow. A question box each night will be among the features which we trust will be of interest and profit.

A cordial invitation is extended all who can find it possible to attend our church.

F. E. Siple, Pastor.

CONTRIBUTIONS RECEIVED

The following have contributed since last issue to the Dollar-a-Month Club and to the Training Class or other N. B. I. activities. We know that the Lord's blessings will be upon them for any sacrifice which they may have made for the furtherance of His cause:

Mrs. A. P. Leamon; Lillian S. Railton; Mrs. W. L. Robbins and daughters, Opal and Dollic Mae; Mrs. M. A. Woodward; Erton Story; Lottie E. Young; Mrs. C. W. Cropp; Mrs. Carrie E. Hilsabeck; Lydia Railsback; Ida F. Orem; Seraphine E. Cleek; Ella M. Siple; Albert Siple; Rachie Alexander; Fannie LeCrone; A. C. Boyer; Emilie R. Boyer; Mrs. M. Shea; Ellison Shea; Mrs. Sarah Emms; Mr. and Mrs. M. Fettes; Leona Lathrop; Mrs. Eva L. Page; Mrs. Julia Ordnung; Elizabeth Ordnung; Conrad Dickel; Alice L. Beavers; Mrs. G. M. Siple; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hanson.

HERALD RECEIPTS

Alta King; Alice L. Beavers; Dora Haggard; Samuel E. Haney; Ruth M. Bauserman; Mrs. Harriet Reed; A. C. Boyer; Mrs. Jesse Cross; Mrs. Ida F. Orem; Lottie E. Young; Mrs. Carrie E. Hilsabeck; Amos Osborn; Lillian S. Railton; Mrs. Austin Oliver; Luella Caples; Russell Harmon; Mrs. A. P. Leamon; Mrs. W. H. Brown; Mrs. A. R. Scott.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

Published by

National Bible Institution

Oregon, Illinois

Subscription Rates.—51 issues per annum, $2.00; 6 months, $1.00; 3 months, 50 cents. Sample copy, Free.

Receipts.—The change of date on your address label is your receipt. If date is not changed in two weeks after payment of subscription, please notify this office.

Change of Address.—When ordering change of address be sure to send us both old and new addresses,

MANY SHEEP BUT ONE SHEPHERD

“VERILY, verily, I say unto you, He that entereth not by the door into the sheep fold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber”—climbing quietly over the wall or fence as far away from the door as possible, to avoid notice. The church of God is a fold and Christ is the Door through which alone there is access into the fold. To attempt an entrance by some other method is to rob Christ of His honest rights.

“But he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep.” He comes with confidence, knowing that he has a rightful claim upon every human soul, and can approach us with confident authority.

“To him the porter openeth”. The shepherds go home at night to sleep, leaving their respective flocks in the one fold in the care of the porter, who becomes for the night the shepherd of all the sheep. The watchman will not open the gates on any pretext whatever to anyone whose voice he does not recognize as that of one who has a right to enter.

“And the sheep hear his voice: and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out.” A shepherd soon comes to know each sheep in his flock, though all the sheep look alike to a stranger. In the East every sheep has a name, and responds at once when the shepherd calls its name. It is just in proportion as men come to know and to love one another that they call each other by their Christian names. The love of Christ for His people is witnessed to in the Christian names we bear.

“When he putteth forth his own sheep, he goeth before them, and the sheep follow him: for they know his voice.” The Eastern shepherd does not drive his sheep before him, as our shepherds do, but walks before them, and they follow eagerly and anxiously, fearing that he may escape them, leaving them behind. The sheep know their shepherd by gestures, and his clothing, but his voice is the real bond, the unmistakable thing.

If we give our hearts completely to be possessed by and directed by our Savior, He is able to take the harshest, coldest-voiced man or woman among us, and infuse into that voice something of the divine tenderness and sympathy of His own heavenly voice of love, and give to us the same magic power to draw men and women away from sin.

“And a stranger will they not follow, but will flee from him; for they know not the voice of strangers.” It is told of a Scottish traveler that, meeting under the walls of Jerusalem a shepherd bringing home his flock, he changed clothes with him, and, thus disguised, began to call the sheep. They remained motionless. Then the true shepherd raised his voice, and they all hastened to him, in spite of his strange garments.

“I am the good shepherd: the shepherd giveth his life for the sheep.” The Greek word translated “good” means more than that; it also signifies “noble,” “excellent,” “beautiful,” “ideal.” Our Lord sums up all that man could desire in a shepherd of souls. Christ was “slain from the foundation of the world.”

In our country shepherds are in no danger, but Christ’s hearers knew well the hazards of the shepherd’s calling, the constant peril from wild beasts and from the attacks of desperate men bent on robbery. It was no calm and peaceful service that Christ undertook as He became our Good Shepherd, but a work that required the surrender of His life, under the most terrible conditions that could be imagined. All this was gladly faced by our Shepherd.

A true shepherd of souls is so close to Christ that he feels that every one for whom Christ died is his by rights, because that person is Christ’s by rights. This deep love of souls is characteristic of every genuine Christian worker on the mission fields, in the churches, in the Sunday school and young people’s societies and the home.

Every Christian also has sheep to care for. All who are in trouble become to us the expression of Christ’s direct appeal.—Messiah’s Advocate.

---

TO EVANGELISTS, PASTORS, AND TEACHERS

Compiled by D. G. Harvey

“BELOVED, when I gave diligence to write unto you of the common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you that ye should earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints.” Jude 3. “But watch thou in all things, endure afflictions, do the work of an evangelist, make full proof of thy ministry.” 2 Tim. 4:5. “Preach the word; be instant in season, out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort with all long-suffering and doctrine.” 2 Tim. 4:2.

“Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost.” Matt. 28:20. “And as they went through the cities, they delivered them decrees for to keep that which was ordained of the apostles and elders which were at Jerusalem. And so were the churches established in the faith, and increased in numbers daily.” Acts 16:4, 5.

“Thou shouldest set in order the things that are wanting, and ordain elders in every city.” Titus 1:5. “Feed the flock of God which is among you, taking the oversight thereof, not by constraint, but willingly; not for filthy lucre, but of ready mind; neither as being lords over God’s heritage, but being ensamples to the flock. And when the chief Shepherd shall appear, ye shall receive a crown of glory that fadeth not away.” 1 Peter 5:2-4.

“Beloved, I wish above all things that thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth. For I rejoiced greatly, when the brethren came and testified of the truth that is in thee, even as thou walkest in the truth” (3 John 2, 3); “which some professing have erred concerning the faith. Grace be with thee. Amen.” 1 Tim. 6:21.

MAKING A LIFE

By M. A. Woodward

"There is something better in life than making a living. . . . It is making a life."—Abraham Lincoln.

IF ALL Sunday school teachers knew these words of Lincoln's and could impress upon the minds of their pupils what life is really given for, and that God sent us His Word so we might learn His will better, how much more meaning we would find in life.

I have nine boys in my class. Will I be responsible for what they may be at the age of twenty-one? Am I helping them to make a life worthy of the name? "For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works." What a noble purpose we have in living, if we make that kind of a life. If we should fail, teachers, mothers! O, it makes me tremble to think of our responsibilities.

"Making a life" is no easy work, but a tremendous task. Study your boys and girls, mothers. Pray with them; let them know you are interested in them. Teach them that honesty is always the best policy. In our home acres we have considerable fruit which we are never able to get, for someone was not taught to be honest. God said, "Thou shalt not steal." God knew what He was doing when He gave that commandment. Teach the child how wrong it is to disobey God's Word. Stealing brings dishonor upon Father, Mother, and God, and God has said, "Honour thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee."

Children, you can never be true Christians and be impudent, saucy, or disobedient to your parents, or by lying to them to escape punishment or for any other cause. O, how much it means to live right, and be honorable before God. These are things that make a life worthy of living. We cannot cheat God. He understands, and sees, and knows every act. Being a Christian is doing the things God has asked us to do, for they are always right things.

How we love a child that is kind to the older ones, sets a chair for the tired mother to rest, waits on the father, helps the little sister in her childish troubles, is kind to the aged. All these things tell what the child will be when he grows into manhood or womanhood, and one cannot be a true man or woman, nor a true Christian without these grand virtues.

Will my Sunday school class early learn them? They must be practiced in youth to make the perfect man when older, the kindly woman in old age. I stop and think—nine boys in my class, bright, active, with every nerve wanting to be busy and forcing their minds into activity. What an opportunity to start them in the right direction, toward right seed thoughts, to start them sprouting into honest acts, manly deeds.

My boys are from eight to eleven years of age. I have only one hour in one day to bend their minds in the right direction, while the world, in one form and another, has all the rest of the seven days to mold them. No wonder we as mothers and teachers need much time to pray to learn to use our influence for righteousness. Are we doing all we can for them?

We cannot do them any good alone; we need the heavenly Guide to assist us. Do not be afraid; He will never tire of answering our prayers. If we ask in honest sincerity, He will help us. Do not doubt that. Does the task before you seem too hard; are your burdens too heavy? "Come unto me all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." What a thoughtful, compassionate Christ, always ready to assist us, as we strive to "make a life" worthy of His name.

"RUSSIA is accumulating soldiers on the border, perhaps planning to take part in the Manchurian proceedings. That worries Japan. Russia, also, has devoted attention to the gentle art of dropping bombs. And Japan is a collection of houses that could be burned by tens of thousands, with fire bombs. Before we know it, we may be out of depression, and into a war."

DETOURS

By Lydia Railsback

IN the season of the year when roads are being repaired, or reconstructed, a carefully arranged detour is marked out to direct travelers on the way so that they may in time return to the main highway. These detours are many times rough and in poor condition so that traveling is more difficult than on the paved road. These detours are necessary and serve their purpose, though they be found in any part of the universe. The traveler must use them to reach his destination.

But there is another kind of highway where no detours are needed, and if one should detour, there would be danger of his losing his way and of not being able to get back on the right road. This is the highway of the Christian Life.

"Strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, that leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it." Though this way be narrow, there is room for all who care to travel on it. It turns neither to the right nor the left; never needs repairs; never has to be reconstructed; hence has no need of detours.

However this "strait and narrow way" is not hedged in so that it is impossible to get off of it. Some think they can step aside a while by doing as they like, as Saul of old when he was told to destroy the Amalekites. His detour proved to be his undoing, for he never came back to follow God and be directed by Him as before.

The "strait and narrow way" leads to life. No detours are marked out, no detours needed. Let's be content to travel as God directs on that "strait and narrow way", so that the goal of Eternal Life will be reached in due time.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, OCTOBER 27, 1931

NUMBER 4

RESURRECTION

By George B. Alldridge

“Marvel not at this: for the hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves shall hear his voice, and shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation (judgment).”

How often we hear repeated these expressions, “While there is life there is hope”; “In the midst of life we are in death”. Neither of these is a Bible quotation, yet the Bible agrees with both.

“For he saith, I have heard thee in a time accepted, and in the day of salvation have I succoured thee . . . behold, now is the day of salvation.”—2 Cor. 6:2. “Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned.”—Rom. 5:12.

Paul realized the importance of preaching the resurrection of the dead. In fact, to him it was the most important thing in his life, and it should be also the most important thing in our own lives. “That I may know him and the power of his resurrection, and the fellowship of his sufferings, being made conformable unto his death; if by any means I might attain unto the resurrection of the dead.”—Phil. 3:10, 11.

I am cognizant of this fact that many of my learned brethren differentiate between the three Greek words used, and translated in the Authorized Version “resurrection”: anastasis, a standing up again; egersis, a resurgence, resurrection, to rise again; exanastasis, a rising from death; out from among the dead.

In Philippians 3:11, Paul uses the word exanastasis. Whatever the other words mean or to how many of the dead they apply, to me exanastasis is as it was to Paul, the most important thing in my life, and so I conform myself that I may have a part and place in the resurrection “out from among the dead”.

Many times the writer has rendered the last solemn service we can show to our departed brethren and friends. In every case he has observed weeping and sadness on the part of those classified as the “Chief Mourners”. Why? If the departed are more alive than ever and are enjoying the felicity of heaven, we all should rejoice in their good fortune and happiness. Ah, but no, deep down in the heart of every friend and mourner, is the knowledge that the departed are dead and absolutely unconscious.

Many years ago this question was asked: “If a man die, shall he live again?” Job 14:14. Again he asks: “Are not my days few? cease then, and let me alone, that I may take comfort a little before I go whence I shall not return, even to the land of darkness and the shadow of death.”—Job 10:20, 21.

Only the Bible can answer Job’s question. I cannot recall any religion that holds out an intelligent hope to its devotees of a resurrection from the dead except the Christian religion.

The question now arises in our mind, what will God raise from the grave or the dead? Will it be the body we now have, full of disease, suffering and weakness? Many seem to think so; but God’s Word does not say so.

Paul will tell us what is to be raised. He says, “But some man will say, How are the dead raised up? and with what body do they come?”—1 Cor. 15:36-39. Read carefully the verses following. In one blow Paul knocks out the theoretical surmisings of evolutionists by the above classification of the different groups of sentient beings.

Sometimes we forget how helpless we are. Moses said, “Let the Lord, the God of the spirits of all flesh, set a man over the congregation.”—Num. 27:16. And Job says, “In whose hand is the soul of every living thing, and the breath of all mankind.”—Job 12:10.

Science tells us exactly what our bodies consist of.

Continued on page 58

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

*"The hills are a furnace of color and mellowing light
Where junipers flame and flake,
And the blueberry dreams like a faint blue smoke on the height."
—From a painting by William G. Kriehoff.*

THE EDITOR'S PRAYER

OUR FATHER: In these days of increasing doubt and wide-spread skepticism, O let us not be led away from Thy truth by the vain speculations of men of "science falsely so called"; but grant unto us abiding faith in Thee and in Thy Word. In Jesus' name. Amen.

THOMAS A. EDISON

IN THE death of Thomas A. Edison which occurred last week America and the world lost not only a notable inventor and scientist, but a great benefactor of all mankind.

Like the late Luther Burbank of California, Mr. Edison was an intensely practical man. He did not indulge in useless speculations and vague theorizing. He devoted his splendid talents to the lightening of humanity's everyday burdens, and generation yet unborn will rise up to bless the name of the "Wizard of Menlo Park" for the benefits he has given to the world.

EDISON'S IDEA OF GOD

EDISON was not a religious man in the sense in which that word is generally understood. That is, he did not accept any of the creeds of Christendom. At the same time both of these remarkable men acknowledged the existence of a Supreme Intelligence.

When he was asked if his ideas of evolution and cellular adjustment made him a disbeliever in God, he replied:

"Not at all. No person can be brought into close contact with the mysteries of nature or make a study of chemistry or of the laws of growth without being convinced that behind it all there is a supreme intelligence. I do not mean to say a supreme law, for that implies no consciousness, but a supreme mind operating through unchangeable laws. I am convinced of that, and I think that I could—perhaps I may some time—demonstrate the existence of such an intelligence through the operation of those mysterious laws with the certainty of a demonstration in mathematics."

It is perhaps to be regretted that Mr. Edison did not accomplish his purpose in this respect.

MODESTY OF THE TRUE SCIENTIST

ON THE occasion of his sixtieth birthday Mr. Edison uttered this humble confession concerning the limited scope of scientific knowledge at the present time.

"We do not know anything! Probably in five hundred years we shall have collected enough data to suspect."

An editorial writer in commenting on Mr. Edison's statement at the time, said:

"The sententious sting of plain words, mostly of one or two syllables, must fall like a shower bath on the heated spine of the young scientist who occupies the middle of the front page of our morning paper and speaks so dogmatically about the past, present, and future. Yesterday he disputed with Moses and pushed the date of creation back to a point where the mind of infinity could scarcely find a beginning. Today he erects a synthetic code of ethics which effaces or supplants the systems that the world through the countless ages has been rearing. Tomorrow he sees disaster, perhaps a comet into whose fiery trail the world will fall melting and dissolved.

"The mind of the shallow scientist is a shallow mind. It is volatile, bumptious, conceited, intolerant, ridiculous. But the deep creative genius that gives to the world the fruits of discovery, the real man of science, namely the man of knowledge—Edison, Argyle, Reontgen, Koch, whoever he may be—is the man of humility and usually the man of reverence. He bows before the mysteries to which God alone holds the key."

Great minds realize the fallibility of human reasoning. They know from past experience how apt they are to err in making their deductions. Consequently the real scientist makes his assertion with modesty and waits for time and further experimentation to confirm or deny his conclusions.

The truth of the Bible, which has withstood the attacks of pseudo-science for thousands of years, is now being established by the discoveries of true science on every hand.

VALUE OF A CHRISTIAN HOME

"For I know him, that he will command his children and his household after him, and they shall keep the way of the Lord, to do justice and judgment."—Genesis 18:19.

THE family continues from creation, and is the oldest institution in the world. In it center the peace and prosperity of the race. It is the chief corner-stone of society, the church, and the government. Destroy the home and the family, and you destroy real society, government, and the home.

Dr. T. De Witt Talmage, famous preacher in the latter part of the nineteenth century, once said, "The Christian hearth-stone is the only cornerstone for a republic. The virtues cultured in the family circle are an absolute necessity for the State. If there be not enough moral principle to make the family adhere, there will not be enough political principle to make the State adhere. . . . Jails and penitentiaries, and armies and navies are not our best defense. The door of the home is the best fortress."

Ask ten different men the meaning of the word "home" and they will give you ten different definitions. To one it means love at the hearth, plenty at the table, industry at the workstand, intelligence at the books. To him it means a greeting at the door and a smile at the chair. To another man the word "home" may mean everything terrific—every face a picture of ruin—no Sabbath wave rolling over the doorsill.

Ask a Christian father and mother what "home" means, and they will say a place where there is devotion at the altar, a place where they feel the divine touch of God's love and kindness, a place where the presence of God inspires them to new strength and courage, a place where love regulates all things.

The Christian home is the feeder of the church, the protector of the State and the conservator of public peace and order. God blesses and delights in the home that honors and worships Him. Prayer builds walls of protection about the home and family.

Is there any agency more powerful for good than the Christian home? Keep the religion of Jesus Christ in the home and daily life, and you will largely solve the problems of morality and religion in the churches, schools, and nations. No one should fail to see the benefits of family worship—the educational influences in the daily assembly of the family for prayer, where, through childhood and youth, the custom has been regularly observed and will continue through life. It should bind the children firmly to Jesus Christ as their Savior, and help to sweeten their home life.

Some of us, I am sure, have memories of the old family altar, with Father and Mother there and the open Bible. And has it not been that sacred memory that has helped and kept us from temptation? Has it not guided us and kept us in the straight and narrow path?

Perhaps some of you are saying that a home without Christ is just as good an influence in any community as that home whose life and whose activity centers around Jesus Christ. A good deal has been said in this connection, and I will not endeavor to engage in any great discussion, only to say that I cannot see how it is so. How can a home whose members know not the care and the keeping power of a loving Savior compete with the home whose members have proven the love and the guidance of this Savior over and over again? We need Christ; we need Him in our homes. We need Christian homes, more and more of them, in our communities.

To express it in rather a crude way, we need homes to "manufacture" noble men and noble women—men and women who will have something more as their ideals than the pulling down of everything that is good and noble in the world—men and women who will dare to stand before the world and say that they believe in God, that Jesus is their Savior, and that, trusting in Him, they are going to make the world a better place in which to live.

We have evidence enough in the world today of what homes and lives without Christ mean. A tide of materialism, worldly-mindedness, and pleasure-seeking is sweeping the world, and only the great love of Jesus Christ, dwelling in the hearts and minds of His people, can stem this awful tide of demoralizing influences.

Any person, man or woman, with ordinary talents, led on by any ideal, will accomplish far more than the man of the finest mental and physical equipment who drifts. Why not have Christ as our Ideal? With the background of a Christian home, Christ as our Ideal, we should be shining lights for Him. What does it matter if we are ridiculed, if people laugh and tell us we do not know what we are doing; are we not striving to make the world more ready for Him when He comes?

If you keep the fire of God's love burning on the altars of your homes, for God's sake, for the sake of others, for your own sake, God will be pleased with you as He was with Abraham in Scripture.—World's Crisis.

IT is interesting to know that Europe has fifteen reigning monarchs and fourteen presidents.—S. E. H.

THE BANK OF HOPE

It is well to draw upon the bank of hope, as well as upon the bank of experience. When thy cup is full of sorrow, and thy face is covered with shame, and not a ray of light falls on thy dreary path, remember that there is a history full of grace behind us; and it is all wrapped in the name of Him who is the hope of every contrite heart. But take heed that your hope is not a vague hope. See to that you believe in God firmly, and that you lay hold upon an actual promise of His Word very tightly; for then you may hope to your heart's content. Though you cannot see the way of deliverance, you can feel that the Lord holds you by the hand and rest in that assurance.—Selected.

LINGER NOT

---

The time is short!
If thou wouldest work for God it must be now;
If thou wouldest win the garland for thy brow,
Redeem the time.

Shake off earth's sloth!
Go forth with staff in hand while yet 'tis day;
Set out with girded loins upon thy way;
Up, linger not!

Fold not thy hands!
What has the pilgrim of the cross and crown
To do with luxury or couch of down?
On, pilgrim, on!

Sheathe not the sword!
The battle lies before thee, and the prize
Hangs yonder, far above these earthly skies;
Fight the good fight!

Life ebbs apace:
Fast crumbles down this house of mortal clay;
Fling not like dust thy precious hours away;
The end is near.

Faint not, O man!
Follow the Master through the glorious strife;
Follow His footsteps till they end in life;
Be strong in Him!

With His reward He comes;
He tarries not; His day is near;
When men least look for Him, He will be here,
Prepare for Him!—Selected by Alice B. Curtis.

---

THE TITHE A DEBT

---

THE distinction that the tithe is distinctly a debt and not a gift should never be lost sight of. The expression "Give God the tithe" is not only wrong, but in a very literal sense is belittling God. You do not insult your banker by offering to "give" him the interest you owe him, nor do you "give" your grocer the amount of his bill. Yet neither is more of a debt than the tithe we owe to God.

We all, ministers and laymen, live under God's law of the Tithe. We can obey it and reap the reward that all honest men enjoy in paying their debts. We can disobey it and suffer the penalties of disobedience.

One penalty for neglecting the tithe is that it fosters the sin of covetousness, which is the one commandment of the ten that we can violate all our lives and not know it. Our neighbors and friends can and do know it, however, and mark and comment on its increasing power and control over us as we grow older.—From Obedience the Master's Test.

"SILVER AND GOLD HAVE I NONE"

---

By Ida Lapp

---

WHILE on the way to the temple to pray, in mid-afternoon, one day, Peter and John came upon a poor, emaciated man asking for alms. This man had been lame since birth, and each day he was carried to the Gate Beautiful that he might ask alms and in this way have a few coppers with which to buy his daily bread.

As Peter and John were about to enter the Temple, the lame man asked them for a gift. According to custom, one entering the temple was not to carry a purse, and as Peter and John beheld him, they fixed their eyes on him and said, "Look on us". The cripple then expecting to receive something from them, looked on them. Then Peter said, "Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee; In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk."

Peter then reached down; taking the man by the hand, he raised him up to his feet; and as he did so, strength came into his ankle bones and feet, so that the cripple was able to do something he had never done before—walk and leap. Immediately he began leaping and walking, praising God as he entered His holy temple.

Man, in his sin, is as this man was—lame, weak, helpless, utterly dependent upon others with no permanent relief in sight. His life is useless and weak, as far as God's plan is concerned, and until he takes God into his life, he is a cripple.

But when Christ speaks, "Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee—rise up and walk", and the man of sin gets a real vision of his Master, his life is completely changed. Although Christ does have silver and gold, He is not passing it out to people in this age, but He is giving to them something far more important and better for their own well being.

When the man in sin gets a real vision of Christ, his whole life is changed; he is no more helpless, but has One who will bear his burdens. He is no more weak, but has One who is his Strength and Shield, and as Christ comes into his life more fully each day, he begins to walk in the way of righteousness, going by leaps into the new life and joy which he has found, until he can truly praise God for the wonderful change that has been wrought in his life. He then discovers, as did the lame man, that he has received something far more precious than silver and gold, for he has become a child of God, joint heir with the Son and has the promise of eternal life, if he is faithful unto the end.

---

"IN THIS present day of unrest, doubt, and unbelief every consecrated Christian stands out for his Master as a light in the world's darkness. Don't let your light fail. Be loyal to God! It pays!"—S. E. M.

MICHIGAN CONFERENCE

The Annual Michigan Conference and Bible School will be held at Grand Rapids from June 20 to 26 inclusive. Bro. J. H. Anderson is expected to be present and assist Bro. Siple. A full attendance is urged and out of state visitors are invited to be present and enjoy these meetings with us.

William Hanson, Pres.

WHERE ARE YOU?

I know you must be some place, waiting, wondering just what you had better do next. What should your next move be? You do not yet know; you are much perplexed; you cannot yet figure out your plan to a satisfactory conclusion. Well, what is the matter? I wonder if you, in your perplexity, have forgotten to ask God about it? Have you asked Him to guide you, not to let you do anything unwise in the matter? For unless God guides us in all matters everything goes wrong. So we must go first to the wise Father and His guidance; then wait patiently. He will feel He has answered our request. Be very careful that you do not wish to act for yourself instead of waiting for the right answer.

But, Sr. Woodward, how am I to know when God answers? I have long ago found this the safest way. Just say, "Dear Father, if it is perfectly right for me to do this thing I am wishing to do, put no hindering thing in the way. But if it is wrong for me to have this wish gratified, block the way so thoroughly that I cannot or will not want to do what I have wished." Then wait patiently; God will not forget you or your request. At just the right time He will send the answer so plainly you cannot be mistaken.

In a recent Herald there was a short article on the Berean page entitled, "Closed Doors." Read it all over, no matter if you have read it. Listen, beloved, whenever you are doubtful as to your course, submit your judgment absolutely to God, and ask Him to shut against you every door but the right one. Say, "Blessed Father, I cast on thee the entire responsibility of closing against my steps any and every course which is not of Thee." Then go on believing God is helping you, and He surely will do it.

But, Sr. Woodward, what are you getting at? Well this, I am anxious to stir up some weary souls so that they will think straight about the things necessary for their future welfare. Are you alone in the world, without a home, in need of a real home, a place where the mother is a careful wise Christian woman, her husband a quiet pleasant Christian man? You wish the Golden Rule Home at Oregon just the place to realize your dreams. I have lived here a year and nine months, have always had enough to eat, a good bed (not a feather bed), a warm room, my washing and ironing well done, and every convenience of a well-regulated home. We have a large beautiful yard, great trees, many of them different plants of flowers, the very best drinking water, a kind pleasant attendant to build our fires and to work the Home acres, giving us all kinds of vegetables in their season. What more could we ask, only to make this our pleasant abiding place for life? If everyone coming into the Home tries to make it a pleasant comfortable place, it will be all any home can be. Sr. Mick and husband are trying in every way to make this a real home. They are trying to run it economically, but we have never had better food, better served or better seasoned, or put on the table in better shape, than now. So far all seem to be well satisfied with the situation. Come over and try it for a month, and see for yourselves.

Yours in the Master's service,

M. A. Woodward.

IOWA CONFERENCE

The executive board of the Iowa State Conference met at Waterloo, April 17, and decided upon the dates of August 20 to 28, inclusive, for the convening of the State Conference. This year the meetings will be held in the new church building and the meals served in the basement of same. Reserve these dates and come to the Iowa Conference. Esther Sealine, Cor. Sec.

The General Conference of the Church of God will convene (D. V.) at Oregon, Illinois, from August 2, 1932, to August 14, 1932, inclusive. It would be well for state conference boards to take into early consideration the appointment of a delegate or delegates to represent the membership of the several states. Churches unassociated with state conferences are also urged to take action for the appointment of delegates. Matters of unusual importance will be presented for the consideration and action of the brotherhood at this meeting. The counsel and support of the Church of God everywhere is needed in the furtherance of our mutual effort.

(Signed) G. Eldred Marsh,

Secretary

CONTRIBUTIONS TO DOLLAR-A-MONTH CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Miller; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Birkey; Kathryn Lansbery; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gilbey; Jennie Salisbury; W. A. Reid; Lois Hunt; Lydia Railsback; Mr. and Mrs. M. Fetters; Ella M. Siple; Mrs. Luella Caples; W. E. Boyer; Margaret J. Donaley; Julia Ordnung; Elizabeth Ordnung; Marian Richards; Loren L. Burnett.

HERALD RECEIPTS

Helen Potter; Mrs. Wallace Woolf; Glenn Birkey; B. E. Berry; Jennie Salisbury; G. L. Huffman; Pearl Hatten; Mrs. Ed. Tomlin; Cecil Smead; A. K. Richardson; Mrs. O. W. Umphrey; Marian E. Richards; John G. Conrad; Ella C. Boyer; Mrs. John Corbaley.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME

Bro. Harvey Krogh and his sister Dorothy expected to spend the past week end with the brethren at Waterloo and Eagle Grove, Iowa. They were enroute to their home at Blair, Nebraska.

Do not fail to study the Conference Calendar on opposite page. Plan to attend one or more of these conferences, as you may be able. The interchange of study and the inspiration received from the messages delivered by our ministers will result in good to all. They need you, and you need them.

They are busy folks at the Grand Rapids church. It would seem that many of their opportunities are opened up through the avenue of their live and growing Sunday school, and they are alert to seize every occasion which may tend to bring honor to God. Perhaps opportunities to which some of the rest of us are apathetic, may be at our very doors.

Let us again remind all who write for our pages that The Herald is being sold on the street every week by one of our brave members at St. Cloud, Minn. Realizing that its messages may fall into many a hungry heart, let us pray the Father that the words which we write may be indeed "words of eternal life."

CONTRIBUTIONS TO N. B. I.

J. Arthur Johnson; Almeda Wertz; Mrs. O. W. Umphrey.

CONTRIBUTION TO TRAINING SCHOOL
Mrs. Wm. Hadicke $3.00

"THE HEBREW PEOPLE"

The new Junior Berean Book, "The Hebrew People," is now ready for distribution. The price is 30 cents for single copies; 27 cents each for 5 to 25 copies; 25 cents each for 25 or more copies. This book contains an illustration of the finding of the baby Moses.

Send all orders to National BEREAN Society, Oregon, Illinois.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

Published by

National Bible Institution

Oregon, Illinois

Subscription Rates.—51 issues per annum, $2.00; 6 months, $1.00; 3 months, 50 cents. Sample copy, Free.

Change of Address.—When ordering change of address be sure to send us both old and new addresses.

Receipts.—The change of date on your address label is your receipt. If date is not changed in two weeks after payment of subscription, please notify this office.

The RESTITUTION HERALD advocates: the near return of Christ, Acts 1:11, and life only through Him, Col. 3:3; the literal resurrection of the dead, John 5:28; the immortalization of those in Christ, 1 Cor. 15:53, 54; the final restoration of Israel as the kingdom of God under the kingship of Christ, Luke 1:32, the church to be joint heirs with Him, Rom. 8:17, and Israel to be made head over Gentile nations, Isa. 60:13; the "restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began", Acts 3:21. It also firmly advocates repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, Acts 2:38, and a consecrated life as essential to salvation.

We are indebted to Sr. E. C. Railsback for the splendid article on page 522, entitled, "University Religious Conference," by Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin, a very fine scholar and the most prominent rabbi of Los Angeles. While this address was called forth by a special condition at Los Angeles, yet it contains a message for you and me. Thank you, Sr. Railsback.

The good word comes in from Ripley, Ill., where Bros. F. L. Austin and G. E. Lapp have been conducting a series of meetings for the past two weeks that eight made the good confession and were baptized on Sunday, May 15. Others are expected to follow. On May 22, they expect to hold three services with a social dinner at noon. May the Lord continue to bless the efforts put forth in His name that the church may be strengthened to go forward and work while it is called day.

Students of the Word will enjoy the writings of Bro. J. G. Haupt, Natchitoches, La., which we are giving our readers just now. Bro. Haupt is deprived of the wonderful blessing of sight which most of us regard too lightly, and he dictates his thoughts to his faithful wife, whose own eyesight is failing. Because of this, we appreciate the more the articles from Bro. and Sr. Haupt.

not make a nation of Israel with Jerusalem for its capital. A great deal of faith was still needed to believe in a restored Israel. The unspeakable Turk was still in the Holy Land. The Jews were still scattered among the nations.

No longer does the sky report: "There is nothing." Zionism is a recognized force. Farms are growing; cities are arising; the old home land prospers. Jerusalem is given over to the friend of the Jews in the midst of the terrible strife of the World War. Wealth is poured into the lap of the new-born Zion. Colonists are going to the land.

But the wealthy Jews and many of the poorer oppressed ones do not wish to go to Palestine. They are satisfied to stay in the land of adoption. Especially is that true in America, the home of the wealthiest Jews. But another name looms on the horizon.

Einstein, a German Jew, world-famed scientist, becomes a leader of a new Zionism—"Spiritual Zionism." Even Jews who do not wish to go back to Palestine may become "Spiritual Zionists". The great Einstein is not worried for the future of the Zionist movement in countries where the Jews are persecuted, for that keeps the separatist feeling alive. The type of program calls for a new concept of Jewish leadership.

The Hebrew University of Jerusalem is to be the center of the new Jewish propaganda; Hebrew culture, literature, science, and religion are to center there. Even if the Jews do not wish to return to Zion, their spiritual life would center there and would spread to all parts of the world.

It is said by many thoughtful people that not all Jews could return to Palestine if they so desired. The land is too small. That coupled with the ideas of Einstein brings to mind in a new light the international position of the Jew, and how well he would be adapted for an internationalization of his particular ideas.

"And it shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it. And many people shall go and say, Come ye, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths; for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem."—Isaiah 2:2-3. This is a broader mission for restored Israel in the Kingdom Age, but it is in a small measure foreshadowed in Einstein's concept of Spiritual Zionism.

The observer need not longer look to a cloudless Jewish sky. Soon it will be entirely overcast. The cloud the size of a man's hand has spread to cover most of the horizon. "Get thee down, that the rain stop thee not."

Elijah's faith stood the test until it became sight. Our forefathers in the faith walked by faith; they could not see the things we see. We need no longer have such faith; we can see Israel in her own land. All that remains is for cultural Zion to be set up and established by its Rightful Ruler.

May that day come soon. And may we enter into that greater spiritual Zion when our Lord shall come.

CHRIST'S PERSONAL RETURN

ON THE occasion of the ascension of Christ, He visibly and literally returned to heaven. And while His disciples were still watching Him as He went up into the skies, two angels appeared to them with this message from heaven: "This same Jesus," said the angels, "which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven."—Acts 1:11.

These words make it clear that He will come in person as they saw Him go. Concerning the manner of His coming, the Bible also declares that unto them that look for Him shall He appear the second time, without sin unto salvation. Heb. 9:28. He will appear, that is, He will be seen by those dwelling on the earth. No one will need to have someone tell him that Christ has come. All will see Him; for He will come in clouds and great glory, such as has never before been witnessed by men. They shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven, with power and great glory.—Matt. 24:30.

That the second coming of Christ cannot properly be understood as His coming to the individual Christian at death, is very evident. Read from John 21:22-23. Every believing heart should greatly rejoice in the truth of the literal return of Jesus to this earth, and especially in the nearness of the glorious event. For this will bring the full fruition of all the blessings of the gospel. Let us be ever watching and waiting.

The second coming of Christ is also for the purpose of bringing complete salvation to His people, eternal salvation from death and the grave. Heb. 9:28. Of that time we read: "He will swallow up death in victory; and the Lord God will wipe away tears from off all faces; and the rebuke of his people shall he take away from off all the earth; for the Lord hath spoken it. And it shall be said in that day, Lo, this is our God; we have waited for him, and he will save us; this is the Lord; we have waited for him, we will be glad and rejoice in his salvation."—Isaiah 8:9.

Another purpose in the second coming of Christ is to restore the Paradise lost through sin. A description of the restored earth with the redeemed race upon it, is given in the last two chapters of the Bible. When Jesus comes the second time, He will be King of kings and Lord of lords, to reign forever. Rev. 19:11-16.

With all these wonderful purposes to be worked out by the coming of Christ, we cannot afford to give up the precious doctrine of His coming. It is indeed a blessed hope. There shall be no more curse and this old earth is groaning beneath its load of sin. There comes from our eager hearts the cry of John: "Even so, come, Lord Jesus."—Rev. 22:2—L. E. Miller in Gospel Trumpet.

METAL salvaged from the wreck of the R-101, British dirigible destroyed in France, is being taken to Sheffield to be melted down and re-used for domestic cutlery and household utensils.—S. E. H.

THE APOCALYPSE OR THE REVELATION

By Lyman Booth

Continued from last week

THIS book forms the third style of apostolic literature, the most appropriate and sublime conclusion, a divine seal of the whole scheme of salvation. The Gospels and Epistles proceeded from a state of divine light emanating from that light "which lighteth every man that cometh into the world." The Apocalypse is the result of a special act of divine inspiration, an immediate revelation of Jesus Christ respecting His advent, signified by a voice from heaven to the entranced seer on Patmos. It is a wonderful work of divine art, curiously wrought. It is a masterpiece of construction, fitted and framed together by wisdom from above.

This book discloses the final and complete triumph of Christianity over all its enemies and its termination in endless glory and happiness. It is replete with encouragement, admonition, and consolation. We can see a clear testimony running through it to the holiness of God, the power of Christ, to that power which is working in or overruling all things and to which all men are willingly or otherwise subservient, and to that final triumph of good over evil, of Christ over antichrist, of God over Satan, which will be the last and most decisive vindication of God's ways with men.

The teachings in this book on redemption by blood are very explicit. That which is expressed or implied in other scriptures is in this book a solemn emphasis. It celebrates the atoning blood. Saints sing, and angels speak of redemption by the blood, cleansing in the blood, and victory by the blood of the Lamb. It is the Lamb in whose blood His servants also overcame, in whose blood they have washed their robes, before whom they stand in robes of white, and to whom they ascribe salvation, honor, and glory.

The names of the saved are written in the Lamb's book of life. The holy city is the bride, the Lamb's wife. The Lord God Almighty and the Lamb are the temple and the light of it; and the river of the water of life flows forever from the throne of God and the Lamb.

Seven churches in Asia were selected for this vision, among which John labored in his latter years, and among which he exercised a most wonderful influence for the good of the church in general. These were not all the churches in the province, but the seven were taken to represent the whole church, and their diversities of faithfulness and unfaithfulness, zeal and lethargy, present an opportunity for the most wise counsels, reproofs, and promises by which the whole household of faith may profit during the entire Gentile age, if we will only apply ourselves to its directions, whether it, as a part of the revelation, was intended for the future or some other age. The messages to the seven churches seem applicable to all times and circumstances, and their fullness of instruction, warning, and encouragement are for all conditions and stages of religious life.

Smyrna was a church face to face with death. Sardis had settled down upon its lees and was taking its ease. Laodicea was doing little or nothing for the furtherance of the gospel, though possessed with abundant means and also making a loud profession. Philadelphia was accomplishing a wonderful work for Christ, though blessed with little strength and laboring under meager opportunities. Ephesus was slack in doctrinal observances, careless about religious error, and lacking in that love for its Master for which there can be no proper substitute. Thyatira is much in contrast with Ephesus, for it was diligent in works and ministries, yet not so careful or zealous in doctrinal purity. While those of Pergamos held fast the Lord's name, and had not denied His faith, yet they had in their midst those that held the doctrine of Balaam and of the Nicolaitanes, which things the Lord hated.

To these seven churches the Lord dictated seven epistles, all constructed on precisely the same form. Each of them contains a command in exactly the same language to the seer which he should write to the angel of the church. They contain one or more of the glorious titles which Christ claims for Himself, as exalting His dignity and thus adding force and authority to the messages He was about to send. These titles are for the most part drawn from the various attributes ascribed to Him or claimed by Him (1: 4-20). He made known in these messages the fact that He knew their condition, whether good or bad, and He commends them in their steadfastness in the good, and summons them to repentance for the bad. He also gave the promise of a reward for faithfulness to him who should overcome.

All of these things were presented under the richest variety of attractive and the most original and beautiful images or symbols. There is not one of these promises that does not find an explanation further on in the book. He finally sums up with an exhortation which should receive universal recognition from every one who has ears to hear and eyes to see, as if intended for all to give heed to the words thus spoken.

"It is recorded of Admiral Bengel that it was his wont above all things to recommend the study of these epistles to youthful ministers of Christ's word and sacraments, and indeed to them they are full of teaching, of the most solemn warning, of the strongest encouragement."

To be continued

"THE man or the nation that has won freedom has won but half the battle—conquered external foes. There are still battles to be fought with self, and this is the harder task. Men clamor for liberty when they mean license. What they seek is freedom to trample on the rights of others, which is only the freedom of outlaws and brigands. Freedom of the Spirit never permits of such freedom as will injure others."

To Partake or Not to Partake

By Cecil Smead

THE church is gathered together for the communion service, for the holiest communion, the sacredest, the closest, that with the Lord Jesus Himself. This bread represents His body. This cup represents His blood. Now comes the question. It is an important one, and the decision should not be lightly made. By taking the wrong stand we may lose sight of some of the most glorious truths of the gospel and may deny ourselves some of the most strengthening benefits possible in our everyday lives.

To partake or not to partake, which shall it be? I am unworthy; I hold a grudge against my brother; I have sinned. Perhaps I had better refrain. Paul, you know, warns us in 1 Corinthians 11 not to come together for condemnation. And so I refrain from partaking. I want to know, am I doing right or wrong?

What are the words of the Lord Jesus on the subject? "Take eat: this is my body which is broken for you: this do in remembrance of me." 1 Cor. 11:24, cf. Luke 22:19. Is this merely a request from the Lord to do a certain thing, leaving it up to us as to whether we shall comply or not? Nay, friend, the Lord's request should be our command. But this is more than a wish, a desire, a request from our Master. It is most emphatically a command, "This do in remembrance of me." Therefore, I, myself, may call my refraining by whatever name may suit me—humility, abasement, desire not to sin, or whatever else I might think it to be; but the Lord labels it as disobedience to His plain command to "take," "eat," "do." He calls that "sin."

Can one atone for one sin by committing another? Will God accept that kind of worship? Two negatives may make an affirmative in mathematics, but two wrongs never did and never will make a right in the estimation of God. Thus I see that there must be some discrepancy in my reasoning which would permit me to refrain from partaking of the communion whenever I so desire.

I appeal to 1 Corinthians 11:29, being sure to read the context both before and after: "For he that eateth and drinketh unworthily, eateth and drinketh damnation to himself, not discerning the Lord's body." But I fail when I try to find an excuse in these words to permit me to refrain from partaking. Rather is it a warning to partake and do it worthily; not a warning to refrain because I am not a person worthy to do it.

If I were to base my right to partake on my own worthiness, I could never partake, for then I would be standing upon my own righteousness instead of upon that provided by God through faith in the Savior. I am also reminded of the vehement language the Lord Jesus uses in denouncing the self-righteousness of the Pharisees, and I would rather not incur such displeasure against myself for that same sin. My salvation is by the free grace of God, and I dare not stand on my own works before Him. "There is none righteous, no, not one." Rom. 3:10. Therefore, such an impossible subject as our own worthiness or unworthiness does not enter into the thought of the above text.

However, it does say something about eating and drinking unworthily. What is that? Before we go any further we should consult Webster. "Unworthily" is an adverb and means that an action is "not fit or suitable; unbecoming." "Unworthy" is an adjective and means, "Wanting merit, value, or the like;—said of persons or things." Here the word is unworthily, the adverb, and is not concerned about the merit of my person but about the fitness of my manner—whether it is becoming or unbecoming, orderly or disorderly.

The reason for such a question was simply this: The Corinthians were divided into parties much to the detriment of the church. When they came together to eat they also brought their lunches and had a feast beforehand. The rich fared sumptuously, the poor meagerly. The rich would not divide, and so the rich were drunken, and the poor were hungry. Such was the case with the Corinthian brethren, and it was that manner that the Apostle Paul was condemning, denoting it as not discerning the Lord's body—not discerning that the poor were also part of the Lord's body.

We cannot fall into their error, for we do not have their custom of feasting in conjunction with the communion service. We are apt, however, to fall into their error of following party lines in the church—to divide ourselves into cliques and clans. We might take a non-sympathetic attitude to the poor; we might fail to help them in time of need; be hard-hearted and unforgiving. Thus we would be failing to discern the Lord's body, and thus also partake in an unworthy manner. But even so, that is no excuse to refrain from partaking. On the other hand, it is very good excuse to become reconciled to our brother and help him when he needs help. For Paul is warning us that unless we eat worthily we will receive a certain punishment in this life, a chastisement that is designed to refine us and purify us from sin.

Finally, what good would it do a Christian, one who has consecrated his life to Christ, to refrain from partaking? The very life that he lives is a life that is permitted him by his Master. Whatsoever he does is done in that Name. "Whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus."—Col. 3:19. The true Christian's life is a life of constant communion with Christ. It is not

Continued on page 64

THE PARABLE OF THE TARES

By Lyman Booth

THIS parable, as recorded in Matthew 13:24-30, accounts for the existence of good and evil in the world. It shows that evil is not from God; yet it assures us of God's perfect goodness and His desire and design that the whole world should be saved. For our Lord declared that "the field is the world." This pictures the existence of good and evil in the church, which state is to continue unto the end or to the harvest, when the good will be rewarded and the bad will be punished.

Because the apostles understood so little about the mixture of the good and bad in the church, it was needful to warn them that they might not be offended or discouraged and think the promises of God had failed.

The tares and wheat are so nearly alike that it is difficult to notice the difference between them. Their structure and growth are almost the same; and it is only when the fruit is formed that the tare can be detected by its darker and smaller grain. The darnel or tare is the only species of grass that is possessed of harmful properties. If its seeds are mixed with wheat and made into flour, the bread will cause nausea, giddiness, paralysis, and in some extreme cases death. In some countries it is a great nuisance to the farmer. It resembles somewhat the American cheat, which is not harmful if eaten. The tare is a very strong opiate and must be carefully removed out of the wheat before grinding, or the flour will be unwholesome. It is almost impossible to exterminate it when once it infests a field.

In this parable the householder said that the mischief was the work of an enemy. It was not attributed to the imperfection, ignorance, or weakness which clings to all things human, but to the workings of an enemy of mankind in general.

Much of the beauty of the parable lies in the fact that wheat and tares are not seeds of different kinds, but that the tares are a degenerate wheat. They are distinguishable only when the kernel or grain is fully formed, which proves the saying, "By their fruits ye shall know them." Until they are headed out only the closest scrutiny can detect the tares. The farmers do not attempt to separate one from the other lest they mistake good grain for them. The roots of the tares and wheat are so interwoven that the one cannot be pulled without pulling the other. Therefore both must be left to grow together until the harvest.

This parable plainly illustrates the difficulty of distinguishing the two classes, the good and the bad, and also the impropriety of judging men before God. "Let both grow together". But this must not be construed to justify retaining scandalous members in the communion in the church, for which Paul has given directions in 1 Corinthians 5:5.

When Christ asserts that it is His purpose to make a complete separation, He implicitly forbids, not the exercise of a goodly discipline when necessary, nor the absolute exclusion from church fellowship, but any attempt to anticipate that final and irrevocable separation, which He has reserved the right to make. Both are to grow, the good and the bad, till they come to a head, till they are ripe; one for full salvation, the other until the time appointed for the rewarding of the good and the punishment of the bad.

---

"THE GREAT pyramid of Cheops in Egypt is the largest piece of masonry ever built. It is estimated that it contains 2,300,000 stone blocks, of an average size of forty cubic feet each."—S. E. H.

---

OUR AUTHORITY

By Arlen Marsh

FROM time immemorial, men have disputed the authority of the church. Where do you get your authority? who gives it to you? are questions asked, directly or indirectly, of every minister and church official. It is a problem easily settled.

In 1 Corinthians 12:28 we read, "And God hath set some in the church, first apostles, secondarily prophets, thirdly teachers, after that miracles, then gifts of healings, helps, governments, diversities of tongues." This, supplemented by Colossians 1:18, which declares, "And he is the head of the body, the church", and 1 Corinthians 11:3, "And the head of Christ is God", would indicate that those placed in authority in the church possess to a certain extent what James of England was pleased to call his "divine right".

In reference to a party to a dispute over a personal or religious question, Christ, in Matthew 18:17, declares, "And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church: but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as an heathen man and a publican." That is, the church is placed by its Head in the position of final authority in settling disputed questions.

Now, the Savior is Head of the church, and "the head of Christ is God." It follows that the teachings of God are to be followed in determining upon what basis to act. Paul remarks in 2 Timothy 3:16 that "all scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness." Apparently, therefore, the Word of God is to be taken as the final court of appeal by the church.

Deriving his authority from a divine emplacement in the church, which in turn derives its authority from the word of God as revealed in the Holy Scriptures, the minister, the elder, or any other church officer, takes upon himself the duties outlined by those over him. God, Christ, the church, the officers—in this order is the authority for action scripturally delegated.

RESURRECTION

Continued from front page

Quoting from Dr. Fosdick: "Some chemists with a flair for statistics have been analyzing the average man, five feet ten inches tall and weighing one hundred and fifty pounds, and have put into picturesque terms what he is made of: enough fat to make seven bars of soap; enough iron to make a nail of medium size; enough sugar to fill a shaker; enough lime to whitewash a chicken coop; enough phosphorous to make twenty-two hundred match tips; enough magnesium for a dose of magnesia; enough potassium to explode a toy cannon, together with a little sulphur.

"And they say that these chemical elements at current market rates are worth about ninety-eight cents. It is an amazing mystery—our saints, prophets and martyrs, our Shelleys, Raphaels, Livingstones, and Lincolns, all compounded of ninety-eight cents worth of chemical material!!

"The question of immortality therefore, involves much more than a postponed hope about what is going to happen after death. It virtually concerns what we are now. So we honestly think that it is an adequate statement of the truth to say that chemical elements worth some sixty-six cents a hundredweight, cleverly organized by Nature unaware of what she did, issued in our Isaiahs and Platos and Galileos, and Darwins, and (forgive the seeming irreverence) in Jesus Christ Himself!

Or do we think something else—that within and reliant on this flesh, as within a scaffolding personality—may be built as a temple, the abiding spirit within the transitory frame, so that when at last the scaffolding is taken down the permanent consequence shall remain? . . . A man's thought of himself must always make a difference in life, and immortality is the supreme assumption of abiding spiritual value in man."

I wish that Dr. Fosdick and all his scientific contemporaries would read Genesis 3:19, "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken; for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return."

Paul agrees with this, for he says, "The first man is of the earth, earthy: the second man is the Lord from heaven." He points out that there is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body, and that "flesh and blood (the natural body) cannot inherit the kingdom of God: neither doth corruption inherit incorruption. Howbeit that was not first which is spiritual, but that which is natural; and afterward that which is spiritual. And as we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly."

I cannot state this any clearer or make it so. We all bear the image of the earthy—our father Adam. In the resurrection we are to bear the image of the heavenly—the Second Adam, the Lord from heaven.

Let us reason this out by analogy. Physiology teaches us that the life principle which first animated our existence was transmitted to us by our father Adam through succeeding generations. This life or seed is a microscopic cell or germ. God on the spiritual plane transmits to us through Christ, the Second Adam, the life principle. As Jesus Himself said, "For as the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself."—John 5:26. "For as the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them: even so the Son quickeneth whom he will."—John 5:21.

How is this done? James 1:18 is the answer.

In Romans 8:12 we read, "If any man have not the spirit of Christ he is none of his." Very well, then, Paul says that He will raise us up by the same spirit that He raised up Christ. This is the "it" that God will give "it", a body as it pleases Him. What this body is like we cannot tell. It will be like the angels; for Jesus said so. (Luke 20:36.)

To be continued

BENEVOLENCE

By O. J. Parker

BENEVOLENCE is one of the pillars upon which the world rests; for the world is sustained by virtue of three things—the law, divine worship, and active benevolence.

To do a person a favor is to act beneficently toward him without any hope or desire of return, and may be performed in two ways: by obliging a person to whom we are not under obligation, or by accommodating or obliging a person with more trouble to ourselves and more gain to him than he justly deserves.

The mercy which is mentioned in the Bible is that which is given freely to one who does not merit it. For instance, the benevolence of God is called "mercy," because we are in debt to God and He owes us nothing.

Charity is a species of benevolence; but it can only be applied to the poor and needy, while benevolence itself is for both rich and poor. We may even act benevolently toward the dead by attending to the last rites for them.

In three instances, therefore, is benevolence superior to charity: charity is practiced by means of money, benevolence with or without money; charity is for the poor alone, benevolence either for the poor or for the rich; charity we can display but to the living, benevolence to the living or to the dead.

"Ye shall walk after the Lord your God."—Deut. 13:4. How is it possible for us to walk after God? By following His attributes and examples, as it is written. "Unto Adam also and to his wife did the Lord God make coats of skins, and clothed them."—Gen. 3:21. We, too, must clothe the naked. Christ visited the sick and comforted the mourner. These are characteristics of God and of Christ, and so it is our duty to follow after them.

Let us all do the will of the Master. If we love Him, we will obey Him; and if we obey Him, we will do the things that are pleasing in His sight.

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 124 N. Parkside Ave., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois

For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"IS THERE ANYTHING TOO HARD FOR JEHOVAH?"—GENESIS 18:14.
NOTHING IMPOSSIBLE WITH GOD

FAR up in the Alpine hollows, year by year God works one of His marvels. The snow patches lie there, frozen with ice at their edges from the strife of sunny days and frosty nights; and through the ice-crust come, unscathed, flowers that bloom.

Back in the days of by-gone summer, the little soldanelle plant spread its leaves flat and wide on the ground to drink in the sun rays, and it kept them stored in the root through the winter. The spring came and stirred the pulses even below the snow shroud, and as it sprouted, warmth was given out in such strange measure that it thawed a little dome in the snow above its head.

Higher and higher it grew and always above it grew the bell of air, till the flower bud formed safely within it. At last the icy covering of the air-bell gave way and let the blossom through into the sunshine, the crystalline texture of its mauve petals sparkling like snow itself as if it bore the traces of the flight through which it had come.

And the fragile thing rings an echo in our hearts that none of the jewel-like flowers nestled in the warm turf on the slopes below could awaken. We love to see the impossible done. And so does God.

Face it out to the end; cast away every shadow of hope on the human side as an absolute hindrance to the Divine; heap up all the difficulties together recklessly, and pile as many more on as you can find; you cannot get beyond the blessed climax of impossibility. Let faith swing out to Him. He is the God of the impossible.—Selected.

FRET NOT

Psalm 37:1

THIS is to me a Divine command; the same as "Thou shalt not steal". Now let us get the definition of fretting. One good definition is, "Made rough on the surface", "Rubbed, or worn away"; and a peevish, irrational fault-finding person not only wears himself out, but is very wearing to others. To fret is to be in a state of vexation, and in this Psalm we are not only told not to fret of evil doers, but to fret not "in anywise". It is injurious and God does not want us to hurt ourselves.

A Physician will tell you that a fit of anger is more injurious to the system than a fever, and a fretful disposition is not conducive to a healthy body; and you know the rules are apt to work both ways, and the next step down from fretting is crossness, and that amounts to anger. Let us settle this matter and be obedient to the command, "Fret not."—Margaret Bottome.

CLEVELAND, OHIO

OUR Bereans in Cleveland are certainly going forward with vim and vigor. So far this year seems to be our banner year for activities. We are endeavoring to make it a banner year for attendance also. We have set a goal of one hundred members, to be reached by the first of December. Special pledge cards have been distributed, and the returns up to the present time are quite encouraging.

A contest held between the adult class and the senior young people's class, is especially interesting. The class which succeeds in getting the most new members by the first of December is to be entertained by the losing class. The kind of entertainment is to come as a surprise to the winning class, and it certainly looks, at the present time, as though our young people's class will do the entertaining, although we may be surprised. Whoever thought that the Berean Society was for the young people only? If you come to Cleveland you will find both young and old enjoying work and play together.

On October the thirtieth we are having a social. Instead of a Halloween masquerade, as we have had in former years, we are presenting a play, in which members from each class will take part. We are hoping that this will be a success and that the Lord will bless us in our work so that this may be our most successful year, bringing forth fruit from the good seeds sown.

Mary Milburn, Sec.

• SELF-DENIAL MONTH

BEREANS, do not forget that this is the month in which we deny ourselves all luxuries to help those in distress.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

PAUL IN EPHESUS

MANY of the Ephesians had already heard about Christ, being taught by Aquila and Priscilla. Thus they welcomed Paul and his teachings concerning the kingdom. For three months he taught in the synagogue. Then someone who did not believe, spoke evil of Paul's teachings, and he left the synagogue, and taught in the School of Tyrannus each day for two years.

By this time all in Asia, both Jews and Greeks, had heard the word of the Lord Jesus. Not only had they heard the wonderful words, but they had seen wonderful things. God had caused Paul to accomplish many miracles. Why, sick people became well, when even a handkerchief was brought to them from Paul. Just think of it!

It was so remarkable that some of the vagabond Jews thought they would try Paul's way. They told an evil spirit to come out of a man in the name of "Jesus whom Paul preacheth." But the evil spirit answered, "Jesus I know, and Paul I know, but who are ye?" And the man containing the evil spirit fought the would-be sorcerers, and drove them from the house.

This frightened many others, and many believed, and many brought their heathen books and burned them in public. Some of these books were worth much money, which proves how greatly the Word of God was being received.

WOULD WE give up our valuables like these Ephesians?

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Read Ephesians 5:5-11.
2. Read M. G.—the Junior Class in the Quarterly.
3. Act out the little stories that make up the big story.

WE BELIEVE in the literal resurrection of the dead—"And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt."—Daniel 12:2.

NATURE QUESTION

25. Solomon used the ant as an example of industry. Proverbs 6:6.
26. To what dead reptile does the Psalmist refer?

Never cherish the worries that meet you each day,
For the better you treat them the longer they stay,

Just put them aside with a smile or a song,
And something much better will hurry along.
—Sunshine Magazet.

A BOY'S PRAYER

Jesus, you were once a little boy—
Help me to do today
The things that you would have me do
In all my work and play.

I would be both kind, and strong,
Pure, and good, and true,
And grow more wise as I grow tall,
Just as you used to do.

Show me how to serve you now
In ways a small boy can;
And give me some great work to do,
As soon as I'm a man.

—Eunice Barstow Buck.

"HARD tasks are the proving of the hero."

A NEW COAT GETS INTO TROUBLE

Continued from last week

"Many years passed," said Grandma, "Joseph had not seen any of his family. His father needed food; so his brothers went down into Egypt. And they asked for food, because they were hungry.

"Now Joseph was the one who could give them the food. His brothers did not know they were talking with Joseph, for he had grown older and was changed.

"But how do you suppose Joseph 'got even' with them? He gave them all the food they needed! And he told them to come back again and to bring their father.

"So the next trip, their father went with them. Joseph was so glad to see his father again that he told them who he was. And they all lived together happily."

When Mark went out to play, he called, "Let's play Swap and Seek."

"How do you play it?" asked the boys.

So Mark said, "Let's change sweaters and then hide, so the one who is IT can't tell us apart."

And they played the game. When they were through one boy said, "We're sorry we were so mean to you."

"That's all right," said Mark. "If you ever want to wear this sweater, you can."

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 6. — November 8, 1931

PAUL IN EPHESUS

Acts 19; Ephesians 5:5-11

Devotional Reading: 2 Corinthians 1:3-11

GOLDEN TEXT

And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them. — Ephesians 5:11.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: A Bonfire of Bad Books.

Basic Truth: "Your faith should not stand in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God."

Outline: I. The Power of Books. II. Bad Books. III. Good Books.

I. The Power of Books. Few at first realize the mighty and lasting influences of books. Man's thoughts are revealed by the spoken and written word. The spoken word dies, so far as it is concerned, when the tone vibrations are spent. The written word or thought continues throughout long years. Homer's Iliad, Milton's Paradise Lost, Jehovah's promises, and many other written words have by books been preserved and handed down to us and all intervening generations. Written words plant thoughts in the minds of the readers which thoughts affect the molding and shaping of the reader's character and conduct. Thus books might almost be termed the molds which shapen and determine life habits.

II. Bad Books. All things in life must be valued according to their agreement or disagreement with God. God must essentially be recognized as the Standard—Judge of all things.

Bad books are of two kinds: those presenting thoughts supposed by man to be good, but which nevertheless are in discord with God's fundamental truth, and those which man publishes knowing that they are malicious, injurious, and destructive.

The books of magic upon which Paul's opposers firmly and honestly relied were doubly bad in that the people religiously relied upon them as all-important and necessary. The words and directions of evolutionary and higher critic literature of today's scientists are supposed to be of value and benefit. Those teachings were no more foolish to them than are today's teachings foolish in the estimation of their authors. However those and these are wrong and injurious in so far as God's own true Word is denied by them. These, as also all maliciously bad books, should be forever kept from the mind of man.

III. Good Books. Books are good in so far as their thoughts are in accord with the thoughts of our omniscient Creator. He whose mind is molded by true wisdom and correct comprehension is nigh unto his God and his Savior. Stand not "in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God."

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

Paul's experiences in Ephesus bear out a later statement, "The Holy Ghost witnesseth in every city, saying that bonds and afflictions abide me." Acts 20:23. Everywhere he went, persecution followed. Discuss the reasons for this terrible opposition. Is the answer to be found in 2 Tim. 3:12: "Yea, and all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution"?

If living godly in Christ Jesus brings persecution, why is it that we are not persecuted today? Do you think if we were more zealous in presenting the truth and spreading it abroad, we would be persecuted more?

Paul asks the Ephesian brethren to back him up with prayer. Eph. 6:18, 19. This is one of the ways in which every individual can have a part in gospel effort. Hold the workers up with prayer.

One of the practical teachings of Paul to the Ephesians is found in Ephesians 5:16: "Redeeming the time, because the days are evil." Discuss how we are wasting a lot of our time today that should be redeemed.

—C. E. R.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

"And do not be copartners with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather even reprove them."—Ephesians 5:11, Diag.

At the time of today's lesson Paul was still on his second missionary journey and was in Ephesus, but our golden text was written some years later, while Paul was a prisoner in Rome. In this letter he shows his great concern for the Ephesian brethren and admonishes them about many things.

When two people are copartners, it is usually conceded that they are equally interested in the same thing and take an equal part in the works thereof. Jesus is the Light of the world, and they who follow Him do not walk in darkness, but have the light. Some love darkness rather than light, because their deeds are evil, so that deeds of darkness and deeds of light are of an entirely different nature.

Christ's followers have the light and in no sense should they be coworkers with doers in darkness, for the result will be disastrous.

—L. A. R.

SENIOR AND ADULT CLASSES

A Bonfire of Bad Books

Paul preached the word at Ephesus and many believed. Of this number it is written (Acts 19:19), "Many of them also which used curious arts (magic) brought their books together, and burned them before all men." This would indicate that it was not right to use magic. There must have been something in the teachings of Paul that forbade it.

It was a very common practice among the Jews to cure and heal by the use of "curious arts". They cast out devils by calling on the name of some superior person, as David, Solomon, Abraham, etc. In Acts 19, some Jews tried to cast out a devil by calling on the name of "Jesus whom Paul preacheth". Disaster was their reward.

Let us look at another source of reading. Should we as Christians have books and magazines in our homes that are filled with dirty jokes and stories that arouse the baser emotions? Would we like to have Jesus walk into our homes and see the books and magazines we feed to our minds and the minds of our children? Recently we heard a young girl being criticized by a friend because she was reading a certain sensational magazine. She defended her action by saying, "Mother gives them to me because she says they're educational." This magazine was filled with the type of sin that Paul said should not even be mentioned by Christians. What will Jesus say when He comes? Why not burn a few of these now and refuse to get more?

—H. A. S.

INTERMEDIATE CLASS

Topic: A Bonfire of Bad Books.

Today we find Paul well on his way on his third missionary journey, in which he revisited the churches in Asia that he had established before, "strengthening all the disciples". Arriving at Ephesus, he found plenty to do in this great city filled with idolatry and wickedness, working at his occupation of tent-making and telling the people about the living God and His Son, Jesus the Christ.

What were some of the special things Paul did that showed the people God was with him? Acts 19:11, 12. Some Jews who wandered about from place to place and pretended they could heal people, heard about these wonderful miracles done by Paul and tried to imitate him. What happened? Vv. 13-16. With what result? Vv. 17, 18. Many came to listen to Paul's wonderful gospel of Christ after they had heard of the miracles God had given him the power to do, and they finally believed that he was speaking the truth. So they realized that the way they had been doing was wrong, and they wanted to get rid of all the evidences of the past. They brought the books from which they had learned these wicked things, and they had a great bonfire. These books were very valuable to them, amounting in cost to thousands of dollars. Were they foolish to burn up these expensive books, or was it the right thing to do after they realized that the books were doing great harm to them?

When we come to see that something in our lives is bringing great harm to us we should get rid of it, no matter what the cost.—M. G.

DOINGS AMONG THE CHURCHES

ARE YOU THANKFUL?

Thanksgiving will soon be here. In the Thanksgiving issue of The Herald we would like to see short articles or letters appropriate to the occasion from as many of you as are thankful this year and want to tell us about it. Make your communications short, inspiring, and to the point, and have them here not later than November 17. Let's make this our "thankfullest" Restitution Herald to date.

AN INTERESTING NEW CLASS

A Sunday School Teachers' Training Class has been formed in Oregon which is to meet every two weeks for the study of improved and more effective methods for the presentation of Bible truth to classes of all ages. Sister Grace M. Marsh was chosen as the teacher, and a committee consisting of Sisters Leta Johnson and Mary A. Gesin was appointed to assist her in the selection of a suitable course of lessons. Much interest was shown by the sixteen workers present in the carrying forward of the effort.

A NEW CHURCH AT WATERLOO, IOWA

A short service was held Wednesday, Oct. 21, at the Camp Ground in Waterloo, preparatory to the erecting of a church building. A. J. Eyehaner started the excavation by removing three shovels of dirt. Each of the others present followed his example in removing dirt as their part in starting the new church. It will not be possible to complete the building at this time and we must wait a more convenient season for finishing. However, the basement will be finished for worship and the auditorium can be used in the Conference work even though not completed. It was remarked at the meeting Wednesday that this was a high light in the work of the Conference and also of the local church.

Charles W. Howe.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

A general church social was called at the pastor's home on Wednesday night, Oct. 21. These gatherings are not only enjoyable, but beneficial in every way, making us feel more of the family relationship that should exist.

On Sunday morning, Oct. 18, the aged grandmother of Sister Van Portfleet and Bro. Woodburn fell asleep at the home of the former. The entire church joined with the family in the feeling of sadness that death always brings.

Sr. Craig is able to be dressed and down stairs now, and all are thanking God for His goodness in this.

At this writing final preparations are being made for anniversary Sunday and the series of meetings which will be in progress when these words are read. Different ones have been asked to take charge of the musical period each evening, furnishing whatever special numbers can be obtained. The Question Box is also expected to arouse quite a lot of interest.

The large Bible which was used in the Rally Day program is being placed against the wall at the rear of the pulpit, so that it may be the point of attention during the meetings. The general subject will be, "What We Believe and Why."

A cordial invitation to all.

F. E. Siple, Pastor.

About This and That From Here and There

Word comes that Bro. Fin Snell of Eden Valley, Minn., is very ill with cancer of the stomach. Little hope is held out for him, but let us not forget, brethren, that "prayer changes things".

Bro. Austin was a caller at headquarters' office last week, remaining only overnight. He looked very natural in the usual surroundings, but, as usual, he had to be "on his way". Come again, Bro. Austin.

The final Rally Day of 1931, as far as we have learned, is that of Los Angeles on Nov. 1st. We will be thinking of you, Los Angeles, on that day and trust that you are enrolling many who will answer on that great final Rally when our Master reads the record.

The church at Oregon is especially enjoying the prayer services each Thursday evening under the leadership of their new pastor. Each week a definite need is emphasized by Bro. Marsh, and prayer is devoted to it. The latter half of the hour is given to timely scriptural themes.

Don't forget, brethren, this is Your Page, where it is your privilege to tell us about your meetings, your church activities, your plans for the Master's work. Your ideas for advancement may be just the means of inspiring others to attempt progress. Let's hear from each other frequently.

A letter from Sr. Rhoda Hanson tells us that Sr. M. C. Pickereel of Edwardsburg, Michigan, lost her husband about two months ago. We had heard nothing of Sr. Pickereel's sorrow, but hasten to assure her of our sympathy, and we trust that she finds comfort and consolation in the Source which never fails.

A special series of evening meetings will begin on November 15 at the Brush Creek (Ohio) church by pastor Sydney Magaw. Your print shop put out a very neat Rally Day folder in which this series of meetings was advertised. Bro. Magaw is "doing things" in Ohio. We pray the Father's blessing on his work.

The series of meetings now being held at the Grand Rapids church, we are sure, is proving helpful and interesting, and we trust a large number are availing themselves of this opportunity to hear God's truths clearly and engagingly presented by Bro. Siple. We pray for the success of God's work in Grand Rapids.

We will all rejoice with the brethren at Waterloo in the good news regarding the actual commencement of work on their church edifice. Long have they desired and needed such a building, and their hearts, no doubt, are filled to overflowing at this evidence that at last their hopes are to be realized. Truly, God is good.

The attention of the thoughtful reader is called to the article on page 56 of this number, "To Partake or Not to Partake," by Cecil Smead of the Training Class. This article shows that the author is a thoughtful student of the Scriptures, as indeed he is. The other articles by class members in this issue are also products of the new year's work.

We wanted to report two weeks ago that Sr. Woodward of Golden Rule Home, left Oregon for a brief visit in Michigan, but not knowing her exact whereabouts we refrained. At last we have located her at Kalamazoo, though she may no longer be there when you are reading this. Her cheery presence is missed at the Home circle and all church services.

A most distressing malady descended suddenly and simultaneously upon several members of the Training Class and their English teacher last week and held them in its "grippe". What time they were able to appear, they cluttered up the scenery with lack luster eye and downcast countenance and were a general nuisance. But the skies are clearing, and we think their brains will soon commence to "track" again, and all will be well.

NEXT SUNDAY AT ELDORADO

The Eldorado (Illinois) brethren feel themselves blessed in that they expect (D. V.) to have regular services once a month during the present conference year. Bro. C. E. Lapp, member of the Training Class and our Illinois worker, expects to be with them over the first Sunday of each month, the first meeting to be October 31 and November 1. We trust that all will cooperate and gain the benefit to be found.

DIXON LADIES AID

On Thursday, Oct. 22, the Ladies Aid Society was invited to the country home of Mrs. Edward Mench. It is the usual custom of this society to serve sandwiches and coffee only at these gatherings, but when we go to the country we do not follow this rule. Our hostess served a delicious dinner with other good things added by her guests. The house was prettily decorated in keeping with Halloween. We were pleasantly surprised when Sr. Orpha Sanford and son Charles walked in unexpectedly. We hope they will come again. In the afternoon we spent some time playing games which our hostess had planned for our entertainment.

Saturday, Oct. 24, a food sale was held in one of the uptown stores. A neat sum was realized and the ladies felt repaid for their efforts.

We hope to be guided by our Master in our activities for the coming year. We expect to sew and help the needy, also to do what we can wherever it is needed. We pray that God will give us strength and understanding to do all that will be pleasing to Him, and when the King comes, may we hear, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make you ruler over many things. Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." Jessie Ford, Sec.

DOINGS AT DIXON

The Dixon church has organized a cradle roll, with Sister Conner at superintendent. She has five tots enrolled to date.

Church services are held on the first and third Sundays of each month, with communion on the first.

Our Sunday school is growing steadily, and the teachers are taking special interest in getting the scholars back into class after the summer vacation.

The junior and senior choirs are practicing hard, and their increasing interest is very encouraging.

All classes are planning parties during the week of Halloween. The adult class will have a hard time party at the home of Sister Betty Rossiter on the evening of Oct. 26th.

Grace Drew, Sec.

NIAGARA FALLS AND FONTHILL

Plans for the Annual Fall Meeting at the Falls church are being whipped into shape and a very good meeting is expected. Unless other last minute plans should be made, the preaching will be done this year by the pastor. The program as arranged for preaching services is as follows: Sunday School at 10:00 a. m.; Morning Service, subject, "God's Controversy With the Nations," 11:00; Afternoon Sermon, "He careth for His Own," 2:30; Evening Sermon, "Stereopticon lecture on "The Kingdom of God," 7:30.

On Tuesday evening, October 20th, the congregation at Fonthill boldly took possession of the pastor's home, and in a very short time turned it into a chicken coop, vegetable and fruit cellar, and a grocery store. After cluttering up the rooms they invited the pastor and family to the church basement where a social evening was spent, climaxed with a delicious lunch. To show his appreciation, Bro. Randall invited us to make it a weekly affair.

June is usually considered the month when most people get married, but the way anniversaries are being celebrated among our church folks it would seem that October was the big month of the year. Those who celebrated their wedding anniversaries this month are: Bro. and Sr. Hoover of Selkirk who have been married sixty long years; Bro. and Sr. Platts who have been riding the matrimonial train for thirty years; Bro. and Sr. Shute who have been paddling their bark for eighteen years. Three other couples have been sailing along for eleven years: Dan and Fay Brown, Joe and Wilda Fletcher, and the pastor and wife.

Mother Keenan of Fenwick celebrated her eighty-first birthday on the twenty-fourth.

On Wednesday evening after holding our choir practice in the church we were invited next door to Bro. and Sr. Randall's home, where we were delightfully entertained by colored pictures thrown on the screen. After this we were presented with nicely trimmed switches, and then came the pleasant task of toasting wieners and marshmallows. To this was added steaming hot coffee, and a social chit-chat closed the choir's first gathering in our pastor's home. We find Bro. and Sr. Randall's home so near the church very convenient, and added to this fact, their genial and hospitable manner, I contend much company will be their lot.

CONTRIBUTIONS

Louise Brewer; Mrs. Ada Eldridge; Hanna Barber; F. L. Austin; Mrs. C. Bassett; Lucy Lapp; Samuel J. Smith; Anna E. Drew; Inez and Frances Sheets; Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Cook; M. W. Lyon; Adult and Intermediate Girls Classes of Golden Rule Church; J. E. Coverston; Mrs. Amy Johnson; Frederick Claussen; Pearl Zechiel; R. H. Judd; Lois Hunt; Lydia Rallsback; Eva Grosch; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Starbuck; Mr. and Mrs. Glyn Starbuck; Kathryn Lansbery; Mrs. Bess Kasper; Elsie M. Moore; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Sheets; H. J. Stadden; W. H. Stadden; Alice Lindstrom; Ethel Stadden.

MORDICA SINCLAIR MILLS

Mordica Sinclair Mills was born in Randolph Co., Indiana, in the year 1848, the month unknown. He passed away on Oct. 18, 1931. In 1869 he was married to Miss Maggie Fiddle and to this union one son, Oscar, was born. In 1889 they came to Eden Valley, Minn., and settled on a farm north of town. Twice they drove a team and covered wagon to Indiana and back. About the year 1900 they moved into the northern part of the state, settling on a farm near Ossippe. A few years later they moved from there to St. Cloud. It was here that his wife died. He made his home in the vicinity of Eden Valley after his wife's death, until 1922 when he went to Idaho to live with his son. Two years later he came back and has made his home here in Eden Valley since. His son was accidentally drowned shortly after Mr. Mills left Idaho.

He leaves to mourn his death two sisters in Indiana, one half brother, five grandchildren, his daughter-in-law, and a host of friends.

May God's blessing rest upon all.

John Denchfield.

HERALD RECEIPTS

D. K. Lehman; Fred Huber; Mrs. Ada Eldridge; L. G. Jaeger; Lois Hazlewood; Mrs. Anna Smith; Mrs. A. B. Sunbury; B. F. Cook; Francis H. Gibson; Mrs. E. C. Gates; C. E. Lapp; C. H. Adams; Mrs. E. L. Griffin; Jennie Murrey; Milton Long.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

Published by
National Bible Institution
Oregon, Illinois

Subscription Rates.—51 issues per annum, $2.00; 6 months, $1.00; 3 months, 50 cents. Sample copy, Free.

Change of Address.—When ordering change of address be sure to send us both old and new addresses.

TRACTS AND BOOKS

TRACTS

Name	Pages	Dozen	100
The Reasons Why	2	$0.05	$0.30
Essential Truths	1	.05	.30
God's Promises, by Anna E. Drew	2	.05	.30
The Resurrection, by S. J. Lindsay	2	.05	.30
Obedience	2	.05	.30
The Baptist Confession of Faith	2	.05	.30
Who Owns the Wool?	4	.05	.30
The Coming of Christ, S. J. Lindsay	2	.05	.30
What Is a Christian, J. W. Williams	4	.10	.60
Where Do We Go When We Die?	4	.10	.60
Immortality of the Human Soul	4	.10	.60
Shall Never Die	4	.10	.60
The Voice of Prophecy	4	.10	.60
Immortality	4	.10	.60
Did Christ Pre-exist? R. H. Judd	4	.10	.60
The Thief on the Cross, F. E. Siple	4	.10	.60
What Do the Scriptures Teach? Judd	6	.15	.90
What Must I Do to Be Saved?	4	.10	.60
Hell, What Is It	8	.20	1.25
The Coming of Christ, R. A. Curtis	6	.20	1.25
The Rich Man and Lazarus, F. E. Siple	8	.20	1.25
A Few Thoughts	8	.20	1.25
Baptism, S. J. Lindsay	8	.20	1.50

Name	Pages	Each	Dozen	100
God, R. H. Judd	16	.04	.30	1.75
The First Resurrection, Wm. Leask	20	.05	.40	3.00
A Letter to a Friend	32	.10	1.00	8.00
Where Are the Dead?	36	.05	.50	4.00

Name	Pages	Each	Dozen
The Resurrection, J. L. Wince (For cost of Postage)	32	.03	.12

BOOKS

Name	Pages	Each	Per 6
Death Reigned from Adam to Moses, paper cover	58	$0.10
Sin, A. H. Zilmer, paper covers	84	.25
Destiny of Russia and Signs of the Times, W. H. Wilson, board cloth	96	.25	$1.25
Book of Revelation Made Easy to Understand, W. H. Wilson, board cloth	96	.25	1.25
Ancient Mysteries, George Johnston	116	.50
Christ in the Old Testament, R. H. Judd, paper	88	.40
The Way of Life Eternal, Lyman Booth, paper	88	.40
Student's Text Book, Wilson, board cloth	200	.45	2.60
The Visitor, Boice, paper	212	.50
The Mystery of Iniquity, Booth, paper	220	.75
Pine Woods Bible Class, Wilson, board cloth,	480	.85	5.00
Emphatic Diaglott, Benjamin Wilson Neatly bound, and in clear type,			2.50

THE GOSPEL IN SONG

A Book of 287 well-printed Gospel Hymns

	Each	Per 10	Per 100
	Postpaid	Postpaid	Not Postpaid
Manila	$0.40	$3.60	$30.00
Flexible Cloth	.45	4.00	33.00
Board Cloth	.50	4.50	40.00

RAILING AGAINST GOD

By G. Eldred Marsh

"He also wrote letters to rail on the Lord God of Israel, and to speak against him."—2 Chron. 32:17.

SHOULD Sennacherib, king of Assyria, be permitted to return from the grave, he would find a congenial atmosphere awaiting him in the scholastic and pseudo-scientific world of today. He would return to a world presenting the strange anomaly of a people given at once to iconoclasm and to idolatry. He would be welcomed by men who rail on the Lord God of Israel, while they bow their heads in worship before a crystal coffin containing the embalmed body of a fellow human like unto themselves.

He would meet with men who not only say in their hearts, "There is no God", but who publicly deny the possibility of His being, and at the same time solemnly affirm the scientific datum that "there can be no effect without a cause!" He would listen sympathetically to those who ridicule the absolute and unchanging wisdom of God, while they boast of the infallibility of their own conclusions!

He would be duly impressed with the credulous receptiveness of the masses in their attitude toward their leaders in thought, and perhaps a little surprised at their continued faith in such leaders after having been led by them into so many grievous errors in the past.

But the strangest, the most astonishing, seemingly the most impossible and most improbable of all that he would hear and see, should he return to life after nearly three thousand years of unconsciousness, would be the fact that the God of Israel still lives and is worshiped by more millions today than lived in all the world when he flourished.

The God of Israel lives! He is recognized as the greatest of all the gods of the earth. More Gentiles worship Him than Jews. His name is known, and men pray unto Him, and trust Him, and serve Him in the East and in the West, in the North and in the South, in regions unknown and undreamed of by the wise men of Nineveh and of Babylon!

Jehovah, the God whom Sennacherib defied so many generations ago, still lives, while the gods of Assyria lie buried beneath the desert's drifted sands or fill an ignoble place on the shelf of some museum. This he would not understand.

He would look with wonder upon a world where the "blight of unbelief" holds sway, but where men still cling to the outward forms of divine worship. This, too, he would not understand.

But all that which the king of Assyria would witness would serve to remind him of his own ignominious defeat at the hand of Israel's God.

Another king had placed the letter of Sennacherib before the Lord, the letter in which the Assyrian monarch railed on Jehovah. And God had read that letter, and God had dictated the answer to be made to it. And, in consequence, the mighty army of the Assyrian had "Melted like snow at the glance of the Lord!"

Sennacherib might plead his previous victories over other gods. "Beware lest Hezekiah persuade you, saying, The Lord will deliver us. Hath any of the gods of the nations delivered his land out of the hand of the king of Assyria? Where are the gods of Hamath and Arphad? where are the gods of Sepharvaim? and have they delivered Samaria out of my hand? Who are they among all the gods of these lands, that have delivered their land out of my hand, that the Lord should deliver Jerusalem out of my hand?" Isa. 36:18-20.

And yet the deed was done! The Assyrian might defy; he might deny; he might ridicule; but he could not resist the God of Israel! And such will ever be the experience of those who rail against God, for their efforts are doomed to failure and their blasphemous utterances shall bring upon them nothing save the bitterness of defeat.

"It is nobler to make a man than it is to make money."

TO PARTAKE OR NOT TO PARTAKE

Continued from page 56

merely once a week, or once a month, or once a year, but every day, twenty-four hours in the day, that the true Christian should be communing with his Master. Then, will he not reap just as much punishment for communing unworthily in his everyday life as he will for doing so unworthily on Sunday? The once-a-week partaking is simply the once-a-week outward sign of what should be going on all the time. It is the communion between the Head and the individual member of the body.

That outward communion should be often. We should want to obey His command at every opportunity, and I can find no reason why we should break a plain commandment of our Lord's to do this in remembrance of Him. But, to the contrary, I can find many reasons for doing it in the proper manner and spirit as often as we have the opportunity. The strongest reasons of course are that it is the Lord's command and that we are in constant communion with our Master. Accept constant communion and you needs must accept often communion.

So you see I am wrong when I refrain from eating. I am losing the benefit of my Master's guidance and quiet strength. I am disobeying His specific command, and two wrongs can never make one right.

Let us consecrate our lives more completely to the Lord Jesus by having constant communion with Him—communion that will not be estranged from Him ever, but will always lay strong hold to Him who is our Guide, our Master, yea, our very life. Then when the communion is offered we will not need to hesitate. We will know that to partake is the thing to do. To refrain would be to deny the constant communion we have with Him.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, NOVEMBER 3, 1931

NUMBER 5

THE STUMBLINGSTONE

By Norman John McLeod

"Sanctify the Lord of hosts himself; and let him be your fear, and let him be your dread."—Isaiah 8:13.

ISAIAH has been telling the people of Jerusalem that because they have refused to obey the voice of the Lord, He will bring Assyria upon them like the flood of a river. "In the midst of all the turmoil of invasion, do not be afraid," he says, "of the invader." Do not be afraid of that power that has overthrown the kingdom of Israel to the north. Do not be afraid of one of the most cruel of all nations of antiquity. But fear the Lord.

How different a kind of fear! Do not quake before the armies of the invading host! That will be of no value, for the Lord is sending in the armies of Assyria because of the wickedness of the rulers of Judah. But hold the Lord in reverence! "Let him be your dread." That holy sort of dread lest they disobey Him! The Bible says much of that sort of fear; the fear of the godly man lest he do not the things of God.

"Sanctify the Lord of hosts himself; and let him be your fear, and let him be your dread." Let us heed Isaiah's warning now. Let us "sanctify the Lord of hosts himself" in our hearts. Let us hold Him in dread lest we follow not after Him. "And he shall be for a sanctuary."

Judah had to fear because she was the highway of powerful nations who were her neighbors. She was hedged around by angry foes. If she dared to ally herself with one nation, she thereby courted death at the hands of another. Judah feared her neighbors and not the Lord. The Lord, therefore, brought destruction upon her.

But worse than that, because of Judah's attitude the Lord became "a stone of stumbling and for a rock of offence to both the houses of Israel, for a gin and a snare to the inhabitants of Jerusalem." Why? Because of their enemies around about them—Assyria, Egypt, and Babylonia. Was that not a natural fear? Was not Judah much as we would be?

If a new Isaiah should arise in this land of ours and should say that the Lord was going to send Japanese armies through our country like an overflowing river, would there not be fear among us? Would we not do all we could to put ourselves in a safe place? That was Judah's plight—fear of national destruction. Yet Isaiah said that, if instead they would fear the Lord, He would be "for a sanctuary."

The armies of sin are coming into this glorious country of ours like the "waters of the river" overflowing "even to the neck." On all sides fear is in the land. Because of the greed of certain rich men, we are in the grip of a terrible economic ailment. Thousands are unemployed; Bolshevism leers with its ghastly grimace around the corner of every street. The armies of the antichrist are fast being mobilized.

Terror is on every hand. So far it has not come nigh us. But the prophecies of the Lord's messengers tell us that the "man of sin" will march his dread cohorts throughout the world. "Men's hearts" will fail "them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth." But the Lord will be as a "hiding place." The Lord will be a sanctuary.

"But for a stone of stumbling and for a rock of offence to both the houses of Israel." Paul and Peter interpret this to mean Jesus the Christ. He was a Stone of stumbling and Rock of offence to the Jews. He was the Stone which those builders rejected.

But why did the Jews stumble? Why did Israel reject Him? Because they in their pride looked for a Messiah of glory. Because they in their set ways looked for a Christ of pomp and ceremony. They stumbled at the manger; they stumbled at the cross; they rejected the humble Nazarene, because they feared not the Lord but the nations. They looked for one who would coincide with their

Continued on page 74

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

"All scripture is given by inspiration of God . . . that the man of God may be perfect, throughly furnished unto all good works." — 2 Timothy 3:16-17.

THE EDITOR'S PRAYER

OUR FATHER: As we open the great treasure house of Thy Word we would thank Thee, O God, for its gracious promises concerning the future and for its assurances of divine favor in the present. Help us to apply its marvelous truths to our individual good and to Thy glory through Christ Jesus. Amen.

THE BIBLE

THE BIBLE — the basis of our faith, the foundation of our hope, the assurance of salvation! No other book can compare with it in value and richness of meaning for the world and especially for the child of God.

No other book in the history of literature has met with the experiences that this Book has encountered and survived. It has passed through the crucible of the ages, through the scorching heat of centuries of criticism, but like the three Hebrew children of old, it has come through its fiery ordeal of testing without the smell of smoke upon its pages!

It could not have been otherwise and the Book be what it purports to be, the Word of almighty God! It is God who has preserved it from fire and flood, from the corroding influences of time, and from the wrath of evil men.

And in the fact of its preservation we have strong evidence of its divine origin.

STANDARD OF TRUTH

DEPOSITED in the Standards Office in London is a bronze bar thirty-eight inches long and one inch square. The defining lines, thirty-six inches apart, are cut on gold studs set in holes, so that their surface passes through the axis of the bar. The bar when in use is set on a lever frame which supports it at eight points, and the frame is placed on rollers. In the same office is the Standard of Weights, consisting of a thick disc of platinum of one pound weight.

These are the official standards of the British Empire in weights and measures. All legal transactions having to do with weights and measures are tested by these national standards. They are necessary. Some unchangeable rule must be established by which to test and try all other rules.

What these standards represent in commercial circles of the British Empire, the Bible represents in the world of religion. It is the standard of all truth and of all practice.

STANDARD OF REVERENCE

IN EVERY court of law throughout the Christian world, the Bible is accepted as the standard of reverence and respect. It is for this reason that it is used as an object upon which the oath is taken.

One might suppose in a country like ours, where the masses of the people are composed of irreligious as well as of religious people, in order to impress upon the witness the solemnity and the sacredness of the oath, he would be required to swear by his love for country, his respect for home, his regard for family or personal honor. But it is generally recognized and acknowledged that the reverence and respect of the average individual is greater for the Bible than for any or all of these.

STANDARD OF LAW

TO you and to me, it is not strange that the Bible should be regarded as the highest standard in law, for it contains the laws of which the eternal God is Author. It is a general practice among lawyers to appeal to the Bible as the final and highest source of authority in matters pertaining to moral law. The Bible is even called upon to settle many disputed points of legal procedure. It is generally conceded that the Law of Moses forms one of the oldest and most perfect codes the legal profession has ever known.

One great advantage the Bible possesses over all other books of law is the fact that its statutes were not formulated to satisfy the demands of any man's individual constituency. It is the most unbiased law book in the world.

STANDARD OF MORALS

WHILE the so-called "Moral Standard" is altogether man-made, it expresses man's highest conception of what is right in human conduct. And the Bible is found to indorse the highest, and the highest only, of those rules of action that find place in the moral standards of the world's best men.

Experience has shown that when the Bible does not endorse an act that finds acceptance among "moral" men, that act eventually will work to the harm of society and of the individual who practices it. The Bible only provides a safe and unchangeable guide unto righteousness.

The Trial of Your Faith Worketh Patience

By M. A. Woodward

WHAT is more difficult for us poor mortals to bear than a hard trial of our faith in God or our fellow man? We cannot always see or understand the lesson our Father sends to perfect our faith in Him. We stumble along wondering why the dark, unpleasant things need to come into our lives, until suddenly the cloud breaks; the sun in all its splendor reveals the glory of God; and we see how faith should have worked patience for us. We will not lose the lesson it has brought us.

Not one of us need wonder why the trial comes, whatsoever it may be or whenever it comes. It may be just the thoughtless tongue of gossip that has sent its poisoned dart into our lives, some cruel words that perhaps were never said. If we could know just the truth, there was not one jarring, unkind word in all that was said, but some thoughtless, absent-minded person heard something, guessed at the rest, guessed some more, and finally had quite a plausible story heaped together in a careless brain. At the first opportunity that presented itself someone tried to unload it on the first person who would wait long enough to hear it.

What a kindness to this person, if the other one would say, "Now, friend, if you have any good thing for me to hear, I will listen. If not, let us read a little from James 3. This portion of God's Word is very fine for us today." That would be enough to quiet the gossipy tongue.

O, there are so many things, little rasping things, to keep us wondering what next will come! But as Moses of old caught the needed vision of silence, so we need often, "to stand still and see the salvation of the Lord". We need so much faith and patience, more perhaps than we have ever needed, for great things are being done these days, things we never before dreamed of, and we need the overruling power to guide us more and more.

We cannot look into a printed sheet, but some new, startling thing confronts us. What is more baffling to the financiers, bankers, business men today than the money question? Truly, "the love of money is the root of all evil", and has wrought all this amazing upheaval in every walk of life today. We stand still and wonder, what will the next startling news be. And while we wait in wondering thought, we catch again the words of Moses, "The Lord shall fight for you, and ye shall hold your peace". We know God has spoken to us again, and we say, "With your patience possess ye your souls".

So, beloveds, when the trials hit you hard, just wait, God is working every problem out, perhaps not at all as we expect or had hoped for. But He who could quiet the waves into perfect calm can so easily quiet the nations of the world, and what a calm there will be! For "my Father knows; He knows it all", and can still men's anger, quiet their malice and hatred, and in spite of the hope of many that the world will forget God and rest on man's wisdom and power, they will find that man's extremity was God's opportunity. Another power from some hidden source will step in, take hold and manage the world's affairs much better than mankind ever has. How they will wonder when they come to know that the God they ridiculed is the supreme Ruler.

Stanley Krebs says, "A truly intelligent man trusts God. He is conscious of the Father though he does not fully comprehend Him. How true that worship develops God-consciousness. We cannot be fully conscious of God's power if we are continually fearing that some evil is to befall us."

While the trial of our faith worketh patience, it also develops trust, hope, fearless love which in these days we need in our lives, because fear, developed in our thought, drives love, trust, and faith out. Once make fear our own, hold it in our thought, magnify it, and I believe it will set in motion forces that will bring upon us the very thing we have feared. And so with the love of God, trust and faith, hold these thoughts before you in earnest prayer. They really actualize the good we desire, and we thrill with the thoughts of God's constant love for us. We arise from prayer full of faith, full of strength to carry the burdens of life, for God is on our side and the trial of faith has worked patience for the day. Thank God, my Father knows, He knows it all,

THE MASTER'S SERVICE

By Harold Hamilton

"O Master, I long to serve Thee—
The time is so short at best;
Let me back to the fields," I pleaded,
"I care not to stay and rest."
I knelt at His feet imploring,
I gazed in His face above.
"My child," He said, "your service
Is nothing without your love."

I was longing to serve my Master;
I thought that His greatest care
Was to keep all His workers busy
In reaping the sheaves so fair.
But there in the lonely desert,
Afar from the busy scene,
It dawned on me slowly and sadly
Where the awful mistake had been.

My mind was so full of service
I had drifted from Him apart,
And He longed for the old confiding—
The union of heart to heart.
I sought and received forgiveness,
While my eyes with tears were dim,
And now, tho' the work is precious,
The first place is kept for Him.
—The War Cry.

THE BOOK OF THE REVELATION

By Lyman Booth

EPHEBUS was the chief city of that Asia wherein these churches were located. The Ephesians styled their city the "light of Asia", thus asserting the prominence of Ephesus, about which Smyrna and Pergamos jealously contended with it. It had now so far excelled both its competitors that it had become the ecclesiastical and civil center of Asia. It was wealthy, prosperous, and magnificent, a meeting place of Greek and oriental religions. It was most famous for the celebrated temple of Diana, one of the seven wonders of the world, about which so much has been written (Acts 19). It was greatly favored of God, for Paul labored there three years; and Timothy, Aquila, Priscilla, Apollos, Tychicus, all contributed to the building up of the church.

Judging from Paul's epistle to the Ephesians and from his parting address to the elders of that church, nowhere did the gospel find a kindlier soil or bear fairer fruits of faith and love. John had also made it the center of his ministry during the closing years of his long and eventful life, from which city he exercised a wide jurisdiction over the whole of Asia.

But notwithstanding all these advantages, our Lord could see something hidden beneath the surface about which He could find cause for reproof. It was because they had "left their first love". No evil is more prominent among Christian churches of the present time than the absence of the "burning spirit of Christian love." There is much professed liberality, much interest in religious questions, friendly tolerance, and a high standard of morality, but there is so little warmth of love and so little heated fervor. Where is that flame which Christ died to kindle?

If these seven church were selected as symbols to represent the circumstances surrounding, and the conditions existing in, the church in general throughout the entire Gentile age, where will one look for a perfect local church, one free from all causes for reproof?

Although Pergamos was a city of high antiquity, yet its greatness, importance, and splendor were only attained under the successors of Alexander, of whom one made Pergamos the capital of his kingdom. It was the same kingdom which Attalus, at a later date, bequeathed to the Romans. It was famous for its immense library which had been collected in a competitive rivalry with Alexandria. It was also famous for its beautiful temples of Zeus, of Athena, and of Apollo. But it was noted most of all for the worship of Aesculapius, and I am informed that the remains of this splendid temple are still standing outside of the city.

The Apostle accused them of dwelling "where Satan's seat is", and he gave them a fearful description of their condition, yet indicating a merciful recognition on his part of the difficulties and temptations of his people. But he credited them with maintaining their constancy in spite of the temptations. They had held fast the doctrines he had taught them.

What the fires of martyrdom could not do in impairing their faith, some insidious snare might accomplish. While one may not be able always to resist an enemy in camp, still he may be able to face martyrdom without hesitation or fear. His was a serious charge. Which of us could remain composed to hear him say, "I have against thee a few things"? And again, "Thou hast there, in Pergamos, men holding the teachings of Balaam, who taught Balac how to throw a stumblingblock before the sons of Israel: namely to eat things sacrificed to idols, and to commit fornication."

Balaam has been called "a strange mixture of a man, a man who heard the words of God and saw the vision of the Almighty, yet his heart went after covetousness, and made a fatal compromise between the service of God and the service of mammon. When he found that he was not permitted to curse Israel, he suggested to Balak a more subtle means in the way of temptation to Israel through the lusts of the flesh. In this narrative we learn that the intended curses had been turned into a blessing, which often occurs in God's dealings with men.

To be continued

The First Advent and Its Meaning

By G. Eldred Marsh

"He came unto his own, and his own received him not."—John 1:11.

TRAGEDY and pathos are mingled in this brief historical statement in which all the essential facts connected with the first coming of our Lord are summed up. Here in less than a dozen words the disciple whom Jesus loved assures us that Christ came; he tells us to whom He came; he implies the purpose of His coming; and he records the results of His coming.

"He came unto his own—." In its first occurrence in the text the word own is in the neuter gender, and refers to things and not to persons. He came unto His own things; He came unto His own land; He came unto His own country. Such is the significance of the word own in the original Greek.

It was not accidental that "Jesus was born in Bethlehem, of Judea". Matt. 2:1. There was a divine purpose in it. It was necessary that the Messiah should be born there, not simply that the prophecy concerning the place of His birth might be fulfilled, for events do not happen because it has been predicted that they shall come to pass, but God foresees all things and inspires His prophets to reveal their coming in advance.

It was necessary that the Christ should make His first appearance in Judea, in the land of Israel, because He was the promised and rightful King of the Jews and Heir of the "throne of his father David;" and destined to "reign over the house of Jacob for ever." (Luke 1:32-33.)

Jesus came to His own land because it was His land. It belonged to Him by divine bequest. No other territory having been brought under the dominion of the future Prince of Peace, He must confine His presence and His activities to that country.

God had long since promised that when the testing time for the nations came, when Jehovah should issue His manifesto calling all the world together for "the battle of that great day of God almighty," He would "save the tents of Judah first". Zech. 12:7. Therefore, the Messiah must come first to Judah; He must deliver His own people and His own land first of all.

It is true that the time will come when mighty voices will echo through the sky, proclaiming that "the kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever."—Rev. 11:15. It is true that the time will come in which "he shall have dominion also from sea to sea, and from the river unto the ends of the earth."—Psa. 72:8. It is true that "the kingdom and dominion and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven, shall be given to the people of the saints of the most High, whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and all dominions shall serve and obey him."—

Dan. 7:27. It is true that "he shall . . . put down all rule and all authority and power. For he must reign till he hath put all enemies under his feet." 1 Cor. 15:24-25.

Yes, it is true that universal conquest will eventually place the laurel wreaths of victory upon the uplifted standard of the Lord Jesus Christ. But before this can be accomplished, He must "save the tents of Judah first"; and to do this He must remove the cause of their distresses.

God always speaks plainly concerning the reasons that He metes out punishment. When He condemned Judah to bondage, He addressed her king as follows: "Therefore thus saith the Lord God; Because ye have made your iniquity to be remembered, in that your transgressions are discovered, so that in all your doings your sins do appear; because, I say, ye are come to remembrance, ye shall be taken with the hand. And thou, profane wicked prince of Israel, whose day is come, when iniquity shall have an end, thus saith the Lord God; Remove the diadem, and take off the crown: this shall not be the same: exalt him that is low, and abase him that is high. I will overturn, overturn, overturn it: and it shall be no more, until he come whose right it is; and I will give it him."—Ezek. 21:24-27.

It was sin, the iniquity of both king and people, that brought about the downfall of Judah and Israel. To accomplish their restoration there must "come out of Sion the Deliverer, (who) shall turn away ungodliness from Jacob".—Rom. 11:26. In furtherance of this design, "Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the gospel of the kingdom of God, and saying, The time is fulfilled, the kingdom of God is at hand: repent ye, and believe the gospel."—Mark 1:14-15.

The first act of Jesus in the great drama of redemption was to announce to the Jews that "the kingdom of heaven is at hand," and to call upon them to repent. By the renewal of their faith in God, followed by wholehearted repentance, the way for the restoration of the kingdom of Israel would be prepared.

The first advent was largely, if not altogether, limited in its purpose of the restoration of Israel to divine favor. If they repented, if they turned from their sins, if they renewed their faith in the promises made of God unto the fathers in the past, the kingdom would be restored to them, and they would again be acknowledged as the children of God.

God had pleaded with Israel in the past. The prophecies are largely given up to the admonitions of Jehovah calling upon Israel and Judah to repent that He may pour out upon them the fullness of divine favor and blessing. Through John the Baptist and the Lord Jesus, He continued to implore His people to turn away from their sins that they might be saved. Thus pleading with Israel, as all the prophets had done before Him, Jesus "came unto his own, and his own received him not."

In this second occurrence of the word own, it is found to be in the masculine gender in the Greek, and consequently refers to persons rather than things. "He came unto his own" land, "and his own" people "received him not," would be a fair rendering of the original.

He came unto His own land, and pleaded with His own people. He was ready and willing to deliver them from their enemies. There were just two conditions standing in the way of their individual and national restoration and salvation: they must repent of their sins; and they must believe in Jesus as the Messiah.

But while "he came unto his own, . . . his own received him not"! As a nation, they did not repent. As a nation, they did not accept Him as their Messiah and Deliverer. They rejected Him and all His claims to authority over them. They bitterly repudiated Him, crying out to their own oppressors, "Away with him, away with him. . . . We have no king but Caesar."—John 19:15.

Because of their rejection of Jesus as their King, because they would not repent, the Jews were not forgiven their iniquities; the kingdom was not restored at that time; and the great work of restitution was not set in motion.

Yet in spite of both Hebrew and Gentile rejection of the Christ, the kingdom of God will come; the restitution will be accomplished; and the redemption of the world from sin will be brought to pass. For all that was promised unto the fathers by the prophets, all that has been predicted for Israel and for the Jews, all that God has said He will pour out upon the Gentile nations in the way of blessings—all this, and a great deal more, will be brought to pass through the second coming of Him of whom it was said: "He came unto his own, and his own received him not"! —o—

A WASTED HOUR

AN HOUR wasted seems of small account; but an hour too late for the cars, the boat, or the bank may cost a fortune, a journey, or a life. An hour of sin may cause a life of sorrow; and an hour's delay in case of fire, disease, or danger may ruin the most vital interests.

But even if all hours were alike, and there were no grand and critical periods where lifetimes are massed in moments, yet a wasted hour is no trifling affair.

Suppose you waste an hour every day. Here are seven hours lost in a week; three hundred and sixty-five hours, or thirty-six days and a half of working time in a year; or five years of time lost in fifty. Who can afford such waste? Life is short; time is precious; labor is needed; laborers are few. And yet men trifle away moments which are more precious than gems, and waste and squander hours which gold could never purchase, which tears can never regain.

"See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, redeeming the time, because the days are evil."

—Selected by R. A. Curtis.

DOES YOUR HEART RING TRUE?

By C. E. Lapp

"Let no man deceive you by any means, for that day shall not come except there come a falling away first."

THE foregoing text is often quoted in religious circles, and it would seem to be a good thing if we as Christians would look into the real meaning of this passage to see what truth it holds for us.

Evidently someone had been following in Paul's footsteps, teaching things that were not the truth concerning the second coming of our Lord. Paul wrote and told the Thessalonians something about the events that were to take place when Christ came. He told them not to be troubled in mind by anything that they heard about Christ's coming, because there were certain things that must come to pass before He would come.

Among other things he mentions the fact that there will be a falling away before Christ comes. Some may say this pertains to people of the world that are turning more and more to sin and away from Christ and the true church. But how can they turn from something which they have never been following?

Paul does not mean the people of the world, but he does mean those who have once accepted the faith and have turned away to the beggarly elements of the world. He says that the people of the church are becoming less and less concerned about their own salvation and that of others, that they are turning away from the true Christ and are worshiping self and earthly ambitions rather than becoming humble and doing as He said: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God . . . and all these things shall be added unto you."

Paul also said in 2 Timothy 4:3 that the time would come when they would not endure sound doctrine, but after their own lusts would heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears; and they should turn away their ears from truth to fables.

Surely we must be living in the day of which Paul so plainly speaks concerning Christ's coming! More and more we see just such conditions on every hand. We find people in the church who will not endure sound doctrine and furthermore will not permit it to be preached in the church. The reason is that if the pure, unadulterated gospel were preached, they would come within its condemnation and would be in the class with those whom Christ called hypocrites. Instead they want someone that will smooth over their sins and let them think they are not so bad after all. This is a most deplorable condition.

You may say this attitude only affects the person who is falling away, but if you will notice a little closer you will find every Christian is being watched. Every move made by the man or woman who professes Christianity is criticised by those outside of Christ. The worst offender in the church is always the one by whom the majority are judged.

People who might turn to Christ never do because of the laxness of the Christian in a great many instances.

Brethren and friends, it is our firm conviction that Christ will soon come back to earth, and it might be well for each of us to ask ourselves if we are as true as we might be, if we are willing to accept God's Word even if it does convict us of our sins. Possibly we are causing others to stumble on in darkness, headed for a Christless grave because of our own indifference and laxness in living a pure, consecrated Christ-like life. Let us all measure ourselves up by the standard that Christ gave, and then may we live every day just as if Christ were standing right by our side.

---

DON'T CRITICISE

By Mrs. A. J. Chaplin

OVER the radio recently I heard a sermonette. I would call it, "Don't Criticise". The speaker referred to the great harm done by harsh criticism. He told of a man who was well educated and who had always had the respect of every one. No one could truthfully find a thing against his character. The man was elected to an office of trust and one which he was capable of filling. No sooner was he installed in the office, than he was rushed with people who wanted to tell him how to run his business, what he should do, and what he should not do.

He concluded that he knew enough to fill the place entrusted to him and that the less attention he paid to all this advice given him, the better it would be for himself and the community. So he did not cater to any of them, but did the thing he thought right. Of course, as is always the case, he got a lot of criticism, not from the ones higher up, with whom he worked, but from these "would-be" friends who thought, because he had their vote, he should favor them. When he could not do so, they began to criticise him, and ran all over the country telling untrue stories about him.

The speaker said this thing worried the man so that his health began to fail; his hair turned prematurely gray; his step lagged; his face became furrowed with care. He felt that his friends had forsaken him, as every day he heard of their criticism, and being of a sensitive nature, he brooded over these things. One night, he said, he could not sleep, and out of the stillness of the night, there came to him these words: "A man was once crucified because of criticism."

Do you know who that man was? Our Savior, Jesus the Christ! Criticism paved the way for Him to be nailed to the cross. Then the troubled man found rest. He said, "I don't worry about what people say about me any more; but I do say, 'Don't criticise'."

Many think it is their vocation in life to criticise everyone, to try to discover something with which to find fault. Be careful, you might kill someone, for some people cannot stand up under that kind of treatment.

Criticism caused not only Jesus to be crucified, but different of the apostles met terrible persecutions, were stoned, imprisoned, beaten with many stripes by the mob.

Be careful to hold in check that pen or that tongue. When you are about to criticise another, remember Jesus said to the mob that brought the woman before Him to be condemned, "Let him that is without sin cast the first stone."

Don't be self-righteous, always looking for something to criticise in another. Many people who were doing good work for their Savior have been hindered and cast down by critics, who thought they must "call them down" on first one pretext and then another. They became discouraged and quit trying.

Following this little talk, the radio choir sang, "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord?" It was touching and beautiful.

This may not appeal to THE HERALD readers as it did to me. To me there is a lesson in it, and if we would all apply it and give praise instead of blame, how much happier everyone would be.

---

THE TRINITY

By Horace G. Pierce

GO INTO the popular churches of today and what do you hear concerning the trinity? They tell you that there are three co-equal and co-eternal persons, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost, and they are all one or God in person. This is contrary to Bible teaching.

This creed was first established in the year 325 A. D. at the Council of Nicæe, an assembly summoned to dispose of Arianism. According to Arius, the Son was a created being, hence not in the orthodox sense "perfect God". The council refused to accept the Arian creed, but accepted the creed brought forward by Eusebius of Cæsarea.

In John 1:18 we find that no man has seen God at any time. No one, I am sure, will deny the fact that Christ, the Son, was seen and heard teaching and performing miracles. This alone should show any intelligent, thinking person of the impossibility of the trinity.

Christ is the Mediator between God and man. 1 Timothy 2:5.

There are more than one hundred twenty places in the Bible that show us that Jesus was the only begotten Son of God, and was sent into the world to save the world, born of woman and under the law. (John 3:16-18; Gal. 4:4.)

The words, ghost and spirit, are both translated from the same word, and refer to the power of God.

Man should go to the Bible, God's inspired Book, to find out for himself the things that are true, and not take another man's word for it; for the Bible says, in 2 Timothy 4:3, 4, that the time would come when man would not endure sound doctrine. Therefore we must be careful to take the Bible as it really is, not as man may have changed it to suit his own desires. Rev. 22:18, 19.

PRAYER

---

Lord, what change within us one short hour
 Spent in Thy presence will avail to make!
 What heavy burdens from our bosoms take!
 What parched grounds refresh as with a shower!
 We kneel, and all around us seems to lower;
 We rise, and all, the distant and the near,
 Stands forth in sunny outline, brave and clear;
 We kneel, how weak! we rise, how full of power!
 Why, therefore, should we do ourselves this wrong,
 Or others—that we are not always strong—
 That we are sometimes overborne with care—
 That we should ever weak or heartless be,
 Anxious or troubled—when with us is prayer,
 And joy and strength and courage are with Thee?
 —Richard C. Trench.

---

LITTLE THINGS

---

By C. E. Randall

ONE of the sermons I preached at General Conference was on prayer. The day following, Sr. Whitehead came to me and said: "Clyde, I enjoyed your sermon last night very much, but I wish you had emphasized the use of prayer for the little things of life as well as for the larger problems". I thanked her for the comment, but my mind was greatly arrested by two words, "little things". They have constantly been coming to my mind since that day. How true it is that we so often neglect the "little things of life". The old saying, "Take care of the little things and the big things will take care of themselves," is profound truth.

Since Conference time I have received a letter from a sister in San Francisco commenting on the sermon above mentioned as reported through THE HERALD, who said: "It helped me very much because I have always been troubled about what to pray for." She also requested that I write something more on prayer. This article is in answer to these remarks.

Perhaps after all, the little problems of life are the most perplexing and troublesome to the majority of Christian people because they seem trivial. We hesitate to open our hearts to our friends, and we think it childish and, possibly, decidedly wrong to weary our heavenly Father with such "little things". As earthly parents we forbear long with our children in their little problems, because we know that they worry and are exceedingly troubled over them. Our heavenly Father looks upon us and deals with us as "little babes", knowing our weaknesses and shortcomings. Paul informs us that our great High Priest is "touched with the feeling of our infirmities".

Whatever your problem or difficulty may be, remember,

"the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open unto their prayers". The call is, "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest".—Matt. 11:28. It matters not what the burden is, the promise is "rest". The heavy load may come from little things, but "He careth for you"; therefore open your heart to Him.

"Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you".—Matt. 7:7.

We are told that the very hairs of our head are numbered. We will never really learn to fully trust our heavenly Father and to have faith in Him in big things until we by practice prove Him in the little things of life.

Perhaps you may wonder just what I mean by "little things". This of course can only be suggestive. What some would term "little things", others might consider "big problems". Personally, I would class the following in the group of "little things": the little daily cares about the house, barn, shop, or store, such as, burnt fingers, misplaced articles, worries over children at school or on way to or from school, harsh remarks about us, meeting grocery bills, and a thousand and one other things.

These little things oftentimes become mountains. But whatever your problem, big or little, anything that worries, troubles, pains, or burdens you, take it to the Lord in prayer. He never wearies in our asking His aid in helping us with our daily problems.

Prayer is for your use. Use it when, where, or for whatever you may need it. Pray when not in need, and when need arises you will find it available and sufficient to meet every situation in every respect.

PRAY

- while at work;
  - when at play;
  - in the day;
  - during the night;
  - when all is well;
  - when in need;
  - for big things;
  - for LITTLE THINGS.
-

THE BASIS OF HONOR

---

"It is astonishing that ambitious men do not perceive the sure path to the realizing of their ambition that lies in helpfulness. They are blind to it because theirs is a selfish ambition, and selfish ambitions do not succeed. The men and women who have done the most to help the needy are those whom the world honors long after it forgets to praise its Cæsars and Napoleons and Alexanders. They are those like John Howard and Florence Nightingale and Clara Barton and Wilberforce and Livingstone; they are those like Jesus the Christ. 'Thou who didst come not to be ministered unto but to minister, we would stand by Thy side, and by the side of Thy needy ones. Amen.'"

THE CAUSE AND THE EFFECT

By Samuel E. Haney

"How much more abominable and filthy is man, which drinketh iniquity like water?" "The wicked, through the pride of his countenance, will not seek after God: God is not in all his thoughts."—Job 15: 16; Psalm 10:4.

WHAT an accusation this is that Eliphaz makes of the race in general while reproving Job for his impiety in justifying himself! And how well David echoes Eliphaz's indictment of man! He even goes a step further by saying, "His (God's) ways are always grievous; thy judgments are far above out of his sight: as for all his enemies, he puffeth (laughs, Moffatt) at them".

These two Bible characters lived a long time before Christ, Eliphaz fifteen centuries and David twenty-eight generations. And while their description of man's status with God may have been intended for their respective generations, their words were "written for man's admonition" during the Christian era. 1 Cor. 10:11. Any attempt to more accurately describe the present demoralized, disgraceful, and disobedient state of mankind than our text depicts would be audacious.

We get an idea of God's manner of procedure by referring to His dealings with sinful man in Noah's and Lot's days. "Then Yahweh saw that great was the wickedness of man in the earth, and that every purpose of the device of his heart was only wicked all the day, and it grieved Yahweh that He had made man in the earth . . . and He took sorrow unto his heart. And Yahweh said: I must wipe off man whom I created from off the face of the ground, from man unto beast, unto creeping thing unto the bird of the heavens—for I am grieved that I made them."—Gen. 6: 5-7, Roth. Only eight souls saved!

And the Lord promised Abraham He would not destroy Sodom for ten's sake—ten righteous souls. Gen. 18:32. But the destruction of the cities of the plain proves there were not even ten—only three souls saved. And who can say that the ratio of saved souls of these two epochal events will not obtain in Daniel's time of trouble? Luke 17:20-30.

Our text begins by describing man in his superlative stage of iniquity. The preceding fourteen verses depict him in lesser degrees of iniquity: "How much more abominable and filthy is man, which drinketh iniquity like water?" "Who gulps down wickedness like water", Moffatt. The term, "gulps down wickedness", more accurately describes man's increasingly eager propensity to sin, as more abominable and filthy methods of iniquity are inadvertently invented by the spirit of our adversary, as prophesied, "But evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving, and being deceived." 2 Tim. 3:13.

The gullibility of the unregenerate race has gone over the top of previous generations' conscientious boundaries. "Whose end is destruction, whose god is their belly, and whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things."—Phil. 3:19. Their goal is the deceptive will-o-the-wisp lights that hover over the abominable, miasmal filthy places of the world—the things and customs of Babylon. Their daily objective is to enjoy the sights of the latest attractions that appeal to their corrupted minds and souls.

Just such a state of affairs was in vogue in Noth's and Lot's days which brought about God's wrath, "making them an ensample unto those that after should live ungodly"—2 Peter 2:6. And this "blind", ungodly world is unaware that it has reached a state of demoralization paralleling with its predecessors to which Peter refers above. Its doom is imminent, as described in Revelation 1:19, after which heaven and God's saints shall rejoice (verse 20) when they shall see John's typical vision being fulfilled.

"Then a strong angel lifted a boulder like a huge millstone and flung it into the sea, crying, So shall the great city, Babylon, be hurled down, hurtling, and never be seen any more: and the sound of harpists and minstrels and flute players and trumpeters shall never be heard in thee more: and craftsmen of any craft shall never be found in thee more: and the sound of the millstone shall never be heard in thee more: and the light of a lamp shall never be seen in thee more. (Vanished the ripe fruit of thy soul's desire! Perished thy luxury and splendor! Never again to be seen.) For the magnates of the earth were thy traders; and all nations were seduced by thy magic spells. And in her was found the blood of prophets and saints of all who were slain upon earth"—Rev. 18:21-24, Moffatt. The fourteenth verse is here replaced where it belongs, namely, in the middle of verse twenty-three.

Our text might be termed cause and effect, Eliphaz describing the cause and David the characteristic effect, namely, "The wicked, through the pride of his countenance, will not seek after God. God is not in all his thoughts."

To whom does the word "wicked" refer? One may say, to the twelve hundred million of heathendom, the seven hundred million of Christendom being exempt by their Christian profession. Such a conclusion might have some standing in churchianity, but, colloquially, it has not a peg to stand on in Christianity. There is evidence in all phases of life throughout so-called Christian nations to verify this statement.

We shall consider a few mute testimonies, and have our readers act as jurors:

The records of Christendom's criminal, petty, and divorce courts;

The record of political intrigues;

The sickening abomination of society;

The shameful, indescribable effect wrought by so-called science of finance;

Grafting and profiteering, wherever possible, in all lines of business.

Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, though we have several other important witnesses, we shall here rest our case feeling assured that you will find the defendant guilty as charged by the plaintiffs, Eliphaz and David, and also deserving extinction from the universe. And furthermore, knowing that the defendant (the devil, through many of his dupes) is sure to put up an eloquent sophistic defense we have reserved as a rebuttal Paul's infallible testimony, namely, "Mark this, there are hard times coming in the last days. For men will be selfish, fond of money, boastful, haughty, abusive, disobedient to their parents, ungrateful, irreverent, callous, relentless, scurrilous, dissolute, and savage; they will hate goodness, they will be treacherous, reckless and conceited, preferring pleasure to God—for though they keep up a form of religion, they will have nothing to do with it as a force. Avoid all such. Some of them worm their way into families and get hold of the women-folk who feel crushed by the burden of their sins—wayward creatures of impulse, who are always curious to learn and never able to attain the knowledge of the Truth". —2 Tim. 3:1-7, Moffatt.

Is the Apostle here referring to avowed heathens? No; for it is a question if such an accusation could truthfully be brought against heathendom. Paul is inimitably describing the God-dishonoring, sordid degradation of Christendom almost en masse as every consecrated child of God sees it today.

We shall get a summary of our subject in Daniel 12:1, 2, a differentiation of professing Christians: those having made themselves ready for God's kingdom and those having not. "Then shall Michael rise, the archangel who defends your people, and there shall be a time of trouble such as never has been since there was a nation; but every one of your people who is enrolled in the book of life shall be delivered, and many who sleep in the dust of death shall awake, some to life for evermore and some to be rejected and abhorred for evermore".—Moffatt.

---

THE STUMBLINGSTONE

---

Continued from front page

ideas, not one to teach them the fear of the Lord.

We are reminded of Naaman who had that dread disease, leprosy; when he was told to bathe in Jordan, he stumbled at that word, till he was convinced that nothing else would cure. We are reminded of the rich young man who asked the Master how to be saved; when he was told to make himself as the poor, he despised, he stumbled at that word. We are reminded of that Roman emperor who would not submit to the ceremony of baptism, because it was not a dignified thing for one so exalted as he; but he had the misguided priest sprinkle a little water on him. We are reminded of the present day skeptic who says, "Oh, baptism cannot save me. That's just an old out of date idea. Belief in Jesus is what saves."

They stumble at that stumblingstone just as did the Jews. They feared the foes around them: "the sin which doth so easily beset us." They stumbled because they could not lower their eyes to see the pleasures of humble obedience. "The Lord is for a sanctuary," but they could not enter the sanctuary because of unbelief.

But some will say, "I am not good enough to come into the family of Christ." No man ever was, save Christ Himself. "There is none that doeth good, no, not one." Even Moses lost his temper. Even Abraham dissembled. So righteous a man as Zacharias doubted God to the point of punishment. If we will look through the eleventh chapter of Hebrews, we will see many a faithful worthy, yet all of them had weaknesses; all of them sinned. Not that their sins excuse us when we sin; but that all men are sinners; all have weaknesses. Instead of that keeping us away from Christ, it is the very thing that should bring us to Him, for we need His righteousness because of our lack.

Or some will say, "I cannot make up my mind to live my best. I fear God rather than the enemies around me, but I want to enjoy the pleasures of this world a little while longer." Just as Israel wanted to ally themselves with other nations so as to frighten their enemies! Let God be for your sanctuary. "Flee as a bird to your mountain."

Let not the getting of wealth, nor the humility of the cross, nor the love of this world, nor the alliances of business, entangle you. Do not stumble at the upward path that leads to the man of perfection in Christ. Do not disallow the Stone that is made by God to be the Head of the corner.

"If so be ye have tasted that the Lord is gracious. To whom coming, as unto a living stone, disallowed indeed of men, but chosen of God, and precious. . . . Unto you therefore which believe he is precious: but unto them which be disobedient, the stone which the builders disallowed, the same is made the head of the corner, and a stone of stumbling, and a rock of offence, even to them which stumble at the word, being disobedient: whereunto also they were appointed. But ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, an holy nation, a peculiar people; that ye should shew forth the praises of him who hath called you out of darkness into his marvellous light: which in time past were not a people, but are now the people of God: which had not obtained mercy, but now have obtained mercy. Wherefore laying aside all malice, and all guile, and hypocrisies, and envies, and all evil speakings, as newborn babes, desire the sincere milk of the word, that ye may grow thereby".—A sermon given at the Church of God in Los Angeles, California.

---

BAD men reject the Bible much as a faded coquette her mirror, because it reflects the ravages time has wrought with her maiden beauty. So men look into the mirror of the gospel, and see reflected there ghastly images, and turn away, saying, "I hate him because he doth not speak good concerning me, but evil."

Breaking the mirror does not restore the vanished charms of youth, nor does discarding the Bible change the grim and grizzly features of sin. Moses did not by breaking the stones of the decalogue repeal its granite, "Thou shalt not." The sinner does not escape the condemnation of the law by banishing all thought on its religious claims.

—Selected.

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 124 N. Parkside Ave., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois

For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"BE KINDLY AFFECTIONED ONE TO ANOTHER WITH BROTHERLY LOVE."—ROMANS 12:10.

"PUT ON AS THE ELECT OF GOD, KINDNESS."

Colossians 3:12

THERE is a story of an old man who carried a little can of oil with him everywhere he went, and if he passed through a door that squeaked, he poured a little oil on the hinges. If a gate was hard to open he oiled the latch. And thus he passed through life, lubricating all hard places and making it easier for those who came after him.

People called him eccentric, queer, and cranky; but the old man went steadily on, refilling his can of oil when it became empty and oiling the hard places he found.

There are many whose lives creak and grate harshly as they live day by day. Nothing goes right with them. They need lubricating with the oil of gladness, gentleness, or thoughtfulness. Have you your own can of oil with you? Be ready with your oil and helpfulness in the early morning to the one nearest to you. It may lubricate the whole day for him. The oil of good cheer to the downhearted one—Oh, how much it may mean! The word of courage to the despairing one—speak it!

Our lives touch others but once, perhaps, on the road of life; and then, mayhap, our ways diverge, never to meet again. The oil of kindness has worn the sharp, hard edges off of many a sin-hardened life and left it soft and pliable and ready for the redeeming grace of the Savior.

A word spoken pleasantly is a large spot of sunshine on a sad heart. Therefore, "Give others the sunshine, tell Jesus the rest."—Selected.

"We cannot know the grief

That men may borrow;

We cannot see the souls

Storm-swept by sorrow;

But love can shine upon the way

Today, tomorrow;

Let us be kind.

Upon the wheel of pain so many weary lives are broken,

We live in vain who give no tender token.

Let us be kind."

DEAR BEREANS: This being Self-denial Month I feel I must add my small amount, wishing it were more.

Owing to Brother Chandler's health and weakened condition, we are closely confined to our home and the cares of life. But we try to be ready to give an answer to anyone who asks the reason for our Hope, thereby inducing others to read and study God's Word, to learn of the precious promises of God to the children of men, and to set their affections on things above rather than on perishable things of earth and this life.

As a Berean, I am financially a backslider, yet I love the work and meditate on its blessings and advantages to both young and old, ever giving praise to those noble leaders who started the work and to those who are still striving to carry the work on today. Surely, we are living in Bible times.

Remember the isolated one of the faith,

Mittie Chandler,

16 South Columbia, Tulsa, Oklahoma.

WHAT have you denied yourself this month? Even though the amount saved may be small do not think that it is too little for the Master to use. Send the money that you have saved during Self-denial Month to Virgil Claypool, 308 E. Chestnut, Robinson, Illinois. In sending this money, be sure to state for what purpose it is being sent.

"I HEAR men praying everywhere for more faith, but when I listen to them carefully and get at the real heart of their prayer, very often it is not more faith at all that they are wanting, but a change from faith to sight.

"Faith says not, 'I see that it is good for me, so God must have sent it', but, 'God sent it, and so it must be good for me'.

"Faith, walking in the dark with God, only prays Him to clasp its hand more closely."—Phillips Brooks.

THE NEW JUNIOR BOOK

THE new Junior Berean Book entitled, "The Hebrew People," is now ready for distribution. It is a very neat book, easy to understand and of clear print. The price is 30 cents for single copies; 27 cents each for 5 to 25 copies; 25 cents each for 25 or more copies.

Please send all orders to the National BEREAN Society, Oregon, Illinois, and not to the N. B. I.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

PAUL IN JERUSALEM

PAUL bade a tearful good bye to his friends at Miletus. Then he started to Jerusalem. The first part of the journey was aboard three boats; the first taking them to Coos, Rhodes and Patara; the second, continuing south to Cyprus to Tyre in Phœnicia. Here Paul spent seven days.

We read that the disciples in Tyre brought their wives and children to bid Paul farewell. The third boat trip was down the coast to Ptolemais. The next day after landing they went to Cæsarea, and spent seven days with Philip, the evangelist.

While he was in Tyre, the Spirit had warned Paul of danger in Jerusalem; and now in Cæsarea a prophet of Judea, named Agabus, brought him another warning. He bound his hands and feet with Paul's girdle, thus showing that the Jews would likewise bind Paul and deliver him to the Gentiles.

However, Paul refused the pleadings of his friends, saying, "What mean ye to weep and to break mine heart? for I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus."

To this his friends replied, "The will of the Lord be done." Accordingly, they went up to Jerusalem, where they were gladly received by the brethren.

The next day Paul and his friends met with James and the elders. Paul told them of his many Gentile converts; whereupon up came the same old question of the law of Moses which the Council had discussed several years before. To satisfy the ideas of the Jews Paul went into the temple for seven days, to observe certain of the Jewish customs.

The seven days were about ended when the same old Jewish enemies from Asia Minor came up to Jerusalem; and seeing Paul and the four he had taken with him into the temple, they immediately stirred up a riot against him. They cried that Paul was teaching everywhere against the law, and that even now he had taken Gentiles into that part of the temple where Gentiles were forbidden to enter. They said this just because they had seen him on the street with a Gentile.

Poor Paul! He had already suffered much, and now he was to suffer more! The mob drew him out of the temple, and closed the doors. Then they beat him until the chief captain and soldiers came to find out what the uproar was about. Paul was then bound with two chains, just as Aga-bus had prophesied.

The chief captain asked who Paul was and what he had done. No one seemed to know, for one cried one thing, and another something else. To assure Paul's safety until the captain found out who he was, the soldiers carried Paul into the castle. The enemies followed, crying, "Away with him!"

How they must have hated Paul! And, for what? Because he preached that Jesus was the Christ, and when they refused to believe him, he had carried the message to the Gentiles.

However, the noisy crowd became silent when the captain permitted Paul to speak to the people from the stairs. He addressed them in their own Hebrew tongue, telling them of his birthplace, his early life, how he had persecuted the Christians, until his wonderful conversion and faith in Christ Jesus. Always speaking for his Savior in face of every danger!

When Paul said God had sent him to the Gentiles, the angry Jews again made an uproar, casting off their clothes, and throwing dust into the air, and shouting, "Away with such a fellow from the earth: for it is not fit that he should live." Why, you children would not think of acting that way!

The chief captain ordered Paul to be scourged in order to make him confess his identity. However, upon Paul's statement that he was a Roman and freeborn, the order was withdrawn, and Paul was unbound. You see, the captain felt just as the magistrates in Philippi had—that the rulers might punish him for binding and hurting a Roman citizen without trial.

Thus Paul's life was spared a little longer. Do you think Paul should have gone to Jerusalem?

WOULD WE have gone to Jerusalem knowing what would befall us?

NATURE QUESTION

26. The Psalmist refers to a dead adder. Psalm 58:4.
27. What bird makes her house in the fir trees?

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Read all of Acts 21 and 22.
2. Read Acts 23:12 to end.
3. Trace this part of Paul's journey.
4. Tell all the things that happened to Paul in Jerusalem.

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 7. — November 15, 1931

PAUL IN JERUSALEM

Acts 21:17 to 23:30

Devotional Reading: 2 Corinthians 4:7-15

GOLDEN TEXT

For thou shalt be his witness unto all men of what thou hast seen and heard. — Acts 22:15.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Basic Truth: "Ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth."—Acts 1:8.

I. A Witness. Holy spirit was given to the apostles, Acts 1:8, not alone for their personal benefit but that they might have power or strength with which to witness for Christ. God, "by miracles and wonders and signs", Acts 2:22, approved of Jesus that He was God's Anointed, the Messiah, Christ. Jesus in the performance of these miracles bore testimony to God's power working in Him.

So with Paul, and other apostles, the power bestowed upon them enabling them to perform mighty works bore testimony, not of blessings from God, but of God's power, of Christ's power being given enabling them to do works and speak words far beyond the ability of unaided natural man.

The words, the life, the works of the Apostle, became the testimony, the witness of Jesus that He was the Christ, God's Son, God's Messiah.

II. Paul's Success Elsewhere. Not only must unlearned and ignorant man be taught of God's Christ, but also the religious, the prejudiced, the learned Jews, who had for generations been worshipers of God. It was far more difficult to convince those familiar with the Mosaic law that Jesus was God's anointed Messiah to be Redeemer of Israel, King of God's kingdom, and Savior from death, than it was to convince the unprejudiced Gentiles.

Paul had given more attention to witnessing for Christ in districts that were largely Gentile, than he had in and about Jerusalem.

In the Gentile regions of Philippi, Thessalonica, Berea, Athens, Corinth, Ephesus, and elsewhere God had enabled Paul to testify successfully before many people. Special and amazing power of miracle had enabled him to contend with opponents of Christ, in comparison as gladiators contend with savage wild beasts. Paul was always successful in that bore convincing testimony that the gospel was alike for Jew and Gentile. Its power of salvation was attested in that those coming within its immediate influence by faith were made to rejoice in its every day benefits.

Such results could but strongly increase Paul's faith in the power of the gospel for the Jew and fortify and strengthen him now to go to Jerusalem and face the Savior's most vicious opponents.

III. Difficulties Peculiar to Jerusalem. Since David's day Jerusalem had been the chosen city of God. Since Abraham's day the Israelites had been the chosen people of God.

Since Moses' day his law had been the appointed law of God. By many succeeding privations and punishments for disobedience God had for centuries exhorted the Jews to respect God, His city, and His law.

The entrance of Jesus, while in fulfillment numbers, both of learned and unlearned, were convinced of the truths of his utterances.

The success of the gospel in Gentile lands not only bore wonderful testimony to the power of Christ exercised through Paul, but also of the prophetic word which the Jews claimed to believe, was decried by them as an overthrow of God's law. True, they possibly made such claim because of their displeasure at the Savior's reproof, because of their insincerity of service and life unto God. It was these prejudiced, self-righteous people to whom Paul endeavored to witness convincingly of Christ.

The difficulties were several, first, to place Christ in their estimation as being greater than Moses and this without committing them to a repudiation of Moses;

Second, having led them to a mental belief in Christ, to induce them to forsake their carnal lustful ways for the spiritual, sacrificing ways of Christ;

Third, to gain the confidence and support of the more sober minded, before the wild and angry cries of the vehement should gain control.

These difficulties evidently Paul endeavored to surmount. It is further evident that the Father had other plans and sacrifices for Paul. Rome needed Paul's presence, and it was through his visit to Jerusalem that God provided governmental officers to accompany him to Rome.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

Resurrection Hope: The resurrection hope, which Paul possessed and preached without fear or favor, was the cause of his being called in question. Acts 23:6. Paul was preaching what they needed, that is, hope. A person that is without hope is of all men most miserable. 1 Cor. 15:19. There are two kinds of hope in the world: the resurrection hope which is the Christian's hope and the hypocrite's hope. Job 13:8. The Christian's hope is a purifying hope and is anchored to Christ. 1 John 3:2, 3; Heb. 3:19, 20. Fully contrast these two hopes. Which hope was held by the Jews at Jerusalem which persecuted Paul?

"Be of Good Cheer": Such were the words of our Lord to Paul in Acts 23:11. How could Paul be of good cheer under such persecution? Christians should always be happy and of good cheer. John 16:33. There is real joy in Christian service, for there is nought in our hearts to condemn us. The worldly man cannot so speak. "The way of the transgressor is hard." The Christian's path may not always be smooth, but the places that seem dark to the world are always lighted by the star of hope. Rom. 8:18. —C. E. R.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

While Paul was in Jerusalem, he was arrested and carried into the castle. He begged to defend himself and was given permission, and so he stood on the stairs and recounted his conversion. Our text is a part of what Ananias said to him. In this recount Paul certainly did witness for Jesus.

Truly Paul did witness for Christ wherever he went, no matter what the conditions. Paul had first hand information. He says, Galatians 1:11, 12, "But I certify you, brethren, that the gospel which was preached of me is not after man. For I neither received it of man, neither was I taught it, but by revelation of Jesus Christ." So Paul was true to his trust, constantly looking to the Father for guidance and was a good example for Christians to follow.—L. A. R.

SENIOR AND ADULT CLASSES

Paul was accused of the Jews of teaching Jewish Christians that they need not obey the Mosaic law. This accusation was probably false just as the accusations against Jesus and Stephen were false. He refused to purchase his freedom with money but put his faith in God instead. Felix kept Paul two years hoping he would purchase his release. Acts 24:26. Paul refused and God's name was glorified.

"The Washington Post" of Sept. 1, tells of a man that was imprisoned twenty-three years ago for a murder he did not commit. He was given a life term for the crime. He entered the penitentiary with faith in his God and continued to pray year after year that the truth might become known. His prison record was very good and twice he was offered his freedom by the Parole Board on condition he admit his guilt. He was tempted to purchase his freedom in this way, but always something told him to wait. The crime was finally admitted by the real murderer as he lay on his death bed. The innocent man expects soon to be released. He could have purchased his freedom, but with it he would have bought the odium of a murderer. He could have joined no church without bringing contempt and shame upon that organization. Today he will be a credit to any church.

No Christian can bribe those in authority. Justice is thwarted by bribe-blinded officials. This isn't right. God cannot be honored by a bribe-bought freedom.—H. A. S.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

THAT NEW BUILDING AT WATERLOO

The work on the church at Waterloo, Iowa, is progressing nicely. The basement is dug, the wall laid, and the superstructure begun. Wednesday, Oct. 28, the cornerstone was put in place, Bro. A. J. Eychaner officiating. In the cornerstone was placed a brief history of the Iowa Conference, a picture with names attached of the first Dorcas Society meeting, the constitution of the local church organization, and the names of those present at the cornerstone laying. In regard to the Dorcas Society, it was their untiring efforts which made the church possible. More than one thousand dollars raised for a church building in eight years is a pretty good showing for our local women, isn't it?

May we ask the prayers of the brotherhood that the work done in this edifice shall be in keeping with the will of God and His Son Jesus Christ our Lord, who is the Cornerstone in the spiritual temple of God.

Charles W. Howe.

GROWTH AT CLEVELAND, OHIO

Rally Day at Cleveland was a joyful day. We passed the goal set by 13, having an attendance of 213.

The entire Sunday school offering, $20.38, was given to the Sunday school expansion fund. We are also using the birthday offerings for this purpose, there being $1.58 on Rally Day, making the amount $21.96.

Many of the older boys and girls remained for the church service and enjoyed a splendid sermon, "Seeing Things," by our pastor, Bro. Lyon.

There were 125 present at the morning service and forty at the evening, when Bro. Lyon preached on, "The Forgotten Water Pot". We wish it had been possible for all to have heard these inspiring sermons to strengthen your efforts in the Master's work.

We have outgrown our Sunday school quarters and have established a fund to enlarge the same.

Besides our Rally Day offering, birthday offerings and special contributions, the children are working with brick boxes toward this fund. These boxes have 35 bricks marked on their faces. Each time a coin is inserted the amount is marked on a brick. When all bricks have been filled in, the boxes are returned to the Sunday school treasury.

To date we have distributed 140 of these boxes among our Sunday school members, and we are very much enthused over our new endeavor in the cause of Christ.

W. J. Halls, Supt.

BAPTISMS

Elder J. H. Anderson, with his daughter Maggie and son Harold, has returned from the Carolinas, where they enjoyed good meetings. The attendance and interest were both good. There were four who requested baptism: Mr. and Mrs. James Smith of Easley, S. C.; and Mrs. Nellie Elrod, 1005 West Washington, Greenville, S. C., and Miss May Salts, whose address we do not know.

We had two evening meetings in the church near Brumfield, Ky., on our way down and back. We also spent two nights with our daughter and sister, Mrs. J. N. Rogers of Bristol, Tenn.

Maggie Anderson.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

Elaborate plans had been made for a large attendance at Sunday school and church services for Sunday, Oct. 25, our fifth anniversary, when lo, on Saturday afternoon an order came from the health officer forbidding any children to be allowed in public gatherings due to some cases of diphtheria in the district. The result was that our Sunday school numbered 68 instead of the anticipated 275.

Naturally that was a disappointment, but a splendid attendance of adults was present at all preaching services. At 2:30 p. m. a birthday service was held, and different ones, together with the pastor, reviewed the past five years and spoke of what can be done in the future.

The special meetings are now in progress, and the church is giving splendid cooperation. "Men's Day," November 8, will close the meetings. The meals on that day will be prepared and served by the men, and all features of the day are to be handled by the men only.

The church extends a hearty invitation to all.

F. E. Siple, Pastor.

OREGON IN THE WEST

Sr. Kerr, who was taken seriously ill shortly after her return from a trip to the east, underwent a major operation several weeks ago, after all hopes for life were given up. She is able to sit up at the time of this writing.

We were very glad of the opportunity to visit with Sr. H. B. Cramer who came to Corvallis for the quarterly meetings. Sr. Cramer suffered a stroke last spring and has been ill a greater part of the time since.

Bro. J. C. Wilson of Lebanon, spent several days at the home of his sister, Sr. Edith Barber and attended the quarterly conference.

Sr. Minnie Rogers of Eugene attended the meetings at Corvallis.

Sr. Wilber H. Tremaine of Hollywood, Cal., arrived in Corvallis a week ago on a visit to her mother and other members of her family. She will be remembered as Sr. Lulu Taylor, a daughter of Sr. Hogue and a sister of Mrs. Delbert Hathaway.

Bro. and Sr. A. W. Darby and Mrs. George Darby motored to Corvallis to attend the meetings.

The Quarterly meeting of the Northwestern Conference of Oregon and Washington was held Oct. 3-4, 1931 at Corvallis. Bro. J. C. Wilson opened the meeting with a discourse on "The Promises Made to the Fathers."

On Sunday morning the Bible class was led by Bro. Wilson. Sr. Flora Hogue had charge of the Junior class. Following the Sunday school classes Bro. A. W. Darby delivered a very interesting discourse on "The Combination of Nations at the Close of the Dispensation." "The Resurrection" was the subject of the afternoon Bible Class led by Bro. Wilson.

Sunday evening Bro. Darby gave a wonderful discourse, tracing the true line and the false through the Bible from Genesis to Revelation, a very fitting sermon for the dark days in which we are living.

The attendance was fair, considering the number who have been ill during the fall months. We are sorry to report that Felida and Vancouver, Wn. were not represented. However we hope to see a greater number at the next quarterly meeting, which will be held December 6-7, 1931 at Felida, Wn., date subject to change only before November 22, 1931.

We are thankful to our heavenly Father for the many blessings which He has bestowed upon us since we last met and for the wonderful sermons which it has been our privilege to listen to during these meetings. May we lift up our heads and rejoice for our redemption draweth nigh.

Churches of God, Oregon and Washington.
Gladys Barber, Sec'y.

REPORT FOR OCTOBER

Sermons: Pleasant View, 2; Rensselaer, 2; Plymouth, 1; North Salem, 1; Burr Oak, 1; Hillisburg, 2; Brumfield, Ky., 2; Guthrie Grove, S. C., 5; Dana, N. C., 4. Funerals, 1. Marriages, 1. Baptisms, 4.

Money received in Indiana: Pleasant View, $26.00; Rensselaer, $30.00; Plymouth, $15.00; North Salem, $6.00; Burr Oak, $10.00; Conference Board, $3.25. Expenses, $15.25.

Note: On October 10 it was our pleasure to unite in marriage Bro. Dallas Benge and Sr. Elizabeth Daily, of Kokomo, Ind. Both of these young people were baptized into Christ in our special meeting in Kokomo last March. On October 29 we were called to Hedrick, Ind., to conduct the funeral of Bro. Cecil M. Bell, whom we baptized into Christ on June 1, 1930. Bro. Bell leaves a wife and several small children.

J. H. Anderson.

To the Dear Brothers and Sisters of the Truth in all Places Where Our Lord Is Loved:

Greetings with love for the cause of Christ and for you all. After a prayerful consideration with a longing desire, I have fully decided, with the Lord's help and by your cooperation with the Lord in His Word, to go out in the evangelistic work. The field is indeed white to harvest, but the laborers are few. Will you pray God to send forth laborers into His vineyard?

Now, if you will only give to the Lord's work a small amount of money, at the time of harvest we will come rejoicing, bringing in the sheaves. Now, if you will, you may have a part in this great work.

Send all help to Elder J. M. Morgan, Rt. 1, Box 5-B, Bristow, Oklahoma. I am ready to answer all calls and make arrangements to hold meetings. I will give full reports of all moneys and work in Gospel Trumpet, Restitution Herald, and Messenger of Truth.

Elder J. M. Morgan.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO DOLLAR-A-MONTH CLUB AND OTHER DEPARTMENTS

S. T. Shirley; Ida Vogel; Enos and Carrie Elton; Mary F. Cook; Mrs. Ruth Blankenbaker; Maurertown Sunday School; Mary E. Carter; C. E. Randall; Mrs. Eliza Cassen; H. S. Bell; Anna Hammond; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Railsback; Nina Blackwell Olsen; Mildred Stantial; Mary Calkins; Frances Wynne; M. A. Eastman; Forrest Long; A. L. White; Ladies League of Rensselaer (Ind.); H. W. Patterson; Eva H. M. Fletcher; Helen M. Chisholm; Mrs. Wm. McWilliams.

HERALD RECEIPTS

Mrs. Ida Eastman; Mrs. E. R. Sullivan; Mrs. Allen Claypool; J. T. Haupt; Enos E. Elton; R. A. Curtis for self and others; Rilla Richardson; Franklin Moore; George Randall; Mrs. Tennie Long; Ella M. Rose; Mrs. James Brush; Mrs. Frances Wynne; Cora Foster; Eva H. M. Fletcher; Mrs. Wm. McWilliams.

About This and That From Here and There

Sr. Frederick Claussen, of the Oregon church, spent the past week end with the home folks at Culver, Ind.

Remember the regular appointment at Ripley on November 7 and 8. We trust that a full attendance will be present at these services. Bro. Lapp will be in charge.

We trust several of you are putting your Thanksgiving thoughts on paper for the benefit of all. Remember to have your articles or letters here not later than November 17.

We are glad to know of the addition to the brotherhood through Bro. Anderson's labors in South Carolina. May they endure to the end and receive the crown awaiting the faithful.

Bro. Marsh, pastor at Oregon, has been giving a series of Sunday evening sermons on the different phases of Christ's coming. These are proving of special interest and good audiences are greeting each service.

An interesting report of the quarterly conference of the churches of Oregon and Washington will be found on this page. We are glad to learn of the improved condition of Sr. Minnie Kerr of Corvallis.

Friends of Bro. R. H. Judd of Toronto, Ont., will be glad to learn that he has secured employment which he hopes will prove to be permanent eventually. The first Thanksgiving article received is from his pen.

More good news about the new church building at Waterloo! Here is a fine idea for some of you who have been needing a building in which to meet and have so far found it impossible to realize your ambitions. Read Bro. Howe's encouraging report. And then let the women do the work, if you haven't enough men.

We regret exceedingly that it was found necessary to exclude the children from participating in Grand Rapids' fifth birthday anniversary services, and we hope that all danger is now past. Perhaps some of the questions found in the "box" during your special meetings, Bro. Siple, may prove of benefit to Herald readers.

We await with pleasant anticipation a series of articles on prophecy which will be forthcoming this winter from the pen of George B. Alldridge of Cleveland, Ohio. The first of the series will be concerning Egypt, and we know it will prove to be of unusual interest, because Bro. Alldridge has been "on the spot" and knows whereof he writes.

Training Class was greatly depleted in numbers at its Friday and Monday sessions due to the fact that Bro. Lapp, who was with the Eldorado, Ill. brethren, took with him Gerald Cooper and Harvey Krogh for "musical" support, and Bros. Smead and LeCrone were speaking for the Burr Oak and South Bend (Ind.) congregations, over the past week end.

You can scarcely measure the joy that comes to us when you conclude your letters to the editor or the associate editor with the words, "Always bearing you up before the Throne of Grace" or ones of similar import.

With the hearts of the brethren united in prayer for us, surely the good seed that is sown through The Herald will bring forth fruit to the glory of God and the building up of His people.

We glean from a letter from Cleveland (not from Bro. Lyon, however) that the church there is forging forward along all lines under their pastor's energetic leadership, especially the Sunday school. We remember with pleasure our visit of a year ago with the brothers and sisters of the Cleveland church, at which time several friendships were firmly cemented. We rejoice with them in the evidences of God's blessings upon their labors.

The following was gleaned from notes sent us by Bro. Arlie Townsend, that energetic and efficient Sunday school superintendent at Grand Rapids. On their anniversary service, Oct. 25 the past five years were reviewed, showing that when their Sunday school was started they had only five teachers. Their corps of teachers has grown until now they have twelve consecrated, enthusiastic men and women leading their school. The attendance has grown by leaps and bounds, their lowest figure being 71 on Sept. 2, 1928, compared to 280 on Feb. 1, 1931, total enrollment being over 300.

This wide-awake army of Sunday school scholars has furnished fuel and lights for all church services for the past five years. Their collections have grown from $346.88 during the year 1927 to $406.88 for the ten months of 1931. And best of all, this school is not going to stand still, for they have more than fifty enrolled in their cradle department who are not yet active members of the school. With God's help they are determined to go forward in the service of the Master, consecrating their energies to bringing these little ones and their parents, as well, into the fold of Christ.

A fine field for service and an enthusiastic group of workers are found at Grand Rapids. Let's hear from other schools.

TRACTS AND BOOKS

TRACTS

Name	Pages	Dozen	100
The Reasons Why	2	$0.05	$0.30
Essential Truths	1	.05	.30
God's Promises, by Anna E. Drew	2	.05	.30
The Resurrection, by S. J. Lindsay	2	.05	.30
Obedience	2	.05	.30
The Baptist Confession of Faith	2	.05	.30
Who Owns the Wool?	4	.05	.30
The Coming of Christ, S. J. Lindsay	2	.05	.30
What Is a Christian, J. W. Williams	4	.10	.60
Where Do We Go When We Die?	4	.10	.60
Immortality of the Human Soul	4	.10	.60
Shall Never Die	4	.10	.60
The Voice of Prophecy	4	.10	.60
Immortality	4	.10	.60
Did Christ Pre-exist? R. H. Judd	4	.10	.60
The Thief on the Cross, F. E. Siple	4	.10	.60
What Do the Scriptures Teach? Judd	6	.15	.90
What Must I Do to Be Saved?	4	.10	.60
Hell, What Is It	8	.20	1.25
The Coming of Christ, R. A. Curtis	6	.20	1.25
The Rich Man and Lazarus, F. E. Siple	8	.20	1.25
A Few Thoughts	8	.20	1.25
Baptism, S. J. Lindsay	8	.20	1.50

Name	Pages	Each	Dozen	100
God, R. H. Judd	16	.04	.30	1.75
The First Resurrection, Wm. Leask	20	.05	.40	3.00
A Letter to a Friend	32	.10	1.00	8.00
Where Are the Dead?	36	.05	.50	4.00

Name	Pages	Each	Dozen
The Resurrection, J. L. Wince (For cost of Postage)	32	.03	.12

BOOKS

Name	Pages	Each	Per 6
Death Reigned from Adam to Moses, paper cover	58	$0.10
Sin, A. H. Zilmer, paper covers	84	.25
Destiny of Russia and Signs of the Times, W. H. Wilson, board cloth	96	.25	$1.25
Book of Revelation Made Easy to Understand, W. H. Wilson, board cloth	96	.25	1.25
Ancient Mysteries, George Johnston	116	.50
Christ in the Old Testament, R. H. Judd, paper	88	.40
The Way of Life Eternal, Lyman Booth, paper	88	.40
Student's Text Book, Wilson, board cloth	200	.45	2.60
The Visitor, Boice, paper	212	.50
The Mystery of Iniquity, Booth, paper	220	.75
Pine Woods Bible Class, Wilson, board cloth,	480	.85	5.00
Emphatic Diaglott, Benjamin Wilson Neatly bound, and in clear type,			2.50

THE GOSPEL IN SONG

A Book of 287 well-printed Gospel Hymns

	Each	Per 10	Per 100
	Postpaid	Postpaid	Not Postpaid
Manila	$0.40	$3.60	$30.00
Flexible Cloth	.45	4.00	33.00
Board Cloth	.50	4.50	40.00

RESURRECTION

By George B. Alldridge

Continued from last week

THERE may be a relationship existing between the physical image of our earthly bodies and the spiritual. The words of Daniel 12:3 and 1 Corinthians 15:41 seem to suggest so.

What a diversity of brilliancy exists among the various types of Mazda electric lamps, the quality of the filament and the intensity of the electric current determines this. Probably the development of holy character in this life, well pleasing to God, may enhance the appearance of our spiritual bodies in the age to come.

In this life we recognize a "spiritual face". "A man's wisdom maketh his face to shine." Eccl. 8:1. "The Lord make his face shine upon thee." Num. 6:25. Unconsciously we are now registering in our lives the potentialities that will be realized in our spiritual bodies.

In the factory where I am employed, the foundry yard contains many kinds of material used in making castings, such as coke, coal, limestone, sand, pig iron, and scrap iron of many varieties. To facilitate the charging of the cupola, traveling cranes and great buckets are used, but in handling the pig iron and scrap, a powerful magnet does the work; only the materials that possess an affinity for magnetism will respond to the lifting power of the magnet. Until the operator switches the current into the magnet, it lies dead and cannot lift anything. The operator by manipulating the switch causes something to flow through the magnet that can neither be seen, nor possesses any weight, and as far as science knows is not materialistic, but if anything is spiritual. But this something, "it", if you please, is a powerful force which mightily affects and influences material to cleave to it to which it has an affinity.

When we become converted, or when our minds are begotten again by a "lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead," 1 Peter 1:3, there is something that begins a new life within us. Call it a spiritual mind, if you like. This something possesses an affinity for the Spirit of God. I have already quoted Romans 8:11: "But if the spirit of him that raised up Jesus from the dead dwell in you, he that raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken your mortal bodies by his Spirit that dwelleth in you."

"Now he that hath wrought us for the selfsame thing is God, who also hath given unto us the earnest of the Spirit."—2 Cor. 5:5.

Listen to Jesus' words: "That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit. Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born again."—John 3:6, 7.

"But to as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to those that believe on his name, which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God."

"Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is. And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure."—1 John 3:2, 3.

A famous Russian writer once said, "Where love is, there God is." This is true. God dwells in love. In other words, love is the very nature of God. So then if we love, especially the brethren, "we know that we have passed from death unto life."—1 John 3:14. Love of God abiding in our hearts toward Him and all mankind, is the element of God's nature that has an affinity for Him. This is the power God exercises toward us in drawing us to Himself. "Love begets love."

We know what sin in all its ramifications, works out in us—death. Science confirms this in its universal testimony by men who know. Righteousness, personified by the word Love, as amplified in 1 Corinthians 13, works out in us, what? Life. Rom. 2:7, 8. So, then, every man and every woman, by the exercise of will, can possess the element or spiritual life principle, that God on the morn of the resurrection, will transform into a spiritual being of such surpassing power and glory of which the human or fleshly mind cannot conceive.

"For we that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened: not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life."—2 Cor. 5:4.

"But as it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit: for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God. For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God."—1 Cor. 2:9-12.

"Every life that would be strong must have its Holy of Holies into which only God enters."

HEALTH AND WEALTH

HEALTH is the foundation of worldly prosperity. Wealth is the result of the toils of health. A sound body is a good capital to begin any business with. A sound mind and sound judgment add immensely to its value. Possessed of these, a man may earn a living and have it when it is earned. He who would gain wealth must preserve health. He who would enjoy wealth when gained must retain health. Health is wealth. The man who is sound in heart, and soul, and body, without a dollar in his pocket, is richer far than he who, along with uncounted hoards and lands outstretching his vision, is yet wretched, nervous, dyspeptic, and discontented. He who loses health to gain wealth may soon see the time when he would part with all his hoards to bring back his lost health again.—Selected.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, NOVEMBER 10, 1931

NUMBER 6

WHEN THE LORD FIGHTS

By Norman John McLeod

HUMAN nature is essentially fickle and curious. In religious matters men are usually carried along with the fads and fancies of the day and are led by popular movements. In August 1914 many people began to enquire if the war then started was the "battle of Armageddon" that they had heard Bible students predict so often. Was this to be the last great war? Were the judgments of God, which ministers had predicted in vain to deaf ears, about to fall? These were the questions that all at once began to fill many churches. But the end was not yet.

The careful Bible student could tell that there was more prophecy to be fulfilled, especially in regard to Israel before that last terrible struggle. The Jews were not returning to Palestine in any appreciable numbers. They were not dwelling in unwallled villages. One of the greatest events in that phase of history was to take place during the war—the last crusade against the Turk by the British.

But they who watch the signs can now see that that last conflict is not far away. Man's governments have failed to bring about satisfactory living conditions. Israel is in her land. The great Asiatic combination of nations is forming. Great Britain is in such a point of decline that she could not win another war very easily. Her dominions are all but independent.

"For I will gather all nations against Jerusalem to battle." How many times has that seemingly been fulfilled! How oft has Jerusalem suffered siege! The Holy City has been beleaguered more than any city except Constantinople. But even the latter has not withstood so many great groups as the Hills of Zion.

All the great empires of antiquity have laid siege to Jerusalem at one time or another: Egypt, Babylonia, Assyria, Persia, Macedonia, the Seleucid Empire, and Rome. In the Middle Ages the Saracens, the Turks, and the Crusaders, and in modern times, the British have captured Jerusalem. The usual savage accompaniments of war noted in Zechariah were present in all these sieges—"the houses rifled, and the women ravished." But still all this storm and stress did not fulfill the whole of Zechariah's predictions. When the last great war comes, certain things will distinguish it from all other occasions.

"Then shall the Lord go forth, and fight against those nations, as when he fought in the day of battle." How did the Lord fight in the day of battle? What was the method that let it be known that the Lord was in battle? Let us turn the pages of history to see.

When the children of Israel were in Egypt, the Lord fought for them against the Egyptians. He sent ten plagues upon the heathen, each one more terrible than the last, until the Egyptians drove the Israelites out of the land. Then the Lord drowned the army of Egypt in the Red Sea. That is the way the Lord "fought in the day of battle".

Later the children of Israel were to enter the Promised Land; the first city of importance was Jericho. It was not captured by the usual methods of warfare. The Israelites were to parade around the city in a fashion prescribed by the Lord, and the walls would fall down; which things were done. That is the way the Lord "fought in the day of battle".

Joshua went up to help the Gibeonites against a league of five Amorite kings; and it is said (Joshua 10:10-11) that "the Lord discomfited them before Israel, and slew them with a great slaughter at Gibeon, and chased them along the way that goeth up to Beth-horon, and smote them to Azekah, and unto Makkedah. And it came to pass, as they fled from Israel, and were in the going down to Beth-horon, that the Lord cast down great stones from heaven upon them unto Azekah, and they died: they were more which died with hailstones than they whom the children of Israel slew with the sword." That is the way the Lord "fought in the day of battle".

Continued on page 89

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

"Behold, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God."

THE EDITOR'S PRAYER

OUR FATHER: How grateful we are that we may call upon Thee, "Abba, Father!" In every time of trouble, in every hour of need, Thou art at our side to hearken to our petitions and to answer our prayers. For this do we praise Thy holy name. Amen.

PREPARE TO BE THANKFUL

THE day that for many years has been set apart to offer special thanks to the Father for the blessings of the year is rapidly drawing near. But a little over two weeks remains in which we may prepare to be thankful!

"Prepare to be thankful?" someone asks. "How can one prepare to be thankful?"

No one can be really thankful who has not consciously prepared to be thankful; that is, we can never express our gratitude to the Giver of "every good gift and every perfect gift" as fully as we should until we have taken stock of the treasures He has bestowed upon us. That is one way in which we can come to enjoy a real spirit of thanksgiving.

"Count your many blessings, name them one by one,
And it will surprise you what the Lord has done!"

THE SECRET OF THANKSGIVING

CONSIDERATION of blessings received is not the only road that leads to a joyful thanksgiving experience.

Contribute to the thanksgiving spirit of others! Give someone else reason to be thankful, and your own joy on the last Thursday in November will be vastly increased.

Drop a "thank offering" into the treasury of God. A gift to the poor, a special offering to your local church, or a donation to the National Bible Institution to help carry on the work of your Bible Training Class and to further the general work of the Church of God everywhere. As you recall having made such a contribution on the morning of Thanksgiving Day, you will feel still more strongly inclined to praise His name.

THE HOPE OF THE WORLD

THE coming of our Lord Jesus Christ back to this earth again is without doubt the most splendid event the future holds in prospect. All happenings that lie beyond the range of the present, however important they prove to be, can by no possibility equal in glory, in grandeur, and in richness of practical value to humanity the second advent of the blessed Son of God!

We make this broad statement thoughtfully; we place it on record considerately, being fully persuaded that in the ages to come when Time has computed and compared the final events of history, the second coming of our Lord will be set down as the most important one of them all.

To enumerate the blessings that will follow the advent of Jesus would require much more time and space than we have at our disposal. We may merely suggest that they will be both material and spiritual in their nature.

On the material side we have the assurance that peace shall prevail, for the nations shall "learn war no more"; that the demoralizing influences of sin shall be removed; that the blind shall see, the deaf hear, and the lame walk; that prosperity and security shall obtain throughout the earth; and justice and righteousness mark the universal reign of the King of kings.

The greatest of blessings that will flow from the Master's coming, however, will be spiritual, and they will be received by those who in this present time have given their hearts to Him. John joyfully cries, "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is." 1 John 3:2. Like unto our Lord in all things: in nature; in sinlessness; in power; in understanding of God; joint heirs with Jesus Christ of the Father's eternal richness and glory!

Like as the flaming comet doubles wide
Heaven's mighty cape; and then revisits earth,
From the long travel of a thousand years;
Thus at the destined period shall return
He, once on earth, who bids the comet blaze;
And with Him all our triumph over death!

—Young's Night Thoughts.

WORLD WITHOUT END

(The Editor is in receipt of the following communication from Bro. Haupt, which he requests be followed by his article under the above caption.)

WITH this I send you an article upon "World Without End". Aside from the article I want you to note my experience of last Sunday in the shape of a preachment by a preacher from Shreveport, a two hour car ride from here, which gave me not a little surprise. The preacher stood for the so-called Christian Church, as he proved, the Campbellite Church.

One of his leading expressions was that Christ and God were really one person, and he asserted that Alexander Campbell held the same view. He based his argument partly upon the statement of Jesus that He and the Father were one. He used the King James translation as proof in the passages relating to Christ, including that of the Apostle Paul in the Colossian letter, that all things were created by Jesus, or by and for Him.

Christians ought to know that God created the heavens and the earth by His word, by His breath, or as a thoughtful member of our Bible class said, by His will. In the Garden of Eden God foretold that the "seed of the woman", undoubtedly referring to the Son of God, should bruise the head of the serpent, as the Christ certainly has done. Jesus was Teacher and Prophet in His first advent, ending with the ascension. Now He is pictured as in the heavens with His Father, making intercession for us as our great High Priest. From heaven Christ shall descend on the great resurrection morn.

The Kingdom period will constitute the third part of the Melchisedek parallel. Jesus will be Prophet, Priest, and King. The Father and the Son are one in heart, in plans and purposes, in all that pertains to the welfare of God's children. "Grace be unto you from God the Father and His Son, Jesus Christ," continues to be a devout blessing from the apostles.

"Before Abraham was I am" was quoted from John 8:58. Where the Greek sentence of this thought refers to time, the past tense of the verb, to be, is used and we have, "Before Abraham was I was". Where there is comparison of rank, "I am", is proper. There the English expression is, "Higher than Abraham was in rank, I am". In this case the Greek is even stronger in that it says, "Higher than Abraham was in his birth, or rather, in his conception, I am." Abraham, in common with all men noted in the Old Testament and in common with all but Christ in the New Testament, was merely man conceived according to nature.

Jesus was the Son of God, conceived by the Holy Pneuma, the Divine in-breathing of the spark of Divinity into the bosom of Mary. While the Word of God was long before Abraham, Jesus was not born until many years after. The flesh of the Son of God took the place of the Word of God.

Now follows the article by Bro. Haupt mentioned above.

WITHIN the last century or more, at intervals, some have fearfully predicted the near approach of the end of the world. Antichrists have been indicated as possible predecessors of each final day. The first antichrist of whom we seem to have mention probably is Barjesus of Acts 13:6. In his epistles the Apostle John refers to antichrists both in the past tense and the future.

Since Bible times there have been teachers of peculiar doctrines, none of whom can strictly be accused of being opposed to Christ or as aiming to supersede Christ. While of late we have had Bahai, a preacher from Persia, who seems to claim to be another Christ. Bahai supports good principles of life and behavior, and the Esperanto language for the unification of the human race, but he stands for nothing better than is promised to the Christian after the great resurrection day.

Every active opponent of Christ and of God may be classed as an antichrist, as the word is used in the Bible. Thus many antichrists of greater or less force have appeared in the world and will doubtless continue. Wars and rumors of wars will occupy unhappily the stage of the world until the trumpet call will bring the dead in Christ to life and change the living in Christ in a moment. Instead of being mortal these obedient ones will put on immortality, instead of corruptible bodies they will have put on incorruptibility. They will labor with their leader, the great Christ for a thousand years (Rev. 20:6), commonly known as the millennium.

When the thousand years have expired the rest of the dead are to arise. Then will come the great judgment period during which the persistently wicked are to pass into gehenna, the second death. From this time forward the righteous will be forever with their Lord. There shall be no end of the world. It shall last forever. Rev. 5:10; 11:15; 22:5.

Confusion has been created by the translation of the Greek word meaning age, as world. To the end of an age is not the same as the end of the world. The last of a devout prayer of Christians, as given by Paul (Eph. 3:21) is "Unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus, throughout all ages, world without end. Amen."

I am asked to say a few words upon John 14:2. The Apostle John did not have mansions in a house. In God's great plan of the ages, in His oikia, the Apostle John assures us there are many dwelling places. Mrs. Zebedee had asked a special favor for her sons, John and James. "When thou comest into thy kingdom," she had asked, that her sons be given the most prominent positions. John taught her that in the kingdom age one would not be above another.

At the last Lord's supper Jesus girded Himself and washed the disciples' feet. Humility was the lesson. In God's great oikia there is provision made for all that knock in faith. Jesus has gone to prepare for our inheritance. His ascension gave Him a place at the side of His Father. There He is the Head of the Church, its chief Cornerstone.

Continued on page 90

O MASTER! LET ME WALK WITH THEE

O Master, let me walk with Thee
In lowly paths of service free;
Tell me Thy secret, help me bear
The strain of toil, the fret of care.

Help me the slow of heart to move
By some clear winning word of love.
Teach me the wayward feet to stay,
And guide them in the homeward way.

Teach me Thy patience; still with Thee
In closer, dearer company,
In work that keeps faith sweet and strong,
In trust that triumphs over wrong.

In hope that sends a shining ray
Far down the future's broadening way;
In peace that only Thou canst give,
With Thee, O Master, let me live.

—Washington Gladden.

THE BOOK OF THE REVELATION

By Lyman Booth

Continued from last week

THYATIRA was a Macedonian colony, and it may be considered as an unintentional confirmation of the Acts, that Lydia, a purple-seller of Thyatira, is met in the Macedonian city of Philippi. The church at Thyatira may have taken its beginning from this meeting. She, whose heart the Lord had opened to attend to the things spoken by Paul, had gone forth to buy and sell and get gain, and when she returned she brought with her far greater riches than she had sought to purchase.

The faithful in Thyatira were growing and increasing in the service of love and the patience of faith, thereby satisfying Him who evermore desires that His people shall abound more and more in all good things.

Ephesus and Thyatira were in marked opposition. There was great zeal in Ephesus for the maintenance of sound doctrine, but very little love and perhaps very few demonstrations of love. In Thyatira there was great activity of faith and love, but very little zeal for doctrine.

The account would lead us to believe that the Jezebelites, the Balaamites and the Nicolaitanes were practically the same, although differing in some minor things. They paid little heed to the obligations of moral law; they denied that Jesus had come in the flesh; their pretensions of holiness did not prevent them from committing the foulest sins.

That punishment does not at once overtake the sinner is not understood by many, and therefore they think it will not overtake them. But Jesus opens up the way in which the delay may be regarded. The time in which sinners are heaping up greater wrath against the day of wrath is only time lent to them for repentance; but not realizing it, they continue sinning. (Rom. 2:4; 2 Peter 3:9.)

Sardis was the ancient seat of the Lydian kings and memorable as the city of Cræsus. Like most of the cities of Asia, it was magnificent, intellectual, and profligate. It passed from view with the decay of Asia Minor. The crime charged against Sardis was inactivity in the diffusion and preservation of the faith, and because of this it was to be taken by surprise. How largely is Sardis represented today among the people of earth! Men know our faces and names, but Christ knows our works. We may deceive one another, but we cannot deceive the Savior.

Philadelphia, the city of brotherly love, was in the province of Lydia, in Asia Minor, about seventy miles east of Smyrna. Its population of recent years is estimated at fifteen thousand, of whom about one-twelfth are called Christians. The church was more favorably commended than any of the others. While the others had fallen into decay, she, with her Christian temples and worship, still survived.

Gibbon says of her, "Among the Greek colonies and churches of Asia, Philadelphia is still erect—a column in a scene of ruins." So this church appears as a symbolic fulfillment of the words of the vision, "Him that overcometh will I make a pillar in the temple of my God"; "because thou hast kept my word, therefore in return I will keep thee." Not that the church at Philadelphia should be exempt from persecutions such as would befall others, but that in them he would keep them free from harm.

Perhaps 1 Corinthians 10:13 would apply to their case where we read: "There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man: but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able: but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it."

Gibbon, in writing of the seven churches, seems to express the thought that he believed that the threatenings and promises of God did fulfill themselves in history, and says as follows, "In the loss of Ephesus the Christians deplore the fall of the first angel, the extinction of the first candlestick, of the Revelation. The desolation is complete; and the temple of Diana or the church of Mary will equally elude the search of the curious traveler. The circus and three stately theatres of Laodicea are now peopled with wolves and foxes; Sardis is reduced to a miserable village; the God of Mahomet, without a rival or a son, is invoked in the mosques of Thyatira and Pergamos; the populousness of Smyrna is supported by the foreign trade of the Franks and the Armenians. Philadelphia alone has been saved by prophecy or courage. At a distance from the sea, forgotten by the emperors, encompassed on all sides by the Turks, her valiant citizens defended their religion and freedom above fourscore years, and at length capitulated with the proudest of the Ottomans."

To be continued

THE RICH MAN AND LAZARUS

By George B. Alldridge

“And he said unto him, If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded, though one rose from the dead.”—Luke 16:31.

THE subject for study recently, by the Berean society at our ecclesia (61 being present) was the parable of the rich man and Lazarus. My wife is a member and, like all good Bereans, she desired to know what the Scriptures teach concerning this subject. Very coyly she said, “Pa, what is your thought, and what lesson would you teach?” So in answering Ma’s question, I thought I would, through THE HERALD, discuss it with other faithful Bereans, including Ma.

When our minds are obsessed with preconceived ideas, implanted therein by reading and accepting the thoughts of other men, how difficult it is to convince our friends what Jesus really taught and meant by the parables He expounded to them.

Every child in a lower grade at school knows that a parable is a fable, but it is also a story by means of which a moral lesson is taught. Everybody delights to read the fables of Aesop, the Greek slave. He uttered them for political purposes, at a time when it was very dangerous to life and limb to express one’s thoughts in unveiled language.

In reading these parables, we all recognize them as allegorical tales, the form of the old animistic story is used, without any belief in the identity of the personalities of man and animals, but with a conscious double meaning for the purpose of teaching a lesson.

In the Old Testament there is a record of not less than twenty parables. Two especially we all recall, viz., “The trees choosing a king” (Judges 9:7-16), and “The Ewe Lamb” (2 Sam. 12:1-4). In the former Jotham rebukes the men of Shechem for making Abimelech their king and shows what would follow as a result. In the latter, Nathan is instructed by God to rebuke David for his adultery with Uriah’s wife. David failed to perceive the point of the story until Nathan said, “Thou art the man.” 2 Samuel 12:7.

Now if my readers will pardon me a moment, I will recite one of Aesop’s fables or parables, which I think will bring home with force the lesson, which so many fail to see in the parable of the rich man and Lazarus.

A man and a lion were discussing the relative strength of men and lions in general. The man contended that he and his fellows were stronger than lions by reason of their greater intelligence.

“Come, I will prove that I am right,” said the man. So he took him into the public gardens and showed him a statue, Hercules overcoming the lion and cleaving his mouth in two.

“That is all very well,” said the lion, “but it proves nothing, for it was a man who made the statue.”

Moral: “We can easily represent things as we wish them to be.”

Jesus had just finished the parable of the unjust steward, and uttered these scathing words: “Ye are they which justify yourselves before men; but God knoweth your hearts; for that which is highly esteemed among men is abomination in the sight of God.” Luke 16:15.

The scribes and Pharisees were the two classes Jesus was seeking to teach the great moral lessons they would not and could not learn. Of these classes it could truly be sarcastically said, as Job said of his friends, “No doubt but ye are the people and wisdom shall die with you.” Job 12:2.

These scribes and Pharisees considered themselves the true representatives of Israel and the chosen of God. Paul, in Romans 3:1, 2, says that they had a wonderful advantage over the rest of humanity. Read also in this connection the eighth chapter of John.

When an artist paints an allegorical picture, he seeks to impress the mind with one thought. For instance, I have stood before the picture of “Christ before Pilate”. My mind has been ravished by various emotions as I looked upon the visage of the high priest and his subordinates, the look of indecision on the face of Pilate, and the howling mob before him. But only one thought in the picture the artist seeks to convey, and that is the majesty and innocence of the Man Christ Jesus.

So in this parable many interpreters seek to explain every detail. This is overdrawn. What Jesus sought to do was to point out to the scribes and Pharisees that they were the favored ones, rich in spiritual things, clothed in purple and fine linen, representing their righteousness and hopes of being God’s royal nation, faring sumptuously every day, “at the table of the Lord”. Psa. 69:22; 23:5, 6.

In the next chapters (Luke 17, 18) Jesus goes into detail and tells of the conduct of the Pharisee and the publican while at prayer. The Pharisee boasted and even thanked God that he was such a good man compared to this publican, who realizing his helplessness and dependence upon God said, “God, be merciful to me a sinner”!

Jesus was seeking to impress upon their minds how God considered those whom He likened to the “rich man” and the poor publicans and sinners, whom they considered as beggars and outcasts. Well did Jesus say, “Except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven." Matt. 5:19.

In due season both of these classes died, but their deaths were different. The rich class died and was buried. The beggar died also. Paul, in Romans 6:3, 5, describes their death: "Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death? For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall also be in the likeness of his resurrection."

Where does this death bring us, dear brethren? "Right into the place of favor, Abraham's bosom", you say. Prove it!

Here it is: "For ye are all children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ. There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female; for ye are all one in Christ Jesus. And if ye be Christ's, then are ye ABRAHAM'S SEED, and heirs according to the promise." Glory, hallelujah. Amen!

Who are the angels which carry the poor beggar to Abraham's bosom? Here they are: "Are they not all ministering spirits, sent forth to minister for them who shall be heirs of salvation?" Heb. 1:14.

For 2520 years the rich class—the scribes and Pharisees and the Jewish nation in general—have been buried in oblivion among the nations, cruelly tormented day and night, in modern times, especially, in Russia, Spain, France, and Germany. Since the year 70 A. D., as a nation they have ceased to exist. Their cry, though, has gone up to heaven. I recall how the late President Roosevelt, while in office, was appealed to by the Jews to intercede for the relief of their suffering brethren in Russia.

But blessed be God! He is now heeding their cry and the Balfour declaration in the year 1917 is the answer. Now, my brethren, read again Romans 11:25, and then thank God that His Word is true.

But someone may say, "Explain, 'and besides all this, between us and you, there is a great gulf fixed'."

Sure, brother, and that is the easiest part of all. I need to quote only one text and that is Acts 4:12. "Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved."

How many Jews are really and truly converted? This is the gulf—their prejudice toward Christ. "But when his feet shall stand in that day upon the mount of Olives", "and they shall look upon him whom they have pierced, (and) they shall mourn for him."

"All the land shall be turned as a plain from Geba to Rimmon south of Jerusalem." Then the great gulf shall be filled in. "And an highway shall be there, and a way, and it shall be called the way of holiness: the unclean shall not pass over it; but it shall be for those; the wayfaring men, though fools, shall not err therein." Isaiah 35:8.

In conclusion, dear brethren, how true the text is at the head of this article. In the beggar class are you and I. "But God, who is rich in mercy, for his great love wherewith he loved us, even when we were dead in sins, hath quickened us together with Christ, (by grace are ye saved), and hath raised us up together and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus." Eph. 2:4-6.

So then having been raised from death, Col. 3:1-4, they will not believe us, and hence only to them Moses is left, and they will not even believe him. Deut. 18:15, 18, 19.

Jesus, after His resurrection, makes this all so clear. "Then he said unto them, O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken; ought not Christ to have suffered these things, and to enter into his glory? And beginning at Moses and all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the scriptures the things concerning himself." Luke 24:25-27.

---

"THE true moment at which to call upon one's self to take any new step in virtue is at the fainting point, when it would seem so easy to drop all and give all up; when, if you do not, you make of yourself a power."

---

SPEAKING IN TONGUES

By J. C. Vanzandt

PEOPLE who believe that speaking in tongues is the evidence of Spirit baptism uniformly refer to Isaiah 28:11 as being prophetic of the same, and say its fulfillment began at Pentecost in A. D. 33. I once believed the verse to be prophetic, not in the sense they claim, but now I see that it is not prophetic. Let us test the claim.

Isaiah 28:11 is not a prophecy made by Isaiah. It is a reference to what God said in Deuteronomy 28:49. In Deuteronomy 28:1-4, before Israel got to Canaan, God made precious promises as to what He would do for them if they were obedient to Him. Beginning with verse 15, He informs them of curses that would come upon them if disobedient, and verse 49 says: "The Lord shall bring a nation against thee from far, from the end of the earth, as swift as the eagle flieth; a nation whose tongue thou shalt not understand". That nation would speak its own tongue, hence not speak by inspiration from God.

The Old Testament consists of three parts, namely, Law, Prophets, and Psalms, which Jesus recognized in Luke 24:44: "All things must be fulfilled, which were written in the law of Moses, and in the prophets, and in the psalms, concerning me."

As a book Isaiah belongs to the Prophets, but has historical accounts in it. See chapter 37:1-5. Part of it is historical; part refers to things existing at the time it was written, and the rest is prophetic. Isaiah 28:1-4 announces a curse upon Ephraim, declaring his glory should fade away. Verses 5 and 6 are prophetic; while verses 7 and 8 are historical statements of what Ephraim had already done. Verse 9 asks a question and answers it. Verse 10 mentions some things that had already been done to win Ephraim back. I quote as per margin: "For precept hath been upon precept." God had already given them precept upon precept, and they had refused to obey Him. That Ephraim was a very stiffnecked tribe is shown by Hosea 4:17: "Ephraim is joined to idols: let him alone."

Isaiah 28:11 speaks of things that had already come upon Israel, including Ephraim. I quote as per margin: "For with stammerings of lip and another tongue he hath spoken to this people." He had already allowed the enemy to come upon them in war, just as threatened in Deuteronomy 28:49, and had spoken to Israel, not in Israel's tongue, but in the enemies' tongue, whose speaking was natural, hence not inspired.

Isaiah 28:11 speaks of "this people," referring to Israel, of whom Ephraim was one tribe. Verse 12 says: "To whom he said," that is, He said to Israel, "This is the rest, give ye rest to him that is weary; and this is the refreshing: yet they would not hear."—American Revised Version. What does this "rest" and "refreshing" refer to? Answer: "He had brought them out of bondage; He had promised to lead them to Canaan where they would, if obedient, find rest from their enemies and be refreshed by the bountiful crops of the land.

In Deuteronomy 12:9 and 10, He says they had not yet found rest from their enemies, and in 28:65, He says that if disobedient they would never get it. They would not hear and obey; they did not get the rest and refreshing, but were scattered among all nations, as warned in Deuteronomy 28:64.

Note Isaiah 28:13: "But the word of the Lord was unto them precept upon precept," etc. He had already spoken word upon word to them, and they had already refused to hear and obey Him, and as punishment He had already allowed their enemies to speak to them with scornful lips and another tongue. Because they had previously refused to hear and obey, He admonishes them in verse 14: "Wherefore hear ye the word of the Lord."

From the foregoing we see that the tongue of Deuteronomy 28:49 was not to be spoken by God's people, but by their enemies, hence not to be spoken by inspiration. We also see that the tongue of Isaiah 28:11 was not something Isaiah was prophesying about, but one which had already been spoken, not by Israel, but by her enemies—a tongue that Israel could not understand—hence not spoken by inspiration. This makes it clear that the so-called "unknown tongues" of Deuteronomy 28:49 and Isaiah 28:11 were the common, everyday language of the enemies of God's people, and occurred hundreds of years before Christ.

It is claimed that in 1 Corinthians 14:12 Paul quotes Isaiah 28:11 and thereby indorses it as a prophecy of speaking in tongues by inspiration. As a book, Isaiah is in the Prophets and not in the Law, while Deuteronomy is not in the Prophets, but is in the Law. Paul said he was quoting from the Law: "In the law it is written, with men of other tongues and other lips will I speak unto this people."

Paul said he was quoting the Law and says in Romans

3:19: "Now we know that whatsoever things the law saith, it saith to them who are under the law." Gentiles were never under the law, hence 1 Corinthians 14:21 refers to Israelites who were under law being spoken to by Gentiles who were not under it. They did not speak by inspiration.

On Pentecost, A. D. 33, it was Hebrews speaking in other tongues by inspiration, so that Gentiles and Jews, speaking Gentile languages, heard and distinctly understood what they were saying. This is just the opposite of the order of the tongues, and the speaking mentioned in Deuteronomy 28:49 and Isaiah 28:11.

Young's Hebrew Lexicon defines the word from which stammering is translated in Isaiah 28:11 as meaning, "scorning"; while Strong's defines it as "mocking", which means the same. This implies that the speakers of Isaiah 28:11 were scornful in their speech; while the saints who spoke at Pentecost did not speak in a scornful way, but spoke fluently in the tongues of seventeen nations, so that the people of those nations distinctly understood what they said, which is positive proof that Isaiah did not refer to such tongues as were spoken at Pentecost.

In Isaiah 28:11, instead of "stammering," Young's Bible Translation has "scorned", and the Septuagint has "contemptuous", which means the same. From the foregoing facts it is evident that Isaiah 28:11 was not prophetic of what took place at Pentecost in A. D. 33.

There is nothing in common between the tongues of Deuteronomy 28:49, referred to in Isaiah 28:11 and 1 Corinthians 14:21, with that which took place at Pentecost in A. D. 33, for these verses require the speaker to be Gentiles speaking in their tongues and in a scornful way to the Hebrews, while the speakers at the Pentecost were Hebrews speaking Gentile tongues by inspiration, but not in a scornful way. But Paul fully settles it by saying he was quoting law, and not prophecy.

The reason Paul referred to what the law had said, was this: The Jews were under the law; they had sinned grievously; God had threatened to send a people of a different tongue upon them to punish them for their sins, and had done so at different times, for all of which they would not hear God, neither were they willing to hear Him at the time Paul wrote. A nation of a different tongue sent upon them was not a sufficient sign to cause them to hear and repent. Now God was causing their own nationals to speak in tongues not known to themselves, thus trying to cause them to repent and believe, but they would not do so. Hence he said: "Tongues are for a sign, not to them that believe, but to them that believe not." No, these tongue signs were not given to cause the Christians to believe, but to try to cause the unbelieving Jews to believe on Christ.—Selected.

"MAN is, according to nature, mortal as a being who has been made out of things that are perishable. But on account of his likeness to God he can by piety ward off and escape from his natural mortality and remain indestructible if he retain the knowledge of God, or can lose his incorruptibility if he lose his life in God."—Athanasius.

THE LARGER PRAYER

At first I prayed for Sight:

Could I but see the way,
How gladly, swiftly I would walk
To everlasting day!

And next I prayed for Strength:

That I might tread the road
With firm, unfaltering feet, and win
At length, serene abode.

And then I asked for Faith:

Could I but trust my God,
I'd live enfolded in His peace,
Though foes were all abroad.

But now I pray for Love:

Deep love to God and man,
A living love that will not fail,
However dark His plan.

And Sight and Strength and Faith

Are opening everywhere;
God waited for me till
I prayed the larger prayer.

—Ednah D. Cheney.

GIVING ACCOUNT

By C. E. Randall

“But I say unto you, That every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment.”—Matthew 12:36.

THESE are the words of Him unto whom all judgment has been committed and the One who will judge the quick and the dead at His appearing and kingdom. John 5:22, 23; 2 Tim. 4:1, 2. The Word is very clear and definite in stating that people are going to be held accountable for what they do and say.

The above text indicates that those who allow corrupt communications to proceed out of their mouths must answer in the day of judgment. It is for this reason that Paul admonishes those who have accepted Christ to refrain from corrupt communications.

“Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but that which is good to the use of edifying, that it may minister grace unto the hearers.”—Eph. 4:29.

A man's words are the results of his thoughts. “For as he thinketh in his heart, so is he.” As we think, so we speak and act. As words and actions go together in the ordinary course of life, our conversations are a good barometer of our actions and will indicate quite fairly how judgment is going to go with us.

“For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned.”—Matt. 12:37.

Oftentimes people are fooled with an apparent chaste conversation, but unless our “speech be alway with grace, seasoned with salt”, it will be revealed in the day when the Lord “will bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and will make manifest the counsels of the hearts.” This day of reckoning is coming whether we want it or not.

The preceding has to do with vain words and conversations, but we find in Ecclesiastes 12:14 that God is going to bring every work into judgment. “For God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good or whether it be evil.”

Every man is going to be rewarded according to his works. Rev. 22:12. This rewarding takes place in the day of judgment. Some will receive “an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away.” Others will receive the “wages of unrighteousness”. Whichever we receive will depend on what we do with Christ today.

Neither does it make any difference whether we commit sins of commission or sins of omission. That is, sins of commission are deliberate, intentional or purposeful; while sins of omission consist of not doing that which we know and realize we should do in Christian work. Regardless of the nature of the sin, it must be reckoned with either in atonement or judgment. These two courses are set before sinners today, and it is left optional with them which they will choose. “Some men's sins are open beforehand, going before to judgment; and some men they follow after.”—1 Tim. 5:24.

The parable of the pounds indicates very forcibly that after the Nobleman returns from His long journey into a far country, He will summon His servants that they may give an accounting to Him of what and how they have used the pounds which He had given them. Luke 19:12-27. This giving was prior to His departure. The use of the pounds was while the Nobleman was away. The calling of the servants before Him for reckoning was after the Nobleman's return.

Rewards and judgment were not meted out during the Nobleman's absence or at death of the servants, but at or after the return of the Nobleman.

If this parable represents Christ in the person of the Nobleman, as nearly all Bible students agree, then we find another witness to the truth that we are not judged or rewarded in any sense at death, but as the Master has said: “And thou shalt be blessed; for they cannot recompense thee: for thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the just.”—Luke 14:14.

Paul has well stated the time and place of such reckoning in his second letter to the Corinthians. “For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ; that every one may receive the things done in his body, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad.”—2 Cor. 5:10.

WHEN THE LORD FIGHTS

Continued from front page

The most classic example of the Lord's warfare is the occasion made popular by Lord Byron's poem, The Destruction of Sennacherib. The conquering armies of Assyria were sweeping all before them. Israel had fallen, and now his armies were before Jerusalem. But "the Lord went forth and fought . . . as when he fought in the day of battle." "And it came to pass that night, that the angel of the Lord went out, and smote in the camp of the Assyrians an hundred fourscore and five thousand: and when they arose early in the morning, behold, they were all dead corpses". 2 Kings 19:35.

When we read, therefore, "Then shall the Lord go forth, and fight against those nations, as when he fought in the day of battle," we look for some such manifestation as in the cases just cited. Especially do we expect it when we read such passages as the following elsewhere.

"And it shall come to pass at the same time when Gog shall come against the land of Israel, saith the Lord God, that my fury shall come up in my face. For in my jealousy and in the fire of my wrath have I spoken, Surely in that day there shall be a great shaking in the land of Israel: so that the fishes of the sea, and the fowls of the heaven, and the beasts of the field, and all creeping things that creep upon the earth, and all the men that are upon the face of the earth, shall shake at my presence, and the mountains shall be thrown down, and the steep places shall fall, and every wall shall fall to the ground. And I will call for a sword against him throughout all my mountains, saith the Lord God: every man's sword shall be against him with pestilence and with blood; and I will rain upon him, and upon his bands, and upon the many people that are with him, an overflowing rain, and great hailstones, fire, and brimstone." Ezek. 38:18-22.

"And ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars: see that ye be not troubled: for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be famines, and pestilences, and earthquakes, in divers places. All these are the beginning of sorrows." Matt. 24:6-8.

And there are many other places in the Word that indicate that the last great war will be conducted at least in part in a miraculous fashion. It will be no ordinary affair. Its results will not hang on any chance circumstance of earthly direction, but will be fought as the Lord would naturally be expected to do.

Aside from the miraculous character of the war, there is another feature of that last war. Woodrow Wilson told the world that the late war was being fought by America as "a war to end war"; "a peace drive"; a prelude to a new world era of peace. His statements remind us of the Congress of Vienna which ended the Napoleonic wars; the alliances of 1815 and following were designed by the diplomats to end all wars.

And the same story may be found to be repeated many times in the world's history. Within five short years after the Congress of Vienna of 1815 there was another war. And while the world's greatest diplomats were assembled at Versailles, no less than seven separate wars were raging in the eastern part of Europe and in western Asia. And now the League of Nations remains practically useless, while Japan, China, and Russia prepare to carry on a great war.

After the last great war such will not be the case. The grand climax of all the themes of all the greater prophecies deals with the period of peace to follow the last great struggle. To quote all the passages that refer to that peace era would take too long. Isaiah is full of such statements; even Ezekiel speaks of a peaceful propaganda, beginning with Israel and extending successfully to all the world.

"Neither will I hide my face any more from them: for I have poured out my spirit upon the house of Israel, saith the Lord." Ezek. 39:29. So are also the statements of Hosea, Joel, Zephaniah, and others.

But not to Israel alone is the promise of that peace. The Gentiles are not forgotten. "In that day there shall be a root of Jesse, which shall stand for an ensign of the people; to it shall the Gentiles seek: and his rest shall be glorious." Isaiah 11:10.

To us who long for the coming of the Lord, these things are most precious. We look for the day when all things spoken of by all of God's prophets shall be fulfilled. What a changed place this world will be! What a dearth of evil; what a plenty of good!

"Come, behold the works of the Lord, what desolations he hath made in the earth. He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; he breaketh the bow, and cutteth the spear in sunder; he burneth the chariot in the fire."

"In his days shall the righteous flourish; and abundance of peace so long as the moon endureth." Psalm 72:7.—A sermon given at the Church of God in Los Angeles.

---

THE BIBLE

---

By Sarah N. Cleghorn

Whether the doom of thrones it prophesy:

Egypt, Assyria, Persia, Babylon—

Or whether the kind Psalms of promise run
Their pastures green, and living waters, by;

Or, bitter-sweet, the Gospels testify,

"Unto the least of these what thou hast done,

Thou did'st it unto Me; for every one
Sick or in prison, there with him am I";

This is the Book that "with authority"

Comforts, commands, both wounds and heals the heart;
Not like a poem, or a history,

Nor yet like flute and lute with all their art;

What lack I? do I tremble? weep? or frown?

Come, let us take this sovereign Bible down!

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS CLASS

AS PREVIOUSLY reported, the Sunday school officers, teachers, and others interested in Sunday school methods and problems of the Oregon church, have organized into a class which meets every other Monday evening. Sr. Grace M. Marsh, who is superintendent of our primary department, is the teacher in charge and we feel sure much benefit is going to result to those under her instruction. At the last meeting eighteen were present. We have chosen as our text book, "How to Teach Religion", by George Herbert Betts.

After the devotional opening of the session, Bro. Marsh gave us a five minute talk on, "How the pastor may cooperate with the teacher." He urged that every teacher should be in intimate harmony with the pastor, having perfect confidence in him, so that teacher and pastor feel at liberty to discuss any problem which concerns the good of the school.

Sr. Marsh then gave a lesson on the teacher himself, showing us that, though the best equipment is necessary for the success of the school, above all teachers with Christian character and tolerant sympathy are essential. Quoting Dr. Weigle, Sr. Marsh emphasized the place which the Sunday school fills: "Sunday school work is educational. We are put here to teach the pupils to learn. Our sessions center about the lesson. There will be worship, of course, but this is not the children's church. There will be giving, but we are not organized to raise and bestow money. There will be social fellowship, but the Sunday school is not a club. These things have place in our work just because they, too, are educational. They are a means to an end, but they are subordinate to the chief means which the Sunday school employs—definite instruction in the Bible."

The personality of the teacher was discussed at some length. He should have a personality that is attractive to the age of the individuals which he is appointed to teach. He must combine in himself the qualities which he hopes to inspire in his pupils. The personality of the Master Teacher should inspire us to build, from our inherited qualities, character which shows constant association with our God and our Christ. There can be no substitute for this.

The teacher's knowledge must be broader and deeper than that which he gives; his grasp must be more complete than can be reached by his pupils. For only in this way will he win their confidence and respect.

A chart for character analysis will be checked by each one before the next session. This chart presents positive and negative qualities, and should be a means of enlightenment to many of us as to our shortcomings as teachers. The next lesson we will study is "The Great Objective," showing that not the subject taught but the person taught is the great objective of all teaching. We wish that many more could avail themselves of Sr. Marsh's instruction and the benefit that results from association with other Sunday school workers.—M. G.

WORLD WITHOUT END

Continued from page 83

At His second coming, He shall return in like manner as He ascended. After that He is to remain with His own.

In the great first resurrection there appear two classes. The righteous dead are called to life and the righteous living are changed with them, in a moment in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump. None come from the sky except Christ, as no others have gone there. Let the devout Christian be satisfied to speak only as the truth speaks.

The first four books of the New Testament are known as the Gospels. One of them describes God's Kingdom as the kingdom of heaven, another as the kingdom of God. This kingdom was not in the heavens, but all plans for it were to be made in the heavens. The new Jerusalem prepared for above, was to come out of heaven, accompanied by the Messiah on His return. Figurative language has its own laws. We are not to suppose that the new Jerusalem will have marble and cement, with streets of gold literally above the clouds.

The translators say that great is the mystery of godliness. This is not true. The godliness of a godly man is not a mystery, nor is the ungodliness of the ungodly man. But the things pertaining to God are often mysterious to the human mind. Great is the mystery of the things pertaining to God. As the heavens are higher than the earth, so are God's ways higher than the ways of man. The phrases, the ages of the ages, the age to come, and the coming age, are terms expressive of the last long period of earth, after death, hades, sin, Satan shall have been cast into gehenna, shall have been utterly destroyed. This long period of bliss is sometimes called the end of the world, also the last days. Satan and his angels, all sin shall be in the gehenna state until the ages of the ages, and not forever and forever, as printed in the Authorized Version. Marginal Bibles give the correct rendering in the references. All sin and death will be at an end before the last days.

P R A Y E R

These are the gifts I ask of Thee, Spirit serene—
Strength for the daily task;
Courage to face the road;
Good cheer to help me bear the traveler's load;
And for the hours of rest that come between,
An inward joy in all things heard and seen.

These are the sins I fain would have Thee take away—
Malice and cold disdain;
Hot anger, sullen hate;
Scorn of the lowly, envy of the great;
And discontent that casts a shadow gray
On all the brightness of a common day.

—Henry Van Dyke.

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 124 N. Parkside Ave., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois

For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"ADD TO YOUR FAITH VIRTUE; AND TO VIRTUE KNOWLEDGE; AND TO KNOWLEDGE TEMPERANCE; AND TO TEMPERANCE PATIENCE; AND TO PATIENCE GODLINESS; AND TO GODLINESS BROTHERLY KINDNESS; AND TO BROTHERLY KINDNESS CHARITY."

"THE BEST IS YET TO COME"

RECENTLY a booklet, with the above title, plus "Go on South", was placed in my hands with the instructions to read it. I did so and received so much good from it that I want to pass some of it on to others. It was not intended to be a religious book, but just active everyday life.

It was a story of the Mississippi River, with its small beginning in Lake Itasca, showing how it pushed forward, southward, not knowing where it was going. But it was doing something, bound for somewhere, with a mission. It overcame the obstacles in its way; it picked up little streams and made use of them, made them a part of itself, and grew, and grew, and grew. It did not become stagnant, but kept moving and pushing, on toward the gulf. Let me quote a few paragraphs.

"We do not need to figure how far we have to go to some goal, nor how many supplies we will need along the way. Just make the right start and Go On South. We will find the resources all along the way. We grow as we flow, like the railway locomotive that makes steam faster running than standing at the station. And if we do not know the right way, if we follow the highest calls of our being and learn the lessons of our bumps, we are sure to get in the right channel sooner or later.

"Success is not tomorrow nor next year. Success is going the right direction, not arriving somewhere. Success is not at the end of the journey, for there is no end. The Mississippi is just as successful in Minnesota as in Louisiana.

"1. The Mississippi keeps going on south and growing greater.

"2. The Mississippi overcomes its obstacles and develops power.

"3. The Mississippi goes right on blessing the valley, even though the valley does not bless it."

Although this was written without any thought of Christianity, it seems to me it is a wonderful example for the Christian. The Christian should keep on going and growing. The man or the woman that has named the name of Christ and is not a better man or woman today than he was yesterday, or a year ago, is missing something that he could have by "Going On".

The man or woman who wants to be a child again is looking backward rather than forward. The goal is ahead not behind.

"The best is yet to come" is just as true in the Christian life, as in our natural life—yea, true, in a much greater sense, for the Christian's goal is life eternal. That is so much better than anything here that there is no comparison. Let us keep going, growing, and pressing onward, so that when the Savior comes He may say, "Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord", which will be the "best that is yet to come."—Lydia A. Railsback.

"It fortifies my soul to know
That, though I perish, truth is so;
That, howso'er I stray and range,
Whate'er I do, Thou dost not change.
I steadier step when I recall
That, if I slip, Thou dost not fall."

HOLBROOK, NEBRASKA

THE annual business meeting of the Berean class of Holbrook was held Sunday, October 4. The following officers were elected: president, Beulah Wilson; vice president, Leona Lathrop; secretary-treasurer, Ethel Tibbets; teacher, Bro. Grover Gordon.

We are glad to report that several new members have joined our class. Bro. Gordon's lessons prove to be both interesting and beneficial. A social, which is held once a month, also helps to increase the interest. We are hoping that this interest will continue throughout the year and that the Lord will bless us in our work.

Leona Lathrop, Secretary pro tem.

COPY for the Page not having arrived on the necessary day, we have ventured to fill the space without permission of your Berean editor. We trust the readers will find something of benefit.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

PAUL'S AMBITION FULFILLED

How many of you already have an idea of what you want to do when you are grown? Perhaps some of you want to be preachers, or teachers, or musicians of some kind. Maybe some of you boys want to be just what your father is.

Do you know what Paul wanted to do? Ever since he had been converted, he wanted to preach the gospel in Rome. Now Rome was farther away than Corinth, and it took more sailing to get there, but Paul never thought of himself or what dangers he might run into. All he thought of was getting to Rome and telling the people about the Savior.

You know they had only sailing vessels in those days, and if the winds weren't just right, they might be delayed a long time. And that is just what did happen! They were shipwrecked on an island and had to stay there three months. One day while Paul was putting some sticks on a fire a snake crawled out and bit him on the hand. Paul shook the snake off and to their great surprise it had not harmed him at all!

Real early in the spring a ship came along and took Paul and the others on to the harbor of Naples, and then they finished the journey to Rome by land. The queer thing about this sea voyage was that Paul was a prisoner, kept in chains, and yet he was braver than anybody else, and when they were in danger they all asked Paul what to do. How do you think Paul became such a wise leader?

Paul stayed in Rome two years, all of the time a prisoner, chained to a guard, always preaching the gospel to everybody who came near. Many of the soldiers who guarded Paul were converted and they, in turn, converted others. And so Christianity spread. How different it would have been if Paul had given up!

What did Paul mean when he said, "For the hope of Israel I am bound with this chain"?—M. G.

HOW JEAN SERVED GOD

JEAN had been thinking about God. She had heard people say that He is our heavenly Father, and that we ought to serve Him as well as love Him and pray to Him. It was strange to think about, and Jean didn't understand it very well. She wished that she could see our heavenly Father and ask Him how He would like to have her serve Him.

While she was thinking about it, she looked up and saw her father coming home from his work. He looked tired and very warm. All at once Jean thought of how good her father was to work all day away from home so that he could take care of his loved ones.

"Why, he is being like our heavenly Father," she said to herself, "and serving him would be one way of serving our heavenly Father."

So Jean ran to meet her father with a smile, told him how glad she was to see him, and then brought him a cool drink. This made her father's heart very happy, and Jean knew that serving our own loved ones and making them happy is one way of serving God.—Selected.

WHAT COUNTS MOST

I have learned a dozen Bible verses this week," bragged Joe, as he walked to Sunday school with Ted, another member of the Willing Helpers Class.

"I learned only one," admitted Ted. "But all week I have been trying to use it as a guide in what I do. I found it kept me busy remembering to use that one verse."

"What was the verse?" asked Joe.

"Just a short one," answered Ted, "but a big one to follow. 'Trust and obey' was the one I took. Every day I found some way I could do better if I followed it carefully."

"Well," admitted Joe, "I haven't had time to use the verses I did learn. I guess I'll try learning one and using it."—Selected.

Have you selected a key word for each lesson about Paul in this Quarter—for instance, "prison" for Philippi, Lesson 2?

A CHILD'S PRAYER

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; he leadeth me beside still waters."

As a kindly shepherd leads his flock through pleasant places and shields them from all harm, so, dear heavenly Father, wilt Thou lead me. Watch over my friends and those who are dear to me, and bless all Thy people everywhere. Under Thy protecting care may our lives be strong and sweet and useful. Amen.—Rev. R. W. Barstow.

WE BELIEVE that the dead shall live again—"Thy dead men shall live, together with my dead body shall they arise. Awake and sing, ye that dwell in dust: for thy dew is as the dew of herbs, and the earth shall cast out the dead."—Isaiah 26:19.

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 8. — November 22, 1931

PAUL IN ROME

Acts 25:1-12; 28:16-30

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 2:2-4

GOLDEN TEXT

I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me.—Philippians 4:13.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: Paul's Ministry in the World's Capital.

Basic Truth: "I purposed to come to you that I might have some fruit among you also." —Romans 1:13.

I. Rome. In every province of Paul's previous ministry he had been within the Roman empire. Every officer under which he labored was an appointee of Rome. Rome was the capital whose law extended over every land then embracing Christianity. In arriving at Rome Paul was under the immediate eye of Rome's supreme monarch and law. While there, though a prisoner, he was also protected from the Jews by the constant presence of its officers.

II. Rome's Religion. Rome's religion was neither Jewish nor Christian. Rather it was a composite of the religions of Egypt, Syria, Babylon, Greece, etc. It knew no Creator; it contemplated no Savior; it listened to no prophetic unfoldings of the tomorrow; it entertained but the most fabulous night dream of the hereafter. Jupiter, Mars, Venus, Janus, and many others were the gods of the Romans. It was in the capital of this varied mythology that those who gave it greatest authoritative sanction became the most vile and sensuous and by the authority of state illuminated their own garden festivities by torches made of living humans. In the world's capital of this vicious system, Paul entered a prisoner.

III. Christianity. Paul, a leading apostle of Christ and His truth, doing his part that Christ might become the light of the world, faced this amazing admixture of heathen mythology and prejudiced Judaism.

IV. The End of His Journey. Still in the prime of life and in the fullness of vigor, having continually fought for the truths of Christ in the countries whither he had gone, Paul here labored faithfully to the end. "From morning till evening" he taught those coming to him. "Two whole years in his own hired house" he provided opportunity for all to listen to him, the prisoner of the Lord. Nor did he stop at that: as though responsible to the church throughout his life's journey, he here in prison wrote letters of exhortation and teaching to the Ephesians, Philippians, Colossians, and to Philemon.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

"I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."—Phil. 4:13.

Christ said, in John 15:5, "I am the vine, ye are the branches: he that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing." We would hardly call Paul a "clinging vine", and yet he certainly did cling to the Vine of which he was a branch. He did abide in Christ, and His words were with Paul.

It is just as necessary for Christ's followers to abide in Him now as it was in Paul's time. He is the One who gives strength to those who live close to Him and those who let Him abide with them. We need this closeness of touch in our lives to be able to walk in paths of righteousness and do His bidding.

—L. A. R.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

Man versus God: Paul's experiences confirm what he wrote in his letter to the Romans: "If God be for us, who can be against us?" Rom. 8:31. Trusting Christians of today have also proven Paul's statement true. Man tries every means possible to stop or thwart the preaching of the "gospel of the kingdom and the name of Jesus Christ." Opposition usually spreads the gospel instead of stopping it. God has promised that His Word shall accomplish that which He pleases and prosper in the thing whereunto He sends it.

When Paul was brought before the various courts and was unable to secure the justice which he felt entitled to, do you think he was justified in appealing to Caesar's court? Discuss the favorable and adverse effects Paul's trip to Rome as a prisoner had on his ministry in that city. We are told that Paul spent two whole years in his own hired house, there preaching the gospel to all who came to him. From what source did he receive financial support to carry on this work? Could he have accomplished as much apart from the support of other lovers of truth? Would Paul's faith and zeal have been hindered in any way had the brethren failed to support him? Who would have been responsible for this failure?

Discuss the effect the following had on the success of Paul in Rome:

- Faith
  - Persecutions
  - Financial support
  - Prayers (by self and others)
- C. E. R.

SENIOR AND ADULT CLASSES

A Prisoner Proclaims the Gospel in Rome.

Paul was taken a prisoner to Rome but was not given a trial for at least two years. During this time he was permitted to dwell in his own hired house. (The funds for this purpose may have been supplied by the Philippians and others. See Phil. 4:10-20.) To this house Paul invited the chief Jews. He informed them that he had no intention of accusing the Jewish nation; then he preached the gospel to them. Some accepted, but many did not. In disgust he turned to the Gentiles.

During all this time a guard of Roman soldiers was detailed to watch him. This guard was changed several times each day. Paul preached to each new guard. His work must have been effective as it is claimed that Christianity entered Rome through the army. We seldom think of soldiers as spiritual leaders or introducers of spiritual things because their work deals with the carnal. This makes Paul's work seem the greater. It is fair to suppose that six different soldiers guarded him each day, thus he had six daily opportunities to do individual work. If each Christian today would do personal work with at least six different individuals each day what a difference there would be!

Paul's example should be of great value to us. Can we not talk to the ones we are associated with? The man in the factory, the one in the harvest field, or the "pick and shovel" workman of our cities, each has his opportunity to work for his Father. Why not ask the one next to you? We, as Christians, should ever remember the words of James 5:20.

—H. A. S.

INTERMEDIATE CLASS

Topic: A Prisoner Proclaims the Gospel in Rome.

For a long time Paul had been filled with a desire to preach the gospel in Rome, that great, wicked capital city. We left him in Jerusalem last Sunday and on the journey to Rome he encountered many interesting, as well as troublesome and distressing things. It was a perilous voyage, the winds were so against them that their journey was delayed, and they were shipwrecked, being forced to winter on the island of Malta. The winter in Malta contributed its share of interesting happenings. Read Acts 28:1-10.

What gave Paul courage when he neared Rome? V. 15. In what capacity did Paul live in Rome? V. 16. Did he give up hope and decide he might as well not try to preach? Why did he say he was a prisoner? V. 20. What did he mean? How did he obtain his audiences? V. 23. What was his message? What was the outcome? Vv. 24-31.

Can you imagine the officers permitting their prisoner to have liberty to live in his own hired house, though chained to a guard, and have many people come and talk with him? Remember Paul was a Roman citizen. He also had the opportunity to teach Christ to the soldiers who guarded him.

Do you think that God wanted Paul to preach the gospel in Rome? If God wants a person to do anything for Him, do you think He provides the way for that person to do it? Do you think He will find a way for you to do something for Him? When He does show you He wants you to do something, put your whole heart into the work.—M. G.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

FROM THANKFUL HEARTS

As the harvest season begins to draw to a close, we "take stock" of the blessings which we have received from the bountiful hand of God. Our loving Father has provided us with material blessings sufficient for our daily needs, and more than this, He has poured out spiritual blessings upon us, over and above that we deserve. In these days when many hearts are quaking "for fear of those things that are coming on the earth," He has given us a hope that holds us steady and serene in the knowledge of the coming of His Son, who will quiet the unrest of nations.

In return for these manifold blessings, both temporal and spiritual, shall we not offer to Him a portion of the increase which He has given us? As is our annual custom, we will gladly receive all Thank Offerings, and we ask your prayers that such will be used in a manner that will best serve our Master.

The first Thank Offering this year is from Sr. Ida Jeffrey of Herrin, Ill.

DOINGS AT DIXON

The Joy Class was entertained at the home of the teacher, Sr. Jessie Ford, on Friday evening, Oct. 30. The decorations were in keeping with Hallowe'en. Games were played and prizes won by some of the children. The refreshments were sandwiches, pickles, cake, and ice cream.

The Sunbeams enjoyed a Hallowe'en party at the home of their teacher, Sister Wagner. Games were played and songs and recitations made up the evening's entertainment. The decorations were in keeping with Hallowe'en. Refreshments were served, and the little tots returned to their homes happier than ever.

Sr. Dauntler is improving a little every day from a fall she received on Sept. 9.

We are always glad to have friends drop in and attend services, and we give you a cordial invitation to attend at any time.

Mr. and Mrs. Coffman of the Adeline church attended morning services, Nov. 1st.
Grace Drew, Sec.

NIAGARA FALLS AND FONTHILL

The Falls Bereans had a very pleasant social evening at the home of Sr. Elsie Moore, following their Bible study period on Friday evening, Oct. 30.

The weather and all smiled on the opening of the Falls' church all-day meeting on Sunday. This beautiful first day of November brought out the largest morning congregation seen at the Falls church for many years, and all present greatly enjoyed Bro. Randall's discourse on "God's Controversy with the Nations".

The communion service followed this and it must have been a great comfort to the many isolated members present, to be able to partake with those of like precious faith.

A pot luck cafeteria dinner was served in the church, and while this was a new venture, it was decidedly a success, well and efficiently managed, and the many good things were much enjoyed by all.

In the afternoon our pastor greatly comforted us with his sermon, "God Cares for His Own".

A splendid spirit prevailed throughout, and a pleasant social time was spent before and during supper.

The evening service was a bit out of the ordinary, as we were shown very interesting slides, as well as given a splendid address on "The Kingdom of God", a subject dear to the heart of all our members we are sure.

It was a great pleasure to us all to have Sr. Randall with us for the day's services. As for Bro. Randall, we know he worked very hard, but all was such a success that we feel sure he felt "tired but happy".

I do not feel this account would be complete without saying how very much we missed the smile and hearty handshake of Bro. George Rennard. He is away taking baths at some point in New York State, but at present we are not aware of his exact address. He was much remembered at the Throne of Grace.

All of Bro. Elliott's family of Fonthill were confined at home through illness and were much missed.

The spiritual food, the music, the temporal food, as well as the splendid spirit of good fellowship were all very gratifying, and we are sure all felt that it was good to be there.

One of the best attended choir gatherings of this fall took place at Bro. and Sr. Shute's home on Wednesday evening. I sincerely wish that all choir members fully realized how great a help it is to the other members, if every one is present at every practice.

Bro. Harry Sheets of Virginia opened a series of meetings at Fonthill church on Sunday night. Some meetings at the Falls church will undoubtedly follow these.

HERALD RECEIPTS

Mrs. Ethel Johnson; Mrs. I. M. Imes; Mrs. Ida Jeffrey; Mattie Benjamin; Mrs. Teresa Martindale; Martha Taylor; Mrs. Lola Clark; L. M. Howell; Wm. Laning; Mary M. Renner; Mrs. Julia Ordnung; Mrs. H. C. Eby; Almeda Glotfelty; Mrs. Herman Lewis; Earl Thayer; Catharine Davis.

About This and That From Here and There

Sr. T. J. Ellis, of Waterloo, was a welcome visitor in Oregon on Nov. 3, when she accompanied her husband on his usual trip to attend the N. B. I. executive board meeting, which is held the first Tuesday in each month.

Sr. Lucy Lapp accompanied her son to Ripley over last Sunday, thus becoming acquainted with the hospitable brothers and sisters there. Bro. Gerald Cooper could not resist going home on this occasion.

Word comes from Bro. Wm. Moore of Niagara Falls that their annual all-day meeting, of November 1, was well attended and was a very profitable meeting. Good words were included also for our new editor of The Herald.

Bro. and Sr. Paul C. Johnson and Louise May, and Bro. and Sr. Arthur Johnson spent the past week with the home folks at Sac City, Iowa. Louise May made her first acquaintance with Grandpa and Grandma Johnson.

Bro. G. Eldred Marsh is giving special attention to the Sunday morning services at Oregon, continuing the spirit of worship which Bro. Austin established. "Our hour with God" puts us into a spirit of consecration and encouragement for the duties of the week.

Bro. and Sr. J. H. Williams, of Rochelle, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. John Drummond, are visiting with relatives and friends in Iowa and Nebraska. During their absence Sr. Sue Williams is enjoying the home and companionship of her grandchildren, Bro. and Sr. Marsh and her great grandson, Arlen.

We are very glad to receive news from Bro. Adna E. Hoskins, the new pastor at St. Cloud, Minn., telling us of the work there. We feel sure God is blessing all sincere efforts that are being put forth there in His name, and not only there, but elsewhere as well. We hope to hear often from St. Cloud

A full supply is on hand of a new tract on the preexistence of Christ by Bro. H. B. Hathaway. These may be obtained from National Bible Institution for five cents per dozen.

Your print shop has just printed a folder advertising the meetings which Bro. Sydney Magaw is holding at Brush Creek (Ohio) church. These meetings will begin November 15th and continue until the 29th. The program promises to be of much interest and profit and we pray God's blessing upon all services.

The Oregon church and Sunday school are very fortunate in possessing musical talent of various types. One of our newest features is a song leader for Sunday school. Sr. Azalia Winfrey has been acting in this capacity since Rally Day, which means that under her capable leadership our tempo and harmony are improving.

Readers of The Herald will look forward with interest to a report of the meetings which Bro. H. A. Sheets is now holding for the brethren at Fonthill.

Beginning with this issue we are mailing 75 copies of The Restitution Herald each week to Miss Helen Porter, of St. Cloud, Minn. She will remit for these each week and will sell them in St. Cloud. This may be an idea for others who desire to see the good seed sown in new fields. We trust many new readers will result from Sr. Porter's efforts.

Bro. and Sr. Fred Shain write us expressing the gratitude of the Eldorado (Ill.) brotherhood for the services of Bro. C. E. Lapp, which we hope will be held regularly once a month at that point. Eldorado has a good church building, but heretofore has not been able to have services with any regularity. This fact makes them especially appreciative of the Illinois Conference on their behalf.

NEWS OF THE WORK AT ST. CLOUD, MINNESOTA

The Lord is indeed blessing the work here. Our Sunday school is increasing, and soon we will have doubled our attendance. The young people's Berean society has taken on new life, and they have charge of the music at the morning worship. Sunday evening found us with almost a full house. Folks seem to be anxious about their soul's salvation. I have never met a more splendid group of Christians than these at St. Cloud. Every department seems anxious to do something. A great feast was had at the Mora conference. Everybody is happy and joyous, even though times are difficult. We are watching and praying for the soon coming of Jesus. Brethren, may we pray one for another.

Adna E. Hoskins, Pastor,
12 Eleventh Ave., North.

REJOICING AT GRAND RAPIDS

The series of meetings which is in progress yet as these lines are written is proving of real value in many ways. Expressions of genuine personal benefit on the part of different members have been encouraging. Closer contact with several who are not members has also been realized. And in addition there have been five thus far who have requested baptism. We hope for still more before the close, and will report fully then.

An experiment has been tried and found to work exceptionally well. Being financially unable to get an outside minister, or to hire a song leader, we asked different workers in the church to conduct the opening exercises, a different person for each night. The results have been astonishing. These leaders have brought in special talent of every kind from everywhere, and interest has run high. The whole church body has given wonderful co-operation for the meetings.

Next week we will report on the results of "Men's Day"—the big and closing day of our special effort.

F. E. Siple, pastor.

FROM LOS ANGELES

Bro. J. A. Squires, of Lynwood, has gone to Nebraska for a few weeks' visit with relatives. We missed him at our Rally Day services.

We were happy to greet Sr. I. W. Gould, of Long Beach; Sr. Jessie Kauffman, of Riverside; Bro. and Sr. Hatch, of Santa Ana; Bro. and Sr. A. Scroggs, of Pomona; also Sr. Gertrude Johns who has not been able to meet with us often since moving to Glendale.

The picnic dinner in South Park permitted the members to enjoy a social time together. The weather was delightful for the occasion.

Bro. D. B. Jackson is quite ill with the flu, at his home on Dalton Avenue.

AT PLUM RIVER

Next Sunday, November 15, is the regular appointment at Plum River (Ill.) church. Bro. C. E. Lapp, as usual, will speak, both morning and evening, and we trust all who find it possible will be in attendance.

CONTRIBUTIONS RECEIVED

The following have contributed to the Dollar-a-Month Club and to other departments of the N. B. I. since last issue. Instead of mailing acknowledgments to each one, we take this means of expressing our appreciation, and we pray the Father's blessing upon all.

Mrs. Luey Lapp; Leona Lathrop; Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Kirkpatrick; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Netts; Lawrenceville Church of God and Sunshine Class; Mrs. David Beck; Virgil Claypool; Leota Hanson; Mr. and Mrs. Austin Scroggs; Elder G. A. Brown; Carol Wilson; Arthur Gilbey; Conrad Dickel; Cecil Smead; Mary M. Renner; Leland Hanson; Mrs. Julia Ordnung; Elizabeth Ordnung; Leila E. Whitehead; H. H. Hawkins; W. E. Boyer; F. C. Stilson; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Williams; Silas Claypool; Fred C. Smith; Elsie Moore.

OUT FROM BONDAGE

The Egyptian yoke was sorely pressed,
And Pharaoh's men were cruel,
When in that land God's people blest
Strove under Egyptian rule.

The Nile sped, and never dreamed
Its part upon the scene;
For in its flags a babe was screened
From searching slayers, keen.

'Twas then the Royal Princess came
And took him for her own;
And Pharaoh did not fear his fame
Till Moses was full grown.

'Twas Moses whom the Lord had planned
Should free those toiling slaves,
And lead them to the Promised Land
Beyond the Red Sea waves.

'Tis Egypt now we see in fear,
For Israel is set free;
And now 'tis Pharaoh's shout we hear,
"We'll trap them at the Sea."

Before the Sea stand Israel's hosts,
Disheartened though set free,
For now they hear Egyptian boasts,
"We've trapped them at the Sea."

"Stand still," they hear the prophet say,
"The Lord shall fight for you."
God says, "Go on, and do not stay,
For I shall lead you through."

The waves roll back for Israel's band,
Like massive walls of foam,
To guide them toward the Promised Land,
On, to their future home.

And now beneath those seething waves
Lie Pharaoh and his band,
In sadder plight than ever slaves
Were mastered in his land.

Oh! Pray for the voice that says, "Go on,"
When hope is lost in fear;
For then the victory's almost won;
The Promised Land is near.

By Sydney E. Magaw

TRACTS AND BOOKS

TRACTS

Name	Pages	Dozen	100
The Reasons Why	2	$0.05	$0.30
Essential Truths	1	.05	.30
God's Promises, by Anna E. Drew	2	.05	.30
The Resurrection, by S. J. Lindsay	2	.05	.30
Obedience	2	.05	.30
The Baptist Confession of Faith	2	.05	.30
Who Owns the Wool?	4	.05	.30
The Coming of Christ, S. J. Lindsay	2	.05	.30
What Is a Christian, J. W. Williams	4	.10	.60
Where Do We Go When We Die?	4	.10	.60
Immortality of the Human Soul	4	.10	.60
Shall Never Die	4	.10	.60
The Voice of Prophecy	4	.10	.60
Immortality	4	.10	.60
Did Christ Pre-exist? R. H. Judd	4	.10	.60
The Thief on the Cross, F. E. Siple	4	.10	.60
What Do the Scriptures Teach? Judd	6	.15	.90
What Must I Do to Be Saved?	4	.10	.60
Hell, What Is It	8	.20	1.25
The Coming of Christ, R. A. Curtis	6	.20	1.25
The Rich Man and Lazarus, F. E. Siple	8	.20	1.25
A Few Thoughts	8	.20	1.25
Baptism, S. J. Lindsay	8	.20	1.50

Name	Pages	Each	Dozen	100
God, R. H. Judd	16	.04	.30	1.75
The First Resurrection, Wm. Leask	20	.05	.40	3.00
A Letter to a Friend	32	.10	1.00	8.00
Where Are the Dead?	36	.05	.50	4.00

Name

Pages Each Dozen

The Resurrection, J. L. Wince
(For cost of Postage) 32 .03 .12

BOOKS

Name	Pages	Each	Per 6
Death Reigned from Adam to Moses, paper cover	58	$0.10
Sin, A. H. Zilmer, paper covers	84	.25
Destiny of Russia and Signs of the Times, W. H. Wilson, board cloth	96	.25	$1.25
Book of Revelation Made Easy to Understand, W. H. Wilson, board cloth	96	.25	1.25
Ancient Mysteries, George Johnston	116	.50
Christ in the Old Testament, R. H. Judd, paper	88	.40
The Way of Life Eternal, Lyman Booth, paper	88	.40
Student's Text Book, Wilson, board cloth	200	.45	2.60
The Visitor, Boice, paper	212	.50
The Mystery of Iniquity, Booth, paper	220	.75
Pine Woods Bible Class, Wilson, board cloth,	480	.85	5.00
Emphatic Diaglott, Benjamin Wilson
Neatly bound, and in clear type,		2.50

THE GOSPEL IN SONG

A Book of 287 well-printed Gospel Hymns

	Each	Per 10	Per 100
	Postpaid	Postpaid	Not Postpaid
Manila	$0.40	$3.60	$30.00
Flexible Cloth	.45	4.00	33.00
Board Cloth	.50	4.50	40.00

IN THE DAYS OF THY YOUTH

By Lottie E. Young

FEW people in this world are satisfied with their position in it. The rich think if they only had less care and fewer large enterprises on their hands they would be able to eat and sleep better, and of course, be happier; while the poor are equally sure if money was their portion, they would give enough away to make everybody happy, to say nothing of the good things they would add to their own lives. The healthy person thinks if he only had time to meditate and study, how much wiser he could become; while the person confined to the sick room feels sure he could learn more from nature's books than all he could read in his room, even though time is unlimited.

And so it is with young and old; the former think if they were only grown-up and could do as they liked, what large places they would fill in the world; while those of more mature years sigh for the care-free life of the children. But one and all of us can be assured that we are occupying just the very best places in this world of ours, and it is our duty to make such good use of the talents God has given us that age may bring no sorrow with it for wasted time.

The Bible makes mention of several children who found favor in the eyes of God; perhaps they were no brighter or smarter than ordinary children, but they followed the advice given in the first part of our verse, "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth". It is to these children that I call your attention; as showing that though small and insignificant in the eyes of the world, God could make use of them.

Suppose the little Miriam, sister of the baby Moses, had not been faithful to her trust when her mother told her to watch the basket, but had grown tired and wandered away, or gone to sleep, and so had not seen the princess who adopted the baby! She obeyed her mother's wishes, however, and when the princess asked for a nurse, she recommended her mother. So the baby was brought up in the Jewish faith and recognized the fact that he was a brother of those whom the Egyptian king persecuted. The name of Moses has come down to us in Jewish history as the greatest of all that people, and the Hebrews of Jesus' day boasted openly that they were the disciples of Moses.

We read in chapter five of second Kings, that Naaman, captain of the host of the king of Syria, had brought a little girl captive from the land of Israel to wait upon his wife. Now this Naaman, though a mighty man, was a leper, and death was his sure portion if one could not be found to cure the disease most loathsome of all. Undoubtedly many remedies had been tried, but all had failed, when this little girl, feeling sorry for her master, said, "Oh, if he would only go to the prophet, Elisha, I know he could cure him." Finally Naaman, willing to try anything, went to Elisha, and although at first he was angry at the prophet's advice, after persuasion he did dip in the River Jordan seven times, and we read that his flesh became as the flesh of a little child. So this little captive, by full belief in the God of her father and mother, though among idolators, did the best she could as a child without waiting to grow larger.

Daniel is best known as a man in the den of lions, but his bravery was equally manifested when as a little prisoner he dared to defy the great king, Nebuchadnezzar, by not eating of the meat, or drinking of the wine which he had been taught by his parents would defile him. The child Samuel, talking with God and ready to do what Jehovah commanded, and the youth, David, going out to slay the champion of the Philistines armed with only a sling, but with, "In the name of the Lord of hosts", in his mouth, are both familiar figures in the Old Testament.

Turning to the New Testament, the coming of Jesus into this world as a tiny baby, the weakest of all created beings, has forever lifted childhood above the rank it held in the ancient world, where the father could put his children to death if they disobeyed him, and still not transgress the strict terms of the law. The boy Jesus in the temple doing his Father's business is a forerunner of the man who said, "My Father worketh hitherto, and I work," and He has forever glorified labor. Children are often mentioned in the ministration of Jesus on earth, and the boy who gave his lunch to the disciples, making possible the wonderful miracle of Christ feeding the five thousand with two tiny fishes and a few barley cakes, and probably making many people believe "this is indeed the Christ, the Son of the living God", must have been a happy child.

The Great Physician was not above bringing back to life the little daughter of Jairus, and I think the little ones He held on His knee when He said, "Suffer little children and forbid them not to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven," must always have had a tender recollection of that touch.

The lessons to me from this thought are that nothing is too little to be ordered by our Father; nothing too little in which to see His hand; nothing which touches our souls, too little to accept from Him; nothing too little to be done for Him.—In Gospel Trumpet.

GLORIA TIBI

God of the earliest streaks of dawn
That tint the orient skies of day,
God of the bright and glorious morn,
God of the noontide's gladsome ray,
God of the evening's twilight gray,
God of the midnight's solemn hour,
God of the everlasting day,
God of all love and grace and power—
Unto Thee my soul would raise
Grateful hymns of solemn praise:
Help me worthily to sing,
Great Creator, God and King!

—Selected.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

GREGON, ILLINOIS, NOVEMBER 17, 1931

NUMBER 7

THE PROFIT OF PRAYER

By Arlen Marsh

"What is the Almighty, . . . and what profit should we have, if we pray unto him?" — Job 21:15.

Few biblical problems have been the cause of as much controversy as that resulting from the second of these two rhetorical questions, recorded fifteen hundred years before the birth of the Christ. In pulpit and in class the cry has gone up for countless years, "What is the Almighty, . . . and what profit should we have, if we pray unto him?"

Why was it that the apostles of the Christ gathered about Him as reported in Luke 11:1 and asked, "Lord, teach us to pray, as John also taught his disciples"? Why had the great forerunner of the Savior taught his disciples to pray? What profit was there in the agonized prayer of Jesus, sent up on the eve of His betrayal from the Garden of Gethsemane? For what cause had Daniel knelt thrice each day, and prayed, and given thanks before his God, as he had before Darius had signed his infamous decree? Is prayer answered?

It is inconceivable that men of this distinction should have prayed unto their God without good reason; it is not possible that the Christ would have wasted His energies in nugatory conversation with His Father. Certainly they must have expected to derive some benefit from the time they spent in communion with the Deity.

To all this there can be but one conclusion. Each of these, each of the ones who have offered their petitions for divine intervention in their affairs, must have possessed in full degree the belief expressed by a sorrowing Christ in His prayer over the tomb of Lazarus, "Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me. And I knew that thou hearest me always."—John 11:41-42.

True, the spiritual gain which always comes from a prayer sent up in a deep sense of devotion would compensate to a great extent those who used their time in pleading with God; but only the expectation of an answer to their cries could have prompted the petitions of Daniel, of Hezekiah, and of Moses. Their requests for favors would have been meaningless, would have been an actual waste of effort, had they not held the hope of a literal response.

The theory of unanswered prayer must go down before the cold fact of answered prayer as definitely presented by the Bible. The historical portions of the Scriptures are so interspersed with examples of literal answers to prayer as to present an insurmountable wall of evidence in favor of the faith held by the ancients in pleas to their God. From the time of Adam to the time of the "Revelation of Jesus Christ" there is no record of the failure of God to hear the sincere prayers of any man.

Faced with the tyrannical demands of Rabshakeh, Hezekiah, ruler of Judah, sent ambassadors to the haughty emissary of the king of Assyria (Sennacherib). Proudly did Rabshakeh send them back to their master, saying, "Who are they among all the gods of these lands . . . that the Lord should deliver Jerusalem out of my hand?"—Isaiah 36:20. Quickly did Hezekiah send to Isaiah, asking, "Lift up thy prayer for the remnant that is left."—Isaiah 37:4.

Then came the answer as delivered through the prophet, "Behold, I will send a blast upon him, and he shall hear a rumor, and return to his own land; and I will cause him to fall by the sword in his own land."—Isaiah 37:7. Almost immediately were these promises fulfilled. The faith of Hezekiah in prayer had been justified, even as it was three years later when God granted his request for prolonged life as a reward for faithful service.

Such examples of the practical efficacy of prayer are too numerous to arouse special comment. The pleas of an Israel repentant of its sins were answered by blessings untold. Samuel, David, Solomon, Jonah, Abraham—the roll of those granted that for which they asked is far too large to be here given. In not one recorded case has a sincere

Continued on page 103

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

"In the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed: and the kingdom shall not be left to other people, but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand for ever."

THE EDITOR'S PRAYER

"OUR FATHER which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven." Thus for ages have Thy devout children, O Lord, offered unto Thee their prayer. Help us, most gracious God, that we may understand more perfectly the true nature of that for which we ask, for Jesus' sake. Amen.

THE DYNAMIC GOSPEL

WITH much emphasis Paul declares that the gospel "is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." Rom. 1:16. He further insists that among the many so-called "gospels" that men may believe and in which they may put their trust, there is but one that possesses this gracious potency. Gal. 1:8, 9.

Questioned concerning the source of this heaven-powered message, he asserts, "I neither received it of men, neither was I taught it, but by the revelation of Jesus Christ." Gal. 1:12. Therefore to determine its nature it is advisable that we should enquire of Him who revealed it to Paul, and who alone is able to speak with the assurance and authority of its Author. Heb. 12:2.

With the thought clearly in mind that there is but one gospel that is the "power of God unto salvation," and that that gospel was revealed by Jesus Christ, we will approach Him boldly as becomes those who trust Him fully, and ask Him to tell us the meaning of this wonderful message He has for the hopeless and sin-suffering world, that we may carry the "glad tidings" to all mankind.

THE GOSPEL OF CHRIST

MARK, a companion of Paul in his imprisonment and during a part of his missionary labors (Philemon 24; Acts 12:25), and a close associate of Peter (according to Eusebius he was the secretary of the latter Apostle), will serve as our direct means of communication with the Lord.

Mark approaches the answer to our question most impressively. "The beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God." Very briefly he recounts the ministry of John the Baptist, and arrives almost immediately at the answer to our question: What was the gospel revealed by Jesus Christ?

Listen to Mark's inspired reply: "Now after that John was put in prison, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the gospel of the kingdom of God, and saying, The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand: repent ye, and believe the gospel." Mark 1:1, 14, 15.

THE GOSPEL OF GRACE

JESUS thus defines His gospel in the most simple terms. It is "the gospel of the kingdom of God." Nothing more than that, and nothing less than that! Whatever may be the various elements that enter into it, first of all the gospel has to do with what Philip denominates "the things concerning the kingdom of God." Acts 8:12.

Various other items are applied to the gospel in the Bible, such as "the gospel of God", Rom. 15:16; "the gospel of Christ", 1 Cor. 9:12; "the gospel of your salvation", Eph. 1:13; and "the gospel of the grace of God." Acts 20:24. It is evident, however, that all of these several items refer to different phases of the same unit message, the gospel of the kingdom of God.

The great theme of Paul's evangel is grace, God's grace manifested, and to be manifested, through Christ. Hence it is that in his discourse to the elders of Ephesus he speaks of "the glad tidings of the kingdom of God" (Luke 8:1) as "the gospel of the grace of God." What he means by this expression he clearly states in the verse which follows.

We will quote the entire passage in which the expression occurs. After referring to the "bonds and afflictions" which await him, he says: "But none of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself, so that I might finish my course with joy, and the ministry, which I received of the Lord Jesus" (Gal. 1:12), "to testify the gospel of the grace of God. And now, behold, I know that ye all, among whom I have gone preaching the kingdom of God, shall see my face no more." Acts 20:24, 25.

When Paul preached "the gospel of the grace of God" in Ephesus, he preached "the kingdom of God", for they were one and the same thing. He dared not preach "any other gospel" unto them lest he "be accursed." Gal. 1:9.

It would be wise for us to confine ourselves to the proclamation of the same great message, by which only comes salvation.

---

THE PERSONAL GOD

---

By F. L. Austin

---

"And Hezekiah prayed before the Lord, and said, O Lord God of Israel, which dwellest between the cherubims, thou art the God, even thou alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth; thou hast made heaven and earth. Lord, bow down thine ear, and hear: open, Lord, thine eyes and see: and hear the words of Sennacherib, which hath sent him to reproach the living God." — 2 Samuel 19:15, 16.

"No impersonal being", as Fairbairn says, "whether named fate or chance, necessity or existence, the soul or the whole, can be an object of worship. . . . The impersonal must be personalized before thought, which is a subject activity, can pass into worship, which is a reciprocal action, or a process of converse or intercourse between living minds."

"Both love and religion", as Knudson says, "seek for union . . . of mutual understanding and sympathy." No being can give and receive love or worship that is not personal. But "God is love." He "so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." He sought the love of His creatures when He directed, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart"; and He accepted their worship when He said, "Thou shalt have no other gods before me." Surely, from God's own Word we must realize and accept the personality of God.

The personality of God does not necessarily imply corporeality. "The essential meaning of personality", as Professor Bowne puts it, "is selfhood, self-consciousness, self-control, and the power to know."

In the history of Israel, God's chosen nation, God made known most positively that He had personal knowledge of, and sympathy with His people. He revealed His constant interest in their welfare; He manifested the power of His own influence upon them. Israelitish history cannot be written according to the same rule as is the history of other nations written. History is the record of cause and effect. But the injection of the mighty force of the unseen God into the affairs of Israel so altered the shaping and development of Israel as to render insufficient the effort of man to intelligently present the history of that people unto following generations. Ever and anon there were interspersed through the warp and woof of Israel's historic pattern the threads of God's infinite and invisible power which introduced into the finished pattern outstanding designs inexplicable by man. Both biblical and profane record are content by writing simply, "God blew; and we conquered."

Pharaoh felt doubly able to cope with the uprising of Israel. But God was present with Moses and Aaron. He personally, consciously, spoke and directed His power in the interest of Israel. His Personal presence changed things. Pharaoh was baffled. Sennacherib prophesied blasphemously against Jerusalem, the city of God, and against God. According to all rules of cause and effect, he with his mighty army was able to capture the Jews like as he had captured greater than they. He worshiped "he knew not what." He took no account of Him who personally watched Israel. But in one night the God of all power and wisdom shot His threaded shuttle through the Assyrian loom, and the whole picture was changed. The personal God changed the course of events. Such an One, though unseen, the Jews could recognize as an ever present, watchful, powerful, conscious Personality. They could love and adore and worship Him with a sense of closeness, of oneness, of endearment.

Brother, Sister: that is the God whom Jesus brought to us. He who was present in the doings of the nation is also ever ready to weave the threads of majestic power into patterns of outstanding realness and beauty upon your lives and mine. The unchristian may not understand; nay, neither can he understand or explain, or record. But that Personal God who heard the prayer of His Son at the tomb of Lazarus and changed the picture of home and life for Mary and Martha, is your God and my God. He is the same Personal Father that He ever was, and is ever read to intercede in our behalf.

Then, too, by His personal messages to prophets of old He has made known that He will yet again stand up personally in behalf of His people, as of yore. Man cannot understand. Historians cannot comprehend. Therefore the experiences of Pharaoh, Sennacherib, Nebuchadnezzar, will be repeated unto them. For God is again going to speak and do and accomplish for His people and for mankind. His Son is to be sent to redeem and set at liberty. God will fight as when He fought in the day of battle. By His own personal power and word and presence rebellious man will yet be thwarted and the glorious pictures of His own long foretold patterns will be woven into the fabric of God's world.

Surely Thou art God and there is none besides Thee,

"I WILL COME AGAIN"

He promised, ere He went away,
 "I'll come again,
 And take you all unto Myself,
 Who faith maintain."

He bids us thus to watch and wait,
 And tell His matchless grace,
 Until the archangel's voice invites
 To see His face.

It may be at the eventide,
 When toil is done;
 When lengthening shadows slowly glide
 Before the sun,
 That o'er the hills a brighter light,
 Than sunset's glow shall spread,
 And Christ will come with power, to judge
 The quick and dead.

Or, it may be at the break of day,
 That in the sky,
 When darkening shadows flee away,
 As light draws nigh,
 That all the nations, near and far,
 Shall see that wondrous sign,
 And Christ, the Bright and Morning Star,
 On earth shall shine.

Or, it may be in the morning light,
 When Nature sings,
 The Sun of Righteousness shall rise
 With healing in His wings,
 To give to all that love the light
 That everlasting day,
 When sorrow, sadness, sin and death
 Shall flee away.

'Tis thus we sing our Blessed Hope,
 It cheers us here;
 It helps to build our spirits up
 From year to year.
 And though we ne'er may meet again
 As on this earth we roam,
 We'll hope to meet at Jesus' feet,
 When He shall come;
 And join the joyous strain
 In Home, Sweet Home.—Selected.

GOD'S CONTROVERSY WITH THE NATIONS

By C. E. Randall

"A noise shall come even to the ends of the earth; for the Lord hath a controversy with the nations, he will plead with all flesh; he will give them that are wicked to the sword, saith the Lord."—Jer. 25:31.

JEREMIAH predicts a world-wide struggle among the nations of earth in this great prophetic chapter. He says all nations will drink of the "wine cup of this fury". If any refuse, God will say, "Ye shall certainly drink". God is going to use this period of time in which He will "plead with all flesh". The trouble will spread from nation to nation like a great whirlwind. None will escape this conflagration. Its terrible results are vividly described in verse thirty-three of this same chapter. It reads: "And the slain of the Lord shall be at that day from one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth: they shall not be lamented, neither gathered, nor buried".

God, in chapter thirty-eight and thirty-nine of Ezekiel, says, "And I will call for a sword against him throughout all my mountains, saith the Lord God: every man's sword shall be against his brother". It is difficult to imagine what a universal struggle of this kind would create in suffering and death. Daniel, in speaking of this same period of time, describes it in this language: "There shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation even to that same time."—Daniel 12:1.

Nations are rapidly approaching this terrible time. Statesmen's hearts are failing them for fear when they think of the reality of this approaching conflict. I wish to quote from a speech recently delivered by Gen. Jan Smuts at Sheffield University, England.

"The armed peace led to the World War. Would it had ended there. But armed peace continues in an aggravated form; as long as it continues mankind seems to be marching to some HORRIBLE DOOM. In the next great war, if that ever is allowed to occur, science will, like some angry deity, go far to destroy mankind itself. The next war will be unlike anything which has been called war in the past.

"The time-honored name of war would not properly apply to it. It will pay scant attention to armies and navies or to other paraphernalia of war. It will go straight for the populations and for the immense urban aggregations which will be its sure target. It will cover the fair land and great cities with poison and disease germs. It will saturate vast areas with a deadly atmosphere. There will be no escape, not even statesmen and the warmakers, and a pall of death will rest over all.

"And in due time some lunatic will press the button and the flower of the human race will be trapped and destroyed."

For many centuries the nations of Asia have not played a very important role in the affairs of the world. They have been backward in civilization and culture, but today we see them coming to the forefront; and with this sensational rise they also are making great strides in national preparation for war. We are witnessing the way of the kings of the east being prepared. Rev. 16:12. The present crisis between China and Japan is causing world concern. And well it may, for a war between these races would involve the whole world.

COMMANDER Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army said recently: "In the days before prohibition, a corps of stretcher-bearers sent out by the Army on Saturday nights in New York City used to collect from 1200 to 1300 intoxicated men and women from the streets and take care of them until they had sobered up. After prohibition came in, the number was reduced to 400 almost immediately. Now the average is about seven persons in all for a Saturday night.—Peniel Herald.

In a technical department report on war materials of the League of Nations we find this startling statement: "Military superiority, in so far as it is represented by the number of troops and the quantity of ammunition possessed by nations, has passed from the western hemisphere to the eastern." Thus we see movements all over the world tending towards the fulfillment of God's Word.

We can be thankful that our heavenly Father has provided a way of escape for those who trust in Him. In Luke 21:36 we have this assuring promise: "Watch ye therefore, and pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of man." Another very hopeful scripture is given in Isaiah 26:20: "Come, my people, enter thou into thy chambers, and shut thy doors about thee: hide thyself as it were for a little moment, until the indignation be overpast."

---

WHO RECEIVES THE REWARD?

---

By C. E. Lapp

---

WHEN David and his followers were trying to escape from Saul, they fled to the vicinity of the land which was occupied by the Philistines. The Philistine lords were afraid of them, and so they asked that David and his followers go back to their own country and people. They were at this time near Jezreel, in the northern part of Palestine.

On the third day of their return journey, David and his men came to Ziklag, a city in the southern part of the kingdom. Here they found that the Amalekites had pillaged the city, burned it with fire, and taken away their wives and children as captives. Among these were David's two wives, and he and all his company wept until they had no more power to weep.

David then did exactly as most everyone else does in such dire circumstances, as you or I would do in a similar time of trouble. He called upon the Lord for guidance and for counsel as to whether he should pursue after the Amalekites, who had wreaked such dire punishment upon them. God told him to pursue them, and he immediately started with six hundred of his men. He came to a certain brook and two hundred of them were so weak from fatigue that they were left behind with the camp provisions necessary for the company.

The other four hundred went on to where they found the Amalekites eating and dancing and rejoicing over the fact that so many of the Israelites had been taken captive. David, by instruction of God, fought against them, and only four hundred, who were young men, escaped on camels. The rest were slain. The Israelites then rescued their wives and children, and took as spoil the herds and cattle of the Amalekites, and returned to the two hundred men whom they had left by the brook.

As they drew near to the brook the men came out to greet them. Immediately some of those who had gone with David said, "Because the others did not go to the fight they should not receive any of the spoil, only their wives and children." David disabused their minds of that thought by telling them that everyone should receive equally, because it was not the Israelites' great strength and power that had won the battle and brought in the spoil, but because God Himself had delivered their enemies into their hands. And as David said in 1 Samuel 30:24, "But as his part is that goeth down to the battle, so shall his part be that tarrieth by the stuff: they shall part alike."

This little incident of David and his people was to them quite an event, and if we dig deeply into it we will find truths that can be used in our own lives.

There is a call today for Christian workers, and for people who will finance Christian work. If you were asked to go out in the service of Christ, possibly you would feel, as a great many others, that you were not capable of so great a service. That may all be true, but if you cannot go away from your home, there is a service you can do there. Christ wants men and women who will everywhere be staunch, true Christians, living each day as though Christ were at their side. It is possible that by consistent living on your part others may be won to Christ. We must remember that God gives the increase in our case as in the case of David.

Then, too, there is another place you can fill, one of more importance than almost any other, and that is at the place of prayer—something that is needed in the home, on the street, in the office, on the farm, as well as by those who are doing full time service in some particular field. By your prayers someone may be brought to see the gospel light, for we know that prayer changes things.

Another place we can help, where we are so often negligent, and that is, support the church or Christian activity with our money. We may think our little bit will not be worth while, but every little bit helps. You may say it helps the one receiving it the more, but if given in the right spirit the giver is greatly blessed of God and is supplied with more. We must remember that the man who stays behind the lines and does all he possibly can is just as worthy as the one who goes out into the thickest of the fight, because God gives the victory.

When we remember the occasion of David and his company, we will see that those who stayed beside the brook and watched the stuff received as much of the spoil that was taken as those who went into the battle. God gave the increase to one and all alike, and He is still doing the same, in proportion as people are willing to give Him their whole-hearted service, whether in actual service, or as those who carry the burden in prayer, and those who support every effort with their finances.

"WAR AND PEACE"

By Norman John McLeod

(A sermon in commemoration of Armistice Day, given at the Church of God, Los Angeles, California.)

THE terrible enmity which exists between France and Germany may well be illustrated by the following incident which occurred during the Prussian occupation of Paris following the Napoleonic wars. A young Prussian officer was given a room in Paris with a certain elderly couple. They gave him the best treatment possible—the best room in the house, extra little things to eat, and, in short, everything that could make his stay happy. On the day he was to leave he called the elderly couple and told them to go look at his room before he left. To their dismay the bed was hacked to pieces, the mirror was smashed, the priceless antiques broken, and the room demolished in general.

With tears of despair they asked why he had treated them so ungratefully. "That," he answered, "is the way your son left my whole house at home when he was in Prussia. Only in addition my mother and father were driven into the streets as beggars." Such is war! And this morning I wish to give you a first hand thought picture of other scenes.

Most of the boys who left America to go to France to fight the Germans came from homes such as yours and mine. They had seen nothing more terrible than the common scenes of the farm, the workshop, or the city streets. Their lives had been lived for the most part in peaceful God-fearing homes.

Many of them had never looked upon death in any form. They were raised as is always the case in a peaceful nation. They were taken to army camps where all things were not so comfortable as formerly; food was not so good; beds were not soft; all the former friends were far away; and newer hardened associates were all that could be had. Profanity, idleness, sins of the worst sort, all the things that break down the moral fiber of the soldier surrounded them.

Let us go now to France. For convenience let us look at any town in the war zone. This town was formerly a most peaceful one: here is the village square where the farmers brought in their products to sell; there yonder is the church where the people have gone to worship from infancy; there the farmer boy goads the laboring oxen in their cumbersome harness; here children play with their pets after the toil of the day is over. But that was before the war of 1914.

Now it is 1918. The tread of the German legions with their ponderous guns shakes the ground. The church stands in ghastly ruins! The houses are all mere shells, or remnants of crumbling walls. There stands the remains of a once peaceful hearth. Where are the inhabitants? Where the dogs and the children that they guarded? The homes are broken never to be restored.

A trench runs through the town. Let us go up and look in. There at the bottom lie two forms that used to be German soldiers. They were killed in action. The sun has come out and their bodies have swollen till scarcely recognizable! Those were some mothers' sons, some children's "daddy" who came home from his work to greet them.

A vision rises before me of the horror of it all. Oh, the mass of mangled bodies coming to be dressed! The boom of the guns; the whirl of the airplanes; the rattle of the machine guns; thousands dead just as those two men in the trench! On, on comes the procession of wounded! Will there never come an end? Which is worse, to face the fire of the guns in the open, or go to the dugout and hear them unseen?

One night as I lay in my dugout in soaked blankets, my bedmate said to me: "Why are you shaking so, are you cold?" I said, "No! I'm not cold. Why are you shaking?" And as I lay there trembling, I lighted our little candle and took out the blessed Book, and in James 5:11 I read: "Behold, we count them happy which endure. Ye have heard of the patience of Job, and have seen the end of the Lord; that the Lord is very pitiful, and of tender mercy."

I thought of the homes robbed of all that is sacred, of the lot of the bereaved that is worse than that of the dead. Men were verily losing their faith. They sought refuge in witchcraft and spiritualism to bring back their loved ones. Or they were led into atheism because they could not see how a righteous God could allow such terrible things! And I turned to reread Job. For the first time he really lived.

Here was a man who had known peace and plenty, and had lost both at almost one fell swoop. And there sits poor old Job on an ash pile in the city dump talking to his friends. Let us see what they have to say.

The friends bring up the age old argument, "Your sins, Job, are the cause of all your calamities!" But Job says, "No, the wicked prosper in this life; the righteous suffer." And as his friends press the subject, Job gives voice to one of the greatest statements of faith of all time: "For I know that my redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth: and though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God." Job 19:25-26.

Then at the last God appears in the storm to settle the argument between Job and his friends. What does He say? The evil that is in the world is a mystery; the good is just as much of a mystery; neither can be understood. Why is there suffering in the world? We do not know. God has His mysteries which it is not meant we should understand.

Why did God, the only righteous God, allow all those innocent people to suffer during the Great War? I cannot tell.

But at last came the end: Armistice Day! But will it be an end? Rather do we of the church look to Armistice Day as an emblem of that greater time of peace yet to prayer been ignored.

Continued on page 106

THE PROFIT OF PRAYER

Continued from front page

The hypothesis that the age of answered prayer has passed is, to say the least, illogical. Would the Christ have taught His disciples to pray had He known that their prayers would be unavailing? Would Paul have written the Thessalonians to "pray without ceasing. In everything give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you", had he believed that prayer is useless? Would he have continued with the intreaty, "Brethren, pray for us", had he thought that it could do no good?

To believe that the Christ and His Apostle to the Gentiles would ask their followers to do that which could accomplish nothing is contrary to reason. Such a belief is particularly hard to accept in view of the Christ's promise in the greatest sermon ever preached—that which He delivered to His disciples on the mount—"Ask, and it shall be given unto you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you: for every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened."—Matt. 7:7-8. This may be applied as well to the church today as to the church of A. D. 31.

One entire parable was devoted by the Christ to teaching the value and necessity of prayer. Luke comments, "And he spake a parable unto them to this end, that men ought always to pray . . ."—Luke 18:1. A judge who was being beseeched by a widow to avenge her wrongs hesitated long before deciding that "because this widow troubleth me, I will avenge her, lest by her continual coming she weary me."—Luke 18:5. "And the Lord said, Hear what the unjust judge saith. And shall not God avenge his own elect, which cry day and night unto him, though he bear long with them? I tell you that he will avenge them speedily."—Luke 18:6-7. Here is the great Teacher asking for constant prayer, and in addition He is holding out the promise of its being answered. Further, He did, according to Luke, speak that parable for men—all men, of our day as well as of His.

Even more definite is the statement of the Christ in John 14:13: "And whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son." This asseveration is strengthened by John 16:23-24: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my name, he will give it you. Hitherto have ye asked nothing in my name: ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full."

Anything, therefore, that ye may ask of the Father as a member of the body of the Christ, will be granted to us, providing, of course, that we ask with true sincerity and faith. Our prayers may not have an immediate, spectacular fulfillment; but they will in some way, at some time, be answered by our God. Perhaps they will not be answered exactly as we had expected, but indubitably the Bible promises that they will be answered.

Logic, history, and biblical evidence all support the conclusion which has been reached. Prayer has been answered, is answered, and will be answered to the very end of time. We must, in the face of such assurance, exclaim with Ethel Roming Fuller,

"If radio's slim fingers
Can pluck a melody
From night and toss it over
A continent or sea;

"If the petaled white notes
Of a violin
Are blown across a mountain
Or a city's din;

"If songs, like crimson roses,
Are culled from thin, blue air,
Why should mortals wonder
If God hears prayer?"

TRIBULATIONS

HE HAS had many trials and tribulations. When we make this statement we mean that he has gone through much trouble and experienced many afflictions. There is also an implied meaning in the expression that he has become a better man by having gone through these trials and tribulations.

The ancient Romans had a sledge consisting of a wooden block filled with pieces of flint or iron teeth. This sledge they called a tribulum. With it they separated the corn from the husks, or beat the wheat from the chaff. Or, to put it in another way, the tribulum separated the good from the bad.

The process of this separation was called by them tribulatio. The corn and wheat went through the process, or tribulatio, and came out as pure wheat and corn without chaff and husks. Thus, the process, or tribulatio, was a purifying one.

As troubles and afflictions are often the means of making us better men and women, and since going through these trials often separates the chaff from the wheat, or the bad from the good in us, some early Christian writer called these troubles and afflictions tribulations.

Thus, from the ancient process of beating the chaff from the wheat known to the Romans as the tribulatio we have the word "tribulation", meaning the process of beating the bad out of our natures by the threshing flail of trouble. George Wither clarifies this when he says:

"Till from the straw the flail the corn doth beat,
Until the chaff be purged from the wheat,
Yea, till the mill the grains in pieces tear,
The richness of the flour will scarce appear.
So, till men's persons great afflictions touch,
If worth be found, their worth is not so much,
Because, like wheat in straw, they have not yet
That value which in threshing they may get."

—Selected from The Front Rank.

THY KINGDOM COME

Thy kingdom come—on bended knee
The passing ages pray;
And faithful souls have yearned to see
On earth that kingdom's day.

But the slow watches of the night
Not less to God belong,
And for the everlasting right
The silent stars are strong.

And lo! already on the hills
The flags of dawn appear;
Gird up your loins, ye prophet souls,
Proclaim the day is near:

The day in whose clear shining light
All wrong shall stand revealed,
When justice shall be clothed with might,
And every hurt be healed:

When knowledge, hand in hand with peace,
Shall walk the earth abroad—
The day of perfect righteousness,
The promised day of God.

—Frederick Hosmer.

THE IDENTITY OF THE GALILEANS

TO SAY that the Galileans were the inhabitants of Galilee is both insufficient and inclusive. They certainly were the people who inhabited the beautiful country of Galilee, but they were not autochthonous to its soil. Neither were they the hybrid remnants of old-time civilization, as for example are the Armenians of today. That the population of Galilee was a mixed one cannot be denied, for there must have been Canaanitish and Assyrian elements still latent in their blood, while there was also a cultured strand of Greek and Roman society in their midst. But we are more especially concerned with the Galilean peasants rather than with the educated classes, for it was chiefly amongst the former that our Lord moved, and from whence He chose the disciples.

A curious and unbiased study of the gospels and of the ministry of our Lord contained therein, reveals the fact that Galilee was a very blessed place, and that its inhabitants either had more vision than had the residents of other parts of Palestine, or they received greater privileges. There are four outstanding features, however, which should attract the student's attention, and these are so remarkable that there must be some Divine purpose which alone can account for them.

First, Christ's home was in Nazareth of Galilee, and not in Bethlehem of Judea, His birthplace.

Second, Eleven of the twelve disciples were chosen from Galilee and not from Judea.

Third, The Galileans, generally speaking, received Him, thus accepting the kingship of Christ. John 4:46; 6:15.

Fourth, The Galileans had nothing to do with the crucifixion of the Lord.

THE GALILEANS NOT JEWS

The question then arises, "Of what nationality were the Galileans?" More than ninety-nine percent would reply that they were Jews. Neither does it seem unnatural to make such a reply, for they observed the Jewish religion; the towns and villages of Galilee, in the days of our Lord, had each its own synagogue; the Galileans went to Jerusalem to keep the feast, John 4:45.

The worship in Galilee was identically the same as that in Judea, and after the fall of Jerusalem, Galilee became the center of Rabbinic life. But if the Galileans were Jews, as were the inhabitants of Judea and Jerusalem, how comes it that there was such a cleavage between the Galileans and the Jews? For there were such Judean proverbs as, "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?" John 1:46, and "Out of Galilee ariseth no prophet." John 7:52.

John makes it quite clear in the fourth gospel that there was a difference between the Galileans and the Jews, since he uses the word, Jews, sixty-four times. Matthew uses it five times, Mark six, and Luke five. And in not one instance does it refer to the Galilean population, but always to the Jews of Judea, with the solitary, but important, exception of the title of Christ, "King of the Jews", which is used in all the gospels alike.

Again, the Galilean spoke a slightly different dialect, or it may be that there was provincialism in the Galilean speech which "grated on the sensitive ears of the Judean", who regarded himself as God's "elite". This served to associate Peter with our Lord, Matt. 26:73, when he denied his discipleship.

THE GALILEANS WERE ISRAELITES

The truth is that, whereas the Galileans were Jewish by religion, they were not Jewish by race. This accounts for the fact that not one of the disciples is called Jew in any part of the gospels. Only one of them belonged to the tribe of Judah, and that was Judas Iscariot who belonged to the village of Kerioth, in the south of Judea. He was the only one of our Lord's chosen circle who was not a Galilean.

We see now why it was that John differentiated so clearly between the Galileans and the Jews, for he was not a Jew but a Galilean. If the Judeans had a disrespect almost amounting to contempt for the Galileans, the latter had every reason for holding their own against the former.

The life and liberty of the Galileans formed a ready contrast with the stiffer bigotry of the Judeans, and that freedom of thought which enabled them to accept the "Sermon on the Mount" and the "Gospel of the Kingdom" was encouraged by the beauty of the surrounding hills and the charming setting of the blue-watered lake of Galilee.—Selected from The Banner of Israel, by Mrs. A. J. Chaplin.

EGYPT IN PROPHECY

By George B. Alldridge

WILLIAM COWPER wrote many beautiful hymns. The hymn I consider his masterpiece is:

"God moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform."

The last verse is especially effective:

"Blind unbelief is sure to err,
And scan His work in vain;
God is His own interpreter,
And He will make it plain."

The subject of prophecy is one in which a writer or speaker should be careful always to exercise good, sound common sense. You recall the words of Balaam, "If Balaam would give me his house full of silver and gold, I cannot go beyond the word of the Lord our God, to do less or more."—Numbers 22:18.

Jesus Himself exhorted His followers to be observant of the signs of the times, rejoicing as they saw the Scriptures being fulfilled, an harbinger of His near return. Luke 21:28.

The prophet Amos asks these questions, and then forthwith answers them himself: "Shall a trumpet be blown in the city, and the people not be afraid? shall there be evil in a city, and the Lord hath not done it? Surely the Lord God will do nothing, but he revealeth his secrets unto his servants the prophets."—Amos 3:6, 7.

The ancient history of Egypt scholars read today from the hieroglyphics written and inscribed upon her monuments, the key to which, the Rosetta Stone now to be seen in the British Museum, gave them the power to unlock and give to the world its secrets, all nations reading them in their native tongue.

Every public library contains books treating upon Egypt, concerning its history, geography, customs, language, etc. But pertaining to its place in prophecy, you will find but a scant notice, and that chiefly pertaining to the Great Pyramid at Gizeh, of a chronological and scientific character. What the writer desires to place before his readers is the testimony of history during the past fifty years to the verifying and fulfillment of the Scriptures pertaining to modern Egypt.

God is always anticipating coming events, by the events which have transpired in the past and have been written upon the pages of history. In Habakkuk 2 we read, "And the Lord answered me and said, Write the vision, and make it plain upon tables, that he may run that readeth it."

It is said that the late Dr. Thomas, who in the year 1850 founded the Christadelphian brotherhood, predicted that history would repeat itself, basing his authority for this statement upon Isaiah 43:3, "For I am the Lord thy God the Holy One of Israel, thy Saviour: I gave Egypt for thy ransom, Ethiopia and Seba for thee"—Egypt and the Sudan.

History informs that when Egypt was desolated, Israel might be liberated, Egypt being given for the ransom of Israel. Sennacherib was taken off from besieging Jerusalem by successful wars against the Egyptians and Ethiopians; and those nations, when vanquished by Cyrus, might be considered as a ransom paid him for the release of the Jews. Whenever the time has arrived for God to re-gather His chosen people, Israel, for their sakes He will ruin and destroy any nation, and give that nation unto the nation who may bless and favor His people. Genesis 12:2, 3.

All commentators agree that Isaiah 18:1, 2, is a most obscure series of prophecies contained anywhere in the Scriptures. Dr. Thomas claims that this refers to none other nation than Great Britain! If this is so and I believe it is, then Great Britain must occupy these countries.

The Egyptians claimed that they protected the Jews, and like wings overshadowed them from and against the incursions of the Assyrians. A musical instrument, used by the Egyptians to distinguish it from instruments similar, had wings protruding and was known as the cymbal with wings, hence the expression, "Ho! to the land of the winged cymbal." "Woe", does not mean that tragedy is to follow, but is merely a call on them to attend to the message of Jehovah. Owing to Great Britain's being a vast colonial power, one can readily recognize the necessity of sending her ambassadors by the sea. Her navy is second to none, and since the days of Queen Elizabeth, it has been the country's chief defense.

I would prefer more able pens than mine to go into this matter. What I desire to write is that which I have seen with mine own eyes and in a small measure participated in—the virtual annexation of Egypt and later the Sudan by Great Britain, thus fulfilling the scriptures above quoted.

Fifty years ago next July, assembled at Alexandria were the British fleet under the command of Admiral Sir Beauchamp Seymour, also ships representing the governments of France, Germany, Italy, Austria, Russia, Spain, Greece, Turkey, and last, but by no means least, the Lancaster frigate representing these glorious United States of America. It seems that Egypt was largely indebted to the different countries mentioned, who held bonds for money loaned to the then present Khedive Fewfik, and his predecessor Ismail Pasha, who had by the powers been removed. In the new government formed, Arabi Pasha became the secretary of war.

Intrigue and the playing of politics, so common even today among the world's statesmen, entered into the matter. The military party, of which Arabi Pasha was at the head, assumed hostile attitude towards the "Christians" in Alexandria. The British residents made an appeal for protection. On June 11, 1882, occurred the massacre of more than one hundred persons, including one officer and two seamen. Several warships by this time had assembled and were able to embark many refugees.

By this time it was apparent that some definite action must be taken. So the British government notified Admiral Seymour to send an ultimatum to Arabi Pasha, that if he persisted in throwing up earthworks and installing guns in the various fortifications, the fleet would bombard the city. In all, there were about twenty-six ships. Among them the British had eight battle ships and five gunboats.

Admiral Seymour invited the other nations to participate in the bombardment, and on the eve of July tenth, they all put to sea except the U. S. S. Lancaster. Why was this? Just because God in His plan intended to bestow Egypt upon Great Britain and her young lions, of whom the United States is a part!

Now read Ezekiel 38:13, and tell me who are the "young lions". The great war, 1914-1918, has answered us.

After the bombardment a landing party from H. M. S. Temeraire landed at midnight, spiked the muzzle loading guns, and destroyed the breech blocks of the breech-loading guns. On the twelfth of July conflagration of incendiary origin, broke out in different parts of the city. This necessitated the landing of a large armed party to save the city and protect its citizens from robbery and murder. The company the writer was a member of were among the first to land. The sight of devastation and the smell arising from the putrid dead he will never forget. Flies by the millions! One of my companions remarked that this was the plague that had not ceased.

After being quartered in the Khedive's palace as guard over his many wives who had returned from their place of refuge, to our astonishment a party under arms, every one of them laughing and apparently happy, came swinging along, following the stars and stripes flying at the head of the column. Their alibi for being there was to protect their consulate. Ah no, brother, you were there because Ezekiel 38:13 predicted you would be, and you will be again when God gathers the nations for the final battle of Armageddon on the great day of God Almighty.

We held the city until an army from Malta and Cyprus relieved us; we returned to our ships; part of the fleet proceeded to Port Said, others to Ismailia, thus protecting the Suez Canal. Our fleet, under the command of Admiral McDowell, were ordered to Arabian Bay, where eighty-three years before the French fleet was destroyed by Admiral Nelson, known as the battle of the Nile.

At Kafr Dewar, Abukir and Rosetta, Arabi Pasha had a large army entrenched, waiting for our attack. We made several demonstrations. This was only a blind to enable Sir Garnet Wolseley to advance from Ismailia, across the desert, and finally defeat Arabi at the battle of Tell-el-Kebir.

The writer has recounted these details to impress on the minds of his readers how God prevented all other nations participating except those whom He had through the prophet Isaiah prophesied should do so.

The first Sunday we lay in Abukir Bay. Our chaplain, a very godly man, had organized classes for Bible study and the study of the natural sciences and of course the writer was glad to avail himself of this opportunity. The chaplain was not only a godly man but a close student of Bible prophecies. Upon this occasion, after reading the prayers and psalms, he selected for the Scripture reading, Isaiah 19:18-25, and then announced his text, Isaiah 19:21. "And the Lord shall be known to Egypt, and the Egyptians shall know the Lord in that day." Then he referred back to verse 20 and read, "For they shall cry unto the Lord because of the oppressors, and he shall send them a saviour, and a great one, and he shall deliver them."

Being a well informed and an educated man, he briefly reviewed the relationship which Egypt had held toward God's chosen people, pointing out how cruelly she had been treated by the Turkish government, taxed until she could hardly exist, how she had become the basest among kingdoms, and how impossible it was for her to rise by her own exertions. Then in a flight of eloquence, which in mind I hear now, he exclaimed, "God has not forgotten her, nor the fulfillment of His promises vouchsafed to her," quoting again his text.

I can see him now, as he stepped away from the reading desk, extending his right arm, the index finger pointing at us, his face all aglow. A tenseness seemed to grip us as we all fixed our eyes upon him. "Brethren, this day this scripture is fulfilled in your ears and before your eyes," he said. He stood for a moment as though lost in thought, then extended his hand and pronounced the benediction.

He died many years ago, and many who heard him are gone also. But today Great Britain is still in Egypt; Egypt is prosperous and under the protection of that mighty empire; the Jew is free and is returning to his own land; and Isaiah 43:3 is fulfilled.

---

"WAR AND PEACE"

---

Continued from page 102

come. But if that war of 1914 was terrible, what will that last great war which is yet to come be? when "there shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation."

We see the clouds of the storm gathering, Russia, China, India, and Japan girding themselves for war. The Soviet Minister of War says that a new world war has started in Manchuria; and a glance at history tells us that he is probably right.

"When these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh."

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 124 N. Parkside Ave., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois

For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"I HAVE PRAYED THAT YOUR OWN FAITH MAY NOT FAIL." — LUKE 22:32.

ALL THINGS ARE POSSIBLE TO HIM THAT BELIEVETH

THE "all things" do not always come simply for the asking, for the reason that God is ever seeking to teach us the way of faith, and in our training in the faith life there must be room for the trial of faith, the discipline of faith, the patience of faith, the courage of faith. Often many stages are passed before we really realize what is the end of faith, namely the victory of faith.

Real moral fiber is developed through discipline of faith. You have made your request of God, but the answer does not come. What are you to do?

Keep on believing God's Word; never be moved away from it by what you see or feel, and thus as you stand steady, enlarged power and experience is being developed. The fact of looking at the apparent contradiction to God's Word and being unmoved from your position of faith, makes you stronger on every other line.

Often God delays purposely, and the delay is just as much an answer to your prayer as is the fulfillment when it comes.

In the lives of all great Bible characters, God worked thus. Abraham, Moses, and Elijah were not great in the beginning, but were made great through the discipline of their faith. Only thus were they fitted to the positions to which God had called them.

For example, in the case of Joseph, whom the Lord was training for the throne of Egypt, we read in the Psalms: "The word of the Lord tried him." It was not the prison life, with its hard beds and poor food, that tried him, but it was the word God had spoken into his heart in the early years concerning elevation and honor which were greater than his brethren were to receive. It was this which was ever before him, when every step in his career made it seem more and more impossible of fulfillment, until he was there imprisoned, and all in innocency, while others who were perhaps justly incarcerated were released, while he was left to languish alone.

These were hours that tried his soul, but hours of spiritual growth and development, that, "when his word came" (the word of release), found him fitted for the delicate task of dealing with his wayward brethren, with a love and patience surpassed only by God Himself.

No amount of persecution tries like such experiences as these. When God has spoken of His purpose to do, and yet the days go on and He does not do it, that is truly hard; but it is a discipline of faith that will bring us into a knowledge of God which would otherwise be impossible.—Sel.

CLASS WORK

AFTER studying the first ten lessons of Senior Book No. 1, the Kokomo, Indiana, Berean society conducted its review in the form of an examination, administered by its adviser, D. G. Harvey. While the adviser corrected the written work, Bro. Charles Martin conducted an oral test. It was found that in many cases those who were slow to answer in class had handed in some of the most complete written answers.

I wish every member of the church could read some of these remarkable answers from young people who until recently had never studied the Bible and had absolute faith in the doctrine of the immortal soul. They then surely would understand the benefit of Berean work. One young man remarked that he had derived more benefit and knowledge of the Bible in the last two weeks in this Berean class than he ever had in his life before. He is twenty-four years old. Such statements are very encouraging to us, and we think others will regard them the same.

D. G. Harvey.

Note: The Kokomo Berean Society was organized last July, affiliated with the Indiana Senior Berean Society (the new state organization in that state), and possessed eighteen members, all of the younger set. Most of the members come from outside of the church.

THE NEW JUNIOR BOOK

THE new Junior Berean Book entitled, "The Hebrew People," is now ready for distribution. It is a very neat book, easy to understand and of clear print. The price is 30 cents for single copies; 27 cents each for 5 to 25 copies; 25 cents each for 25 or more copies.

Please send all orders to the National BEREAN Society, Oregon, Illinois, and not to the N. B. I.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

PAUL'S LETTER TO PHILEMON

PAUL spent two years in his house which he rented in Rome. While he was allowed to live in this house, he was still treated as a prisoner. A soldier was set as guard over him, but his friends were allowed to visit him.

He spent his time teaching the people who came to him about Jesus. Also he wrote many letters to his friends, teaching them and urging them to be true to Jesus.

He wrote a letter to Philemon, a friend whom he dearly loved. He said that he thanked God for the faith and goodness of Philemon. He told him that he was a great comfort to him.

Paul had living with him a man who had been a slave. He had run away from Philemon, who was Paul's friend. This slave lived a good life while with Paul and had been very kind to him, doing all he could to comfort and serve him. While he was with Paul he had learned to love Jesus and had become as dear to Paul as a beloved son.

Much as Paul loved this slave, he sent him back to his master because he thought that it was the right thing to do. When he sent him back, he gave him the letter to his friend Philemon, urging him to be a true loving friend to the man, to receive him kindly and to forgive him for running away. He asked Philemon to receive the slave as he would receive Paul himself, and if there was any money spent, to charge it to him.

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto me."

WOULD WE have returned the slave, or treated him kindly?

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Make a list of other letters written by Paul.
2. What are several things to be learned from this letter to Philemon?

WE BELIEVE the earth to be the saints' home—"Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth." Matt. 5:5. "By faith, Abraham, when he was called to go out into a place which he should after receive for an inheritance, obeyed: and he went out, not knowing whither he went. By faith he sojourned in the land of promise, as in a strange country, dwelling in tabernacles with Isaac and Jacob, the heirs with him of the same promise." Hebrews 11:8, 9.

NATURE QUESTION

27. The stork; the fir trees are her house. Psalm 104:17.
28. What bird was given to the Israelites for meat in the wilderness?

THANK YOU

Daddy was coming home. He had been away such a long time. How the children crowded around him! And how glad Daddy was to see them again.

When his bag was unpacked there were presents for everyone. "Hurrah!" cried Mark. "Goody!" said Martha. And away they ran to play. But not once did they say, "Thank you."

That evening Daddy told them this story: "Once ten men came to Jesus, crying, 'Master, heal us.' They had a terrible disease that no one could cure. Only Jesus could make them well. Jesus cured them and away they went. Only one man turned back to say, 'Thank you.'"

Mark and Martha looked at each other. "I'm sorry I forgot to say 'Thank you' for my present," Mark said.

"And I'm sorry, too," said Martha.

"We'll try to remember next time," they both said.

"I'm sure you will," said Daddy.

A CHILD'S THANKSGIVING PRAYER

"I will sing unto the Lord because he hath dealt bountifully with me."—Psalm 13:6.

"Dear Heavenly Father: I thank Thee for all that Thou hast given me, for my life and my strong body, for my parents and my home, for my school and my church, for my friends and my playmates and all the other people who love me and whom I love. Help me to be generous in my play, willing in my work, faithful in my school, and happy in my home. So may this day, and every day, be filled with the music of kind thoughts and loving deeds, that shall be like a song of thankfulness to Thee. Amen."

—Rev. R. W. Barstow.

WHO WAS:

A generous creditor? Matthew 18:23-27.

Imprisoned for debt? Matthew 18:28-30.

A creditor demanding two personal bonds?

2 Kings 4:1.

A discharged bankrupt? and another? Luke 7:40-48.

One who incurred bad debts? Psalm 37:21.

He who had bad debts written off? Luke 7:41-42.

—Business in the Bible.

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 9. — November 29, 1931

PAUL'S LETTER TO PHILEMON

The Book of Philemon

Devotional Reading: 1 John 4:7-13

GOLDEN TEXT

There is neither bond nor free, . . . for ye are all one in Christ Jesus. —
Galatians 3:28.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: Christ Transforming Social Relationships.

Basic Truth: "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ."—Galatians 6:2.

I. As Between Christians. In its truest sense Christianity is that vitalizing, Christianizing influence of Christ which permeates His disciples and makes them Christian in heart, in deed, in life: Christian through and through. In this sense Christianity makes Christians "members one of another." Rom. 12:5. As the individual members of the human body are of value and of necessity to each other, so Christians are members of one Head, even Christ, 1 Cor. 12:27, and thus become one in a common cause and service and hope. Immediately one becomes Christian in deed he becomes responsible to Christ the Head for the well-being of each and every other member. It is his to sorrow or rejoice, to suffer or receive reward, to sacrifice or to live—not for himself but as for the members as a whole. He can no longer live for himself, rather he lives for Christ.

II. As Between Christians and Non-Christians. He who is Christian in deed is, by faith, as truly separated from the world in principle as was Christ separated from the world in His death to man's nature and to man, and His resurrection to new life and to God.

His social relation to those of his former status is, as opportunity affords, to "do good unto all". Gal. 6:10. His office is to encourage and edify and strengthen all men to a closer relationship with Christ, but never to lower his own standard, or lessen his own effort, or in any way to yield to them in such manner as would lower his status in Christ. His one principal labor for Christ is to so approach the nonchristian with the gospel of Christ as to induce him to rise in the strength of Christ to a new life in Christ.

III. As Between Christians and Christ. It is not unscriptural to claim a social relationship between the Christian and Christ the Son of God. Perhaps no nonchristian can justly so claim. But Paul declared, Col. 2:12, that Christians are "risen with him". Being "risen with Christ" Paul exhorts, "seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God." The Christian's social privilege with Christ then is, not to enjoy Christ's presence by bringing Him down to man, but to lift himself up to the Master through the medium of His Word and His Spirit. It is his to strive for and profit by every good and perfect gift of Christ.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

Restitution: The epistle of Paul to Philemon clearly manifests the heart and mind of the great Apostle to the Gentiles. He was pleading the cause of a slave that had run away from his master. The standing of this slave had been changed. He was no longer a slave, but a "brother in Christ Jesus". When the gospel took hold of Onesimus it transformed him from a runaway slave to a conscientious Christian, who was willing to be "content with his lot" and make restitution for any wrong he had done. An individual who fully embraces the gospel is always willing to right his wrongs and correct his mistakes as far as possible.

Should the church require of its new and old members that they endeavor to the best of their ability to make restitution for sins which have injured others? "Therefore if thou bring thy gift to the altar, and rememberest that thy brother hath aught against thee; leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift." Matt. 5:23, 24.

Burden Bearer: Paul helped Onesimus to correct his mistakes. He was making it as easy as possible for him. Paul was helping Onesimus to bear his burden. He stood in Onesimus' place. "Put it to mine account" was Paul's request to Philemon. Not only did Onesimus have a necessary duty to perform, but Philemon was involved. He must receive his disobedient slave, forgive him and place him on a plane with himself—a coworker in God's service. What a difference the gospel made!—C. E. R.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

"There can be neither bond nor free—for ye are all one man in Christ Jesus."—Galatians 3:8, Diag.

When one is baptized into Christ, he loses his nationality so to speak, as he then becomes Christian. It matters not whether we be Jew or Gentile, slave or respected citizen, when we come into Christ we become equal in God's sight, for He is no respecter of persons. The most degraded slave, if Christian, seems to be just as much in God's sight as the most honored man of the universe.

A true Christian is a child of God, notwithstanding his position in life. The lowest is as much an heir of God and joint heir of Jesus Christ as the highest. The Jew and Gentile, if both Christian, share equally in the promises. Bond and free are not distinguished, neither male and female, for all are one in Christ Jesus.—L. A. R.

SENIOR AND ADULT CLASSES

The change that should take place in the human heart when one is converted to Christ is well illustrated in the life of Onesimus. Onesimus was a slave that for some reason or other had fled from his Christian master, Philemon of Colosse, and joined Paul who was then a prisoner at Rome. Just why he came to Paul is not known. It is probably because he had learned to love him during the several visits Paul made to his master's home. That Paul converted Onesimus at this time seems probable from Paul's statement, v. 10.

Paul kept Onesimus for a time to assist him and then sent him to his master, not deeming it right to keep another's property without that brother's consent. (Should Christians exercise that care today?)

A great change had taken place in the heart of Onesimus, as is evident from his willingness to return to the bondage from which he had fled. Paul testified that Onesimus "in times past was to thee unprofitable, but now profitable to thee and to me." True conversion will make anyone profitable through the change of heart produced in the individual. Have you been made profitable?

Anyone coming to Christ should be willing to correct past wrongs if such can be corrected.—H. A. S.

INTERMEDIATE CLASS

It was while Paul was a prisoner at Rome that Onesimus, a runaway slave, came to see him, heard about Christ and was converted. He had stolen some money from his master, and as soon as he had learned the new way of life from Paul, the first thing he wanted to do was to restore that money and himself, as well, to his master. There were many, many slaves in Rome in those days, and some of them were terribly mistreated by their cruel masters. But we know that Onesimus could not have been harshly treated, for his master was a Christian. When Paul had been traveling through Asia, he had founded a church at Colosse, in the home of Philemon, where they met for worship. V. 2.

Paul shows his wonderful understanding of human nature in this letter, and also the warmth of his own nature. How does he ask Philemon to receive the slave—as one who should be punished? V. 16. Why are they no longer master and slave, but rather, brothers? When Paul says that he believes Philemon will do more than he asks, do you think he expects Philemon to free Onesimus? How do you think Onesimus felt toward Paul?

In his treatment of the slave, Paul followed the example of the One he was preaching of to others.—M. G.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

YOUR PAGE

Do not overlook the fact, brethren, that this is Your Page, on which you may advertise any special meetings or any new features of your regular services in advance, as well as report services that have closed. Let your members who may be living at a distance know about your services in time to plan to attend. Do you know that most of us turn to this page first, because this is the page that holds the most interest for most people? Don't fail to be "Among the Churches", if you want folks to know about your services.

A WONDERFUL DAY AT GRAND RAPIDS CHURCH

November 8th, the closing day of the meetings, was a day long to be remembered by the Grand Rapids church. Wonderful cooperation had been given during the full two weeks, and it brought joy to the hearts of all to have seven put on the all saving Name at the afternoon service. There was genuine gladness, too, that Sr. Woodward could be present that day, and she gave us a very touching talk between the baptism and the communion service. What a happy family we were as we broke bread together that day!

The men who had charge of all the events of the day did wonderfully well. The food was well chosen and well prepared, and the service in the dining room could not be excelled. Spontaneous applause broke from the congregation when they were ushered by music into the beautifully decorated dining room and saw the men standing at attention in their clean, white serving coats. What an inspiration in church work such a day is!

A pang of sadness was felt, though, because some who wanted so much to be present were unable. Among these was our beloved elder, Bro. A. K. Richardson, who has been so zealous for the truth for so many years and whose health has been quite poor of late; also Sr. Craig who was still unable to be out. Many prayers rise for our loved ones when they are ill.

The names, with addresses, of the newly baptized one are: Miss Iva Downing, 132 Hines St., S. E.; Miss Charlotte Behrens, 3617 Jefferson, S. E.; Miss Mildred Siple, 50 Cherryvale, S. W.; Miss Iris Hall, 304 Lemyra, S. E.; Lavern Ackerman, 128 Berkshire Blvd., S. E.; Robert VanPortfleet, 136 Webster, S. E.; John Phoenix, 160 Abbie, S. E.

The first six are young people under twenty years of age. The last named is husband to Sr. Clara Phoenix who was baptized at Easter time.

F. E. Siple, Pastor.

CLEVELAND LADIES AID

The Ladies Aid Society of the Church of the Golden Rule in Cleveland, held its annual bazaar and supper on Nov. 5. Over a hundred persons were served at the supper and a profit of $16.30 was realized. The fancy goods booth brought in $7.04; fish pond, $8.20; and the sale of blankets, donated by Bro. Harry Stadden, $11.70.

These items made a total profit of $43.24. We consider this a great success and thank our members and friends for their support.

Ethel M. Hicks, Sec.

FALL CONFERENCE AT MORA

The Fall Conference of Minnesota was held at Mora. There were not many in attendance from the other churches, but the local attendance was good. The ministers present were Bros. John Denchfield of Eden Valley, and Adna Hoskins of St. Cloud. Bro. and Sr. Hunt and Bro. J. W. Williams, of Iowa, visited us at this time. Bro. Williams preached three times, which was enjoyed by all. We thank Bro. Williams for his help, and we hope you all will come again.

Our ministers brought us many good things from the Word. May God bless them. It is our duty to do all we can for the elders, that they may be encouraged and free from worry, that they may preach the Word.

Mrs. T. M. Savage, Conference Secretary.

AT ELDORADO, ILLINOIS

The brethren at Eldorado have a real treat in store for them, if nothing unforeseen arises. Bro. L. E. Conner expects to speak there next Sunday, Nov. 22. We trust that all who find it possible will avail themselves of this opportunity.

OUR THANK OFFERINGS

Mrs. Ida Jeffrey	$ 2.00
Mrs. Jessie Donaldson	1.00
Eva H. M. Fletcher	15.00
Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Ellis	10.00
Minnesota Conference	10.00
Total to date	$38.00

About This and That From Here and There

Wouldn't your heart just ache for a father and his family of nine children, living in a lonely cabin in the mountains, gathered about the casket that holds the still form of all that is dearest to them—wife and mother! And in their loneliness and grief they ask that we remember them in petition to the loving Father, whose pitying eye looks down upon all His creatures. Such is the sorrow that has recently come to our Bro. E. G. Shipman and little ones, of Marietta, South Carolina. A word of comfort and cheer would be most timely.

If it could have been possible many of us from a distance would have greatly enjoyed the privilege of attending the meetings just closed by Bro. Siple at Grand Rapids church. We rejoice with them in the additions to their number as a result of these meetings, for we know both pastor and workers will receive inspiration for further effort and God's cause will be advanced. "Men's Day", no doubt, was heartily enjoyed by the mothers, wives, sisters, and sweethearts of their number, as a real "day of rest" for them.

Bro. Fred Brough and family, formerly of Jackson, Mich., have recently moved to Rockford, Ohio.

Please turn at once to the article on back page entitled, "Thanksgiving", by our Treasurer, Bro. Ellis. And then respond as the Lord prompts you to do, and you will find added reason for thanksgiving this year.

The timely article found on page 102, "War and Peace", was written by "one who was there", though not in combative capacity. Bro. McLeod was with the medical department caring for the wounded and the dying in that dreadful conflict.

Bro. and Sr. A. J. Eychaner, of Cedar Falls, Iowa, are leaving to spend the winter in the South, and may be addressed at 303 Zack St., Tampa, Florida. We trust their stay may be attended by good health and their usual enjoyment of life in Christian service.

Your attention is called to a correction in the article by Bro. Haney in the Nov. 3 issue. On page 73, second column, lines 13 and 14 from top of page, the reference cited should be Rev. 18:1-19.

Another faithful and dependable member of the Church of God—Sr. Emily Harris of Rensselaer, Indiana—has fallen asleep in Jesus. May it be ours to meet her once more, when she arises on that morning which shall dispel sorrow and spread gladness over all the earth, at the coming of the Savior.

Miss Dorothy Smith of Mound City, Mo., is enjoying a visit at the home of her aunt, Sr. Julia Ordnung of the Oregon church.

"The Personal God", by F. L. Austin, will be welcomed, we are sure, by the Herald family for its deep thought, as well as because of the fact that we have missed Bro. Austin's name among recent contributors. He brings the omnipotent and omnipresent God close to us as a loving Father.

Sr. Viola Eaton Kuhns of Stockton, Ill., was taken seriously ill a week ago and sank at once into unconsciousness, from which she has not rallied. She is being cared for at Mt. Carroll. She will be remembered as a regular attendant at Illinois Bible School several years ago.

The reader will follow Bro. Alldridge with breathless interest down into Egypt and take part with him in the marvelous unfolding of God's purposes, throughout the activities of which Bro. Alldridge was a participant, not merely an interested bystander. Do not fail to read his article, "Egypt in Prophecy".

The article on front page by Bro. Arlen Marsh is the substance of the author's first sermon. It was delivered before the Training Class in their usual Friday morning sermon session, conducted as a phase of their English class. It held the interest of the class from start to finish and impressed itself very deeply on their minds.

NOTICE OF ADDRESS

Correspondents may address Bro. F. L. Austin at 5439 Ohio Street, Austin Station, Chicago, Illinois.

TRAINING CLASS NEWS

The Training Class had a real treat, a week ago last Thursday, when Bro. Conner of Dixon, gave us a very interesting and helpful talk about our preparation and future work as ministers of the gospel. He told us of some of his own experiences in school and later in the ministry. He impressed upon us very strongly the fact that the life of a minister of the gospel, is one full of duties, and is not a profession to be taken up because it is easy and one of leisure. He also told us never to be afraid to work.

We enjoyed your talk very much, Bro. Conner, and feel we will be greatly benefited thereby. Please come again.

The Training Class and Sr. Gesin enjoyed a very pleasant evening at the home of Bro. and Sr. Birkey, of Rochelle, on Tuesday, Nov. 10th. After a bountiful dinner, which was enjoyed by all, the evening was spent very profitably in the asking and answering of sets of questions prepared by Bro. Birkey. We found we have only touched the edge of God's great wisdom and many wonders. Music finished the evening's entertainment, and we left feeling it was good for us to have been there. We thank you Bro. and Sr. Birkey, for the enjoyable evening.

We again wish to thank the brethren for their bountiful donations in the replenishing of our cellars for winter use.

Ida Lapp, Sec'y.

A LETTER TO THE BROTHERHOOD

I received some news a short time ago that gave me a shock from which it will take some time to recover, if recovery is possible.

I was told that our brethren believe that I have lost interest in the General Conference, because I was not continued as its president. If there is anything that could make me lose interest, it is the fact that my brethren haven't any more faith in me than to think and say such a thing.

Before God, our Father, and our Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ, before whom I stand and am judged daily, the fact that I wasn't continued as president of the Conference has had absolutely nothing to do with my loyalty to the Conference.

When I heard that Bro. Conner and Bro. Marsh had been elected to their respective offices, I wrote and told them that I would stand behind them for all I was worth, although this might not amount to much. I am sure that these brethren will confirm this statement.

The only reason I haven't attended the conferences was because I have been financially unable to do so. I would have attended every conference if I could have done so.

In His service,

Jas. A. Patrick.

CONTRIBUTORS TO DOLLAR-A-MONTH CLUB

Margaret J. Donaly; Mrs. Mae Mercer; Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Rahn; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. A. Patrick; Miss Mary Doll; Richard LeCrone; Mr. and Mrs. M. Fetters; Mrs. Eva Page; Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Engebretson; Graytown (Wis.) Ladies Aid; Jessie W. Donaldson; W. M. Bowers; Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Savage; Sadie Savage; Mrs. Tennie Long; Harold and Esta Starbuck; Kathryn Lansbery; Mrs. Martha Walls; Glyn and Ruth Starbuck; Mrs. Marjorie Mogle; Harvey Krogh; Mrs. J. H. Adams; Mrs. W. L. Robbins and daughters; Dorothy Krogh; Mrs. R. A. Robinson; W. A. Reid; Vivian Magaw; Mrs. F. L. Austin.

LEWIS-CHAPMAN-

A very simple and impressive wedding ceremony was solemnized on the evening of Nov. 7th in the Church of God at Ripley, Ill., when Miss Mildred Chapman, daughter of Mrs. Fred Chapman, of Camden, became the bride of Mr. Lawrence V. Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lewis of Mt. Sterling.

Immediately after the regular Saturday evening church service, Miss Ruth Hogan, sang very sweetly, "I Love You Truly." She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Lillian Bowen. The solo was immediately followed by Lohengren's wedding march, and the bridal party moved to the altar. The single ring ceremony was said by C. E. Lapp of Oregon, pastor of the church.

The wedding was a very agreeable surprise to almost the entire congregation. A host of friends and relatives wish them success and happiness in their new life. We pray that God's richest blessing may attend them each day.

"One faithful Sunday school teacher is of more value than ten policemen."—Judge George T. Liddell.

SR. EMILY HARRIS

Emily Crisler, daughter of Hamilton and Mary Crisler, was born in Proble County, Ohio, on Dec. 11, 1845. She came with her parents to Bartholomew County, Indiana, where they remained for a short while, and then located permanently near Mt. Ayr, Ind. Here, in 1871 she was united in marriage with Ben Harris, and located upon a farm in Newton County, where they labored together successfully until, in 1888, when they moved Rensselaer where they resided the remainder of their lives. One daughter, Flora, now Sr. Flora Prior, was born to them.

In November 1916, Bro. Harris fell asleep, and Sr. Harris continued to live with her daughter until the time of her death, which occurred on Oct. 23, 1931, in the eighty-sixth year of her age.

Sr. Harris was one of the finest characters it has been my good fortune to know. She was baptized into Christ by Bro. D. T. Halstead, more than a half century ago, and she lived true to her calling, and we feel that her election is sure. I have known her intimately for forty years, making her home my home when in Rensselaer. She was quiet and unassuming, modest, gentle, and kind. I cannot recall that I ever saw her in life when there was not a radiant smile on her face. She was thoughtful and generous, contributing cheerfully of her time, strength, and means in assisting any worthy person or cause. She made the largest individual contribution that has ever been made to the Restitution Publishing Co., or N. B. I. The building in which The Restitution Herald is published and in which the N. B. I. office and the ministers' training class are located was purchased with her contribution.

She died at a ripe age, full of years that were rich in faith and good and kindly deeds, leaving, of her immediate family, one daughter, Mrs. C. E. Prior, of Rensselaer; three brothers, John Crisler, of Newton County; Wilson Crisler, of Silver Lake; Archie Crisler, of Goshen, and one sister, Mrs. Marjorie Park, all in Indiana.

After appropriate services in the home in which she had lived, labored, and loved her family, friends, neighbors, and beautiful flowers for many years, we laid her to rest beside her husband with whom she labored and whom she comforted in life. She awaits the return of the Lord in whom her faith was centered for so many devoted years, and for whose return we pray.

L. E. Conner.

HERALD RECEIPTS

Mrs. Mary F. Wolf; Mrs. Emma E. Upton; Mrs. Fannie S. Knight; W. A. Reid; Edw. M. Moran; Mrs. Wm. Hadicke; Mrs. F. H. Seymour; J. E. Lent; Osby Claypool; John W. Hutchings; Melvin Burnett; Mrs. Martha Walls; Mrs. Ora Burnett; Sadie Kerr; Emma C. Railsback (for others); E. G. Shipman; Mrs. J. E. Roose; Ella C. Boyer; Margaret J. Donaly; Mrs. C. P. Morgan; O. E. Sinclair; Helen Porter.

WORSHIP

Our Bible Schools should first and last be schools of worship. Knowledge of the Scripture is of value only as it leads the individual to true worship and establishes him therein.

The parent and teacher owe it to God to lead the child unto God. The one avenue of approach to God is that of worship.

"Devils believe and tremble." But if devils believed and worshiped they would be Christians.

"THE HEBREW PEOPLE"

The new Junior Berean Book, "The Hebrew People," is now ready for distribution. The price is 30 cents for single copies; 27 cents each for 5 to 25 copies; 25 cents each for 25 or more copies. This book contains an illustration of the finding of the baby Moses.

Send all orders to National BEREAN Society, Oregon, Illinois.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

Published by

National Bible Institution

Oregon, Illinois

Subscription Rates.—51 issues per annum, $2.00; 6 months, $1.00; 3 months, 50 cents. Sample copy, Free.

Change of Address.—When ordering change of address be sure to send us both old and new addresses.

Receipts.—The change of date on your address label is your receipt. If date is not changed in two weeks after payment of subscription, please notify this office.

The RESTITUTION HERALD advocates: the near return of Christ, Acts 1:11, and life only through Him, Col. 3:3; the literal resurrection of the dead, John 5:28; the immortalization of those in Christ, 1 Cor. 15:53, 54; the final restoration of Israel as the kingdom of God under the kingship of Christ, Luke 1:32, the church to be joint heirs with Him, Rom. 8:17, and Israel to be made head over Gentile nations, Isa. 60:13; the "restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began", Acts 3:21. It also firmly advocates repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, Acts 2:38, and a consecrated life as essential to salvation.

ANNUITY BONDS

There is no better way to preserve one's capital for use during life and at the same time dedicate it to the Master's use after one's death than by a National Bible Institution Annuity Bond.

Write NATIONAL BIBLE INSTITUTION, Oregon, Illinois, for information.

Any Amount - Much or Little

OUR COMPREHENSION OF GOD

By G. Eldred Marsh

OUR understanding of God, our apprehension, and our appreciation of God, depend in a measure upon the idiosyncracies of our individual natures. We see in the God whom we worship a reflection of ourselves. Our loftiest aspirations, our noblest desires, our most unselfish motives, our profoundest thought—all that is best within us is expanded, perfected, and deified in our conception of God.

Someone has said, "Man is a god in ruins;" and, conversely, the God whom we worship is an idealized Man elevated to the divine plane. In the polysyllabic phraseology of Dr. John Fiske, "To every sound form of theism an anthropomorphic element is indispensable." Of course we realize the eminent theologian simply means this: That to believe in God intelligently it is necessary for us to picture Him as a Man, possessed of human-like qualities of mind and heart. It would be impossible for us to comprehend Him otherwise.

Being human, it is but natural that we should look upon ourselves as the highest possibility of creative energy, as "the noblest work of God." Had no revelation been made concerning the origin of man, we would have been impelled to believe that "God created man in his own image."

There is much truth in the saying of the old Greek, "If the camels had a god, their god would have had four legs and a hump." A recent writer on evolution pictures a race of earthworms, having developed to the point of intelligence and reason, as erecting a huge earthen image of a worm like themselves as the symbol of their deity.

All religious systems of the world have conceived of God as a Being very much like His worshipers as far as attributes and powers were concerned. It is true they sometimes visualized Him in the form of a bird, a four-footed beast, or a creeping serpent; but His attributes and His manner of thought were after the order of their own.

The ancient Greeks, however, whose culture exceeded that of all other races of the same period, and whose "religious ideas and practices have," according to Dean Inge, "passed into Christian theology and ritual," conceived of God as a Being manifested in human form, as well as being possessed of human characteristics. Paul mentions with obvious commendation this element in their religious belief in his address in Athens: "As certain of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring."—Acts 17:28. Thus, the Greeks taught the fatherhood of God, that a paternal relationship existed between the Creator and His intelligent creatures.

This universal tendency to think of God in terms consistent with the highest idealism of man is deeply imbedded in the solid rock of revealed truth. Of Christ it is said that "in him dwelleth all the fullness of the Godhead bodily."—Col. 2:9. In Him "the Word" (the Logos, the Power and Will of God) "was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, as the glory of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth."—John 1:14.

Jesus was made a perfect reflection of the Father that men might see in Him Jehovah in His fullness of glory. The Son testified to this when He said, "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father," John 14:9; and again, "I and my Father are one". John 10:30.

God has given us in the person of His Son a perfect picture of Himself—a picture of the Deity that is comprehensible to us because it presents Him in the guise of a perfect Man—"The Man Christ Jesus"!

THANKSGIVING

THE time for our yearly custom of giving to the Lord's work, thereby showing our thankfulness to Him for the many blessings received during the year, is here again.

Fully do we realize the burden of many who are without work or other means of support, but it is far better to be poor and needy than to be at war. We find so many things to be thankful for, even in this time of depression.

Expressions of thankfulness may be rendered in many different ways. Money cannot buy health, peace, or friends, but we do need financial aid in spreading our gospel work. Above all else, the Christian is most thankful for the unmeasured spiritual blessings received from our heavenly Father.

I am asking all who can, to make a thank offering to the general work of the National Bible Institution. I feel sure there are many who would gladly give if they could be privileged to visit the Bible Training Class at Oregon, Illinois, and sit and listen through a recitation period, as I did a few days ago, and see the wonderful progress being made by these fine young men and young women.

Many of our older ministers are beginning to feel the years of hard labor and toil in the Master's field. What would we do without our Bible Training Class, where young ministers are trained and sent out to fill these vacancies and into new fields? We also welcome THE RESTITUTION HERALD into our homes each week. Then there are the comforts of Golden Rule Home being enjoyed by many who otherwise would be situated less fortunately.

It is to you who can afford to give to this worthy cause that I make this appeal. Will you kindly remit your share in full measure, as soon as possible, to the National Bible Institution, Oregon, Illinois.

"Every man shall give as he is able, according to the blessing of the Lord thy God which he hath given thee." Deut. 16:17.

When you do this in faith and love, it insures for you a treasure of which God Himself is the Guardian.

T. J. Ellis, Treasurer for National Bible Institution.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

THANKSGIVING NUMBER

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, NOVEMBER 24, 1931

NUMBER 8

A Psalm of Praise

By G. Eldred Marsh

To Thee from whose most gracious hand,
Rich blessings fall on sea and land,
We lift our voice in praise!
When after winter, cold and drear,
The fields lay barren, fruitless, sere,
Thou sentest spring our hearts to cheer,
And filled with hope our days!

Amid the treetops' bursting green,
The feathered songsters soon were seen;
Their music filled the air.
The sunshine and the soft warm showers
Called forth the woodland's beauteous flowers:
To thank Thee for those fragrant bowers
We lift our voice in prayer!

In faith we sowed each fallow field,
And trusted Thee to make it yield,
Our labor to repay.
We watched the blades burst from the mold—
The waving green transformed to gold:
O gracious Lord, for wealth untold
We offer thanks to-day!

But richer blessings far than these
That come from fruitful fields and trees,
Thou didst to us impart!
For Thou hast walked with us each day,
And talked with us along the way!
Above all else for these we pray,
And to Thee lift our heart!

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

"Oh that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men! For he satisfieth the longing soul, and filleth the hungry soul with goodness."

THE EDITOR'S PRAYER

MOST righteous Father: As we look upon the richness of the harvest we would lift up our voices in praise to Thee, the Giver of it all. Help us, O God, that in the midst of the bounty which Thou hast provided, we may not forget the poor, nor neglect the gospel work for which Thou hast called us through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

PRAISE YE THE LORD!

"BLESS THE LORD, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits!" Thus "the sweet singer of Israel" pleads with his own heart in the one hundred and third Psalm and the second verse.

With fervency of gratitude he endeavors to enumerate the favors which the Almighty has showered upon him. But, like you and me, he is unable to name them all. Among those he does mention, however, are several for which we, too, have reason to praise the Lord today.

"Bless the Lord," he cries, "who forgiveth all thine iniquities." Has the God of David done less for us in that regard than He did for the man after His own heart? Certainly not! For "God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us."—Romans 5:8. Through that sacrifice was brought about the forgiveness of all our sins. Therefore, "Praise ye the Lord!"

"Who redeemeth thy life from destruction", David continues. Professor Delitzsch gives an even more impressive rendering of the passage. "Who releaseth thy life from the pit," is the way that eminent German translator presents it. And O how wondrously true it is! He sent His only begotten Son into the world "that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." When the One to whom God has given "all power in heaven and in earth" shall return, we have the assurance, made doubly sure by His own resurrection, that God shall release our "life from the pit" that we may not "perish."

The Psalmist then drops back to the consideration of more material "benefits" which the Lord has bestowed upon him. "Who satisfieth thy mouth with good things; so that thy youth is renewed like the eagle's." With bins filled, and granaries overflowing, we have reason to "praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men"!

When depression bears heavily upon us because of our transgressions as a people, let us remember, and be thankful, that "the Lord is merciful and gracious, slow to anger, and plenteous in mercy. He will not always chide: neither will he keep his anger for ever."

Let us search our hearts as David did, and I am sure we, too, will confess that "He hath not dealt with us after our sins; nor rewarded us according to our iniquities. For as the heaven is high above the earth, so great is his mercy toward them that fear him."

THE UNITY OF THE BIBLE

ONE of the most impressive and conclusive evidences of the supernatural origin of the Bible is its unity. Although it was written by some forty different men, it provides proof within itself that it has but one Author. Although divided into sixty-six separate volumes, it is but one Book.

In its preparation and compiling, it covered a period of more than fifteen hundred years, yet it presents a unity of purpose, and a consistent continuity of thought throughout.

The promise and the prospect of supernal glory eventually filling the earth as the waters cover the sea, first revealed in Genesis, find enlarged, enriched, and majestic consummation in Revelation.

Genesis agrees with Revelation; Revelation marks the fulfillment of Genesis. Neither is complete without the other.

The Old Testament, like a broad and placid river, flows through the changing scenes of the past, and without creating a ripple loses itself in the life-giving current of the New. Thereafter as one great Stream of Revelation and Inspiration they pass through the foothills of Time, across the fruitful plains of the Millennial Kingdom, smiling under the sunshine of God's favor, and pour their united floods at last into the Pacific Ocean of Eternal Glory!

Such is the unity of the Book of God.

"THE SACRIFICE OF THANKS-GIVING"

By Arlen Marsh

"I will offer to thee the sacrifice of thanksgiving, and will call upon the name of the Lord."

THE bleak coasts of New England were not inviting on December 21, 1620. Rocky, far from arable, forested, peopled by savage tribes, they represented an indescribable contrast to the lowlands of The Netherlands. From one extreme to the other—from the friendly regions of north Holland to the cold shores of Massachusetts—came the Pilgrims, by their landing, making immortal Plymouth Rock.

These hardy Separatists could have chosen no time more difficult than that they did to make their hazardous voyage and still more hazardous landing. Tempests at sea and famine and pestilence on land stared them in the face. Hardships without number met them on every hand. "Their sufferings from the arctic climate and the lack of food were so severe that half of them died before spring," writes Edward S. Ellis in the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

But these pioneers were built of sterner stuff than the early settlers of Raleigh's Virginian colony. The dead were buried; the surviving sick were nursed to health by the surviving well; and the little settlement clung to every straw as a means of salvation through the winter. Not once did the spirit of those who had fled their homes under the force of religious persecution weaken.

Spring brought surcease to their troubles in large degree. Crops were planted; hunting and trapping were learned from the Indians; the cultivation of maize provided food. The brunt of the harsh reception to America was over; from that time the way was comparatively easy.

As autumn of 1621 progressed, the crops were harvested. A special day was set—the last Thursday in November—for thanksgiving to the Creator for the preservation of the little band. Indians and whites alike united in a great feast in honor of the salvation of the colony "by the grace of God."

Time passed. The early settlements developed. Trouble with England brought the Revolution, and the United States of America was born. The custom of thanksgiving, begun by the Pilgrims and continued by their liberty-loving descendants, was perpetuated by an annual presidential proclamation inaugurated by Washington. During the century and a half that has elapsed since that time, not one year has passed without the festival founded by our God-fearing puritanical ancestors.

The causes for the feast have persisted throughout the years and, indeed, have been augmented. No depression, however great, can be so hard as the greeting given the Pilgrims by that tempestuous coast; no sorrow, however deeply felt, can transcend that experienced in separation from country, friends, and home; no hardship, however severe, can more than equal that first fierce New England winter.

Cities, peaceful country sides, tranquillity, safety are our lot. Forests, savage beasts, and still more savage men met the early pioneers. Surely, their reasons for thanksgiving were not so great as ours are today. Their spirit should be our spirit, and their God—with understanding of His love and mercy intensified a thousandfold—our God.

We can do no less than to exclaim in the words of the one hundred seventeenth Psalm, "O praise the Lord, all ye nations: praise him, all ye people. For his merciful kindness is great toward us: and the truth of the Lord endureth for ever. Praise ye the Lord."

COUNT YOUR BLESSINGS

IT is fitting and right that we should make a pause in our lives to remember that God is the Giver of every good and perfect gift. In His infinite wisdom and love, He has placed us in an environment best suited to our needs, and, having created us, He sustains us day by day, until it is His good pleasure to take this life from us.

Now Paul has reminded us that there is one definite object in remembering the mercies of God, and it is that His goodness should lead His people to repentance. The more we think over the mercies of our individual lives, the more clearly can we see how undeserving we have been. It is a common thing for people to complain of their lot in life and to compare their circumstances with those of others who are more favorably situated. But when we remember that everything we have received has been the gift of Divine grace, we are compelled to think of God's mercies in quite a new way.

One of the difficulties in the way of genuine thankfulness is that we become accustomed to the mercies of the passing day, and, in due time, we take them for granted and assume that we have a right to them. Our debt to the unremembered is beyond all calculation. As we look back over the past days of our life, we can see the marvelous way in which we have been sustained and upheld by those mighty forces which are at the disposal of God. We have done nothing to deserve such benefactions, and yet, whether harvests have been lean or plentiful, our bread and water have been sure.

It is well to think in this way at the present time, when all of us are called upon to make sacrifices, and to do without some things to which we have grown accustomed. We are apt to forget that, even as it is the majority of us are much better off than we expected to be when we began our career. And this fact, in itself, should dispose us to hearty repentance, if at any time we have given way to a spirit of murmuring or complaining. If we count our blessings and name them one by one, it will surely surprise us to see what God has done.—Taken from an editorial in The Life of Faith.

THE PILGRIM FATHERS

Oh, God, beneath Thy guiding hand
Our exiled fathers crossed the sea;
And when they trod the wintry strand,
With prayer and psalm they worshiped Thee.

Thou heard'st, well pleased, the song, the prayer;
Thy blessing came, and still its power
Shall onward through all ages bear
The memory of that holy hour.

Laws, freedom, truth, and faith in God
Came with those exiles o'er the waves,
And where their pilgrim feet have trod,
The God they trusted guards their graves.

And here Thy name, Oh, God of love,
Their children's children shall adore,
Till these eternal hills remove,
And spring adorns the earth no more.
—Leonard Bacon, 1833.

THANKSGIVING

By Rufus A. Curtis

As the day set apart for the giving of thanks and the public acknowledgment of divine goodness and mercy, has dawned once more upon us, how thankful we should be that our heavenly Father has been mindful of our needs, and has supplied the same as hitherto. As I take a retrospective view, and attempt to count my "many blessings", I utterly fail in the attempt to "name them one by one," because of my inability to do so, for they are numberless. From reason's dawn until life's close, we are the recipients of our heavenly Father's favors.

Out of the depths of a grateful heart I can say I thank my Creator for the gift of His blessed and enduring Word—"the holy scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus." (2 Tim. 3:12; John 5:39, 40; 20:31.) I thank Him for the "great salvation" His love has provided in the person of "his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." (Heb. 2:3; John 3:16; 1 John 2:25; 5:11, 12.)

Our trials and disappointments, our heartaches and sorrows, may all be made to "work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose." (Rom. 5:1-8; 8:35-39.) The chiseling and polishing in the school of affliction to bring out to perfection the Christ-likeness in us, even "the beauties of holiness" that will not be dimmed by the flight of time, may all be needful in the development of Christian character that will stand the test by fire at the final day of reckoning. (Psa.

96:9; 110:3; Heb. 12:6-11.) Having passed through the fire of the refiner, with all the dross of sin purged away, may it be our blissful lot to "shine forth as the sun in the kingdom" of our God! (Malachi 3:1-4; Isaiah 1:25, 26; Matt. 13:43.)

I thank our Creator, for He "daily loadeth us with benefits" (Psa. 68:19.) "No good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly." (Psa. 84:11.)

MY THANKSGIVING

"O Lord, how manifold are thy works! in wisdom hast thou made them all."

THANKS to Thee, dear Lord, for all Thy gracious care, lo, these many years, through sickness oft, through trials many, through griefs sore, through the valley of the shadow of death with my loved ones, through poverty, as the world views life, but with God on the mountain top to look up to through the hovering clouds. I feel my poverty has been riches and joy, with faith, hope, and love, and my life will be laid at the feet of my dear Redeemer with a thrill of joyful thankfulness when the call comes.

The last three weeks of my trip have been spent among the friends and friendships of many past years. I have, up to today, November fifteenth, visited in twenty-four homes, besides the three Sundays, each, have been spent in different places of worship.

Last Thursday it was my great pleasure to motor to Coats Grove, with Bro. and Sr. Siple, Bro. and Sr. Amasa Richardson, and Bro. Townsend, where we dined with the Coats family—father, son, and grandson and his new wife. We did not find Bro. Coats as well as we wished we might, but very thankful he was well enough to visit with us. Bro. Richardson is not at all well, and when we think of it we realize that several of us are soon to enter into our rest. None of us will regret it when we think of the great joy awaiting those who are faithful and ready for the Master's call to meet Him in the air. O blessed meeting, will I be ready and worthy of a place among that happy throng?

I am so thankful, as I read our dear HERALD, for all of the brothers and sisters who continue to write such good, encouraging words each week. How good it is to give the world these faithful ones to help the work along. Your last article, "The Stumblingstone", Bro. McLeod, was most excellent. May we each be careful that we place no stumblingstones in our brother's way.

I am sorry I am so late with my tithe, for the dollar-a-month club, but very glad to be able to continue sending it on its mission of love. May it be laid on the hearts of many others to do what they can, though the offering may be small. Hear Paul's words: "But my God shall supply all your need according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus." Phil. 4:19. What a rich promise! We need not fear hunger or cold with God at the helm.

Yours in His name,

Mary A. Woodward.

GIVING THANKS

By George B. Alldridge

"Oh that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!"—Psalm 107:31.

A LADY missionary recently returned from China said that she was disgusted with many of the prayers she heard offered in many of the churches she had visited, because the tenor of them was, "Give me, give me, give, give, give, always give"!

How little we thank God for all His goodness and kindness to us. "For the Lord is good to all; and his tender mercies are over all his works."—Psalm 145:9. We are exhorted to "give thanks unto the Lord; for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever."—Psalm 118:29.

As human beings how we appreciate the spirit of thankfulness and gratitude displayed towards us by any who may be our beneficiaries. Ingratitude we despise, as it is the very personification of selfishness; a characteristic abhorrent to God and man. Do we realize that God has brought us into existence to afford pleasure to Him? Revelation 4:11.

How, then, does God derive pleasure from us? Well, here is a thought I get from Hosea 10:12, "Sow to yourselves in righteousness. Reap in mercy". Why? Let Micah 7:18 answer us: "Who is a God like unto thee that pardoneth iniquity, and passeth by the transgressions of the remnant of his heritage? He retaineth not his anger for ever; because He delighteth in mercy."

What a wonderful being God is! His chief and apparently only delight is in blessing all His creatures. This thought fills our hearts with thanksgiving, and in the rapture that thrills our souls, we exclaim, "All thy works testify of thee, O Lord: there is no place where thy presence is not evident, and none where thy goodness does not manifest itself."

Suppose God were human like ourselves? I shudder at the thought; but blessed be His holy Name, it is recorded in Malachi 3:6, "For I am the Lord, I change not; therefore ye sons of Jacob (you and I) are not consumed." Wonderful! Glorious! No wonder Paul says, "Rejoice in the Lord always; and again I say, REJOICE." Phil. 4:4. Think of it, beloved brethren, the Almighty Lord, holy, just, and infinite, and also His beloved Son, "Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and today, and for ever." Hebrews 13:8. His care over us and for us is increasing; His love is unwearied; and yet His power is ever present.

Every object in the material world tells of change, decline, and extinction. And all the prosperity of kingdoms, the influence of rank, and the magnificence of art are but the repetition of ancient similitudes long since perished from the earth. But from the period when God's goodness created man and the whole world for His use, through all succeeding ages, the same constant love which first called him into being, still watches over him for good.

We cannot fully comprehend God; but I am thankful though, in a limited sense and measure I can when I read and meditate upon the words of the hundred and fourth Psalm. Read this Psalm, brethren, on Thanksgiving Day.

Dear brethren, you have all read the interesting story of Jonathan and David, but read again 1 Samuel 20:3: "Truly as the Lord liveth, and as thy soul liveth, there is but a step between me and death." Could we at the close of each day review the events of the day, as the angels who watch over us see them! How many times there has been just a step between us and death! In the evening before we retire, how truly we can say, "How excellent is thy loving-kindness, O God: therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings." Psalm 36:7.

Gratitude, appreciation, thankfulness, how many times during the day do we display these traits of character before our fellows. Ah, yes, of course, Jesus did, always praising and eulogizing His Father before enemies and friends, exhorting His followers to put their trust and confidence in God.

I wonder why Jesus exhorts us to pray, remembering His last words to us, "He which testifieth these things saith, Surely, I come quickly. Amen. Even so, come, Lord Jesus." Rev. 22:21.

Yes, I get the thought, dear Jesus, it is to have my mind continually occupied and contemplating thy return, and thy coming glory. This fills our hearts with joy and thanksgiving. What thoughts must have filled the minds of Israel when Moses said, "We are journeying unto the place of which the Lord said, I will give it you."

It thrills my whole being as I try to anticipate the joy of soon seeing Jesus, and then communing with all those He deems worthy as His associates during His glorious reign. David had a glimpse of this and wrote: "Thou wilt shew me the path of life: in thy presence is fulness of joy; at thy right hand there are pleasures for evermore"; and, "As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness; I shall be satisfied when I awake with thy likeness."

With Peter I cry out, "Whom having not seen ye (I) love" (1 Peter 1:8); and with Paul, "Giving thanks unto the Father, which hath made us to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light" (Col. 1:12-15).

Our closing thought is found in Psalm 69:34: "Let the heaven and earth praise him, the sea and every thing that moveth therein."

The words of Frances Ridley Havergall just express my thought at this moment:

"Oh, the joy to see Thee reigning,
Thee, my own beloved Lord,
Every tongue Thy name confessing,
Glory, Honor, Peace, and Blessing,
Brought to thee, with glad accord.
Thee, my Savior and my Friend,
Vindicated and enthroned;
Unto earth's remotest end
Glorified, adored, and owned."

DAYS OF THANKSGIVING

By Lottie E. Young

WE Americans are apt to think that the first Thanksgiving Day the world ever knew was when the Pilgrim fathers set apart a day for special thanks to God for His care and provision after the first dreary months on the wild New England shore.

But the Bible tells us of a Thanksgiving Day five hundred years before Christ, and one can read the account of it in the book of Nehemiah. For seventy years many of the children of Israel were in exile in Babylon. Then God moved the heart of Cyrus, king of Persia, to issue an edict that all who wished could return to Jerusalem, which many of them did under the leadership of Ezra and Nehemiah. It was not easy rebuilding the temple and walls around the city, as their enemies were numerous; but, under God's protection, the work was completed.

Then Ezra, the priest, brought out the Book of the Law, blessing Jehovah, while the people bowed their heads and worshiped. As the reading proceeded loud weeping was heard, as those listening realized how far they had departed from God's commands, and how grievously the nation had been punished for their wrong doing. But Nehemiah and Ezra said, "This day is holy unto Jehovah, your God, mourn not, nor weep. Go your way, eat the fat, and drink the sweet, and send portions unto him for whom nothing is prepared." Then they heeded God's wishes and "there was very great gladness." Would that November 26, 1931, might be such a day of penitence and thanksgiving in the United States!

Our country has surely been the Benjamin among nations of the world. We have come to think that we are decidedly better than anybody else, and it is our right to have only good things. But have we, as a nation, rendered thanks to the Giver of every good and perfect gift for the abundant blessings He has showered upon us?

We think it strange the Israelites should have murmured so continuously, as they journeyed through the wilderness, after having bread from heaven and water from the rock, with many other manifestations of God's love. But do we not fret and worry when times are hard, often forgetting that our "necessities" are the "luxuries" of many another people? We say, "If there is a God why should such hardships come to us who have not done wrong?"

May we heed the Apostle Paul's advice and "in every thing give thanks", realizing that the greatest Thanksgiving Day ever known is drawing nearer and nearer.

"THANKSGIVING through all the year brings prosperity and growing riches through all the year, because our true wealth is the wealth of the soul, and that wealth lies in our profound trust in the goodness of God."

VIRGINIA'S THANKSGIVING

By H. A. Sheets

HISTORY records that the first day of Thanksgiving ever celebrated on the American continent was in 1621. The Pilgrims were the first to feel the urge to be thankful to the Giver of all good things.

We have but adoration for such a sturdy people. They were willing to leave their homes and friends that they might seek God in a heartless wilderness. They braved the North Atlantic during its angry season. They came to a wintry shore where no hospitable hearths awaited with friendly greeting.

All this was cheerfully accepted that they might worship God as they thought best. Privation was the lot of all and death the fate of many of that determined band. Winter and spring passed. Fall found a few rude cabins, a meager supply of home grown food, and hearts filled with thankfulness.

The Pilgrims were especially thankful for the material blessing they had received. If they, with their meager blessings, could be thankful, surely we, with all we have, should have just cause for returning thanks to our Father in heaven.

We, of the Shenandoah Valley, feel that we have every reason to be thankful. Last year everything dried up and food was scarce and times were bad. This year we have had "showers of blessing". Cans are filled with food; cellars are filled with vegetables, and barns are overflowing. Many of the people have two years' supply of canned fruit and vegetables. Truly we are thankful.

We feel much as David did: "I have been young, and now am old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread."—Psalm 37:25.

God certainly does watch over His people. Our hearts rejoice as did the Psalmist's: "O give thanks unto the Lord; for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever."

A PRAYER

Lord, for the erring thought
Not into evil wrought;
Lord, for the wicked will,
Betrayed and baffled still;
For the heart from itself kept,
Our thanksgiving accept!

For ignorant hopes that were Broken at our blind prayer;
For pain, death, sorrow sent,
Unto our chastisement;
For all loss of seeming good,
Quicken our gratitude!

—William Dean Howells.

WHAT HAVE I TO BE THANKFUL FOR?

I HAVE SO many, many things to be thankful for I could not enumerate them all. One is that my dear old mother who was so very sick most of last winter began improving in March and is now enjoying fairly good health for one of her age—eighty-five. Also that my husband, who was very sick for some time last spring, has regained his health, and that our little eleven year old grandson, who had a serious operation and was under the doctor's care nine weeks, is now able to go to school. For these recoveries we give God the honor and thank Him.

We are thankful for the gospel plan of salvation, and that in August last we had such a splendid meeting with Brothers Magaw and Denchfield in charge. Both brought us inspiring spiritual lessons with good results. We also are thankful for a Bible class every Sunday, when from thirty-five to forty meet for study and worship, with Bro. George Waters as teacher.

We are not unmindful of our Headquarters at Oregon, and of our editors, Bro. Marsh and Sr. Gesin, who are so untiring in their efforts to give us a good paper. How we would miss its weekly visits! May God's sustaining grace let its power shine forth for truth until Jesus comes.

For these and many other blessings we thank our heavenly Father this Thanksgiving Day.

Mrs. A. J. Chaplin.

THINK AND THANK

By Richard LeCrone

ABOUT a year ago, I heard a speaker who commented upon the idea of thanksgiving in somewhat the following manner: "It occurs to me that there is a difference of but one letter between the words 'think' and 'thank.'" The idea seemed unique, so I followed it up and was very much surprised to find that the two words came from the same root, and that, in the words of Webster's Dictionary, the word "thank" was "originally, a thought, a thinking, from the same root as think." Such a train of thought should lead to a great deal of thinking, followed by thanking.

Sometimes we become so absorbed in the genial occupation of bemoaning our own hard lot that we fail to think, and consequently, to thank. If we consider the conditions under which Thanksgiving Day was first observed we can find much for which to be thankful. These Pilgrim fathers set aside a day in which to praise God for having allowed them to raise enough food to keep them over the coming winter and for having given them the strength with which to build shelters. Aside from these two things they had little else. Yet they found it in their hearts to praise God for His bountiful gifts.

To honestly and thoughtfully compare our lot with theirs is, for the Christian at least, to sincerely and reverently thank God that He has seen fit to shower upon us so many material blessings which the Pilgrim fathers, though they endured much for their faith, never knew.

The more we think along these lines, the more impressed we become with our own unworthiness of any blessings. The Pilgrim Fathers experienced a feeling which perhaps has come to some of our older Christians. It is expressed in the Acts of the Apostles in these words: "And they departed from the presence of the council, rejoicing that they were counted worthy to suffer shame for his name."—Acts 5:41. Just another instance of thinking and thanking.

There is one glorious assurance which to the thinking Christian is an ever present comfort. It is this knowledge which strengthens us in a multitude of trials. "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose."—Romans 8:28.

Let us Think and Thank.

YES!

THANKFUL? Yes! For the comforts and love of home and family. For health and strength with which to labor in God's vineyard. For the joy of seeing others giving their lives and hearts in service.

Yes! Humbly thankful to God.

F. E. Siple.

"IT IS NOT GOOD"

AN Indian woman was asked why the women of her tribe do not wear sleeveless and otherwise abbreviated dresses, as many white women do. She replied, "We can't do that. It is not good."

We who are Christian women have special words of instruction as to hair, dress, and ornaments, which we do well to heed (1 Cor. 11:15; 1 Tim. 2:9; 1 Peter 3:3, 4). How can we, in view of these scriptures, be careless about these things? Do we profess to be separated unto Christ, and yet identify ourselves with the world in our manner of dress? It is not good.

"Be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God."

Let us walk worthy of our "heavenly calling." Obedience to the Word is necessary to spiritual growth. We should carefully guard the testimony which it is our privilege as Christians to have. Therefore, let us use great care that our dress be modest in every respect. Long hair is a glory to us—we should value it. And as for adorning, let us rather have "the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit," which is in the sight of God of great price.

Day School No. 19, Sioux Reservation.

THE SONG OF HARVEST-HOME

Come, ye thankful people, come,
 Raise the song of harvest-home:
 All is safely gathered in,
 Ere the winter storms begin;
 God, our Maker, doth provide
 For our wants to be supplied:
     Come to God's own temple, come,
     Raise the song of harvest-home.

All the world is God's own field,
 Fruit unto His praise to yield;
 Wheat and tares together sown,
 Unto joy or sorrow grown;
 First the blade, and then the ear,
 Then the full corn shall appear:
     Lord of harvest, grant that we
     Wholesome grain and pure may be.

Even so, Lord, quickly come
 To Thy final harvest-home;
 Gather Thou Thy people in,
 Free from sorrow, free from sin,
 There, forever purified
 In Thy presence to abide:
     Come, with all thine angels, come,
     Raise the glorious harvest-home.
     —An old hymn by George J. Elvey.

A MESSAGE FOR THANKSGIVING

By R. H. Judd

"I will instruct thee and teach thee in the way which thou shalt go".—Psalm 32:8. "That he might make thee know that man doth not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord".—Deuteronomy 8:3.

AT THANKSGIVING time it is our pleasure to give thanks to God for the many material blessings vouchsafed to us during the year that has passed. Centuries have rolled by since God's promise to Noah that seedtime and harvest shall not cease while the earth remaineth, and that promise has been marvelously kept. Not once has it failed. The world's supply has always been sufficient, and more than sufficient, for the world's needs.

But, someone may wonder what that has to do with our texts quoted above. It has this—that in the writer's opinion God Himself links together the material and the spiritual. The one is necessary for the purpose of the other. The one is the basis or means by which the other is attained. This fact is itself incidental proof that the maxim, "out of nothing, nothing comes", is divine fact as well as human wisdom. In other words, to plead "immateriality" is to plead negation of being.

God's man is not immaterial, and only through living existence can he be made to "know that man doth not live by bread alone." It is by these very experiences of life that He instructs us and teaches us in the way that we should go. Scripture teems with illustrations, and probably no better can be found than the twenty-third psalm, where spiritual teaching (or food) is beautifully conveyed from life's experience already gleaned in part. The shepherd, the tender grass, the still waters, the banquet table, and the valley of the shadow as well as the mountain top, are all of them practical experiences by which to teach spiritual truths and bring us into closer relationship to a God who actually "IS", for "he that cometh to God must believe that HE IS." Again, I say, "in part", for this sweet psalm of David's has for centuries been the comfort and hope of God's people, ever yielding things new and old, each alike precious—precious because it so aptly applies to the individual life of each of us.

In the psalm preceding and in the psalm following, David links himself with "the great congregation" and "the world and they that dwell therein". But in this twenty-third psalm his one predominant thought is of GOD'S goodness and care of him, for in this short psalm of six verses the personal pronouns are in evidence seventeen times. Yet no one accuses David of narrowness or selfishness of spirit. Instead, Christian men and women have felt that they owe him a debt of gratitude none can repay. How much this wonderful psalm has left its imprint on generations following, only eternity will reveal!

I wonder if the reader has ever considered the greatness of the influence on the lives of holy men of old, as they spoke moved by the Holy Spirit of God? Who can doubt that Isaiah had this psalm in mind when he said, "He shall feed his flock like a shepherd" (see Isa. 40:11). Surely Ezekiel reechoed the second verse when he uttered the words, "I will feed them in good pastures . . . there shall they lie down in a good fold, and on fat pasture shall they feed. I myself will feed my flock and cause them to lie down, saith the Lord God." Ezek. 34:14.

Yet again, we quote Isaiah. "I am the Lord thy God which teacheth thee to profit, which leadeth thee by the way that thou shouldest go. O that thou hadst hearkened to my commandments! then had thy peace been as a river . . . for he that had mercy on them shall lead them, even by springs of water shall he guide them."

"He reviveth my soul" (Variorum Bible). "For thus saith the high and lofty One that inhabiteth eternity, whose name is Holy, I dwell in the high and holy place with him that is of a contrite and humble spirit, to revive the spirit of the humble and to revive the heart of the contrite ones." Does your soul need reviving? Does your heart at times become weary? Then, "Come let us return unto the Lord, for he hath torn and he will heal . . . He will revive us and we shall live in his sight."

We cannot stay to quote all the passages that incline us to the belief that this psalm was often the very basis of the thoughts of these men of God. If time permitted, it would, we think, be possible to show that not only Isaiah and Ezekiel were thus renewed in spirit by this psalm, but even Jeremiah, Hosea, and Habbakuk, and in the New Testament, Peter, Paul, and John; for these men acted and lived as if there was but one book and that the Book of books; and history has verified their choice.

The last part of the third verse may find its parallel in Isaiah 42:6. Though spoken primarily of Christ, it has application to us also. Verse four is, to my mind, more correctly rendered as in the margin, "the valley of deep darkness", which is a common life experience of many Christians. The context also shows that it refers to the "life that now is". He has his enemies, it is true, but "thou anointest my head with oil, and my cup runneth over." "When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee". Isa. 43:2.

"Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life, and (after that) I will return (Variorum Bible) to the house of the Lord for ever." The writer sometimes wonders whether we have not in our Lord's words—"In my Father's house are many mansions (abiding places, or as some I believe affirm, places of honor)—an echo of this same twenty-third psalm, and that our Lord knew He was touching a responsive chord that had linked the centuries.

Surely in no better way than by these beautiful similes drawn from the realities of life—the green pastures, the still waters, the table spread in the presence of our enemies—can we learn of that spiritual contentedness and the "peace that passeth understanding". Who of us when passing through "the valley of deep darkness" has not found abiding "comfort" in the staff, the Bread of Life which is the Word of God, "esteeming the words of his mouth more than our necessary food", even though the "rod" may be the means occasionally used to "guide us in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake".

THE TWENTY-THIRD PSALM

JEHOVAH ROPAH: The Lord is my Shepherd.

JEHOVAH-JIREH: I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in pastures of tender grass.

JEHOVAH-SHALOM: He leadeth me beside the still waters, or waters of rest, or waters of peace.

JEHOVAH NISSI SIDKENU: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake. He reviveth my soul (see Psalm 19:7).

JEHOVAH SHAMMAH: Yea though I walk through the valley of deep darkness I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me, thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.

JEHOVAH JIREH: Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies. Thou hast anointed my head with oil, my cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life, and I will return (Variorum Bible) to the house of the Lord for ever. (Hebrew, for length of days.)—Selected by R. H. Judd.

ASSISTING THE THANKSGIVING SPIRIT

By Mary A. Gesin

A WELL-KNOWN writer of the day was asked by the editor of an equally well-known periodical to make a list of his five most cherished possessions. Immediately he proceeded to enumerate them, when, lo! he counted and they totaled ten times the required number. And best of all, those he prized most had not cost him a penny!

Isn't it a fascinating thought? I wonder how many of us, if we tried, could find fifty distinct items or factors in our lives with which we would not part, which are worth more than a fortune to us, and yet cost us scarcely anything in actual cash.

Do you know that the more we contemplate our blessings, that is, the more we attempt to evaluate them, the more precious they become? Try viewing life without one of them, for instance, and what would be the result? Let's begin our list and then try our hand at striking out one of them and see how we would face life.

At the head of the list we'll put—Our Faith in God. Next—All that Jesus means to us (and that's a comprehensive item). Third—The privilege of serving God and His Son. Fourth (and you may disagree with me here)—Interest in life and folks, just plain, common folks like you and me. Fifth—The full possession of all our senses and faculties. After these come our home, our loved ones, our friends and associates and ever so many other things without which some of the others would be valueless, and these last all worthless without the first. For our loved ones cannot be fully appreciated without a true estimation of the value of the five points named.

The arrangement would probably be varied with each individual, but the essentials would remain, I am sure. Don't you think we prize too highly material possessions, often times? Someone has said that a man is rich, not according to what he has, but according to what he can do without. Many of the material things of life which we deem indispensable, we really can do very nicely without. But our faith in God, the knowledge that Jesus is a Friend who never fails, the privilege of serving Him in serving others—ah! these are the requisite things of life.

In the desperate times that most surely lie ahead of us, where would we be without our faith in God? How much of the spice of life would be lost if there were no friends who needed encouragement, no little ones who needed to be taught that Jesus said, "Suffer little children to come unto me", no opportunities to comfort and cheer the sick or sorrowing!

"Happiness," says Channing Pollock, "is clean living, and clear thinking, and self-forgetfulness, and self-respect." If we would be happy, then, let us not complain that the dispensable things of life are not ours. But let us be thankful that we possess the things which make for happiness—the abiding things, the things which endure.

REASON FOR THANKSGIVING

By Gerald Cooper

AT THIS time of the year all one hears is Thanksgiving. Most of the people who use this term are entirely ignorant of the true meaning of the word. They only know that it comes once a year and that it usually means a family reunion with many good things to eat. Let us study about Thanksgiving a while and see what should be our attitude on this national holiday.

The origin of the day began back in the early days of this country. Our forefathers were deeply religious but did not agree with the views of the Church of England. For this they were persecuted, and they decided to go to Holland to live where religious freedom was tolerated. But there their children would grow up under Dutch influences and would eventually be Hollanders, and so they decided to sail for America, that new land across the sea. Their journey was a long and tiresome one, but they were aided by God.

Their first year in the new land was a long one and full of hard labor, but they were sufficiently thankful at the end of it to have a feast and celebrate their guidance through that first dreadful year. Thus was instituted the first Thanksgiving, which day we celebrate each year.

Many of the Bible characters were thankful to God for what He had done for them and sang praises to Him. The first thing Noah did on leaving the ark was to build an altar and make a sacrifice to God for His goodness. Moses sang many songs to God, including the ninetieth Psalm, for aiding him and the children of Israel. Deborah, the only woman judge of Israel, sang praises unto God when He helped her win over her enemies. Hannah praised God because Samuel was born to her; Solomon praised Him for giving him wisdom; and the Psalms are composed mainly of praises to God by David.

Surely if these people praised God for His goodness to them, we can praise Him for His goodness to us. Consider the reasons we have for praising Him. First, there is life itself, which is most precious to us. Everyone wants to live, and men always do all they can to prolong their lives. In addition to being precious to us, life gives us opportunity for future eternity. It is through our deeds of this life that we gain eternal life, and we should thank God for it. Then there are our temporal blessings, such as food, clothing, and shelter. Some do not have these, and if God has blessed us in such a manner that we have them, we should thank Him for it. Our friends are another thing for which we should thank God. Good friends influence us for good, and in addition they provide companionship for us. What we should thank God mostly for, however, is Jesus, His only begotten Son who died for us that we might be saved to live and reign in the kingdom of God.

There are many ways to praise God among which are, prayer, word of mouth, and hymn. Praise God for His goodness to us by one of the above methods, not only at this Thanksgiving Day, but at all times during the year.

“Be careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God. And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Jesus Christ.” “O give thanks unto the God of heaven: for his mercy endureth for ever.”

Connie Ramsey, Morrilton, Ark.

WHAT THINK YE?

By Lucille LeCrone

VISUALIZE with me, if you will, two homes, two families on Thanksgiving Day.

The first is a home of wealth, its furnishings rich and splendid. The table is decorated with a lovely linen cloth and a huge bouquet of flowers adorns its center. The glassware sparkles as it catches the rays of light and reflects them. The vast array of silverware shines in all its beauty. The table is literally loaded with good things to eat, containing all that is considered essential to the Thanksgiving dinner.

The family assembles at the table promptly at noon, and the father commences the carving of the turkey, serving each in his turn. No word of thanks is offered to the heavenly Father! No expressions of gratitude are uttered! As soon as the meal is over the family separates. The son and daughter go to the football game. The mother and father leave for the home of friends for an afternoon of bridge. Let us leave them there while we look into the second home.

Dinner is being served a little later in this home, because the family attended church in the morning, and consequently the dinner was belated. The table is not quite so large nor so beautiful as the first; neither is it so heavily loaded. It does not sparkle and shine with cut glass and expensive silver. But everything is clean and the table is neatly set with the best that the home affords.

Finally announcement is made that dinner is ready. The family assembles around the table, and all bow their heads while the father returns thanks to the heavenly Father for His great goodness in so bountifully providing for their needs. Before any of the family is served, two plates are filled with good things from the table and sent to the almost penniless aged man and woman who live next door. Then the family enjoy the meal together. The afternoon is spent quietly at home, and in the evening the father reads to them from the Scriptures, each one expressing personally his thanks to God.

After our visit to these two homes, which family do you think spent the happiest Thanksgiving day? Which do you think manifested the true spirit of the day?

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 124 N. Parkside Ave., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois
For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"IT IS THE LORD: LET HIM DO WHAT SEEMETH HIM GOOD."—1 SAMUEL 3:18.

CLEVELAND, OHIO

THE Cleveland Bereans had one of their social events on Friday evening, October thirtieth. The entertainment was provided by some of the members of the different classes who presented a one-act comedy entitled, "I Do". After the play, which we feel sure everyone enjoyed judging from the merriment and laughter which rang out at frequent intervals, games were indulged in by the children while the older people looked on, enjoying it as much as though they themselves had been participating. As has been and probably always will be customary for Halloween parties, cider and doughnuts were served. Approximately a hundred people soon went home, feeling well satisfied after the enjoyable evening they had spent.

Mary Milburn, Sec.

ILLINOIS BEREAN REPORT FOR SEPTEMBER

Ripley: Membership, 21; average weekly attendance, 24; interest, good. No meetings were held between April 19 and September 20.

Lorene Fey, Sec.

Rockford: Membership, 21; average weekly attendance, 20; interest, very good. Our social for the month of September was in the form of a treasure hunt. (Junior) Membership, 5; interest, very good.

Marjorie Mogle, Sec.

Dixon: (Senior) Membership, 14; average weekly attendance, very poor this month; interest, fair. With the beginning of school we hope to get back to normal again. (Junior) Membership, 12, average weekly attendance, 11; interest, very good; teacher, Sister Agnes Eckert. (Primary) Membership, 5; average weekly attendance, 4; interest, good; teacher, Sister Grace Drew.

Elizabeth Ford, Sec.

Martinsville: Membership, 10; average weekly attendance, 20; interest, good. The small folks in the junior class are taking more interest in the lessons.

Edith Hendrix, Sec.

Elizabeth Ford, State Sec.

ACTIVITIES IN DIXON

ON Tuesday evening, October 27, the members of the Junior Berean class which is taught by Sister Agnes Eckert gathered in the basement of the church for a Halloween party. Each Berean was permitted to bring one guest, making quite a number in all. This was a masquerade, and many queer and grotesque personages were present.

Witches, black cats, and other Halloween decorations were used to help make the basement seem more wierd. Games and Halloween stunts caused much merriment. Refreshments were served by the teacher, and all went home thanking her for a jolly evening.

On Wednesday evening, October 28, after Berean class the senior Berean members scattered to the different homes to dress in masquerade, and then went to the home of Elizabeth Ford for a Halloween party. Ghosts, tramps, peasants, ladies of by-gone days in their hoop skirts, and many others in odd costumes were there. Games in keeping with Halloween caused much laughter and fun. The house was decorated with jack-o-lanterns, pumpkins, black cats, and other decorations that are used at this season. Refreshments were served, and at a late hour all departed for their homes after an enjoyable evening.

ILLINOIS BEREAN REPORT FOR OCTOBER

Ripley: Membership, 21; average weekly attendance, 19; interest, good.

Lorene Fey, Sec.

Rockford: Membership, 21, average weekly attendance, 20; interest, very good. Now studying Revelation. A Halloween party was held after the class meeting. We think these social times help to hold the interest. (Junior) Membership, 5; interest, very good.

Marjorie Mogle, Sec.

Dixon: (Senior) Membership, 14; average weekly attendance, 11; interest, excellent. This class is doing fine and is very much encouraged since Bro. Clarence Lapp began teaching here. (Junior) Membership, 12; average weekly attendance, 11; interest, very good. Just finished the study of the life of Christ. (Primary) Membership, 5; average weekly attendance, 4; beginning the study of the life of Christ.

Elizabeth Ford, Sec.

Martinsville: Membership, 10; average weekly attendance, 14; interest, very good this month. We had more of the married folks present this month.

Edith Hendrix, Sec.
Elizabeth Ford, State Sec.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

ROME AND BEYOND

PAUL had finished his life work. He was not gloomy, nor worrying about what was to befall him. He had always tried to do just what God had wanted him to do. His conscience was clear, and his faith so genuine that he said he had finished his course and kept the faith, and that he was now ready to be offered. He was confident that the Lord would give him a crown of righteousness at "that day."

In this letter to Timothy, Paul mentioned several brethren who had left him. Luke remained with him. He asked Timothy to bring Mark to him, as he needed Mark in the ministry. He also wanted Timothy to bring a certain cloke he had left at Troas, some books and parchments.

Then Paul warned them of Alexander, a coppersmith, who had caused him much trouble. Paul was thinking of others even in his own extremity.

Like Jesus and Stephen, Paul asked that those who had forsaken him be forgiven—"not laid to their charge." How grateful Paul seemed in that he might finish his preaching even to the Gentiles.

And what trust he had! He was confident that the Lord would deliver him from every evil, and preserve him unto His heavenly kingdom.

The letter ended with Paul's expression giving all glory to God, "to whom be glory for ever and ever."

How CAN WE be like Paul?

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Learn 2 Timothy 4:7.
2. Give the thoughts of 2 Timothy 4:17.
3. Make a list of Paul's friends.
4. How many things can you recall about Paul's life?

WE BELIEVE in literal resurrection. "Marvel not at this: for the hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves shall hear his voice, and shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation." John 5:28, 29.

Paul's teaching: "There shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and unjust." Acts 24:15.

NATURE QUESTION

28. Quails were given the Israelites for meat—Psalm 105:40.

29. What trees are described as talking about choosing a ruler?

FOUR FRIENDS

"A new family is moving in next door, and they have a boy my age, named Samuel," said Mark. The boys became friends and went to school together. They played together on Saturday, but on Sunday Samuel was not ready to go to Sunday school.

"I never go," he said to Mark. So Mark went alone, and heard this story:

"One day Jesus was preaching in a room in a house. A poor sick man wanted to hear Jesus. He knew Jesus could make him well. His friends carried him to the house. But the room was so crowded they could not get in.

"So they went up onto the flat roof and let their friend into the room through the roof. And Jesus cured the sick man. If his friends had not brought him to Jesus, he would never have been cured."

Then Mark told about Samuel. The next Sunday Mark and three friends called for Samuel and took him to Sunday school. The boys were like the sick man's four friends.

THANKSGIVING

For all that God in mercy sends:
 For health and strength, for home and friends,
 For comfort in the time of need,
 For every kindly word and deed,
 For happy thoughts and pleasant talk,
 For guidance in our daily walk,
 For all these things give thanks.

For beauty in this world of ours,
 For verdant grass and lovely flowers,
 For song of birds, for hum of bees,
 For the refreshing summer breeze,
 For hill and plain, for streams and wood,
 For the great ocean's mighty flood,
 For all these things give thanks.

For the sweet sleep that comes with night,
 For the returning morning's light,
 For the bright sun which shines on high,
 For stars that glitter in the sky—
 For these and everything we see,
 O Lord, our hearts we lift to Thee,
 And give Thee hearty thanks.

—Ellen Isabella Tupper.

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 10. — December 6, 1931

ROME AND BEYOND

Romans 15:22-29; 2 Timothy 4:6-18; Titus 1:5-16; 3:11-14

Devotional Reading: Philippians 3:7-14

GOLDEN TEXT

I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith. — 2 Timothy 4:7.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: Unto the Ends of the Earth.

Basic Truth: "And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come."—Matt. 24:14.

Outline: I. Christianity Different. II. The Gospel in Rome. III. In Spain. IV. Results.

I. Christianity Different. The gospel of Jesus Christ which was and is the power of God unto salvation, Rom. 1:16, was presented first by the Savior and His apostles to the Jews in Jerusalem.

Christianity, as taught and applied by Christ, is in one particular different than any other known religion. Christianity pertains to the individual. All other forms of religion pertain to the nation or tribe.

In religions other than Christian whatever the nation as a nation endorses religiously, that is the religion of its every newborn subject. By renouncing the religion of the nation, he, to that extent, becomes unpatriotic. Christianity is the reverse. One is not born Christian, nor is he Christian because of the attitude of his own nation. He can become Christian only by personally accepting Christ and all that Christ stands for.

II. The Gospel in Rome. When Paul and others introduced Christianity into Rome, it was as when Jesus introduced it into Judea, namely, every one accepting Christianity did so at the expense of renouncing his state religion. Thus far, naturally, the Christian was regarded to be disloyal to his state. Having previously brought the odium of many Jews upon himself, Paul in proclaiming the same Christian gospel in Rome faced the fury of the Romans in the same manner.

His missionary work succeeded much. Not only Jews, but likewise Gentiles accepted his word. The amazing power of God's Spirit enabled Paul to so truly witness for Christ and Christ's truth, that many Roman citizens renounced their state religion and accepted Christ and His teachings, even though in so doing they were exposing their lives to the wrath of Nero.

III. In Spain. Clement, a coworker with Paul, is authority that Paul, after two years of imprisonment in Rome, Acts 28:30, was released and eventually preached the gospel in many places in Spain. Seutonius and other approved writers and historians of the first century and soon after, likewise affirm such a journey and labor by the Apostle. Then, as formerly, Paul approached the Jewish residents first, and afterward the Gentiles. While no record is left of individual churches established in Spain, yet the record is clear that Paul had no little success in his missionary work there.

IV. Results. Christianity makes individuals Christian. It consecrates the individual to be loyal to Christ. True, such consecration also enhances the individual's worth to his nation. But just as the Jews failed to understand this increased worth but rather interpreted that the Christian was disloyal to the political head and therefore was detrimental to the government, so also did the Romans. In Rome not only did unbelieving Jews persecute Paul and his Christian brethren, but so also did the Roman Gentiles. Nero, a most voluptuous ruler, evidently feeling the inroads of Christianity in its rapid success and fearing that it was honeycombing the power and strength of state, charged the Christians with the great fire in Rome in 64 which razed to ashes three-quarters of the city. Spontaneously the enemies of the Christians rose in fury against them. Nero gloated in the persecution placed upon them. Inhuman forms of torture and pain were quickly invented. No Christian in Rome was safe for some two years. And yet so truly and sincerely did Christianity permeate individual lives that converts multiplied even during these horrible persecutions.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

Organization: No matter where Paul went, he was still mindful of those that had accepted the Lord Jesus in the places where he had previously been. These babes in Christ, lambs of his pasture, needed to be cared for. He apparently felt that the best method of caring for these new converts was to have them organized, with shepherds or elders placed over them. He commissioned Titus to visit the churches, set them in order, and appoint elders. Titus 1:5.

To sufficiently maintain and carry on church work, or any of the auxiliaries of the church, organization is necessary. Discuss how your church, Sunday school, or Berean society can be better organized. When you have thoroughly examined your organic machinery, then report your findings to the proper officials and make recommendation for improvement.

Contact: Paul endeavored to keep in constant touch with all churches and isolated individuals either by letter, personal visits, or by sending someone in his stead to strengthen and confirm them in the faith once delivered to them. This is a point in Christian work that can be profitably discussed and emphasized. Always keep in touch with members of your Sunday school, your class, your church. This constant contact will create interest in and out of the class, will help to make delinquent attendants regular, and will build class attendance.

—C. E. R.

SENIOR AND ADULT CLASSES

The Missionary Work Goes on

It is evident from reading of Luke 8:1 that Jesus not only did the work that was assigned to Him, but He had the twelve with Him training them for the work that He would be forced to lay down at some future time. Jesus finished His work on the cross and in the tomb. After His triumph over death, He turned to those whom He had trained and said, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." Mark 16:15.

With this commandment always in mind, the eleven went out into the world. Peter died in Rome; Andrew in Thrace; James in Alexandria; John in Patmos; Philip in Syria; Bartholomew in Armenia; Thomas in India; Matthew in Ethiopia (Abyssinia); Simon in northern Africa or possibly in Britain. Of the rest we have nothing that even approaches a record of their labors or place of death.

We have a better record of the Apostle Paul. We know that he made several long missionary journeys and that he made provision for the work after his death. Just before he was to be offered, he sent others out to continue the work. See 2 Tim. 4:10-12.

The great commandment was meant for us of this day as much as for the eleven and Paul. This is evident from the commandment as recorded by Matthew 28:19-20. The apostles were not expected to live "unto the end of the world," hence we must be included in this commandment.

It is evident, therefore, that we must spread the gospel while we are living and also make provision for its spread after our decease. We can do this in two ways: (1) We can train others to do the work after us, (2) We can make financial provision for the work. This latter can be done in two ways: First, we can provide in a will that a certain amount of money is to be used in God's work. Second, we can buy Annuity Bonds from our National Church Organization, thereby being benefited during our life and benefiting our church after our death.

Am I doing my part in spreading the gospel now? Am I making any provision for the future? These two questions might very well be summed up under this one question: Am I a good steward?—H. A. S.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

It is a real inspiration these days to have the children all back at Sunday school, after three weeks of quarantine against all under ten. We feel as though we are getting well settled down to the winter's work.

On Thanksgiving Day the church is planning to meet for a service of worship and praise at 7 a. m. We hope in this way to draw close to our kind and loving Father, so that the day may be one of true thanksgiving and blessing to all.

What a feeling of joy filled our church on Nov. 15, when Sr. Craig and Bro. Richardson were found to be present. We pray God's tenderest blessing upon those of our number in weakened health.

F. E. Siple, Pastor.

DIXON ACTIVITIES

Services at the Dixon church have been very well attended during the past several weeks. Bro. Conner's sermons have been both instructive and inspiring. The attendance at Sunday school is good, and the young folks especially are showing a great deal of interest in their work. The committee in charge is busy preparing the Christmas program.

The Junior Berean class number 2 was entertained with a Thanksgiving party at the home of their teacher on November 19 after school. Games were played, and refreshments were served. The children made up a basket of fruit and took it to Sisters Bertie Drew and Emma Kelly before departing for their homes.

We were very pleasantly surprised to have a visit from Brothers Siple and Townsend of Grand Rapids at our Wednesday evening services. We wish these good people lived closer so they might visit us often.

Grace Drew, Sec.

THANKFUL FOR PRAYER

I am thankful you prayed for Bro. Daniels and myself. I know I felt the healing power, for I am able to do my work. I have faith that in some way the Lord will provide. I am thankful for friends and home. Pray for me again; I need a blessing so much. Oh, how it does comfort me to read Sr. Woodward's pieces in The Restitution Herald. I am thankful for the letters and cards sent me when Bro. Daniels was hurt. He is not very well now.

I want every one of God's children to know that I am thankful unto the Lord for His bountiful love and kindness to us, which endureth for ever. Give the Lord all the praise for He is worthy. I am thankful for all things, for every perfect gift comes from God. I am thankful He will observe us and answer our prayers.

Love to all,
Ada Daniels, Alma, Mich.

THANKSGIVING

"Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift."—2 Cor. 9:15.

"Giving thanks always for all things unto God and the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ."—Eph. 5:20.

"Enter into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise: be thankful unto him and bless his name."—Psalm 100:4.
Mrs. H. E. Russel, Chico, Calif.

ABUNDANCE

Dear Brethren: It is time for another Thank Offering, and I am thankful for the blessings that have been bestowed on us this year. Last year we had a terrible drouth and made nothing. But this year we have been blessed with good crops and an abundance of fruit.

Can we give God the praise that is due Him from the creature to the Creator? Will we be ready for the call when He comes back to this earth for all those who love and serve Him?

Yours in hope of life eternal,
Mrs. K. C. Humphreys and family.

FOR THE OPPORTUNITY TO SERVE

I am thankful for Jesus, our great perfect Sacrifice, who was offered upon the cross, and that if I accept Him, I may spend eternity with Him. I am thankful that I have accepted Him and am a member of the Church of God and of the National Berean Society— isolated, also that I have the work started here and my prayers are being answered. Jesus is helping me in my work. I ask the church and all readers of The Herald to pray for me.

Your sister in Christian service,
Anna D. Springer,
Lancaster, Ohio, 502 1-2 S. Columbus St.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME—

Bros. F. E. Siple and A. G. Townsend of Grand Rapids, Mich., were welcome visitors in Oregon a couple of days last week. They spent Wednesday evening with the Dixon church at their Berean meeting and Thursday evening with the Oregon folks at their prayer service.

Sr. Jessie M. Wilson surely has something for which to be thankful, as she is spending the winter again with her cousins in California. She will be glad to hear from her friends at 1700 E. 20th St., Oakland, Calif.

Dear old Sr. Seely, of 710 Brown St., Healdsburg, Calif., known to many of us by correspondence, while sending her Thank Offering and Dollar-a-Month Club dues, rejoices for her many blessings, not the least of which is The Herald. Thank you, Sr. Seely, for your gracious words.

If a shut in and a helpless cripple, such as Sr. Alice Blakesley, can find such a multitude of reasons for gratitude, surely it should not be hard for us, who are enjoying the great boon of health, to find two or three things for which we should be thankful!

Grand Rapids surely has cause for rejoicing because of the fact that the quarantine has been lifted, which kept all children under 10 away from Sunday school. Their number, during this time, was reduced over half, and the young folks and adults must have noticed quite a bit of extra elbow room.

Last week, by accident, a dozen or two Heralds of April 7 issue, which were intended for the waste basket, were picked up and mailed out with the others. Those of you who received one of these back numbers will receive the proper one, if you will drop us a card. We are thankful we have enough Heralds left to supply you.

Your associate editor appreciates deeply the many little words of helpfulness that you so thoughtfully send pertaining to The Herald, in general, and this department, in particular. Thank you, brothers and sisters. Suggestions for improvement will be just as gratefully appreciated. Remember, this is Your Page.

Bro. and Sr. F. A. Stilson have just moved into South Bend, Ind., where their address will be 411 East South Street.

At a district Sunday school convention held at Lighthouse church, near Oregon, Ill., the largest teacher training class was reported from the Church of God. The Training Class male quartette assisted with the program.

Sr. Viola Eaton Kuhns, of Stockton, Ill., fell asleep in Jesus on Nov. 21. Bro. Marsh was called to conduct the services on the 23rd, and she was laid to rest until Jesus comes. Obituary will appear in a later issue.

No doubt the Fonthill church is thankful to God for the blessings they are receiving as a result of the meetings which Bro. Sheets and Bro. Randall have been conducting. We learn that there will be several baptisms before the meetings close.

Several members of the Training Class will be out of town over the Thanksgiving holiday and following week end. Bros. Cecil Smead and Richard LeCrone expect to hold services at the Burr Oak and South Bend (Ind.) churches, respectively, Bro. Harvey Krogh acting as their efficient chauffeur. Bro. Gerald Cooper will spend the holiday with the home folks at Ripley, Ill.

How varied are our reasons for thankfulness! Sr. R. A. Robinson, Clyde, N. C., is grateful because she has been permitted, through the changing vicissitudes of life, to return to her old home, which is now occupied by her youngest daughter and family. Sr. Robinson is another of our faithful friends and contributors.

The Oregon congregation held their Thanksgiving service on Sunday, Nov. 22, receiving also at this time their annual Thank Offering, which is devoted to the building fund. The morning and evening offerings totaled $83.40. Their pastor Bro. Marsh, expects to take part in the customary union service, which is held this year at the Lutheran Church on Thanksgiving morning. A special Thanksgiving service of prayer and praise will be enjoyed in their own church in the evening.

REJOICING IN THE TRUTH

Dear Friends in Christ: I have been receiving The Restitution Herald under the direction of the new editor, and I am pleased that he begins the editorial page with prayer. Our heavenly Father we love for Himself and for His blessed dear Son, our Savior. We know that every good and perfect gift comes from Him. I know that in the trials and sorrows of life He is an everlasting comfort to His children. We can call on Him at any time or anywhere, and He will hear us as He has said in Psalm 91:15. He will be with us in trouble and will deliver us. How I love to read that chapter. We can feel His protecting love around us and by faith we need not have any fear of what will come on the world, for He will be our Refuge in the time of despair coming on the earth.

I was sorry that Bro. Austin was not able to continue the work that he loved. I enjoyed his articles on the coming kingdom when Christ would reign. I love to tell my friends of the second coming of Christ and His mission of coming to set up a kingdom on earth.

I am sending two dollars to send The Restitution Herald to someone who cannot afford it this year, hoping that someone will learn the precious truths in it, as I did by using the Bible as reference. Hoping that you, Bro. Marsh, will love the work as Bro. Austin did and continue in good health, to labor for the Master,

I remain your sister in Christ,
Mrs. Fannie S. Knight,
Sunnyvale, Calif., 354 McKinley Ave.

MY THANKSGIVING PRAYER

I thank Thee, gracious heavenly Father, for sparing my life to see another Thanksgiving Day. I thank Thee for Thy numerous blessings, as numberless as the sands of the sea, that Thou hast bestowed upon me this year and through life. I thank Thee that in my sorrows and afflictions when I would cry unto Thee, Thou didst send the Comforter, to comfort, cheer, and alleviate my afflictions.

I thank Thee that when I am in need, Thou dost always stretch forth Thy loving hand to administer help to me through Thy dear children. Oh Father, give them a special blessing this day. Truly Thou dost verify Thy precious promises in that Thou carest for Thine own.

I thank Thee, Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift, for answering my prayers, in giving good crops this year, which helped to lift some of the encumbrances from my son's home, that I may remain with him to the end of this life. I thank Thee for giving me so good a son to help care for me. I thank Thee for the hope of Thy glory and for the salvation which Thou art extending to all that will hear and accept Jesus.

Most of all I thank Thee for the gift of Thy dear Son, who gave Himself a ransom for us, that by believing on His name we should not perish, but have everlasting life. I thank Thee for hastening the time of His return to take possession of His glory, scepter, and crown, and to sit on David's throne as our King for all eternity. I thank Thee for all Thy spiritual and material blessings.

I pray Thee, Lord, to give me strength to so live that I may be worthy of all Thy blessings and may I ever prove faithful to the end. I ask it all for Jesus' sake. Amen.

Mrs. Alice V. Blakesley, a cripple and a shut-in, Rt. 1, Box 25, Sumas, Washington.

NOTICE OF ADDRESS

Correspondents may address Bro. F. L. Austin at 5439 Ohio Street, Austin Station, Chicago, Illinois.

A BRIGHT HOPE

Dear Brothers and Sisters: Just a few words for Thanksgiving. This is a bright, sunshiny day. May it continue for some time, as it will make the year shorter. The winters always seem so long if one is alone as much as I am.

May Thanksgiving make us feel that our Christ is coming to give us everlasting life. What a blessing that will be to us who have suffered. Life in perfect health will be such a blessing. This is my hope.

Mrs. Carrie E. Hilsabeck,
Madison, South Dakota.

INSTANT IN PRAYER

What a blessed privilege, dear brethren of Christ, to be instant in prayer; to pray always; to lift up our hearts and minds to God at any time and in any place, and to realize thus daily and hourly that the dear heavenly Father and His Son continually abide with us.

"To our bountiful Father above
We will offer our tribute of praise
For the glorious gift of His love,
And the blessings that hallow our days."

Mrs. Mae Mick, Warsaw, Ind.

OUR THANK OFFERING

Previously reported	$38.00
W. D. Tilton	2.00
Mrs. Diana Murphy	3.00
Jessie M. Wilson	3.00
Mrs. C. Seely	2.00
Mrs. Arra Hanson, Leota and Florence	7.00
Mrs. Kitty Humphreys	1.00
W. H. Boyer	2.00
Mrs. A. J. Chaplin	1.00
Mrs. Alice V. Blakesley	1.00
Anna E. Sleight	3.00
G. E. Coats	6.00
Lottie Young	10.00
Alice R. Young	5.00
Mr. and Mrs. G. Eldred Marsh	10.00
Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Austin	$5.00
Mattie Benjamin	8.00
Total to date	$107.00

HERALD HELPING FUND

Mrs. Fannie S. Knight	-2.00
-----------------------	-------

HERALD RECEIPTS

G. E. Coats; Mrs. Paul Maganus; J. H. Adams; W. H. Boyer; Mrs. Arthur Ward; Elizabeth M. Oakley; Mr. and Mrs. M. Fetters (for others); Mrs. Harriet E. Boice; James Browning; L. E. Conner; Mrs. Diana Murphy; Mrs. Louise McRoberts.

BLESSED ASSURANCE

"I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith."—2 Tim. 4:7.

Paul seemingly is now near the close of his career. He realizes that he has done good work, and it really has been a fight to be able to do the things he did. He has been true to his faith and kept it to the end. He gives Timothy the assurance that there is a crown laid up for him, but he is not selfish about it, as he says there is also one for all those that love the appearing of Christ.

If Paul had lived in this day he perhaps would have said, and sung,

"Blessed assurance, Jesus is mine,
Oh what a foretaste of glory divine!"

May it be the happy lot of each one of us to be able to feel that our lives have been acceptable with God and that we, too, can say with Paul, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, hence there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness which the righteous Judge will give me and others who love His appearing."—L. A. R.

CONTRIBUTORS TO DOLLAR-A-MONTH CLUB

Chas. Lapp; Etta S. Elton; Elnora Waldo; Jessie M. Wilson; L. E. Conner; Mary A. Gesin; Paul C. Johnson; Arlen Marsh; Mrs. C. Seely; Pearl Zechiel; Mrs. Harriet E. Boice; Loren L. Burnett; Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Bell; M. A. Woodward; Mrs. Gladys French; Fannie LeCrone; Mr. and Mrs. John E. Miller; Mrs. M. Shea; Ellison Shea; Mrs. Sarah Emms; Ella M. Siple; Ruchie Alexander; Ida Jeffrey; Marian R. Richards; Mrs. Mae Mick; Mrs. Minnie Kerr.

FINLEY SNELL

Mr. Finley Snell, respected citizen of Eden Valley, Minn., was born on Nov. 13, 1865, at Newton, Iowa. He died on Nov. 10, 1931, at Eden Valley.

During childhood Mr. Snell came to Eden Valley, where he has lived ever since. On Sept. 27, 1893, he was happily united in holy wedlock with Miss Mary Elizabeth Wendroth. Mr. Snell was a man of sterling qualities, well liked and respected by all who knew him and greatly loved by those of his own family.

He leaves to mourn his passing, his faithful wife, Mary; their seven children, Arthur, Ethel (now Mrs. Pechan), Chester, Mable, Walter, Hazel (now Mrs. Marsh), and Pearl; seven grandchildren; and hosts of friends. May God grant comfort and blessing to all.
John Denchfield.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

Published by
National Bible Institution
Oregon, Illinois

Subscription Rates.—51 issues per annum, $2.00; 6 months. $1.00; 3 months, 50 cents. Sample copy, Free.

Receipts.—The change of date on your address label is your receipt. If date is not changed in two weeks after payment of subscription, please notify this office.

Change of Address.—When ordering change of address be sure to send us both old and new addresses.

The RESTITUTION HERALD advocates: the near return of Christ, Acts 1:11, and life only through Him, Col. 3:3; the literal resurrection of the dead, John 5:28; the immortalization of those in Christ, 1 Cor. 15:53, 54; the final restoration of Israel as the kingdom of God under the kingship of Christ, Luke 1:32, the church to be joint heirs with Him, Rom. 8:17, and Israel to be made head over Gentile nations, Isa. 60:13; the "restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began", Acts 3:21. It also firmly advocates repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, Acts 2:38, and a consecrated life as essential to salvation.

ANNUITY BONDS

There is no better way to preserve one's capital for use during life and at the same time dedicate it to the Master's use after one's death than by a National Bible Institution Annuity Bond.

Write NATIONAL BIBLE INSTITUTION, Oregon, Illinois, for information.

Any Amount - Much or Little

WHY WE ARE THANKFUL

"For in death there is no remembrance of thee, in the grave who shall give thee thanks?"—Psalm 6:5.

HERE we find we must be possessed of life to be able to be thankful. The Word of God tells us that He is the Fountain or Source of life. Therefore we should first be thankful for God the Giver of life.

Even in these days of depression and trouble into which the whole human race has been plunged, there is an abundance of things which should be the source of thankfulness, if we would for a few moments lay aside our mournful attitude and look for them. Most of us too lightly appreciate the blessing of the health we have. Let us look about us and we find many who are crippled and diseased with various ailments and unable, as are we, to go through life free from pain and to enjoy the many blessings that are the common lot of humanity. We too often accept these things as a matter of course and coming to us, but they are all unmerited favors of God and should be properly appreciated as such.

Again, we who have comfortable homes, sufficient food and clothing and a few true friends have cause for much thanksgiving and gratitude to the Giver of every good and perfect gift. If we recall the conditions of life just a couple of generations past, when our forefathers endured privations unthinkable even to the poorer classes of the race today, it should make us ashamed of ourselves for grumbling and complaining about our present lot in life. Surely, so far as our temporal blessings are concerned the lot of most of us has been cast in pleasant places.

But above and far beyond the mercies that the natural man yearns for and enjoys are the blessings that have become ours who have come to know God and His gracious Son Jesus Christ. The joys and blessings of the natural man are at most our portion for a few years; then they decay and perish. But the blessing that comes to us from the knowledge of that which was accomplished when Jesus died, the Just for the unjust on the tree at Calvary, is a blessing that will endure through eternity.

When we honestly make a comparison between ourselves and the rank and file of the human race that know not God, we can find but little difference so far as humanity is concerned. Yet the honor that God has bestowed upon us by taking us into His confidence and revealing some of the deep things of His plans and purposes that He is now working out, and to a greater extent will work out in the coming age through His Son as Prince of Peace, is and should be the source of the very deepest gratitude and thanksgiving.

Again, the thought that He has so highly honored us as to call us His sons, with the promise of joint heirship with His great Son Jesus, and the unspeakable privilege of being a sharer in the dispensation of His providences in the coming age, are so stupendous that they should fill us with worship, adoration, and praise. "O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how un-searchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out."—Romans 11:33.

Therefore, when the inclination comes to feel depressed mentally and cast down by uncomfortable conditions surrounding us that sometimes affect us personally, let us instead obey the admonition of the Word to lift up our heads and rejoice, because these things are the evidences that our redemption draweth nigh. Therefore in all things give thanks. Ephesians 5:20.

Yours in that Blessed Hope,

J. W. Macallister.

Willow Grove, Pennsylvania.

A THANK OFFERING

By Paul M. Hatch

THE word, Thanksgiving, expresses somehow a depth of meaning. Outside of the ordinary thought of giving thanks to the Great Guide and Maker, it suggests heartfelt peace, tranquillity, good will and confidence. On these four our thoughts are tendered.

A peace is ours. Peace, not only that we have experienced from our neighbors, but an inborn desire to have them peaceful—such has been our lot during the past. Taking the step toward peace has encouraged our neighbors to be peaceful. For this our thanks ascend toward the Almighty.

Close on the heels of peace comes tranquillity. Tranquil minds never build up barriers of suspicion, suspense or opposition to their fellow men. It is one of the great virtues of Christian ladies and gentlemen. For this (our lot) we are thankful.

Good will follows next in line. It is a back-flow of the former two. When we have good will toward our fellow men, it means we are going to help them as far as our humble capacities will permit. God's good will to men knows no ebb. Only as men will not accept that good will do they suffer. Cultivation toward accepting God's good will works in us a Christian attribute of good will. Thus we benefit our neighbors as well as ourselves. This cultivation has partially been ours. We are thankful.

After experiencing the above three, confidence then begins its work—confidence in God; confidence in our fellow men; confidence in ourselves. These three faiths thus girdle us in a defence more impregnable than stone or steel. It also breaks down the opposing wall of fear, dread, suspicion, and ill will.

So many of us look on the material blessing as the only thing to be thankful for. We wholly neglect the spiritual blessing that is awaiting. Thus when we receive the rebuff our hearts are cast down, until we observe that it was a means after all to open our eyes to the friend awaiting to do his kindness. Ponder the spiritual blessing. It is a lasting Comforter. It surpasses all others. Let us be thankful. Thanks be to God,

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, DECEMBER 1, 1931

NUMBER 9

DANIEL, THE SEER

By Norman John McLeod

AN INVESTIGATION OF HIS VISIONS FROM THE POINT OF VIEW OF A HISTORIAN

MY wish in this investigation is not to depart from traditional interpretation just for the sake of being different, or just for the sake of being startlingly new, but to examine anew our old ideas to see if they are correct, and to learn what we can that will be of value to us in our Christian walk. My views, I do not pretend, are infallible: infallibility belongs to God and Christ only. I ask, then, that you consider them in tolerance and humility, knowing that all human interpretation may be faulty.

I believe further that it is not essential that we understand all prophecies, and that, therefore, we may study them for interest and inspiration in these troublous times. For they may give us hope in dark hours, as they did those to whom they were first given. "Charity never faileth: but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away. For we know in part, and we prophesy in part."—1 Cor. 13:8, 9.

MORE than almost any writer of the Old Testament Daniel used symbolism. He stands out as a great interpreter of dreams, both his own and of others. He was "the seer." Why did Daniel interpret dreams? Was it for the benefit of heathen kings, as would appear at first thought, or was it for others?

God would not wish merely to deal with a pagan ruler who denied Him at almost every turn. Even the Persian kings did not give freedom to the Israelites out of the goodness of their hearts, but for political reasons. Or, if we can think of God as dealing with them, it was merely to teach a lesson to His people—"the remnant."

The faithful of Israel needed to be encouraged through the period of their trials "till the Seed should come." The prophets, without exception almost, dealt at great length on the coming of Jesus, the Messiah. Daniel did not differ from the others: his prophecy is concerned with the events till the first coming, dealing as did Isaiah with the second coming in a sort of rhapsodic.

Why did God send dreams to various prophets? Why did He not say that certain things were going to happen? Was it merely to "befuddle" them and us? Or was it, as some think, so that only the zealous would search the thing out? I think not. Let us examine the conditions under which "visions" in most cases were given.

FIRST, "visions" and "dreams" were usually given to people who were in political disrepute. Daniel was in captivity to cruel kings; John, the Revelator, was in exile under more dangerous conditions. To have predicted the overthrow of those governments, unless very carefully done as in the case of Belshazzar, would have meant sudden death to the "dreamer." Or, if you say that those men did not fear death, let us notice another point.

Second, who was to profit by those interpretations? The faithful Jewish remnant! If they were found with a document in their possession which in plain words told of the overthrow of a definite government, they could easily be convicted of treason! God did not wish to add to the difficulties of His elect. "Dreams" and "visions" were, therefore, the rule. Daniel's interpretations are not much more clear than the dreams; they are rather enigmatical to say the least. Critics are rather of the opinion that Daniel's dreams, as also the Revelation of John, originally had keys to them that have been lost. So people in earlier times knew what we can only surmise. Let us delve into Daniel's visions.

THE first idea I wish to express may be new to some of you: Daniel's visions and interpretations for the most part cover the same events in each case. The image which Nebuchadnezzar saw, the four beasts of chapter seven, the ram and the he goat of chapter eight, and the "direct" state-

Continued on page 135

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

"Thou shalt be visited by the Lord of hosts with thunder, and with earthquake, and great noise, with storm and tempest, and the flame of devouring fire."—Isa. 29:6.

THE EDITOR'S PRAYER

MOST RIGHTEOUS GOD AND HEAVENLY FATHER: We watch with deepest interest the bewildering events occurring throughout the world. Were it not for the light of Thy prophetic Word, O God, we could find neither purpose nor meaning in them. Unto Thee, who art able to see the end from the beginning, we pray in the name of Thy Son our Lord, give unto us hearts of understanding, that we may more fully realize that the hand of God, our God, is now at work among the nations! Amen.

PERILOUS TIMES!

THIS know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come," warns the Apostle to the Gentiles. And that warning was meant for us who live in the period of which he writes. For "perilous" from every standpoint are the conditions confronting the world today. They are dangerous, hazardous, and threatening. Uncertainty agitates the minds of thinking men throughout the earth, in every stratum of society. As they ponder over them and speculate on the possible outcome of it all, they are filled with foreboding and dread.

Civilization is being weighed in the balances of history—and is found wanting. The cultural order humanity has known for the past two thousand years seems doomed to extinction. The institutions that civilization has developed, religious, social, economic, and political, are apparently destined to go down with it.

But what more could we expect? Six thousand years of sin could produce nothing in its final accomplishments other than "a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation even to that same time."—Daniel 12:1. Six millenniums of rebellion against the God of heaven could result in nothing less than "great tribulation, such as was not since the beginning of the world to this time."

We were warned, repeatedly warned by apostle and prophet, that "evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving, and being deceived."—2 Tim. 3:13. And now it is all coming to pass! Inspired men had assured us that false teachers, claiming to be ambassadors of Christ, should "bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them."—2 Peter 2:1. This, too, is happening today.

With conditions like this prevailing in the church of God, it is not surprising that beyond the pale of spiritual influence iniquity should abound in its blackest and most dreadful forms!

When the restraining power of the Spirit of God is being rapidly withdrawn—that power that has been manifested through the disciples of Christ from the beginning of the Christian era—it is not strange that conditions are developing which approximate in sinfulness those which prevailed before the flood, when "God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually."—Genesis 6:5.

HARD TIMES!

VARIOUS renderings of the original text but serve to emphasize the seriousness of the position in which the nations of men find themselves today.

"In latter days trying times shall come," is the assertion of the Diaglott. "In the last days grievous times shall come," is the expression of the American Revised Version. The Twentieth Century New Testament employs the term difficult—"Be sure of this, that in the last days difficult times will come."

"Perilous", "trying", "grievous", and "difficult", are the terms used by these translators to express the thought of the direful conditions which were to prevail in "the last days", and which are prevailing today.

More emphatic and forceful perhaps than all the others, however, is the rendering of Moffatt's version, which drives the truth deep into our consciousness with the decisiveness of hammer-blows!

"Mark this, there are hard times coming in the last days!" These words have a familiar ring in our ears. They speak a language we all can understand. We have no need to question the meaning of them. We know what hard times are, for we are experiencing them for ourselves! We require no historian and no linguist to help us to comprehend these simple words. We know their significance all too well!

When expressed in terms of our own individual experience it is not hard for us to realize that we are indeed living in "the last days" that mark "the beginning of the end" of the age-long night of human woe!

“THEREFORE WILL NOT WE FEAR”

By Samuel E. Haney

“And Moses said unto the people, Fear ye not, stand still, and see the salvation of the Lord, which he will shew to you to day: for the Egyptians whom ye have seen to day, ye shall see them again no more for ever.”

WHAT poor, weak-kneed, spineless creatures Israel proved to be under this crucial test! The record of Israel's four hundred thirty years sojourning in Egypt, and the many concomitant events leading up to their “passage on dry ground through the Red sea” should be carefully studied and well pondered by Christians in these closing days; for the antitype of fleshly Israel's experience is now conspicuously replete.

To accomplish a specific purpose God purposely hardened the hearts of Pharaoh and the Egyptians, that He “be honoured (‘get me honor’, R. V.) upon Pharaoh, and upon all his host; that the Egyptians may know that I am the Lord. And they did so.” Verse 4. This was achieved, “Let us flee from the face of Israel: for the Lord fighteth for them against the Egyptians”. Verse 25.

Notwithstanding Israel's generations of bondage, God's plagues, the slaying of the firstborn and their leader Moses' miraculous intervention—all in their behalf—they became panic stricken; for “when Pharaoh drew nigh, the children of Israel lifted up their eyes, and, behold, the Egyptians marched after them; and they were sore afraid: and the children of Israel cried out unto the Lord.” Verse 10.

Then they reviled their God-appointed leader, Moses, “Because there were no graves in Egypt, hast thou taken us away to die in the wilderness? wherefore hast thou dealt thus with us, to carry us forth from out of Egypt?” Verse 11.

They also regretfully reminded Moses how they had remonstrated about leaving Egypt, “Is not this the word that we did tell thee in Egypt, saying, Let us alone, that we may serve the Egyptians? For it had been better for us to serve the Egyptians, than that we should die in the wilderness”. Verse 12.

Then Moses—the type of our Leader, Jesus Christ—calmed his subjects by saying, “Fear not, stand still, and see the salvation of the Lord, which he will shew to you to day: for the Egyptians whom ye have seen today, ye shall see them again no more for ever. The Lord shall fight for you, and ye shall hold your peace.” Verses 13, 14.

What Egypt was to fleshly Israel, Babylon is to spiritual Israel. Of the latter, many of them who, during recent years became enslaved in modern Egypt (Babylon), and later having been rescued by a greater than Moses, Jesus Christ, are now imitating their prototype, the Jew, by mentally expostulating with their Leader for having taken them out of Babylon. Isaiah refers to them thus, “Woe to them that go down to Egypt for help; and stay on horses, and trust in chariots, because they are many; and in horsemen, because they are very strong: but they look not unto the Holy One of Israel, neither seek the Lord”.—Isa. 31:1.

These poor, deluded wavering ones either intelligently condone, or are blissfully oblivious of their former taskmaster's tyranny. And also in like manner are sacrificing the peace they once enjoyed through the Spirit of God's august presence in their hearts and lives. They prefer trusting in the “might and power” of man to that of the Eternal One, as it is written in Zechariah 4:6. And during their period of spiritual deterioration, the presence of spiritual Israel, both as individuals and assemblies, is becoming more and more obnoxious to modern Pharaoh, the god of this world and his subjects.

But when Daniel's “time of trouble” is no longer divinely held in check (Rev. 7:1-3) they will come to esteem the true Israelite's importance in their midst (Matt. 5:13), and will strive to have them return, only to discover to their discomfiture that the Lord had miraculously taken them to Himself; and to find themselves entrapped in the midst of God's fiery wrath—their doom, for “ye shall see them again no more for ever”.

Having briefly considered Moses' exhibition of unwavering faith and fortitude, we shall now turn to an event in the life of David that in the matter of faith, and all that that implies, is not dissimilar to the above: “And all this assembly shall know that the Lord saveth not with sword and spear: for the battle is the Lord's, and he will give you into our hands”.—1 Samuel 17:47.

The Christian, giving this chapter an honest perusal, will discover inspiration for phlegmatic souls. Verse four describes Goliath's stature; verses five to seven, his armor; verse ten, his challenge; verses eleven and twenty-four tell of Saul and all Israel being dismayed and greatly afraid—how they fled from the great Philistine. In verse thirty-two David contends the challenger. In verse thirty-three Saul tries to discourage David. In verses thirty-eight and forty David refused an armor, preferring five smooth stones and his sling. In verses forty-five and forty-six he explains the difference in their mode of fighting and portends the outcome thus, “Then said David to the Philistine, Thou cometh to me with a sword, and with a spear, and with a shield: but I come to thee in the name of the Lord of hosts, the God of the armies of Israel, whom thou hast defied. This day will the Lord deliver thee into mine hand; and I will smite thee, and take thine head from thee; and I will give the carcass of the host of the Philistines this day unto the fowls of the air, and to the wild beasts of the earth; that all the earth may know that there is a God in Israel.”

The preliminary remarks of these antagonists bespeak volumes for the Christian's reflection—“Come to me, and I will give thy flesh unto the fowls of the air,” Goliath.

“I come to thee in the name of the Lord, and I will smite thee, and take thine head from thee”, David. We

Continued on page 138

MY TIMES ARE IN THY HAND

My times are in Thy hand, O Lord;
 Whatever ill betide,
 I lean upon Thy sacred Word,
 And trustingly abide.

The griefs I bear are hidden joys;
 The sorrows I endure
 Are but the means that God employs
 To make my soul more pure.

The darkest clouds that veil my sky
 Are fringed with sovereign grace;
 That darkness ne'er can dim His eye,
 Nor hide from me His face.

Be still, my soul! Doubt not His love!
 Nor past nor present things,
 Nor life, nor death shall ever move
 That hand that to thee clings.

My days and years in His great hand
 Are safe forever more,
 Firm as the eternal hills that stand
 Rock-roofed as of yore.
 —George Whitman.

---

FALSE PROPHETS

By C. E. Randall

“But there were false prophets also among the people, even as there shall be false teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them, and bring upon themselves swift destruction.”—2 Peter 2:1.

A NOTE of warning is sounded by the Apostle in this epistle to all Christian people. He cites past conditions as an example of coming apostasy.

In reviewing the false prophets of Israel's day we discover several important things. First, The false prophets prophesied lies in God's name. Second, The people loved to hear and have these false prophets speak to them. Third, God sent them not, neither did He command them or speak unto them.

“A wonderful and horrible thing is committed in the land; the prophets prophesy falsely, and the priests bear rule by their means; and my people love to have it so: and what will ye do in the end thereof?” “The prophets prophesy lies in my name; I sent them not, neither have I commanded them, neither spake unto them: they prophesy unto you a false vision and divination, and a thing of nought, and the deceit of their heart. Therefore thus saith the Lord concerning the prophets that prophesy in my name, I sent them not, yet they say, Sword and famine shall not be in this land; By sword and famine shall those prophets be consumed.”—Jer. 5:30, 31; 14:14, 15.

This same lamentable condition, which separated Israel from God and became a blot on their national life and character, is to prevail among Gentile people during the last days. Paul in his first letter to Timothy says: “NOW the Spirit speaketh expressly, that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils.”—1 Tim. 4:1. God has in many different places in the Scriptures and through several writers warned us of this apostate condition and the result of giving heed to destructive heresies, which bring destruction to those who teach them and also to those who embrace or receive such teachings. “And through covetousness shall they with feigned words make merchandise of you.”

Peter, in 2 Peter 2:2, tells us that many are going to follow their pernicious ways and that by them the way of truth shall be evil spoken of. The penalty for such deceitful handling of the Scriptures is set forth in no uncertain language. It is a very grave sin to speak of or treat the Word of God lightly.

It seems that the majority of mankind of the present time are like the Athenians concerning which we read: “For all the Athenians and strangers which were there spent their time in nothing else, but either to tell, or to hear some new thing.”—Acts 17:21. It would be far better for the members of the church of today if they would pay more attention to the “traditions of Scripture” than to the new things of an evil age. (2 Thess. 3:6.)

If false prophets are to appear during the latter times as the Word has so clearly stated, what should be the attitude of the Christian regarding the various things that are taught and the teachers that teach those unscriptural doctrines? To this question we can find a very definite answer in 1 John 4:1: “Beloved, believe not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they are of God: because many false prophets are gone out into the world.” We must be alert lest we be carried away by those that speak “great swelling words, having men's persons in admiration because of advantage.”—Jude 16. Paul has admonished us well in 1 Thessalonians 5:21: “Prove all things; hold fast that which is good.”

While every precaution should be taken against these teachers who are subverting many souls through the wresting and twisting of the Scriptures, yet there is another condition that is quite prevalent and which is very dangerous in its character—that of accusing every one that disagrees or interprets the Word somewhat differently of being a “false prophet”. It is very easy to go beyond Scriptural authority in this respect, and instead of proving all things, sit as a judge and pass judgment before the time. It is the middle ground between these two extremes—false prophets and unauthorized judges—where we should find our abiding place and there show forth the wisdom of God and the truth that is in Christ Jesus.

ROBBERS A PLENTY

By C. E. Lapp

Not twenty miles distant from our home town of Oregon, there occurred a bank robbery during the last few weeks. Several bandits entered the bank and were relieving the employees of the bank's money, when a young lady entered carrying a small bag full of cash. The situation so startled her that she ran to the street screaming. Immediately the robbers took their leave, and the bank was saved with only a small loss.

What a terrible condition exists today! Everything that we have must be kept under lock or key, or covered by insurance for safe keeping. Very few people like thieves, and yet how many are robbers!

In Malachi 3:8, the Lord spoke to His chosen people and told them that from the time of their fathers they had turned away from His ordinances, and they had failed to keep them as He had commanded. Because of their sin and disobedience, God had turned away from them. But He came to them and said, "If ye will return unto me, I will return unto you."

They inquired of the Lord how they were to return to Him, and He asked the question: "Will a man rob God?" He continued by saying they had robbed Him in tithes and offerings, and because of that robbery the whole nation had been brought under a curse, and pestilence ravished the land.

Then the Lord told them to bring all their tithes into the storehouse and prove Him if He would not open the windows of heaven and pour out such a blessing that there would not be room to receive it. He had commanded them before to give a tenth, and they had failed to bring it into God's great granary. He also said that the destroyer of their crops should be taken away, and the fruits of the land would come forth in the proper season. Some of the people who feared the Lord turned to Him and were greatly blessed. As a reward they were to be remembered in the day when He would make up His jewels.

Very, very few of us today would appreciate being called robbers, but if we would only take inventory of what God gives us, and then see how much we return to Him in tithes and offerings we would, in all fairness and justice, be compelled to admit that we are robbing our Creator.

Tithing is just a systematic way of giving a little for a great cause. The great Woolworth building of New York and the Wrigley building of Chicago are good examples of what small, steady incomes will do. The person who gives a tithe to the Lord, whether it is a dime or a dollar, knows from experience that God will and does supply every temporal need with many, many blessings. Not only the needs of everyday life are provided for, but we also find that the tither is drawn nearer to the Father of all gifts.

The question is: Are we going to rob God of His tenth, or return it and receive the great blessings that He has in store for us?

"AND BEHOLD I AM WITH THEE"

By Elizabeth Louise May

WHAT a glorious promise was this to Jacob: "Behold, I am with thee, and will keep thee in all places whither thou goest, and will bring thee again into this land; for I will not leave thee, until I have done that which I have spoken to thee of." Genesis 28:15.

Some of us perhaps have grown weary of this world's burdens, some of which seem most grievous; and we fret away our vitality, growing week-kneed and spineless—that feeling which causes us to sit down with rounded shoulders; that feeling of utter loss of hope or ambition

Hope, the anchor of the soul, ambition, faith, love, energy, power, strength, all these are to us given, IF we have faith to believe that God is a God whose promises are fulfilled in abundance unnumbered, if we do but put out our hands and grasp them with firm conviction within our inward heart.

God is faithful to us: He expects us to be faithful to Him. Where? As witnesses in our own special environment first, which I consider begins within our own house. Parents who are already seeing signs of deterioration in the moral fibre of their own children, how it grieves them! Silently they look on as this laxity increases. How long is it since you gave up the reading of your Bibles? Did you ever read together a few verses each morning and evening, each child, if capable, reading in turn a verse? Try it! As a personal experience, never will I forget the moment when, as a small child, Mother said one morning: "My dear! Tomorrow you may read with us. Take your Bible and pencil and tick off the verses which you are to read; be ready, do not stumble; we read God's Word, remember we must do our best." Thus, with a thrill of vibration running up and down my spine, I was initiated.

Have you ever experienced these vibratory thrills? If so, you will recognize them as pertaining to a spiritual force within you—something added to you that expands, revivifies, and strengthens you so wonderfully that you throb with anticipation for a return. It was to me a force to progress along the lines of study.

"And Jacob rose up early in the morning, and took the stone that he had put for his pillows, and set it up for a pillar, and poured oil on the top of it. And he called the name of that place Bethel: but the name of that city was called Luz at first. And Jacob vowed a vow, saying, If God will be with me, and will keep me in the way that I go, and will give me bread to eat, and raiment to put on, so that I come again to my father's house in peace; then shall the Lord be my God: and this stone, which I have set up for a pillar, shall be God's house; and of all that thou shalt give me I will surely give the tenth unto thee."—Genesis 28:18-22.

"As one light lighteth another, nor grows less,
So nobleness kindles nobleness."

WHY DOES GOD PERMIT EVIL?

By George B. Alldridge

*"I form light, and create darkness; I make peace, and create evil. I the Lord do all these things."—
Isaiah 45:7.*

RECENTLY upon the front page of The Plain Dealer, I read, "Tilby Smith, Wife Killer, Executed". My sympathy goes out to this young man. I recall the terrible event which happened on the night of May 29, 1930. His paramour, who assisted him in this awful crime, now in prison at Wooster, apparently is headed for the same fate.

The thing grips one intently; I cannot shake it off. So I open my Bible for solace, and try if I can to find some hope in the future for these two young people. The antecedents, education and early environments of both, were at all times leading in the direction which culminates in the electric chair.

The judgment of God visited upon sin is terrible. First then I read, "And the Lord said unto Moses, whosoever hath sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book."—Exodus 32:33.

Again, when but few men were upon the earth, "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed: for in the image of God made he man."—Gen. 9:6.

Some reader may say, "You are quoting from the Old Testament." Well, I will quote from the New, and I find the language is still more decisive. "Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer: and ye know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him."—1 John 3:15.

Almost the last words we read in God's Word, "For without are dogs, and sorcerers, and whoremongers, and murderers, and idolaters, and whosoever loveth and maketh a lie."—Rev. 22:15.

Massive volumes have been written by the world's greatest minds upon this question. In common with all observant minds, I recognize evil exists, sometimes in the nature of calamities of many and varied descriptions, storms, earthquakes, conflagrations, disease, plagues, famines, wars, etc.; moral evil, which one word expresses, sin. This is the greatest of all, and the hardest to overcome.

Science is rapidly discovering methods to overcome many evils under the head of calamities. But sin! Ah, who can overcome it? I read John 1:29: "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world." Yes, but sin is still here and more rampant than ever. God's Word is a rich and exhaustless mine, and so, brethren, let us keep on digging. Well, here is a rich vein in Hebrews 9:26: "But now once in the end of the world hath he appeared to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself."

"Well," someone is saying, "that was for Himself." Yes, that is true; let us read Hebrews 9:12. "Neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by his own blood he entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us."

This is fine; the ore is getting richer the farther we dig. So let us read 1 John 2:2: "And he is the propitiation (atonement) for our sins: and not for ours only, but also for the whole world."

Brethren, the more we love Jesus, the more we love our fellows. I wish with all my heart that it may be so. Will this at some time include Tilby Smith and his paramour?

I recall the teachings of the old school of theologians. Painfully my mind reviews the trial of Michael Servetus in the year 1553, by John Calvin and his associates at Geneva. Because he would not subscribe to their tri-personality view of the Godhead, and the natural immortality of the soul, they sentenced him to be burned alive by a slow fire, as the Indians did Colonel Crawford at Upper Sandusky, Ohio. For one whole hour he suffered before he died. Beloved, I am glad and thankful that I am living today instead of in the year 1553.

Every student of history knows of Servetus' passionate devotion to the person of Christ and his faithfulness in presenting the truth of the Scriptures. And yet, because they judged him to be heretic, he is suffering eternal torment and agony. Bobbie Burns was right when he declared, "Man's inhumanity to man, makes countless thousands mourn."

Is God the Author of all this? God forbid! God is love; He is just; in Him dwelleth "no darkness at all." Then why all this evil? Sin is the answer, and, dear brethren, do you know that it has always been God's purpose and plan to make us as Himself? Let me make another statement. Of all the sentient creatures God has created, not one among them except man, knows good from evil. Morally, I mean, of course.

"And the Lord God said, Behold, the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil."—Gen. 3:22. What was the tempter's suggestion? "And the serpent said unto the woman, Ye shall not surely die: for God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil."—Gen. 3:5. To acquire this knowledge meant—Death.

David says, Psalm 82:6, 7, "I have said, Ye are gods; and all of you are children of the most High. But ye shall die like men, and fall like one of the princes."

Did Jesus confirm this? He surely did! Read John 10:33-36. Now, brethren, follow me very closely. Jesus claimed to be the Son of God. Hence then He must have been as God. He always claimed God to be His Father. A son is like his father. Now, what sign did God promise that should reveal His Son? Here it is in Isaiah 7:14-16. We can all quote verse 14, but usually we are silent regarding verse 15. So I will quote, "Butter and honey shall he eat, that he may know to refuse the evil, and choose the good." You and I become like God as we learn to "refuse the evil and choose the good."

Someone may say, "Brother, are you sure you are right in this?" Just as surely as I know I am alive. Listen to this: "But unto the Son he saith, Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever: a sceptre of righteousness is the ments of chapters nine to twelve are about the same period. And the "little horn" of chapter seven is the same as in chapter eight. If that be the case, some other concepts must be changed.

Continued on page 138

DANIEL, THE SEER

(Continued from front page)

A cursory study of chapter eight will show beyond a reasonable doubt what its elements are. We are told distinctly that the ram represents the Medo-Persian Empire, and the he goat, the Macedonian Empire. The four horns, that grew up in place of the one "notable" horn of the "he goat" which was Alexander, were the latter's four generals: Seleucus, who took Syria; Ptolemy, who took Egypt; Cassander, who took Macedonia; and Lysimachus, who took Thrace. Out of Seleucus' family came the "little horn"—Antiochus Epiphanes. These facts so well established no student of authority disputes. But now comes the "little horn" of chapter seven.

If the "little horn" of chapter seven is the same as that in chapter eight, then we must revise all the traditional interpretation of the other visions. (I believe they are the same.) If they are, then the fourth beast of chapter seven and the legs of the image in chapter two do not represent Rome, but Macedonia. Let us see.

DANIEL says, 2:19, "And after thee (Nebuchadnezzar) shall arise another kingdom inferior to thee. . . ." Most people say that this "inferior" kingdom is Persia—an idea which is not in accordance with the facts. The kingdom of Persia was in no sense inferior to Babylon: it covered more territory by almost three times; was far better organized by improved communications; had a much longer history, Babylon lasting only about 66 years (605—539 B. C.), while Persia, 212 years (550—338 B. C.); and in every other way was superior to Babylon.

According to this interpretation—which, by the way, is the oldest one—the head of the image and the lion were Babylon; the arms and breast of the image and the bear were Media; the belly and thighs of the image and the leopard were Persia; and the legs of the image and the unnamed animal were Macedonia.

The feet and the toes of the image fits the period following the time of Alexander far better than it does the late Roman Empire. Only after a long period was the Roman Empire divided into parts by Diocletian, an idea commonly supposed to be represented by the two legs. But almost immediately was Alexander's empire divided into two main parts: Egypt under the Ptolemies, and Syria under the Seleucids. The iron of Egypt and the clay of Syria did not mix.

The ten toes of the image and the ten horns of the fourth beast are much easier to identify in the Post-Alexandrian Period than they are in the late Roman Empire. When the Barbarian Invasions of the fifth century began, there were more than ten parts to the old Roman Empire and still are; but ten rulers ruled Alexander's dominions: (1) Seleucus Nicator; (2) Antiochus Soter; (3) Antiochus Theos; (4) Seleucus Callimicus; (5) Seleucus Cerannus; (6) Antiochus Magnus; (7) Seleucus Philopater; (8) Heliodorus; (9) Demetrius; (10) Ptolemy Philometer. And the little horn that uprooted three—Antiochus Epiphanes—who overthrew the last three of the above list.

WE SEE in Daniel 8:14, a thing which fits in so neatly that all other theories do not fit nearly so well. Antiochus Epiphanes displaced the high priest, Onias III, and had him brutally murdered in 171 B. C. Then began a reign of terror which lasted just 2300 days to December 25, 165 B. C.

The temple was desecrated by the erection of a statue of Jupiter in the sanctuary; all sacrifices were prohibited; circumcision was interdicted; the law was forbidden to be read; the priests were made more or less willing devotees of paganism. Jewish youths were taken from their parents and trained to take part in the athletic worship of Hercules; and all Antiochus' subjects were required to worship him, as is the manner of oriental kings. Suddenly on December 25, 165 B. C., the Maccabees succeeded in purifying the Temple, just 2300 days after it was desecrated. The next year early the wicked king was succeeded by his son. Such was the career of the "little horn."

Some points of great difficulty have not been touched upon. On many of these I have not formed an opinion. Nor do I feel that is at all necessary. None of the views which are held about these things are immune from attack: there are serious flaws in all. One of the most serious here is the four-headed character of the Persian leopard. Let us see what lessons, then, may be gathered from Daniel.

WHEN Daniel gave his public interpretation of Nebuchadnezzar's dream, the Hebrews in captivity could look forward to a day not far distant when they would be free from the Babylonian yoke. Similar comfort would come to later generations that the Medes, Persians, and Macedonians would also pass. The people of later oppressions could say: "Even this shall pass away." And beyond that they could see, according to Daniel's other visions such as his "seventy weeks", that the Redeemer so long looked for was coming soon. And, with us, they could look even beyond this "vale of tears" to the time when that Greater King will come again. Simeon, Anna, and others knew from the study of Daniel when to look for the Messiah, and saw in the baby Jesus, "the hope of Israel."

Let us say with Nebuchadnezzar: "How great are his signs! and how mighty are his wonders! his kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and his dominion is from generation to generation." Daniel 4:3. And with Daniel let us look forward to the day when the God of heaven shall "set up a kingdom, which shall never be destroyed: and the kingdom shall not be left to other people; but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand for ever." Daniel 2:44.

—o—

IN AN atmosphere in which God is dishonored, be it home, state, or nation, sin is enthroned.—S. E. H.

IMMANUEL'S LAND

The sands of time are sinking,
 The dawn of heaven breaks,
 The summer months we've sighed for,
 The fair, sweet morn awakes.
 Dark, dark has been the midnight,
 But dayspring is at hand;
 And glory, glory dwelleth
 In Immanuel's land.

The signs in heaven thicken,
 The nations are distressed,
 Men's hearts for fear are failing—
 The ocean cannot rest.
 But amid the foaming billows,
 And wrecks upon the strand,
 We hail the glory dawning
 In Immanuel's land.

Old Babylon has fallen,
 With Medo-Persia's throne;
 The Grecian horn is broken,
 And Rome is almost gone.
 But another King is coming,
 With His bright, angelic band,
 To take the throne of David
 In Immanuel's land.

A land of milk and honey,
 Where all is bright and fair;
 And naught unclean or hateful
 Can ever enter there.
 Lord, hasten Thine appearing,
 And on Mount Zion stand,
 And reign in all Thy glory
 In Immanuel's land.—Selected.

THE IDENTITY OF THE GALILEANS

IF the Galileans were not Jews by race, the next question that arises must be, "To what race did they belong?" It is obvious that they were Hebrews of the stock of Israel, because it would have been contrary to all prophetic thought for Christ to have chosen His disciples from any source other than that of Israel. They were therefore Israelites, but not Judah Israelites.

Numbers of the kingdom of Israel were deported to Assyria and Media in the eighth century B. C. It is clear that the Galileans, though Israelites, were not actually members of the northern kingdom. There remains, therefore, for consideration the tribe of Benjamin, which, by elimination, affords the only possible solution. It is true that the gospels do not actually claim the Benjamite tribeship of the Galileans, but by inference and deduction it will be seen that there is no other alternative, in view of the general trend of prophecy and of its fulfillment. But if the Bible does not actually state this fact, there are, however, certain links in the chain of prophetic evidence which can have no other interpretation. The chief link lies in the fact that the tribe of Benjamin was lent to the tribe of Judah as a light bearing tribe (1 Kings 11:36; 12:23) but only for a certain length of time. The period extended from the death of Solomon until the betrayal of Jesus by Judas, when the brotherhood (cemented by the loan of Benjamin) between Judah and Israel was broken at the price of thirty pieces of silver (Zech. 11:10-14; Matt. 27:3-10).

Now when the Jews returned to Babylon in the sixth century B. C., we gather from the book of Ezra that Benjamin returned with them to Palestine. Strictly speaking, the Benjamites were Israelites of the northern house, though as we have seen they were temporarily attached to Judah. But when the restoration took place, the Jews settled down in Judea, which district was named especially after them. And the Benjamites, being the only remnant of northern Israel that returned to the land in conjunction with the Jews, settled down in Galilee. For the intermediate country was already occupied by the Samaritans. In other words, they were guided of God to settle in the geographical area which had previously belonged to Israel, but never to Judah.

This accounts for the fact of our Lord's life and ministry, being so closely identified with Galilee and with the important fact also that He chose eleven of His disciples from among the Benjamite Galileans. The only disciple who rejected Christ was Judas, who was a pure Jew of Judea, his rejection being a type of the Jewish nation, who rejected the Messiah. Now we can understand the significance of Christ's preaching the gospel with such success in Galilee. For Isaiah (9:1, 2) has foretold, that the Galileans who had walked in darkness should see a great light; and Matthew 4:12-25 expressly tells us that our Lord's Galilean ministry was a fulfillment of Isaiah's prophecy.

As we have already seen, the influence of Benjamin was that of light bearers; hence the word light provides the link and suggests that the light of Jesus Christ shone upon the Galileans, who received that light because they were Benjamites, in order that through the ministry of apostleship they might spread that light into all parts of the world. This also explains why Paul was a Benjamite. The Galileans being Benjamites, therefore, became the via media between Israel, Judah, and the world. The conversion of Galilee, the acceptance of Christ's kingship by the people, and the calling of the eleven disciples brought about through the Cross, as we shall see, the redemption of Israel, which in its turn will ultimately lead to the evangelization of the world.

THREE dams are being built across the River Jordan in Palestine that will produce 48,000 horsepower and supply enough water to irrigate all of Palestine.

THE WORLD'S OUTLOOK

By Mrs. H. H. Kent

IT is very evident from the unusual things that are taking place on the earth now that it cannot be much longer before there will be a great change in the governments as well as business dealings of the entire world. All nations are in a place where there seems to be nothing further to resort to, for we seem to be in a time of a crisis of crises. All the world is suffering from depression, and the nations do not know that it is because they have been bankrupt spiritually ever since their leaders have failed to call upon God. Most of the money today goes for war preparation, and the fears of the nations have ensnared them. Many are suggesting solutions, but matters go on from bad to worse, from year to year. But the way events are moving now shows that the time is ripe for all these things to happen in order that those things that are shaken now may be removed for the new order of things.

Many are wondering how far off the collapse is, and while we cannot set any time, it is always encouraging to those who have been watching for so many years to read statistics that seem to fulfil prophecy pertaining to the end. I have copied the following quotation from a monthly periodical which is only a small part of the original.

"When Egypt went down, two percent of her population owned seventy-nine percent of her wealth. When Rome went down, eighteen hundred men owned almost all the known world. At the present time, two percent of the population of the United States own sixty percent of its wealth."

The above are only liberal estimates; others show higher figures for the latter. This age will close with a condition of greed, envy, and strife such as has never been known before.

Just recently it was the writer's privilege to hear a lecture given by Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin. His subject was, "America's Appointment With Destiny". When the subject was announced, it was a surprise to many. On opening his address, he mentioned that two years ago, he would not have dared to have given this address and that he did not know but that he might need a bodyguard before he finished what he had to say.

He began by telling the need of speaking frankly on this momentous subject because of the spirit of indifference that prevailed in many classes of society on account of the social and political disarrangement. This depression is unique because of inability to master abundance, when all around us we find destitution and want. He compared our nation to a lot of Midases who want to turn everything to gold, and then starve trying to look for a shortage. He said that if the books were closed today, we would go down in history as a people with strangled success.

Dr. Frank thinks that the famine from which we are suffering is mainly that of leadership, for America is victimized by leaders who fail to lead. He said that forty-eight hours after the stock market crash in October 1929, these leaders were out again, crying, "Prosperity", thinking that they had "muddled" through at all other times and that they would see a way out this time also. But unhappily for them, the way has not yet opened up, for fast moving events have swept one leader after another from the scene and they are looking for others. Not even constructive, dynamic leaders have been able to handle the situation.

Dr. Frank said that much of the cause of the depression might be laid at the door of capitalism. In fact, he said that this was the root cause of the depression and that the entire system was on the balance, for it was threatened from within with collapse and from without by communism, while events in the social world were forcing it to a show down. He said that the reason for its failure lay in the fact that it was money conscious, while it had failed to feed, clothe, and shelter its employees. "Any system will fail, especially in this day of rapid changes, whose aim is not to make the welfare of the masses of first importance," he said.

The saints of God, who have seen these conditions for many years, realize the significance of it when it comes from such a source, and they yearn for the change to come. The world truly does need leaders; God is preparing them; and they are being taught by the great Leader who will soon take over the affairs of this sin-cursed world, ruling the nations with a rod of iron.

God has long been silent, but the time has now come when He is about to take a hand in the affairs of men, and what He does will be permanent. Capitalism has fed upon the poor long enough, and the capitalists have largely been the cause of communism. Now it looks as if the tables are to be turned and the poor will have to be fed at the expense of the rich, especially during this coming season, for capitalism has produced many ragged, hungry, and homeless individuals.

---

WORDS AND DEEDS

---

WORDS spring from thoughts and tend to acts. Vile words lead to vile deeds. They familiarize the mind with vice, and break down the barriers of purity. Modesty is a safeguard against sin; evil words effectually destroy it. A dollar broken into is soon spent, and a pure purpose, once polluted by sinful words, soon melts away. Many a man has talked himself into sensuality, crime and ruin. Intimacy with evil in thoughts and words blinds us to the villainess of iniquity and prepares us for sinful indulgence.

The lesson is obvious—avoid the dialect of sin. Keep the mouth as with a bridle. "Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but that which is good to the use of edifying, that it may minister grace to the hearers."—Eph. 4:29.

Repeating wrong things is as really wrong as originating them. "By thy words shalt thou be justified, and by thy words shalt thou be condemned."—Matt. 12:37; Psa. 19:14.

—Selected by R. A. Curtis.

THE SINFULNESS OF WORRY

"It is no more sinful to drink yourself into the gutter than to worry yourself into the grave," is the opinion of Rev. Charles E. Woodcock, Episcopal Bishop of Kentucky.

"People are getting life badly mixed up," he said. "They are shortening their lives by ten years by senseless worry. Worry weakens the heart and hardens the arteries. People are carried away by the mistaken idea that one can't live without worry.

"Worry is an evil. It destroys more than rum or vice. It is as sinful as drinking or gambling. It is a guilty, sinful, cowardly thing. It is always a personal weakness."

— Selected by S. E. Haney

It is interesting to know that the Great Pyramid in Egypt is estimated to weigh at least 6,848,000 tons.

—S. E. H.

WHY DOES GOD PERMIT EVIL?

Continued from page 134

sceptre of thy kingdom. Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated iniquity; therefore God, even thy God, hath anointed thee above thy fellows."—Heb. 1:8, 9. This is the secret of becoming a companion of God—hate iniquity and love righteousness!

Someone may ask, "How can I acquire this knowledge?" This is a good question, and requires an intelligent answer. In all human activities of life, knowledge can only be attained by three methods: (1) by observation, (2) by experience, (3) by practice.

To observe a thing, somebody else must produce the phenomenon under consideration. To experience a thing, the individual himself must pass through the trial. To practice, is dexterity acquired by use or habit. Hence when we speak of a practitioner we say, "He practices law, medicine, music, etc."

Since God created us, He knew just how we may acquire the necessary knowledge to constitute us gods, "knowing good and evil." So Paul says in Philippians 2:12, "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling. For it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure." How is this accomplished? Romans 2:6-11 tells us very plainly. Hence then you can see, that since this is God's method of acquiring knowledge of how to hate the evil and choose the good, no other method would have prevailed.

Had man been created as the rest of the animal world, automatons, just obeying the laws of their being, eating, sleeping, and propagating their own species, man could never have known God, or communed with Him. Being created a being endowed with mentality enables him not only to rule himself, but to govern the great world of creation, both animate and inanimate, along lines of love, equity, and justice. By the exercise of these God-given mental traits, through the experience of evil, he thus acquires a character which at all times and under all conditions will choose the good and reject the evil. Madame Guyon's words express it all:

"For vain they smite me, men but do
What God permits with different view:
To outward sight they hold the rod,
But faith proclaims it all of God."

"THEREFORE WILL NOT WE FEAR"

Continued from page 131

see the sources of two powers, namely, natural versus the Spiritual man. The former hasn't the shadow of a chance against the latter.

The incongruous features of the above contest apply antitypically to people during the Christian era, when a man is either in Christ, or he is part and parcel of Babylon (modern Egypt) regardless of his Christian profession. Time will reveal his true status.

The Christian, no matter how gigantic his real troubles be, does not fear when he realizes the battle is not his, but the Lord's. He stands still, and sees the salvation of the Lord. He knows his trouble will begin the moment he interferes in the battle; faith in God being his bulwark. He also knows by experience that if the enemy can keep him busy mentally fighting his imaginary battles of the morrow he will have his victim's mind and body too depleted for defensive action in a real battle. This logically and truthfully, at least partially, explains the cause of the world's present troubles.

David, later in life, elaborates on his part of our text, which is the only standard of faith that will enable us to "stand in the great day of God's wrath" (Rev. 6:17)—

"God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst ('heart,' margin) of the sea; though the waters thereof roar and be troubled, though the mountains shake with the swelling thereof. There is a river, the streams whereof shall make glad the city of God, the holy place of the tabernacles of the most High. God is in the midst of her; she shall not be moved: God shall help her, and that right early ('when the morning appeareth,' margin). The heathen raged, the kingdoms were moved: he uttered his voice, the earth melted. The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Come, behold the works of the Lord, what desolations he hath made in the earth. He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; he breaketh the bow, and cutteth the spear in sunder: he burneth the chariot in the fire. Be still, and know that I am God; I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth. The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge". Psalm 46.

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 124 N. Parkside Ave., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois
For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"THEREFORE I TAKE PLEASURE IN INFIRMITIES, IN REPROACHES, IN NECESSITIES, IN PERSECUTIONS, IN DISTRESSES FOR CHRIST'S SAKE: FOR WHEN I AM WEAK, THEN AM I STRONG."

THE INFLUENCE OF CHRIST

"GOD hath ... given him a name which is above every name: that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow".—Phil. 2:9, 10. What a wonderful personality such an individual would have, and such is the personality of Jesus. We even date time from His birth, saying A. D. and B. C.

It takes great personality to change the views of a nation or of the world. When Jesus came into the world, women had no rights; they were merely slaves to their husbands and had no social standing. Jesus was the first to give woman a standing in the world by passing His judgment upon her.

The prosperous and progressive nations of the world acknowledge His Lordship. One can't stand still—either goes forward or backward. If the feet of the nation are turned toward Jesus, it will be progressing forward and never sliding backward. As everyone knows, we can go up or down. If we climb upward, it is toward the better things of life; if we let ourselves go the other way, we find ourselves falling for the bad things.

Jesus had such a wonderful personality that even those who deny His divinity reverence Him for the quality of His life.

When His personality is so great and means so much to everyone, why shouldn't we all try to develop a like personality by living a life like the pattern He set?

Bernice Sealine, Stanhope, Iowa.

"And Caleb said unto her, What wouldst thou? Who answered, Give me a blessing; for thou hast given me a south land; give me also springs of water. And he gave her the upper springs, and the nether springs."—Joshua 15:18, 19.

THERE are both upper and lower springs. They are springs, and not stagnant pools. There are joys and blessings that flow from above through the hottest summer and the most desert land of sorrow and trial. The lands of Achsah were "south lands", lying under a burning sun and often parched with burning heat. But from the hills came the unfailing springs, that cooled, refreshed, and fertilized all the land.

There are springs that flow in the low places of life, in the hard places, in the desert places, in the lone places, in the common places, and no matter what may be our situation, we can always find these upper springs.

Abraham found them amid the hills of Canaan. Moses found them among the rocks of Midian. David found them among the ashes of Ziklag when his property was gone, his family made captive, and his people talked of stoning him. But "David encouraged himself in the Lord."

Habbakuk found them when the fig tree was withered and the fields were brown. But as he drank from them he could sing: "Yet will I rejoice in the Lord and joy in the God of my salvation."

Isaiah found them in the awful days of Sennacherib's invasion, when the mountains seemed hurled into the midst of the sea. But Faith could sing: "There is a river whose streams make glad the city of God. God is in the midst of her: she shall not be moved."

The martyrs found them amid the flames, and reformers amid their foes and conflicts. We can find them all the year if we have the Comforter in our hearts and have learned to say with David: "All my springs are in thee."

How many and how precious are these springs, and how much more there is to be possessed of God's own fulness!

—Selected.

A REQUEST

WE would like to ask again that when sending contributions to the Berean Page you send them directly to the Berean editor. When they are sent first to Oregon, several days' time is lost, and the office is obliged to spend both time and postage in remailing copy to Chicago.

The proper address will be found at the top of the page.

"EVERY promise is built upon four pillars: God's justice and holiness, which will not suffer Him to deceive; His grace or goodness, which will not suffer Him to forget; His truth, which will not suffer Him to change, which makes Him able to accomplish."

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

JOHN'S VISION ON PATMOS

How would you like to be sent off to live alone on a barren, lonely island? Well, that is what happened to John, the beloved disciple of Jesus. The Emperor Domitian banished John to the Isle of Patmos, a tiny island in the Aegean Sea.

John wrote the book of John—Gospel of John—in the New Testament. In this book he tells the story of Jesus, from His ministry until after His resurrection from the dead. He also wrote three letters—I, II, and III John. Now, while on the Isle of Patmos, John wrote another book of the New Testament—the very last book—Revelation.

The word Revelation means telling what is to happen later, or in the future. And God gave this Revelation to John. So far as we can tell, little of John's prediction has come to pass. And everyone thinks it is difficult to explain the prophecies.

The part in our lesson today was apparently written to the seven churches in Asia. He greeted them with words of grace and peace from Jesus, whom he called the faithful Witness, the first One brought to life from the dead, and the Prince of the kings of the earth.

John also said Jesus had loved His brethren, shed His blood for them, and made them kings and priests unto God and His Father. John said, "To him be glory and dominion for ever and ever."

Then it is said that Jesus shall come with clouds, and every eye shall see Him—even those who killed Him, and many over the "earth shall wail because of him."

A special vision, or dream, came to John. A great voice, like a trumpet sounded behind him. The voice said, "I am Alpha and Omega, the first and the last." (Alpha and omega are the first and last letters of the Greek alphabet.) "Write in a book what you see, and send it to the seven churches in Asia."

When John turned to see the voice he saw seven golden candlesticks, and in their midst stood Christ dressed as a man. His head and hair were white, His eyes like a flame, and His feet like fine brass, as if they burned in a furnace. His voice was like the sound of many waters. In His right hand were seven stars, out of His mouth went a sharp two-edged sword, and His face shone like the sun.

John said, "When I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead. But he laid his right hand upon me and said, Fear not; I am the first and the last: I am he that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen; and have the keys of hell and of death."

Is that not a wonderful picture of Christ when He will come in His glory to deliver those who are to live again? When He brings those keys to open the graves of the dead, and bring peace and joy on earth, what rejoicing there will be!

MAY WE be among the number who will rejoice at His coming!

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Find the Isle of Patmos on a map.
2. Find the books in the Bible that John wrote.
3. Copy the names of those seven churches named in Revelation 1:11.
4. Draw a picture of Jesus as John described Him.

NATURE QUESTION

29. The fig and olive trees are mentioned in Judges 9:9.
30. To what were the Midianites and Amalekites compared? Judges 7:12.

WE BELIEVE the earth is the saints' home. "And they sung a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation; and hast made us unto our God kings and priests: and we shall reign on the earth." Rev. 5:9, 10.

"There never was a day that did not bring its own opportunities for doing good that never could have been done before and never can be again."—Christian Budget.

DAVID

There is a story, ever new,
About a shepherd lad who slew
A bear and lion, fierce and bold,
That sought to harm the shepherd's fold.

I can't, like David, be so strong,
But I can learn to slay the wrong.
And if I try with all my might,
Then God will help me do the right.

—Dolly Carpenter.

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 11. — December 13, 1931

JOHN'S VISION ON PATMOS

Revelation 1:1 to 3:22

Devotional Reading: 1 Corinthians 15:42-49

GOLDEN TEXT

Fear not; I am the first and the last: I am he that liveth.—Revelation 1:17, 18.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: John Sees the Ever-Living Christ.

Basic Truth: "For in that he died, he died unto sin once: but in that he liveth, he liveth unto God."—Rom. 6:10.

Outline: I. Jesus Seen in All God's Plans. II. John Sees the Ever-Living Christ.

I. Jesus Seen in All God's Plans. From the prophetic part of God's reproof in Genesis 3:15, the Seed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head, to Rev. 22:20, "Surely I come quickly", Jesus is seen in every step of God's plan. Victory over sin, restoration from death, the giving of eternal life, the changing of this mortal to become immortal, the establishment and continuance of God's kingdom, the restoration of the earth from its curse, the bringing of God's throne to earth: all these things center in Christ. All things in God's Word are built upon Christ.

II. John Sees the Ever-Living Christ. Man saw Jesus in His youth and active ministry; he saw Him in His death and burial; a few saw Him in His resurrection: but none had seen Him in His majesty. To John this latter vision was granted.

The word "revelation", Chap. 1:1, means to manifest, to uncover, to unveil. It is not the revelation or unveiling of world affairs, but the unveiling, the revealing of Christ in His activity as that activity affects Israel and the world, that God gave of Him.

Nor was John given a vision of Christ in His activity without reference to special period of time, but the revelation made of Christ is as Christ will be in "the Lord's day", v. 10. It is this Christ in this capacity that God gave John vision to see.

John sees Him as in the midst of the tabernacle in Israel. Throughout the extent of the whole vision he sees Him as He will judge that returning people and as His judgments and dealings with Israel shall come to affect all nations of earth.

Others saw Jesus as the Alpha, the beginning; John saw Him as Omega, the end of His work which will introduce His reign.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

John's vision on Patmos as related in the second and third chapters of Revelation concern the seven churches of Asia. Whether these church represent the seven periods of the Christian church or whether they portray periods in Israel's future, we are not concerned in practical applications. There are conditions mentioned and deplored in these different churches which are existent in the churches of the present day, and every effort should be made to eradicate them.

Three of the sins charged against these churches are:

1. "Thou hast left thy first love."

Their first love was God. Something else was crowding in and forcing out the love for God. Does Paul's description of the nominal church, 2 Tim. 3, indicate that people in the last days will forsake their first love? "Lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God; having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof." What makes a person a lover of pleasure? Is this sin to be found in your class or church? If so, discuss ways and means to remedy it.

2. "Thou hast a name that thou livest, and art dead."

There are a lot of churches, Sunday schools, and individuals that have a name that they are alive, but never do anything to prove it. Take an inventory of your organization and see if it is really alive.

3. Thou art neither cold nor hot."

This sin is probably the most outstanding of all present day sins of the average church—and that means individuals. Name the characteristics of a lukewarm church. How can this condition be overcome?—C. E. R.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

"Fear not; I am the first and the last, and the living one."—Rev. 1:17, 18, Diag.

This text is a part of what John heard when he "was in the Spirit on the Lord's day" on the isle of Patmos. This was no other than the Christ Himself. He also said, "Behold, I am alive for evermore, and have the keys of hell and of death." If John need not fear, why do Christians need fear? We can put full confidence in the living One and rest assured that if we do our part, He will do His. Inasmuch as He holds the keys to death and the grave (hell), He is fully able to deliver from those conditions.

"I am he that liveth and was dead"; "Christ the firstfruits; afterward they that are Christ's at his coming." If we be Christ's, there is no doubt but that the graves will be opened and the saints will meet Him in the air. "Comfort one another with these words."
—L. A. R.

SENIOR AND ADULT CLASSES

John Sees the Ever-Living Christ

The Apostle John was banished to the Isle of Patmos by the Romans and while there saw the revelation (unveiling or bringing to view) of Jesus Christ. John had seen his risen Master and had confidence in Him, but this last view strengthened him for the trials yet to come. God always strengthens His children for their hour of trial. Jesus was transfigured before His supreme test. Because of this it is written: "Who for the joy set before him endured the cross, despising the shame."—Hebrews 12:2.

One glimpse of Jesus changed Saul, the persecutor, into Paul, the great evangelist. Comprehension of the promises enabled Paul to be loyal through persecution and martyrdom.

If Christians could but see the ever-living Christ through the eye of faith; if they could glimpse the great and precious promises; if they could visualize the joys and beauties of the new heaven and new earth; if they could comprehend the great privilege of ruling with Christ; if they could but fathom the meaning of eternal, immortal life with God, Himself, as Companion, then the few sacrifices a Christian is called upon to make would seem like privileges indeed. Paul pointed with pride to the scars on his body. He said: "I bear in my body the marks (brand marks) of the Lord Jesus." Gal. 6:17. He knew he was Christ's because he had the distinguishing marks of ownership. How much easier Christianity becomes when this attitude is taken. The cross will become easier if each will review the "joys set before him".—H. A. S.

INTERMEDIATE CLASS

Topic: John Sees the Ever-living Christ.

You remember that the Apostle John was always referred to as the one who was the dearest friend of Jesus, the one whom Jesus loved. It seems quite natural then that the last words of Jesus, the last vision of Him, should be given to John. Because he was faithful to Christ, John was exiled to a lonely island, Patmos, in the Egean Sea, southwest of Ephesus and southeast of Corinth. Look for it on your map. While he was there, he was given a vision of the things that will transpire "on the Lord's day," or during the time that the Lord returns to the earth to punish the wicked and reward the righteous.

John was very old at this time, in fact, he probably outlived all the other disciples, and he must have been close to one hundred years. How it must have thrilled him to see his Master again, even though only in vision, to hear His voice and to realize His comforting care, even on this far-off island.

There are many things hard to be understood in this book, but a few of them are very simple. One is that God will punish the wicked, and cleanse the earth of all stains. Another is that He will greatly bless those who are faithful to Him, and the earth shall be filled with righteousness. The last words of the book are the last words of the Savior, "Surely I come quickly." And John's response should be ours also, "Even so, come, Lord Jesus."—M. G.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

It seems good to see our attendance at Sunday school reaching well over two hundred again, and there were a good many strangers at the church services on Nov. 22, which is very encouraging.

Thanksgiving this year found our people wide awake. Nine families were made glad by baskets of food. And then on Thanksgiving morning, bright and early, the church gathered at seven o'clock for a praise and thanks service. How different it makes the whole day when it is thus started with a worshipful spirit!

Now we are looking forward to Christmas and making plans for the season which celebrates our Savior's birth. In the meantime the Bereans are planning a musical evening for Thursday night, Dec. 3. The following night, Dec. 4, is to be our annual church election.

F. E. Siple, Pastor.

THANK OFFERINGS

The following offerings were received just after the Thanksgiving issue went to press. They are nevertheless gratefully welcomed.

Mrs. Clara Stinnette	$2.00
Mary E. Carter	1.00
Russell Harmon	1.00
Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Dunbar	3.00
Ransom Lake	10.00
Nellie M. Blakely	3.00
Leila E. Whitehead	5.00
Mrs. Mary E. Wolf	5.00
Previously reported	107.00

Total to date $137.00

THANKSGIVING FROM WASHINGTON

We are grateful for the invitation offered to the members of the Church of God, to express their gratitude, through the columns of our dear paper, for many blessings we are constantly receiving from the Giver of every good and perfect gift. The Apostle Paul admonishes the Lord's people, "Be careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known unto God." Phil. 4:6.

While this is a day appointed for the giving of thanks by the government under which we are living, yet to the consecrated Christian, every day is a day in which to rejoice and give thanks to God. Thanksgiving should be included in every prayer we offer to our Maker, and we are commanded to "pray without ceasing." We can pray while about our work, when alone in field or office. We can pray while being jostled by the crowding throng, in the streets or market places of our cities. No matter where we are, if the prayer comes from the heart, our God will hear and answer according to His will. Our prayers should not be for self alone, but Paul says, "I exhort therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men; for kings, and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty." 1 Tim. 2:1-2.

While we rejoice in the hope of the gospel, and thank God for faithful brothers and sisters in Christ, and their loving companionship, yet when we look about us and see the conditions that are in the world, see and realize that the very last of the signs of the Lord's coming are now being fulfilled, we lift up our heads and rejoice, for we know that our "redemption draweth nigh." What rapture it will be if we shall be among those who are faithful and living when the Lord shall come, for Jesus says, "Whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die."—John 11:26. What an incentive to be, not only thankful to God, but also filled with zeal, charity, and good works.

Your brother in Christ,
A. L. Corbaley,
Puyallup, Washington.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME—

A committee, headed by Sr. Azalia Winfrey, is at work preparing for a Christmas pageant to be given by the children and young people of the Oregon Sunday school.

Sr. Mary Jackson has returned from her visit to Iowa and is once more at home with her son and his wife at Oregon, Ill.

Though belated, the Thanksgiving of the church at Puyallup, Washington, expressed so sincerely by Bro. Corbaley, is none the less hearty. His words serve to strengthen the bonds of fellowship existing between brothers and sisters all over this broad land.

Bro. Alan Dietzman is being missed at services at Oregon, Ill., due to an attack of erysipelas. We hope he will soon be well and able to attend again.

Mrs. H. H. Kent again reviews world problems in her article, "The World's Outlook," in this issue. Sr. Kent handles the subject in her usual able manner. Be sure to read it.

In a most unique way, Sr. Elizabeth Louise May points out to us our duty of returning to the Father a small portion from the great store which He has entrusted to us. Do not fail to read her short but convincing article, "And Behold I Am With Thee."

The reader will notice how nicely the editor's thoughts in this issue are elaborated in those expressed by Bro. Haney in, "Therefore Will Not We Fear," and by Bro. Randall in, "False Prophets," though none was aware of the others' writings.

In this number we have the conclusion of that interesting article, "The Identity of the Galileans," by J. H. Lancaster, which Sr. A. J. Chaplin clipped from "The Banner of Israel," feeling certain it would be of interest to Herald readers. The first installment you will find in The Herald of Nov. 17. Sr. Chaplin says she will welcome comment on the view advanced in this article.

A letter is at hand from Sr. Davenport, of Eldorado, Ill., voicing the appreciation of the brotherhood for the services held there by Bro. Conner over the week end of Nov. 21 and 22. She says that quite a few non-members as well as are taking an interest in hearing the truth. Their Sunday school is also growing. The attendance of several from Herrin, Ill., was much appreciated. This was Bro. Conner's first visit to Eldorado and they are hoping it will not be his last.

In this issue Bro. Alldridge deals with the age-old question, "Why Does God Permit Evil?" leaving the reader to answer the question by inference drawn from a study of the texts and comments brought out by him.

Bro. and Sr. Eugene Howard of Morrill, Kansas, are moving to California and may now be addressed at 2522 Florence Avenue, Arcadia, Calif.

All the members of Golden Rule Home are enjoying their usual state of good health at present, with the exception of Sr. Alice Crysler, who is confined to her bed with a heart attack. An early recovery is our prayer for Sr. Crysler.

The brothers and sisters at Grand Rapids, though none of them groaning beneath the burden of their wealth, found opportunity to remember several families, at Thanksgiving time, who were less fortunate than themselves. Perhaps others of you among the churches did likewise. Such deeds always serve to strengthen and increase one's own reasons for thanksgiving.

Those of you who are delinquent in your subscription to The Herald will rejoice the office force if you will just slip in an envelope the amount necessary to pay up your subscription in advance. Do not fail to look at your label, and if you find that you are in this class, promote yourself at once to the "A-1 Class" of paid up subscribers. Do it today!

The article on front page, "Daniel the Seer," by Norman John McLeod, will be found to be of much interest, especially in that it expresses a view somewhat dissimilar to the general trend of opinion. Bro. McLeod speaks with authority, as he is a most able teacher of history. You will find this article, as others under his name, worthy of study.

Word comes from Sr. Chas. Stedman that Bro. Stedman seems slightly improved in health. Bro. and Sr. Stedman were obliged on account of Bro. Stedman's health to leave home and loved ones in Moorefield, Nebr., and take up their residence in New Mexico. They will be glad to hear from the brothers and sisters at 216 S. Third Street, Raton, New Mexico.

Our sympathies go out to Sr. Helen Porter, of St. Cloud, Minn., in the death last week of her father. May the God of all comfort sustain her and other members of the family. Sr. Porter sells 75 copies of The Herald each week in St. Cloud, and promptly remits for them.

SEEING OURSELVES AS OTHERS SEE US

By Gerald Cooper

FOR the past few days in our English classes we have been making character charts of each other. Many of us are having our eyes opened. We did not know our faults as others see them.

Now there was once a man named Peter. This man was one of the twelve apostles of Jesus Christ, and was loved by Him. Nevertheless he was always doing something that, perhaps, showed over-confidence in himself or impressed one that he was a blunderer. Let us study this man's life, especially a few specific instances, and see what happened to him and how he came to know of his faults.

One time Jesus had been preaching to the multitudes, and when He had finished He went up into a mountain alone to pray, sending the disciples away on the sea of Galilee. The wind was blowing, and the ship was tossing on the waves. Jesus, walking on the sea, went to the assistance of the disciples. It was hard for them to believe their eyes when they saw Him doing thus. Of course Peter thought that he could do it himself, and he asked Jesus to bid him walk on the water. Peter walked until he lost faith that Jesus could uphold him. When he began to lose faith he began to sink, calling to Jesus to save him. This Jesus did, rebuking Peter for his little faith.

Another time, at the transfiguration of Christ Peter showed his peculiar characteristic. He saw standing there Elias, Moses, and Jesus. Thinking that he should say something, Peter said: "Master, it is good for us to be here: and let us build three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias."—Mark 9:5. There was absolutely no reason for this statement, but it illustrates well the character of Peter.

In Luke 22:31 we find Jesus telling Peter that he would deny Him thrice before the cock crowed twice. Naturally Peter resented this and emphatically said that he would never deny Christ. But we all know the story of his denial. When the crowd took Jesus to Pilate to try Him, Peter slipped in and sat with the servants. Someone accused him of being one of Christ's followers, but he denied it; another accused him, and he denied with an oath; and yet another accused him. "Then he began to curse and swear, saying, I know not this man. And immediately the cock crew."—Matt. 26:74. The record tells us that Peter then remembered Christ's words and began to weep.

From this time on we find a different man in the person of Peter. In John the twenty-first chapter we have the record of Jesus asking Peter three times if he loved Him. Later we also find Peter preaching the gospel and becoming one of the greatest of the apostles. Never again do we see signs of undue impulsiveness.

We have seen how Peter was rebuked and made a more consecrated apostle by Jesus. Perhaps we need to be awakened also sometimes. Let us each analyze our character, try to see ourselves as others see us, and we will be better young people for the effort. When we grow into manhood and womanhood we will not need to be awakened to our weaknesses as Peter was. Let us prepare ourselves, study our faults, put them aside, and make ready to receive our Christ when He comes, which, let us pray, will be soon.

A SMALL CONGREGATION?

"He that heareth you heareth me."

DR. LYMAN BEECHER once engaged to preach for a country minister on exchange, and the Sabbath proved to be a very stormy one, excessively cold and uncomfortable. It was in mid-winter, and the snow was piled along the roads, so as to make the passage very difficult. Still the minister urged his horse through the drifts, put the animal into a shed and went in.

As yet, there was no person in the house, and, after looking about, the old gentleman—then young—took his seat in the pulpit. Soon the door opened, and a single individual walked up the aisle, looked about, and took a seat. Dr. Beecher felt that he had a duty to perform, and he had no right to refuse to do it, because only one man could reap the benefit of it; and accordingly he went through all the services, praying, singing and preaching, and the benediction. And when all was over he hastened down from the desk to speak to his congregation, but he had departed.

Twenty years after, traveling somewhere in Ohio, the doctor alighted from the stage one day in a pleasant village, when a gentleman stepped up and spoke familiarly to him, calling him by name. "I do not remember you," said the doctor.

"I suppose not," said the stranger; "but we once spent two hours together in a house alone in a storm."

"I do not recall it, sir," added Doctor Beecher, "I pray, when was it?"

"Do you remember preaching twenty years ago in such a place, to a single person?"

"Yes, yes," said the Doctor, grasping his hand. "I do, indeed, and if you are the man, I have been wishing to see you ever since."

"I am the man, sir; and that sermon saved my soul, made a minister of me, and yonder is my church! The converts of that sermon, sir, are all over Ohio."—Selected.

THE NEW JUNIOR BOOK

THE new Junior Berean Book entitled, "The Hebrew People," is now ready for distribution. It is a very neat book, easy to understand and of clear print. The price is 30 cents for single copies; 27 cents each for 5 to 25 copies; 25 cents each for 25 or more copies.

Please send all orders to the National BEREAN Society, Oregon, Illinois, and not to the N. B. I.

THE BOOK OF THE REVELATION

By Lyman Booth

Continued from November tenth

LAODICEA, on the Lycus, was a city in southern Phrygia, between Philadelphia and Colosse. It was one of the foremost cities of its rank in Asia Minor during the Roman rule. It is entirely perished and now lies in ruins.

"The fragments of aqueducts and theaters, spread over a vast extent of country, tell of the former magnificence of this city. Modern travelers tell of its present state as one of blank dreariness. Nothing can exceed the desolation and melancholy appearance of the site of Laodicea; no picturesque features in the nature of the ground on which it stands relieve the dull uniformity of its undulating and barren hills; and with few exceptions, its gray and widely scattered ruins possess no architectural merit to attract the attention of the traveler. Yet it is impossible to view them without interest, when we consider what Laodicea once was, and how it is connected with the early history of Christianity. It is indeed in that connection that its name still lives among us."—Butler.

Though threatened with rejection because of its lukewarmness and because of its boast of riches and need of nothing, its true condition was revealed in these words, "Knowest not that thou art wretched, and miserable, and poor and blind, and naked?" Then came the invitation to "buy of me gold tried in the fire, that thou mayest be rich; and white raiment, that thou mayest be clothed". As if to give them a word of cheer the Master says, "As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten: be zealous and repent." All whom He loves are included in the same discipline of correction, which makes them sooner or later able to say, "Thy loving correction shall make me great." Psa. 18:35.

In the gospel He bids us come to Him, to pray for pardon and not faint, to knock at the door of mercy, to strive for entrance at the straight gate, promising us certain and full salvation if we thus with sincere earnestness endeavor after eternal life. Surely they who will not seek Him deserve to be punished. Here He takes the very means to win our love which He requires of us to win His.

The Savior comes nigh to us, stands knocking at our hearts, calling upon us to open the door and admit Him, entreating permission to enter that He may have fellowship with us and we with Him. This leaves no room for excuses, and no shadow of doubt should cloud our minds. Whether He reveals His presence or clouds the glory of it at seasons, we should be able to say, "This is indeed blessedness." We have our sorrows, but with Christ within we still have within us a fountain of amazing and perpetual joy.

The promise Christ gave the Laodiceans, "To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne," is but a variation of His words in John 17, "The glory which thou gavest me I have given them. Father, I will that they also whom thou hast given me be with me where I am." This is a most wonderful promise, being the last, the crowning, the highest and most glorious of all. When we consider to whom this promise was here given, it makes it the more wonderful. He whom Christ threatened to reject with loathing is offered a place with Him in His throne. Thus we see the highest seat is within the reach of the lowest. Then why not strive to overcome? for certainly the crown is a million times worthy of the struggle, and He who holds it stands ready to bestow it.

John sees a throne in heaven and One sitting on it, bright and pure as precious stone; and round His throne a rainbow like an emerald, the sign of hope and faithfulness, mercy and truth, which He Himself appointed after the deluge to comfort the fearful hearts of men. Around him are angels crowned, men like ourselves, but who have fought and finished the good fight and conquered and are at rest, pure as their white garments tell us.

From the throne came thunderings, and lightnings, and voices, as they did when He spoke to the Jews of old—signs of His terrible power as judge and law-giver and avenger of all wrong done on the earth. There, too, were seven burning lamps, representing the seven spirits of God which give light and life to all created creatures, and most of all to righteous people. There before the throne is a sea of glass, the same sea which John saw in another vision, with human beings standing on it—the sea of time, and space, and mortal life—where we each have our little day of which we think so much and of which we make so little good use. Now it seems to be a great thing. Just think! time, and space, and life, and the world, and yet it looked very small to John as it was spread out before Christ. He therefore passed it up with a few words. For what are all these things and all the suns and stars and what are all the endless ages and countless generations and millions of millions of years compared with eternity in God's dwelling place, that God whom even the heaven cannot contain?

To be continued

"THERE is no such way to attain to greater measures of grace as for a man to live up to the little grace he has."

SIMPLICITY AND DIRECTNESS OF THE BIBLE

AS A GUIDE for simplicity and directness in the use of words, there is nothing to equal the New Testament. Apart from the question of religious worth, the diction is unrivaled in our language for just those qualities most essential to the present day orator. The study of Milton, of Shakespeare and of others similar, whose phrases are of the mouth-filling, ear-filling variety, is not advantageous to the student of our generation, since its effect must necessarily be to induce a flamboyant style in his own speaking.—Public Speaking made Easy, by Alex. Burton, p. 59.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, DECEMBER 8, 1931

NUMBER 10

Waiting!

By G. Eldred Marsh

A LONG TIME AGO an aged man knelt in prayer—waiting! He had prayed for a long time, and he had waited for a long time; but he was not discouraged. The cadence of his voice in supplication revealed a spirit undaunted by hope deferred. The fervency and definiteness of his petition indicated a vision of desire undimmed by the passage of the years. And so he prayed, and as he prayed he waited, waited in faith, for God to satisfy the craving of his heart.

That for which he prayed, and that for which he waited were one and the same thing—The coming of the King, Israel's King!

Men still kneel in prayer—and wait. Their prayer is the prayer of Simeon, their desire the desire of Simeon. And as they pray, and as they wait, they watch—watch for the coming of the King, Israel's King! For "Elpis Israel, Elpis Kosmos," the hope of Israel is the hope of the world.

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

"He that is mighty hath done to me great things; and holy is his name."

THE EDITOR'S PRAYER

OUR FATHER: As we approach the time when we celebrate the birth of our blessed Lord, we do so in a spirit of true devotion and thanksgiving unto Thee for the gift of Thy Son. We pray that Thy grace may lead us to commemorate this most wonderful event in the way that is entirely in keeping with its sacred nature, and in harmony with Thy will. In Jesus' name. Amen.

FEAR NOT!

GOD delights in the faith of His children. He desires that they shall approach Him confidently and without fear. It is true that to the rebellious and disobedient "it is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God."—Heb. 10:31. But to the one who strives to keep His commandments and to walk in His truth, it is joy beyond compare to be brought into the most intimate relations with the God of love. To all who will thus draw near to Him He extends a welcoming hand and says, "Fear not!"

When the messenger of God appeared to Zacharias, as he went into the temple to burn incense, he "was troubled, and fear fell upon him, . . . the angel said unto him, Fear not, Zacharias: for thy prayer is heard."—Luke 1:12-13.

A heavenly visitant, addressing Mary concerning the birth of her Son, said, "Hail, thou that art highly favoured, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women." But Mary "was troubled at his saying." She could not understand it, and what we cannot understand, we generally fear. Immediately thereafter, however, the voice continued comforting, "Fear not, Mary: for thou hast found favour with God."

Filled with fear because of the dazzling light that shone about them, the shepherds fell upon their faces to the ground. But an "angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy."—Luke 2:20.

When we are engaged in the Lord's work, the placing of the incense upon the altar, (the material elements of our service), distracts our attention from the person of the One we serve, and we are sometimes taken unawares and frightened when His voice reaches us in answer to our prayer. But He, knowing our thoughts, approaches us gently and whispers to our hearts, "Fear not, my child, I am here in response to your supplication; not to censure or reprove, but to bless and comfort and uplift!"

SHEPHERDS

OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST, "that great shepherd of the sheep," when He left the earth to become our Mediator at the right hand of God, committed the leadership and protection of His flock to certain under-shepherds whom He had chosen for that purpose. These under-shepherds He called "apostles," or "sent ones", in that He sent them forth into the world as His representatives.

These faithful men were authorized to appoint their own successors, subject to certain conditions laid down by the Lord for their guidance. Paul has transmitted to us the instructions thus provided, and enjoins upon the disciples of the future their careful observation. In a few weeks many congregations will be called upon to choose elders, deacons, and other officers for the new year, and it would be well for all who expect to do this to begin at once a prayerful study of the divine requirements of such offices, that they may be prepared to make their selections intelligently and in harmony with scriptural requirements. A careful study of the entire First Epistle to Timothy will be of great value in this connection.

RESPONSIBILITY

SPEAKING of the office of the elder or bishop, Paul says discerningly, "If a man desire the office of a bishop, he desireth a good work."—1 Tim. 3:1. The position of an elder in the church is, indeed, one devoted to "good works." As it is described in the Bible it is far from being a sinecure. Earnest, self-sacrificing, and unremitting adherence to duty is demanded of the man who would faithfully perform the services required of an elder.

An elder must be trustworthy. He must be dependable. He must be one who commands the respect of his fellow-citizens, both within and without the church. He must be morally above reproach. He must be sympathetic and gentle in manner, one who encourages confidence; but who never reveals another's secret that has been confided to him. In short, an elder must be "an example to the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity."—1 Tim. 4:12. Such is his sacred responsibility.

To find men who are equipped by natural and acquired ability, and by spiritual experience, to meet the requirements of eldership is not an easy task. But every effort should be made to do so.

"THE ANCIENT OF DAYS"

By Norman John McLeod

THE book plate which is in each book that is in the Hoover War Library at Stanford University has a picture of a statue with a veil over its face, and below it is the following inscription: "I am that which was, which is, and which is to come, and no mortal can lift the veil which covers me." The statue and inscription are to represent history. The past, present and future are all veiled, and no mortal can lift the veil. That bookplate is the inspiration for the following idea.

Much has been written in regard to the "Ancient of days" of Daniel. The same being is described in the first part of Revelation. Some say it is God, and base the idea on the fact that in Daniel 7:13, "one like unto the Son of man . . . came to the Ancient of days."

God is not the "Ancient of days," for with Him time is not reckoned, nor does the description fit God (whom no man hath seen, nor can see). Others say, reading Revelation, it was Jesus; but that does not hold because of the point noted above that the Son of man came with clouds. "Behold he cometh with clouds; and every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him," (Rev. 1:7).

That the being mentioned is the same, there is no reasonable doubt. It has characteristics of Christ, but it is more than Jesus. "The Word of God", the Christ (not merely Jesus), the "plan of salvation," or the "Spirit of Divine History," or the "Glory of God," is what it seems to be.

"In the beginning was the Word." Surely! Not Jesus! God's plan, His Word was there! It was and is, "Alpha and Omega, the first and the last." It looked like the "Son of man" to John, as well as the "Son of God". The Word does either if we think of Jesus or a son of man, or a Son of God.

After the three Hebrews were put into the fiery furnace, the King saw another with them "and the form of the fourth is like the Son of God." "Out of his mouth went a sharp twoedged sword," "the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God;" "For the word of God is quick, and powerful, and is sharper than any twoedged sword;" and is the same that guards the way to the tree of life. ("So he drove out the man; and he placed at the east of the garden of Eden cherubims, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to keep the way of the tree of life.") "The same was in the beginning with God"; God made nothing but by His Word, or in accordance with His plan.

Before Adam was created God could see that he would sin (did not make him do it), and provided a plan for the saving of man from that sin. The plan looked like Jesus Christ—"who liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen; and have the keys of hell and of death." The same being sat on the throne in Revelation four; was seen by Isaiah, chapter six; was seen by Ezekiel in his "wheel" vision; that filled the tabernacle when it was first set up by Moses, and filled the temple on the day of its dedication; and was in many other visions. "All things were made by him; and without him was not anything made that was made."

Throughout all ages God's Word has been more important than the messenger who bore it. Men have suffered and died, but God's Word had to be delivered. Even the Savior Himself died that the "word of God" might be fulfilled; that the "plan of salvation" might be carried out; that the "glory of God" might be made manifest. It was made flesh in Christ Jesus; it was the Light of the world on His lips. It was God, for it was from Him. "It is written, That man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word of God."—Luke 4:4.

Many other parallels might be drawn, but enough has been said to support the thesis: the "Ancient of days" is the "word of God".

THE REVELATION OF JOHN

By Lyman Booth

AMID the rapture of that vision John hears a song, that song of the angels which ceases neither night nor day. Truly the majesty of the Deity is worthy of such homage! The wonder of creation even of old waked into melody the sons of God, when with the morning stars they "shouted and sang together for joy."

There is a song more rapturous and elevated, such as swells forth from the lips of every member of that heavenly company and is echoed by the sympathetic choir of the saints, until all creation rings with the gladsome praise, "Worthy is the Lamb that was slain, for he has redeemed us by his blood." Although angels join in that song, it has a significance which they can never experience, for they can never say, "This Lamb was slain for us."

John recognizes the ones nearest the throne, as those who represent the church of the redeemed. They commence the new and exalted strain, "Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation, and hast made us unto our God kings and priests."

Next after them, the angels who circled around, unable to restrain their sympathy and admiration, to the number of "ten thousand times ten thousand and thousands of thousands," cry with a loud voice, "Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing." Finally the whole creation is represented as uniting in this glorious tribute of praise, and the chorus that swells from every voice and heart is, "Blessing, and honour, and glory, and power be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever."

How should we rejoice in the prospect, or rather in the certainty of spending an eternity of bliss with those whom

Continued on page 150

BILLOWS

By Mabel A. Wolfe

Lord, I need Thee every moment,
I must feel Thy presence near;
For the tempter comes so often
Filling me with doubt and fear.

As of old Thou spoke to Peter,
Bidding him come unto Thee;
But he looked upon the billows,
And his courage then did flee;

So it is with me, dear Savior,
Thou dost bid me trust my all
Into Thy safe, certain keeping,
Which can never, never fall.

But the billows of temptation
Rise, and roll beneath my feet,
Filling me with doubt, misgivings,
Hiding Thy dear face, complete.

True, my burden, Lord, is heavy,
Cleanse me from all doubts and fear;
To Thy precious side, dear Savior,
Keep me ever, ever near.

—o—

THE HID TREASURE

By Lyman Booth

“Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure hid in a field; the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.”—Matt. 13:44.

THIS and the following parable were not spoken to the multitude, but to those within the house and to the more immediate disciples. Jesus addressed them as having found the hid treasure—the pearl of great price—and He warned them of the surpassing value of these, and exhorted them that for their sakes all worldly things should be joyfully renounced.

For the want of secure banks of deposit in those eastern and ancient lands, the practice of hiding money and jewels and other articles of value had become a common practice. In some place it is still in vogue. Precious utensils and ornaments were often hid in some secret nook in the walls of the homes or buried in a field or garden. It sometimes happened that the owner died without revealing to friends where his valuables were hid. In some instances they were never found. In others, perhaps after a lapse of several years, they were discovered. It was extremely dangerous for the one who found the treasure to remove it from another's field; but having purchased the field he could safely wait and work in secret, and the coveted treasure was his. Because that country had always been subject to wars, invasions, and calamities, a feeling of insecurity prevailed.

The truth of the kingdom of God is the pearl of great price, and he who would find it must remove those things upon which he has placed greatest store. When the lover of money renounces his covetousness, the indolent man, his ease, the lover of pleasure, his pleasure, and the wise man, his confidence in worldly wisdom, then each is selling what he has that he may buy the field containing the treasure.

The occupation of a traveling merchant or jeweler was common in those days and is still practiced to some extent. He dealt in precious stones and pearls, and traveled in search of others to buy or to exchange.

They who are, therefore, seeking for the knowledge of the kingdom, they who feel that there is some absolute and lasting good for man in which he shall find true satisfaction for all his hopes and desires, may be likened to the merchant who is constantly seeking goodly pearls. The person who unexpectedly finds a treasure may have the liveliest joy; but he who finds it after long and tedious search may experience the greatest appreciation of its value. Lessons easily learned are sometimes sooner forgotten than those that require more thought and concentration of effort. Likewise the preciousness of the truth of the gospel when found after long and anxious study renders it more profound, and deepens the cravings of the mind for greater knowledge of God's Holy Word.

Jesus taught His disciples that not all who joined Him were fitted as genuine followers, and that the false and true should mix and mingle till that day which God held in reserve for the final decision between the two classes. To convey this truth He compared the kingdom of God in the process of its development to a net cast into the sea, in which all kinds of fish, good and worthless, are caught. This net was much like our seine, weighted at the bottom and buoyed on top, then drawn in a circle and pulled ashore. This represents the wide range and scope of the gospel, not like a net cast into a small stream, but into the wide sea or world, gathering in and drawing together some out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation.

While Jesus taught things that were new to them, He confirmed the old, showing that the law and gospel were not contrary, for both were from the same all wise Author. In listening to His teaching, they learned things old and new. New duties were taught, principles declared, and emotions touched that were unknown before. A new light dawned upon their hitherto clouded minds, and they beheld something “new”, and no less sublime as it was new. Little by little He sought to teach them the nature and development of the everlasting kingdom, which in God's provision shall embrace every nation and cover the entire world, at the same time holding firmly all the good in the “old” and treasuring the newness of the gospel.

TRUE AND FALSE SHEPHERDS

By Richard LeCrone

"The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

THE above words are familiar to all of us, and we all feel their beauty and strength, but he who has not restored them to their original setting and carefully studied them has missed a more rare beauty which lies beneath the surface of the words. To comprehend the depth of those words we must understand the circumstances under which they were spoken.

Shortly after Christ had performed the amazing miracle of giving sight to a man who had been blind from birth, He made, in the presence of some Pharisees, the following statement: "For judgment I am come into the world, that they which see not might see; and they which see might be made blind."—John 9:39. The statement puzzled the Pharisees, for one of them asked, "Are we blind also?" Jesus answer must have been still more puzzling to them, for He answered, "If ye were blind, ye should have no sin: but now ye say, We see; therefore your sin remaineth"—John 9:41.

Without further comment He related to them the parable of the sheepfold, and the false shepherd who climbed over the wall rather than entering at the door, and who came to kill and destroy rather than to bring any good to the sheep. What lesson was this parable intended to convey to the Pharisees?

When we remember that the Pharisees were the best educated class of the Jews and doctors of the Mosaic law, as well as the teachers and leaders of the people, our problem becomes more simple. These men were the shepherds of Israel.

They had become self-satisfied and self-sufficient in their learning and had ceased to feel any responsibility for the sheep. They had rather turned to exploiting the sheep to their own ends, entirely forgetful of their responsibility as shepherds. They even failed to recognize the Messiah, pending whose appearance they were to have kept the flock.

If we turn to Ezekiel 34, we find that the simile was not a new one, and in Isaiah 40:11, we see the Messiah prophesied of as a Shepherd. So we see that Christ was simply employing an illustration with which they should have been familiar. "But they understood not what things they were which he spake unto them."—John 10:6.

He then proceeded to draw the contrast between such false shepherds and Himself, the Great Shepherd.

We leave the Pharisees to their pondering now, and come down to the present, that we may discover what message the words contain for us. Having carefully examined the context, we shall confine ourselves to the text.

"The thief cometh not but to steal, and to kill, and to destroy." Knowing that Christ was referring to false religious leaders, or shepherds, the question suggests itself: "How do such steal, kill, and destroy?"

The ways are multitudinous, but we shall suggest only a few. Those who steal the affections of the flock away from Christ and His pastures, spiritually kill that flock. They are often robbed of the Scriptures by being told that they don't need them, and by having them interpreted to them in an "unknown tongue" so that they lose many of the beautiful truths. Prayer is taken away by being consigned to the leaders only, or still worse omitted entirely. Communion is spirited away as something hard to be understood and superficial, or if it is retained its original beauty and sacredness is explained away.

Christ's ordinances disappear and those of man's making appear in their place. These are only a few of the ways in which false shepherds kill and destroy the flock, but to the thinking Christian they suggest an endless chain.

In vivid contrast to such leaders Christ declares, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." Where the false shepherds exploited the sheep, Christ gave His life for them. The false shepherds steal away and pervert the Word of God; Christ expounded and explained it and emphasized its importance. The false shepherds kill and destroy; Christ binds up wounds and heals disease. The false shepherds lead their sheep to strife, misery, and eternal destruction; Christ leads His to peace, joy, and eternal life.

In the face of such evidence the training of shepherds and the choosing of leaders for the flock assume an aspect of tremendous importance. Let us choose shepherds who are anxious for the welfare of the flock and loyal to the great Shepherd, that He might keep the flock safe from the world until Christ's return. And last, but not least, let us do our best to see that no portion of the flock is without a shepherd, for left to themselves sheep (especially lambs) stray away and become lost.

"Now the God of peace, that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that great shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant, make you perfect in every good work to do his will, working in you that which is wellpleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ; to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen."

GRATITUDE

For sunlit hours and visions clear,
For all remembered faces dear,
For comrades of a single day,
Who sent us stronger on our way,
For friends who shared the year's long road,
And bore with us the common load,
For hours that levied heavy tolls,
But brought us nearer to our goals,
For insight won through toil and tears,
We thank the Keeper of our years.

—Clyde McGee.

MISUSING THE FATHER'S TIDINGS

A VERY foolish man once received a letter. He began at once to give it a critical study. He measured it accurately; he examined it with a microscope to see the fibre the paper was made of; he analyzed the ink, and the mucilage which was on the flap; he gauged the average slant of the letters. While doing so, a friend came in, and, glancing at the letter, he said: "Why, that letter is from your father." "Is it?" inquired the foolish man. "I have not got far enough yet to find that out." There is some Bible study of the same order to-day. Many people are busy examining the Bible and yet failing to get the Father's Message.—Dr. Amos. R. Wells.

THE REVELATION OF JOHN

Continued from page 147

we have loved here and of seeing them emerge from their dusty beds, not only uninjured, but refined and perfected, with every tear wiped from their eyes, standing before the throne of God and the Lamb, clad in white robes and with palms in their hands, crying with a loud voice, "Salvation to God that sitteth upon the throne, and to the Lamb, for ever and for ever!" What delight it will afford us to renew the sweet counsel we have taken together, to recount the toil and labor of the way, and to approach the throne of God in company, in order to join in the song with those heavenly voices, and to lose ourselves amid the splendors and fruitions of the place!

All righteous people are tending toward the scene; and if there is a law which consigns our bodies to darkness and to dust, there is another just as certain and powerful which will bring them forth from the tomb and place them in the bosom of the Father. They shall be gathered and selected from the ruins which Satan has wrought, to adorn that eternal city which hath no need of the sun, neither of the moon to shine in it; for the glory of God doth lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof.

Finally, after having viewed with deep concern the multitude of mixed scenes, both pleasant and unpleasant, the Apostle saw a new heaven and a new earth. The Lamb, who on earth was declared to be "the light of the world", is there declared to be "the light thereof." In that infinite and eternal abode that belongs to an eternal existence of glory, we shall draw more fully from an infinite source; for the Holy One "that inhabiteth eternity" is as inexhaustible as eternity itself.

Christ is as necessary to the happiness of that realm as He is to the holiness of earth. Christ is the authorized dispenser to the redeemed of all blessings in that new earth; every grace shall flow through Him or cease to flow, and to this universal law eternity can bring no change or termination.

To be continued

CHRIST THE KING

By T. A. Drinkard

WHEN Christ becomes King, His enemies are to lick the dust. (Psa. 72:9.) His enemies have not licked the dust; therefore He has never been crowned King.

When Christ becomes King, the kings of the earth are to bow down before Him. (Psa. 72:11.) These kings have never bowed down before Him; therefore He has never become King.

When Christ becomes King, all nations shall serve Him. (Psa. 72:11.) All nations do not serve Him; therefore He has never become King.

When Christ becomes King upon His throne, all nations are to be gathered before Him for judgment. (Matt. 25:31-32.) All nations have never be gathered before Him for this judgment; therefore He has never become King.

When Christ becomes King, He shall have dominion from sea to sea, and from the river unto the ends of the earth. (Psa. 72:8.) Such rule and exercise of power does not prevail; therefore He has never become King.

When God's kingdom is established upon the earth through Christ, human governments are to become as chaff and be carried away so that no place will be found for them. (Dan. 2:35.) Human governments are still here. They have not been swept away by chaff; therefore His kingdom has never been established.

When God's kingdom is set up, it shall break in pieces and consume all kingdoms. (Dan. 2:44.) All kingdoms have not been consumed and destroyed; therefore God's kingdom has never been established.

When God's kingdom comes, His will shall be done in earth as it is in heaven. (Matt. 6:10.) God's will is not being done in earth as it is in heaven; therefore His kingdom has not been established.

"In that day will I raise up the tabernacle of David that is fallen, . . . I will build it as in the days of old." (Amos 9:11.) This prophecy has never been fulfilled; therefore the kingdom has never been established.

"Behold the days come, saith the Lord, that I will raise unto David a righteous branch, and a king shall reign and prosper, and shall execute judgment and justice in the earth. (Jer. 23:5, 6; 33:14-16.) Jesus Christ, the Man of this prophecy is not ruling as a King now; the prosperity that will be the great feature of His rule does not prevail; the righteous judgment and justice which will naturally result from His rule do not exist; therefore the kingdom of God has never been established.

A certain noblemen went into a far country, to receive for himself a kingdom and to return. (Luke 19:12.) True it is that Christ went into the far country for the express purpose of receiving this kingdom and afterward to appear upon His throne. Inasmuch as He has never returned, therefore this kingdom of prophecy has never been established.

WHAT IF THEY HAD QUIT?

A Dream

I BEHELD in my dream, and five men—Peter, Andrew, Matthew, John, and Paul—sat on a hillside, looking out over the Sea of Galilee. It was twenty years after the day of Pentecost, and they had met by appointment to talk over a crisis in the lives and program of three of their number.

The work was going hard with them. Paul had suffered the loss of all things; Peter had left all to follow Christ and was finding it hard to support his family; and Matthew had just had an attractive proposition at a large income to return to his old place in the customs house.

Peter, as usual, opened the discussion. He said, "Simon, the tanner, has inherited the estate of his brother, who was a fisherman and an old friend of mine in Bethsaida, and he has offered to give me a complete fishing outfit—boats, nets, and tackle—with an established trade in Capernaum. It looks like a providential leading, especially as my wife's mother has opened a boarding house in Capernaum and it will cost us almost nothing to live with her while we are getting started again. I can make a good living, and a little more, by fishing five days in the week, and I will have all my Sundays for evangelistic work in the cities around the lake. I am getting along in years and am afraid I can't stand the pace at which I have been working. And, too, I need the money."

Paul said, "Aquila and Priscilla have been greatly prospered in the tent-making business in Ephesus and have offered me a position at a good salary to open a branch in Philippi, and from there to develop and supervise their interests in the principal cities of Macedonia. I can do this work; it will not be any harder for me than the care of all the churches, and I will have abundant opportunity for Christian work and can lay by a little something for the rainy day which I can see coming."

Matthew said, "My story of the life of Christ is having a large sale and is bringing me in enough to pay my expenses, but my business experience tells me that I ought to have a larger margin. Persecution may come and sales would fall off. I have a chance now to take my old position, and I know that I can make enough out of it not only to support myself and family, but to take care of the rest of you if you should get into trouble. And then, too, I will have more leisure for writing and can probably help the cause more in this way than by traveling about the country."

Andrew said, "Peter, do you remember the day when you thought that you had lost your wife's mother? Do you see that sand beach over there? That is where we beached our boat after the miraculous haul of fish, and where we quit the fishing business, and where the Master said, 'Fear not, from henceforth thou shalt catch men.' How long a time is 'henceforth'?"

"Do you see that hillside over there? That is where the Master fed the five thousand, and I can see the very spot where the lad stood when I asked him to give up his lunch for the Lord to multiply. Don't you remember the look of compassion and longing on the Master's face when He looked out over the multitude and asked us to pray that laborers might be thrust forth into His harvest? If we are going to continue to pray that other men may rise up, leave all, and follow Him, can we do less?"

John, who was leaning against Peter, felt a big tear fall on his hand, and, looking over to Paul, he saw his jaw set, the old fire come back into his eye and the old war-horse look into his face, and he quietly said, "Men, I don't believe we need to talk about this any more; let us pray." And as they prayed the things of time and sense receded; a light breeze rustled in the near-by treetop, reminding them of the "rushing mighty wind" of the day of Pentecost, and of the marvelous power with which Peter had preached the gospel on that day. They seemed also to see the Master Himself standing on the shore, just a few rods away, and to hear Him saying, "Launch out into the deep and let down your nets for a draught," and, "Fear not, from henceforth thou shalt catch men."

They looked, and the evening caravan for Tyre was just swinging into sight. "Good-bye," said Paul. "I must catch the next boat for Ephesus, and will get Aquila to put up the money for a campaign in that old city that will shake the whole of Asia."

"Good-bye," said Peter. "Andrew and I will just say good-bye to the folks and we will have time to join the midnight caravan for Babylon and may keep on east as far as the land of Sinim."

"Good-bye," said Matthew. "There is a group of publicans down in Jerusalem who were going in with me on this tax-gathering proposition, but I will get them to join me in financing a five-years' campaign in Egypt and up the Nile as far as Ethiopia. I have heard from the Ethiopian treasurer that practically the whole country is open to us, and he believes that all Ethiopia will soon stretch out its hands unto God."

"Good-bye," said John, and he sat there alone till the stars came out, and the waves on the beach, impelled by the rising wind, sounded like the voice of many waters, and he said to Him that stood by, "Lord, do not charge this thing against them. I, too, have felt that way at times, as Thou knowest, and I would have left this work but for the fact that Thou didst prevent and strengthen me. They too are ready to live and die for Thee, as I am."

"I thank Thee for Andrew, for his deep life and steady faith. If it please Thee let him stay and work with Peter, and then the one who can chase a thousand shall put ten thousand to flight."

"And now, Lord, let us see Thee ever before us, ever hear Thy voice, and walk and work with Thee, and we will not fear what men can do unto us."—Selected.

GIVE what you have; to someone it may be better than you dare to think.—Longfellow.

THE SECOND MILE

Tired with your heavy burden,
 Weary when the day is done,
 Thankful that your task is ended
 With the setting of the sun.
 Then is added another burden,
 Best to meet it with a smile,
 Someone must be always ready
 To travel the second mile.

The willing ones stand ready
 To lighten another's care,
 With a smile and a word of courage
 They lift the other's share.
 Quietly, without a murmur,
 They shoulder another's work,
 Strong ones—never known to falter,
 Or the added task to shirk.

Never backward—ever onward,
 From strength to strength they go,
 Untiring, unfaltering, unwavering,
 As more like the Master they grow.
 God bless the burden-bearer,
 Whose steady hand and ready smile
 Reaches out to help the other fellow,
 And travels the "extra" mile.

—Margaret Denton.

PERFECT TRUST

By Lucille LeCrone

"Not thine, nor mine to question or reply
 When He commands us, asking 'how,' or 'why';
 He knows the cause; His ways are wise and just,
 Who serves the King must serve with perfect trust."

WHAT wonderful words of wisdom for the Christian are contained in the above lines by Henry Van Dyke! What food for thought, study and meditation! The poem itself is beautiful, and stirs me to the depths, but how much more beautiful is the truth it presents. Not until the Christian has learned fully the meaning of trust, not until he has learned to commit his all to God, will he be able to appreciate the privileges that he may enjoy as a Christian.

One thing the child learns early in life is to trust his parents, and this trust is perfect and complete. It is a difficult task to shake it. If he is an obedient child he does as father and mother say without questioning, and does not make it necessary for them to explain to him why they want a certain thing done in a certain way. He soon comes to realize that they know what is best, and that it is to his own advantage and for his own good to follow their instructions and advice.

How much more, then, ought we to trust our Heavenly Father! He who is from everlasting to everlasting, who created the heavens and earth and all that in them is, who is all-wise and knows the end from the beginning, is certainly able to know our every need and to provide for it. All we need to do is to recognize and acknowledge this fact. How much of unnecessary worry and anxiety would leave us. How much happier and contented we would be.

The Psalmist David said, "Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and he shall sustain thee." If we could only grasp the greatness of his meaning! God's way may seem hard and strange to us at times. We may not be able to understand it at all, but perfect trust doesn't need to understand. It doesn't ask why. It learns to be grateful for events, however sad and bitter, which teach the necessity of depending upon God, and the incapability of man to care for himself alone. It rejoices in hardships and trials which strengthen faith and bring the Father nearer.

Just how complete should my trust be? "Trust in him at all times; ye people, pour out your heart before him: God is a refuge for us."—Psa. 62:8. "Trust ye in the Lord for ever."—Isa. 26:4. Thus have the Psalmist David and the Prophet Isaiah instructed us.

"Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body what ye shall put on . . . But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you," said our Savior. That is the lesson we need to learn, especially in these days of depression and hard times. It is the Christian who has learned this lesson who is the happy Christian. He is the one who gets the most joy and the greatest happiness out of being a Christian.

"Thou canst calm the troubled mind,
 Thou its dread canst still;
 Teach me to be all resigned
 To my Father's will."

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION

"Suppose I am able to support my family only by close economy; should I pay one-tenth?" Yes. And if for no other reason than because the remaining nine-tenths will go further.

"Strange logic that. Can it really be true?" I believe it to be absolutely true, and the reasons are based on the personal testimony of thousands, who have tested it. Will you not try it and prove its truthfulness? Now, I admit that if you should do it for this purpose only, you would, or a least ought to be, disappointed. But I take it for granted that you are a Christian, that you do want to honor God with your substance, that you do trust His promises, and that you do want to do your duty. With these motives, you will not be disappointed. But do not make the mistake of judging a lifetime by the experience of a few weeks or months.—From How to Tithe and Why.

SAUL OF TARSUS

TARSUS, at present a somewhat unimportant port on the Cyndus River and possessed of a heterogeneous and fluctuating population, was, in the first century of the Christian era, a flourishing commercial city of no inconsiderable fame. Ships of all nations, caravans of all races poured into the city's limits to sell, buy, and barter.

In this place was the Apostle to the Gentiles born. As Saul himself, in his appeal to the captain of the guard for a public hearing, declared, "I am a man which am a Jew of Tarsus, a city in Cilicia, a citizen of no mean city . . . ." (Acts 21:39). The prestige of the city named gave him just reason to be proud of his birthplace.

By his statement as given above, Saul (called otherwise Paul) revealed his Hebraic descent; but it remained for a later assurance to the officer who guarded him to uncover his full nationality. "Then the chief captain came, and said unto him, Tell me, art thou a Roman? He said, Yea. And the chief captain answered, With a great sum obtained I this freedom. And Paul said, But I was free born." Acts 22:27-28.

To be a Roman citizen in the early days of the Empire was to be considered a ruler of the earth. Haughty, proud, tyrannical, the Roman looked down on those outside the pale of citizenship in the capital city of the world as being almost less than dogs. No Roman was bound without a trial; no Roman could be tortured or abused without due process of the law. There is little wonder, then, that those "which would have examined him" left the Apostle immediately upon learning of his Roman birth. Death was the penalty for inflicting punishment on the citizen of Rome without full legal procedure.

Not only did Saul have the distinction of Roman birth, but he was also a Pharisee. This honor, for a Jew, was even greater than to have citizenship in the Empire. The Pharisees were the leaders, the religious rulers to a great extent. Their sect was the largest in Judah, their power the most extensive. Saul, as the son of a Pharisee, and as a Pharisee himself, received the honors and reputation of the entire sect.

Of Saul's early life there is little record. The date of his birth is unknown, and, until the fourth century after Christ, even his own statement regarding his birthplace was seriously questioned by tradition, which ascribed him to Giscala. The cause for his possessing two biblical names is still a matter for conjecture.

The greater part of the Apostle's training was obviously Hebrew. As a student in the school of Gamaliel (Acts 22:1-3), greatest of the Jewish scholars, he gained thorough knowledge of the Mosaic law as modified, of course, by centuries of interpretation and tradition. His trade was tent-making, as was the case with many a man of like birth and attainments.

"Whether he was married or not is a question which has been disputed from early times; his expressions in 1 Cor. 7:8; 9:5, were taken by Tertullian to imply that he was not, and by Clement of Alexandria and Origen to imply that he had once been, but that he became a widower," remarks Rev. Edwin Hatch, in the ninth revised edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

The combination of being a Pharisee and of being a careful student of the law fired Saul with a religious zeal closely approaching fanaticism, if not altogether reaching it. The heretical Christians found themselves the unwilling cynosures of the young man's eyes. As a leader of the Hebrews, Saul engaged more and more in the persecutions which had their culmination in the martyrdom of Stephen. According to the record (Acts 7:58), the official witnesses of the death of the first martyr "laid down their clothes at a young man's feet, whose name was Saul." This, with Acts 8:1, "And Saul was consenting unto his death," would indicate that even at this time, Saul was a recognized leader of the persecuting element.

Following the death of Stephen, there arose "a great persecution against the church which was at Jerusalem; and they were all scattered abroad throughout the regions of Judaea and Samaria, except the apostles" (Acts 8:1). This persecution was largely instigated by the zealous Saul, who "made havock of the church." So intense was his anxiety to exterminate the heresies of the new teachings of the disciples of the Way that he requested letters from the high priest, empowering him to bring bound to Jerusalem all Christians whom he might find in Damascus. During his journey to the latter city came the miraculous conversion which made the humble author of thirteen New Testament books out of the overbearing tyrant.

Haughty and proud though Saul was until the light which changed the entire course of his life appeared to him on the Damascus road, he was nevertheless inspired in every act by the thought that he was truly serving Jehovah. By this man, tent-maker, student, and zealot, countless millions of lives have been affected. Jew and Gentile alike have felt the power which emanated from him and have respected it, although in widely different ways.

Arlen Marsh.

In the noted city of Tarsus, of Cilicia, lived a Hebrew, believed to have been rich and of authority. He was none other than the father of Saul, or Paul, as we know him and who later became the great Apostle.

Saul was a Hebrew of the Hebrews, his father and mother both being Jews of the tribe of Benjamin. While Saul's parents spoke the Hebrew language, Saul was also instructed and taught to speak the Greek language. He was born a Roman citizen.

Because of the fame of Tarsus, as a great seaport, where people of all nations met, Saul had the privilege of meeting Greeks, Romans, Armenians and other nationalities, which gave him a great insight into the lives, habits and customs of others, and which was of great benefit to him later in his life.

When a mere lad, Saul was educated well as is seen later in his writings. He was taught the absolute authority of his parents by divine right, all children of the Hebrew families being taught strict obedience as a divine command from God.

At the age of about thirteen, Saul was sent away for further schooling. The inhabitants of Tarsus were very zealous in the pursuits of philosophy and Greek studies of every kind, surpassing that of the Athenians and Alexandrians, and Saul was well educated, as is shown by his writings. His father taught him the trade of tent-making, so that he would be able to make his own way and to avoid idleness.

Saul was more favored than many of his day in that he was permitted to study under Gamaliel, the grandson of Hillel, one of the greatest rabbans and esteemed as the last great rabban of Israel. Gamaliel was a Pharisee though of a more liberal type, and he instructed his students thoroughly in the oral and written laws of the Jews. He taught by eye as well as ear, while many of the truths and lessons were brought out through discussion and argumentation by questions, answers, and parables, united with memorizing. Gamaliel believed and taught that education and religion were necessities of one's life. He had a lofty character, an enlightened mind, and he demanded sincerity and a high moral standard of his pupils.

The life of his teacher had a great effect upon Saul, as did also the lives of the prophets, priests, psalmist and scribes, of which he read.

Saul, as a Pharisee of the strictest sect, was brought up to consider the study and observance of the laws of Jehovah as the supreme aim in life. He also believed in learning by doing and was one of the most zealous Jews in doing what he believed to be God's will. He practiced the keeping of oral laws and traditions beyond the zeal of any of his forefathers.

After Christ's ascension and the day of Pentecost, when the church first came into existence, Saul was one of the most zealous persecutors of the Christians. He was guilty of threatenings and blasphemy against them, causing them to be put in prison and punished, or compelling them to blaspheme. He was also one who consented to the stoning of Stephen, and it was not until after Christ appeared to him in a vision on the road to Damascus, that Saul was converted and became our wonderful, fearless and beloved Apostle, Paul.

Ida Lapp.

Paul the great Apostle of the Gentiles and the founder of Christian theology, was before his conversion a Pharisee of the deepest dye. He was born of Hebrew parents in Tarsus, a most important city of Asia Minor, being its chief sea-port and trading center. It was possessed of a fine harbor, and it was at the end of a long trail through the mountain passes to the rich interior.

At Tarsus also was one of the three great universities of the time. The people themselves were so intent on education that the university was filled entirely with native students. None of the learned men of other universities came to Tarsus, but Tarsus sent out numerous teachers and philosophers to all parts of the known world. Thus Tarsus had gained a reputation for being a very erudite city.

So we see that the environment of Paul or Saul, as he was first called, was conducive to the polishing of his Jewish ideas and tendencies by contact with the best thought of the day. He could not help rubbing shoulders with some of the most learned men of the time—men who had been instructed at their native university, had gone out to give their best to the world and now in the sunset of life were returned to their own native city to equip and send out others yet in the dawn of life to carry to the world the light of culture. Saul was very apt to come in contact with caravan drivers from the interior and with sailors from all the world. He would be very apt to hear from their own lips their strange beliefs and superstitions in religious matters.

Then, again, Tarsus itself was a fine city, exercising great authority, though most of its inhabitants were not citizens. The few who were citizens were especially favored. Saul's parents evidently were Roman citizens, for Saul claimed citizenship of Rome and of Tarsus, "no mean city." In time of danger and greatest stress, he would therefore be very apt to think first of his privileged citizenship in such a privileged city.

According to Jewish custom, every Jew, of whatever rank, was required to learn a trade and Saul learned the occupation of tent-making. In later life, when he became a wandering evangelist, he could preach the gospel and make it a free gospel.

At the age of about thirteen his parents sent him to Jerusalem to study at the feet of Gamaliel, one of the most learned yet tolerant rabbis of the age. The influence of this great teacher was strongly felt in Saul's whole life. Gamaliel was a Pharisee who, although strong in his doctrines and strict in his teachings, was loved and revered by most of the Jews of the time. It may have been because this Pharisee was diplomatic and tactful and could overlook the non-essentials. That same tolerance of the teacher, Gamaliel, is reflected in the actions of the later Paul.

It was under the tutelage of such an instructor that Saul became a Pharisee. Taking that into consideration, in addition to his home training and life in such a city as Tarsus, is it any wonder that the Lord found in this man one fitted as a chosen vessel to bear His name to the Gentiles? And is it any wonder that this man gave to the world the foundation of Christian theology in such matchless language as we find in his Epistles?

Cecil Smead.

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 124 N. Parkside Ave., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois
For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"BELOVED, DO NOT BE SURPRISED AT THE ORDEAL THAT HAS COME TO TEST YOU . . . YOU ARE SHARING WHAT CHRIST SUFFERED; SO REJOICE IN IT."—1 PETER 4:12.

FROM AN IOWA CLASS

THE Waterloo and Cedar Falls Berean class meets regularly each Friday evening. This winter we are varying the Berean lessons with character studies and consideration of various chapters and books, as the leader may choose.

Sisters Adele Howe and Virginia Phillips led the class last Friday and helped us to get better acquainted with Samson. Sister Howe read and discussed the story of his life. Then Virginia presented him as a type of Jesus in that he was appointed to save Israel from the Philistines, as Jesus is appointed to save Israel and His people from sin.

She also brought out the contrast between him and Jesus. Like Jesus, Samson was anointed with great power, but unlike Jesus, he lost that power through lack of love, faith, obedience and prayer, and because his life was wholly flesh centered.

Virginia has led the class but few times but she showed great improvement over the last time she led. The most of our class is adult, but our president is Roland Howe who has not yet reached that learned estate, and we aim to keep the class work within the range of juniors, knowing full well that we older ones have much to learn there even yet.

Virginia told us that as we keep close to Jesus through His Word, prayer, and yielding to Him we have faith, love, and power. How often we need this truth brought home to us!

Alta King

The preceding article by Sister King is just the type of report we would like to have sent in frequently from all of our classes. Throughout the country there are classes who are all united in searching the Scriptures in an effort to broaden their knowledge of God's Word and gain inspiration for daily living.

If you have benefited by your study, if you have found a new thought, if you see a new type, or a character portrayed in a different role than that in which you have been accustomed to picture him, if there is a thought presented which is especially comforting or encouraging to you, do as Sister King has, and pass it on, that the rest may benefit thereby.

WHAT am I to do? I expect to pass through this world but once. Any good work, therefore, any kindness, or any service I can render to any soul of man or animal, let me do it now. Let me not neglect or defer it, for I shall not pass this way again.—An Old Quaker Saying.

REPORT OF IOWA STATE BEREAN SOCIETY

THE Iowa Bereans assembled on the last Thursday of August at the camp ground. The business meeting was opened at nine o'clock, with Esther Sealine presiding.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The Isolated committee reported 18 letters written and three circuit letters started, one of which has gone around. The Tract committee reported that some tracts, "How to Study the Bible", by J. W. Williams, were printed by the Bereans, and some were sold. The Literary committee submitted one article by Alta King. These reports were accepted.

The treasurer's report was read and accepted.

The following reports were submitted by local societies: Waterloo-Cedar Falls—Held 39 meetings with an average attendance of 8. Gladbrook—Held some meetings, but interest seemed to die out. Reported lack of leader.

Bro. Melville Lyon gave an interesting summary of the National Berean business meeting at Oregon. He stated that good progress was shown by the reports from various states. He told us of a new Berean book which was being printed, and of the great good being done by the Berean Relief committee, in charge of Sister Orpha Sanford.

It was moved and seconded that a Cradle Roll be established to keep in touch with the Isolated Juniors. This department is to keep them posted on the Berean work.

The results of the election of officers were as follows: president, Esther Sealine, Stanhope; vice-president, Alta King, Cedar Falls; secretary, Ward Williams, Gladbrook; treasurer, Blanche Harland, Cedar Falls.

The following committees were appointed for the coming year: Isolated, Gladys Hunt Cook, Waterloo; Organization, Alta King, Cedar Falls; Tract, Lora Reinhard, Gladbrook; Literary, Bernice Fish, Maxwell.

Ward Williams, Secretary

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

GREETINGS to all my Page friends, and may the greatest blessings of LOVE be yours this Christmastide.

Lois Hunt.

THE SUPREME GIFT OF LOVE

"GOD IS LOVE." God loves us. He loved us so much that He gave us the greatest gift of all—His only Son. Therefore, we must love one another, thus showing our love for God.

At this Christmas time we celebrate the birth of our Savior—God's supreme gift of love. Let us show our love for God and Jesus by "thinking of" and "doing for" those about us who are in need, or those sick and unhappy.

What better gift can we give than ourselves?

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Copy the most important thoughts in the Bible verses 1 John 4:7-19.
2. Learn verse 15.
3. Read the Christmas stories in Luke 2 and Matthew 2.
4. Plan how many ways you can help others this Christmas.

A CHRISTMAS PRAYER

"His name shall endure for ever: his name shall be continued as long as the sun: and men shall be blessed in him: all nations shall call him blessed."—Psa. 72:17.

Dear Father in Heaven: I thank Thee for the Christ-child, who was born so long ago, but is still the Guide and Friend of us all. Though I may not bring gifts to His manger-bed as did the shepherds and wise men, wilt Thou help me, for His sake, to have the true Christmas spirit of good will and generosity? May all people everywhere come to know and love Him, and learn to be happy together as His friends! Amen.—Rev. R. W. Barstow.

A BABY KING

How many of our readers love little babies? I can hear you all saying, "I do!" Well, I do, too, and this week I want to tell you about a little Baby who was born many, many years ago.

His mother and father were far away from home. When evening came they tried to get a room in a hotel; but the hotel was crowded with people. There was no room for them anywhere in the town.

So they went to a stable in a cave back of the hotel. And that night the heavenly Father sent a little Baby to them!

How happy they were! And some shepherds were happy, too. They were out on the hillside watching their flocks.

Suddenly they heard music and saw some angels. The angels sang about the new-born Baby in the stable. And a wonderfully bright star shone in the sky.

The shepherds followed the star and came to the stable. When they saw the Baby, they fell down and worshiped Him. The heavenly Father told them that this Baby was to be their King!

Soon after the shepherds visited Jesus, some very rich, wise men came to see Him. They came from a country far, far away.

They, too, had followed the wonderfully bright star, because they had learned it would lead them to a Baby King. But they never dreamed that it would lead them to a stable!

These wise men loved God, and they were searching for the Baby Jesus because they knew He was the King for whom they had been waiting. The star led them straight to the stable, and there they found Mary, and Joseph, and Jesus.

When they saw the Baby, they bowed down low before Him, and they gave Him rich gifts which they had brought for Him. The wise men believed that nothing was too good for the Baby Jesus. Mary and Joseph did not understand what it all meant, but they were happy because people loved their Baby.

When the wise men had worshiped the Baby Jesus, and had given Him their gifts, they turned toward home. They had many miles to travel, for they lived far away. They had to travel on camels' backs and brave many dangers.

—Frances Woodall.

"The strength of the hills, and the depths of the sea,
The earth with its fulness, belong unto Thee,
And yet to the lowly Thou lendest Thy ear,
So ready their humble petitions to hear."

"God has made towering mountains and spreading plains, fertile valleys and fruitful hillsides, radiant skies and billowy seas, but the most beautiful and entrancing things He has created are just common people living their lives and doing their work as best they can."—John Gordon.

"JOAB was commander in chief of King David's armies."—S. E. H.

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 12. — December 20, 1931

THE SUPREME GIFT OF LOVE

1 John 4:7-19

Devotional Reading: John 15:12-17

GOLDEN TEXT

Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another.—1 John 4:11.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: The Supreme Gift of Love.

Basic Truth: "Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift."—2 Cor. 9:15.

I. God's Gift. "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."—John 3:16.

In sending Jesus to Bethlehem to man, God made a gift, the end and fullness of which man cannot measure. That gift included all that Jesus grew into and all that He accomplished. It included the Savior's sore trials, His torture at Calvary, and His soon return in power. All revealed God's outflowing love to man.

Beautiful it is for man on another anniversary of Christ's birth to commemorate God's gift to us by our gifts one to another. May our gifts not only bespeak our love for our fellows, but bear witness that we truly love God the Giver.

II. Christ's Gift. "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."—John 15:13.

From the beginning of His active career our Savior, whose birth we soon commemorate, gave His life power and ability for His friends. Though He needed nought from them, yet He gave them in every manner. He gave hope to His followers, confidence to believers, health to those in need, food to the hungry, strength to the weak, forgiveness to the sinners, life to the dead. He gave His all for us.

Like His Father, He testified His love for us by the gifts of service which He presented. Nor are these gifts yet withdrawn. What wonderful consolation comes to the true, devoted Christian in all days of affliction and distress as an evident gift from Christ.

III. Man's Gift. "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service."—Romans 12:1.

Such a presentation reveals love. It is a love-gift. There is no other way to show one's love for God than by serving God. True love cannot be withheld from serving. Such is an expression of "faith which worketh by love." Gal. 5:6.

To give self to God is, first of all, to confess Christ in all that the word implies: to receive Him as God's appointed Savior, Teacher, Corrector, Director, for everyday life activity. It is to lovingly seek and obey His wish and will.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

Love is a wonderful lesson theme. It is the greatest thing in the world (life excepted).

Love makes life worth while. It prompts sacrifices, bears others' burdens, is longsuffering in weakness, merciful in distress, and patient in mistake. Lord, give us more love.

Love

- led Christ to the cross;
- brought Paul to a martyr's death;
- makes a person a good Samaritan;
- carries the gospel to darkened lands;
- is the essence of all that is good.

Our Sunday school lessons are of no worth to us unless they make us better and of more use to the Master. This lesson on love isn't going to help you unless you put love in practice. Teacher, get your pupils to promise to do some deeds of love during the coming week. Have them do something for the Lord. This can be done by having them do some act of love for their parents. Have them promise before class is dismissed. If necessary, aid them in planning their little labors of love. Actions speak louder than words.—C. E. R.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

"Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another."—1 John 4:11.

The greatest gift the world has ever known was the gift of God's Son to die that those who believe in Him might live. God's love for mankind was manifested in this way. God is so good and great that it is hard to comprehend Him in all His attributes. We, so insignificant, take many things for granted without seemingly any thought of the source from which they come. How little we consider the Giver of every good and perfect gift!

"We ought also to love one another." Love thy neighbor as thyself is the second great commandment. Jesus said, "A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another. By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another."—John 13:34, 35.

"Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him."—1 John 2:15. Love is an important attribute of every Christian, but it makes a difference as to what is loved. God loves us; let us reciprocate His love by loving others.—L. A. R.

SENIOR AND ADULT CLASSES

Why Jesus Was Given by God

Man's need of a savior is evident. "For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God."—Rom. 3:23. "And sin when it is finished, bringeth forth death."—James 1:15. "The wages of sin is death."—Rom. 6:23.

The writer once heard a man say he had no need of baptism, as he had never sinned. The Scriptures tell a different story. "If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. If we say that we have not sinned, we make him (God) a liar, and his word is not in us."—1 John 1:8, 10. "But the scripture hath concluded all under sin."—Galatians 3:22.

Man must recognize his need of a savior before Jesus can become his Savior. On the day of Pentecost Peter convinced three thousand that they were sinners and needed salvation. They asked: "What shall we do?" The answer was: "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ for the remission of sins."—Acts 2:37, 38.

God sent Jesus to redeem mankind from death. Jesus said: "I am the way, the truth, and the life."—John 14:6. Peter adds: "For there is no other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved."—Acts 4:12. Jesus is indeed the "light of the world"; "the light of life."—John 8:12.

—H. A. S.

INTERMEDIATE CLASS

Topic: Why Jesus Came to Earth.

Away back in the beginning of time, God created the earth and placed in it all varieties of flowers, trees, vegetables, animals, birds, insects, and lastly, man. Everything was in perfect order, and God, looking over the work of His hands, called it "good and very good". Picture in your minds a healthy man and woman, living in a beautiful home, with perfect surroundings. It leaves nothing to be desired, does it? One would think that this couple, realizing that God had been the Giver of all, even the Maker, would desire only to love and obey Him. But no, God put only one restriction before them and even that one they did not obey. And so it was that disobedience came upon the earth, and trouble always follows in the steps of disobedience. We all know that by our own experience. Man continued to do evil and grew worse and worse as time went on.

But in spite of his not listening to God, He still loved man, and knowing that man could never of himself get back to that perfect state, God sent a Savior into the world to teach man the ways of God more perfectly. And if we will accept this Savior and believe what He tells us in His Word, He will return us to that perfect condition. Soon He is coming again to do that very thing—cleanse the earth of all wickedness, restore it to its original beauty and give it for an eternal home to those who will obey Him.

We all want to learn what we must do in order to be given a place in that beautiful home.—M. G.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

BOTHER AUSTIN OVER THE RADIO

F. L. Austin will broadcast Sunday morning, December 13, from six-thirty to seven-thirty, over WCMA, fourteen hundred kilocycles. His subject is, "God's Super Government".

GRAND RAPIDS, MICHIGAN

The attendance at Sunday School is overflowing capacity again this winter, and the auditorium has been crowded full also at church services the past few weeks. It is gratifying to have so many adults showing an interest in the church work.

Superintendent Townsend has his Christmas committees working and they are preparing a program which we trust will be a credit to the cause.

On Thursday night, December 3, the Berean society put on a musical program. The house was crowded, and the musical numbers of various kinds met a warm and hearty response.

And now all eyes turn to the Christmas season, and the celebration of the birthday of our Lord.

F. E. Siple, Pastor.

NIAGARA FALLS AND FONTHILL

The two weeks' meetings held by Bro. Harry Sheets, of Virginia, at the Fonthill church were very instructive and much enjoyed, although attendance was not as large as we had hoped for.

A baptismal service was held at the Falls church on Sunday morning, November 22, when Margaret Shute, Helen Elliott, and Marion McClellan were baptized. We greatly rejoiced over the confession of faith by these three girls, of whom we are so fond.

Bro. Sheets is at present conducting meetings at the Falls church, where we feel sure the brethren are hearing some splending sermons as we did in Fonthill.

Bro. Randall and Bro. Sheets journeyed to Lancaster on Saturday evening, November 28, where a Bible study was held at the home of Bro. and Sr. Ahlstrom.

The members of the Church of God have been invited to participate in a special service in the Anglican Church, Fonthill, on Wednesday evening of this week.

Bro. and Sr. Joseph Fletcher, of Fonthill, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, which arrived on Thursday, November 26.

THE HERALD A CHRISTMAS GIFT

Many of you each year send The Restitution Herald to your friends as a very fitting Christmas gift. The price for a yearly subscription sent to your friend as such a gift is reduced from $2.00 to $1.50. In planning your Christmas list do not overlook the opportunity of sending Christian cheer not once a year, but once each week during the year. Your friend will be reminded of the giver each week and you cannot estimate the joy, comfort, and benefit that will result from your thoughtfulness.

NOTICE OF ADDRESS

Correspondents may address Bro. F. L. Austin at 5439 Ohio Street, Austin Station, Chicago, Illinois.

AT RIPLEY, ILLINOIS

Bro. C. E. Lapp will keep his regular appointment (D. V.) over next week end, December 12, 13, with the brethren at Ripley. Bro. Lapp is doing some earnest work in the state, and we trust that the brotherhood will do its part in cooperating to the fullest extent, that God's cause may be advanced.

MEETINGS AT KOKOMO, INDIANA

The newly organized congregation at Kokomo is greatly indebted to Elder J. H. Anderson for his series of inspiring scriptural discourses. He was aided in this series, covering a period of two weeks, by Bro. Vaughn Long, who was with us over the week-end; by Bro. D. G. Harvey, who conducted services Friday evening, and Bro. O. J. Parker, who was in charge Monday evening. While there were no candidates for baptism, the interest was unusually good, despite the handicap offered by the weather. May we take this opportunity of thanking all those who aided in making this revival a success.

Yours in the service,
Edgar Harvey, Secretary.

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

The young people of the church enjoyed an outing at the home of the pastor and family on Val Vista Street, Pomona, recently. About thirty attended and all reported a pleasant time.

We were glad to see Sr. Marion Richards at services again on the fourth Sunday, after a prolonged absence.

While making a brief visit to San Diego recently, Bro. and Sr. Railsback called on Bro. W. R. Young, who is an earnest student of prophecy and is editing a paper known as "The Antitype". It was inspiring to hear him quote and expound the Scriptures. He is in the eighties and believes that the Second Advent is very near.

Bro. D. B. Jackson is convalescing nicely from his recent serious illness, at his home on Dalton Ave. We trust he will soon be able to attend services again.

Sr. Henrietta Billings writes that she arrived at the home of her daughter in Washington, D. C., on October 15, right-side up, after a pleasant journey across the continent, visiting other relatives enroute.

The local congregation appreciates the return of Bro. G. J. Rahn and family to Los Angeles. After December 15 they can be addressed at their home at 4707 St. Elmo Drive.

The Berean class is studying the prophecies of Zechariah. We are gaining knowledge of Israel's history, becoming familiar with prophetic statements, memorizing choice verses, and altogether receiving much benefit. Twenty-five were present at our last meeting.

ONCE MORE

The response to our appeal to Herald readers to send us remittances for their subscriptions was very gratifying, and we greatly appreciate your cooperation. But there are still many who are in arrears, or whose term is just expiring. Send in the amount at once so that you will not miss the interesting pre-Christmas, Christmas, and New Year issues. Or, let us know just how soon you will be able to remit.

BRUSH CREEK, OHIO

A two weeks' series of meetings, starting on November 15, came to a close Sunday evening, November 29, with an attendance that averaged well throughout. An attendance of two hundred or more listened to the closing sermon on "That Blessed Hope". On the second Sunday of the series of meetings Elder Patrick, of Ashland, Ohio, and former pastor of the Brush Creek church, was our speaker both morning and evening. Both of his sermons were much appreciated, and we trust that he may come again. God has given him many years of rich experiences in His vineyard.

The Brush Creek brethren rejoice again with the addition of others to the church. Five publicly confessed faith in the Lord, and were baptized Sunday afternoon, November 29. They are Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Nash, and Mr. Clifford L. Weaver, Troy, Ohio; and Miss Hazel C. Pearson, and Mr. Paul S. Jones, Tippecanoe City, Ohio. The first three named are young married people, and the latter two are both of high school age.

God has been good to us, and it is our trust that He may continue to lead us on to victory when the Lord returns, and that we as His servants may yet lead others to see their need of Christ as the only Savior to men.

Elder Sydney E. Magaw, Pastor.

TRAINING CLASS NEWS

The Bible Training Class was very sorry, last Monday morning, to learn that it would be impossible for Bro. Gerald Cooper to return to the class, for some time at least, on account of conditions arising in his home and the illness of his mother.

We shall miss you, Gerald, but hope your absence will not be for long, and that you will soon be able to return to finish the training which you have begun.

Bros. Cecil Smead and Richard Le Crone accompanied Bro. C. E. Lapp to Eldorado, Illinois, for his appointment over the week-end, to help him with the musical part of the services.

Ida Lapp, Secretary.

OUR THANK OFFERING

Mrs. R. A. Robinson,	$2.10
Frances Wynne,	2.00
Miss Abbie H. Fiske,	5.00
Mrs. Jennie Baker,	1.00
D. F. Beck,	3.00
Mrs. Lillian Railton,	4.00
Previously reported,	137.00

Total to date, $154.10

REPORT FOR NOVEMBER

Sermons and Bible lessons: Pleasant View, 2; Rensselaer, 2; Plymouth 1; North Salem, 1; Burr Oak, 1; Hillisburg, 2; Kokomo, 6; St. Louis, Mo., 1; Blush, Mo., 6.

Money received in Indiana: Pleasant View, $29.00; Rensselaer, $30.00; Plymouth, $15.00; North Salem, $6.00; Burr Oak, $10.00; Hillisburg, $20.50; Conference Board, $3.10; Dale Rouch, $1.00; Sr. Porter, $1.00; Ernest Logan, $1.00.

Expense: $16.60.

Note: We were with the Kokomo brethren for six services, and at the last of the meeting we had good crowds and interest. We had to close the meeting because of other meetings before we could reap results.

J. H. Anderson.

COMMUNICATION

As I sit and meditate, I must say that I had a good Christian mother, one that loved her heavenly Father and His Son. Her love for her children was real and devout, but God thought best and my mother's death came just before her thirty-ninth birthday. I was then a girl of only twelve years. I shall never forget the sorrow it caused me and my dear loved ones, as my mother gave her blessings to each one of us heart-broken children. With a smile and a clear voice she commended us to her God in prayer; she asked Him to be our Guide, our Support, our Leader, and our All through life.

When she gave me her parting words, she said, "Elizabeth, I must soon leave you to the mercy of my God. Let your mother's God be your God, and your three sisters and one brother that are younger than you. My dear child, accompany them to Sabbath school, and always pray God to guide you and care for you, and He will. He has promised He will never leave you."

I cannot repeat her instructions because of the sadness of her last words. Although that dear familiar voice has lain in the silent grave for over sixty-four years, I can still hear her words. Oh, dear ones, the joys of a happy home, the thoughts of a Christian mother have gone with me through life. As I sit here in my lonely home, my poor old heart yearns for just a word of sympathy. I am deaf and almost blind. I long for mother; I long for a home. This world is not my home. I seek one to come. Our dear Savior will soon come as He has promised.

I have always in my weakness and sorrow and poverty, by God's grace and assistance, been faithful to His cause. Now I am isolated, like a lost sheep left without a shepherd. Now my deafness is so bad I cannot hear the blessed Word of God heralded from a pulpit. But, Oh dear ones, when Christ shall come these old dim eyes shall see Him; these old deaf ears shall hear Him. Oh, glory to God! I shall be like Him, for I shall see Him as He is. As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness; I shall be satisfied when I awake with thy likeness. (Psa. 17:15.)

Dear readers of this paper, if you are not saved, Oh, why will you still delay? Death is sure. Our lives belong to God, for it is through Him and by Him that we live, move and have our being. Perhaps you have promised a mother that her God would be your God. Oh, dear one, make sure of it; yield to Him before it is too late; accept Him.

Pray for this old sister that has almost reached her fourscore years. God bless and sanctify you all. Yours in His name, 1132 3rd St., Webster City, Iowa.

Mrs. E. Pendleton,

OBITUARY

Viola V. Eaton was born in Pleasant Valley, Illinois, Dec. 11, 1868, and died at Mt. Carroll, Illinois, Nov. 1, 1931. She was united in marriage on Jan. 7, 1914, to William O. Kuhns at Marshalltown, Iowa. They made their home at Stockton, Illinois, Mr. Kuhns passing away in 1922.

She was converted early in life and united with the Church of God in Berryman township, and held her membership in the church at Oregon until her death. She was a member of the Delta Alpha Sunday school class of the Stockton M. E. church, and until her health broke she was a regular attendant at the meetings of this class and the worship service of the Methodist church.

She leaves to mourn her death five sisters: Mrs. Emma Vanderheyden, of Mt. Carroll, Illinois; Mrs. Wm. Ritenour, Savanna, Illinois; Mrs. Jas. Blair, Polo, Illinois; Mrs. Davis Crouse, Savanna; Mrs. Harlan Bell, La-Crosse, Wisconsin; two brothers: Amos R. Eaton, Blomington, Illinois; and Edw. D.

Eaton, Welch, Oklahoma; also her step-mother, Mrs. Eaton, of LaCrosse, Wisconsin. Her sister, Deliah, preceded her in death.

Funeral services were held at the Stockton Methodist church November 23, at 2:00 p. m., Dr. Thos. K. Griffith and G. Eldred Marsh, pastor of the Church of God at Oregon, Illinois, officiated. Interment was made in the Ladies' Union cemetery at Stockton.

HERALD RECEIPTS

Miss Helen Porter; Mrs. Ed. Tomlin; Mrs. W. I. Hunt; Roscoe Dunbar; Nellie M. Blakeley; Mrs. Minnie Kerr; Wayne Wilson; Mrs. A. J. Hoke; Mrs. Emma Claypool; Russell Shearer; Mrs. James Sanford; H. J. Stadden; Mary D. Goodyear; Frances Wynne; F. E. Siple; Esther Holmes; Mrs. M. H. Holland; Mrs. T. A. Weldon (for others); M. Fetters; Mary E. Elton; Beulah Wilson; J. A. Johnson; Mrs. A. J. Chaplin; Flossie Hardy; Mrs. Mary Staley; Herman Dickel; D. F. Beck; G. B. Sprinkle; Mrs. E. Pendleton; Mrs. Jennie Baker; S. E. Boyer; Vivian Magaw; Mrs. Will Cusey; Ruby Johnson; Flora H. Prior.

CONTRIBUTORS TO DOLLAR-A-MONTH CLUB AND TO TRAINING CLASS DEPARTMENT

Mary E. Carter; W. H. Boyer, treas. S. S. Class; Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Johnson; Lois Hunt; Lydia Railsback; Eva Stilson Grosch; Mrs. A. J. Hoke; Anna Hammond; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Railsback; Mildred Stantial; Mrs. Mary Calkins; Mrs. H. E. Russell; Mattie Benjamin; Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Austin; Mrs. Minnie Kerr; Virgil Claypool; Esther Holmes; Frances Wynne; Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Siple; Golden Rule S. S.; H. J. Stadden; Ethel Stadden; H. M. Stadden; R. S. Lindstrom; Mr. and Mrs. M. Fetters; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Netts; Mrs. David Beck; Lawrenceville (Ohio) Church and Sunshine Class; Mrs. R. A. Robinson; Conrad Dickel; Arthur Gilbey; Ida Vogel; Leota Hanson, mother and sister; Joseph H. Williams; Beulah Wilson; W. E. Boyer; S. H. Boyer; Fred C. Smith; T. M. Savage, Sr.; Sadie Savage; W. M. Boyer; Eva H. M. Fletcher; Leland Hanson; Lillian Railton; Harvey Krogh, Sr.; Silas M. Claypool; Almeda Glotfelty; R. H. Judd; Vivian Magaw.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME—

In some way or other we were notified of an incorrect address for Sr. Jessie M. Wilson, which we gave you in the Thanksgiving issue. Her correct address is, 1748 19th Ave., Oakland, California.

The Christmas story will surely ring out with gladness from the hearts of the many little tots and young folks that make up our largest Sunday school—Grand Rapids! Bro. Townsend has just reason to be proud of them. Their pastor, Bro. Siple, tells us that interest in all church services is increasing also.

Under the caption, "Saul of Tarsus," will be found three articles by students of the Training Class. In our English classes we have been studying the life of Paul, before and after his conversion. These articles cover the former phase, and in a later issue we hope to give you three covering the latter phase. We feel sure the work of the students is of interest to the readers of The Herald, and so take pleasure in presenting their themes from time to time.

Some of you who are so good at writing letters and have the time at your disposal, will surely turn instinctively to your desks and send a few words of cheer to Sr. Pendleton, after reading her touching letter in this issue. Let's send her an avalanche of Christmas greetings, and help her to realize she is not so alone in the world as her circumstances seem to indicate.

Somehow or other it seems to gladden our hearts when we hear that another of our busy ministers has found a little time to devote to that faithful, struggling band at Kokomo, Indiana. Bros. Anderson and Long have just finished a series of meetings there, which have meant added encouragement and consecration on the part of the church membership.

An interesting report of the meetings just concluded at Brush Creek church will be found in this issue. Being so long without a resident pastor, the brothers and sisters there are renewing their zeal and standing nobly by Bro. Magaw in his efforts to bring others to Christ. We pray that God's guidance will be with both shepherd and flock.

A special treat is in store next Sunday morning for those of us who are able to get station WCMA on the radio, for we will have the pleasure of hearing the voice of our beloved Bro. Austin, proclaiming the gospel message. Full particulars will be found on opposite page.

Bro. H. A. Sheets is doing some good work in the Lord's vineyard at Fonthill and Niagara Falls, as will be learned from Sr. Holland's report in this issue. Bro. Sheets is a zealous, consecrated servant, and we pray that his efforts may bring honor to God and to His Son, our Savior.

Sr. Almeda Glotfelty, of Lanark, Illinois, has recently lost by death, her stepson, Clay Glotfelty, son of Bro. Joe Glotfelty, the latter our deceased but dearly remembered brother in Christ, who for so long was one of the dependable members of the Illinois State Conference Board.

We are glad to tell you that Sr. DeWit Dauntler, of the Dixon, Illinois, church, is completely recovered from the injuries received in a fall several weeks ago. She is now able to be at Sunday school and church services once more.

We regret that we have no late news to report to you on the condition of Sr. W. S. Cooper, of Ripley, Illinois, who was ill in bed over the Thanksgiving holidays. Her son, Gerald, remained at home to assist his father. We trust Sr. Cooper will recover speedily and that Gerald will be permitted to resume his studies, if not this term, when class convenes next October.

Word comes to Bro. Marsh from Bro. T. A. Drinkard, Kennedale, Texas, that he is willing to take up the work of the gospel at any time that the brotherhood will extend an invitation to him. He says in part, "I know that we are facing and are in, distressing times, but God's work should go on. Why cease working because the times are difficult?" We can all agree with Bro. Drinkard that the times call for renewed consecration and increased diligence on the part of leaders and laymen alike.

MINISTERIAL LIST

FOLLOWING is the list of ministers of the Church of God who, upon request, have been recognized by the General Conference of the Church of God. Several others would be gladly included in this list should they so request.

ARKANSAS

Humphreys, R. A., Bear.
Jones, Owen, Driggs.
Weaver, C. E., Havana.

CALIFORNIA

Hammond, J. E., Anaheim, 735 Zeyn St.
McLeod, Norman John, Pomona, Val Vista St.

FLORIDA

Geiselman, N. H., Tampa, 312 W. Hillsboro Ave.

ILLINOIS

Austin, F. L., Chicago, 5439 Ohio St.
Johnson, Paul C., Oregon.
Johnson, J. Arthur, Oregon.
Lapp, C. E., Oregon.
Pope, E. Cedric, Cortland.
Conner, L. E., Dixon, 610 N. Brinton Ave.
Hatch, Paul M., Harvey, Rt. 1.
Marsh, G. Eldred, Oregon.
Woodward, Mrs. M. A., Oregon.

INDIANA

Anderson, J. H., Michigantown.
Smead, Cecil A., Burr Oak.

IOWA

Eychaner, A. J., Cedar Falls.
Howe, C. W., Waterloo, 1036 Newton St.
Jones, A. M., Eagle Grove.
Williams, J. W., Gladbrook.

MICHIGAN

Siple, F. E., Grand Rapids, 50 Cherryvale, S. W.

MINNESOTA

Daubanton, Fred W., St. Cloud, 1434 Breckenridge Ave.
Denchfield, John, Eden Valley.
Hoskins, Adna E., St. Cloud, 12 Eleventh Ave., N.
Savage, Thomas W., Waite Park.

NEBRASKA

Cowles, J. E., Ogallala.
Giesler, E. E., Moorefield.
Krogh, Harvey, Blair.
LeCrone, Richard, Omaha, 4145 Erskine St.
LeCrone, Lucille, Omaha, 4145 Erskine St.
Gordon, Grover, Holbrook.

NEW YORK AND ONTARIO

Randall, C. E., Fonthill, Ontario.

OHIO

Lyon, M. W., Cleveland, 13705 Diana Ave.
Magaw, Sydney E., Tippecanoe City.
Patrick, Jas. A., Ashland, Orange Road.

OREGON

Darby, A. W., Portland, 834 Gantenbein St., N.

TEXAS

Stewart, E. O., Sweetwater.

Drinkard, T. A., Kennedale, Rt. 2, Box 99-A.

VIRGINIA

Sheets, H. A., Woodstock, Rt. 1.

ARE YOUR BOOKS BALANCED?

By C. E. Lapp

HARDLY a day passes but we pick up the newspaper and read of some bank, either at home or in some distant place, closing its doors. What is the reason for this? By one who has worked in a bank, certain times there will be remembered. One of those times especially to be remembered is when the bank examiner comes to look into the books. Little needs to be said as to the outcome if the books fail to balance.

We have a good example of poor balancing of the books in the fifth chapter of the Acts. As the story goes, all Christians were of one mind and heart and were selling their property. The proceeds were laid at the Apostle's feet and were distributed as needed. One day Ananias, with Sapphira his wife, sold their possessions but kept back part of the price. Ananias then took the money which had not been withheld and laid it at Peter's feet. Immediately God revealed to Peter that some had been kept back, and he asked Ananias, "Why hast thou conceived this thing in thine heart? Thou hast not lied unto men but unto God."

Ananias was not a banker or he would have known that the great Examiner would be able to see the error immediately. When he heard the words of Peter, the Scriptures say that he "fell down and gave up the ghost." He must have neglected to put anything on the credit side of the Lord's account. Plenty on his own credit page, but not all of God's money put where it belonged!

Is it possible for us to apply this little story to our every day lives? How often when people are asked to give to the Lord's work, you will hear them say, "I am giving now as much as I can afford." Someone has very aptly expressed the thought that, until we give more than one tenth of our increase, we are not giving anything. What we owe and what we pay to God are more often than not two different items. When we do not tithe, we soon find that we are not giving as the Lord had prospered us.

Ananias and his wife both lost their lives because they held back from God what was due Him. If we do not pay Him what we owe, we will lose the spiritual blessing which comes from giving. He has promised abundant blessing and has assured us that He will supply all our needs according to His riches in glory through Christ Jesus.

Our great Examiner is coming one of these days and what will we tell Him when the books are not balanced properly? He may say, "All for self, home, family and pleasure, but none for the One who gives life everlasting!"

See if your books are balanced properly.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, DECEMBER 15, 1931

NUMBER 11

The King Come!

By G. Eldred Marsh

THEY ENTERED THE TEMPLE, a devout Jew, and his wife with a tiny Baby in her arms. None of the "pride, pomp, and circumstance" that usually marks the entrance of a prince of the realm, distinguished His coming! The future Ruler of the World was borne in His mother's gentle arms into the "City of the Great King." No cheering multitude was there to greet Him with glad acclaim. No stirring choruses echoed through the Temple's holy courts. Only the voice of an old man lifted in prayer, and the trembling accents of a woman "of great age" acknowledged Him! But in the fulness of time, when His people and the people of the world, have wearied of the ways of sin, and the King shall come again, when every eye shall witness the glory of His coming, then shall they crown Him King of kings, and Lord of lords forever more!

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

"The word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any twoedged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, . . . and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart."—Hebrews 4:12.

THE EDITOR'S PRAYER

OUR FATHER: In humble acknowledgment of our dependence upon Thee for all things, we approach to invoke Thy continued favors to rest upon us. May we not be led astray from the truth by the vain reasonings of men who are moved by their own fleshly desires to teach that which is contrary to the sacred text. Help us, O God, that we may rightly interpret, and faithfully apply Thy Word to our individual needs, and to our spiritual upbuilding in Christ Jesus, to the end that all of our efforts may be guided and blessed of Thee to the salvation of men. Amen.

A PROPHECY OF THE DEVIL

REGARDLESS of the personality, or the non-personality, of "the dragon, that old serpent, which is the Devil, and Satan," the names thus applied express the very essence of evil, the sum-total of iniquity. For "he was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there was no truth in him."

Yet the Bible ascribes to this malignant embodiment and personification of all sin, a strangely significant twofold prophecy which will eventually be fulfilled!

It is quite evident, however, that when this prediction is accomplished it will be done in a manner and at a time that is altogether contrary to the serpent's expressed purpose. And so, while the prophecy will be fulfilled, the dual statement as originally made by the devil will still be found to have been a lie!

The prophecy proclaimed by the opposer of all righteousness is found in Genesis, the third chapter, verses four and five. "And the serpent said unto the woman, Ye shall not surely die: for God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof" (i. e., the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, which was forbidden in Genesis 2:17), "then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil."

The two elements of this prophecy, both of which are false, but which are to become true eventually in harmony with God's will, are these: "Ye shall not surely die," and, "Ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil." Here, as on many other occasions, the devil has built a temple of lies in imitation of God's temple of truth.

THE FIRST PROPHECY

THE first recorded falsehood of the one whom the Scriptures declare to be the father of lies was, "Ye shall not surely die." The serpent undoubtedly intended that Eve should believe his statement to be true, and applicable to herself and to Adam at that time, having reference to their then present life. It is evident that that is the way in which they understood it. The tempter was assuring them that, regardless of their obedience or disobedience, they would live forever. Time has demonstrated most conclusively how false the statement was, in so far as it refers to time and to conditions. Adam and Eve together with all their posterity have been forced sorrowfully to acknowledge that the serpent lied.

The first Adam, who was the only created son of God, was mortal by nature, and having transgressed God's law, he died. The second Adam, who was the "only begotten Son" of God, being born of a mortal mother, was also subject to death, and died; not for His own sins, however, for He was without iniquity; "but for the sins of the whole world."

Because of His obedience, which resulted from His faith in God, the "last Adam was made a quickening spirit." That is, He was given power to impart life to others. All who become united with Him, as He was united to the Father, through faith and obedience, are made eligible to eternal life. "When he who is our life shall appear" the prediction of the serpent will be accomplished; for to those who live in Him it may then be said in truth, "Ye shall not surely die!"

THE SECOND PROPHECY

THE second prediction of the serpent, held out as an inducement for Eve to disobey God, was this: "Ye shall be as gods." That is, they should become "super-beings," something more than human; possessed of superior powers of discernment and accomplishment. The world is still pining for "super-men"! They desire to find in themselves the wisdom and the energy of God. They are prompted to this desire by ambition and pride. They say of their works, "Is not this great Babylon, that I have built . . .

Continued on page 166

WHO ONLY HATH IMMORTALITY ?

By George A. Waters

WE frequently read the statement, "God only hath immortality", in tracts and in articles appearing in THE HERALD. If this statement is true, we would like to have positive proof of the fact, because we understand from the Scriptures that Jesus has immortality, but we do not understand that He is God. If God "only hath immortality" then Jesus must be God, or He does not have it. We have neatly trapped ourselves on this question, and if we are honest we must admit that we are wrong somewhere. So let us search for our mistake.

When the Scriptures do not harmonize there is usually one of three things wrong: first, we do not rightly understand what we have read, which is usually the trouble; second, a mistake in the translation we are reading; third, something has been added to the original text. The last two are very difficult for the ordinary reader to ascertain, but the Diaglott is a great help to the searcher, especially when used with a good concordance, which gives the original of each word.

Let us return to our tangle. Is Jesus God? We read in Isaiah 45:5, 18, "I am the Lord, and there is none else, there is no God beside me. . . . Thus saith the Lord that created the heavens; God himself that formed the earth and made it; . . . I am the Lord; and there is none else."

Jesus said, John 17:3, "This is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent." Therefore we say with Paul in 1 Corinthians 8:6, "To us there is but one God, the Father, . . . and one Lord Jesus Christ". Surely, that position cannot be refuted.

Does Jesus have "immortality" and what is it? In Romans 2:6, 7, we are told that God will render eternal life to those who by patient continuance in well doing seek for glory and honor and immortality. If we must seek for it, it is evident that we do not have it. Therefore Paul tells us in 1 Corinthians 15:53, 54, that "this mortal must put on immortality", and when that has taken place "death is swallowed up in victory."

Jesus was a Man. (1 Tim. 2:5.) We believe Him to have been mortal, because He "died for our sins according to the scriptures", and "rose again the third day." 1 Cor. 15:3, 4. Jesus Himself says, "I am he that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive for evermore".—Rev. 1:18. Death was swallowed up in victory by Him, and according to the substance of Paul's statement that mortal must put on immortality to be victorious over death, we must admit that Jesus put on immortality. When He appears, "we shall be like him"—1 John 3:2. This occurs at the "last trump", "for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed, . . . this mortal must put on immortality."—1 Cor. 15:52, 53. If we put on immortality and are "like him", then He must have it, which proves our point from another angle.

Jesus said, "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God."—John 3:5. We believe "born of water" refers to baptism, which is foreign to our subject; but "born of the Spirit" we think refers to putting on immortality at the resurrection, because Jesus says in the next verse, "That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit."

Paul says, "There is a natural body and there is a spiritual body". The natural body (born of flesh) is first; it is "sown" (buried, at death) and raised a spiritual body. Hence the spiritual body is "afterward" (after the resurrection), and for that reason "flesh and blood can not inherit the kingdom of God," but must put on immortality and is then like the "heavenly" bodies. (1 Cor. 15:44-54.)

Jesus said that everyone that is born of the Spirit shall come and go as the wind does, without you knowing where they come from or where they go. (John 3:8.) In John 20:19, 24, we find that Jesus appeared in a room to the disciples when the doors were shut, thus proving His ability to come and go as He said one born of the Spirit should do. He also appeared in the midst of the disciples when they were talking, and they thought He was a Spirit (ghost), but He said, "Behold my hands and my feet, that it (the thing they could handle and see) is I myself; handle me, and see; for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me have."—Luke 24:36-39.

From the texts quoted we would define "immortality", as used in the Scriptures, as follows: a spiritual body, having flesh and bones, not subject to death, which the mortal body is changed into, or puts on, at the resurrection. If this definition is correct, Jesus is the only one who now has immortality, for He is the only one who has made such a change, having become the Firstfruits of the resurrection. (1 Cor. 15:23.)

Now let us turn to 1 Timothy 6:15, 16. We find here that it is going to be shown "who is the blessed and only Potentate, the King of kings, and Lord of lords; who ONLY hath immortality". Turning to Revelation 17:14, we read, "These shall make war with the Lamb, and the Lamb shall overcome them: for he is Lord of lords, and King of kings". Surely, Jesus is the Lamb. The Lamb is Lord of lords, and King of kings, which is equivalent to saying Jesus only hath immortality.

But, says someone, read the rest of verse 16. Very well. The next clause reads: "Dwelling in the light which no man can approach unto". If you will turn to the Diaglott you will find that the word for word translation is "Light dwelling in inaccessible", or putting it in English order, "dwelling in light inaccessible". The meaning of the two translations is practically the same. No doubt it refers to the light in which God dwells. But Jesus also dwells in this light, for He was "standing on the right hand of God" when Stephen saw Him (Acts 7:55, 56), and He said Himself, "I . . . am set down with my Father in his throne."—Rev. 3:21. Therefore any argument, arising from this clause which could be applied to God, could also be applied to Christ.

Continued on page 167

“WHAT WILT THOU?”

What wouldst Thou have me to do, Lord?
 Show me my task for today;
 Lowly or high as Thou wilt, Lord—
 Only give strength to obey.

Neither an hour, nor a lifetime,
 Dare I place out at my will;
 That is my Lord's part, and mine is Simply His plans to fulfill.

Whispers conflicting I hear, Lord!
 Counselling all the days through;
 'Tis for Thy counsel I wait, Lord,
 What wouldst Thou have me to do?

What wouldst Thou have me to be, Lord?
 What in Thy vineyard today?
 Busy or still as Thou wilt, Lord,
 Only Thy servant alway.

Never a work in that vineyard
 Dare I choose out at my will,
 That is the part of the Master—
 Mine His commands to fulfill.

Truly Thy servant I am, Lord,
 Truly mine eyes are on Thee,
 Take Thou life's choice from mine hand, Lord,
 What wouldst Thou have me to be?

Lives unsundered to Thee, Lord,
 Freely, whatever the cost—
 Fair though they look in the world's eyes,
 God counteth misspent and lost.
 —E. G. C. in Scattered Seed

THREE KEYS TO COURAGE

By Samuel E. Haney

“The righteous cry, and the Lord heareth, and delivereth them out of all their troubles.”—Psalms 34:17.

THE new convert to Christianity has many lessons to learn—some easy, some difficult—and the more arduous they are the more rapid progress he makes in the school of Christ. He, and too often we older ones, fail to take into account that patience, obedience, and faith are necessities to the working out of our salvation, and also must be considered as part of our curriculum.

James comments, “My brethren, count it all joy when you fall into divers temptations (‘various trials’, Diag.); knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience. But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing. If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him. But let him ask in faith, nothing wavering. For he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea, driven with the wind and tossed. For let not that man think that he shall receive any thing of the Lord.”—1:2-7.

Our Lord's parable (Luke 8:5-15) shows that only one of four who heard the Word of God, discerningly, was willing to take time to cultivate patience, obedience, and faith. The causes of the three failures were the devil's interference, temptations (trials), cares, riches, and pleasures of this life; while the fourth class was successful, the “seed” (Word of God) falling on good ground, into honest hearts. Having heard the Word, they kept it, regardless of all obstacles, and brought forth fruit with patience, an hundredfold. This is the class referred to in our text, “The righteous cry, and the Lord heareth, and delivereth them out of all their troubles.” And quite likely in these last days, when unrighteousness is so rampant in multiplicity of ways, the Word of God does not fall on more than one honest heart in a hundred, bringing forth fruit with patience, an hundredfold.

Those represented by the three faithless ones have many reasons for “crying”, but to no avail, as it is written, “On the day of God's anger wealth is of no avail: goodness alone saves man from death. The faith of a right-minded man is cleared by his own goodness, but a bad man is overturned by his own badness. Upright men are safe, through their goodness, but crafty men are caught by their own schemes. When a good man dies, his hope is never lost: the bad man's vaunting is lost. The good man is brought safe out of adversity: the bad man takes his place!”—Prov. 11:4-8, Moffatt.

It is edifying to note some of God's promises and arrangements to deliver His children from every kind of trouble or trial. “He delivereth the poor in his affliction, and openeth their ears (‘gets them to listen’, Moffatt) in oppression.”—Job 36:15.

“The angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him (‘His worshipers’, Moffatt), and delivereth them.”—Psa. 34:7. These guarding angels are not coming and going. They are encamped.

“Treasures of wickedness profit nothing: but righteousness delivereth from death.”—Prov. 10:2.

“Many are the afflictions of the righteous: but the Lord delivereth him out of them all.”—Psa. 34:19.

“Ye that love the Lord, hate evil: he preserveth the souls of his saints; he delivereth them out of the hand of the wicked.”—Psa. 97:10.

The paramount lessons God has assigned for us to learn while passing through this wilderness of sin are the cultivation of humility, patience, and obedience, which are essential traits in the working out of our salvation. But could we see ourselves from God's viewpoint we should be astounded to learn how impetuous and impatient we are at

Continued on page 167

JOSHUA'S LONG DAY

By J. S. Lyon

THE tenth chapter of Joshua, with its narrative of the battle between the five kings of the Amorites and the host of Israel led by their great general, Joshua, and the accompanying miracle of a lengthened day, has always been the mark against which the proponents of biblical criticism have shot their sharpest arrows, expressed the greatest incredulity.

Indeed, conscientious Christians and otherwise good commentators (see Jamieson, Fausset and Brown) assume that the expressions referring to the sun's standing still are merely poetic expressions, and that the motion of the earth or sun was in no way altered on this occasion.

God Himself is not harmed by our estimate of Him or of His works, but we are. When we seek to explain by natural causes what can be called a miracle we take away, in our estimation, somewhat of the honor and respect due our Creator. Is it any harder to believe this miracle than the miracle of the resurrection of the dead? Is it more of a feat to stop the rotation of the earth than to organize all its original motions and life upon it?

We would like to be able to note here and answer all the arguments advanced to explain away this miracle, but it would extend the article too greatly. Herein we will present the evidences that bulwark the writer's faith in the record as it stands, and that the daylight hours were extended three times the usual span, twenty-four hours in the high heavens at noon, twelve hours more in rising and descending, a total of thirty-six hours of daylight.

The following scale will help elucidate the exposition, the figures 1 to 36 being the daylight hours of the long day, also the hours of the battle.

A. M. 2555	Sun stands still 24 hrs.						B. C. 1441
Normal days	day	night	day	night	day	night
The long day	day	day	day	day	night	night
Hours	1	6	12	18	24	30	36
	Tuesday Dec. 21			Wednesday, Dec. 22

Let us get in mind the location of the events of the narrative. Gibeon, the encompassed city that sent the urgent call to Joshua for help, was six miles north of Jerusalem. Joshua was encamped at Gilgal, near Jericho and the fords of the Jordan, sixteen miles east of Jerusalem. Joshua, making a forced march of twenty-nine miles, covered the distance in this pitch dark night and, arriving at daylight, effected a complete surprise on the Amorites encompassing Gibeon.

In the discomfiture of the enemy that followed they were chased northwest to Beth-horon, more being slain by the hailstones than by the swords of Israel. This was over a route measuring six or seven miles. That Joshua was in person with the advance, is indicated by his subsequent words. Looking southward he saw the sun apparently over Gibeon to the south-east. Calling on the moon to stand still in, or over, the valley of Ajalon, that placed it overhead to the southwest, so that the distance between the sun and moon was about 13' (arc of 13 minutes). Gibeon and Ajalon are both on 31 degrees 51 minutes of north latitude. The moon, therefore, in such a position would be invisible. Joshua could not see it. He could only know of its position there by a considerable amount of figuring and exact astronomical knowledge. The writer believes that Joshua's requisition was impromptu, his words so expressed, words of inspiration and not of his own forethought. That the unseen moon should have been mentioned by inspiration, gives evidence of the importance the fact conveys, but which is little noted by commentators. The mention of the moon and its position enables us to know that it was close to conjunction with the sun and what the moment of conjunction would be, by which we can determine the day of the month and the year this event occurred. It was a December day, when the days were shortest. In this latitude it was not daylight till after six. It was almost dark at five. Remembering now that had Joshua been south of Gibeon, he would not have seen the sun standing over Gibeon, and that he must have been in fact at Beth-horon a little before noon. Over six hours have passed, from sunrise to noon. The battle has progressed for a distance of but six miles to Beth-horon.

The other places to which the battle progressed, were Azekah, twenty-two miles south of Beth-horon, and Makkedah, thirty-two miles southwest. It took Joshua all the preceding night to proceed twenty-nine miles. We are asked by the critics to believe that he now fought a running fight and captured the cities of the Amorites at a distance of over forty miles in the space of time that cannot be over three hours, between twelve-thirty and about three-thirty, if the sun went down as usual. The fact is that Joshua knew that the enemy would escape in the darkness ere he could complete the task of their conquest, if he had to depend on the daylight of the normal length.

The chapter does not detail the incidents in regular order. We have to select the details and arrange them in the probable order and time of occurrence. It cannot be imagined that in the storm of hail that pelted them, the Amorites made very great speed on the twenty-two mile retreat from Beth-horon. Spent with their wounds from the morning fray, seeking momentary protection as they could from the storm, it must have taken seven or eight hours of time. It does not seem that they were in immediate conflict with the Israelites on this part of the retreat. Otherwise the Israelites, too, would have been in the track of the storm. But with the passing of the storm at Azekah, Israel took up the slaughter, harrassing the fleeing enemy unto their own fenced cities.

In the meantime it is reported to Joshua that the five kings have hidden in a cave at Makkedah. This must have been about the twenty-second hour. Giving orders that they be confined in the cave, he sends the armies again after the fleeing Amorites. After some length of time, when the Israelites returned from pursuing after the Amorites fleeing to their various cities, he attacked and overthrew the city of Makkedah. It is possible that the overthrow of the city occurred before the pursuit of the Amorites into their other cities. Lachish and Hebron were all of twenty miles away from Makkedah with a mountain range between them. Debir was a good thirty miles distant from Makkedah. How far the pursuit continued we do not know, but the time involved cannot be well less than twelve hours, going and returning.

Then, too, we must remember that besides the thirty-six hours we have here accounted for, there was the twelve hour march before the battle commenced, or a total of forty-eight hours in which the armies of Israel had had no sleep, unless we allow an interval in these calculations for that purpose. Summarizing:

Hour	Miles
1	29	Daybreak attack at Gibcon.
6	6	Beth-horon, sun commences to stand still.
6-14	22	Retreat in the storm to Azekah.
14-18	10	Running fight and retreat to Makkedah.
18-22		Assault and capture of Makkedah.
22		Imprisonment of the five kings.
22-34	30-50	Pursuit of the enemy to Lachish, Hebron, Debir.
35		Hanging of the five kings.
36		Their burial and end of the day.

Here we have indisputable evidence that the Israelite army covered a distance of about one hundred miles, if not more, during the time from one sunset to the next. Can any sane man, presented this evidence, condense these feats all into a twenty-four hour day?

Critics are quick to seize upon the marginal rendering of the words, "stand still", in verse 12, where the alternative, "be silent", is given as the rendition nearer to truth. Young gives three meanings to the Hebrew word: be silent, cease, stand still. All these meanings have the basic idea of "stopping". If one be speaking, stop speaking. If some action is in question, cease movement. Applied to the sun under the circumstances of Joshua's demand, no other meaning is appropriate than "stand still". He wanted it to keep on shining, and not go down.

There is another instance of the Lord's interfering with the regular motion of the earth, recorded in 2 Kings 20:11, where by the dial of Ahaz the shadow of the sun turned backwards for forty minutes. Totten, in his marvelous calendar calculations, based on the eclipses, cycles of the moon periods, etc., has demonstrated that this eventful battle took place 1441 B. C., or 2555 A. M., and that it was in the fourth civil month (our December) and the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth days of that month. The conjunction of the sun and moon, and eclipse, was due at 12 to 13 minutes past eleven a. m. Counting forward from creation to this eclipse, Totten found it due to fall on the Tuesday of this occasion. Counting backward from the eclipse dates of this time, he found that one was due on Wednesday of this occasion.

What can science say as to this intercalculation of a day too much in the lunar and solar calendar? Surely, we see here the handwriting of our God, inscribing the mark of integrity on His Word, establishing the evidence before which the wise men of the ages shall be confounded in the day of judgment!

"So the sun stood still, and the moon stayed, until the people had avenged themselves upon their enemies." Again we hear it repeated, "So the sun stood still in the midst of heaven (in the zenith) and hasted not to go down about a whole day" (twenty-four hours, actually twenty-three hours, twenty minutes).

—o—

"He shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver."

OUR FATHER, who seeks to perfect His saints in holiness, knows the value of the refiner's fire. It is with the most precious metals that the assayer takes the most pains and subjects them to the hot fire, because such fires melt the metal, and only the molten mass releases its alloy or takes its new form in the mold. The old refiner never leaves his crucible but sits down by it, lest there should be one excessive degree of heat to mar the metal. But as soon as he skims from the surface the last of the dross and sees his own face reflected, he puts out the fire.

Arthur T. Pierson.

THE SECOND PROPHECY

Continued from Editorial page

by the might of my power, and for the honour of my majesty?"

Even among professed disciples of the Lord we find those who say with the writer of a recent religious editorial, "If the kingdom of God is to come, it must be brought about in the same way that all other great results are brought about, by the united efforts of faithful men"! They forget the words of Isaiah with regard to this very matter: "The zeal of the Lord of hosts will perform this."

In the fulness of time, when God pours out His blessings upon the chosen ones of Christ, the second prediction of the serpent will be realized, and certain highly favored ones "shall be as gods." That is, the saints of the Most High shall be possessed of powers and forces far beyond those of ordinary men; and they shall use them for the glory of God and the blessing of the nations throughout the ages of their service! But it will come to pass, not after the manner foretold by the serpent, but after the ways and will of Jehovah!

THREE KEYS TO COURAGE

Continued from page 164

times when we should be gentle and calm; fractious when we should be tranquil and sweet. The difficulty is our proneness to be swayed by the natural instead of the spiritual phase of our being. We are too apt to behave in the presence of our heavenly Father as we did as children in the presence of our natural fathers, namely, to speak as children, understand as children, and to think as children; thereby acting unlike Paul, we fail to become spiritually matured men and women in Christ Jesus, having neglected to put away childish things—childish thinking. 1 Corinthians 13:11.

If our prayers are not answered immediately, we decide God does not hear us, hence, cannot be concerned about us. Babyish, peevish pouting! The Lord desires us to learn how to believe that He hears us when we pray; for such knowledge is of far more importance than can the things be for which we pray. Jesus says, "Wherefore I say unto you, What things soever ye desire when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them".—Mark 11:24. He doesn't say that when we conclude praying the things petitioned for will be delivered. But He wills that we rejoice in His promises, as though we had the things requested and were enjoying them; and that we recognize the fact that faith is the channel of conveyance and that it rests upon the authority of His Word.

If God sees we are more encouraged by our self-complacency than by His Word, He may find it necessary to test our faith by giving us an opportunity to develop patience, obedience, and faith, in order to teach us the glorious lesson of believing His Word when every pertinent thing contradicts Him. Our petitions will materialize when we have attained the requisite degree of faith; always keeping in mind that little faith accomplishes little things, while great faith brings great things to pass. Jesus said, "If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth"—Mark 9:23.

But belief alone is virtually nugatory, it being scripturally allied with and presupposed to involve obedience to God's requirements. James says, "Thou believest there is one God; thou doest well: the devils ('demons', R. V.) also believe, and tremble".—2:9. It is by the ignoring of obedience that causes demons (evil spirits) to tremble; hence it is self-evident that it is better not to believe than to believe and not to obey.

Our text says, "The righteous cry, and the Lord heareth, and delivereth them out of all their troubles". Not some of them, but all. Righteous means, conforming in disposition and conduct to the divine standard of right and justice; upright; virtuous; blameless.

It was patience, obedience, and faith that developed Daniel and his colleagues' courageous attribute, which was so intrepidly exhibited in the midst of lions and fire. And the same attribute was manifested by the Israelites who had been bitten by the serpents. They believed and obeyed Moses when he transmitted God's words, namely, "Every one that is bitten, when he looks upon it ('a fiery serpent') shall live"—Num. 21:5-9.

This recorded courage of Old Testament characters comes down to us who are followers of "a greater than Moses", for emulation. Achieve it, brother, sister, and a new perspective of life will be opened to you.

Where there is doubt, there is fear; where there is fear, there is imperfect love; where there is imperfect love, there is trouble. But where there is humility, there is peace!

The inspiring sentiment of another (Bro. Murray) is uniquely germane:

"Humility is perfect quietness of heart. It is to have no trouble. It is never to be fretted or vexed or irritated, sore or disappointed. It is to expect nothing, to wonder at nothing that is done me. It is to be at rest when nobody praises me, and when I am blamed or despised. It is to have a blessed home in the Lord, where I can go in and shut the door, and kneel to my Father in secret, and am at peace as in a deep sea of calmness, when all around and above is trouble".

WHO ONLY HATH IMMORTALITY?

Continued from page 163

The next clause reads, "Whom no man hath seen, nor can see". This clause could be applied to God, but could not be to Christ. Has our reasoning all been wrong. If so, how shall we explain the references given? Turn again to the Diaglott and find the word translated "whom", in this clause. You do not need to understand Greek to recognize this word if you see it again; so turn to Matthew 2:9, and find the clause: "The star, WHICH they saw in the east." Do you see anything familiar? That same little Greek word is here translated "which", relative to a star.

Again, in Matthew 2:16, "According to the time WHICH". Could you say, "According to the time WHOM", in this verse? 2 Timothy 4:8, "A crown of righteousness WHICH" (whom?). 2 Timothy 4:13, "The cloak THAT" (whom?). Surely the word "whom" would not fit in any of these references.

Now, having proven the use and translation of the word in other places, are we not justified in translating it the same way in the verse under discussion? By doing so, and using the Diaglott rendering for the second clause we have the following: "The King of kings, and Lord of lords; who only hath immortality, dwelling in light inaccessible, WHICH no man hath seen, nor can see."

Our difficulty has vanished! It is the LIGHT which no man hath seen, nor can see. Just a little beam from that light blinded Paul, Acts 9, just as you may see a beam from the sun but cannot look directly at the sun itself. Nearness to God also made Moses' face shine so that he had to put a veil on when he talked to the children of Israel. (Exodus 34.) We hope we may have thrown some light on this subject.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

I look to Thee in every need,
And never look in vain;
I feel Thy strong and tender love,
And all is well again;
The thought of Thee is mightier far
Than sin and pain and sorrow are.

Discouraged in the work of life,
Disheartened by its load,
Shamed by its failures or its fears,
I sink beside the road;
But let me only think of Thee,
And then new heart springs up in me.

Thy calmness bends serene above,
My restlessness to still;
Around me flows Thy quickening life,
To nerve my faltering will;
Thy presence fills my solitude,
Thy providence turns all to good.

Embosomed deep in Thy great love,
Held in Thy law, I stand;
Thy hand in all things I behold,
And all things in Thy hand;
Thou ledest me by unsought ways,
And turn'st my mourning into praise.
—Samuel Longfellow.

THE BOOK OF REVELATION

By Lyman Booth

Continued from last week

God designs that we shall earnestly desire to enter the mansions He has prepared, not because we know what is there, but because we trust Him and believe that it will be a world where the law of Christ shall have unobstructed and perfect sway. To inspire and sustain in us that faith, His Word represents home under various images which, in their natural sense, are quite incomplete. It is a city of gems and gold; it is an open country with trees and running water; it is a world with no more sea; it is a sea of glass; it is a house with innumerable multitude of worshipers before the throne.

These are the helps presented to our feeble senses through the imagination. But underneath the uncertainties of the keenest imagination there is a fixed and solid substance of truth. To this truth every separate image points, presenting to our minds one or another of its beautiful phases. The truth is that the redeemed are glad in their infinite joy, for Jesus is the center, the light, and life thereof. There is no discord or division there, because He is love, and there every spirit takes its law and temper from Him. Nothing that is defiled or that maketh a lie enters there, because He is pure and true. He has given the pledge that there will be no pain there, no sickness, no broken friendships, no lost love, no aching hearts. They shall hunger no more; there shall be no outstretched palms pleading for a mite to eat; for all shall have enough in having Him; and all shall be satisfied.

This life is a voyage over a turbulent sea; changing circumstances come rolling after each other, like billows of the ocean. Tempests and storms arise. There is wearisome sailing, no peace, but "ever climbing up the climbing wave." But for all that there will be an end to it for us all some day; and it is worth while for us to think about our "home far, far beyond this sea."

Certainly some of us have learned the toil and weariness of the voyage of this world. Surely some of us are longing to find anchorage while the storm lasts and a haven at the end of the voyage. There is one if only we will believe it and set ourselves toward it. Jesus is standing on that shore to welcome and give us rest. Are we going there? Are we living for Christ?

In this shadowy doubtful state of mortal life, unbelief is forever crowding redemption into a corner, viewing it as the faith of a few people, the concern of sabbath days, the mere comfort of the sick and dying. But in the glorious light of eternity, redemption will be seen as the great end of all things human, the key of history, the beginning and the ending of this world's life. Then we shall understand better the august title given our Lord—the Alpha and Omega, the first and the last, the King of kings and Lord of Lords; for of Him, and through Him, and to Him are all things, to whom be glory forever!

What a magnificent structure God's eternal temple will be when completed! Vast and beyond all comprehension it is, and it is still growing, getting larger all the time. For all they who, before Christ's birth, confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth and died in faith not having received the promises, all these will be polished stones in that magnificent temple.

Imagine the mighty gathering of the faithful! Imagine one God, one Christ, one spirit, one temple! Imagine the number of glorified human forms fitted and prepared for that living temple! Then imagine every heart filled with the vehemence of love, and every tongue employed in, and burdened with the song of everlasting praise.

While all this is but a life-like vision, it reveals to our minds the sublime reality of that glorious time when "God shall dwell with men, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God. And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain; for the former things are passed away." The thought is so transporting. It thrills our life today, for it is to be the crowning fact of all God's promises. It will be the scene of glorified personalities.

To be continued

The Apostle to the Gentiles

SAUL OF TARSUS is first mentioned in the Bible in connection with the stoning of Stephen as "consenting unto his death" (Acts 7:58; 8:1). He was a Pharisee, deeply religious, conscientious and zealous in his work, as a servant of God. He no doubt looked for a Messiah, and probably the hope of His soon coming was cherished as the most sacred part of his religion. But the assumption that this man Jesus, who had been so ignominiously crucified, whose work and teachings had been put to shame by His death, was the One was to Saul an impossibility, and to proclaim Him as the Christ was nothing short of blasphemy against the Most High. Thus loyalty to his God demanded that he spare no effort to wipe out this sect that was so rapidly spreading and polluting the minds of the people.

While Saul was thus engaged in violent persecutions against the Christians, having set out to the city of Damascus with authority from the high priest to bring any whom he found of this sect bound to Jerusalem, the Master, seeing in one so zealous and sincere, though now an enemy to his work, a valuable servant if only he could be properly directed, appeared to him and convinced him that He was the Messiah. This sudden and miraculous conversion to Christianity completely changed the life and character of Saul.

Having espoused the cause and the name of the Christ, he gave himself completely and wholeheartedly to the proclamation of the gospel. His social position, worldly prospects, and the friendship of former companions, he willingly forfeited. From this time on he dropped the name of Saul and took the name of Paul, which means, "The little one". Why he chose this title we cannot say, but it is certainly illustrative of the change of attitude toward the Savior which had come over the one who now called himself "the least of the apostles".

This converted Jew, though "a Hebrew of the Hebrews", now became "the apostle to the Gentiles". His public efforts in service to Christ were undoubtedly more extensive and fruitful than that of any other of the apostles. He made three missionary journeys as recorded in "The Acts of the Apostles", carrying his message of salvation to practically every part of civilized Europe, teaching it unflinchingly in the face of every type of persecution, untold hardships, repeated imprisonments, and cruel scourgings. Paul was never daunted in his enthusiasm in proclaiming his beloved gospel, for which he had renounced all that the world could offer him.

So completely did he give himself to the Master and so well did he fill his position of service that, as he came to the close of his life, he could look back over his efforts with a feeling of satisfaction for the work he had done, and he could say, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day".—2 Tim. 4:7, 8.

Dorothy Krogh.

FOLLOWING his conversion on the Damascus road, when he was stricken blind and remained so for three days until his sight was restored through Ananias, Paul became as ardent a Christian as he had been a persecutor of Christians. He was converted "from the leadership of the persecutors to the defense and leadership of the persecuted."—Arnold's Practical Commentary.

But the greatest change was in Paul's own life. Before he had been cruel, narrow, and intolerant; he thought God was the God only of the Jews. Now his heart became filled with love for all men, for he was "the chosen vessel" of the Lord to carry the gospel to Gentiles, and kings, and the children of Israel. This was no easy task, for Paul was forced to work against strong prejudices and under great difficulties. He was looked upon as a hypocrite and his life was endangered again and again, "but to his dying day he never ceased to believe and to preach that he had seen Jesus Christ."

He had started for Damascus to destroy Christians there, but instead we find him preaching Christ in their synagogues and later "in the very synagogues of Jerusalem from which he had dragged the Christians to prison and to death, a proceeding which so enraged the adversaries of Christianity that they plotted the death of the Apostle." Peloubet's Notes.

Immediately following his conversion Paul went to Arabia where he stayed for three years. The time was probably spent in meditation and study in preparation for the work to which he had been so miraculously called. During the remainder of his life he made three great missionary journeys. It is not my desire to go into the details of these journeys, but a study of them will show the vast scope of his work and the perils connected with it.

He was accompanied on his first journey by Barnabas and during the course of the trip they visited Seleucia, Cyprus, Perga in Pamphylia, Antioch in Pisidia, Iconium, Lystra and Derbe, cities of Lycaonia. They returned by way of Attalia by sea to Antioch. It was while at Lystra that Paul was stoned and left outside the city gates for dead.

A dissension arose between Paul and Barnabas and consequently Silas accompanied Paul on his second journey. This time he visited Derbe and Lystra again, and passed through the regions of Phrygia and Galatia. Being forbidden of the Holy Spirit to preach in Asia and Bithynia, they came by way of Mysia to Troas. Here Paul had the vision of the Macedonian call and immediately set out for Philippi. Here it was that he and Silas were imprisoned.

From here they journeyed to Thessalonica, but were driven by the malice of the Jews to continue on to Berea. Only a short time was spent here, and the next stop was Athens. Here he delivered his noted sermon of Mars hill, based upon an inscription he had seen in the city, "To the unknown god". Departing from Athens he came to Corinth, where he was joined by Silas and Timothy who had gone back to Macedonia. After preaching the gospel here for a year and a half, he was driven out by the Jews and next visited Ephesus. From there he went to the feast at Jerusalem and thence to Antioch, which completed his second journey.

During his third journey he again visited Ephesus, where he remained about three years. He left here by way of Troas and went to Philippi, then to Corinth and back again to Philippi. The remainder of his trip took him through Troas, Assos and Miletus, from where he sailed for Syria, landing at Tyre. He then traveled by way of Ptolemais and Caesarea to Jerusalem.

Of all his eventful life no part is more stirring than the closing years. At Jerusalem he was seized by his enemies and hailed before the Sanhedrin, but he delivered himself by appealing to the doctrine which divided the judges into two factions. The Jews' plans to assassinate Paul were frustrated and Lysias, fearing further trouble, sent Paul to Caesarea. Here he was heard by Festus, who seemed to favor the Jews, but this time he saved himself by asserting his privileges as a Roman citizen and appealing to Caesar.

On his way to Rome he was shipwrecked, being forced to spend three months on the island of Malta. Upon reaching Rome he was placed under a guard and allowed to preach in his own hired house for a period of two years. Here ends Paul's own account of his life and work, but tradition says he was beheaded by Nero. At any rate we are assured that he faced the end courageously, fearlessly, and faithfully, for he says, "I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith, henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day."—2 Tim. 4:6-8.

"In all his experiences of preaching, teaching, organizing men, meeting and making friends, combating enemies, entering strange cities, collecting funds for the poor, sitting in council with the leaders of the church, getting along with those who differed with him, deciding fundamental questions where there was no precedent, serving time as a prisoner unjustly confined, facing threatened death on land and on sea, and undergoing undeserved scourgings, Paul gave the world an example of a life hid with Christ in God." Arnold's Practical Commentary.

—Lucille LeCrone.

blind. The Lord spoke to him, and he asked, "Who art thou, Lord?" Saul was instructed by Jesus to go into the city where Ananias would put his hands upon him and his sight would return. Following this, he preached Christ in the synagogues, but the Jews planned to kill him, and so he escaped to Jerusalem. The disciples there would not receive him because they feared that he was only plotting against them, but Barnabas took him to the disciples and disclosed how he had seen the Lord Jesus and had been converted.

Saul (who was also called Paul) went on three missionary journeys during his eventful life of Christian service. On the first one he departed from Antioch, going with Barnabas and Mark into southern Asia Minor, preaching in the synagogues of the Jews and teaching them of Christ and His crucifixion. On their return trip they confirmed the churches which they founded. They were not welcomed by all, but the Lord was with them to protect and care for them.

The next four years of Paul's life were taken up by his second missionary journey, which took him through Asia Minor, across the Hellespont into northern Greece, down to Athens and Corinth, to Ephesus and then to Caesarea by sea to Jerusalem and back to Antioch. He encountered many hardships on his journeys, but founded churches at Philippi, Thessalonica, Berea, Corinth, Ephesus and other places.

Paul's third journey as a missionary took place during the next four years in which he retraced his steps and strengthened the churches which he had begun. When he returned from this long journey he went to Jerusalem where the Jews tried to kill him. He was taken by the Romans and sent to Rome to appeal to Caesar. Here he was kept prisoner for two years, but was permitted to teach in his own hired house during that period.

We do not have a very detailed account of Paul from this time until his death. He undoubtedly made a journey to Asia Minor, probably to Ephesus, before he was finally taken by the Romans again and martyred during the reign of Nero. We know by the statements of his last epistles that he had been faithful to the Lord and was ready to give his life.

Paul's great work was to bring the message of God's kingdom to the Gentiles, to bring in the new order of salvation by faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, and to bring salvation to all who would accept. He wrote several letters to the churches which he founded, which instruction is a revelation of the mysteries of God and a guide to all Christians. There is no doubt in our minds that Paul was the greatest of the apostles, though he considered himself least.

Harvey Krogh.

—o—

"Courage, the highest gift, that scorns to bend
To mean devices for a sordid end;
Courage, an independent spark from Heaven's throne,
By which the soul stands raised, triumphant, high, alone;
The spring of all true acts is seated here,
As falsehoods draw their sordid birth from fear."

SAUL OF TARSUS was on the road to Damascus with papers, privileging him to bind and lead certain Christians to Jerusalem to be persecuted for their teaching of what Saul thought was a false religion. He was stricken with a great light, greater than the noonday sun, and fell to the ground,

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 124 N. Parkside Ave., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois
For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"IN EVERY THING YE ARE ENRICHED BY HIM."—1 CORINTHIANS 1:5

EVERYDAY CHRISTIANITY

UNLESS we make Christianity an aid to us in everyday living, we are not receiving its greatest benefits. Common sense will tell us that putting the Christ's teachings into practice will be to our personal advantage. While some may scoff, it is usually true that the person who abides by His principles wins respect from all.

Another inevitable result of living a Christian life is the glorification of the Christ Himself. People will reason that if one's life can be so influenced by His teachings, there must be much of value in them. It is an accepted fact that a good Christian is a good friend, a good neighbor, and a good citizen. Such people are the ones influencing popular opinion; so to be a good Christian is to cause the Christ's name to be revered.

Living a Christian life daily includes many things. In Acts 17:11 we read that our examples, the Bereans, "were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the scriptures daily, whether those things were so." Therefore, we should read some part of the Bible every day.

Prayer, too, is a very important thing in a Christian's life. Too many people do not realize the extent of the benefit derived from daily prayer. Some others make of it a pious certificate to the rest of the world that they are Christians. In 1 Thessalonians 5:17, Paul exhorts, "Pray without ceasing."

In our daily relations with others, we have many opportunities. It is not necessary that we excell in oral exhortation. There is a trite, but, nevertheless, true, old saying, "Actions speak louder than words." We need only live as we think the Christ would wish us to, and we will glorify Him as well as benefit ourselves and others.

Genniell Carpenter.

OUR CLEVELAND BEREANS

THROUGH the aid of the Berean society, five families in Cleveland were not permitted to go hungry on Thanksgiving Day. In fact, these families received enough food to last them several days. Donations were received from members of the Berean classes and also from members of the Sunday school, who were glad to contribute to such a worthy cause. It was found that fourteen baskets of food had been contributed. A committee, chosen to take care of the donations, divided up the food and distributed it to the five needy families, who were undoubtedly thankful for the blessings bestowed upon them on this day of thanksgiving.

We thank God that we were able to bring a ray of sunshine into the lives of these people and ask that the Lord will bless us in everything that we do and help us to share our blessings with others as the time of His coming draws nigh.

Mary Milburn, Sec.

Do you remember, as a child, running little errands for Mother, and how happy it made her if you went willingly or voluntarily? Perhaps you can recall the happiness you brought to someone else as you delivered some little gift or message of cheer.

We may be grown up now, but there are still many errands to be done—for Christ. It will please Him if we do willingly and gladly little errands of mercy and acts of kindness, for which we are given an opportunity every day of the year.

SEMI-ANNUAL DUES

THE treasurers of local Berean societies where there is a state organization are urged to send in your semi-annual dues to your state treasurer immediately, if you have not already done so. State treasurers are asked to mail these dues promptly on the first of January if possible, to Miss Sybil Guthrie, national treasurer. We also remind isolated Bereans and isolated local societies to keep in mind this date, and that you send your dues on January first to the national treasurer.

SISTER Elizabeth Ford, Illinois state secretary, requests that the local secretaries of the state try to be prompt in sending in monthly reports, in order that the books may be kept up to date.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

REVIEW

ISAIAH was a prophet who lived long before the time of Jesus. God revealed to him many of the things that were and are to happen.

In Isaiah 11, Isaiah foretells the coming of Jesus as Ruler on the earth. "And there shall come forth a rod out of the stem of Jesse, and a Branch shall grow out of his roots."

Jesse was the father of David, and Jesus belongs to the same family. Therefore David is the rod and Jesus the Branch.

The Spirit of the Lord rested upon Jesus—giving Him wisdom, understanding, counsel, might, knowledge, and fear of the Lord.

When He returns to the earth, He shall rule with righteousness. Then shall the poor and meek receive their "just dues" and the wicked punished.

Even the wild and tame animals shall live together in peace. No one shall have anything to fear.

"And in that day there shall be a root of Jesse, which shall stand for an ensign of the people; to it shall the Gentiles seek: and his rest shall be glorious."

Pray God to send this glorious rest very soon!

HOW DO YOU GROW?

"WHEN I get to be a man," said Mark, "I'm going to let children do as they please—no school, no exercises, no anything that they don't want to do."

"Let's see what Jesus did about that," said Daddy. "You remember how He was lost? Well, He went home with His parents, and the Bible says, 'He was subject unto them.' That means He obeyed them. I don't know that He always wanted to obey them; but He did."

"And the Bible also says that Jesus grew tall and straight and strong. He grew wiser day by day. He was liked by His playmates and neighbors. And He was loved by His heavenly Father."

"He helped His father in the carpenter shop. He studied, and He played fair with other children. Because of these things, He grew as God wanted Him to. I don't believe that boys and girls who are disobedient will grow as their heavenly Father wants them to."

"Well, I want to be like Jesus," said Mark.

"'Spect we'll have to obey, then," said Martha.

And Daddy smiled happily at them.

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Read 1 Thess. 2:1-12 and 1 Cor. 2:1-10.
2. Read the Review and Practical Applications in the Quarterly.
3. Answer the questions of the Junior Class.
4. Answer these questions on the life of Paul. Grade your answers, counting five for each question.
  1. What other name did Paul have?
  2. Where was Paul born?
  3. What was his nationality?
  4. Who had been Paul's teacher?
  5. & 6. How did Paul treat the Christians? Why?
  7. & 8. Tell about Paul's conversion.
  9. Where did Paul begin preaching?
  10. Who befriended him?
  11. How many missionary journeys did Paul make?
  12. Who accompanied him upon each journey?
  13. How did the Jews receive Paul?

SMILES AND TEARS

When we look back o'er the months and years,
What shows the plainest and best?
Are they the sorrows, the pains, the tears,
Or are they the days of rest?

What you may get out of life, you know,
Depends on your point of view;
Are you seeking trouble as you go,
For fear it will slip by you?

True, you had days of darkness and stress,
Days p'rhaps of sorrow and pain;
But, you had seasons of happiness,
When the sun shone out again.

Sorrows would lose all their pain in time,
And worries would lose their fret;
If we would look for the sun to shine,
If we would try to forget.

Don't treasure up the hatred that stings,
Just try forgetting a while;
Look at the sunny bright side of things,
Chase away frowns with a smile.

—F. W. Workman.

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 13. — December 27, 1931

REVIEW: THE SPREAD OF CHRISTIANITY IN EUROPE

Isaiah 11

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 11:1-10

GOLDEN TEXT

The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever. — Revelation 11:15.

Lesson I. Acts 15:36 to 16:15. Romans 15:18-21.

Topic: What Took Paul to Europe.

Summary: Paul's second missionary journey led him among the churches of Syria, Cilicia and through Derbe, Lystra and other points to Troas upon the Aegean Sea, thence by water across to Philippi in Macedonia. By power imparted by God's spirit, mighty works and wonders were performed by Paul, convincing men of the divine power of God's spirit resting upon him and creating in them faith in Christ, as he presented the gospel of salvation. Lydia and her household were the first mentioned European Christians thus brought in on this journey.

The presence and power of God's spirit with Paul plainly reveal not only God's guidance of him, but also God's power placed within him.

Lesson II. Acts 16:16-40; Phil. 4:4-9.

Topic: Initial Victories in Europe.

Summary: By Christian victories at Philippi, Paul and Silas not only introduced Christian truth and power into Europe, but vividly illustrated the power of the gospel in the solution of daily problems in the Christian's life.

Through Paul and Silas, Christ revealed His power to conquer false spirits, to avoid the wrath of sinful man, to surpass the strength of human government and mechanical device, and to demand recognition from austere officials.

Paul demonstrated the joy and blessing of being the servant through whom Christ could reveal and magnify Himself and His mighty power before man.

Lesson III. Acts 17:1-15; 1 Thess. 2:1-12.

Topic: Two Kinds of Hearers.

Summary: Paul in Thessalonica and Berea revealed the fact that the same word of love and salvation would gender faith in the heart of one person while it would intensify jealousy and hatred in the hearts of others.

Besides being a gospel unto salvation, the gospel of Jesus Christ is verily a discerner of the thoughts of man. It reveals and brings out him who is really of faith in God and it discerns and declares him who is unconcerned about God or is in thought opposed to Him.

Planted in some soil, the gospel brings forth fruit a hundredfold; while in other soil the same gospel seed does not even germinate.

Lesson IV. Acts 18:1-17; 1 Cor. 13.

Topic: Christianity in a Cosmopolitan City.

Summary: From Berea and Athens Paul pressed his work to Corinth, the capital, metropolis, commercial, manufacturing, and social center of Greece. Here he met busy, active people from all countries: Gentile proselytes to Judaism, Jews who were outcast from Italy, Jews direct from Palestine—people of all classes. His first approach with the gospel of Christ was through the synagogue. Later his place of gathering was in the house of one Justus, formerly a Roman convert to Judaism, now a Christian. Leaders from the synagogue as from other walks of life soon made up his congregation of believing disciples of Christ. For a year and a half he labored gathering the first really Gentile church, including a goodly number of Jews.

Lesson V. Gal. 5:13-26; Rom. 13:1-14.

Topic: Reasons for Total Abstinence.

Summary: Paul forcefully teaches the benefits of one's Christian liberty in Christ and the amazing advantage of such an one over the one who lives after the flesh. He expressly recites that drunkenness is one of the works of the flesh which deprives one of inheriting the kingdom of God. He reveals how that one walking in the spirit will by love be servant of his fellow man for edification and uplift. As such, he who is in Christ will of necessity respect and obey all God-fearing laws of man.

It must be admitted that all propaganda and promotion of illegal traffic in liquor openly opposes God, opposes one's country, and opposes the just welfare of one's neighbor. Such frame of mind can but be criminal at heart.

Lesson VI. Acts 19; Eph. 5:5-11.

Topic: A Bonfire of Bad Books.

Summary: Nearly a year after leaving Corinth Paul in early fall reached Ephesus. For more than two years and three months he proclaimed in Ephesus and its vicinity the gospel of Christ. He met and defeated the religious notions and claims of all classes of men. By special mighty miracles both God and Christ were exalted before them. He likened his long battle for truth to the gladiator in the arena with wild beasts, when he, at Ephesus, wrote his first epistle to Corinth, saying, 1 Cor. 15:32, "If after the manner of men I have fought with beasts at Ephesus, what advantageth it me, if the dead rise not."

Lesson VII. Acts 21:17 to 23:30.

Topic: Bearing Testimony in the Holy City.

Summary: After several years of experience in evangelizing in Gentile districts and before making a contemplated journey to Rome, Paul returned to Jerusalem, the city of God, hoping to successfully bear testimony at the Jewish gathering of Pentecost for Christ. Such testimony if received would, from Pentecost, by the Jews be carried into all parts of the Jewish world.

Instead, even before Paul could present his case, angered Jews from regions of his previous labors incited the mob: Paul was beaten, afterward arrested, and the testimony given was from the platform of the stairs while he was under guard of the soldiers.

Lesson VIII. Acts 25:1-12; 28:16-30.

Topic: Paul's Ministry in the World's Capital.

Summary: Arriving in Rome, Paul was at once under the influence of the world's chief capital and its Caesar. Thither he brought the teachings of the lowly Galilean, and with those teachings he there faced any and every religious opponent that came to him. A prisoner under the protection of his soldier guard, he eased not in his task of proclaiming the gospel of Christ which is the power of God unto salvation to him that believes it. Rom. 1:16. Responding to duty's urge, in addition to teaching all who entered, Paul also wrote the prison gospels of Ephesians, Philipians, Colossians, and Philemon. Thus ended the life work of Paul, a most laborious servant of Christ.

Lesson IX. Philemon 1-25.

Topic: Christ Transforming Social Relationships.

Summary: Onesimus, the servant of Philemon, whom Paul had met probably in Colosse and whom he had come to love, having come to Paul in the Roman prison, had been converted and Christianized even as had Philemon, the master, previously. Equally as he loved Philemon, the master, Paul now loved and honored Onesimus, the slave. By the hand of Onesimus Paul sent a letter to Philemon, exhorting him to forgive all wrongs and debts and to receive his former slave as a freeman in the Lord.

Such are the leveling and unifying influences of Christianity as to make all men equal in Christ. "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus."—Gal. 3:28.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

BRO. ANDERSON ON WCMA

Next Sunday, Dec. 20, Bro. J. H. Anderson will broadcast from Station WCMA 1400 kilocycles) at Culver, Ind., from 6:30 to 7:30 a. m., subject, "Evidences of Christ's Second Coming". To those who are unfamiliar with this station, we will state that it is on the air only from 6:30 to 9:30 a. m. on Sundays, and from 1:45 to 4:30 p. m. and 10:30 p. m. to 12 midnight, on week days.

AT PLUM RIVER, ILL.

Next Sunday, Dec. 20, is the time for the regular appointment of Bro. C. E. Lapp with the church at Plum River. All those living within driving distance are urged to attend these services, morning and evening.

A CHRISTMAS GIFT OF VALUE

Several responses have come in during the last few days to our offer of The Restitution Herald as a Christmas gift for $1.50 for the year, a reduction of 25 percent on the regular rate. We will send a neat greeting card to each person whose subscription is ordered, on which will appear the name of the sender. Send your names in at once.

GREETINGS

We are happy and we know that the angels of God rejoiced last Sunday evening (Dec. 6th) when I baptized three young ladies and one man who made the confession two weeks ago. Their names and addresses are: Marion Hopkins, 321 28th Ave., N.; Lois Johnson, 376 5th Ave., S.; Dorothy Hugger, 726 6th Ave., S.; and Walter Skinner, 920 21st Ave., N. May the dear Lord bless these people as they walk the new life.

In these perilous times we find the folk of this congregation loyal and true to the blessed Word, and the longer we are with them the more we are encouraged, for they are a living testimony for Jesus in this city. Our prayer meetings are of the old fashioned kind that sends you home with stronger faith.

The Bible school under direction of Mrs. Geo. Savage, is growing and they, with the two choirs, will present a musical cantata on Sunday before Christmas.

The young people are doing things, for last Sunday twenty of them assembled to study the Word at their 6:45 service. Our music for the morning service is furnished by the young people's choir under the direction of Mrs. Thos. Savage, Jr. The adult choir brings us the evening song. These choirs certainly are an inspiration to all who hear them.

Friends, this old world is tottering; let us watch and pray for the soon coming of Christ. Time is swiftly passing; men are running to and fro; we hear of wars and rumors of wars; gold and silver are cankered, with heaping of treasure for the last days. But thank God for that blessed hope in Christ, as we read James 5:8, "Be ye also patient; stablish your hearts: for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh."

May we work a little harder, give a little more, yea, pray a little more, for a lost and dying world.

Yours for Christ,
Adna E. Hoskins,

436 22nd Ave., N., St. Cloud, Minn.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

The annual election of officers is now over; different ones have made heavy sacrifices; and a beautiful spirit now prevails as preparations are made for the new year of activity. With one accord we are praying that God will guide us to larger, better and nobler accomplishments through 1932 than ever before.

Our ladies have done a lot of charity work for needy families. Christmas baskets of food will also be distributed.

Hard work is being put in on the Christmas program, which is to be presented on Tuesday night, the 22nd.

The Grand Rapids church extends best Christmas wishes to all the brothers and sisters throughout the land, and prays God's richest blessings and guiding care to be with you.

F. E. Siple, Pastor.

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.

Geo. W. Hills, pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist church in Los Angeles, where the Church of God has held services for a number of years, died Dec. 5, being almost 81 years of age. He preached his last sermon just two weeks before his death.

Sickness was quite prevalent among our church group over the first Sunday. Among those who were down with the flu and other ailments were Sr. Nettie Crundwell, Bro. Murl Cripe and little daughter Elaine, Bro. Geo. Rahn, and Sr. Squires. These of course kept other members of the family at home and made quite a hole in our congregation.

We were happy to see Sr. H. E. Shepherd at services again on the first Sunday. She is now located at No. 15 E. Home Place, Redlands. Her years are making it difficult for her to come so far, particularly on the electric trains, but a young friend was kind enough to bring her in his car this time.

The Dorcas society meeting on Dec. 3 had an attendance of sixteen. Quilting and dress-making kept all quite busy for the day. Sr. Lydia Saylor helped to swell the crowd by bringing her mother, sister, daughter, and niece. Her mother, Mrs. Shearer of Arizona, is visiting her daughters in Palms.

Sr. E. Knott, of 1459 Rose Ave., Long Beach, formerly of the Cashmere, Washington, church, brought and introduced Sr. Alma Brandt, who is also from Cashmere, but is locating in Long Beach. We shall hope to have them all with us often.

Some inquiries have come from the east, as to how Sr. Jennie E. Orchard is faring since Bro. Orchard's death. She is having the best and kindest of care by Bro. Orchard's niece, Mrs. Georgia Fiscus. She has her own private, heated room adjoining the bath, where she can be alone as much as she likes, or she can mingle with the family and do little household chores, if she is so disposed. She is brought to church services and to Dorcas society meetings quite regularly, and is able to contribute her share of needlework in promotion of the cause. If Sr. Orchard had an own daughter she could not have better care. She occasionally gets a little homesick spell, as she has done ever since coming to California, but she overcomes that by thinking of the "Home over there", to which we are all looking forward with strong desire.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR THE HERALD

The new editorial management appreciates deeply the response from the brotherhood in regard to manuscripts for The Herald. Let us ever keep in mind that our paper is designed to meet the needs of many who have not already openly accepted some of our views, and let us ever maintain the true Christian spirit in the presentation of our thoughts. When you write, keep in mind the vision of Sr. Porter, for example, selling seventy-five copies of The Herald each week to her friends, acquaintances and the chance passer-by. Truly, the field is large and the harvest, white.

CHRISTMAS OFFERINGS

Already the Christmas Offerings are coming in and the fund is growing. Bro. and Sr. G. B. Sprinkle, of Cheyenne, Wyo., when sending their remembrance, send words of appreciation of The Herald, saying that it is "the finest and best paper" they take. Thank you, friends, we appreciate your kindly comment, and we trust that The Herald will continue to fill a need in the lives of many and bring them to consecrate themselves to God.

CHRISTMAS OFFERINGS

Mrs. Levona Thompson	$50.00
Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Sprinkle	2.50
Mrs. E. L. Cronk	2.30
Russell Harmon	1.00
Mrs. Ruby Johnson	1.00
Total to date
	$56.80

CHRISTMAS SUBSCRIPTIONS

Ada Drew; Leila E. Whitehead; Mrs. Eva H. M. Fletcher; G. A. Brown; Mary F. Cook; Leota B. Hanson.

HERALD HELPING FUND

H. B. Hathaway	$12.00
Leota B. Hanson	7.00
Mary E. Elton	4.00
Mrs. T. A. Weldon	2.00
Total
	$25.00

HERALD RECEIPTS

Mrs. H. E. Russel; E. E. Giesler; Helen M. Porter; Mrs. Cora Murphy; W. E. Wharton; E. Dauterich; Mrs. E. L. Cronk; S. T. Shirley; Elnora Skinner; Mrs. W. H. Poole; E. H. Blyth; Alice A. Blyth; W. A. Wilson; Mrs. M. J. Osborn; L. A. Chaplin; Mrs. Seraphine Cleek; Nina V. Ritenour; Samuel Osborn; D. L. Halstead; Mrs. Ida Hardesty; Jessie L. Groves; George B. Alldridge; Mrs. A. M. Scroggs.

CONTRIBUTORS TO DOLLAR-A-MONTH CLUB

Mrs. Julia Ordnung and daughter; Mrs. Seraphine Cleek; Mrs. J. H. Adams; Mrs. Mary Renner; Mrs. Martha Walls; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Starbuck; Kathryn Lansbery; Mr. and Mrs. Glyn Starbuck; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnson; Mrs. G. M. Siple; Marian R. Richards; Loren L. Burnett; Margaret J. Donaly; Flora H. Prior, self, and in memory of mother; M. W. Lyon; Adult, Intermediate Girls and Junior Boys S. S. classes of Church of the Golden Rule; Leona Lathrop; Louise Brewer; W. A. Reid; Jennie Salisbury; Mrs. H. E. Russel.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME—

Do not overlook Sr. Sanford's appeal for funds for the work of the Relief Committee of the National Bereans. It will be found on back page of this issue.

Bro. Marsh was called to conduct the funeral of Bro. Dan Renner of Mt. Carroll, Ill., on Dec. 14. Services were held at the Plum River church. Obituary will appear in a later issue.

In this number will be found three articles on Paul, the Apostle, written by members of the Training Class, as part of their English assignment. Great improvement is being shown over their work of a year ago. We trust you will find enjoyment and benefit in these themes.

Bro. Lyman Booth may now be addressed at Washington, Missouri, Rt. 3, Care Earl Logan. Sr. Gertrude Logan and nephew, Earl, have purchased a chicken farm at this place, and Bro. Booth will be in charge of the property for the winter and perhaps longer.

Golden Rule Home is the recipient of a beautiful silk quilt and a pillow from Sr. K. C. Humphreys of Bear, Ark., and the members of the Home wish to express to her their grateful appreciation.

Four additions to the little church body at St. Cloud, Minn., is the encouraging report we receive from their new pastor, Bro. Adna E. Hoskins. Of great value to the future of the church is the fact that most of life is before them, and they may be trained to take the places left vacant by those who have long borne the burdens and will be glad to rest from their labors. May they prove faithful is our prayer.

Donald, younger son of Bro. and Sr. Val Mattison of Oregon, was taken ill at school this past week and on Saturday was removed to the hospital for observation. We trust that nothing of a serious nature will be found and that he will soon be at his customary place in the King's Servants Sunday school class.

The reader will find several thoughtful articles in this number, which show study on the part of the authors. Among these are those from the pens of Bros. J. S. Lyon, Jas. A. Patrick and George A. Waters. We appreciate these, as they broaden the scope of The Herald, and supply food for the thoughtful student of the Word.

Last spring Sr. F. L. Austin conceived the idea of those "drop-a-dime bags" which were distributed among members and friends of the Oregon church, the accumulations from which will be devoted to the building fund. These little bags will be returned to her immediately after Christmas, the last holiday on which a dime is to be dropped. Each bag will contain $1.60, including the "nest egg dime" that went with the bag. The proceeds will very materially assist in defraying the debt on the Oregon church building.

Sr. Valura Karnett writes that her mother, Sr. T. W. Bates, of Kennard, Nebr., who is well known among our membership, is ill and will be confined to her bed for some time. She asks for the prayers of the brethren. Letters or cards of greeting will be very welcome, we are certain.

Under the direction of Bro. C. E. Lapp, Illinois worker, a new project is being tried out whereby a folder is being printed in the interests of the churches which he serves. The Layman Company tithing bulletins are being used and items of particular interest and time of services of the churches are announced.

We regret to learn that Sr. C. E. Prior, among the staunchest of the supporters of the N. B. I., is very ill at the hospital at Rensselaer, Ind. A ruptured appendix is causing the trouble, but an operation could not be completed because of the presence of numerous pus sacks in the stomach. In the meantime every precaution is being taken and the best of care given. We pray God's protecting care over her.

Sr. Earl Koontz of the Oregon, Ill., membership is suffering severe sorrow just now in the death of her sister, Mrs. Isaac Maas and little daughter of Forreston, which is the result of a shocking auto accident in which several others were killed also. Our sympathies are with Sr. Koontz and other members of the family.

The Oregon Sunday school is preparing a pageant under the direction of Sr. Azalia Winfrey, who has especial talent in musical directing, which will be given on the night of December 21. Sr. Frank Rogers will preside at the piano and organ.

A small but intensely interested group gathered at the home of Bro. and Sr. Frederick Claussen of Oregon, Ill., early Sunday morning and enjoyed the sermon by their former pastor, F. L. Austin, broadcast from WCMA at Culver, Ind. It came through quite distinctly, and had it not been for a storm in the air with the accompanying fireworks, it would have seemed as though he were in the room with them. Another enjoyable feature was the duet by Sr. Louise Lamunio and her cousin, Henry Bryant. Sr. Lamunio is sponsoring these programs given by our different ministers. They will be announced from week to week on these pages.

Bro. and Sr. Williamson, of Golden Rule Home, celebrated the sixty-fourth anniversary of their marriage on Dec. 8. On Dec. 9, occurred Bro. Williamson's eighty-fifth birthday. But few couples, comparatively speaking, live to enjoy fifty years of companionship. To Bro. and Sr. Williamson God has already granted fourteen years more than that. At this writing they are enjoying their usual degree of health, and the comforts of Golden Rule Home, all of which is indeed a great blessing from our heavenly Father.

Sr. E. Dauterich, 2321 E. Oliver St., Baltimore, Maryland, in renewing for her Herald, expresses the wish that one of our ministers might be able to open a mission in her city, where the truths of God could be proclaimed to a hungry people. There is no organization of our brotherhood there. Bro. Zilmer, of Morrilton, Ark., accompanied by Bro. Lea of Philadelphia, recently visited Baltimore and spoke there. Sr. Dauterich, who is nearly 76, is the widow of one of our ministers of former years. Despite her age, she does her part in spreading the glad tidings wherever possible, by distributing tracts and passing on her Herald to others.

REVIEW LESSON FOR DECEMBER 27

1. Paul heard and obeyed the divine call from Macedonia. It never pays to close our ears to the call of the Lord.

2. Paul and Silas in their labors at Philippi fully proved the value of prayer. It returns big dividends.

3. The Thessalonians that obeyed the gospel call walked worthy of God and became ensamples to all people.

4. The Corinthian brethren heard, believed, and were baptized. These three coupled together lead to salvation.

5. Law aids temperance, but true temperance needs no law.

6. If Christian service brings opposition, meet it nobly and continue on in prayer, redeeming the time.

7. Resurrection is your only hope. Embrace it; preach it. With this hope be cheerful.

8. Paul was a prisoner for the gospel, but nevertheless he continued preaching the glad tidings of salvation. Keep on the Lord's side and let come what may.

9. Righting our wrongs is putting the golden rule in practice. Don't ask others to do that which you refuse to do.

10. Organization is scriptural. Improve your organic structure.

11. Watch lest the sins of the apostate church of end times be your sins.

12. Love never injures or does harm to any one. Love must be exercised to be appreciated, and that type of love which is not used is counterfeit.—C. E. R.

NOTICE OF ADDRESS

Correspondents may address Bro. F. L. Austin at 5439 Ohio Street, Austin Station, Chicago, Illinois.

"THE HEBREW PEOPLE"

The new Junior Berean Book, "The Hebrew People," is now ready for distribution. The price is 30 cents for single copies; 27 cents each for 5 to 25 copies; 25 cents each for 25 or more copies. This book contains an illustration of the finding of the baby Moses.

Send all orders to National BEREAN Society, Oregon, Illinois.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

Published by

National Bible Institution

Oregon, Illinois

Subscription Rates.—51 issues per annum, $2.00; 6 months, $1.00; 3 months, 50 cents. Sample copy, Free.

Receipts.—The change of date on your address label is your receipt. If date is not changed in two weeks after payment of subscription, please notify this office.

Change of Address.—When ordering change of address be sure to send us both old and new addresses.

The RESTITUTION HERALD advocates: the near return of Christ, Acts 1:11, and life only through Him, Col. 3:3; the literal resurrection of the dead, John 5:28; the immortalization of those in Christ, 1 Cor. 15:53, 54; the final restoration of Israel as the kingdom of God under the kingship of Christ, Luke 1:32, the church to be joint heirs with Him, Rom. 8:17, and Israel to be made head over Gentile nations, Isa. 60:13; the "restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began", Acts 3:21. It also firmly advocates repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, Acts 2:38, and a consecrated life as essential to salvation.

JESUS CHRIST, WHO IS HE?

By Jas. A. Patrick

I AM quite sure that our brethren believe that Jesus was the only begotten Son of God. I think they believe in giving the word, begotten, the same meaning when applied to Christ that it carries throughout the Bible. In Matthew 1:20 the word, conceived, rendered, begotten, in the margin, is the same Greek word that is used when Christ is spoken of as the only begotten Son of God.

Not long ago I heard a preacher say that monogonice, the Greek word for, only begotten, carried a very wonderful, exalted meaning. Just before this he had said that Christ was "very God of very God". I looked up the word and found it to mean just what it is translated in the Bible—the only begotten Son of God.

The Emphatic Diaglott renders the last clause of Matthew 1:20, "For that which is being formed in her is of holy Spirit." This is in complete harmony with what the angel told Mary when she asked, "How shall this be, seeing I know not a man? And the angel answered and said unto her, The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee: therefore also that holy thing which shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God."—Luke 1:34, 35. The Emphatic Diaglott renders this last clause, "And therefore that begotten, being holy shall be called a Son of God". The Greek word here rendered, born, in the Concordant Version, and, begotten, in the Emphatic Diaglott is the same word that is rendered, conceived, in Matthew 1:20.

In Luke 1:31, the angel said to Mary, "Behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shalt call his name JESUS." What constituted this Jesus? Of what was He composed? Was it not flesh, bone, muscle, nerves, veins, arteries, brain, etc., that went to make up what was called Jesus? Was there anything aside from the physical being that could properly be called Jesus?

All through His life the same thing is true. It was Jesus that was hanged on the cross. It was the body of Jesus taken from the cross, but when it came to laying it in the tomb, it is said, "There laid they Jesus."

On the morning of the resurrection when the women came to the tomb, the angel said, "I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified." What was it that was crucified? The flesh and blood man! The angel continued, "He is not here; for he is risen, as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay."—Matt. 28:4, 5. What was it that lay in the tomb that is called the Lord? And further, "Go quickly, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead." Who? Jesus the Lord. The same that lay in the tomb? What else, will you tell me? Could anything else be Jesus, the Lord? If so, what was it?

I know that some teach that the body of Jesus was not raised. Then was Jesus raised? The body was Jesus. John says that it was. How could we understand this language, if the same one that went into the tomb was not raised?

"This Jesus, whom you crucified, God hath made him both Lord and Christ." Acts 2:36, Emphatic Diaglott.

Jesus said to His disciples, "Behold my hands and my feet, that it is I myself: handle me and see; for a spirit hath not flesh and bones as ye see me have." Could these words be true if something other than the same hands and feet, the same flesh and bones He possessed in mortal life, had been raised? Could the nail and spear prints have been in anything but the hands and feet that He carried to the cross?

"Now that he ascended, what is it but that he also descended first into the lower parts of the earth? He that descended is the same also that ascended up far above all heavens."—Eph. 4:9, 10.

"And we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is."

Someone will say, "Why lay so much stress upon this subject? You have written along this line before." Yes, I have written along this line before and probably shall again, because I fear that some are denying the resurrection of our Lord.

LEST WE FORGET THE LESS FORTUNATE

THANKSGIVING with its generosity among the needy, which the day brings, has passed, and now Christmas with its spirit of giving will soon be here.

It is a fine thing to remember the unfortunate during the holidays, but that soon passes, and all too soon the needy are back in their old condition, again needing fuel, food, and other necessities, and the contrast makes it all the harder to endure.

The relief work among our church people, for which I am making an appeal for financial donation, isn't just at holiday time, but the funds given for the work are conserved and distributed over the entire year among those who need it the most. Special attention is given our families where there are little children and aged ones.

Those who donate to this relief work I am sure feel a sense of satisfaction, because they know that they are helping in a way to bring about the greatest good. They realize that the Golden Rule does not apply just for a few days.

I would not want you to think that the little children in our families where misfortune has come are not given any cheer at Christmas time. Arrangements are made out of the funds to give them as much joy as possible. There must be toys, and it is right, too, for life and its hardships come altogether too soon to many, and up to a certain age children should not know that this is true.

This work can only be carried on with the help of the brethren and I will welcome any donations, large or small. Every donation is made to do the utmost possible in the way of relief.

Mrs. Orpha Sanford,
5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois. Chairman of the National Berean Relief Committee of the Church of God.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

CHRISTMAS NUMBER

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, DECEMBER 22, 1931

NUMBER 12

The Star of Bethlehem

The brightest gleam that ever shone
Across the world's dark night
Was not reflected from the throne
Of selfishness or might.
'Twas not the torch that led the way
To any diadem.
It was love's gentle, golden ray
— The Star of Bethlehem.

The light that longest shall abide
Among the distant years,
And leave on weary-faces dried
The most of human tears,
Is not the glow reflected far
From Splendor's gleaming gem.
It is the light of one lone star
— The Star of Bethlehem.

That wondrous light shall shine on earth
In ages yet to be,
And point to Him of lowly birth
Now crowned eternally
With might and power from above;
His royal diadem
Reflecting God's unchanging love
— True Star of Bethlehem.
— C. E. Flynn and G. E. M.

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

"Thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins."

THE EDITOR'S PRAYER

UNTO THEE, OUR FATHER, who hast so dearly loved, and hast manifested Thy love in the gift of Thy Son, we would lift our voices in praise. Help us, we pray, that as we celebrate the birth of our Lord, we may do so with understanding hearts. Make us appreciative of Thy grace brought to us so freely through Jesus Christ. Amen.

THE FIRST OF THE STORY

THE intensely interesting and dramatic nature of the events associated with the birth of the Son of God has caused many to disregard the equally important occurrences recorded in the earlier part of this true and wonderful story. These neglected portions have to do with happenings which actually took place, according to Mr. E. W. Bullinger, on December twenty-fifth, the day on which the Christian world celebrates the Savior's birth.

"It appears without the shadow of a doubt that the day assigned to the birth of the Lord, viz., December 25, was (really) the day on which He was 'begotten of the Holy Ghost,'" declares this renowned Bible scholar. It was the day, therefore, when the angel Gabriel appeared to Mary with his startling announcement concerning the birth of her Son.

It is not necessary to enter into a lengthy discussion of the reasons advanced by Mr. Bullinger in support of his conclusions beyond the fact that those reasons appear both logical and in harmony with the sacred record. The matters in which we are the more interested are the events which took place on that occasion, which is said to have been December twenty-fifth, according to our reckoning, and the day on which we now celebrate the Master's birth.

JESUS!

THE declaration with which the angel introduced his announcement had to do with the naming of the One who was to be born. "Thou shalt call his name JESUS!" Such was Gabriel's command.

This name, now sacred throughout the world, means "the salvation of Jehovah." When the heavenly messenger approached Joseph, the betrothed husband of Mary, to assure him of the worthiness and purity of his affianced bride, he declared, "She shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name JESUS: for he shall save his people from their sins."

To "save his people (the Jews) from their sins," was the primary purpose of Jesus' coming. Later this objective was broadened to include the Gentiles as well as the Jews, and Jesus became "the Saviour of all men." Not that God changed His plan, but that the fulness of it had been obscured from the world in the past.

Savior from sin! O how much is included in that brief phrase! The sorrows and the distresses, the anxieties and the fears, the pain and the death, all of which has come into the world through sin, are now to be removed through Jesus Christ our Savior!

THE GREATNESS OF JESUS

THE GREATNESS OF JESUS is being continually evidenced throughout the civilized world. The moral influence of the life and teaching of the Master is everywhere apparent. Not so much in practical accomplishments, we regret to observe; but in the moral viewpoint of the people. Men have come to appreciate and to admire, if not to emulate, the example left them by Jesus of service and sacrifice.

The true greatness of the Son of God, however, is of a much higher order than that which the world might designate His moral qualities. The greatness of Jesus was infinite; it was more than human; it was a reflection of God Himself on the plane of the flesh. Jesus made it possible for mortals to understand and apprehend God as they had never been able to comprehend Him before.

The greatness of Jesus does not end even here. Through His own infinite goodness, through His own sacrifice and service, through His conquest of sin in Himself, He acquired the power to lift those who believe on Him to the same divine plane to which He Himself has attained, the plane of real spiritual living. Before His testing period had been completed He looked hopefully forward to the goal, and said, "And I, if I be lifted up . . . will draw all men unto me."

This God-given power to lift others to a higher level of spiritual living and experience in this present life, will have its completion when the Savior comes again, and exalts the members of His body to a plane of divine being.

I N A S M U C H

OF the many delightful stories and legends that have entwined themselves around the festival of the Nativity, The Cobbler and His Guest is one of the most charming. Under other titles, in one version or another, often in prose and sometimes in verse, it has been told many, many times. But even so, for the sake of the lesson it teaches, it cannot be repeated too often.

According to one version of the tale, there lived in the city of Marseilles a hundred years and more ago an old shoemaker, loved and honored by all his neighbors, who affectionately called him "Father Martin." One Christmas eve as he sat alone in his little shop, reading of the visit of the wise men to the infant Jesus, and of the gifts they brought, he said to himself:

"If tomorrow were the first Christmas, and if Jesus were to be born in Marseilles this night, I know what I would give Him!" He rose and took from a shelf two tiny shoes of softest snow-white leather, with bright silver buckles. "I would give Him these, my finest work . . . How pleased His mother would be! . . . But I'm a foolish old man," he thought, smiling. "The Master has no need of my poor gifts."

Replacing the shoes he blew out the candle and retired to rest. Hardly had he closed his eyes, it seemed, when he heard a Voice call his name, "Martin!" Intuitively he felt aware of the identity of the Speaker: "Martin, you have longed to see me. Tomorrow I shall pass by your window. If you see me and bid me enter, I shall be your guest and sit at your table."

He did not sleep that night for joy. Before it was yet dawn he rose and swept and tidied up his little shop. Fresh sand he spread upon the floor, and green boughs of fir he wreathed along the rafters. On the spotless, linen-covered table he placed a loaf of white bread, a jar of honey, a pitcher of milk, and over the fire he hung a pot of coffee.

When all was in readiness he took up his vigil at the window. He was sure he would know the Master. From childhood had he not gazed in love and reverence at His image above the great altar in the cathedral? And as he watched the driving sleet and rain in the cold, deserted street, he thought of the joy that would be his when he sat down and broke bread with his Guest.

Presently he saw an old street-sweeper pass by, blowing upon his thin, gnarled hands to warm them. "Poor fellow, he must be half frozen," thought Martin. Opening the door he called out to him, "Come in, my friend, and warm, and drink a cup of hot coffee." No further urging was needed, and the man gratefully accepted the invitation.

An hour passed, and Martin saw a young, miserably clothed woman, carrying a baby. She paused wearily to rest in the shelter of his doorway. The heart of the old cobbler was touched. Quickly he flung open the door. "Come in and warm while you rest," he said to her. "You do not look well," he remarked.

"I am going to the hospital. I hope they will take me in, and my baby boy," she explained. "My husband is at sea, and I am ill, without a sou."

"Poor child," cried the old man. "You must eat something while you are getting warm. No? Then let me give a cup of milk to the little one. . . Ah! what a bright, pretty little fellow he is! . . . Why, you have put no shoes on him!"

"I have no shoes for him," sighed the mother.

"Then he shall have this lovely pair I finished yesterday." And Martin took down from the shelf the soft little snow-white shoes he had looked at the evening before, and slipped them on the child's feet. They fitted perfectly. And shortly the poor young mother went on her way, tearful with gratitude, and Martin resumed his post at the window. Hour after hour went by. And although many people passed his window, and many needy souls shared the hospitality of the old cobbler, the expected Guest did not appear.

At last, when night had fallen, Father Martin retired to his cot with a heavy heart. "It was only a dream," he sighed. "I did hope and believe, but He has not come."

Suddenly, so it seemed to his weary eyes, the room was flooded with a glorious light. And to the cobbler's astonished vision there appeared before him, one by one, the poor street-sweeper, the sick mother and her baby, and all the people whom he had aided during the day. And each smiled at him and said: "Have you not seen me? Did I not sit at your table?"—and vanished!

Then softly out of the silence he heard again the gentle Voice, repeating old, familiar words:

"Whosoever shall receive one such little child in my name, receiveth me."

"For I was an hungered and ye gave me meat; I was thirsty and ye gave me drink; I was a stranger and ye took me in."

"Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."—Selected by L. E. Y.

—o—

Come, Thou long-expected Jesus,
Born to set Thy people free,
From our tears and pains release us;
Let us find our rest in Thee:
Israel's Strength and Consolation,
Hope of all our souls Thou art;
Dear Desire of every nation,
Joy of every longing heart.

Born Thy people to deliver,
Born a Child—and yet a King,
Born to reign on earth forever,
Now Thy precious kingdom bring:
Bring us, Lord, Thy great salvation,
Let us now behold Thy face,
Send Thy laws to every nation,
Tune our hearts to sing Thy praise.

—Charles Wesley.

JESU, JESU, THE KING!

By Elizabeth Louise May

To watching shepherds it was told
 Who heard the angel's voice announce:
 "Good tidings I bring of the Savior's birth,"
 This day has God fulfilled His word;
 Today, is born a Savior!
 Jesu! Jesu! the King!

To see the wonder, the shepherds ran
 Straight on to Bethlehem
 And found Jesu! Jesu! the King!
 Lying in a manger filled with straw;
 His mother, Mary, near his cradle-bed.

The Babe wrapped warm in swathing bands—
 Lay sleeping on the golden straw—
 While sheep and oxen in sleeping too,
 Did'st bend to Jesu! Jesu! the King!

Back to their flocks the shepherds ran
 Shouting and praising the glad refrain
 Of the angels who sang—Jesu! Jesu! the King!
 Glory to God! Glory to God!
 Glory to God in the Highest! and on earth,
 Peace! Peace and good will to men!

So let us sing the triumphal song
 The shepherds sang with the angels,
 On that first Christmas morn!
 And all the world shall join the song
 That proclaims the birth of Jesu! Jesu! the King!

"Glory to God! Glory to God!
 Glory to God in the Highest and on earth,
 Peace and good will to men! Amen! Amen!"

IF CHRIST HAD NOT COME

By Ida Lapp

ONE can scarcely express the wells of joy and praise which spring up in our hearts at this season of the year, as we sense the love and mercy manifested by our heavenly Father when He gave to us the greatest of all gifts—His only begotten Son—our Savior. But have you ever stopped to think what it would mean to you and to me, if Christ had not come? Do you realize what our lives would have been like, if God had not sent His unspeakable Gift into the world?

The story is told of a minister, who, after studying hard for several hours on his Christmas message, buried his head in his arms on the table and fell asleep. During his sleep he dreamed that it was what we would call Christmas morning, but that he was in a world where Jesus had never come to make His abode with men. He walked to the fireplace to take one more glimpse at the tiny stockings, chucked to the top with toys for the little ones, but there were no stockings or toys to be found.

He arose, left the house, and started to walk to church, listening for the early morning chimes which usually heralded the King's birthday. But to his dismay he could hear no music; then he remembered that there was no church and that Christ had not come. He returned to his study, but when he reached for a certain book on the life of Christ, he discovered that every book about the Savior had disappeared.

Suddenly, as the door bell rang, a little boy appeared and asked the minister to go with him to the bedside of his dying mother. He hurried to the little fellow's home, and as he entered, said to the Mother, "Now I have something comforting to read to you." But when he opened his Bible, to his disappointment he found it ended at Malachi. There was no New Testament, no promises from the loving Savior. The sad-hearted minister could only bow his head and weep with the dying woman.

Two days later, as he stood by her casket and conducted the funeral ceremony, there were no words of comfort which could be spoken, no songs of promise to be sung, no hope assured those left to mourn; only the sad words, "dust to dust, ashes to ashes." More fully than ever he realized that Christ had not come, and then he burst into tears of sorrow.

Suddenly he awakened from his sad dream and hearing his church choir across the street, rehearsing that beautiful old hymn, "Joy to the world, the Lord is come", his heart thrilled with ecstasy. A shout of praise burst from his lips, as he realized more fully the blessings enjoyed by all, because Christ had come.

Should we not then, as Christians, be glad and rejoice more than anyone else because Christ has come, and that He is with us in our daily life? Let us always remember the announcement, made by the angel, "Behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people, for unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."—Luke 2:10-11.

On the other hand, let us think of the millions to whom Christ has not yet come; let us think of their sad hearts; and let us at this, the beginning of a new year, pledge ourselves, one and all, to pray that more workers may be sent forth daily to tell the glorious news that CHRIST HAS COME and that He is only waiting at their heart's door to come in and give them joy and peace.

"Room for Jesus, King of glory,
 Hasten now His Word obey;
 Swing your heart's door widely open,
 Bid Him enter, while you may."

THE REDEEMER OF MANKIND

By C. E. Lapp

“And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins.”—Matthew 1:21.

ONCE more we are to celebrate the birthday of Him for whom the angels sang, whose birth was foretold by angels, before whom shepherds knelt in humbleness and worship at the foot of His manger throne. Wise men came from the distant East to worship Him of whom the prophets had spoken years before. Thousands were joyous and exultant to know that at last the long looked for Redeemer of mankind had been born in the city of David. The world stopped in awe and wonderment to seek the meaning of all the strange phenomenon that had caused such widespread excitement.

Gabriel, the angel of the Lord, had appeared to Joseph in a dream and told him that he should take Mary to be his wife, since the child she was to bear was of God's Holy Spirit. He also told him to call the child's name Jesus.

So often we hear that name taken on the lips of men, very few really knowing what it means. Its very mention seems to quiet those who fear and bring peace to the troubled in heart. To the oppressed there comes the feeling of comradeship, and to the weary comes rest. Sin flies away at its approach and those trudging along under its awful weight turn their faces upward to the ray of hope that beams through the darkened clouds and take a new grasp on life with all its beauties.

The man with the palsied shake of the head and the emaciated body breathes a prayer in that Name, knowing full well relief will come. The washerwoman sings at her daily task with a joy that passes beyond our plane of comprehension. She has been with Jesus and has learned of Him. That name is sweet to the ears of the child; dearer than life itself to the elderly saint.

Humanity does not change. Century after century mankind has inhabited the earth, seeking in every nook and corner of this great universe for the one coveted thing of all ages—life. They sought it in philosophy and reasoning, in myths and legends, and in science—all to no avail, ever hoping, but all too many times failing in the gigantic task which they have undertaken. Sin, with its dazzling appeal, lures innumerable ones into its folds and only few escape the tenacious grip of the ever entangling web. Sin, with its debauchery and debaseness, drags down into the slime-pits of the grave itself the very flower of mankind, leaving them there to their own fate with no help in sight.

But wait! New hope arises in the heart; we are made to feel that help is near. The angel said: “You are to call His name Jesus, for He it is who will save His people from their sins.” (Wey.) The cloud so dark for a time vanishes from our sight. Our Savior is born and is now living, seated at the right hand of our Creator in the heavens. He it is who will banish all sorrow and care; lift the scourge of sickness and banish death forever. Death, the wages of sin? Yes, He overcame death, and we lift up our heads and rejoice. For He has truly come to save His people from their sins and give life everlasting to all those who will put their trust in Him.

HE IS COMING AGAIN

By Lucille LeCrone

How cruel those words, “There is no room,” must have sounded to Joseph on that night so many years ago when the greatest event of history transpired—the birth of the Christ! How heavy his heart must have been as he went from inn to inn, from door to door, in his futile efforts to find shelter for himself and his wife, she who was to become the mother of the Savior of mankind.

Any of the places Joseph applied to that night might have become the birthplace of Jesus. They might have become objects of future pilgrimages, places of worship and adoration. They missed the opportunity of sheltering the Babe who was born that night. There was no room! Instead a stable was His first home, a manger His first bed. No lovely clothes to dress Him in; only swaddling clothes and a manger!

But His birth was not altogether without glory and honor. “And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flocks by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them.” The angel which appeared unto them was clothed in glory, the Shekinah glory of the Lord, which manifests His presence. And there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host, praising God and saying, “Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.” Even if mortals had no room for Him in their inns, the angels were watching and joyously announced His birth.

Such was the manner of His first coming! How different will be the second, for He is coming again. “In such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh.” And with what splendor and glory. “For he shall come in the glory of his Father with his angels.”—Matt. 16:27. Coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory! Every eye shall see Him; every knee shall bow before Him; every tongue shall confess that He is “Lord, to the glory of God the Father.” All kings shall fall down before Him, and all nations shall serve Him. He is coming to establish His kingdom upon the earth and to rule over it with righteousness, for “righteousness shall be the girdle of his loins, and faithfulness the girdle of his reins”.—Isa. 11:5.

Have you made room for Him in your heart, so that when that glad day arrives He will have room for you by His side as a ruler?

REJECTED AND ACCEPTED

By Dorothy Krogh

ABOUT five miles south of Jerusalem, crowning the top of a narrow ridge extending eastward from the center of the Judean hills, there lay a little hamlet called Bethlehem. On every side but the western, the hill breaks down abruptly into deep valleys; while a little way to the east the land stretches out into a plain. There a group of shepherds were tending their flocks.

During the day as they guarded the grazing sheep, sights and sounds of the earth undoubtedly filled their minds. But darkness having veiled the scene, their attention was likely drawn to the heavens. For so long had they been accustomed to watching the mysteries of the evening skies that they had probably grown familiar with the planets and knew them in all their courses.

On this night there came to them a vision, surpassing in glory any sight they had previously witnessed. The whole heavens were suddenly filled with light, and the voice of an angel announced to these simple shepherds the birth of the Savior, Christ the Lord. Filled with wonder and awe, they hastened into the village and found the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

When this event took place the Jews were subject to the rule of Rome. They had not known national independence since the time of the Babylonian captivity. They had been captured and recaptured, scattered and enslaved, oppressed by each succeeding conqueror, until it seemed impossible that a restoration of the kingdom of Israel could ever come about by natural events.

But the Scriptures had promised that God would send a Savior, who would exalt Israel to a position of everlasting glory; and the lower their station in the world became, the greater were their hopes of the soon appearance of the Messiah. They eagerly awaited the time when, under this divinely commissioned Leader they might rise in revolt against the hated foreign oppressors.

Eventually the babe whose birth had been heralded by the angel grew to manhood and started out to teach the gospel of the kingdom in His simple and humble way, claiming to be the promised Christ. But this was not the type of man the Jews were looking for. Their Lord was to come in honor and glory, with power and might. So because they thought Him to be an imposter, they rejected the Savior and nailed Him to the cross.

Nearly two thousand years have passed since then, and the Jews are still looking for the coming of their Messiah. Soon the One whom they rejected, whose birth we are commemorating by our Christmas celebrations, is coming back to this earth. The Jews will look upon Him, whom they pierced and will realize that they crucified the true Messiah. Then will they accept Him as their King, and He will establish a rule of righteousness which shall eventually fill the entire earth.

The world is greatly in need of such a ruler. Sin has increased, and troublesome times are prevalent upon the earth. There is constant strife among the nations, and a depression is everywhere in evidence. No doubt many of us are suffering from this condition, but these things should encourage us to be true to Him until He comes, for the Bible tells us that "when these things begin to come to pass, then look up and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh." Luke 21:28.

OUR HERITAGE FROM JESUS

By Harvey Krogh

"Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."—John 14:27.

JESUS was born in the little town of Bethlehem of Judea. His mother knew that He was the Son of God, and she taught Him and helped to prepare Him for the great work which was before Him. He grew up in the city of Nazareth in Galilee and helped in the carpenter shop. From what we know of Him in His later life, He must have spent much of His time studying the books of the law and the prophets, and much of His time in prayer with His Father.

In His youth He must have had many temptations, and undoubtedly it was sometimes difficult for Him to choose the good rather than the evil. He could not have done this alone, for man cannot live righteously without the help of God. But by constant communion with his Maker he is strengthened in every temptation. Jesus did not forget that He was the Son of God, or He would have fallen as all other men have.

When our Savior was about thirty years old, He was tested for His work of salvation. The record says that He was led up of the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil. This temptation was not to prove His worthiness or capability of doing the work that was set before Him; but it was to strengthen and prepare Him for it. Jesus fasted for forty days and forty nights. Have you ever fasted voluntarily?

At the end of this long period He was tempted to turn stones into bread and eat. He had the power to do so. Why did He not? He remembered that God would sustain Him. After the temptation the devil took Jesus up into the Holy City, seated Him on a pinnacle of the temple, and said to Him, "If thou be the Son of God cast thyself down." God would not have allowed harm to come to Him and what a demonstration it would be to the people! Why did He not yield this time?

Following this Jesus was shown the kingdoms of the earth, all of which were promised to Him, if He would fall down and worship Satan. He conquered the third time, for He knew that all these things would be His rightfully if He endured yet for a little while. You, too, will be granted more than you have ever desired in this life if you will be patient and serve God. "Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve", were the words with which Jesus refuted Satan on the third temptation. Then the devil left Him and angels came and ministered unto Him. Did angels ever minister to you? Well, probably you just did not recognize it as such.

After His temptation He went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people. He called twelve disciples from among those who followed Him, and they went about with Him during most of His ministry. He taught them special things and prepared them for the great work that was to be done after His departure.

The feast of the passover was drawing near, and Jesus knew that He was the Lamb of God that was to be sacrificed to atone for the sins of all the world. He and His disciples were sitting around the table after their last supper together. He had washed their feet and was preparing them for the trials that would come after He was taken from them. He promised them the Holy Spirit and comforted them, for they were grieved when He told them that He would not be with them long.

Among the many things that He said to them was this: "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you." And truly He was at peace, or He would have been unnerved by the thought of the coming day. We marvel at His composure and calmness. But why marvel? Though you and I were to be put to death, it would be possible for us also to have perfect self-control as Jesus did; but we would have to be prepared as He was. He could not have borne such a trial when He was yet a youth; nor could He have borne it at the beginning of His ministry. By trials and suffering He was made perfect so that He might not falter when it was time to be delivered into the hands of His enemies. You remember that in 1 Corinthians 10:13, Paul says, "God is faithful and will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way of escape that ye may be able to bear it."

Jesus suffered much that night in the garden, for we read that He prayed earnestly that He might not have to drink that bitter cup. "Nevertheless," He said, "not my will, but thine be done." Then there appeared an angel from heaven, strengthening Him. (Luke 22:44, 45.) Did you ever pause and consider how much comfort and peace you would have if you knew that, whenever you needed help, you could pray to the Father and He would send angels to minister unto you? Certainly God does send angels to help us. "Are they not all ministering spirits, sent forth to minister for them who shall be heirs of salvation?"

Let us remember that the secret of Jesus' power to rise above sin and to endure the supreme test was His close communion with God. We, too, have that great privilege of talking with our Father and walking with Him. We can be assured of protection and peace if we will live in the spirit of God as Jesus did. It is ours if we only accept what the Master left for us. These words were meant for us also, "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you."

WHAT DOES CHRISTMAS MEAN TO YOU?

By Lottie E. Young

WHEN a baby comes to a royal family, especially if it is a prince, what preparations are made! How its advent is heralded all through the nation by the ringing of bells; multitudes acclaim the tiny creature as their coming king, and costly gifts from far and near are showered upon it. What a contrast is this to the humble birth of the Lord Jesus Christ! Think of the peasant mother, the stable home, the manger cradle, and the curious shepherds! And yet of the many princes who have been born into this world, even though their birthdays may have been observed during their lifetime, none are remembered now save that of the Babe of Bethlehem, the Prince of Peace. His natal day is honored by millions in some fashion.

Why did He come? What was His mission? Hundreds of years before the birth of this Christchild His name was given—Immanuel—"God with us". And so He came as a Revealer of God to man; as the Redeemer or Purchaser of those who were helpless, for Jesus means "Savior"; as the Restorer of this world to its Edenic beauty, when sickness and sorrow, disappointments and heartaches, and even death—"the last enemy"—shall be unknown. Is it any wonder His birthday is still celebrated!

There are many answers which might be given as to what Christmas is. To the infidel, it means nothing, though, unconsciously, he keeps it. To the Christian, it means worship, although that is frequently omitted. To the merchant, it means, "This is my harvest". To the buyer, "Have I sufficient funds to go around?" To the small boy or girl, "What will Santa Claus bring me?" To the rich, it brings a show of arrogance, or helpful philanthropy. To the poor, "How can we fill the children's stockings?" To the cynic, boredom. To the optimist, an opportunity to bring cheer to "others".

To the many, it is a time of anxiety, doubt, and worry; a time of hurly burly, late hours, and jostling crowds, each intent with that which involves his own home and family. But through it all runs the Christmas spirit, and if this can be retained, even in small measure, the "Day" will not have been in vain.

Over the radio will come the Christmas carols with their messages of peace on earth, to all men good will. The "unspeakable" gift of Jesus Christ to the world was the greatest blessing ever received, and as "in the fullness of time", He made His first advent, so some day the promise shall be fulfilled: "Unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation," when the whole world shall know of His "good will", love and righteousness.

Is each one of us ready for that great day?

THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD

---

When in silence o'er the deep,
 Darkness kept its death-like sleep,
 Soon as God His mandate spoke,
 Light in wondrous beauty broke.

But a beam of holier light,
 Guided Bethlehem's lonely night,
 When the glory of the Lord,
 Mercy's sunlight, shone abroad.

Peace on earth; good will to men,
 Burst the glorious anthem then:
 Angels bending from above,
 Joined that strain of holy love.

Floating o'er the waves of time,
 Comes to us that song sublime,
 Bearing to the pilgrim's ear,
 Words to soothe, sustain, and cheer.

For creation's blessed light,
 Praise to Thee, Thou God of might!
 Seraph strains Thy name should bless,
 For the Sun of Righteousness!
 —From an old hymn.

---

"AND GLORY SHONE AROUND"

---

By Richard LeCrone

---

THIS year when you attend the Christmas program of your church you will, in all likelihood, either hear sung, or join in singing, hymns of praise and rejoicing over the birth of the Lord. In one of these is contained the phrase, "And glory shone around." The hymn thus expresses the thought of the glorious light which appeared at the birth of the Master. We will all agree that it is a beautiful and inspiring theme, and you will no doubt consider it quite presumptuous upon the part of one with a very limited knowledge of music to suggest that it could be made more beautiful. He even goes so far as to say that he knows how it could be done.

In reply to the indignant protests which I feel sure must have been aroused, I hasten to explain. The hymn could be made more beautiful by adding to the joyous rhythm of the music and the gladsome message of the words, a more complete comprehension of their meaning upon the part of singer and listener alike. What possible bearing could the fact that "glory shone around" have upon the lives of men? Was it simply an unusual phenomenon which occurred at about the time of the birth of Christ or was it, like the voice of the angels, intended to convey a message to mankind? While these questions linger in our mind, is not the beauty of the hymn somewhat impaired?

To explain just what the glory of God is would be impossible; man does not know. But it is possible for man, in a limited degree at least, to grasp the significance of its appearing.

We know that God first spoke to Moses from the midst of a bush which burned, yet was not consumed. An unnatural fire again manifested itself to Israel in the form of the pillar of fire which led them. This time it was named. "And it came to pass, as Aaron spake . . . that they looked toward the wilderness, and, behold, the glory of the Lord appeared in the cloud."—Ex. 16:10. The term is again applied to the fire which appeared on Mount Sinai at the giving of the law. "And the sight of the glory of the Lord was like devouring fire on the top of the mount in the eyes of the children of Israel."

The glory of the Lord however most frequently appeared to them in the tabernacle. "And Moses was not able to enter into the tent of the congregation, because the cloud abode thereon, and the glory of the Lord filled the tabernacle."—Ex. 40:35.

In Zechariah's prophecy the manifestations of the presence of God are spoken of thus: "Jerusalem shall be inhabited as towns without walls for the multitude of men and cattle therein: for I, saith the Lord, will be unto her a wall of fire round about, and a glory in the midst of her."—Zech. 2:4, 5.

Ezekiel seems to have recognized the glory of God as an indication of His presence. "And behold, the glory of the Lord filled the house of the Lord: and I fell upon my face."—Ezek. 44:4. In brief, with Ezekiel the glory of the Lord was an indication of His presence; and accordingly when Ezekiel saw it, he worshiped.

Hence, dear reader, when "the glory of the Lord shone round about" the shepherds of Israel, it meant more to them than just a bright light. It was an indication that Jehovah was very near, and that the words of the angels were not only true but of the utmost importance to mankind. Following the example of Ezekiel they fell upon their faces and worshiped.

Has not the hymn become more beautiful?

---

"THE most beautiful of the accounts of the Savior's birth is that given by Luke. As we look back upon it in the light of nineteen Christian centuries, we marvel at its simplicity and loveliness, its perfect fitness to show God's love for man. If Jesus had come as an admired sage, or as a powerful conqueror, or as a man of amazing wealth, He would not then have entered into our common life and lived as a brother alongside of us. In all ways throughout His brief life, He shared our human experiences, and by His gracious words of heavenly wisdom, by His tender deeds of kindness, He so manifested the love of His Father that men have ever since believed in it, sought it in all their troubles, and found in it forgiveness for all their sins."

LET JESUS COME INTO YOUR HEART

By F. L. Austin

"I am crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me".—Galatians 2:20.

OF BETHLEHEM honorable mention was made by Heaven in that she was the city of the birth of our Lord. He whose birth into life was announced by an anthem of the angels, was, beginning at Bethlehem to be the Instrument by whom all the nations of the world were to be transformed into character, and standing, and status, in perfect harmony with God Himself. The earliest days of His infancy, those days in which He had no active influence to bestow, were lived in a city which was "little among the thousands of Judah." And just the mere fact that He was born there was sufficient cause for Bethlehem to become known the world around.

At this another anniversary of that Heaven-honored birth, the Christian world will, as in one massed choir, sing the carols of His birth, the praises of Bethlehem included. Let us all join in the songs.

But there are deeper and more far reaching facts that we should also bear in mind. It is not so much the fact that the Savior was born in Bethlehem that should cause rejoicing. The real cause for song and rejoicing should be the fact that that same Savior has come to live in our lives—day by day. After all that can be said otherwise, it is a fact that unless Jesus has been given real and genuine admission into our lives to rule them and do with them as He may wish, Christmas loses the greater part of its significance.

The words of Paul, "Christ liveth in me", contain a wealth of meaning and value. They mean that, so far as Paul was concerned, all that he did was the result of the guidance and work of Christ in him. Paul admitted Christ into the very heart-center of his life, had committed all to Him for His abode and for His use. That meant that a reformation was taking place in Paul's life that was otherwise utterly impossible. It meant that the ultimate of Paul's life was to be determined by the Master Himself.

That same Christ awaits to come into your life, brother, sister, and into mine. He will do for us as He would do for Paul. He would mold and fashion and finish us to His own great knowledge of truth and of right. He would make us meet for God Himself.

If Christ has not and does not come into your life and mine, then we miss by far the greater portion of the Gift of God to man.

"Let Jesus come into your heart."

"Unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

THE WAITING TIME

By Mary A. Gesin

"Mine eyes have seen thy salvation, which thou hast prepared before the face of all people; a light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of thy people Israel."

ALL of life intent on one aim; every thought deflected to a similar purpose; each action molded by a corresponding incentive—and at last, realization! Such is the vision we receive from the picture of the aged Simeon, a fleeting glimpse of which is given us by Luke. "Waiting for the consolation of Israel" is the way in which the gospel writer describes the life-purpose of that "just and devout" man.

The heavenly Father, whose guiding hand shapes the destinies of all creation, was conscious of Simeon's overmastering desire and guided his footsteps into the temple at the opportune moment. Mary and Joseph, bringing the child Jesus according to the law's decrees to perform certain rites, could not have been known to Simeon, and would have been but another zealous father and mother with their babe, except for inspiration.

Long years had Simeon waited for this moment, and taking the child Jesus in his arms, he poured out his gratitude to God for the consummation of his desire. He recognized in the tiny infant the Savior of mankind, a light in darkness hitherto impenetrable, the glory of a people whose splendor had long since departed. He had at last attained that for which his soul had yearned—the blessing of beholding God's "salvation".

All down the ages, "just and devout" men have waited for their glimpse of the "consolation of Israel". They have bent every energy that their eyes might be worthy of seeing the salvation which God has prepared for all people. We, too, live in expectancy of sharing that joy which came to Simeon on the first advent of Jesus, in the realization of the glory and blessing of His second advent. For "this same Jesus" will once more come to earth; the "salvation" which God has prepared shall be revealed, not to but a handful, but to every waiting heart.

"Just and devout" Simeon prepared himself to be worthy of that God-bestowed vision. And we have a charge to keep, if we would be deserving of that greatest of all benefactions that can come to mankind. John gives us the commission in his first epistle in these words: "Every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure." What that expectation is he tells us in the preceding verse: "When he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is." In comparison with this, all other desires fade away.

If we would attain unto that hope which should animate every true worshiper of our Lord and Master, we will erase from our lives every thought and action which would dim the luster of its consummation, everything which would deter us from the realization of it. Wonderful day, when all the faithful shall share in the glory revealed at His second advent!

At His first coming to earth, the angelic choir burst forth in peans of praise, singing, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth, peace, good will toward men." When He returns to His faithful, waiting followers, surely their hearts shall pour forth the joy of the realization of their hopes, in glad songs of praise to God and His Son.

"We are in the time of waiting;
 Soon we shall behold our Lord,
 Wafted far away from sorrow,
 To receive our rich reward.
 Keep us, then, till His appearing,
 Pure, unspotted from the world;
 Let Thy promises inspire us,
 Till Thy banner is unfurled."

SO THANKFUL

By M. A. Woodward

How many things there are to be thankful for! I have just reached Chicago, December eleventh, after a two month's trip through Michigan—my home for seventy-five years. I have been so thankful to meet my many fellow travelers once more, and to find them still anchored to the Rock, still faithful to the Christ and His cause. It has been two months of real joy and thanksgiving every day. I visited in nine cities and towns, and in about fifty homes. Still I had to miss several homes, as I was out of commission over a week in Dutton, at my dear friends' home, Mr. and Mrs. Leatherman, where I was given the best of care and attention. How good it is to meet so many who love to talk of the blessed hope, and the soon coming Christ!

I found letters awaiting me, one especially which I was so glad to get, from dear lonesome Sr. Good, away from all of like precious faith in Colorado Springs. If anyone reading this lives near her, go to her. She will be so glad to see you. Her address is, Mary E. Good, 215 S. 12th St., Colorado Spring, Colorado.

Let me read part of her letter to you, and you will know where another loyal heart bows down to Israel's God in true worship. She says, "O how glad I am that I can see beyond the dark clouds and catch glimpses of joy and peace in the kingdom of God. So glad that I know these troublous times but foretell the soon (very soon, I hope) coming of the Christ as King. Then we will understand just why some things must be as they are. Now we cannot see, but must walk through the dark by faith, always with the comforting thought that our Father knows and will never forsake us."

Dear little faithful soul, so frail in body, but strong in the faith of God! She echoes the same conditions we have met every place we go—her son Donald out of work, Paul only part time. But she says, "At that we are so much better off than many with little children to feed and no work." She adds, "We can always see so much to be thankful for." Praise God for thankful hearts!

And next comes such a splendid letter from one of our blessed Training Class boys, out west; so full of joy that he can be a worker for the Master; some difficulties along the way, but many joys. My dear fellow worker, it is the difficulties, overcome by God's help, that strengthen your faith and make you strong to "carry on". We are thankful for you, dear lad.

And now we are thankful that we may soon open our eyes on the birthday morning of our beloved Jesus the Christ. What a joy to be able to drop a birthday gift into the box at the church door, and feel though not so much as we would like, still it is given in His name, and for His cause. O beloveds, teach your Sunday school class to give something on Christmas Sunday, be it only a nickel for the Christ's birthday gift. They will perhaps learn to save a little from the movie show, or candy, or gum each week, and have it ready for Christmas morning. I am thankful that someone was willing to take my class of boys in Oregon in my absence. And, God willing, I will be with them again by the new year, if my strength allows me and I am needed there. For I love the little fellows, and someone must make their lives worth living, into honest, noble men. And "never forget that once and for a whole year you were just a ten-year-old kid yourself". So we are thankful for our boys and girls.

"Behold, a virgin . . . shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us."

THE CHRISTMAS STORY

A day of ringing bells and joyous mirth—
 A day when Hope and Gladness fills the Earth—
 The sweet old Story of the Savior's birth!

A Band of Shepherds watching in the night—
 A gleaming Star with radiance warm and bright—
 An Angel's Song borne on the wings of Light!

A Baby cradled in a manger-bed—
 A loving Mother prays with rev'rent head—
 Three Wise Men from the East by Glory led!

A Man of God waits in the Temple there—
 A Holy Woman doth his vigil share—
 The King they see in answer to their prayer!

Yet once again will Herald Angels sing—
 Yet once again will Earth and Heaven ring—
 "BEHOLD HE COMES! Your Savior, Lord, and King!"

—G. E. M.

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 124 N. Parkside Ave., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois

For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"HIS NAME SHALL BE CALLED IMMANUEL"

"There's a song in the air!
There's a star in the sky!
There's a mother's deep prayer,
And a baby's low cry!
And the star rains its fire
While the beautiful sing,
For the manger of Bethlehem cradles a King."

DIFFERENT

CHICAGO's loop has taken on its holiday dress. Stores vie with one another in decorations. State Street is a "sensation". For weeks its lamp posts were kept under cover until the workmen were through and the finished product could be displayed. And when it was, what did we see?

Huge figures lined the streets—ugly, grotesque shapes, with hideous faces and blinking eyes. Fascinating? Perhaps, but certainly not beautiful or in any way symbolic of Christmas.

In order to attract attention today things must be different. People are not satisfied with good books; they must be sensational as well as being well written, or present some new idea. Fashion artists could not make a living without continually introducing new lines, new colors, new fabrics. If they are clever, they disguise the old, making it appear new and startling. We find many today who are not satisfied with the old religion of Christ. They are tired of the teachings of the apostles and prefer rather to follow some new man-made doctrine.

Let us remain in the ranks of the few who celebrate Christmas simply by trying to make others happy, and by letting our whole lives ring out the joy we feel because a Savior did come into the world, bringing with Him the hope of life everlasting and joy untold.

"Songs of praise the angels sang,
Heaven with hallelujahs rang;
Songs of praise awoke the morn,
When the Prince of peace was born.
Saints below, with heart and voice,
Still in songs of praise rejoice."

WITHOUT A CHRIST

AT SOME time we have all stopped to wonder just what this world would have been like had Christ not been born. We naturally think first of the greatest consequence—the fact that there would be no hope of future life after this short span of years had ended. This would be a most dismal outlook, but let us look at the effect upon our daily lives.

At this time of the year there would be no joyful holiday to look forward to. The cold, dreary winter would settle down upon us with no happy work of gladdening the hearts of others to break its monotony. The old Scrooges whose hearts are softened by the Christmas spirit once a year would not, even for this short time, give a thought to anyone less fortunate than themselves.

When things would go wrong as they often do and, bewildered and perplexed, we would seek solace at the Throne of Grace, we could not pray, for who would be our Intercessor? We would never be able to seek the quiet sanctity of a church for meditation, for there would be no churches.

Should we pick up our Bibles, only a few of the verses dear to us could be found, for the books would end with Malachi.

And so we could continue indefinitely, for in every hour of our day, and in every day of our lives is felt the influence of Christ. Let us be glad and rejoice today that "He has come". And let us remember the annunciation of the angel, "Behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people, for unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."—Luke 2:10-11.

"He comes to make His blessings flow,
Far as the curse is found."

"O come, all ye faithful, joyful and triumphant,
O come ye, O come ye to Bethlehem;
Come and behold Him, born the King of Angels,
O come, let us adore Him, Christ, the Lord."

"He shall save his people from their sins."

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

New Year Greetings to my page friends, "Grace be unto you and peace, from him which is, and which was, and which is to come."
Lois Hunt.

THE SON OF GOD BECOMES MAN

THE fourth book in the New Testament is the book of John, written by John, the beloved disciple. He called Jesus the Word, because through Him we know the will of God.

In Jesus is life, and His life became the light of men, showing them how to live.

Jesus gives light to us in many ways—by His teaching, by His example and by the Holy Spirit.

Jesus, the Light, was shining in the darkness long before men received Him.

Jesus is the true Light, which lighteth every man that cometh to Him.

He first came to the Jews, His own people, but many refused to receive Him.

Jesus dwelt among the people and they beheld His glory, full of grace and truth.

John bore witness of Him and said, "This is he of whom I spake. He that cometh after me is preferred before me: for he was before me."

John said the law came through Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus.

We come to know God our Father by learning about Jesus, His beloved Son, who is like the Father.—Junior Scholars' Quarterly.

ARE WE trying to learn from and follow the Light?

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Learn John 14:9 and 6a.
2. Copy the different names given Jesus in this lesson.
3. Select the five most important ideas in the lesson.
4. Read about John the Baptist. Luke 1 and 3.
5. Read about Moses. Exodus 19 and 34.

WE BELIEVE the earth is the saints' home.—Revelation 21:1-5.

ONE GOD

"Ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord, and my servant whom I have chosen: that ye may know and believe me, and understand that I am he: before me there was no God formed, neither shall there be after me. I, even I, am the Lord; and beside me there is no Saviour." Isaiah 43:10, 11.

"Once in royal David's city,
Stood a lonely cattle shed,
Where a mother laid her baby,
In a manger for his bed:
Mary was that mother mild,
Jesus Christ that little child."

A WEEKLY BIBLE READING

January 1 to 7—Genesis 1 to 16 and Matthew 1 to 7.

These weekly readings were sent to me some time ago by R. A. Humphreys of Bear, Arkansas. I hope you will read every one of them for this year. The plan is to read two chapters in the Old Testament, and one in the New each week day, and four in the Old and one in the New each Sunday.

A SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS ALPHABET

A's the Attendance for which we should yearn,
B is the Bible from which we all learn,
C's the Companionship, beautiful state,
D's the Decision to never be late,
E is the Effort we make to attend,
F is the Faith we may have to defend,
G is the Giving by which the class grows,
H is the Happiness giving bestows,
I is the Interest, intense and sincere,
J is for Jewels of wisdom we hear,
K is the Keeness we quickly acquire,
L is the Lessons which always inspire,
M is the Mission for which the class stands,
N is the Number that meet these demands,
O is the Optimists, like a spring breeze,
P is the Pessimists, get rid of these,
Q is for Questions which each scholar plies,
R's the Rejoinder our teacher supplies,
S is the Service in which we delight,
T is the Teacher who leads us aright,
U is the Usefulness all try to learn,
V is the Value we find at each turn,
W's the Welcome we give and receive,
X is 'Xtension in which we believe,
Y is the Youth, fat and thin, long and tall,
Z is the Zeal that we show for it all.—Selected.

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 1. — January 3, 1932

GOD REVEALED THROUGH CHRIST

John 1:1-18

Devotional Reading: Philippians 2:5-11

GOLDEN TEXT

He that hath seen me hath seen the Father. — John 14:9.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: The Revelation of God in Christ.

Basic Truth: "Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me."—John 14:11.

I. The Word. Salvation depends upon knowing God. John 17:3. Owing to the limitations of mortality it is impossible for men to fully comprehend the divine nature through the ordinary faculties of perception. Our minds are finite; His is infinite. "For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts."—Isa. 55:8, 9.

Recognizing the necessity of men knowing Him, and realizing the vastness of the gulf that separates the creature from the Creator, God has graciously revealed Himself to man through His Word.

II. The Word in Nature. From the time in which God said, "Let there be light: and there was light" (Gen. 1:3) until the present, God has been revealing Himself through nature. All existing things were called into being by the Word of God, "for He commanded, and they were created."—Psa. 148:5. Even the deeper spiritual truths concerning Him are revealed in nature. "For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead."

III. The Word in Revelation. More complete and satisfactory than His revelation in nature, is the revelation He makes through His inspired prophets. Jehovah spoke verbally to these holy men of old, and the words He uttered reach us through the instrumentality of the Bible. "Moreover the Lord said unto me," declares Isaiah (ch. 8:1); Jeremiah asserts that "the word of the Lord came to me, saying—" (Jer. 2:1); Ezekiel makes the same claim, that God spoke orally to him; and so it is with all the prophets.

IV. The Word in Christ. "God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son, . . . who being the brightness of his glory, and the express image of his person, and upholding all things by the word of his power," (Heb. 1:1-3), is able to give to mankind a comprehensible revelation of God.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

Our lesson for today concerns the Son of God. He is spoken of in the lesson as the

- True Light;
- Word;
- only Begotten of the Father.

There are two great lights. The one lightens the natural world; the other lightens the spiritual world.

SUN	SON
Dispels darkness	Dispels darkness (John 1:9)
Gives life	Gives life (John 1:4)
Shines on all alike	Is not a respecter of persons (Eph. 6:9)
Affects everything under its rays.	Affects every one under His power.

The Word

He is the living Word. The written Word reveals the living Word. To know the living Word, we must first know the written Word. To live like the living Word, we must obey the written Word. The spoken Word became flesh; the written Word now presents the spoken Word which became the living Word.

Only Begotten

Jesus is the only begotten of the Father. As the only begotten Son He

- represents the Father;
- is the express Image of the Father;
- reveals the Father;
- is the only Way to the Father.

We are baptized into the family of God, thus becoming sons and daughters of God. As sons and daughters (like the only Begotten), we represent the family of God on the earth. We reveal the Father to the world. We are lesser lights that reflect the great Light. We are living epistles which interpret the written Word and manifest the living Word.—C. E. R.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

"He that hath seen me hath seen the Father."—John 14:9.

In Hebrews 1:3 we are told that Christ is the express image of His Father's person and is the brightness of His glory. Being the image of God, Christ is the mirror through which we see the Father.

"No man hath seen God at any time," but He works through Christ in such a way that it reflects His very being. So to see and know Christ is to see and know the Father also. In past times God spoke through the prophets, but now He speaks through His Son, and so it is through Him that we must approach the Father and know Him.—L. A. R.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT

Incarnation, according to Webster, means: "The act of clothing with flesh; the act of assuming flesh, or of taking a human body and the nature of man." Jesus never claimed to be God incarnate. Incarnation must be built upon the theory of the immortality of the soul, and the theory of the preexistence of Christ. The first chapter of John is usually taken to prove the incarnation of Christ by proving His previous existence as Creator.

Logos in the Greek has the meaning of thought, wisdom, power, knowledge, love. The attribute "wisdom" is personified in Proverbs 8:22-26. Logos is the creative force used in the creating of the world. "By the word (Logos) of the Lord were the heavens made; and all the hosts of them by the breath (spirit) of his mouth."—Psa. 33:6. "Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word (Logos) of God, so that things that are seen were not made of things which do appear."—Heb. 11:3. It is evident that "Logos" is not Christ.

If Christ's statement, "I am from above" proves His preexistence then the rest of His statement, "Ye are from beneath," would prove the preexistence of the Pharisees. John the Baptist was "sent from God" (John 1:6), but he didn't preexist; Cain was "a man from the Lord" (Gen. 4:1); and "a good wife is a gift from the Lord," yet it is not understood that they preexisted or that they were incarnated. Matthew 1:1 should settle the question. "This is the book of the generation of Jesus Christ." Generation as used here is "genesis"—the beginning. The book of Genesis deals with the beginning of things that did not exist before. Matthew deals with the genesis of Jesus Christ. Incarnation depends upon preexistence and Christ did not preexist.—H. A. S.

INTERMEDIATE CLASS

Topic: Seeing God in Jesus.

Have you ever heard anyone say, "She is just like her mother", or, "He is just like his father"? Some actions of our companions remind us of their parents, and we say that we can see the father in the child. Just so was it with Jesus.

Desirous of drawing men closer to Him and anxious that they should be saved from sin and its dire effects, God sent His Son into the world. The only Son of God was "full of grace and truth".

Name several traits which Christ displayed that must have been like His Father and no one else. Name several attributes possessed by the Son that He could have received from no other. Judging from what we know of Jesus, what sort of person must God be? How will He deal with those who are obedient? When you think of God as being similar to Jesus, does it not make God seem much nearer to you?

Jesus said, "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father." And yet it says that no one has seen God. What did Jesus mean?—M. G.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

F. L. AUSTIN AGAIN AT WCMA

On Dec. 27, from 6:30 a. m. to 7:30 a. m., Bro. Austin will again speak over the radio from Station WCMA at Culver, Ind., subject, "The Importance of Christ's Arrival in Bethlehem, and of His Entrance Into the Lives of Individuals." Station WCMA is of 500 watt power and 1400 kc. It is on the air, week days from 1:45 to 4:30 p. m. and 10:30 to midnight; Sundays, from 6:30 to 9:30 a. m. and 10:30 to 12 midnight.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

As an aid to the Sunday school officers and teachers a religious census of the community near the church was taken on Dec. 16. Several workers helped and hundreds of homes were visited. It is really surprising how many children do not attend Sunday school anywhere, and this shows us something of our task.

For New Year's Eve a diversified evening is being planned. It is the regular Berean night, so the Berean classes will be held at 7:30 as usual. Following this a few special musical numbers will be given. The small children will then be allowed to return to their homes, while the older folks go to the basement for a social period. At 11:45 all will assemble in the auditorium again for a brief praise service to welcome the New Year in. We will be praying that God will guide us successfully during 1932.

F. E. Siple, Pastor.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAMS

Sunday evening, Dec. 20, the Dixon Sunday school gave their annual Christmas program. On Monday night, the 21, the Oregon children and young people gave a pageant, and tonight (22nd) the Rockford Sunday school expect to give a program.

CONTRIBUTORS TO DOLLAR-A-MONTH CLUB AND OTHER PHASES

Tennie Long; Eva L. Stearns; Forest C. Stilson; Mrs. Eva L. Page; C. R. Carr; Jessie W. Donaldson; Mrs. M. Shea; Ellison Shea; Sarah Emms; Lois Hunt; Lydia Railsback; Lila Lathrop; Mary A. Woodward; Mrs. Gladys French; Arlen Marsh; Ella M. Siple; Ruchie Alexander; Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Bottolfs; Alice Kerr.

HELPING FUND

Mrs. S. A. Dorris.

HERALD RECEIPTS

Mrs. Connie Ramsey; Mrs. S. A. Dorris; Helen E. Porter; N. S. Westfall; S. Ada Stadden; Ethel Weaver; John W. Burget; Melvin Burnett; R. L. Funk; Emery I. Dixon; Alice Kerr; F. H. Knodle; A. G. Bauer; Mrs. Page Mills; Warren Knodle; Eva L. Stearns; J. W. Cooper; Mrs. F. M. McCrory; Mary F. Cook; Leota B. Hanson; Mrs. Gilbert Bottolfs; G. A. Brown; Mrs. John Guthrie.

Subscriptions have been received from the following who have ordered the paper sent to others as Christmas presents: Mrs. Gilbert Bottolfs; Ada A. Drew; Leila E. Whitehead; G. A. Brown; Eva H. M. Fletcher; Mary A. Woodward; Mrs. Alice Williams; Mattie Benjamin; Cecil Smead.

BIBLE TRAINING CLASS NEWS

To the good brethren at Ripley, we again wish to express our thanks for the fruit, which we received last week. May the Lord bless you all abundantly.

School closed on Friday the 18th for two weeks' Christmas vacation.

Bro. Richard and Sr. Lucille LeCrone leave Tuesday for their home at Omaha, Nebraska. Bro. Harvey and Sr. Dorothy Krogh will accompany them, to their home at Blair, Nebraska.

Bro. Cecil Smead left Friday afternoon for special work in Indiana, over the holiday season.

Ida Lapp, Sec.

A NOTICE FROM THE NATIONAL BE- REAN RELIEF COMMITTEE OF THE CHURCH OF GOD

For the benefit of those who are interested in the relief work among our church people and who are helping to support it. I wish to state that any individual or family brought to the attention of the Relief Committee by personal letters or through letters published in the church papers, stating they are in need or in poverty (as some choose to use this word in describing their condition), are at once investigated by the Committee and if found worthy are given assistance. Not one is overlooked.

Mrs. Orpha Sanford,
Chairman of National Berean Relief.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME—

On the anniversary of the birth of our Savior, may the best things of life come to you—the joy of service to God and to His Son, the love and companionship of your dear ones, the happiness that comes from knowing you have made another happy, and the comfort in the hope of the near return of the Lord. On this day may we forget all irritating animosities, all foolish prejudices, all unforgiving attitudes, and emulate the example of that One who brings peace and joy and love to every honest heart. May these blessings be yours as we celebrate the day on which our Savior was born. Mary A. Gesin.

Please note Sr. Sanford's explanation of the manner in which certain phases of the Berean Relief work are conducted. In this work, as in all charity work of a large scope, many criticisms are made of those in charge. Sr. Sanford endeavors at all times, with God's help, to use your funds wisely and carefully.

Bro. James Rogers of the University of Arizona arrived home last Friday to spend the holidays with his parents at Oregon, Ill., making the trip by train. He is assisting at church services with the music, both with voice and violin, during his stay at home.

Word was received on Dec. 19, of the death of Sr. Flora Prior of Rensselaer, Ind. Bro. Conner was called to conduct the funeral services and Sr. Lucille LeCrone of the Training Class, preached for the Dixon folks in his absence.

A telegram was received by Mrs. Ernest Gesin, stating that the car, in which six young men from the University of Arizona were traveling homeward for the Christmas holidays, overturned and was completely wrecked, making it necessary for the boys to return to Tucson. Among these was Bro. Ernest Gesin. Christmas joy will be considerably dimmed with the Gesin family and those of the others unknown to us, to say nothing of the disappointment of the boys who must remain in Tucson. This is an especial disappointment to Ernest, because he has not yet seen his young son. But through it all we thank the heavenly Father that none were seriously injured.

In connection with his sermon over the radio next Sunday, Bro. Austin will make some announcements of interest to the Church of God, locally and nationally. All those able to get this station will be well repaid for an early arising. A card to Bro. Austin, 5439 Ohio St., Chicago, Ill., telling him you "listened in" will be appreciated.

Sr. Mellie Anderson Rogers (Mrs. Julian Rogers) has just undergone a major operation, from which she rallied splendidly, and if nothing unforeseen arises, she will soon be on the road to rapid recovery. In the meantime a word of cheer will help to while away the lonely hours. Address her at Kingsport, Tennessee, Care The Model Bakery.

The funeral of Mr. George (Judd) Andrew of Oregon, Ill., will be conducted by Bro. Marsh and Rev. Knapp of the Methodist Church. Mr. Andrew was known to many attendants at Illinois Conference, since he was an uncle of Bro. Delos Andrew and Sr. Alice Carpenter of Oregon, and a nephew of Bro. A. J. Eychaner.

Several of the articles found in this issue are from the members of the Training Class. Each has presented the Christmas message in the manner in which it appeals to his or her individual mind. Though so widely varying in type, yet the same general theme prevails throughout—the love of God to man, manifested in the first and greatest Christmas Gift.

Sr. Helen Porter, the brave little soul who sells 75 Heralds each week, writes us that it has been very hard for her to go on with her work since her father's sudden death which occurred recently. She asks an interest in our prayers, also for her mother and brother and sister, the latter with a little family. The husband and father died while at work at his office. Sr. Porter says that she feels it a great blessing to be able to spread the glad tidings of the gospel through The Restitution Herald. A card of cheer to her would mean only a very small effort for each of us, but think what it would mean to her! Address her, Miss Helen Porter, Sauk Rapids, Minnesota.

DANIEL ARNOLD RENNER

The last enemy has again manifested his dreadful power in taking from among us Brother Daniel Arnold Renner of Mt. Carroll, Illinois. The youngest son of William and Mary Ann Renner, he was the last to be called by death.

Brother Renner was born on June 8, 1852, and died on December 12, 1931. He was married on October 16, 1873, to Miss Alletta Jane Buckley. They became the parents of three sons, John W. (who preceded his father in death), Lloyd W. of Shannon, and Clarence E. of Mt. Carroll. In addition to his two sons and his widow, Brother Renner is survived by three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Together with other members of his family, in early life he embraced the glad tidings of the kingdom of God, was baptized, and remained a member of the Church of God thereafter. He was laid to rest in the cemetery near the Plum River Church of God, locally known as the "Renner Church," to await the Master's call. Services were conducted at the home and at the grave by Elder G. E. Marsh of Oregon.

GEORGE W. MANSIR

George W. Mansir, son of George and Elizabeth Mansir, born near Ripley, on Sept. 1, 1873, was found peacefully sleeping in his home in Schuyler County, Illinois, Dec. 9. His desire was to live alone, caring for himself. He was kind and always ready and willing to do for others. He never affiliated with any church, although realizing there was a greater power than man. He leaves to mourn his departure one brother, Frank of Mt. Sterling, three sisters, Mary Hawkins of Chili, Emma Gibson of Versailles, Lucy Hendricks of Ripley; seven nephews; five nieces; and many other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were conducted at the Church of God at Ripley, Ill., by the writer. Interment was made in the Ripley cemetery. Gerald L. Cooper.

MRS. H. B. CRAMER

Mrs. H. B. Cramer was born in Ohio, on April 16, 1849, and died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. O. R. West, 101 69th St. N., Portland, Oregon, on Dec. 8, 1931. She had been a member of the Church of God many years having been baptized by Almus Adams in Nebraska. She is survived by three children, Mrs. Nettie Darby, Portland, Ore.; Harley Cramer, Litchfield, Minn.; Mrs. O. R. West, Portland, Ore.; six grandchildren; three brothers; and three sisters.

The funeral services were conducted by S. T. Lucas. The words found in Titus 2:11-14, were the basis of his discourse. He gave us a most excellent talk for the occasion.

A. W. Darby,
134 68th St., N., Portland, Oregon.

C. W. TITUS

C. W. Titus was the oldest son of Malachi and Sarah Titus, and was born in Adams County, Ill., Sept. 2, 1846. His death occurred at Osceola, Wis., Dec. 12, 1931. His early life was spent in Henderson County, Ill., where he received a good district school education and acquired a good knowledge of general farming, working on his father's farm, and also as hired man on a neighbor's farm for three years after he was eighteen. In 1868 he came to Polk County, Iowa, where he operated a rented farm for three years.

He was married to Miss Alice Payne, who died Dec. 7, 1912. They lived in Polk County for eight years, then went to Nebraska for a year, where they owned their first land for this short time. The remainder of their married life was spent in Polk, Sac, and Calhoun Counties in Iowa, where they came into possession of a considerable acreage of farm land by energy, industry, and economy. In 1920 he left Iowa and went to Osceola, Wis., which place he found attractive because of its healthful influence, and there he spent his remaining days.

He was the father of ten children, one of whom died in infancy and another, Isaac D., at the age of 17 years. The surviving children are F. M., R. J., and Mrs. Eva Z. Nelson, of Letcher, S. D.; Samuel and Mrs. Irene Kidder, of Albert City, Iowa; Ernest A., Charles C., and John W. of Lytton, Iowa. There are also thirty-two grandchildren and fourteen great-grandchildren. There is also a surviving brother, John, of Lake City, Iowa.

Mr. Titus was a faithful member of the church, to which he was loyal in principle and generous in contributions. He leaves a memory to be cherished by his descendants and many friends.

Brief funeral services were held in the Wisconsin home by the pastor of the Osceola Baptist Church. The body was brought to Iowa for burial, services being held by his own pastor, J. W. Williams, of Gladbrook, Iowa, in the Lytton Presbyterian church, assisted by the pastor of this church. Burial was made beside his wife in Garfield cemetery.

J. W. Williams.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

Published by

National Bible Institution

Oregon, Illinois

The RESTITUTION HERALD advocates: the near return of Christ, Acts 1:11, and life only through Him, Col. 3:3; the literal resurrection of the dead, John 5:28; the immortalization of those in Christ, 1 Cor. 15:53, 54; the final restoration of Israel as the kingdom of God under the kingship of Christ, Luke 1:32, the church to be joint heirs with Him, Rom. 8:17, and Israel to be made head over Gentile nations, Isa. 60:13; the "restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began", Acts 3:21. It also firmly advocates repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, Acts 2:38, and a consecrated life as essential to salvation.

TRACTS AND BOOKS

TRACTS

Name	Pages	Dozen	100
The Reasons Why	2	$0.05	$0.30
Essential Truths	1	.05	.30
God's Promises, by Anna E. Drew	2	.05	.30
The Resurrection, by S. J. Lindsay	2	.05	.30
Obedience	2	.05	.30
The Baptist Confession of Faith	2	.05	.30
Who Owns the Wool?	4	.05	.30
The Coming of Christ, S. J. Lindsay	2	.05	.30
What Is a Christian, J. W. Williams	4	.10	.60
Where Do We Go When We Die?	4	.10	.60
Immortality of the Human Soul	4	.10	.60
Shall Never Die	4	.10	.60
The Voice of Prophecy	4	.10	.60
Immortality	4	.10	.60
Did Christ Pre-exist? R. H. Judd	4	.10	.60
The Thief on the Cross, F. E. Siple	4	.10	.60
What Do the Scriptures Teach? Judd	6	.15	.90
What Must I Do to Be Saved?	4	.10	.60
Hell, What Is It	8	.20	1.25
The Coming of Christ, R. A. Curtis	6	.20	1.25
The Rich Man and Lazarus, F. E. Siple	8	.20	1.25
A Few Thoughts	8	.20	1.25
Baptism, S. J. Lindsay	8	.20	1.50

Name	Pages	Each	Dozen	100
God, R. H. Judd	16	.04	.30	1.75
The First Resurrection, Wm. Leask	20	.05	.40	3.00
A Letter to a Friend	32	.10	1.00	8.00
Where Are the Dead?	36	.05	.50	4.00

Name

Pages Each Dozen

The Resurrection, J. L. Wince
(For cost of Postage) 32 .03 .12

BOOKS

Name

Pages Each Per 6

Death Reigned from Adam to Moses, paper cover	58	$0.10
Sin, A. H. Zilmer, paper covers	84	.25
Destiny of Russia and Signs of the Times, W. H. Wilson, board cloth	96	.25	$1.25
Book of Revelation Made Easy to Understand, W. H. Wilson, board cloth	96	.25	1.25
Ancient Mysteries, George Johnston	116	.50
Christ in the Old Testament, R. H. Judd, paper	88	.40
The Way of Life Eternal, Lyman Booth, paper	88	.40
Student's Text Book, Wilson, board cloth	200	.45	2.60
The Visitor, Boice, paper	212	.50
The Mystery of Iniquity, Booth, paper	220	.75
Pine Woods Bible Class, Wilson, board cloth, Emphatic Diaglott, Benjamin Wilson	480	.85	5.00
Neatly bound, and in clear type,			2.50

THE GOSPEL IN SONG

A Book of 287 well-printed Gospel Hymns

	Each	Per 10	Per 100
	Postpaid	Postpaid	Not Postpaid
Manila	$0.40	$3.60	$30.00
Flexible Cloth	.45	4.00	33.00
Board Cloth	.50	4.50	40.00

FROM MANGER TO THRONE

By Cecil Smead

THE first picture we have of the Lord Jesus is as a little babe in a lowly manger. There He lies upon the straw, weak and helpless, baby hands, baby head, baby voice cooing and laughing. Mind and body, a baby! But angels are watching and singing; shepherds come to worship in reverence before His humble cot; and the heart of His mother is filled to overflowing with joy and anticipation of what this little babe will some day be.

Now look at another picture—the picture of a man staggering up a hill. On one side of the man is another one, bearing a heavy wooden cross. On the other side is a boy with a hammer and some spikes. All around are soldiers and a great crowd, hissing and mocking. Look as they stretch Him on the cross, drive in the cruel spikes, and drop His cross into a hole in the ground.

See Him hanging in pain and anguish. Around is the jeering rabble, with here and there some whose faces are stamped with sorrow. There is His mother, she who had such high hopes now weeping at His feet. There is Mary Magdalene, and another Mary; there, too, is the beloved disciple. He is dying! Is there no hope? The angels are watching; but they are not singing, just watching in ominous silence, as the Son of God is crucified for the sins of the world.

Next see a third picture—the risen Lord at the right hand of God in heaven, interceding for His loved ones on earth. See Him there, “far above all principality, and power, and might, and dominion, and every name that is named”. See Him where “death hath no more dominion over him”. See Him where the thorns can no more pierce His holy brow, where the nails can no more hold His loving hands.

Then look at still another picture, a glorious picture, one that may occur right before your own eyes, for it is yet future and certain of accomplishment. It is of a King reigning over the entire earth; a King dispensing righteousness and justice; a King who speaks, “and the desert shall rejoice, and blossom as the rose”; a King who calls, and the dead come out of their graves; a King who knows the secret thoughts of all.

This King is the babe who lay helpless in the lowly manger. He is the one who hung dying upon the cross. He is the one whom death could not hold. This is He who sat high in the heavens at the right hand of God; and now, here He is, on earth, its Ruler and Potentate, its Redeemer, its Savior.

From the manger He had come to the throne. From a lowly birth He had become the Prince of the earth. He attained this position simply because He said, “Thy will, not mine, be done”, and then proceeded to go through suffering and shame to a cruel death itself in order to be true to His Father.

Now let us read Peter’s statement. “For even hereunto were ye called: because Christ also suffered for us, leaving us an example, that ye should follow his steps.”

Follow His steps? From manger to throne? Yes, He is our Example, our Leader. He arose from a position of weakness to one of power. So shall we if we “follow his steps” surely and faithfully. Follow Him through suffering and death by putting off the old carnal nature. Follow Him through resurrection to walk in newness of life. Follow Him now “in heavenly places in Christ Jesus.” Follow Him, I say, throughout a life of service to God, and no matter how lowly your position, no matter how completely you were “dead in sins,” the Lord will raise you to the throne with Christ, “that in the ages to come he might shew the exceeding riches of his kindness toward us through Christ Jesus.”—Eph. 2:7.

From Manger to Throne? It is for Christ, and it is for you. Just take the Lord Jesus Christ for your Example and follow His steps, through service, through pain and agony, through death, through resurrection, and on to the Throne itself.

“But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.”

EXPANDING HORIZONS

By R. H. Judd

THE beautiful little literary sketch adorning the front page of a recent issue of THE HERALD will surely awaken thought in the mind of many a reader.

Simeon was just another of God’s saints to whom special privilege was accorded in the very evening of life. Abraham, just before he was ready to “go hence”, asked and received a special promise that filled the ages following with one of the keenest hopes that ever entered into the heart of man.

Moses stood like a warrior with humbled heart before his Maker and viewed the promised land, which he was not then permitted to enter, from the lonely heights of Mount Nebo. Simeon, as his life drew to its close, had it revealed to him that he should not see death before he had seen the Lord’s Christ.

Each of these men just reached the horizon of a grand panorama spreading out before them, the very summit of a lifetime’s hope, when the enemy death beckoned with his sinewy hand. Looked at from man’s viewpoint only, their lives had ended in disappointed hopes and unfulfilled aspirations. But to them these very incidents were the guarantee of sure and certain reward.

How else can we account for the peaceful content of these men of God to have viewed only the beginnings of events portentous in greatness, except by the assurance that they will yet realize in God’s own time their complete fulfillment, and themselves be partakers in them?

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, DECEMBER 29, 1931

NUMBER 13

A New Year Hymn

Come, let us anew our journey pursue,
Roll round with the year,
And never stand still till the Master appear;
His adorable will let us gladly fulfill,
And our talents improve,
By the patience of hope and the labor of love.

Our life is a dream; our time as a stream
Glides swiftly away,
And the fugitive moment refuses to stay:
The arrow is flown; the moment is gone:
The millennial year
Rushes on to our view, and eternity's here.

Oh, that each in the day of His coming may say,
"I have fought my way through:
I have finished the work Thou didst give me to do."
Oh, that each from his Lord may receive the glad word,
"Well and faithfully done!
Enter into my joy, and sit down on my throne."

—Charles Wesley.

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

"So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom."

The Editor's Prayer

OUR FATHER: As we enter into the duties and the responsibilities of the new year may we do so with a consciousness of Thy presence with us. Throughout the coming year, help us, we pray, that we may search Thy Word, that we may learn Thy will, and walk ever in Thy ways. In the name of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Withered Christmas Tree

LAST week in a million happy homes there stood — a Christmas Tree. Its bending branches of deathless green were festooned with vari colored lights and streaming spangles. Beneath its boughs were piled high rich gifts and tokens of affection, each wrapped in tinsel paper and tied with brilliant ribbons.

Happy children shouted before its glittering display, and older folk raised their voices in the sweet old Christmas carols. The entire house was fragrant with spicy odors of cookery and radiant with the Christmas spirit of peace, good will, and charity.

Now all is changed! The tree lies withered, stripped of glowing lights and gorgeous decorations. The beautifully encased parcels that lay at its foot are gone; the children's voices, stilled. The songs are ended. The house itself is dark. The day of rejoicing and gladness has come to a close.

But the Spirit of Christmas burns clear and bright and living still! For He whose birth we celebrated with gifts of love and songs of joy can never die! The beauty of the tree is withered away; but the sweet and tender emotions aroused by our remembrance of the Savior's birth, lives on forever!

A Year of Grace

WHEN Hezekiah the king was "sick unto death," and he prayed unto the Lord and Jehovah graciously granted his petition, Hezekiah was saved by grace. From that day forward the king of Judah lived by grace. Each of the fifteen years that were added to his span of being was a year of grace.

So it is with us. As we enter into 1932, we pass into another year of grace, another year of divine favor and mercy, an added period in which we may lay up treasures in heaven to be repaid with the riches of heavenly increase when Jesus comes.

A year of grace, a year of favor, a year of opportunity for further service before God! What a prospect it holds out before us! How shall we employ those 366 days which God is giving us? How shall we use the minutes and the hours of which they are composed?

Life is never without a meaning and a purpose. The Creator has placed us here to accomplish His work on the earth. If we as individuals fail in the duty assigned to us, the great work of God will go on, for nothing can counteract or prevent the accomplishment of the eternal purposes of Jehovah; but we will lose our opportunity for further and more important service before Him. To someone more faithful, more earnest, more sincerely anxious to work for God, will be given both the commission to carry on and the reward for labor. Therefore we will keep before us throughout the year the admonition of Christ Jesus our Lord, "Hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take thy crown."

A year of grace is a year of obligation. God has added it to the possible sum total of our lives that we may use it for Him. Each moment of it is "holy unto the Lord." We may not use it for our own selfish purposes alone. It is God's time. It is the height of wisdom to devote our hours and our days unto Him. May our blessed Lord "so teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom," and our bodily strength to His service!

The Father's Business

WE would again call attention to the annual church business meeting. All too frequently this very important service is entered upon thoughtlessly and without previous consideration and study. The local situation should be carefully surveyed; its various needs determined, and an effort made to meet any special requirements brought to light.

Special attention should be given to the possibility of building up the Sunday school, developing a properly qualified corps of teachers, and in choosing a superintendent who appreciates the responsibility of his position.

OLD AGAINST NEW

OLD against new and new against old are popularly believed to be two wars that are continuous. About two thousand years ago Cicero, when an old man, ventured a remark that youth was not what it was when he was a boy. Last week a good friend asked me what to do when his nineteen-year-old son told him his ideas were out of date and would not work.

The automobile and the airplane are new, and yet the horseless carriage of only thirty years ago and the Lindbergh "Spirit of St. Louis" of 1927, are of the same relative value as the coach used by George Washington—they are excellent museum material. Physically they are useless and out of date. Nor would a duplicate of either be used except for show purposes. But the experience in transportation which they furnish is reflected in their more recent successors.

Even the newest automobile and airplane are useless without old gasoline to propel them. The gasoline is old, just how old you will have to ask the geologists; their estimates vary, but the beds of oil from which the gasoline comes were old when Abraham was trekking across the plains of Chaldea. Without the old to push them along, these new ones just won't go.

Archeological expeditions have uncovered monuments, tombs, and buried cities. These physical survivors give a good idea of the cooking utensils, jewelry, household construction and many customs, particularly the customs of burials. Recently in one excavation was found the tomb of a queen. Her costly ornaments were buried beside her; also were buried several slaves, alive at the time of burial, as guardians for her.

But these physical relics do not furnish a continuous record of human experiences in life. From the time of Abraham down, there is such a record contained in the religious writings. Here we find the continuous stream of life—ecstasies of joy, depths of gloom, dangers of temptation, pangs of remorse, and the other personal human experiences with which we come in contact.

That's why the religious writings have survived; that's why they are in more demand today. They are as true as the day they were written, because they are vivid, because they are personal to us, because we see ourselves and our neighbors. How many books have you read that were written more than a thousand years ago? How many books have you read that were written more than fifteen hundred years ago? How many books have you read that were written two thousand years ago? The Bible is one of the few you can recall.

The Bible is not limited to museum material. There are, it is true, in museums many fine Bibles—hand-colored works of art of the time, but these Bibles can be duplicated and the duplicates used. They are not like the other museum material whose duplicates are of no practical use; the truths of the Bible are eternal.

There is no new without the old. A house divided against itself cannot stand today. Good seed planted in rocky soil will not grow today; neither will poor seed planted in good soil. An unused Bible is no better than a museum Bible. If you do not get acquainted with the Bible you cannot know the truths of life that it contains. A lack of acquaintance is no fault of any person except yourself. The church organization is no fault of any person except yourself. The church organizations have provided many avenues for religious education. These are open to all, irrespective of denomination.—Selected by R. A. Curtis.

“THE tither himself receives the greatest benefit from tithing. The benefits to others are secondary just as they are with all of God's laws. He never established a law or principle that was not primarily for the benefit of those who obeyed it. This is just as true of His laws of health, of gravitation, of electricity, in short of all so-called natural law as it is of all moral law including the law of tithing; all were 'made for man'.”

THE ILLUSIONS OF WEALTH

IT is very difficult for men to have riches without putting their trust in them. Riches exert a demoralizing influence over most men. No greater evil could befall them than that they should suddenly become millionaires. The probability is that most of them would go to the bad. How often it has happened that those who were good citizens and church members while they were poor or moderately wealthy, have become worldly and irreligious after becoming rich.

In what is our confidence grounded? What, in our estimation, are the real things, and what the imaginary things? There are those who look upon Jehovah as the imaginary fortress, and upon lands and houses and gold and silver, and such like, as the real fortress. Do we share this belief? Which do we regard as affording the best security—God and His promises, or lands and houses and stocks and bonds?

Ours is a materialistic age. Everywhere we see those whose conduct affords ample evidence that they imagine that a man's life consisteth in the things that he possesses. It is altogether probable that we have been more or less influenced by the spirit of the age in which we live. If we would but give honest expression to our deepest beliefs, perhaps we, too, would confess that for us God and His promises are vague, unsubstantial sort of things, and that the real things, the things upon which it is the part of wisdom to build our confidence, are the things that can be seen and touched and handled.

If the proverb be true, and we share this belief, we are wrong. Death in an instant places a millionaire on a par with a pauper, for it always is eternally true that, as man brought nothing into the world, so can he take nothing out of it. How great our folly, then, if we ground our confidence in things earthly.—The Philadelphia Presbyterian.

PATIENT WAITING ON THE LORD

---

In the toil and stress and burden of life's way,
How much we know of fret and harsh discord,
Till peace we find, one long bewildering day,
And rest in patient waiting on the Lord.

To haste by waiting, O wondrous paradox;
To overcome resistance by patience and concord;
To know our best most closely interlocks
With quiet, patient waiting on the Lord.

O Thou unhurried and unworried One,
May we with Thee be in love's sweet accord;
And live to find in life's brief day more done,
By timely patient waiting on the Lord.

—Eldon G. Burritt.

---

THE GREATER DEPRESSION

---

By Norman John McLeod

---

MANY ills beset this life. Always some flaw exists in the perfect image of life. Isaiah speaks of it as a weary land, a wilderness, a desert.

At present one of the most important things in our life is a lack of credit for the conduct of business. Everywhere our economic life is ill with a deadly malady. By no means is the patient out of danger. Man has let his own creature, money, get the upper hand of him. The servant has become the master. And there is a great hunger in the land, a very great hunger.

We read in the papers of the repetition of the Coxey's army incident: the hunger armies are marching on the national capitol to ask to be fed. And with a millionaire in the president's chair, two billionaires in our fair land, and eight million people who do not have to work for a living, thousands are starving. A great hunger is in the land, a very great hunger.

But our land is in the highest state of prosperity compared to Europe. Will Rogers said that if Uncle Sam went to the poorhouse it would be the first case of a man going to the poorhouse in an automobile. European civilization is on the point of collapse because of the economic results of "the War" and "the Peace." In fact, many indications show that it has already gone down.

America is the last hope of the white race. Only on our shores can be found the relics of Europe's heritage of culture. Europe has produced no great works in the last two centuries in the field of fine arts that can be classed with those of America. Europe respects its classic forms of architecture; only in America has architecture presented new life. And so on! Why? Because America in the midst of a bankrupt world is prosperous. America is the home of gold. There is a great hunger in Europe, a very great hunger.

But if America is starving in the midst of plenty, and Europe is in want, Asia is beyond description. People who have been to China, especially the Manchurian war zone, agree that conditions are of the worst. Russia, despite the boasts of George Bernard Shaw, is deprived of many of the necessities of life for her millions of population. Where population is so dense as in Asia, a depression added to other ills makes life extremely precarious. Murder, war, and sudden death are the sure rule of the day. There is a great hunger in Asia, a very great hunger.

But man cannot live by bread alone. Hunger for food is only one hunger. There are times when food hunger is a secondary evil, when, in fact, it is beneficial. Hunger often stimulates higher thoughts. Man must live by bread, but not bread alone. America, at least business America, has tried to live by bread alone; that is why depressions are such calamities to it. So have England, Germany, and others. But perhaps the most glaring example of such an attempt is that of Russia. The god Mammon has been set up, and all must bow the knee on pain of death. Religion, home life, culture, and all must give way for the great commercial scheme—the five-year plan. But, though Russia and her advocates such as George Bernard Shaw, try to pretend that she is in a high state of prosperity, there is a great hunger in the land, a very great hunger.

When man forgets God, then do things go wrong. Israel forgot God in her times of prosperity. When God had brought them out of Egypt and had settled them in the pleasant "land of promise," they forgot Him and turned aside to worship Baal. As a result various enemies overran the land.

"And the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord, and served Baalim . . . ; and the anger of the Lord was hot against Israel, and he delivered them into the hands of spoilers that spoiled them, and he sold them into the hands of their enemies round about, so that they could not any longer stand before their enemies. . . . Nevertheless the Lord raised up judges, which delivered them out of the hands of those that spoiled them. . . . And it came to pass, when the judge was dead, that they returned, and corrupted themselves more than their fathers, in following other gods to serve them; they ceased not from their own doings, nor from their stubborn way." Judges 2:11, 14, 16 and 19.

Such is the summary of the history of Israel during the period of the judges. "And the child Samuel ministered unto the Lord before Eli. And the word of the Lord was precious in those days; there was no open vision." 1 Samuel 3:1. There was a greater hunger in that land than any we know—a hunger for the Word of the Lord.

Then, when Samuel was old, Israel, because of strong enemies which beset them on all sides, asked for a king that could lead them into battle. So the kings began their evil period. Samuel's description of what a king would do

Continued on page 202

THE POTTER'S HOUSE

By George B. Alldridge

"Arise, and go down to the potter's house, and there I will cause thee to hear my words."—Jeremiah 18:2.

WHEN we consider the person and attributes of God, revealed to us in that wonderful one hundred fourth Psalm, we are amazed at His condescension to meet man upon the plane and level of humanity; using illustrations, analogous and comprehensible to our finite minds, it fills us with wonder and praise. Among human beings this trait is very rare, but remarkably pronounced in the lives of Jesus and his faithful follower, Paul of Tarsus, who said, "I am made all things to all men, that I might by all means save some."—1 Cor. 9:22.

A few years ago I had an occasion to be in the city of East Liverpool, Ohio, famous for its potteries. One of the executives of the largest pottery, invited several of my companions including myself to visit the pottery with which he was associated. I was delighted, for at that time I was active in a religious organization, and realized, like Jeremiah, that God would speak to me there.

The pottery was located not far from our hotel, so we assembled and proceeded to follow our guide. As we entered the yard we noticed several heaps of clay, some white, others cream, and a small percentage of a darker hue. Our guide informed us that these different parcels of clay had been gathered from different parts of the world, some from Germany, some from Canada, but chiefly from various states of our union. He pointed out that clay fit for the potter's use must possess three requisites, namely, pliability, toughness, and adhesiveness.

Ah, I thought, those are exactly God's requirements from all candidates who enter the race for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. Phil. 3:10-14. First, he must be pliable, he must yield up his heart to God, to be softened and made fit to be molded into a vessel fit for the Master's use. "My son, give me thine heart, and let thine eyes observe my ways."—Prov. 23:26.

Second, he must be tough, not brittle, nor unstable. "Thou therefore endure hardness, as a good soldier of Jesus Christ."—2 Tim. 2:3.

Third, the power to adhere, to cleave to, not easily separated from the whole, is necessary. "Now the just shall live by faith; but if any man draw back, my soul shall have no pleasure in him."—Heb. 10:38.

One thought more; the color of the clay had no significance, white, yellow, or black. I thought of Peter's words in Acts 10:34, "Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons, but in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him."

We now entered the pottery proper, and before us stood a mill consisting of a trough filled with water. At right angles to the central shaft extended a beam, at its end a scraper attached. Portions of clay from the various heaps outside were submerged into the water. As the shaft revolved, the scraper agitated the mass until the whole became pliable and incorporated into one body.

Wonderful, I thought, now I see why the first step is baptism. How real Romans 6:3-6 and Galatians 3:26-29 appeared to me now.

After removal from the incorporating mill, the mass had to be kneaded and made plastic, which was essential before the potter could use it. How truly Romans 12:1, 2 connected with this process!

Next we were introduced to the potter. Before him resting upon a stand, lay the potter's wheel, the same instrument in principle as that used in Jeremiah's day. The lump of clay was placed upon the wheel. As the wheel revolved the potter dexterously shaped it into a beautiful vase. Nearby were other machines. Our guide informed us that just common vessels, cups, saucers, plates, etc., of a standard make were here produced and of a cheap variety. Exquisite vases and vessels of high honor took time and very great skill on the part of the potter.

To be a leader or minister in the church of God, requires much time and many days spent in the school of Christ, before God can place one in a position of honor and trust. See, 2 Cor. 12:1-5; 3:17, 18.

Our guide next introduced us to the kiln or retort. All the vessels from the hands of the potter must enter herein to be hardened through the process of burning. We noticed a man whose face appeared very intelligent, who was clad in working clothes, also wearing an apron. We were informed that this man received a very high salary. It took years of experience before this position could be filled satisfactorily, as it took remarkable skill to arrange the vessels so that the heat would be equally distributed without warping them, thus rendering them unfit.

How real to me the meaning of Hebrews 12:6-11 appeared: "But if ye be without chastisement, whereof all are partakers, then are ye bastards, and not sons." See also 1 Peter 1:7. What a responsibility rests upon God's ministers and teachers who are responsible for the education and development of God's children! See 1 Peter 5:1-11.

I noticed there was no discrimination shown in placing the vessels in the kiln. Vessels of honor and dishonor were all arranged side by side. All alike must first pass through and be subject to God's discipline. After the vessels were removed from the kiln then the separating began. (2 Cor. 6:17, 18.) But first, indiscriminately, all vessels which had successfully passed through the fire must next be glazed, being dipped into a bath filled with a vitreous substance, consisting of white lead. Our guide pointed out that the man who operated this process occupied the most dangerous position in the pottery—inhaling the fumes would if persisted in end fatally. So only for a short time in this position was he employed.

Beloved reader, it cost Jesus His life to dip us into His righteousness, and thus make "us accepted in the beloved." (Eph. 1:6, 7; Isa. 64:6-8; 61:10; 2 Cor. 3:18.) After glazing, the vessels are placed in a kiln, heated by a slow fire to harden and set the glazing. Wonderful, I thought, how clear 1 Peter 4:12, 13; 5:10 appeared to me.

After removal from this kiln all vessels must be decorated and then washed and packed for shipment.

"Now," said our guide, "I have something that will interest you all." So we repaired to a building that appeared to be closed, every door and window shut. We entered one at a time, as the door was only opened sufficiently wide enough to do so. We saw men and women painting beautiful designs by hand—animals, floral, landscapes, human figures, etc. All were intensely interested in their work. Our guide informed us that no dust must be permitted to enter this room, as it would mar the work of the artists. I thought of 1 John 2:15-17. Everything of the world must be shut out, if you desire to reflect the glorious decorating of character by the fruit of the spirit. (Gal. 5:22-24; 2 Peter 1:4-8.)

I thought we were through and began to move towards the door, to make our egress. But the gentleman who had so kindly led us thus far, remarked that there was one other room which ordinarily they do not take visitors through, but to us he made an exception. The gentleman unlocked the door to the room, and the sight which met our eyes somewhat bewildered us.

I have visited many museums and art galleries, but the effect was not like this. Upon the floor were spread rich oriental rugs; tables were standing at right angles to the side walls; interspersed were beautiful palms and ferns; hanging from the walls were rich tapestries and pictures in color and design, blending perfectly and harmoniously, enhancing the beauty of everything displayed before our eyes. Spread upon the tables were dining sets, breakfast sets, tea sets, sets for every special and social occasion, and between the tables, close to the wall, vases of such exquisite design and coloring shadowed by the ferns and palms, that only a master artist, such as Turner or Ruskin, could have accomplished.

Someone suggested making a purchase of a set or vase, and was informed that no money could purchase any of this collection, as it had taken years to gather together this, the acme of the potter's art. So many scriptures rushed through my mind, chief of which were Malachi 3:16-18; Psalm 45:9-15, and especially Ephesians 2:6: "That in the ages to come he might shew the exceeding riches of his grace, in his kindness toward us through Christ Jesus." I was filled with emotion and felt that Jeremiah, too, must have had the same feelings and experiences.

Passing out again into the yard, we noticed heaps of debris. Our guide said these were the failures, broken, warped, and could only be used for one purpose—to repair the roads, cast out, and trodden under foot. How vividly Jesus' words in Matthew 5:13 and Paul's words in 1 Corinthians 9:26, 27 came to my mind, and the solemn words of Hebrews 6:4-6, which we would do well to often call to mind.

Dear readers, the race is not won or the crown received until our election is made sure. (2 Tim. 4:8; Rev. 2:10; 3:11.) It has taken God six thousand years to gather these jewels. He has given us a hint in Revelation 22:18-20 how these jewels are to be arranged and appear in the kingdom. A lapidary once remarked whose attention was called to the arrangement outlined in Revelation 22:18-20, that no artist or jeweler, however skilled, could excell it for harmony or blending of colors. Indeed this, as all His works, shall redound to His glory and praise.

THE TRANSFORMATION

To the Potter's house, I went down one day,
And watched him while moulding the vessels of clay,
And many a wonderful lesson I drew
As I noticed the process the clay went through.

Trampled and broken, downtrodden and rolled,
To render more plastic and fit for the mould;
How like the clay that is human, I thought,
When in Heavenly hands to perfection is brought.

For self must be cast as the dust at His feet
Before it is ready for service made meet;
And pride must be broken, and self-will lost—
All laid on the altar, whatever the cost.

But lo! by and by a delicate vase
Of wonderful beauty and exquisite grace!
Was it once the vile clay? Ah; yes; yet how strange
The Potter has wrought such a marvelous change.

Not a trace of the earth, nor mark of the clay—
The fires of the furnace have burned them away,
Wondrous skill of the Potter—the praise is His due,
In whose hands to perfection and beauty it grew.

Thus with souls lying still, content in God's hand
That do not His power of working withstand;
They are moulded and fitted, a treasure to hold,
Vile clay now transformed into purest of gold.

—M. F. Clarkson.

THE ONLY COMPLETE SAVIOR

A CHINESE preacher, familiar with the religion of Confucius and Buddha, is said to have represented the difference between the mission of the Lord Jesus Christ and that of these heathen teachers as follows:

"A sinner was found lying in a deep pit, unable to save himself from its mire. Confucius came to the edge of the pit, and said, 'Poor fellow, I am very sorry for you. Why were you such a fool as to get into that pit? Let me give you a piece of advice; if you get out, don't get into it again.'

"A Buddhist priest is next heard saying to him, 'Poor fellow! I am very much pained to see you there. I think if you could get up two-thirds of the way, or even half of the way out of this mire, I would be able to lift you out the rest of the way.'

But the man was helpless. When the Lord Jesus Christ came to him, He lifted him up by grace through faith, and set his feet upon the rock."—Our Hope.

THE BOOK OF THE REVELATION

By Lyman Booth

Continued from issue of December 15

WHAT would be the significance of that eternal home with its perfect surroundings if Abraham is not to be recognized as the man who was called from Ur of the Chaldees to be the father of the faithful! What if Moses, the ancient law-giver of Israel, is not recognized as the one who talked face to face with God! What if David is not to be recognized as the shepherd king, in a psalmody that will never grow old! What if Paul, "the greatest purely human power in history," is not to be known as the man whose writings we have read with deepest interest, loved, and cherished, and whose flaming life has brightened our pathway that we are called to follow!

In this fact of personality lies the possibility of a social, intellectual, loving, serving, worshipful existence in the eternal home of the redeemed, such as we can but faintly imagine. It will be a clime of living personalities, numberless, peerless, free from sin, gathered out of every kindred, tongue, people, and nation, coming up from the martyr's stake and the moral battlefields of this world to the Mount of God, where they will enjoy the most favored intercourse with their fellows and their Maker.

Words are unsatisfactory, for they give but a glimpse of the reality, yet they provoke hungerings and thirstings after some manifestation of our heavenly Father more direct. Meanwhile we are reminded to wait patiently while the present process of reconciliation and recovery is in progress. Now while but partially restored, we see through a glass but dimly, but ultimately the intercourse of the redeemed shall be direct and joyful, for through the mighty power of Christ we shall be as truly reconciled to God as if the shadow of sin had never passed over the human race.

We are not told all of what is held in reserve in that estate, nor all of what its joys consist, but we know that nothing of suffering nor anything of evil shall be there. The Apostle pictures before him all the woe and misery of this world, then draws a line across the scene, thus blotting out every vestige of sorrow, and the golden city of God fills the whole vision. All who lovingly trust in Christ will experience the blessedness of that home. None too soon can we give up expecting to have our longing satisfied, and begin to look for the bright appearing of our Lord and Savior to clear away the clouds and turn our night into day. We realize that this is a sphere of broken households, of faithless, and cruel partings, of blighted hopes and sad disappointments, of cool welcomes and tearful adieus. We need expect nothing else until He who is the resurrection and the life makes all things new, and gathers together His people in the kingdom into which death shall not intrude.

This twenty-second chapter is a noble conclusion of the book, and the book is a fitting conclusion of the Bible. A book with such characteristics fitly concludes the Holy Bible. Full of allusions to ancient visions, prophecies, and song, it brings the whole continuity of Scripture to a sublime and worthy close.

The Bible as an inspired record is an infallible one, and it is the final authority for faith and life. Its inspiration involves its infallibility. Interpreted as all other works must be by its real spirit, it gives us truth without error. Light and life come from the ministry of its word. Its hallowed sayings are our stay when all other supports fail. It is our rock amidst the billows, the songs of our pilgrimage, the pledge of our final and eternal rest. Such implicit faith may be met with reproach; but where else can we go to find the words of eternal life?

It is the final and infallible authority, and no man may add to it nor take away from the words of this book. "Here is the judge that ends the strife." It has ever been the arbiter of many a controversy, as history plainly shows. It will conquer all opposing systems. Beyond its prophecies and revelations our thoughts cannot reach. It contains the oldest as well as the most recent prophecies. Some of its assailants call it antiquated; but even so it is ever new as well as ever old. It is the most progressive as well as the most conservative of influences, being the counterpart of God.

All literature has drawn copiously from its unending fountain. For four thousand years its words have been inspiration and life, comforting the downcast and breaking the oppressor's rod, pledging perpetual peace to the thoroughly penitent, opening to all the very gates of endless life, speaking in such stern yet tender tones of authority as we find in no other book. In the name of the Lord it proclaims the Gospel of the Kingdom, and thus like a living power it has been doing an abiding work among the children of men in every clime, in every language, till at present, wider than ever before, its words are rehearsed. Its lines have gone out through all the earth and its words to the ends of the world.

The Bible is a self-certified miracle, which is this: that it is a book the composition of which occupied more than fifteen centuries, was prepared by different hands and minds, with no possibility of collusion, each differing from the others. In their writings we find a vast variety of material scattered all through its pages, history, description, law, ritual, prophecy, proverb, fact, song, apothegm, precept, doctrine, apology, genealogy, and reasoning. All are fitted together to complete a unity in subject. All are framed together into one most wonderful book, having in its aim but one theme. That alone which gives unity to this varied and all-absorbing material is Jesus Christ and His offer of salvation.

"Deep answers to deep across the intervening ages, and there is but one voice—the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy. All times and all events converge in one truth, 'Behold, the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world.' They who do not comprehend this feature and construction of the Book of God in the unity of Christ will fail to become perfect Christian beings, and will not attain unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ."

To be continued

A PRAYER

Dear Lord and Father of mankind,
 Forgive our foolish ways!
 Reclothe us in our rightful mind,
 In purer lives Thy service find,
 In deeper reverence, praise.

O Sabbath rest by Galilee!
 O calm of hills above,
 Where Jesus knelt to share with Thee
 The silence of eternity,
 Interpreted by love:

Drop thy still dews of quietness,
 Till all our strivings cease;
 Take from our souls the strain and stress,
 And let our ordered lives confess
 The beauty of Thy peace.
 —From an old hymn.

SOME OBSCURE TEXTS

By J. G. Haupt

THE usual resurrection sermon taken from the fifteenth chapter of the first epistle written by the Apostle Paul to the church at Corinth, has a very great interest to the believing Christian. "Blessed are they that have part in the first resurrection," says the Apostle. They shall not come into judgment; none of them shall suffer the second death. They shall be fellow workers with the returned Messiah, or Christ, and shall reign with Him a thousand years, when the rest of the dead shall arise for the judgment day.

When these dead in Christ arise, the Apostle shows that those in Christ who are alive at that time shall in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, be changed with the risen believers. That which was mortal in the life before death will put on immortality; that which was corruptible shall put on incorruption; that which was a natural body shall rise a spiritual body. The saints shall remain with their Lord forever and ever.

Some errors in translation must be noted. They that are alive at resurrection time "shall not prevent" those that are asleep, should read, "shall not precede or come before" those that are asleep. For in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump, the dead shall arise and the living shall be changed.

Paul is said to have striven to attain unto the resurrection of the dead. The Greek reads that he strove to attain to the resurrection from among the dead, which signifies that he might have part in the first resurrection. The translators in various places state that Jesus was one by whom all things were created. The Greek says all things were created in behalf and for Him.

In the year 1881, in Britain and in the United States, both for the Old Testament and the New, most conscientious Bible men were selected without regard to denomination to revise from the original language the translation of the authorized or King James Version. When the British New Testament Committee reached the fifth chapter of the first epistle of John, many were surprised to find that an addition had been made to the original text as written by John.

The epistle of John reads that there are three things on the earth that pertain to one individual, the pneuma, the water, and the blood. The literal meaning of pneuma is "breath", translated "spirit" at this place and "ghost" at others. This is the same word used on the day of Pentecost when God breathed upon the living disciples His Holy Breath, which enabled them to speak in tongues, to do miracles, and perform all that God willed them to do, to enable them to be accepted by their hearers. The same term was used when God breathed upon Mary the Divine Breath that brought into life the only begotten Son of God. Thus the pneuma in First John five, represents the conception, the water represents baptism, and the blood represents the crucifixion of Christ. The false entry not found in the early manuscripts written in the usual manner of writing Greek up to 800 A. D., reads, "the Father, the Word and the Holy Ghost." The revisers were obliged to omit the false words.

In the eighth chapter of Acts a number of verses were thrown out for the same reason that met them in First John. In Acts, however, the subject matter was a repetition of a passage appearing elsewhere, and so did little harm, except as it showed the false hand. Both of these insertions were written in the cursive or later Greek and so were easily discoverable. In Matthew twenty-eight, the uncial text was used, and the false insertion is more difficult to establish. It is now, however, fully marked by searchers of the truth.

No error made by mistake according to the Evangelist Luke in the eighth chapter of Acts will be laid against a believer. Nothing that I have written in this or previous articles should be considered as reflecting on the opinions of any reader. If you have made any mistake in the past, your change, as soon as you know, will be perfectly acceptable to the great Judge. Even David was excusable for having broken the law in using the shewbread for God's purpose. He used it to supply the men that were under him with what they needed to carry out their purpose, and it was forgiven them.

RESURRECTION CENTER TRUTHS

All the righteous dead of all the past rise in the first resurrection. All the righteous living put on immortality at the same time. None come from heaven or any other place. Such seems to be the Bible declaration. After a thousand years the rest of the dead are to arise. Then is to come the judgment day in which the hopeless wicked are to enter gehenna, the only hell, their end to be destruction. Such seems to be the simple statement of the Apostle Paul.

ABRAM WORSHIPS AT SALEM

By G. Eldred Marsh

OF ALL the great cities of the earth the names of which are emblazoned on the pages of history, none is so beloved of humanity, as the "City of the Great King". Made sacred by the feet of prophets and holy men of old, by the persuasive words of inspired apostles, and by the wondrous works of the Son of God, more nations and races turn worshipful eyes toward Jerusalem than toward any other city in the world.

What stirring scenes those narrow, crooked streets have witnessed during the past four thousand years! How many times the voices of prophets have cried out the solemn warning from Almighty God to its inhabitants! How frequently have its streets run red with blood and its walls re-echoed to the agonized cries of those wounded in battle!

The first view we have of that ancient city is presented in Genesis, the fourteenth chapter, and the eighteenth verse: "And Melchizedek king of Salem brought forth bread and wine: and he was priest of God Most High. And he blessed him, and said, Blessed be Abram of God Most High, possessor of heaven and earth: and blessed be God Most High, who hath delivered thine enemies into thy hand. And he gave him a tenth of all."—A. R. V.

ABRAM GOES TO THE RESCUE OF LOT

LOT was not only the nephew of Abram, but at this time his supposed heir. In addition to that, Lot was the brother of Sarai, Abram's wife. For these reasons, he was greatly beloved of the wise and godly Abram; and when the word was brought to the future patriarch of Israel that Lot with many other citizens of Sodom had been taken captive by the enemy, Abram was much distressed. He immediately assembled his armed servants; pursued the five kings who had captured his nephew; defeated them, liberating Lot and the other Sodomites; and returned with a vast amount of treasure.

As he approached the city of Salem, he was met by Melchizedek, its high priest and king, who was himself a worshiper of Jehovah. Melchizedek blessed Abram, saying, "Blessed be Abram of God Most High." Abram responded to his salutation by paying a tithe of all the treasure he had taken during his campaign. Thus the first picture of Jerusalem painted by inspired fingers in the Scriptures of Truth is a picture of worship, of sacrifice, and of praise!

THE PROMISE TO ABRAM RECALLED

Already the edict had gone forth, "In thee shall all the families of the earth be blessed." The blessing there pronounced was to center about and to flow forth from the city where Abram met and paid tithes to Melchizedek, "the priest of God Most High".

Primitive and crude to western eyes, so it may appear, let us look upon that ancient Oriental town again. A little city of flat-roofed houses, situated on the summits of four low hills. Through the narrow, crooked streets the camel and donkey trains make their way laden with the spoils of battle.

No walls encircled the place at that early date, and no gates were swung open to welcome the three hundred servants of Abram as they entered the town. Armed with spears and lances, protected by shields of tough bull's hide, legs bare to above the knees, they walked in broken order into the presence of Melchizedek, the priest and king.

We should remember that at this time Abram was but a simple herdsman, possessed of a few hundred followers or retainers; yet the Father had promised that his seed should be as the sands of the seashore. Did a vision of the splendid fulfillment of that promise appear to Abram as he stood in the presence of Melchizedek on that memorable occasion? I wonder!

Was it given to him to see a few hundred years into the future, perhaps even less than that, and behold his grandson Jacob, grown old and weary, make his despairing journey down into Egypt for corn to supply his starving family? Did he catch a glimpse of the dramatic reunion of father and son that there took place?

Was he able to observe Moses and Aaron with their miraculous rod demonstrating the power of God in the presence of Pharaoh? Do you suppose he saw the pillar of fire hovering over the great Israelitish camp by night and the pillar of cloud leading them on their rugged way by day? Was there vouchsafed to Abram the sight of Moses coming down from the holy mount where he had met God face to face, his face reflecting the unspeakable glory of the Almighty, and in his hands the Law of Jehovah graven on tables of stone? Did he hear the thunder echo from Sinai, and shrink from the lightning's flash? Did he look upon Moses, standing alone and forsaken on Pisgah's height, looking with longing vision into the land of promise?

As he knelt to receive Melchizedek's blessing, did he see the changes that Time would bring to pass in that self-same city of Salem, the time when its streets would be filled with boys and girls of Abram's seed and thousands of his descendants make its hills resound with their hymns of praise? Did he see Jerusalem in her glory and in her might? the Queen of Sheba with her royal retinue, bowing in humility before the wise and glorious Solomon?

Could he see still further into the future when the angels sang at midnight and the shepherds marveled? And beyond! beyond! When on that other night the prayer of agony went up from among the olive trees in Gethsemane—the lights flashing among the trees—the kiss of betrayal—the trial and mockery—the shame and sorrow—the death and the resurrection of our Lord? Did he see all this?

Did he know his children would be scattered among all nations for more than two thousand years? Did Abram, on that far away day, realize the wonderful outcome of his sacrifice and faith?

I do not think that he did! Such clear and far-sighted vision is seldom, if ever, given to mortal men. It would not be well for them to so thoroughly understand the future. Abram remembered the promise God had made, that in him and his seed all the families of the earth would eventually be blessed; but the manner and time for its fulfillment were hidden from him. Though he could not see, though he could not fully understand, he believed! And that is what God demands of us all.

JERUSALEM TODAY

SHOULD Abram be restored to life today and revisit the ancient city of Salem, where he worshiped so long ago, he would think himself in a world altogether new and strange. Its electric-lighted streets, its rumbling trains, its many automobiles, its telephones and its radios, and the countless other inventions and improvements which make Jerusalem a truly modern city would absolutely prevent its recognition by Abram of old.

But when he heard the Jewish priests calling to prayer in the ancient Hebrew tongue, when he came to realize that this marvelous city was peopled by thousands of his own children who still worship the one true and living God, Jehovah, he would pour out his soul in thanksgiving and praise.

Not more marvelous, however, would modern Jerusalem be in the eyes of Abram today than that same city will appear to you and me when "the king comes in", and we go with Him through the gates into the city!

Abram entered Salem and paid his tithes as a part of his worship. He will again enter its sacred limits in the not-distant future and receive the reward for his faithfulness of the past. For the tithe he offered he will receive an hundredfold; for the life, the mortal life, of service and of faith which he gave to the service of his God he will obtain immortal being and eternal glory!

Let us not forget as we recall the blessings which Abram and the other faithful ones of the past are to receive that "they without us shall not be made perfect"! What a wonderful time that will be! Perfected together with Abram and all the worthy ones of God in the city of the Great King!

THE GREATER DEPRESSION

Continued from page 196

was fulfilled to the utmost (1 Samuel 8); and in addition, a thing not stressed by Samuel, he led them into sin.

Some of the kings did right, but for the most part they caused Israel to do wrong. How often does the monotonous refrain echo on our ears through the history of the kings: "And he wrought evil in the sight of the Lord." Always at the side of the kings, at their very elbow, were the Lord's spokesmen, the prophets; but only in a few cases were the words of the prophets heeded.

The prophets, therefore, told of the woes to come to the land of Israel for their waywardness. And we read in Amos: "Behold, the days come, saith the Lord God, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the words of the Lord".—Amos 8:11. And true to the words of the prophet, there came a great hunger in the land, a very great hunger for the Word of God.

And today we see that period of famine is getting worse. Not only is Israel suffering but the Gentile believers also. Food famines come and go, and leave dire tragedy in their wake. But what of the famine for the Word of God? It comes and stays for those who seek not after God.

Therefore, "see that ye refuse not him that speaketh. For if they escaped not who refused him that spake on earth, much more shall not we escape, if we turn away from him that speaketh from heaven . . . . Let us therefore fear, lest, a promise being left us of entering into his rest, any of you should seem to come short of it. For unto us was the gospel preached, as well as unto them: but the word preached did not profit them, not being mixed with faith in them that heard it . . . . But with whom was he grieved forty years? was it not with them that had sinned, whose carcasses fell in the wilderness? And to whom sware he that they should not enter into his rest, but to them that believed not? So we see that they could not enter in because of unbelief."

From this line of reasoning set forth in the letter to the Hebrews, we see that it was not to everybody in Israel, but to those who did not seek the Lord in faith that the famine of the Word came. "Take heed, brethren, lest there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God. But exhort one another daily, while it is called to day; lest any of you be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin. For we are made partakers of Christ, if we hold the beginning of our confidence stedfast unto the end."—A sermon given at the Church of God in Los Angeles, California.

---

"Yesterday is but a dream;
Tomorrow is only a vision;
But Today, well lived,
Makes every Yesterday a dream of happiness,
And every Tomorrow a vision of hope."

---

"It is interesting to know that the river Jordan gets its name from the Hebrew, yarden, meaning 'the Descender,' and is so called because of the rapidity with which it descends to the Dead Sea."—S. E. Haney.

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 124 N. Parkside Ave., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois

For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"IF ANY MAN DEFILE THE TEMPLE OF GOD, HIM SHALL GOD DESTROY; FOR THE TEMPLE OF GOD IS HOLY, WHICH TEMPLE YE ARE."

THE NECESSITY FOR STUDY

PERHAPS the primary evil in the average Berean society is the indolence of the students. Although fully capable of performing all sorts of mental gymnastics (indeed, the young scholar is more capable in this regard than the old), nevertheless most members passively permit the teacher to do all the work, both intellectual and physical, for the entire class. Frequently the teacher fails to perform this Herculean task, with the result that he gains a reputation as a poor leader and that the class loses all of a negligible interest.

School work demands and receives hard study, but it lays only the foundations for a lifetime. In the Berean class, "you are not building for life, but for eternity. The things you learn from the Bible now will bear their influence in the ages beyond the grave. Study, then, not merely to be able to answer some questions in class, but to permanently enrich your fund of knowledge."—Senior Book One.

Particularly is such study necessary in this time of agnosticism and positive atheism. Without knowledge, one cannot firmly establish the reasons for the beliefs he holds; without study, the attainment of knowledge is impossible. No question can be answered satisfactorily without a comprehensive understanding of the matter involved, nor can such an understanding be attained except through close examination of the subject.

Paul had reason for making his exhortation to Timothy, "Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth."—2 Tim. 2:15. This adjuration expresses purpose; it confesses inability to please Jehovah until a comprehension of His works and will has been secured through application to the Scriptures.

Study must be the keynote of all classwork. No teacher, however able, can force permanent knowledge or spirituality into the heads of students who unresistingly accept all he thinks, says, and does as truth. Neither leader nor scholar can greatly gain under such circumstances. By all means, "set aside an hour each week to be used exclusively for studying your Berean lesson."

Arlen Marsh.

THE NEW YEAR WATCH

WITH the coming of New Year's Eve, custom dictates the holding of watch parties to await the birth of the next twelve-month period. Resolutions, indicating repentance of past deeds and a firm desire to improve, are made by almost everyone as the thirty-first day of December closes.

Too frequently are these improvement-seeking vows confined solely to the thought of New Year's Day; too often are watch parties held only to commemorate the passing of twelve months and to express our hopes for the next twelve. The idea that was propounded by the Christ nineteen centuries ago is commonly forgotten: "Watch therefore, for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of man cometh."—Matt. 25:13.

At practically the same time that He gave this exhortation—perhaps on the same day—Jesus described the conditions of the world during the time immediately preceding His second advent. He concluded the picture by again adjuring them, "Watch ye therefore, and pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of man."—Luke 21:36.

Without question, the time so aptly delineated by the Messiah is now approaching rapidly—indeed, the beginning of it is undoubtedly already here. This fact should cause our watch parties to be watch parties in truth, should cause us each to watch and pray that we may escape these things about to come to pass. Not only should the celebration be for the New Year, but for something far greater, far more lasting—the New Age.

BEREAN LESSON BOOKS

ALTHOUGH few apparently realize the fact, there is almost no better text-book made for aiding the student in studying the Bible subject by subject than the Berean book. All the important texts which establish the various parts of the one true doctrine are summarized and catalogued by the lessons. For every beginner there are books to suit his age and status. You will find it worth while to use them.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

“But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint.”—Isaiah 40:31.

THE FIRST DISCIPLES

JESUS was thirty years old. He was ready to begin His ministry and needed men to help Him in this wonderful work. Were these helpers to be chosen from the wealthy class? Were they to be men with finished education? Were they priests?

No, Jesus wanted men with clean hearts, hands, and minds—men whom He could trust—men who would be willing to learn. Among the wealthy and educated there were men of this kind, but Jesus turned to lowly fishermen, and others especially fitted for the work they were to do.

One day John the Baptist was standing with Andrew and another John—the Beloved. He saw Jesus walking nearby and said, “Behold, the Lamb of God.”

The two friends heard him speak and followed Jesus. When Jesus turned and saw them following, He said to them, “What seek ye?”

They replied by asking, “Rabbi (Master), where dwellest thou?”

He said, “Come and see.”

They did go with Jesus and were so interested that they remained the rest of the day.

Andrew was so impressed with the words of Jesus that he wanted his brother, Simon Peter, to know Jesus, too. Therefore, he hurried to find Peter, and exclaimed, “We have found the Messiah, which is, being interpreted, the Christ.”

Andrew brought Peter to Jesus. When the Master saw Peter He said, “Thou art Simon the son of Jona: thou shalt be called Cephas, which is by interpretation, a stone.” Peter did quick, impulsive things on the outside, but Jesus knew he was like a bed of solid rock and dependable inside.

Peter and Andrew lived in Bethsaida in Galilee, as did another worthy man, Philip.

The next day Jesus went to Bethsaida and found Philip and said to him, “Follow me.” And Philip immediately became a follower of Jesus. He found Nathanael, and said, “We have found him, of whom Moses in the law, and the prophets did write, Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph.”

Now, Nazareth was a little village, and considered of very little importance. Hence, Philip’s question: “Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth?”

“Come and see,” said Philip.

Jesus saw Nathanael coming and said, “Behold an Israelite indeed, in whom is no guile.”

This surprised Nathanael, and he asked, “Whence knoweth thou me?”

And his surprise must have been even greater when Jesus replied, “Before Philip called thee, when thou wast under the fig tree, I saw thee.”

That evidently convinced Nathanael, for he said, “Rabbi, thou art the Son of God; thou art the King of Israel.”

Thus you see the first five disciples chosen. The other seven are James and John, Matthew, Thomas, James, Judas, and Simon.

What an honor to be called as the Savior’s special helper!

ARE WE ready to follow Jesus as quickly as these disciples followed?

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Learn the names of the twelve disciples. Mark 3:14-19; Luke 6:13-16.
2. Read how some of the others were chosen. Luke 5:27-29; Matt. 4:21, 22.
3. Read from the prophet Isaiah 48, 49, etc.

WE BELIEVE the righteous shall live upon the earth—“Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth.” Matt. 5:5.

CHILDREN—Luke 9:46-48: “Then there arose a reasoning among them, which of them should be greatest. And Jesus, perceiving the thought of their heart, took a child, and set him by him. And said unto them, Whosoever shall receive this child in my name receiveth me: and whosoever shall receive me receiveth him that sent me: for he that is least among you all, the same shall be great.”

Bible Reading for the Week. January 8 to 14: Genesis 17 to 32; Matthew 8 to 14.

“THE gifts that last! Money cannot buy them; burglars cannot steal them. Though they are the most valuable in all the world, they are free to those who claim them, and we possess them most truly when we give them away. They are the gift of the heart, the gift of peace, the gift of joy, the gift of forgiveness, the gift of unselfishness, the gift of gratitude.”

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 2. — January 10, 1932

THE FIRST DISCIPLES

John 1:19-51

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 53:4-12

GOLDEN TEXT

Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world. — John 1:29.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: Seeking the Lost.

Basic Truth: "The Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost."—Luke 19:10.

Outline: I. The Lost. II. Seeking. III. Finding. IV. Saving.

I. The Lost. The first mission of Jesus was restricted to the Jews. He said on one occasion, "I am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt. 15:24. It was God's will that the gospel should go "to the Jew first."—Rom. 1:16. But as "both Jews and Gentiles . . . are all under sin" (Romans 3:9), all are numbered among the "lost" for whom Christ is now seeking. When as a people the Jews rejected the message, Paul, acting under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit said, "Lo, we turn to the Gentiles."—Acts 13:46. All racial restriction thus being removed Jesus became at once the prospective Savior of all who would believe in Him, and He is now seeking the "lost sheep" of both folds, as He had predicted He would do. John 10:16.

II. Seeking. While it was the Master's purpose to "call" sinners to repentance (Luke 5:22), He did not limit His efforts to issuing an invitation for them to come. He went out into the "highways and hedges" to seek them out; "leaving us an example, that ye should follow his steps." In our lesson Andrew and Philip manifested a zealous desire to seek out those who did not know the Lord.

III. Finding. In our efforts to lead others to Christ it is assuring to know that He has said, "Seek, and ye shall find."—Matt. 7:7, 8. Observe the success that attended these two disciples: of Andrew it is said, "He findeth his own brother Simon"; and it is related that "Philip findeth Nathanael." Both succeeded in their quest. If we put forth the necessary effort we, too, shall find men and women, and boys and girls, to bring to the Master.

IV. Saving. The Son of man is come not only to "seek" but to "save that which was lost." As the Son of God He is "the Christ," the Anointed One, "the Saviour of the world."—John 4:42. "By him all that believe are justified from all things, from which ye could not be justified by the law of Moses."—Acts 13:39.

Further, as the future "King of kings", He will save the nations from the sins of their rulers, from unjust laws and misdirected judgment. He will become indeed the "Prince of Peace," who will rule "from sea to sea, and from the river unto the ends of the earth," with "judgment and with justice from henceforth even for ever."

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

Our lesson this week has as its theme the early disciples. These disciples were the ones that obeyed the call, "Follow me". Every person that would be a disciple of Jesus must first be called; when the call is heard, then he or she must be willing to say: "Lord, here am I". These early disciples were co-laborers with Jesus. It means a great deal to be a partner with our Lord in the gospel work.

Jesus hasn't any way of bringing the good news of salvation to those that "sit in darkness" other than by His disciples. Discuss some of the faithful disciples of your own church. Do you think young people and children can be disciples of Jesus? Is age any barrier to discipleship? How does a person receive his commission to be a disciple of Jesus? Here are some of the charges given to the disciples of Christ. Make personal application and see if you are carrying out these injunctions.

"Be thou faithful unto death". Rev. 2:10.

"Occupy till I come". Luke 19:13.

"Preach the word". 2 Timothy 4:2.

"Let your light so shine before men".

Matthew 5:16.

"Abstain from all appearance of evil".

1 Thessalonians 5:22.

"Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth". Ephesians 4:29.

—C. E. R.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

"Behold the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world."—John 1:29, Diag.

A lamb without blemish was slain and its blood sprinkled on the doorposts for a token. Those who were in the house, under the blood as it were, were saved by that blood. Had they not complied with the command from God to do this, the death angel would not have passed over such houses, and death there would have resulted.

Jesus is the Lamb of God. He gave His life. His blood was shed, and those who avail themselves of the opportunity to get under the blood by obedience to the commands of baptism may have their sins remitted so that life, not death, may be theirs. "So Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many; and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation."—Hebrews 9:28. — L. A. R.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT

There are two reasons why Christians should try to bring others to Christ: first, as an act of kindness and service to the person, and, second, as obedience to a commandment of Christ.

It is a fact recognized in Scripture that all people are sinners and, therefore, under sentence of death. "For the wages of sin is death."—Rom. 6:23. The highest and noblest ideal of life is that of service without thought of reward. Many people have been honored for risking life and limb to rescue another from death—the first death. The individual thus saved can expect to live but a few short years at best.

We should greatly honor anyone that saves one from the second death. It is within our power to thus save. "Let him know, that he which converteth a sinner from the error of his way, shall save a soul from death, and shall hide a multitude of sins."—James 5:20. In saving one we will be practicing the Golden Rule and will be obeying the second commandment: "Love thy neighbour as thyself."

Jesus told His disciples to preach the gospel to every creature. It seems evident that we were included in the command, as it was effective to the "end of the world". See Matt. 28:20. We must recognize that the commandment was given to the disciples. "The disciples were called Christians first in Antioch."—Acts 11:26. From this it is evident that disciples are Christians and, conversely, Christians must be disciples; thus, if we are Christians, we are under the "great commission" and must, therefore, preach (teach) the gospel to others. Paul recognized this necessity of preaching the gospel, taking no glory to himself, when he wrote: "For though I preach the gospel, I have nothing to glory of: for necessity is laid upon me; yea, woe is me, if I preach not the gospel!"—1 Cor. 9:16.

Paul accepted his responsibility. May God strengthen us to accept ours.—H. A. S.

INTERMEDIATE CLASS

Soon after Jesus began His ministry, He selected men to assist Him in preaching the gospel, in teaching and healing those who came to Him. Was Jesus a wealthy man, able to bestow upon those who followed Him the comforts of life? Did He enjoy special political power? Was He granted His desires by those in authority?

If you have answered "Yes" to these questions, then you would expect that His followers would share in the privileges that were His. But if your answer has been in the negative, then you will agree that neither could His followers expect great ease of life. Read carefully the account of the calling of the first disciples. Did they give up all to follow Him, or did they reserve for themselves a portion of their income, their pleasures, their comforts or their occupation? Are there things which we must give up when we make the great choice in life? Discuss in class some of these, and discover whether you are giving them up for things of greater value.

What will be our reward for true service to Christ? Will it be worth anything that we might renounce for His sake?—M. G.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

A NEW LEAF

He came to my desk with a quivering lip,
The lesson was done;
"Dear teacher, I want a new leaf," he said,
"I have spoiled this one."
I took the leaf all stained and blotted,
And gave him a new one, all unspotted,
And into his sad eyes smiled,
"Do better now, my child."

I went to the throne with a quivering lip;
The old year was done;
"Dear Father, hast Thou a new leaf for me?
I have spoiled this one."
He took the leaf so stained and blotted,
And gave me a new one, all unspotted,
And into his sad heart smiled:
"Do better now, my child."

—Author unknown.

DOINGS AT ELDORADO

Tuesday evening, Dec. 22, at the Restitution Church, the junior and primary departments of the Sunday school took it upon themselves to display some of their talent, and gave the public one of the most enjoyable evenings of entertainment obtainable at this season of the year.

An evergreen tree, beautifully decorated with tinsel and snow, made a very pleasant scene to look upon. Our program consisted of readings, dialogues, and songs concerning the birth of our Savior. No excitement as to the appearing of Santa Claus took place, as the children were taught about the birth of Christ, and to look forward to His second advent.

At the close of the program, treats of candy, apples, and oranges were given to the children, numbering about fifty. The house was crowded to capacity, the largest crowd ever assembled in the church since its dedication.

We read some time ago, "If your Sunday school is not on the map, put it there." We believe this can be done and is being done. Our attendance is increasing rapidly. May we ever grow in the service of our Lord.

Juanita Shain Loyd.

SAINT CLOUD, MINNESOTA

Sunday, December 20th, was a day that we pray will not be forgotten. In the evening at 6:45, twenty young Bereans assembled for their service. At the 7:45 service we enjoyed the splendid Christmas cantata given by the two choirs, and readings by the children. The music was wonderful. Surely it was a great message in honor of "The Prince of Peace."

Before the benediction we enjoyed a Candlelight Consecration Service. The call was given to consecrate self in service. Twenty of our young people came forward to give their lives to the Lord in service. It was joyous to see these young people march down and kneel, as prayer was offered to God to dedicate them for labor in His vineyard. God bless them that they will do the thing they have set out to do. We pray that some at least will attend the National Bible Institution Training School for the ministry. The field is surely ripe unto harvest.

The church was filled to its capacity, and all departed with a song of joy and gladness for the birthday of Him who came to bring peace among men.

Sincerely for this Christ Child,
Adna E. Hoskins.

BRO. MAGAW AT WCMA

Next Sunday, Jan. 3, from 6:30 to 7:30 a. m., Bro. Sydney Magaw, pastor of the Brush Creek (Ohio) church will broadcast from station WCMA at Culver, Ind., his subject, "The Book of Esther." This station (1400 kc.) is on the air from 6:30 to 9:30 a. m. on Sundays and from 1:45 to 4:30 p. m. and 10:30 to 12 midnight on week days.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICHIGAN

The Christmas program proved to be a grand success in all ways but one—that of space for the people. It was estimated that between four and five hundred people were crowded into our small building and from one to two hundred were turned away at the door. The program itself was very impressive. Much credit is due the program committee, the costume committee, the decorating committee and the many who rendered their time and talents in making the service successful. Because of many requests the program is being repeated in the school auditorium on Monday night, December 28.

One of the finest things that transpired during the Christmas week was the raising of one hundred dollars cash to meet a note which had been made in a time of emergency. This required a genuine sacrifice on the part of our people when the income of all has been greatly reduced or completely cut off, but it is the kind of sacrifice that develops spiritual health and strength.

God helping us, we will accomplish more in the coming days than ever before.

We now turn our attention to the opening of the New Year. It is to be ushered in by a watch party, and on January 3 an installation service for the new officers will be held.

F. E. Siple, Pastor.

NIAGARA FALLS AND FONTHILL

Charles Sornberger, father of Sr. Lyle Bower, died recently. The funeral, conducted by Bro. Randall, was held from the home. Charles Sornberger was an uncle of William and James Moore of the Falls church.

Several wedding anniversaries are being celebrated among our members. Christmas Day will see the thirtieth anniversary of Bro. and Sr. L. S. Haney of Fenwick. Bro. and Sr. Arthur Gilbey of Rochester celebrated their seventeenth on the seventeenth. And Bro. and Sr. Sullivan of the Falls church will have been married thirteen years on the twenty-eighth.

The Falls church held their entertainment on Monday evening, the twenty-first.

On Wednesday, the twenty-third, the Fonthill church had their concert and Christmas tree.

CHRISTMAS OFFERINGS

Iowa State Berean Society	$5.00
Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Tilton	2.00
Fern Mitchell (in memory of mother and sisters)	4.00
Mrs. Clara Stinnette (in memory of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Morgan)	10.00
Previously reported	56.80
Total to date	$77.80

BURR OAK, INDIANA

A small group of the faithful gathered by the lapping waters on the shore of beautiful Lake Maxinkuckee after the evening service, Nov. 29, to sing, "I Can Hear My Savior Calling," as Miss Maxine Shafer was led into the waters and baptized into the name of the Lord Jesus to wash away all condemnation for sin. Sister Shafer's action was a fitting climax to the Thanksgiving season, since we feel that she is now fully consecrated to her Savior, and where He leads her she will follow.

The folks at Burr Oak and Culver have enjoyed the radio services over WCMA very much, and are enthusiastic about the new enterprise. The early morning hour is especially suited for long distance reception. Points as far away as Louisiana and Pennsylvania have listened in to the services, and this station has received letters from distant points concerning other programs of the station. One letter especially from California, stated that the receiver had listened to a week-day service broadcast by another church from WCMA. Other letters have come in to Sister Louise LaMunion from isolated and shut-in members of our church who rejoice to hear our ministers once again.

Bro. Austin preached to the congregation at Burr Oak at the morning services after broadcasting from WCMA, Dec. 13. He was also scheduled to speak at Burr Oak in the morning of Dec. 27, and that evening at Plymouth. Years ago Bro. Austin worked with these churches and with the church at Argos. So it was indeed a pleasure to have him here again.

The attendance at church and Sunday school has been steadily increasing during the past few weeks. On Rally Day the attendance at Sunday school was 66; on Dec. 13 it was 65; on Dec. 20, it was 56. That evening, Dec. 20, it was about 75, and there were about 150 present at the Christmas entertainment.

Bro. Anderson was in poor health previous to his broadcast over WCMA, Dec. 20. He went on to North Salem and Plymouth, but due to his health the church at Burr Oak relinquished his services at the evening meeting. Bro. Smead was at Burr Oak for both morning and evening services.

The program at the church on Christmas night was entered into wholeheartedly by the Sunday school and was enjoyed by all. The primary class came in dressed as living Christmas decorations. The junior class showed by a little playlet the heart cleansing power of the spirit of Christmas in the lives of children. The senior classes put on a playlet also to show the same heart cleansing power in the lives of grown-ups. The closing performance was a living tableau of the birth of the Lord Jesus, after which the Christmas tree was unloaded. A large crowd was present and seemed to be well pleased with the program.

Bro. and Sr. J. Arthur Johnson, of Oregon, Ill., surprised Sr. Johnson's family here early Christmas morning. They were with Bro. and Sr. M. J. Osborn until Sunday afternoon. The church was glad to welcome them to the Christmas program and to the Sunday service.

Sister Pearl Hatten of Aurora, Ill., has been enjoying a visit with her folks at Culver over the Christmas week. We have enjoyed having her at the Christmas program and at the Sunday service.

New Year's eve being the regular Berean meeting, the young folks have asked the church to meet with them in the last lesson of the year and spend an evening of service. Plans are under way for appropriate farewells to the old year, and welcomes to the new with its opportunities of service to our Lord and Master.

Recently, the church needing a new roof, several of the brethren met and reshingled the greater part. The Ladies Aid assisted by serving dinner at the church and in other ways. The church building has needed several improvements, and it looks as if they will be done in the near future.

Cecil Smead.

CONTRIBUTORS TO DOLLAR-A-MONTH CLUB AND OTHER PHASES

Dorothy Magaw; Dorothy Krogh; Frank W. Wilson; Albert Siple; Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Haupt; Paul and Ethel Johnson; Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Bell; Mr. and Mrs. Enos E. Elton; Mrs. J. W. Dismukes; Elsie M. Moore.

HERALD RECEIPTS

E. A. Titus; James Kessler; Mrs. Edwin Crosby; Miss Helen Porter; Arthur Gilbey; Mrs. Alice Johnson; Wm. H. Boyer; Mrs. Belle LeCrone; Bernard Crofton; Alma Hall; Rev. A. A. Cloyd; Mrs. A. M. Lobell; J. G. Haupt; E. A. Drake; Mrs. T. M. Savage, Jr.; N. S. Westfall; Mrs. E. M. Hall.

FLORA HARRIS PRIOR

Flora, daughter of Benjamin and Emily Harris, was born Aug. 6, 1872, and died Dec. 17, 1931. When nineteen years of age she was baptized into Christ, becoming a most dependable, faithful, and devoted member of the Church of God in Rensselaer, Ind., where she lived all the years of her adult life.

Some eighteen years ago she was united in marriage with Charles E. Prior, with whom she journeyed the remainder of life's way in true companionship. She lived justly, loved mercy, and walked humbly before God during life, and she now rests peacefully in death. Although apprised of the serious nature of her illness from the start, her death came as a stunning blow to her friends and to the entire city in which she lived and where she was loved and esteemed by all.

Flo, as she was familiarly and affectionately known by her friends and neighbors, although quiet, unassuming, and extremely modest, was a leader and wise counsellor, and the church has lost one of its most valuable members. Seldom do we meet with so great a loss in the death of a single member as is sustained in the death of Sr. Prior. Words cannot express the deep sorrow her death has brought to her loved ones and her many friends. But we bow our heads in humble submission, and thank God for the close association and sweet fellowship with one whose life was so rich in faith, truth, good works, and righteous influence, and we pray God's blessing to remain with Bro. Prior in his bereavement and consequent loneliness.

After appropriate services, held just eight weeks, to the hour, from the time similar services were held for her mother, we laid her to rest beside her father and mother to await our Lord's return.

L. E. Conner.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

Published by

National Bible Institution

Oregon, Illinois

Subscription Rates.—51 issues per annum, $2.00; 6 months, $1.00; 3 months, 50 cents. Sample copy, Free.

GEORGE HENRY ANDREW

In the death of Mr. George H. Andrew, which occurred on December 18, 1931, northern Illinois lost one of its best known and highly respected citizens. Mr. Andrew was the son of our late Brother and Sister Nicholas Andrew, and a nephew of Elder A. J. Eychaner of Iowa. He is survived by his widow, one son, Mr. Eddy Glenn Andrew, and one daughter, Mrs. Edith Burchell, all of whom are residents of Oregon, Illinois.

The funeral, which was conducted in the Methodist Church in Oregon, jointly by E. W. Knapp, pastor of that church, and G. E. Marsh, pastor of the Church of God, was attended by many notable men connected with the political life of the state, and by a host of neighbors and friends who have known Mr. Andrew throughout his long and honorable career. He was seventy-six years of age at the time of his death.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME—

A HAPPY NEW YEAR

May all that has been best in the year that is past go with each of you into the New Year just before us, and may many added joys and blessings be yours, until our Lord shall come.

M. G.

Bro. C. E. Lapp expects to be with the brethren at Eldorado, Ill., over the coming week-end.

Golden Rule Home was the recipient of a gift of two fine ducks for the Christmas Day dinner from Mr. Glenn Kilmer of Seward, son of Sr. Scoville.

We were misinformed when we told you two weeks ago that Donald Mattison of our Oregon, Ill., Sunday school was ill. He was and is quite well. Beg your pardon, Donald.

Bro. L. E. Conner was called to Herrin, Ill., to conduct the funeral services of Bro. James Jeffrey, who died very suddenly. Our prayers ascend for Sr. Ida Jeffrey and other members of the family that God may send comfort to them. Bro. Conner left early Christmas morning, and Sr. Conner partook of the gracious hospitality of the Charles Miller home in Dixon on that day.

A card was received apprising us of the safe arrival at home of Dorothy and Harvey Krogh and Lucille and Richard LeCrone at Blair and Omaha, Nebr. The brethren expected to hold an all-day meeting at Blair last Sunday. No doubt these members of the Training Class add zest to the meetings at the home church.

The Christmas offerings to the N. B. I. are prompted by the true spirit of the Christ child, and those sent in memory of others who are gone seem to be especially beautiful. They carry on their desires when they are no longer able to do so.

In the death of Sr. Flora Prior, the church at large, as well as the church at Rensselaer, sustains a severe loss. Sr. Prior was the mainstay of her home organization and a most loyal and faithful contributor to the cause in general. These sorrows make us long for the coming of our Savior, who will bring to life all His faithful.

The editor desires to take this means of expressing his great appreciation of the many tokens of remembrance he has received from friends throughout the country, and to assure all that were it possible he would be glad to respond individually to each one. The spirit of fellowship these seasonal greetings indicate is very helpful and encouraging to him in his work. That God may bless you with all spiritual blessings throughout the New Year is his prayer.

Sr. Azalia Winfrey, of the faculty of the Oregon, Ill., high school, is enjoying the holidays with the home folks at Bosworth, Mo.

Aunt Mary Renner of Golden Rule Home greatly enjoyed a visit from her son Edwin and wife of Chicago on Christmas Day.

The article by the editor under the caption, "Abram Worships at Salem", is the first of a series of papers showing glimpses of Jerusalem down the centuries of the world's history. These will appear from time to time under various titles. You will find them of interest, being written in Bro. Marsh's engaging style.

We are grateful to Bro. L. A. Boice of Champaign, Ill., for his gift of "The Christian Herald" for the year 1932. He has been sending this inspirational magazine to us for the past two or three years, and in our work as associate editor we gain much good from its pages. Thank you, Bro. Boice.

Among the university students who are home for the holidays are Bro. Merle Bell of the University of Arizona, son of Bro. and Sr. H. S. Bell of LaCrosse, Wis., and Bro. Vernon Birkey, of the University of Milwaukee, son of Bro. and Sr. Glenn Birkey of Rochelle, Ill.

The little group of listeners in at Oregon, Ill., was not able to hear the program broadcast last Sunday morning from WCMA because of interference from a larger station. Sr. Louise LaMunion is sponsoring these programs which have been supported by voluntary contributions thus far. The Brush Creek church is supporting financially their pastor's effort of Jan. 3. A word of encouragement as to these programs would be appreciated. Address Mrs. Norman LaMunion, Culver, Ind.

A letter from Sr. Chas. Stedman tells us that Bro. Stedman is not being benefited by his stay in New Mexico, and so they are returning to their home at Moorefield, Nebr. They have greatly appreciated the many cards and letters received from the brethren, though not able to reply to each. Bro. Stedman does not suffer pain, only the excessive discomfort from asthma. They ask an interest in the prayers of the brotherhood on Bro. Stedman's behalf.

Reports from the various Sunday schools and churches throughout the land, telling us of the Christmas programs which have been enjoyed by all, are of much interest to our readers, we feel sure. Whenever your Sunday school or any part of your organization puts on a special effort in the Master's cause let us hear about it, and let us hear also of your regular work. Every member of our large family is interested in what every other member is doing.

At the Portal of the New Year

By Mary A. Gesin

THROUGH the winding bypaths of the year, some of which have been beautiful and others overhung with sorrows, we reach at last a new vista opening up before, an untried path which our feet must take. With eager and joyful anticipation we look through the open door of the new year. Of necessity we leave the past, some of us reluctantly, others gladly. But we know that regardless of its successes and its failures, the year of 1932 will offer us equal opportunity for growth and development with that of the past.

COME

At the portal of the new year stands our Savior, beckoning with His hand and saying, "Come", just as He did to Andrew, when He called him to venture forth into the greater opportunities that lay before him. But much sacrifice may need to be endured; many obstacles must be cleared from before our feet. For Jesus says, "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me." Luke 9:23.

If we would "come" at Jesus' bidding, we may no longer stray into forbidden paths, into winding ways which would impede our vision, or lead us into country which we must travel alone. But if we "take up" our "cross daily", in imitation of our beloved Leader, who hourly did His Father's will, we will escape many of the heartaches and sorrows and disappointments that come to a self-centered life.

FOLLOW

How cheering the prospect that our Guide does not merely open the door and bid us enter, but He goes before us all the way. He has marked out the pathway for us by the example of His own life. Even David, great and mighty king of Israel, petitioned God thus: "Teach me thy way, O Lord, and lead me in a plain path". Psa. 27:11.

Whether we look down the future with ardent desire to discover its secrets, or draw back hesitating to tread its unknown ways, there is One who sees the new year in its entirety, One whose vision carries to its consummation. And if we are content to follow Him, we will experience the best for us that lies wrapped up away from our sight, whether of good or ill. Surely, "goodness and mercy" shall follow us, if we bravely entrust the future to Him.

ABIDE

If we would follow closely our Master, we must "abide" with Him. John tells us, in verse forty-six of chapter twelve, that Jesus says, "Whosoever believeth on me should not abide in darkness." He assures us also in those blessed last words He left to His disciples, that if we abide in Him, we may ask what we will, and it shall be done, for His desires will be our desires.

How can we know the Master's desires for us? By abiding with Him, we learn to know Him as a dear friend; we discover His will for us; we appreciate the fact, truly and deeply, that whatever is in store for us in the new year, it is for our well-being.

GO

We are now ready to "go" forward in service for Him. Life is not all contained in the little phrase, "sitting at the feet of Jesus". But when we have learned His ways, it is for us to "go and do thou likewise". The purpose of the lessons we learn from Him is not merely to add to our store of knowledge, but to add to our service in His name. We must remember that after He had instructed His apostles in the meaning of the gospel message, both by precept and by example, He told them to "go" into all the world, carrying these blessed tidings of salvation to all men. For of what benefit are those glad tidings, if they are not imparted to others in such way that they, too, will learn the depths of their meaning in service and sacrifice, and joyfully follow the Lord and Master?

As we approach the open door of the new year, let us take with us these four words found in so many of our Lord's messages to us, "Come, Follow, Abide, Go" Each one is necessary in our Christian life. First we must come unto Him; next we follow where He leads; then we abide until we drink of His spirit of service and sacrifice; and last, we go forth to live the lessons we have learned and tell the glad news to others.

May all these blessings be yours and mine, dear reader, as we travel the new year together.

In Thy Hands

My times are in Thy hands,
Lord, may they ever be;
My life I dedicate anew
To serve Thee, only Thee.

My times are in Thy hands,
To do, or go, or stay,
To suffer, if the need may be;
Oh, guide me day by day.

My times are in Thy hands,
I'm feeble, Lord, and slow;
But be Thou ever near me, Lord,
Teach me Thy path to know.

My times are in Thy hands,
Oh, may I ever be Found working in Thy vineyard, Lord;
I love Thee, only Thee.
—Mabel A. Wolfe.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, JANUARY 5, 1932

NUMBER 14

AUTHORITY

By G. Eldred Marsh

“By what authority doest thou these things? and who gave thee this authority?”—Matthew 21:23.

THE question of authority is of vital importance. It presents itself at the beginning of every religious investigation and continues to demand attention throughout the entire course of the discussion.

By what authority does the Church of God demand compliance with certain specified requirements of doctrine and practice before it will admit one into its fellowship? Or, what is far more important, who gave the Church of God authority to lay down as unchangeable conditions of salvation the distinctive principles of faith which it holds?

When we come before the public and teach that the only way in which salvation can be obtained is through belief in the gospel of the kingdom of God and baptism into the name of the Lord Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, what right have we to make such an assertion? and who gave us the authority to do so?

One of the peculiar characteristics of the preaching of Jesus was that “he taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes.”—Matt. 7:29. He spoke with the assurance that comes from positive knowledge. No shadow of doubt or uncertainty beclouded His message. He neither reasoned nor philosophized. He simply stated facts as facts.

The apostles followed closely in the Master's steps. They declared the truth with definite finality. They were sure of the ground on which they stood. The conditions of salvation were given to the world with dogmatic decisiveness, and with a positive conviction of their truth. Paul says, “I know whom I have believed” (2 Tim. 1:12), and “now is Christ risen from the dead” (1 Cor. 15:20). There was no lingering doubt in his mind regarding the verity of “the principles of the doctrine of Christ” (Heb. 6:1), and therefore he, too, “spake as one having authority.”

Has the Church of God today the authority to speak with an assurance equal to that of the apostles? If it possesses any right to the name it bears, it must also possess the right to give its message to the world in the same positive manner.

SOURCE OF AUTHORITY

THE only authority in matters pertaining to religious faith, recognized by the people of God in all ages, reposes in Jehovah. If we cannot speak with the authority of God our work is in vain. During this age God is taking out from the world a people for His name (Acts 15:14); and He has assigned the accomplishment of His design to the church. The preaching of the gospel is the means by which the work is to be done. And unless the Church of God is conducting its efforts under such a commission from Jehovah it has no right to send forth men to teach, to preach, and to baptize in the name of His Son.

Further, all such efforts are presumptuous if they are not carried on under the authority of the Lord. To presume to speak for God without His authority to do so is irreverent, blasphemous, and vain.

Israel recognized all authority as originating in God. The judges, prophets, and kings confessed that they were but instruments in the divine hand for the accomplishment of His purposes. In the New Testament the same acknowledgment is made concerning the status of those occupying the various offices in the church. They were each one called of God, ordained and commissioned by God, to carry on the activities of Christian service.

AUTHORITY TODAY

IT is clearly evident from the Scriptures that authority to speak for God and to act for God, was to be perpetuated in the church. The method by which that authority was to be transmitted down through the ages is also determined thereby.

Writing to Timothy as his son in the faith, Paul in-

Continued on page 218

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

"Beloved, . . . beware lest ye also, being led with the error of the wicked, fall from your own steadfastness."

The Editor's Prayer

OUR FATHER: In these days of increasing doubt, when the minds of men are being driven about by "every wind of doctrine", give unto us divine strength that we may "stand fast in one spirit, with one mind striving together for the faith of the gospel" in Christ Jesus. Amen.

Our First Purpose

THE first great purpose of the Church of God, as that purpose has been definitely expressed in many state and national conferences throughout our denominational history and as it has been enunciated by editorial writers in our various publications during the past one hundred years or more, is the proclamation of the glad tidings of the kingdom of God, together with certain other biblical truths that are closely associated with the gospel.

This general objective of the church and its leading papers has never been changed. When the General Conference was formed some years ago, the following statement was made as a fair expression of the purpose of the organization: That the Churches of God should "unite in an effort to edify the body of Christ in utilizing the contributed strength of the church to affirm by print and voice the following biblical truths, and such other truths as are in harmony therewith. . . ." Then follows a brief outline of the elements of faith generally believed among us, which includes the unity of God, the death of Christ for our sins, His burial and resurrection, the inspiration of the Scriptures and their authority and value as a standard of faith and righteousness, the literal return of our Lord to the earth, the establishment of the kingdom of God over all nations, the resurrection of the dead, eternal life as a gift of God through Christ, baptism, and the importance of a resurrection to a new life of service thereafter.

The promulgation of these biblical teachings which are commonly accepted among us must continue to be the chief purpose of the National Bible Institution and its official organ, THE RESTITUTION HERALD, unless the past action of the General Conference should be abrogated by some future decision of the church and the general purpose changed.

Our purpose is positive rather than negative. It is to affirm certain truths rather than to deny certain errors.

The Official Journal

AN OFFICIAL journal is a publication that is authorized to speak on behalf of some organization. It does not speak for the various members of the organization as individuals, but for the entire group. It can advocate and support only those principles for which the society stands as a whole. Beyond this it may not go.

A publication of such a nature is of necessity restricted both in its subject matter and in the manner of presentation. It cannot reflect the personal opinions of any man or group of men unless such opinions are in general harmony with the spirit and purpose of the organization which the paper serves, and which authorizes its publication and directs its policy.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD is the official organ of the General Conference of the Church of God and of the National Bible Institution, which is the working body of the Conference. The general character of THE HERALD must be maintained in harmony with the expressed desires of the Church of God brotherhood throughout the country, as such desires have been specifically stated in the past.

Therefore, we will continue to advocate strongly as among the essential requirements of salvation the great outstanding truths of revelation with regard to the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, literally, visibly, and gloriously; the future establishment of His kingdom over all nations on the earth; the regathering and establishment of Israel in the homeland; the mortality of man; the resurrection of the dead as the only means of obtaining everlasting life; baptism by immersion into the name of Christ for the remission of sins; and a life of service devoted to God.

The Gospel That Saves

BROTHER Wiley Jones, writing in 1879, asks, "What then is the message or testimony which is so essential to salvation? Our eternal destiny depends on a truthful answer to this question; and the Lord be praised that we are not left in the dark on a subject of such vast importance. . . ." Proceeding with his argument, he concludes: "Thus I have plainly and abundantly proved that 'the gospel of the kingdom' is the great message or testimony which Christ brought to man."

The Royal Priesthood

"But ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood."

THE universe is God's empire, and all orders of being are His subjects. Infinite wisdom and supreme authority inhere in Him alone. Hence, from His sovereign will all genuine rule and religion originate. No government is legitimate, nor any system of worship acceptable unless ordained of God. Even Gentile powers are sanctioned by Him till the time shall come for the establishment of His own everlasting kingdom on earth. It is with the administration of this kingdom, when established, that this article is to treat.

As in an earthly, so in this heavenly kingdom, there will be the exaltation of some, and the subordination of others. In this heavenly kingdom, too, the rights to supremacy pertain to the firstborn, and in our heavenly Father's royal family there is a whole church of firstborn ones—of which God's Son is the firstborn Head. Christ is the firstborn among many brethren, and these brethren are declared to be the elect of God—"God's elect." Rom. 8: 29-33, with Heb. 12:22, 23. To these firstborn ones pertain the crowns and mitres of kingship and priesthood in God's everlasting kingdom.

From prophecy we learn that both Christ and His saints will participate in the administration of government on earth after Gentile times expire. When Christ receives the dominion, and glory, and a kingdom, all people, and nations, and languages shall serve Him; His dominion becomes everlasting, and His kingdom one that cannot be destroyed. Then, too, the saints of the Most High also take the kingdom, and possess the kingdom forever, even forever and ever.—Dan. 7:13, 14, 18. Of this joint rule another prophet predicts, "Behold, a king shall reign in righteousness, and princes shall rule in judgment."—Isaiah 32:1. This associate rule is most distinctly taught by our Lord and His apostles. To His apostles the Savior says: "I appoint unto you a kingdom, as my Father hath appointed unto me; that ye may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom, and sit on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel."—Luke 22:29, 30.

The participation in rule is illustrated in the parable of the money, where authority over ten cities is given to one, and over five cities to another as the reward for the improvements of the pounds. Luke 19:12, 26.

On the future exaltation of the saintly elect Paul says: "I endure all things for the elect's sakes, that they may also obtain the salvation which is in Christ Jesus with eternal glory. It is a faithful saying: For if we be dead with him, we shall also live with him: if we suffer we shall also reign with him."—2 Tim. 2:10, 12. Further on this joint rule our Savior says: "To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in his throne."—Revelation 3:21.

It is next necessary to ascertain whether Christ will exercise any other prerogative than that of King when He shall take the throne of His glory; and in doing this we shall also ascertain the exaltation awaiting His elect when enthroned with Him. That He will hold and exercise another most important official dignity the following quotations will prove: "The Lord saith unto my Lord, Sit thou at my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footstool. The Lord shall send the rod of thy strength out of Zion; rule thou in the midst of thine enemies. The Lord hath sworn, and will not repent, Thou art a priest for ever after the order of Melchizedek."—Psa. 110:1, 2, 4. Now, as Melchizedek was a king-priest, our Lord will be like him, a king-priest also. Again we have the following explicit language: "Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, saying, Behold the man whose name is The BRANCH; and he shall grow up out of his place, and he shall build the temple of the Lord: even he shall build the temple of the Lord, and he shall bear the glory, and shall sit and rule upon his throne, and he shall be a priest upon his throne."—Zech. 6:12, 13. "He shall bear the glory" means that He shall be invested with all the splendid insignia pertaining to both king and priest.

Paul, quoting the Psalmist, shows that Jesus our Lord is the person to whom the royal Psalmist refers, and that, as He lives forever, He will always hold these superlative honors. Then it follows that when the overcoming saints shall sit down with Christ in His throne, to share in His regal honors, they will share in His priestly honors also. This logical inference is supported by the following direct proof: "And they sung a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof, for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation; and hast made us unto God kings and priests; and we shall reign on the earth."—Rev. 5:9, 10. The crown and priesthood are intimately connected in the promise made to the church at Philadelphia: "Behold, I come quickly: hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take thy crown. Him that overcometh will I make a pillar in the temple of my God, and he shall go no more out; and I will write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, which is new Jerusalem, which cometh down out of heaven from my God; and I will write upon him my new name."—Rev. 3:11, 12. To be a pillar in the temple of God is a most emphatic way of declaring the eternal priesthood of the elected saints.

Continued on page 218

PALESTINE

---

Blest land of Judea! thrice hallowed of song,
Where the holiest of memories pilgrim-like throng;
In the shade of thy palms, by the shores of thy sea,
On the hills of thy beauty, my heart is with thee.

With the eye of a spirit I look on that shore,
Where pilgrim and prophet have lingered before;
With the glide of a spirit I traverse the sod
Made bright by the steps of the angels of God.

Lo, Bethlehem's hill-side before me is seen,
With the mountains around and the valleys between;
There rested the shepherds of Judah, and there
The song of the angels rose sweet on the air.

Oh, here with His flock the sad Wanderer came—
These hills He toiled over in grief, are the same—
The founts where He drank by the wayside still flow,
And the same airs are blowing which breathed on His brow!

And what if my feet may not tread where He stood,
Nor my ears hear the dashing of Galilee's flood,
Nor my eyes see the cross which He bowed Him to bear,
Nor my knees press Gethsemane's garden of prayer?

Yet, Loved of the Father, Thy Spirit is near
To the meek, and the lowly, and penitent here;
And the voice of Thy love is the same even now,
As at Bethany's tomb, or at Olivet's brow.

Oh, the outward hath gone? — but, in glory and power
The Spirit surviveth the things of an hour;
Unchanged, undecaying, its Pentecost flame
On the heart's secret altar is burning the same!

—John Geenleaf Whittier.

---

ETERNAL YOUTH

---

THE portrait of Joseph, which now emerges from the current lessons read in the Synagogue, should not be regarded as envisaging merely an individual personality. Its charm lies in this—that it is a picture of eternal youth. It portrays the adolescent dreamer. One dream follows another and bubbles over in speech, to the rage of his uncomprehending elders. Furthermore, as in all the dreams of youths, the dreamer is the hero. What young man has not mused over the conquest of the world, whether in the field of arms or intellect, of art or invention, and has not thought of himself as a Napoleon or Alexander with the world at his feet? Indeed, the dreams of youth, whatever their content, are likely to be egocentric. To older eyes they are an expression of an arrogant vanity, which it is to the interest of the world to suppress.

So Joseph dreamed, not only that the sheaves of the field which the brethren were binding, bowed in homage to his own sheaf, the triumph of his handiwork, but the sun, moon, and eleven stars made obeisance to his star. He was the center of his little cosmos, and the constellation whirled about him, as the planets dance about the sun. We cannot catch the drift of the biblical story, if we think that the brothers hated him for the coat of many colors with which he adorned his person. They hated him, particularly, the biblical narrative emphasizes, for his dreams, and for the telling of them. Their hatred was born of the ever-recurring distrust and fear which an adult generation harbors for the arrogant and unsettling dreams of the younger generation knocking at the door. It was only the indulgent father who was too wise to be cynical.

It has often been pointed out in the rabbinical tradition and in later literature that Joseph among his brethren is like Israel among the nations. The psychological roots of anti-Semitism are many and varied. They feed on religious differences, on the economic struggle, on racial antagonisms, and yet, subtly pervading the whole gamut of these emotional reactions is the resentment of a mature Philistine world toward Joseph the Dreamer.

The eternal and irrepressible youth of Israel is a challenge that invites repression. We have bequeathed the world a heritage of dreams, in the prophetic hopes concerning mankind united in peace and brotherhood under the God of Israel. Yet in these dreams, universal as they are in content, we have thought of ourselves as the perpetual hero. We have proclaimed to the world that the spiritual destiny of mankind will fulfill itself through the "Chosen People." We have repeated through the generations the confident assertion that "out of Zion shall the Law go forth and the Word of the Lord out of Jerusalem." Though scorned and exiled, and, like Joseph, often a slave languishing in the dungeons of civilization, we have toyed with the phrase, "Kings shall walk by thy light and nations by the brightness of thy shining."

WHEN the Maccabees, a small group of hillmen in the mountains of Judea, turned their backs upon that Hellenic culture which was enwrapping the whole of western Asia in its glorious embrace, they must have seemed, to so ardent an Hellenic missionary as King Antiochus, like stubborn and egotistic madmen, intoxicated with the sense of their own importance. Israel's faith in its own destiny, the feeling that the sun and stars in the historic heavens, and the sheaves gathered on the fields of human culture, are, at last, to make acknowledgment to Israel, is one of the causes of that inner resentment which marks the attitude of the world toward the Jewish people. Old as we are in years, we are still the "infant terrible" to the proud races who now govern the earth. We represent the arrogance of irrepressible youth, which wounds the pride of the Nordic, or the Latin, or the Slav, as we tell them of our dreams.

Yet, it is our hope that some day the world may be placated, when the dreamer takes his revenge, for the revenge of the dreamer is the fulfillment of his dream. How marvelously the dream fulfills itself in the Joseph story! The youth who, as a shackled slave, and as a prisoner in gloomy dungeons, carried the light of his vision with him, rises at last to be ruler of Egypt. The last of hunger brings his family, the sheaves which he beheld in his vision, the sun and moon and stars of his dreams, prostrate to his feet. They come to Egypt, the whole Jacob family, in fear and misgiving of the rejected and wronged brother, who grips their lives in his hands. Then the dreamer speaks, "Be not grieved that ye have betrayed me, for it was God who sent me before you to save your lives, and to prepare a great deliverance."

His elders had interpreted the youthful dream as a dream of power and dominance whereas, in the soul of Joseph, the hero was the representative of divine love, and the purpose of the drama in which he played the leading role, was the deliverance of the brothers who hated him. Life brought them prostrate, not to the feet of the Viceroy of Egypt, but to Joseph the Deamer, whom, in their unreasoning hate, they had sold as a slave.

SUCH sublime vengeance, Israel, at last, hopes to take as the dreamer among the nations. Indeed, more than once, has the world found spiritual redemption and deliverance because Israel would not relinquish faith in its own destiny. Who knows what the fate of civilization had been had the Maccabees gracefully surrendered instead of proudly giving battle? The Judaism which they saved, this religion of certain obscure tribes in the mountains of Judea, made possible the rise of Christianity and the conversion of the pagan world. From the temple fires which they rekindled, Islam lighted its glowing torch, and awakening the genius of Arabia, brought the learning of the East to illuminate the darkness of mediaeval Europe.

That "Book of the Covenant" for which the Maccabees so stubbornly fought in defiance of the popular civilization of their day, became the genius of the Reformation that transformed the nature of European culture. Joseph, the dreamer, on several occasions, had the world prostrate at his feet, though the nations would not acknowledge their submission, and each time it was the Dreamer who gave new life and brought the great deliverance.

We refuse to deny our inherent youthfulness for the sake of our enemies. We are still certain that the time will come when "out of Zion the Law shall go forth." Like Professor Norton, in his recent article in Harper's, we feel that only Hebraic theism and Hebraic humanism can save the civilization of the West from disintegrating. We are confident that a Renaissance of Jewish culture in the land of our Fathers, if such Renaissance be permitted us, will help to interpret the East to the West, and the West to the East, so that those "twain shall meet" to the advancement of human civilization. No external force can suppress the youthful dreams wherein we play the heroic part in the drama of civilization, for we crave only the dreamers revenge—to bring life and deliverance to the brothers who now resent our dreams.—Dr. Jacob Kohn in California Jewish Review.

THE BOOK OF THE REVELATION

By Lyman Booth

WITH brief argument in proof of the Scriptures we close these remarks upon the several books of the Bible, not that all has been presented that might be given, for many volumes might be written with profit; but trusting that enough has been written to arouse within the mind of the reader an earnest desire to learn and obey the will of the Master. If I have succeeded in this I shall feel amply repaid for the effort and time employed in preparing the same. In this I feel that I have been greatly benefited, and I trust the reader will receive corresponding blessing, both here and hereafter.

The direct proof of the Scriptures is derived from a variety of sources and not from a few isolated texts alone, yet it all centers in the credibility of our Savior and of His apostles. He testified as to the credibility and authority of the Old Testament as the Word of God, and He also promised the Spirit to guide and inspire the apostles. Thus we see that the proof of the inspiration stands or falls with the authority of Christ.

The Scriptures of the Old Testament are pervaded by the most frequent claims of divine authority. The law given by Moses was to be kept beside the ark of the Covenant (Deut. 31), within the Holy of Holies; it was to be read before all the people every seven years; it was to be copied by the kings of Israel (Deut. 17:18). Subsequent writings were added to it; individual writers testify that they had a divine command to write, for instance, Moses in Exodus 34:27; Deut. 31:19, Isaiah (1:2; 8:1), Jeremiah (1:2; 36:2). And Daniel says that "the spirit of the Lord spake by me, and his word was in my tongue."

But the crowning proof is from the testimony of Christ and His apostles. They refer to these writings and to these alone, as having divine origin and authority. They call them the Scripture, and apply this term to these in this sense and to no other writings. While the apostles testify to the inspired authority of the Old Testament writings, they also claim that their own writings are the Word of God and are to be received as having divine authority. See 1 Thessalonians 2:13; 2 Corinthians 5:20; 13:3; Ephesians 3:3-5. The apostles agree in this with the prophets (Eph. 2:20).

The claim the apostles make throughout the epistles to the Galatians and the Hebrews is that the new is higher than the old. Whereas Moses was a servant, Christ is a Son. Though they testify to the inspiration of the Old Testament, they also claim for themselves a new, a higher, and a final revelation. The evidence for the inspiration of the New Testament extends back to the testimony and authority of the Savior. He declares of His own works that they shall not pass away (Luke 21:33); that the word that He speaks shall judge men at the last day (John 12:48). In His last intercessory prayer He pleads that He has given to His disciples the words which His Father gave Him (John 17:8).

Four times, at least, He gave a special promise and pledge to His apostles that in all they said as apostles, the Spirit should guide them into the truth. The first occasion was when He sent forth the twelve (Matt. 10:19, 20), saying, "It is not ye that speak, but the Spirit of your Father that speaketh in you." The second is narrated in Luke (12:11, 12), "Take ye no thought, for the Holy Ghost (Spirit) shall teach you in the same hour what ye ought to say." The third is in the week of His passion (Mark 13:11; Luke 21:14, 15). The fourth is preserved in the Gospel of John as the crowning promise in His parting lesson. In it His disciples were to receive the Comforter, the Spirit of Truth (John 14:16, 17), which was to teach them all things and bring all things to their remembrance whatsoever Christ had said unto them (John 14:25, 26); to guide them into all truth, and to show them things to come (John 16:12, 13). These were His promises, and they were perfectly fulfilled on the day of Pentecost (Acts 2:4; 4:31) on which glorious occasion the disciples received wisdom, power, and boldness that none could dispute or resist. Those promises include their writings as well as their spoken words.

Paul begins each of his epistles, with the exception of that to the Hebrews, with a claim to divine authority and commission which never failed him. As if under divine influence he proclaims the oracles of God. To the Corinthians he said (1 Cor. 2:11, 12) that he had received the very Spirit of God, "who alone knoweth the things of God;" and his words were given in demonstration of the Spirit (1 Cor. 2:4; 2 Cor. 2:17). His was a revelation of the mystery not made known in other ages (Eph. 3:5; Gal. 1:12). The words he delivered to the Thessalonians (1 Thess. 2:13) were in truth the words of God; even His words were those which the Holy Spirit teacheth (1 Cor. 2:13). It has been asserted that Paul disclaimed inspiration on two occasions. Granting that he did, he later, by inference, makes the claim when he said (1 Cor. 7:40), "I think also that I have the Spirit of God." When he says (1 Cor. 7:12), "I speak and not the Lord," and that he has no commandment (v. 25), he is not distinguishing between what is inspired and that which is not, but was teaching the difference between a direct command or his personal advice.

Peter also considers Paul's writings as Scripture (2 Peter 3:15, 16) and claims like authority for himself (1 Peter 1:12). He preaches the word which endureth forever (1 Peter 1:25; 4:11); he places his writings on the same ground as the Old Testament (2 Peter 3:2). Then by comparison we find the authority of Mark and Luke to be the same as that of Paul and Peter. But last of all we find the Apocalypse to be an immediate divine revelation.

In the light of such evidence we are left with only the choice between inspiration and imposture. While these few citations give us the bare outline of the proof, we can learn the full evidence by reading the Scriptures themselves, and by learning the majesty and authority with which the prophets and apostles speak of those subjects upon which the wisest men have so little knowledge. Their discourse assumes an air of conscious truth; they speak as by divine impulse and in the name of Him from whom there is no appeal. He is the Judge, and their authority is from Him.

The spirit of Christ is the spirit of prophecy, and likewise His spirit is the spirit of the apostles. And thus we see the whole structure of evidence rests upon the authority of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ Himself being the chief Cornerstone. The argument for the inspiration of both the Old and New Testament Scriptures extends back to and centers in Christ, who is the Way, the Truth, and the Life. Therefore the final testimony to inspiration is divine and not human, at the same time recognizing the relative integrity of both the divine and human elements.

The books written under such inspiration for our instruction contain all that is needful for the salvation of all mankind. Solomon gives us the maxims of worldly wisdom, and John discourses of the heavenly Jerusalem, the new heaven and the new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness. Then he closes the book with those words which are the summary of all the prayers that the believer is called upon to offer. It is a prayer for the overthrow of sin, for the extinction of sorrow, the cessation of pain, the wiping away of all tears, the victory over death and best of all for the gift of immortality.

Let this prayer never die on our lips while we live: "Even so, come, Lord Jesus, come quickly."

THE END

"SIN has many tools, but a lie is the handle which fits them all."

GOD'S ESTIMATION OF THE MEEK

By Samuel E. Haney

"But the meek shall inherit the earth, and shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace. The wicked plotteth ('practiseth', margin) against the just, and gnasheth upon him with his teeth. The Lord shall laugh at him; for he seeth that his day is coming".

THE import of these verses is much clarified by a more modern phraseological rendering, namely, "The land will be left to the humble, to enjoy plenteous prosperity. The godless man makes plots against the good, gnashing his teeth at them. But the Eternal laughs at him, knowing his doom is near."—Moffatt.

Meekness to the unregenerate man is disdainful, pusillanimous; the antithesis of what he considers essential to civil and self-preservation. He is actuated and dominated by the spirit of this world, which is satanic. And this spirit is manifested in all his life—business, political, social, and even in his religious activities. He is, by his fallen nature, a belligerent—a lover of power, knowing nothing of the power of love. He is unconscious of the fact that the course he is pursuing precludes him from his Creator's plan of salvation, thereby excluding himself from God's kingdom which is soon to supersede these present crumbling kingdoms. He is also forfeiting the everlasting benefit, proffered to all, from Christ's vicarious death.

Now we shall see, first-handed, what God has to say about the power, necessity, and resultant effect of meekness; and ascertain what it means to be void of this counterpart of divine nature which is as influential and glorious as is the power of love. In the event of civil or international wars such trained men are selected as belligerent leaders who possess the greatest natural combative propensities, which is entirely dissimilar to God's method of procedure.

Perhaps the greatest proposition that has ever confronted God is the redemption of man from the death-blight of sin. The Leader God selected for this colossal work expressed His qualification thus, "I am meek and lowly in heart". "Gentle and humble in heart".—Moffatt, Matt. 11:29. It was on account of His meekness that the Jews, His natural kinsmen, rejected Him; "received him not". John 1:11. And this great Leader explains in John 8:44, the reason of their rejection of Him, which is still in vogue with both the Jews and Gentiles who refuse to accept and obey the Lamb of God, the only way and source of safety and life.

It is recorded that when God needed a strong man to lead a few million Israelites out of Egyptian bondage He selected one whose qualification and personality typified those of the future Ransomer of fallen man, to wit, "Now the man Moses was very meek, above all the men which were upon the face of the earth."

Paul and Peter remind us of the grace and power of meekness, "Now I Paul myself beseech you by the meekness and gentleness of Christ, who in presence am base among you, but being absent am bold toward you".—2 Cor. 10:1.

Reader, are you aware of the fact that it is only by a meek and humble spirit that one can become interested in the gospel—"good tidings of great joy"? Moreover, it is only such who can derive the blessings appropriated on Calvary, and who will ultimately be the recipients of everlasting life and continuous joy and peace. The Word answers in the affirmative: "The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me; because the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek: he hath sent me to bind up the broken-hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound; to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord, and the day of vengeance of our God; to comfort all that mourn".—Isa. 61:1, 2.

This commission given our Redeemer is purely specific, opposed to generic. It entirely ignores the arrogant and haughty spirit. "The meek will he guide in judgment, and the meek will he teach his way".—Psa. 25:9.

"Thou didst cause judgment to be heard from heaven, the earth feared and was still, when God arose to judgment to save all the meek of the earth". Note Moffatt's version: "The earth was hushed in terror when thy sentence fell from heaven, when God arose to act on earth in aid of the afflicted".—Psa. 76:8, 9. Note the congruity of this text with Acts 14:22; Rev. 2:2, 3.

Thank God, there shall be no avaricious commercial "lions" nor "ravenous beasts" in God kingdom to prey upon and to torment the redeemed of the Lord; "none—no one, though he be classified a Christian—to hurt nor destroy", in any manner. Read again Isa. 35:9; 11:9; 65:25.

Were our present day unregenerate commercial "lions", and "beasts", and "scoffers" ("mockers", Moffatt) admitted into God's kingdom they would make mockery of, the praising to God by a multitude of heavenly host, saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men".—Luke 2:13, 14. Instead of peace and good will they would continue "toward all men" the present turmoil caused by their predatory and malignant spirit; invalidating much that Christ accomplished on Calvary. Read again Matthew 18:2, 3; John 3:3-5.

God's estimation of the meek: "The Lord lifteth up the meek: he casteth the wicked down to the ground".—Psalm 147:6. "For the Lord taketh pleasure in his people: he will beautify the meek with salvation".—Psalm 149:4.

The meek's happy lot now, and their heritage: "The meek also shall increase their joy in the Lord, and the poor among men, shall rejoice in the Holy One of Israel".—Isa. 29:13. "Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth".—Jesus.

Paul's estimation of the meek: "With all lowliness and meekness, with longsuffering, forbearing one another in love".—Eph. 4:2. "Put on therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, meekness, longsuffering".—Col. 3:12.

James says, "Who is a wise man and endued with knowledge among you? let him shew out of a good conversation his works with meekness of wisdom".—3:13.

"Why, look at your own ranks, my brothers", says Paul, "not many wise men (that is, judged by human standard), not many leading men, not many of good birth, have been called! No, God has chosen what is foolish in the world to shame the wise; God has chosen what is weak in the world to shame the strong; God has chosen what is mean and despised in the world—things which are not, to put down things that are".—1 Cor. 1:26-28, Moffatt.

Thus we have a citation of the superiority of meekness (what the world classifies weak, mean, and despised) over man's ego-braggadocio. Meekness, to this world, is as useless as a scarecrow in a cemetery. But, to the Christian, with its proper sequence, it is his most potent armor and his shortest and safest route into God's kingdom; for the meek and lowly-hearted are the only ones who are susceptible to the Holy Spirit; they will be the only ones who, with ecstatic joy, will hear "a shout, with the voice of the archangel", at the return of our Lord.

Thus equipped, the Christian should have nothing to fear, neither in life nor in death.

ALL THE YEAR LONG

---

All the year long have my steps been attended
 Surely by One who regarded my ways;
 Tenderly watched over, sweetly befriended,
 Blessings have followed my nights and my days.
 Tears have been quenched in the sunshine of gladness,
 Anthems of sorrow been turned into song;
 Angels have guarded the gateways of sadness,
 Summer and winter—yea, all the year long!

All in the dark would I be, and uncertain
 Whither to go, but for One at my side,
 Who from the future removes the dim curtain,
 Seeing the glory to mortals denied.
 No other friend could so patiently lead me,
 No other friend prove so faithful and strong;
 With angel's food He has promised to feed me,
 Who has befriended me all the year long.

He will not weary—Oh, blessed assurance!
 Infinite love will the finite outlast!
 But for my heavenly Father's endurance,
 Into the depths of despair I were cast.
 This is my star in a midnight of sorrow,
 This is my refuge, my strength, and my song,
 Sorrow today, but there's gladness tomorrow,
 And Jesus to be with me all my life long.
 —Adapted.

---

“It is not until we have passed through the furnace that we are made to know how much dross there is in our composition.”—Colton.

---

OUR DESIRE TO BE FOOLED

---

ASSERTING that “people want to be fooled” and that for eleven years he had done just that, Nino Pecararo, “mystic” whom the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle admitted won him over to spiritualism, tonight declared his seances were “all a fake.”

“I’ve never seen a ghost and don’t believe anyone else ever has,” he said. “I’m sick and tired of giving seances and having spiritualism reap the profit. When ghosts appear at my seances they are Nino Pecararo in the flesh.”

To prove his point he allowed himself to be securely bound, then freed himself and wrote two messages. One was “from Doyle” and the other “from Houdini.” The handwriting compared favorably with authentic originals of the famous men.

Pecararo has made his living by giving more than 2,000 seances in 11 years. He said he would devote himself hereafter to printing and writing them, perhaps, a turn at vaudeville.—Selected by Jas. A. Patrick from “The Morning Republican,” Findlay, Ohio.

THE LABORERS IN THE VINEYARD

---

By Lyman Booth

---

IN THE LORD'S vineyard there is plenty of room and much work to be done. No one engaged therein can claim any dignity of position above another, or any length of service that can in any way exempt him from performing his duty. Neither are any so feeble that they can do nothing for the Master. The duty of everyone is to perform cheerfully the task to which he is assigned.

This parable (Matt. 20:1-16) occupies a close position to the last five verses of the preceding chapter, and can be more readily understood when considered therewith. It is calculated to correct a wrong temper and spirit of mind, against which all should take warning. The warning was primarily given to the twelve apostles, because they were foremost in the Christian church, the earliest to be called to labor in the Lord's vineyard, first in two ways, first in point of time, and also in the hardship and suffering they were to endure for the truth's sake.

They had received an object lesson when the rich young man turned away, unable to abide the proof by which the Lord showed how firmly he was clinging to the world and the pleasure of life which his wealth afforded. As in other instances, so in this, Peter was the spokesman, and they who had left all and followed Him would gladly know what their reward would be. Jesus assured them that they and as many as should forsake all earthly things and follow Him, should reap abundant reward.

Peter's question was placing their relation to their Lord upon a wrong basis. There was a tendency in it to place a value upon obedience, of so much reward for so much service. It was leading to a comparison between themselves and the young man who found the requirements too great for him.

The method of the householder who went early in the morning to hire laborers is similar to the manner of God's dealings with those whom He calls to work in His church. The reward is not based upon the length of time, but upon the manifested willingness to labor and the desire to please the Master.

The laborers were thankful for the privilege of working in the vineyard; likewise the Christian should be thankful for the privilege of working in the church. The less value we place upon what we do for God, if done with a loyal spirit, the greater its value will be in His sight. Therefore we should think less of what we do and suffer for His cause than on what He has done, and is doing for us, since we have nothing but what we have received from Him, and in and of ourselves we are unprofitable servants.

---

“To live on, even when life seems all failure and the comfort of life is gone, to count patient living the real thing, with or without comfort—that is to be truly brave.”

“FAITH WITHOUT WORKS IS DEAD”

By Cecil Smead

HIDDEN away in the heart of the watch in your pocket is the mainspring, the force that drives the watch. It is encased in brass and covered by a metal plate, where you cannot see it at all, as you will notice if you open the back of the case. Yet, though it is unseen to you, it is there, the very life of the watch, the force that drives its mechanism tick after tick, second after second, hour after hour, and day after day as long as you keep it wound. Because that little spring is alive you are able to tell what time of day it is from the position of the hands.

I once had the pleasure of observing the steps in the construction of a watch at the factory of a well known company. I remember seeing the mainspring as it lay without life or power on a table, simply a strip of polished steel about two feet in length. I remember seeing it coiled and made ready for the watch, and I remember seeing the finished watch, all in readiness, yet still and powerless as it reposed on the table before the man who was to regulate its little beats.

All along it had been inert and lifeless. But now the man took it up and, turning the key, wound up the spring. Immediately power flowed forth from the mainspring through the little wheels and the hairspring, and the result was that the hands moved to indicate the passage of time. The desired result was accomplished. The little spring, hidden away in the heart of the watch, was doing its work. It was alive. That life was shown by the result which it caused.

It took the mainspring that was wound up to make the watch go. It takes the faith that is wound up to move the Christian to action. “Faith without works is dead.” Faith must be expressed by works. As is the mainspring of the watch, it is hidden away in the heart unseen. We know it is there only because of the works. If there are no works then the faith is dead.

It may take a long process before God finally completes the planting of faith in the human heart and turns the key to wind it. But once it is set going, it must of necessity result in action. You cannot have a living faith without works. No more can you have works without a cause, and true works will spring from a true cause—a living faith.

But faith, like the mainspring of the watch, must receive attention every day. The watch must be wound every day—preferably in the morning in order to resist the knocks of the day more readily. Faith must be renewed day by day. The hand of God must turn the key to wind faith. But the Christian must go to that hand and allow the key to be applied. That key is the Word of God, the Bible. God uses it to wind faith, the mainspring of Christian activity.

Christian, when the mainspring of your faith is run down, go to the Word and let God wind it up. Apply the Word to yourself. See the hope of your calling, and then plunge in with renewed determination to serve God. Do it daily, and thus keep in shape for the hard knocks of the day. It pleases every owner of a watch to see it keep correct time. So it pleases God to see you perform correct works, and He will praise you. Apply the Scriptures, like a key, daily, and keep your faith, not dead, but living.

“LOVE as used in the Scriptures is the desire to serve others to the extent of forgetting self.”—From a sermon by H. A. Sheets.

THE SPIES

By Norman John McLeod

GOD’S plan with man in this age is to find leaders who are worthy to bear His name. To obtain the right kind He therefore places them in conditions which will test them; for it is only through trials that character is developed. Adam and Eve were so tested; so was Abram when God asked him to offer up Isaac; David was tried by exile; and, as it says in Hebrews, “For it became him, for whom are all things, and by whom are all things, in bringing many sons unto glory, to make the captain of their salvation perfect through suffering.”

Israel had wandered for some time in the wilderness after they had left Egypt. God had shown them many of His wonders. The plagues in Egypt; the march through the Red Sea on dry ground; and such manifestations as the pillar of fire by night and the pillar of cloud by day were among God’s signs to Israel. Israel is now on the border of the promised land. During the period in the desert they had made a covenant with God, and God was now going to test them to see if they were worthy of the promises of that covenant.

God knew what sort of a land Canaan was; He knew that He could bring the children of Israel into the land, if He wished. He had told Moses, before the beginning of the exodus that He was going to take Israel into a land “flowing with milk and honey.” How, then, can we explain God’s command to Moses to send spies into Canaan if God did not wish to test Israel? “And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Send thou men, that they may search the land of Canaan, which I gave unto the children of Israel.”—Num. 13:1, 2. Spies, one out of each tribe, must go over to see the land.

God knows what He has in store for man, and that He can bring all to pass, if He will. All is possible with God. But he has seen fit to try us in various ways before we enter in. He has shown us by His prophets what is to come in the world. And at last He sent His Son to give a definite

Continued on back page

A WORD ALONE

FIVE minutes of private, personal entreaty will often accomplish more in winning souls to Christ than five months of public preaching. Close action is effective. A pistol at a man's breast is more dangerous to him than a hundred cannon thundering at him two miles away. The preaching may mean anyone, or no one in the crowd; but when you talk to me you mean me. David might have listened calmly to long exhortations and pious counsels without number, but Nathan's, "Thou art the man!" cut him to the heart, and brought him to his knees.

Preaching often runs all around men and all over them, like a bucket of water sprinkled over a pile of corked bottles. Personal effort uncorks the bottles one by one, puts in a funnel, and pours them full of water.

"But I do not know how to talk to people personally about Christ and salvation." Then learn! Confessed ignorance is a good preparation for learning. How will a man know anything unless he is taught? You can talk to people about rain, sunshine, crops, weather, fashions, fires, and news of the day. "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." Why not read God's Word, pray for His Spirit, and pour out that when it burns within?

Study your own heart. Know yourself, and you will know others. Talk to others as you used to wish some Christian would come and talk to you. Seek God's direction. Speak when He gives the word, and wait and pray till it comes. Do not talk when you have nothing to say, nor bore people with godless exhortations and dry disputes.

"Yes, but it is such a cross!" Ah, you do know how to do it, but are not willing to try. You shun the cross; it is too heavy. Well, the rod is heavier still, and the rod may yet make you love the cross. You must learn to bear the cross, if you would be Christ's disciple. A word spoken for Jesus may cost you a momentary struggle, but it may also win a soul to God, and open to you a well-spring of eternal joy. Try it!—Selected.

THE BOOK OF BOOKS

Study it carefully, think of it prayerfully,
Deep in thy heart let its pure precepts dwell;
Slight not its history, ponder its mystery;
None can e'er praise it too highly or well.

Accept the glad tidings, the warnings and chidings
Found in the volume of heavenly love;
With faith that's unailing and love all prevailing
Trust in its promise of life evermore.

May its message of love from the Father above
To all nations and kindreds be sent,
Till the ransomed shall raise glorious anthems of praise,
Hallelujah, when sinners repent.

—Selected by Lyman Booth.

THE ROYAL PRIESTHOOD

Continued from page 211

From the foregoing it is plainly discernible that there will be an election of God from the multitudes called out by the gospel, who will share with Jesus Christ in all the dignities of royalty and priesthood. Who can portray the honor and glory that God will bestow upon the redeemed election church of our Lord Jesus Christ? These shall walk with the Lord in the stainless dazzling robes of white, on the streets of gold in the heavenly Jerusalem.

As the dear Lord Himself is the bright and morning Star, so He promises to give His chosen ones the morning star splendors—make them like Himself in transcendent resplendency. To these, and not to the angels, the world to come will be subjected. These shall have power over the nations in ages yet to be. These sons and daughters of the Lord Almighty are now hidden and unknown. As God hath chosen the "poor of this world, rich in faith, and heirs of the kingdom," they are more likely to be found in the huts of poverty than in the mansions of the rich and noble. Hidden though they now may be, yet when made like the Son of God, they shall be manifested before the universe as the very elite of earth and skies. These are the Christ-like ones, who have been trained for the royal priesthood through a course of earthly discipline, under the guidance and fashioning of heavenly love.—Selected by R. A. Curtis from The Last Days.

AUTHORITY

(Continued from front page)

structs him concerning the means by which purity of the gospel may be maintained in the future, and the great work of world-evangelization carried forward. "The things which thou hast heard of me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also."—2 Tim. 2:2.

The instructions of Paul and of the other apostles and of the Lord Jesus Christ, have been recorded for succeeding generations in the Bible. From this Book of divine origin we are able to secure all the information needed to transmit to the world the "truth that saves."

Not only that, but the authority to carry on is incorporated with the message itself. God speaks to us as directly in the Bible as He spoke to the prophets and apostles in the past by the Holy Spirit. It is no less the voice of God because it reaches our understanding through the printed page than it would be if we heard Him say orally, "Thus saith the Lord God." For "all scripture is given by inspiration of God, . . . that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."—2 Tim. 3:16, 17. We are thus fully instructed and fully empowered to speak with emphatic assurance in the name of the eternal Author of our salvation.

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 124 N. Parkside Ave., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois

For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"IF THOU CANST BELIEVE, ALL THINGS ARE POSSIBLE TO HIM THAT BELIEVETH."—MARK 9:23.

ARE YOU A SPARKLING STONE?

A WEALTHY king requested a mason to build a magnificent palace, and he made certain specifications which must be strictly adhered to: it must be perfect in structure, completely harmonious in every detail, and without flaw or blemish. He, himself, had chosen a perfect cornerstone as a model and pattern. All other stones in the building must match it as nearly as possible in quality and beauty.

As you study a collection of beautiful stones there seems to be something fascinating about them. Perhaps it is their radiant sparkle and glow, the peculiar way in which they are shaped and formed, or the blending of the various colors.

God is now picking beautiful stones, as it were, to place in His "holy temple" or "household of faith", having placed His only Son, Jesus Christ, as the chief Cornerstone. "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God?" How about you? Are you a sparkling stone? Are you patterning after the model? Why not chisel off the defects with determination, will power, perseverance, and pluck, polish ourselves with kindness, love, service, and faith in God and His work, never allowing selfishness, greed, and worldly lusts to scratch or mar our beauty?

If we have accepted God's plan of salvation, let us do our work WELL. Who admires a half-hearted worker? There is a place for every stone to fit in that has developed the talent or talents God has bestowed upon him in His service.

Our Father has given us a Book to guide and instruct us. Do we study the words of wisdom written there that we might know how He would have us live? Bereans, let's do our part by having a live, wide-awake class that is growing every week! It will help you to be a sparkling stone.

"If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are"

Louise Brewer.

BRUSH CREEK, OHIO

THE Brush Creek Bereans haven't sent in a report lately, but it isn't because we haven't been working. In fact, we have been so busy working that we haven't had time to send one in. The adult class has grown until they have an attendance of 20 or 25, the young people's class an average of 16, and the primary class about 8. We hope to develop the young people's and primary classes especially, and perhaps in the near future add an intermediate class. The interest has been exceptionally good, and we feel greatly encouraged to have such a large class after having made several unsuccessful attempts previously toward this goal.

The attendance was brought down somewhat by several of the members having scarlet fever, but nearly all are well again and ready to help the Berean class grow.

We have a large work before us and we pray God will give us strength and wisdom to realize at least partially our high aspirations. May the Bereans everywhere prosper and grow in the grace and knowledge of God and His Word.

Louise Brewer, Sec. pro. tem.

"Consider the work of God: for who can make that straight, which he hath made crooked?"—Eccl. 7:13.

OFTEN God seems to place His children in positions of profound difficulty, leading them into a wedge from which there is no escape; contriving a situation which no human judgment would have permitted, had it been previously consulted. The very cloud conducts them thither. You may be thus involved at this very hour.

It does seem perplexing and very serious to the last degree, but it is perfectly right. The issue will more than justify Him who brought you hither. It is a platform for the display of His almighty grace and power.

He will not only deliver you; but in doing so He will give you a lesson that you will never forget, and to which, in many a psalm and song, in after days, you will revert. You will never be able to thank God enough for having done just as He has.—Selected.

RIPLEY BEREAN ELECTION

THE senior Berean class held its annual election of officers on Sunday, December 27, 1931. Officers elected are as follows: president, Gerald Cooper; vice president, Helen Lewis; secretary-treasurer, Ednah Cooper.

Florence L. Howell, Sec.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

“Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.”

JESUS AND NICODEMUS

NICODEMUS was a Pharisee and a ruler of the Jews. He had heard about all the wonderful things Jesus had been doing and preaching. His interest had been attracted, and he wanted to understand more thoroughly. So, instead of taking the opinion of someone else he came directly to Jesus.

Why Nicodemus came to Jesus by night we can but conjecture. He might have thought Jesus would be away from the crowd and they could talk without interruption or curious gossips might misinterpret his visit. But that he came is the important thing.

How respectfully this great man speaks to the young man who had just begun His life work—“Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come from God: for no man can do these miracles that thou doest, except God be with him.”

Jesus looked into the face of this man and saw exactly what he needed more than anything else. Nicodemus was a good, thoughtful, educated man, and loved virtue. But he had not accepted Jesus as his Savior.

Then Jesus answered, “Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God.”

Nicodemus could not understand how a person could be born again. He asked how a man could become a baby and be born again. But that was not what Jesus meant. He made this reply, “Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God.” He repeated His first statement in another form.

He also likened those who are born of the Spirit to the blowing of the wind.

Yet, Nicodemus did not understand. He said, “How can these things be?”

Jesus asked, “Art thou a master of Israel, and knowest not these things? But how can you understand these heavenly things,” He continued, “when you cannot even understand these earthly things? No man hath ascended up to heaven, but he that came down from heaven, even the Son of man which is in heaven.”

Then Jesus said of himself that He must be lifted up on the cross, as Moses had lifted the serpent in the wilderness. The people had been bitten by serpents, and all lived who looked upon this brazen one made by Moses. Just so would all have eternal life who believe in Jesus.

“For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.”

Now, what did Jesus mean when He told Nicodemus he must be born again? Why, that he must be baptized into Jesus and walk in a new Christian life. This new life is like being born over—starting all over again. Born of the Spirit will come at resurrection when we shall be spiritual beings as Jesus was after His resurrection.

Like Nicodemus, we cannot understand now so many things. But the important thing for us is not to neglect baptism. Do not put off being baptized into Jesus until it is too late.

HAVE YOU taken this step of baptism toward your salvation?

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Copy and explain five of these essential truths—verses 2, 3, 5, 8, 13, 15, 16.
2. Read Numbers 21:5-9.
3. Learn verses 5, 13, 16.
4. Find and learn all you can about baptism.

WE BELIEVE that the kingdom of God will be established in the earth when Jesus Christ returns, that He will be King over all the earth in that day, and that His throne will be the old throne of David in Jerusalem: “For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: and the government shall be upon his shoulder. . . . Of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end, upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom, to order it, and to establish it with judgment and with justice from henceforth even for ever.”—Isaiah 9:6, 7.

BIBLE ADVICE

“Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way that leadeth to destruction and many there be which go therein: because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it.”—Matt. 7:13, 14.

Are you keeping these different things we believe, and different thoughts in a notebook? Please do.

DAILY-WEEKLY BIBLE READING

January 15 to 21—Genesis 33 to 48 and Matthew 15 to 21.

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 3. — January 17, 1932

JESUS AND NICODEMUS

John 3:1-21

Devotional Reading: 1 John 5:1-5

GOLDEN TEXT

God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.—John 3:16.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: The New Birth.

Basic Truth: "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God."—John 3:3.

Outline: I. Necessity for the New Birth. II. Nature of the New Birth. III. Results of the New Birth.

I. Necessity for the New Birth. "All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way."—Isa. 53:6. The entire race is steeped in iniquity; "for all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God."—Rom. 3:23. It is utterly impossible for man to redeem himself or to save others. "None . . . can by any means redeem his brother, nor give to God a ransom for him."—Psa. 49:7. No matter how righteous one may become, no matter how righteous he may continue to be, there are always hanging over him the sins of the past. He cannot rid himself of his transgressions of the past. By his very nature he is a sinful (sin-filled) creature. Like David he was "shapen in iniquity." Psa. 51:5. Sin is a part of his very being, and its eradication lies beyond his own power.

II. Nature of the New Birth. The entire nature of the sinner must be changed. He must be made a "new creature," or according to the literal rendering of the original, he must become a "new creation." Gal. 6:15, Diag. No act of his own can accomplish this miracle. It can be done only by the transforming power of the gospel. What was true of our Lord's ministry in the past is true today. "As many as received him, to them gave he power (right) to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name: which were born (begotten), not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God."—John 1:12, 13.

III. Results of the New Birth. When an individual is begotten by the Word of Truth, and in conformity with its requirement is baptized into Christ, his entire relation to God and man undergoes a transformation, a reversal. He loses his former identity with things of the world. He dies to sin and is raised unto righteousness. Rom. 6:1-18. Regardless of his former station in life he is now united with the Son of God, an heir of God, and a joint heir with Christ. Rom. 8:14-17.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

One of the first things that a seeker of salvation must believe is that Jesus is a Teacher come from God. We are His pupils. He teaches us those things which are essential to salvation. If we are going to be recipients of the "gift of God", we must obey the Teacher in all things. We must have implicit confidence in Our Teacher; His teachings; His methods.

YE MUST:

God has done a great deal for us. There are certain things which we must do for Him. In His teachings to Nicodemus, Christ said: "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God". The water birth precedes the Spirit birth. The latter is conditioned on the former. The obedient pupil will always be ready to yield to the "ye must", realizing that there would be no requirements imposed that were unnecessary.

MARVEL NOT:

Again the words of Jesus to the inquiring ruler command attention. True children should never wonder, marvel, or question the injunctions or promises made by God or Christ. Where we cannot understand or see the reason for a command or perceive the possibility or glory of a promise, faith should be there to conquer the questioning mind, believing that what He has said He will make good. It is well to question, "Why?" "How?" or "When?" but such questioning should never leave a doubt as to possibility.

LOOK UP:

The latter part of our lesson is based on Israelitish history. The only way the children of Israel could be healed of the serpent bite was to look at the brazen serpent. The only way sinners can be cleansed from sin and healed of the wounds inflicted by iniquity is to look on the Son of God. There is healing for every one, but that healing comes through obedience to Divine commands—C. E. R.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

"For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."—John 3:16.

This text is the Golden Text of the Bible. I presume it is quoted more times than any other verse in the Bible, but it means more than most people comprehend. I fear there are all too few who realize to the fullest extent that "while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us."

The love that the Father has shown toward mankind has done more for His people than any other one thing. Love was the reason for Christ's giving His life, that we might have eternal life. Love, it is, that draws humanity to the Father and to His dear Son.

"Whosoever believeth" takes in all those who care to make the Savior their own. Whosoever will may come and receive the blessings that are poured out through God's great love.—L. A. R.

INTERMEDIATE CLASS

Topic: Beginnings of the Christian Life.

When one begins a new life, many changes must necessarily be made. Upon entrance into high school there are many new things which come into one's life, and the changes are even greater when one enters college. There should be just as noticeable change or even more when one begins the Christian life.

What are the first steps that lead into a life of Christian service? Give verses to prove your answer. What did Jesus tell Nicodemus was necessary if he would receive the reward promised the faithful? What does "born of water" mean? Do you see that baptism is like death, burial, and resurrection—beginning a new life? Walking in that new way is being "born of the Spirit". We follow Christ's way thenceforth instead of our own way. Point out in class the differences there are between following our own desires and doing Christ's bidding.

We shall be fully "born of the spirit" when at last the reward is ours, when we have attained unto perfection, when on the morning of the resurrection at the coming of the Savior, we shall receive glorified bodies like to His own. May we all strive to complete that Christian life which we are just beginning.

—M. G.

PRIMARY CLASS

Topic: Jesus, Our Teacher.

Memory Verse: John 3:16.

Use the picture, "Jesus and Nicodemus", by Muller.

Recall to the children how the first disciples taught others, and relate the conversions mentioned in John 2:23. Nicodemus, being one of the rulers, had probably seen Jesus do some of these miracles. He wanted to learn more about the things Jesus said and did. Get the children to tell how they learn more about drawing, or singing, or playing. (Someone who knows how to do those things must teach them.) Because Nicodemus thought Jesus was a great Teacher that God had sent, he went to Jesus to ask questions. Some of the answers Jesus gave Nicodemus could not understand. So Jesus tried to make it plainer.

He said, "If you wish to do wrong, you will not try to learn about my ways. You know that I will say you are doing wrong. And you know that I do not like that."

Then Jesus said, "If you truly want to do right, you will try to learn what I have to tell you." If you want to please mother, you ask her what she wants, do you not? Now, how shall we learn what Jesus wants? Do you really want to do His way? Is He a kind teacher?—G. M. M.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

BRO. SIPLE AT WCMA

Next Sunday morning, from six-thirty to seven-thirty, Bro. F. E. Siple, pastor at Grand Rapids, will broadcast from WCMA, Culver, Ind. Bro. Siple is well known among all of our church people, and many will be glad of this opportunity of again hearing the gospel message delivered by him.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICHIGAN

The Christmas program, which was presented at the church on Tuesday night, Dec. 22nd, was repeated on the following Monday night at the Godwin school auditorium. This was done because our little building had been unable to accommodate hundreds who came to the program the first time.

The second performance was given to an appreciative audience of between three and four hundred people, and was much enjoyed by all.

Miss Lois Blakely came home from northern Michigan to spend the Christmas holidays with her mother, Sr. Nellie Blakely.

Miss Margaret Lyon and Mr. Richard Duval of Chicago were welcome guests at the Siple home for Christmas and the week end.

And now, with a combination Berean, social and prayer service on New Year's eve, we lay to rest the old year and look with bright hopes to the opportunities and responsibilities of 1932.

The Grand Rapids church extends to all the brethren best wishes and prayers for God's blessing during the New Year.

F. E. Siple, Pastor.

DIXON, ILLINOIS, ACTIVITIES

Preaching services, in the morning of December 20, were conducted by Bro. and Sr. LeCrone, in the absence of our pastor, Bro. Conner. Special Christmas music was given by the senior choir. The ladies' two-part chorus, "The Birthday of a King," was especially beautiful. Sr. LeCrone's sermon on the birth of Christ, was an inspiration to all. We enjoyed very much having the LeCrones with us and hope they will come again. In the evening at 7:30 the young folks of the Sunday school gave their Christmas program and, as usual, the birth of our King was told in song and story in a very impressive manner. The anthems by the junior choir were beautifully rendered, and they deserve a great deal of praise for their efforts.

Members of the sewing circle went to the home of Sr. Schrader to help her celebrate her birthday, December 31. It also happened to be Sr. Kelly's birthday, so it was a double celebration. About thirty members and friends enjoyed the delicious chicken dinner. Srs. Schrader and Kelly were each presented with a beautiful plant as a token of our love and esteem, and we wish for them a great many more happy birthdays.

Bro. Conner will conduct a series of meetings, beginning Sunday evening, January 10. We are looking forward to these meetings with pleasure, as Bro. Conner's sermons are always fine, and should be an inspiration to all who hear him. We hope to have a fine attendance each evening. Special music will be given. A cordial invitation is extended to all to come and enjoy these meetings with us. Dixon church is looking forward to a happy and busy year in the service of our Lord and Master,

Grace Drew, Sec.

CLEVELAND, OHIO

In the absence of Bro. Lyon during the Hammond, La., meetings, the pulpit at Cleveland is being filled on Dec. 27 by Bro. Patrick, on Jan. 3 by Bro. Alldridge, and on Jan. 10, by Bro. F. H. Gibson.

The annual Sunday school entertainment given on the night of Dec. 22 proved a huge success from every standpoint. The program was well carried out by each one taking part, and was enthusiastically received by the crowd, estimated at 275, which was hardly able to jam into the building.

EDEN VALLEY, MINNESOTA

The Sunday school and choir at Eden Valley gave a program on Christmas eve to a crowd of about one hundred seventy. The program consisted of song numbers, recitations, playlets, and a thirty-five minute play. The play, "The Shepherd of Bethlehem," was presented by the young people's class under the direction of their teacher, John Denchfield. Following the program a treat was given by the Sunday school to everyone present.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. One new class, a young married people's class, was organized in October and has an average attendance of eleven. We hope this class will prove a big help in our work.

Marjorie Ruhn and Ernest Hamilton of the junior class, the Live Wires, were presented Bibles by the Sunday school for four quarters' perfect attendance. Marjorie, Lorraine Brossard, and Elmo Gaspar were given certificates of promotion from the Live Wire class to the young people's class.

Our attendance and interest in both Sunday school and church are good. Our evening church services have been discontinued for the winter months. The Berean class of adults and young people meets every Wednesday evening at some home and have interesting discussions.

Brother Hiram Matheny of this church celebrated his eighty-fourth birthday Christmas day, and a number of the church brethren, relatives, and friends gathered at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Herman Ruhn, where he lives during the winter months, and surprised him on Saturday evening. After a friendly evening and lunch, the guests presented him with a purse of silver and departed wishing for him many more birthdays.

Vernice L. Ruhn, Sunday school Sec.

NOTES FROM PARK HILL CHURCH Gladbrook, Iowa

The senior Berean class is flourishing and gains increasing interest at every meeting. The older ones like to join in and learn something likewise.

Our Sunday school superintendent, Mrs. Lora Reinhard, recently took two of the students, Gayle Allard (primary teacher) and Walter Williams, to Tama City, to an older boys' and girls' conference, which they all enjoyed very much. They also profited by it, and gained much information and needful hints for their home work.

The weekly Bible study is held every Tuesday evening at Clark's Studio. The Bereans also meet there.

Hester V. Berry, Reporter.

HERALD HELPING FUND

Leota B. Hanson $5.00

LOS ANGELES NOTES

A junior section of the Berean society was formed recently and Bro. Murl Cripe, assisted by the pastor, was put in charge.

The young people's class of the Sunday school is holding monthly picnics and parties. The first was held in November at the pastor's home in Pomona, and the next was held on Dec. 13 at the home of Bro. and Sr. Stantial in Los Angeles. A waffle supper was the pastime of the evening.

Many of our members were ill on the first Sunday, among them Sr. Squires, Sr. Gertrude Martin, Sr. Crundwell, Elaine Cripe, and Bro. Murl Cripe. In spite of all the sickness we had a good crowd out for communion Sunday.

The church is planning a quarterly meeting to be held in the early part of the new year.

On Sunday, Dec. 20, was held the usual Christmas service. Sr. Leta McLeod, chairman of the committee, planned the program.

Norman John McLeod, Pastor.

MEETINGS AT HAMMOND, LA.

A series of meetings was begun on Dec. 27 at the Happy Woods Church near Hammond, La., and is now progressing with splendid interest. Attendance from the first day was above average, while the weather has been ideal, with supernormal temperatures making it seem more like May than December.

You will observe we said, "Happy Woods Church." There is a special reason for that, for it is a schoolhouse no longer. When the writer was ushered into it for the first service, he noted a marvelous transformation. All the familiar school desks, which used to suffice for seats, were gone, and in their place neat, comfortable seats. The whole interior was re-decorated, and, altogether, it presented a much improved appearance. The building has been abandoned as a schoolhouse, and the church now has sole use of it. The brethren are to be congratulated on this splendid improvement in their meeting place.

Meetings are to continue over Jan. 10. With favorable weather and freedom from epidemics, prospects are brighter than last year, and all are hoping for a very successful meeting.

M. W. Lyon.

AT RIPLEY, ILLINOIS

The church at Ripley will enjoy its usual monthly services on Saturday evening and Sunday, Jan. 9 and 10. Bro. C. E. Lapp will be the speaker and you will be assured of a message for your individual good.

CONTRIBUTORS TO DOLLAR-A-MONTH CLUB

Verna Himmelright; Mrs. C. H. Bassett; Mary E. Carter; Ida Vogel; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Williams; Mrs. Mae Mercer; Mrs. G. M. Siple; Mrs. Eva H. M. Fletcher; Mrs. Helen M. Chisholm; Mrs. Wm. Lansbery; Hanna M. Barber; Silas M. Claypool; C. E. Randall.

NEW YEAR OFFERINGS

Aunt Mary Renner	$ 3.00
Mrs. Elizabeth Morton	10.00
Mary A. Woodward	18.00
Sunday school at Maurertown, Va.	5.64
Fonthill, Ont., church	9.93
Frank C. Montross	25.00

Total to date $71.57

TRAINING CLASS NEWS

The second semester for students of the N. B. I. Training Class commences on January 25. Some new students are expected to enter on that date.

ARKANSAS CITY, KANSAS

Sunday school at this place is progressing nicely. We have three classes to begin the new year with—adult, junior, and primary, and have an attendance of 35. We still meet at ten o'clock at the A. J. Chaplin home, 702 N. B St., each Sunday morning.

Our school gave a very nice Christmas program on Tuesday evening before Christmas at the Lawrence Chaplin home. The home was nicely decorated in keeping with the commemoration of our Savior's birth. Across the west wall of the large living room and facing the audience was a long banner in large red letters, announcing the song of praise of the angels: "Glory to God in the highest, on earth peace, good will toward men." This, together with the lighted Christmas tree and the little gifts made quite an impressive setting. The program given by eighteen of the class, consisted of readings and Christmas carols. It was excellent, considering the short time the children had to prepare it. Much credit must be given to Mrs. Hains, who helped the children with their songs, and Mrs. Chaplin and Mrs. Southard, who trained the children in their readings.

It was to be regretted that Mrs. Southard contracted a case of flu and could not be present. However she was able to be out last Sunday and teach her class. Mrs. Vernon Chaplin was also absent, taking care of their young son, Charles Allen, who has the whooping cough. After the program a social hour was enjoyed by all present. There were apples, nuts, popcorn, and candy for all present, and a treat for each child to take home. There were forty present.

On Dec. 24 occurred the death of our aged sister, Eliza Raye Oliver, at Blackwell, Okla. Several from here attended her funeral. She and her daughter, Sr. Chambers, attended the last Sunday of our conference last August. She said at that time she would not have missed hearing those two good sermons by Bro. Magaw for anything, that they were worth the trip, and that she did not expect to get to another meeting.

Bro. George Waters of Newkirk, Okla., was called here last Monday afternoon to officiate at the funeral of Miss Florence Ratzill, who had been sick a year. Tuberculosis was the cause of her death. She was the fiancée of Bro. Clinton Fisk, who taught her the gospel. She wanted to be baptized, but she had grown so weak that her aunt with whom she had lived since a baby, thought it impossible. She rests in the hands of a just God. She requested Bro. Waters to officiate at her funeral. She was laid to rest in the Red Rock Cemetery near El Reno, Okla., beside her mother.

We have cause to rejoice and I am sure there are many who have been to Arkansas City to our meetings who will rejoice with us, for we are now the absolute owners of the property at 705 N. A St., and we hope that we can have a church home there in the near future. We have needed one for so long for our growing classes and for our conferences. Since the property is bought and paid for, I just wonder how many of our loved ones who meet from time to time here with us, will not praise God for His help and they, too, will feel like helping us to have one church building in the state of Kansas, that is a Church of God. We none of us have much of this world's goods, but if we have even a little, we can by a united effort make it work for God's glory and He will abundantly bless us.

L. A. C.

A VOTE OF THANKS

The matron and residents at Golden Rule Home wish to extend a vote of thanks to all who have so kindly remembered them with gifts and beautiful cards during the Christmas holidays. And most heartily do they thank all those who sang the Christmas carols so beautifully, not only at Golden Rule Home but at other places where the sick and shut ins were patiently waiting the return to health. This morning, January 2, 1932, at the breakfast table we asked the matron and all present if they would be willing during these trying days of depression to forego the pleasure of having our annual birthday cakes. It has seemed a real pleasure for the matrons to bring us these fine expressions of their love to us, but we feel that now we should cut all unnecessary expense. Our table is always furnished with an abundance of vegetables and good wholesome food and what more should we ask? We were so glad of the unanimous vote given.

And while I am on this peculiar strain of thought, may I ask all who have the little dime bags which I sent them, to return them to me immediately, as the treasurer wishes to know how much money she has to turn in to the church on its debt. If for any reason you were not able to fill them, just send them along, for you know the dime which was sent with each one will help make that next dollar. So please hurry them along.

I want to say to all who may be waiting for a letter from me, that I am home again and so glad of the hearty greeting I received, more glad, most glad to be here before the storms of winter break upon us—just a light snow on the ground here. All are well but Sr. Williamson, who is not quite up to her usual appetite.

Yours, waiting for Him,
M. A. Woodward.

HERALD RECEIPTS

Mrs. J. B. Gaspar; Mary F. Cook; Mrs. Thomas Pascoe (self and others); C. E. Randall (for another); Mrs. Rose Barton; Silas M. Claypool; Mrs. Jane Glass; Mrs. Wm. Lansbery; Hanna M. Barber; Mrs. Catherine Townsend; Mrs. J. S. Hindman; A. Harbert; Elta M. Fitz; Paul C. Johnson; Helen M. Porter; W. D. Tilton; Mrs. J. H. Thomas; Mrs. Ray Maysilles; Mrs. Thos. Briggs; S. T. Shirley; M. A. Woodward; Mrs. Margaret Allen; Mrs. Anne Broberg; Mrs. W. H. Eide-miller (self and others); Earl Koontz; Mrs. Mary Allard; Opal Robbins.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME—

We regret to learn of the illness of Bro. F. E. Siple during the past week or more, but word comes that his indomitable spirit will not permit him to remain so. God willing, he will speak over WCMA at Culver, Ind., next Sunday morning. We pray for his full recovery to health.

All will rejoice with the faithful brethren of Arkansas City, Kansas, over the good news of the lifting of all encumbrance on their property and the prospect of a church house of their own in the near future. And if many will help financially, even though it be but a small amount, their hopes will soon be realized under God's guidance.

The reader will note with interest the rejuvenating of the old "Happy Woods Schoolhouse", at Hammond, La., known among the brethren for so many years. We pray that the "Happy Woods Church" may be the scene of renewed consecration on the part of the faithful brethren there during Bro. Lyon's meetings and throughout the years, until our Master shall return.

A letter to Bro. Marsh, dated Christmas day, from Sr. Carrie Wile Chambers, editor of "The Gospel Trumpet", gives us the sad news of the death of her mother, after nearly three weeks' illness. Sr. Chambers' mother was well known to many of the brotherhood at large and their sympathies will go out to Sr. Chambers in her sorrow. How we long for the great Physician to come and bring healing and life to suffering mankind.

Bros. Richard LeCrone and Harvey Krogh and Sr. Dorothy Krogh returned to Oregon, Ill., on Dec. 31, after a ten days' visit with home folks. Sr. Lucille LeCrone will not return to attend Training Class, as she felt she could accomplish more for the Master by concentrating her efforts at home. Lucille was elected president of the Nebraska Conference last summer and there is much for her to do in the work there. May God bless her efforts is our prayer.

Bro. Richard LeCrone, of the Training Class, spoke for the church at South Bend, Ind., on the first Sunday of the new year.

All will enjoy the report of the activities at Eden Valley, Minn., where Bro. John Denchfield, former student of the N. B. I. Training Class, is pastor. We are glad to observe the loyal cooperation which the folks at Eden Valley are giving their energetic young pastor, and we pray God's blessing on all.

Bro. and Sr. Frederick Claussen "listened in" when Bro. Magaw spoke over WCMA last Sunday and heard the service from beginning to end very distinctly. At Golden Rule Home the little group that gathered heard all except the last part of the sermon. All enjoyed it greatly.

The reader is asked to read carefully both the front page article and the editor's page in this issue. The latter should settle the question that is in some minds as to why the pages of The Herald are not open to subjects purely of a controversial nature or advancing views that are held by only a few. You will be benefited by a thoughtful reading of the editor's words.

Bro. Marsh, pastor at Oregon, Ill., gave a real treat to those who attended prayer meeting on New Year's eve. He showed a series of stereopticon pictures, depicting part of the work of the Apostle Paul, especially leading up to his sermon at Antioch, Acts 13. All appreciate greatly Bro. Marsh's many efforts to add interest to the different services of the church.

Among the New Year offerings you will note one from the Sunday school at Maurertown, Va., and one from the Fonthill church. Contributions are received the first Sunday of every month from these two churches, and these are designated especially for the work of the Training Class. Such steady and loyal cooperation is most encouraging, and we pray these, with all others, may be the means of bringing honor to God.

THE SPIES

Continued from page 217

foretaste of that coming age, in the words of Jesus: "The blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the gospel preached unto them."

Are not these things to test faith in God? absolute trust in Him? We know that "the land" is good; are we going to move on into it?

The spies that Moses sent out were in the Promised Land for forty days, and they saw many wonderful sights. Grapes grew in such large clusters that it took two men to carry one. But "there we saw giants, the sons of Anak, which come of the giants: and we were in our own sight as grasshoppers, and so we were in their sight."

We see that the land is good; that it grows wonderful fruits of righteousness; that everything is there that we need in our wilderness. But are we afraid of giants? Elijah became afraid of the powers of his time and ran away from his duty. The apostles ran away when Jesus was arrested. Only Peter dared to follow; but even he grew wary and denied the Lord at the crucial moment.

When Jesus was in the tomb, in spite of all the promises of resurrection, His staunchest followers went back to their old occupations. And now, Jesus is away, and because He is out of sight our faith is so weak that we forsake the Lord's work; and few believe in His return. We spend our time in fear of the giant sins that stand in our way.

One time a speaker in my presence told a group of high school students that they needed more self-confidence. Imagine telling bombastic, self-confident youth such a thing! At the time I thought he was foolish. But now I see that he was right. Confidence in self combined with faith in God will bring us out of our sin wilderness into the land of His promise.

Not all of the spies, however, feared the Anakim. Joshua and Caleb saw that the land of Canaan was good, and that the giants were no real cause for fear, because the Lord would bring them into the land with power. Because of their faith, even though they had to wander with the others for forty years in the wilderness, they were the only ones of their generation that came into the Holy Land.

Jesus taught that those who would attain to the high calling of God in Christ Jesus would be few. "Many are called, but few are chosen; . . . Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: because straight is the gate, and narrow is the way which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it."—Matthew 7:13-14.

Two out of all of Israel gained the land! How many of us will there be? Not even the great Moses attained to that high prize! Because we are leaders of God's people is no sign that we are of the chosen few. "For ye see your calling, brethren, how that not many wise men after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble are called."

But in the particular situation we are discussing Moses stood the test. Because of the lack of faith of the people, God was about to send a plague upon them. Moses, as usual, stepped in and interceded for the wayward. He was tested and proved to be true.

Oh, that we might find leaders who in a small way are as Moses was! Men who are willing to sacrifice comfort, glory and even life itself that the people might win the goal, are the kind that God needs. Jesus gave up all the good things of this life in order to become the true Leader of God's chosen people. So did the prophets and the apostles. Can we step into a similar place? Are we big enough to follow afar off? Are we big enough to rise to the kind of leadership that God wants? So often do we put petty things in the way. Oh, how petty they are! Are we willing even to give up any of our comforts or our substance for God? Jesus asked the rich young man to sell his goods and give the proceeds to the poor. We can easily read of the incident and feel sorry for him, but how about us? Confront yourself with the same situation!

Did you ever think it was a sin to be afraid? Did you ever fear that you are not able to attain the height of God's call? If you have you have sinned the sin of Israel! After the spies brought their evil report "all the congregation lifted up their voice, and cried; and the people wept that night." They were afraid that God could not overcome the giants of Canaan.

What a punishment God sent upon Israel! They must go back into the desert for forty years: a year for each day that the spies were in the land. "Say unto them, As truly as I live, saith the Lord, as ye have spoken in mine ears, so will I do to you: your carcasses shall fall in this wilderness; and all that were numbered of you, according to your whole number, from twenty years old and upward, which have murmured against me. Doubtless ye shall not come into the land, concerning which I swear to make you dwell therein, save Caleb the son of Jephuneh, and Joshua the son of Nun."

Did all of the people of Israel doubt the power of God? I wonder! Is it possible that some of them believed? Nothing is said in the record about that. How few people really believe God in any generation!

After the people of Israel had failed and had been told by God to go back into the wilderness, they committed a new sin. They presumed to go up into Canaan by their own power. Their opportunity to go in had passed. They had feared, and their fears came true by the will of God. They attempted to go into the land early the next morning, and the Amalekites and the Canaanites came down and overpowered them. They tried to climb up another way, as Jesus expressed it.

There is no other way than God's appointed way. Faith in God with obedience to His Son is the only way to gain the promises of God. If we try to climb up another way we will suffer destruction in the way we fear. But we should seek after the fruits of the spirit by obedience to God and His Christ.—A sermon given at the Los Angeles Church of God.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, JANUARY 12, 1932

NUMBER 15

THE GOSPEL

By Arlen Marsh

INDUBITABLY, religious teachers everywhere are faced with approximately the same general difficulty: Christ, in giving the Great Commission to His apostles and other followers, commanded, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature."—Mark 16:15. In obedience to this demand upon them, preachers and teachers make every effort to fulfill the requirements laid down by the order; but always they are presented with a constantly disputed question which apparently has never been satisfactorily answered for everyone.

What is the gospel? Upon this problem hang the doctrines of every denomination in the Christian world, for with the exception of a very few isolated cases, all churches endeavor to a greater or less extent to carry out the command of the Savior. Responsibility for the secular divisions among the disciples of the Christ rests upon the multitudinous hypotheses used in reply to this query.

True, the dictionary defines the word gospel as "glad tidings; especially, the good news concerning Christ, the kingdom of God, and salvation"; but this leaves the primary question still open for consideration. What is "the good news concerning Christ, the kingdom of God, and salvation", and why may the gospel be called "glad tidings"? The interpretations placed upon the Word of Jehovah by the various theological schools present a galaxy of possible "narratives of God" (the original root meaning of the Anglo-Saxon term god spell and the Old English godspel, from which gospel is derived).

The final source of appeal in settling every religious dispute must always be the Bible. "All scripture is given by inspiration of God," and is consequently suited to establish or to abnegate the truth of the theories regarding the interpretation of any passage. Without a doubt, the teachings of Jesus must be accepted as the one true gospel; indeed, Paul, directly inspired by the Messiah Himself, decisively declared that, "if any man preach any other gospel unto you than that ye have received, let him be accursed." Galatians 1:9.

To uncover the fact that there is but one true gospel leaves, however, a controversy concerning its parts and their content. What does the gospel teach? Once this problem is settled, all religious problems are automatically solved: since there is no phase of theological work which is not touched by the teachings of the Christ, there can be no question left unanswered when His exact doctrines have been determined.

The first records the Bible makes of the subject of the Savior's sermons indicate nothing detailed, nothing complicated, but something easily understood, something simple. Matthew (4:17) reports that "from that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, Repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." Mark elaborates on these assertions (1:15) by recording that the Christ preached in Galilee that "the time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand: repent ye, and believe the gospel."

Apparently, both Matthew and Mark leave it to the reader to decide definitely to what gospel they allude; but nevertheless, Matthew makes their declarations sufficiently clear in the fourth chapter of his book (v. 23): "And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom." Obviously, therefore, the Christ considered the teaching of the future existence of a kingdom of God to be an integral part of the whole gospel.

This conclusion is substantiated by the Savior's command as set down in Matthew 24:14: "And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come." Two years previous to this declaration, the Lord had despatched the twelve apostles to "go, preach, saying, The kingdom of heaven is at hand." Two years following the pronouncement

Continued on page 231

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

“Casting down imaginations, and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ.”

The Editor's Prayer

UNTO THEE, O GOD, who hast revealed Thyself unto us in Thy Word, through Thy Spirit, we come in humility and in appreciation, asking Thee in the name of our Lord to inspire us to think right thoughts, true thoughts, holy thoughts, thoughts that will guide us into the pathway of a godly life and service. To this end do we each one pray: “Let the words of my mouth, and the meditations of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer.”

Right Thinking

THE importance of right thinking cannot be over-estimated, for “the thought is father to the deed.” We are the products of our own thinking. What we think makes us what we are. To harbor wrong thoughts will result in producing wrong actions; while to entertain right thoughts will to a great extent tend to right actions. It is thus impossible for one to think evil continually and live righteously. It is also impossible for one to possess a “clean mind and a pure heart” and not manifest the visible results of such a mental attitude. “A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.”

What is true of the moral nature is also true of the spiritual; for spiritual development depends upon spiritual thinking; and spiritual thinking depends upon definite knowledge of facts concerning God and His relation to man. One cannot be truly spiritual and lack such certain knowledge. Spirituality in its final analysis simply means to know the will of God as it is revealed in the Scriptures and to live in conformity with its requirements by desire.

It is here that dogma, doctrine, finds a necessary place in Christian philosophy. For the dogmatic teachings of the Bible comprise these necessary facts concerning the will of God for mankind. In order to meet the requirements of His will we must know them. For this reason no distinction can be drawn between the “doctrinal” and the “practical” elements of truth. The “doctrinal” must be made “practical” in the lives of men, else it fails to accomplish the purpose for which it was designed. Every tenet of Christian faith must, and will, if properly grasped, serve to develop the praise-worthy “fruits of the spirit.”

“Neglected” or “Essential”

THE reason why the Church of God and THE RESTITUTION HERALD teach the distinctive truths for which we stand is not simply because they are true, but because they constitute a system of correlated facts which have been revealed by God as a necessary basis for saving faith.

The fact of man's mortality is sometimes mentioned as “a neglected truth.” The literal coming of Christ, the establishment of His kingdom upon the earth, and many other similar subjects of revelation are spoken of in the same indifferent way. There are many excellent people, and even able students of the Bible, who look upon all life and dispensational truth as being true and interesting and profitable for study, but not actually essential to salvation.

The Church of God, however, assumes a unique attitude toward these things. We find that the “gospel is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth,” and that this important truth is defined in the Word of God as the good news of the kingdom. For this reason we are forced to insist that the only means of salvation offered in the Scriptures comes through faith in these so-called “neglected” dispensational truths, followed by an active acknowledgment of our faith in them by a baptism in water. These doctrines of the Bible thus become not merely true but positively essential.

The Mortality of Jesus

FEW professed followers of the Lord Jesus would have the temerity to teach that the death of Christ was not a vital element of faith, or that it occupies a subordinate place in the Christian system of salvation.

Paul makes his own position with regard to it very plain. In summing up his analysis of the gospel he says: “I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins according to the scriptures.”—1 Cor. 15:3.

The necessity for believing in the natural mortality of man is here apparent, for it would be impossible to believe in the death of Christ and not to believe in His past mortality. It further follows that to believe in the death of Christ requires that we shall believe also in His humanity, that He was “in all things . . . made like unto his brethren” (Heb. 2:17), even to the extent of being subject to death.

JERUSALEM

By George B. Alldridge

"By the rivers of Babylon, there we sat down, yea, we wept, when we remembered Zion."—Psalm 137:1.

AN anecdote for many years has been hackneyed by religious speakers and writers, but I will repeat it once more. Frederick the Great of Prussia, demanded of his chaplain to prove in one sentence the truth and inspiration of the Bible. His answer was, "The Jews, your Majesty." Very fine for his day and generation! Today the writer would answer this same demand—"Jerusalem, your Majesty!" Who can read Paul's wonderful allegory in Galatians 4:24-31 without having his mind convinced of the important part Jerusalem has played in the history of nations, and yet to come during the next few years?

This morning I read Genesis 27:27-30, using Ferrar Fenton's translation. "Yes! the smell of my son is like the smell of a field which the Lord has blessed. So may God give to you the dew from the skies, and the fatness of the earth, and increase and possession. Nations shall serve you, and bow down to you; yes, a multitude of mighty peoples, with your brothers also shall pay tribute to you, my son. If any curses you, he shall be cursed; and if any blesses you, he shall be blessed."

To me these verses are a compendium of the history of the Jews and their glorious city—Jerusalem. From Genesis to Revelation two people appear running parallel to each other—Israel after the flesh and Israel after the spirit. The one frees the other in bondage.

Paul points out the more important of the two. "But Jerusalem which is above is free, which is the mother of us all." Hebrews 12:22-24 elucidates this: "But ye are come unto mount Sion, and unto the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to an innumerable company of angels. To the general assembly and church of the first-born, which are written in heaven, and to God the judge of all, and to the spirits of just men made perfect, and to Jesus, the mediator of the new covenant and to the blood of sprinkling, that speaketh better things, than that of Abel."

What a wonderful list is given in Hebrews 11. In verse 16 we read: "But now they desire a better country, that is, an heavenly: wherefore God is not ashamed to be called their God; for he hath prepared for them a city."

"Zion!" My brother, does this name thrill you as it does the Jew? Brethren, I love the Jew and I do not care who knows it. Today he adheres to the faith of his fathers. "Hear, O Israel; the Lord our God is one Lord." He knows and worships no other god. The triune God of Christendom is a stranger to him, and was to all his prophets. Zion to him is real, as it was to his fathers.

David knew that his seed some day would sit upon his throne in Jerusalem. Ah, can you not hear him as he strikes his harp strings? In a burst of lofty enthusiasm (and, brethren, it is getting me, too), carried away by a sudden transport as he contemplates its glory and strength, he exclaims, "Beautiful for situation, the joy of the whole earth is mount Zion! God is known in her palaces for a refuge. Let mount Zion rejoice, let the daughters of Judah be glad, for their God, is our God for ever and ever."

During the last two weeks a Pan-Islamic Congress has been held in the city of Jerusalem. Why this meeting? Here is the answer, "The world's richest man, the Nizam of Hyderabad, a prince of India, is one of the proponents of a Pan-Islam, with the exiled Caliph restored to a throne at Jerusalem."

Let me quote from the daily press:

"Despite powerful opposition which appears likely to suppress the movement, Moslem leaders, gathering in Jerusalem, believe the congress will advance their campaign to restore the caliph as the spiritual head of the world's most wide-spread religion. They will meet in the center of Zionism, world movement for restoration of Palestine as a Jewish national home; they must defy the probable opposition of Great Britain because of her mandate over Palestine, and they must face the passive opposition of such Moslem leaders as King Feisul of Iraq, the Emir Abdulla of Transjordan and the Grand Imam of Yemen; but they continue to express confidence in the outcome."

Where is the site of the proposed mosque and throne to be set up for the restored, now exiled, caliph? Brethren, exactly where Solomon's temple stood and the present Mosque of Omar! It is said, "Coming events cast their shadows before." Who cannot see then why the coming struggle between nations, or, "the great day of God Almighty" (Rev. 16:14-16), will not center itself here?

This then is the Great Triangle—the Papacy, the Moslem and the Jew. All three want Jerusalem, especially the Pope. It is going to be a religious war (all wars in the past have been largely religious), the combatants thinking that they are fighting God's cause. Consider the history of the crusaders. History will repeat itself, only this time it will be universal in its scope.

Now everybody knows that the overthrow of the sacred buildings in Jerusalem (there is not one site accurately authenticated by scholars) will mean the overthrow of the Papacy. And who are the Papacy's most bitter enemies? None others than Russia, Asia, the Jew, and Great Britain!

This is the headline I read yesterday in the newspaper (and like Will Rogers, all I know is what I read in the newspapers): "Soviet Linked in Series of Diplomatic Moves Between Various European Powers."

Listen to this:

"A new element in the diplomatic exchanges was brought to light with the revelation that Turkish Foreign Minister, Rushdi Bey, will go to Moscow soon to inform the Soviets of the results of conversations at Angora, with Bulgarian Premier Vouchanoff. Thus Rushdi Bey will act as intermediary for the resumption of diplomatic negotiations between the Soviets and Bulgaria. This is not the end of the Turko-Soviet diplomatic program.

"Rushdi Bey is expected to seek Moscow's opinion on the creation of an Asiatic bloc consisting of Turkey, Russia, Afghanistan, and possibly Iraq, the first step in

Continued on page 232

THE EARNEST DESIRE OF THE CHURCH

Come, Lord Jesus! come again;
Shout, O Church, the glad amen!
Echo back the joyful strain.

Thou, O Lord! hast tarried long,
Come to earth with angel throng;
Wake again that sweetest song;

Chanted at Thy lowly birth,
To the fallen sons of earth;
Token of Thy heavenly worth.

Of Thy Church the living Head,
Church for which Thy blood was shed,
Come and raise her from the dead!

Change the living, waiting ones,
Crown, and seat them on their thrones,
Still creation's ceaseless groans!

Scatter with Thy light, the gloom;
Make the desert wastes give room
To the wealth of Eden's bloom.

Take the poison from the air,
Make the earth both good and fair,
End these ages of despair.

From oppression grant release,
Cause the clang of arms to cease,
Bring the reign of perfect peace.

From all faces wipe the tears,
Verify the dream of seers,
Crown with love eternal years.

Then to God through endless days,
All created things shall raise,
Hymns of pure and lofty praise.

—John L. Wince.

TITHES AND OFFERINGS

“Is the tenth all I should give?” I have never known, nor heard of, anyone who did not give more than the tenth after practicing tithing for a year or two. Have you? Tithers call all beyond the tenth “Free Will Offerings.” But talk of giving more than the tenth by or to those who do not believe in and practice tithing, is like trying to solve problems in mathematics by people who have not learned and do not believe in the multiplication table. The multiplication table occupies about the same relation to mathematics that tithing does to stewardship.

FOLLOW THE MASTER

By D. G. Harvey

“Whosoever will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me.”—Mark 8:34.

AS WE sing, “Where He Leads, I’ll Follow”; “Savior, Lead Me Lest I Stray”; “I’ll Go With Him all the Way”, I often wonder just how much we mean by these words. Do we sing with the spirit and the understanding?

Christ, the Master, tells us, “He that taketh not his cross, and followeth after me, is not worthy of me.” Matt. 10:38. We understand His meaning to be, follow My example. Then our course is simple—find the way our Guide points out and follow Him. But do not think too lightly of the example; the way is not always easy. Jesus points that out in Luke 14:27-29, showing that as one builds he must first count the cost, lest he lay the foundation and is not able to finish.

We believe; we are baptized. There is the foundation. But unless we deny ourselves, overcome selfish nature, we will never be able to follow Him. We read a short while ago of a plan to build a Y. M. C. A. building in a certain city. In the center of the block, land was owned by a man who had a shanty which he refused to tear down, thus delaying the building.

God is planning a far greater building in our lives, but we by failure to destroy the shanty (selfishness) are delaying the work. Every known sin is based upon selfish nature (desire of the flesh) like lean-to sheds attached to the main shanty. If we attempt to remove each sin (or shed), one at a time, it will take considerable time to clear the ground. The only logical method would be to destroy the main shanty and the other sheds will fall with it.

This is just what the Master teaches: “Whosoever will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me.” We cannot judge one another by the world’s standard of righteousness. In fact, we are not to judge at all in this age. “Judge not, that ye be not judged.” Matt. 7:1.

For example, Willie Jones, a fine moral young man, trained early in life to go to church and Sunday school, raised in a Christian home, with clean habits, no vices, joins the church and is pointed out as a model Christian young man. How do we judge Willie? By the sight of the eye. We can see no change in him. He may have joined the church for selfish reasons, his own gain, perhaps a better job, or to gain favor of some member of the same church. We cannot tell.

On the other hand, Jack Smith, the son of a gang leader, never looked inside a church until he entered one night seeking amusement, knowing only the name of God and His Son as words used in cursing, taught that the world owes him a living, honest or otherwise. Jack becomes interested and joins the church. Has he the same easy time as Willie? No! His whole life must change at once. But if the lust of the flesh causes the former to fall, very seldom do the elders try to win him back. They feel that Jack always was a "rough neck" and always will be. That, brethren, is the standard of the world. I thank the Father that the world is not my judge. "For the Lord seeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart." 1 Sam. 16:7.

Friends, our tongue is the hardest member of our body to control. James 3:8 tells us, "The tongue can no man tame: it is an unruly evil, full of deadly poison." Reader, please turn to James three and read the following verses of this chapter and the first eight verses of the fourth chapter. Then, do you think you can follow the Master, with envy and strife in the heart? In Matthew 15:8, 9 we read of a class who draw nigh the Lord with their mouth, but their hearts are far from Him. This is vain worship, teaching commandments of men. We cannot follow Christ and despise our neighbor.

Brethren, a vast amount of trouble is caused by evil thoughts in our minds, aided by an unruly tongue. If our minds are filled with pure thoughts, we do not see evil in every act of others. Titus 1:15, 16. Just a few words to give an example. A brother meets an old friend and neighbor on the street. He invites her to attend our services and just as I pass them she answers, "I would love to; I will meet you tomorrow night." Brethren, if my mind is evil, I conclude our brother, who did no sin, was playing a rather loose game. I repeat the story to my wife; she in turn tells another and so on, the story growing with each telling. The result? Two divorces, two homes broken up, trouble coming on two families of children.

Friends and brethren, subdue that tongue. "Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but that which is good, to the use of edifying, that it may minister grace unto the hearers. Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and evil speaking, be put away from you, with all malice; and be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you". Eph. 4:29, 31, 32.

In all our acts let us ask ourselves this question, "What would the Master do?" then act regardless of results to ourselves.

Are you following Christ?

ANNUITY BONDS

For information regarding the advantages of Annuity Bonds over Wills in the making of final gifts for the furtherance of our Gospel labors, address,

NATIONAL BIBLE INSTITUTION
OREGON . . . . . ILLINOIS

THE WORLD WITHOUT GOD

By M. A. Woodward

How I wish every person in Oregon could have heard the sermon Brother Marsh gave us Sunday evening. His subject was, "The World Without God." This morning I took up a book, sent by my grandson living in Long Island, in which I find much to emphasize the same thought.

In the introduction to the book I read, "For five hundred years those who call themselves free spirits, because they prefer prison life to army service, have been trying desperately to kill Jesus a second time—to kill Him in the hearts of men. The army of His enemies assembled to bury Him as soon as they thought they heard the death-rattle of Christ's second death. Presumptuous donkeys, mistaking libraries for their stables, top-heavy brains pretending to explore the highest heavens in philosophy's drifting balloon, professors poisoned by the fatal strong drink of philosophy and metaphysics, armed themselves. Paraphrasing the rallying-ery of Peter the Hermit to the crusaders, they shout, 'Man wills it', as they set out on their crusade against the cross.

"Certain of them draw on their boundless imaginations to evolve what they consider proof positive of a fantastic theory that the story of the Gospel is no more than a legend from which we can reconstruct the natural life of Jesus as a man, one-third prophet, one-third necromancer, one-third demagogue, a man who wrought no miracles, except the hypnotic cure of some obsessed devotees; who did not die on the cross, but came to Himself in the chill of the sepulchre and reappeared with mysterious airs to delude men into believing that He had risen from the dead."

Reading on we find, "Others demonstrated as certainly as two and two make four that Jesus was a myth developed in the time of Augustus and of Tiberius, and that the Gospels can be reduced to a clumsy mosaic of prophetic texts. Others conceived of Jesus as a good, well-meaning man, but too high-flown and fantastic, who went to school to the Greeks, the Buddhists, and the Essenes, and patched together His plagiarisms as best He could to support His claim to be the Messiah of Israel. Others made Him out to be an unbalanced humanitarian, precursor of Rousseau and divine democracy; an excellent man for His time, but who today would be put under the care of an alienist. Others, to get rid of the subject once for all, took up the idea of the myth again, and by dint of puzzlings and comparisons concluded that Jesus never was born anywhere, in any spot or place on the globe. But who could have taken the place of the man they were trying to dispose of? The grave they dug was deeper every day, and still they could not bury Him from sight.

"Then began manufacturing of religions for the irreligious. During the whole of the nineteenth century they turned out in couples and half dozens at a time; the religion of Truth, of the Spirit, of the Proletariat, of the Hero, of Humanity, of Nationals, of Imperialism, of Reason, of Beauty, of Peace, of Sorrow, of Pity, of the future, and so on. Some were only new arrangements of Christianity—Christianity without God.

“But faithful followers of these religions are few and their ardor faint. Such frozen abstractions, though sometimes helped along by social interests or literary passions, did not fill the heart which had renounced Jesus. And still Christ is not expelled from the earth. His memory is everywhere—on the walls of churches and schools, on the tops of bell towers and mountains, on street shrines, at the heads of beds, and over tombstones. Thousands of crosses bring to mind the death of the Crucified One. Take away the frescoes from the churches, carry off the pictures from the altars and the houses and the life of Christ still fills museums and picture galleries. Even oaths are an involuntary remembrance of His presence.

“When all is said and done Christ is an end and a beginning. . . . Before Christ and after Christ, our era, our civilization, our life begins with the birth of Christ. We can seek out what comes before Christ. . . . But it is no longer ours; it is signed with other signs, limited by other systems. Christ on the contrary still lives among us; there are still people who love Him and those who hate Him. The fury of so many against Him is proof that He is not dead. The very people who devote their time denying Him pass their lives in bringing His name to memory. There never was a time more cut off from Christ than ours, nor one which needed Him more. We live in a Christian era, and it is not finished.”

O, how much I might write from this author! I write this, beloveds, that those who cannot hear as much as we do may know our people are awake to the times in which we are living. These words from Givanni Papini, an Italian by birth, are worth treasuring. They are so nearly in accord with Brother Marsh's sermon of last Sunday evening. It seems this writer has his eyes open to the events of these days.

I do pray God to make it possible for Brother Marsh, Brother Austin, and others who are studying prophecy, to broadcast these truths to the world. We are nearing a time when the world will be glad to hear and will be swift in accepting its warnings. O, I am so glad we are in God's hands.

---

AMERICAN boys and girls say, “How do you do?” when they meet on the street. The little French boy and girl speak to you with a “How do you find yourself?” The brown-eyed Italian girl says with soft accent, “How do you stand?” The little Dutch boy, with his queer clothes and wooden shoes, says, “How do you fare? The little Chinese says, “How is your stomach? Have you eaten your rice?” The little Egyptian child says a queer thing, “How do you perspire?” The Persian child says, “May thy shadow never grow less.” In Russia they ask, “How do you live on?” In Poland the children say, “How do you keep yourself?” All of which mean the same thing.

—Selected.

STEPS IN SALVATION

By Richard LeCrome

IT is well for the people of God to study closely and prayerfully His Word of Truth. It is profitable for us to minutely examine each verse that we read, but it is well in our studies to occasionally remove our eye from the microscope and view the structure as a whole. The tiny cell which we examine under the microscope becomes more intensely interesting when we remember that it is a part of a great tree. The blood corpuscle gains fascination when thought of as a vital, though minute, part of the human body. Before we proceed to our analytical Bible studies for the year, let us glance briefly at the plan of salvation in a larger aspect.

Time and space limit my suggestions, but you may carry them to any degree of completeness for yourself, and I feel sure you will profit thereby. Let us glance for a few moments at Christianity as it affects the individual. It seems inconceivable that God, whom the Bible pictures to us as almighty, just, unchangeable and infinite—the God who has decreed that sin must be punished by death—can so change as to save any of mankind. Let us trace briefly the steps of salvation and see how these changes occur.

Among the very first words of Christ, as He introduced the glad tidings of this new plan, were these: “The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand: repent ye, and believe the gospel.”—Mark 1:15. The first change then must be a change of mind and belief. The first change then is a change in man, rather than in God.

In Acts 3:19 we find a second change suggested: “Repent ye therefore and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out . . . from the presence of the Lord”. Since the word, conversion, indicates a turning about it seems that there must come a change of life, as well as of mind. This also takes place in the individual.

The Christian then is changed in mind and actions. Why? “We have believed in Jesus Christ, that we might be justified by the faith of Christ . . .” Gal. 2:16. Justification (a setting right, a new state or standing) is a third change, a result of the first two, but still in the individual.

In John 17, we find Christ asking God to effect still another change for His disciples. “Sanctify them through thy truth: thy word is truth.” In the Old Testament we found that the priests were sanctified or set apart for service to God. This fourth change comes in the nature of a change of service.

For those who are willing thus to obey the will of God, Christ holds forth still a greater possibility of change and blessing. “For whosoever shall do the will of my Father which is in heaven, the same is my brother, and sister, and mother.”—Matt. 12:50. This goes still deeper and brings about a greater change—that of family.

He also pointed forward to another change which we cannot describe because we have not as yet experienced it.

He spoke of it to the twelve apostles as an occurrence which takes place "in the regeneration when the Son of man shall sit in the throne of his glory."—Matt. 19:28. Paul speaks of it as "the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost."—Titus 3:5. It seems to imply a change of nature.

And as a climax He has promised glorification. "Moreover whom he did predestinate, them he also called: and whom he called, them he also justified: and whom he justified, them he also glorified." Rom. 8:30. It seems to imply a change in the very body: "The Lord Jesus Christ: who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body." Phil. 3:21.

The changes which must take place then are as follows:
Repentance—a change of mind, a new mind about God.
Conversion—a change of life for God.

Justification—a change of state, a setting right, a new standing before God.

Sanctification—a change of service, separation unto God.

Adoption—a change of family, a new relationship toward God.

Regeneration—a change of nature.

Glorification—a new state or condition before God.

There we have the changes which take place in the salvation of a sinner. God has not changed one bit. The change has all been in the man.

God is not reconciled to man. Man is reconciled to God.

---

IF JESUS HAD NOT COME

---

THE world's history would be vastly different, if Jesus had never come. If He had not come, the disciples would have continued as humble fishermen. Saul of Tarsus would have remained the intolerant Pharisee.

Thousands who know His healing touch would have finished their shattered lives with no release from pain. The blind eyes would not have seen and the deaf ears heard, if He had not come. Mary and Martha, and the widow of Nain would never have known the joy of receiving their dead raised to life again.

If Jesus had not come, the world would never have had some of its finest art and architecture, music, and painting. Raphael would have painted no Madonnas, if He had not come. Handel would never have composed that glorious oratorio, "The Messiah."

If He had not come, there would have been no Christian missionaries, no church, and no prayer meeting. There would be no Christmas story and no Easter music. If He had not come, slaves would still be respectable, womanhood degraded, and childhood neglected.

If He had not come, you and I would never have known the forgiveness of sin and the joy of salvation. If He had not come, the prophecies of the past would be but idle dreams, the present but an aimless wandering, and we would know nothing of any future hope.—Our Hope.

THE GOSPEL

---

Continued from front page

ment, Philip, preaching at Samaria, taught the people there "concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ", as he went about fulfilling the command given immediately preceding the ascension. The gospel evidently consists—as it then consisted—of the doctrine of the kingdom of God and of the great truths left behind Him by the resurrected Savior.

But Paul declares that the gospel of Christ "is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek."—Rom. 1:16. Something remains as a part of the gospel aside from mere knowledge of the kingdom, for such knowledge certainly possesses nothing to present the owner with immortal life. The Apostle repeats his thought in 1 Corinthians 15:1 and 2, and follows the repetition with a resume of his teachings: the death, burial, and resurrection of the Christ by which all may be saved; and the establishment of a kingdom over which Jesus Himself (and later Jehovah) is to rule. Beyond these two facts Paul does not go as he stresses the important points in his doctrine.

The Messiah somewhat extends the number of fundamental teachings of the gospel when delivering the Great Commission: "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you."—Matt. 28:19-20. The Savior's command to teach the observance of everything He had taught must include the teaching of baptism, for at all times did He stress the importance of immersion as a means to salvation.

This, then, is the one true gospel: "God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. . . . He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God." John 3:16, 18. "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved: but he that believeth not shall be damned."—Mark 16:16. "For so (through faith and works, belief and baptism) an entrance shall be ministered unto you abundantly into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ."—2 Peter 1:11. All of this Paul aptly condenses into a single statement: "One Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all. . ."—Eph. 4:5, 6.

"No man living is able to attain even in small measure the satisfaction of these ambitions (eternal life, happiness, and peace), either for himself or for others; but God in His love had designed to thus bless the human race, and in His wisdom has perfected the plan by which it may be accomplished. Notice . . . how the gospel plan provides for the fulfillment of all these ideals of ours. No other plan could do it so well; no other news is so well entitled to be called 'good news' as is this gospel."—Senior Berean Book No. 1, p. 9.

THE UNFAILING REFUGE

Psalm Forty-six

God is our refuge, a strong tower,
A help that shall avail
Unfailing in that awful hour,
When earth itself shall fail.

Therefore our hearts shall fearless be,
Though fear the wide world thrills,
And in its depth the angry sea
Engulf the eternal hills.

Calm with the peace that saints may know,
Amid earth's closing scene;
A river gladdens with its flow
Jerusalem serene.

God in the midst of her abides;
Her light shall changeless beam,
When the proud world and all besides
Shall vanish like a dream.

Nations and kingdoms reel and fall;
The Voice that once spoke light,
In anger's heat shall shrivel all
The powers of death and night.

"Be still and know that I am God"—
Men hush their hearts to hear,
And meekly bow beneath His rod,
While love dissolves their fear.

He maketh to the ends of earth
War's cruel reign to cease;
Creation smiles a second birth
In universal peace.—Selected.

ONE of the first missionaries to Greenland was John Beck, a Moravian, who translated the gospel story into the Esquimaux tongue. The natives were very hostile, and one day raided the hut in which he was writing. They upset his pens and ink and demanded what the black marks on the paper meant. He said they were words such as they were speaking. This puzzled the natives and filled them with surprise. Kajarnak, their leader, at last said, "Does this paper hear, and remember, and say words?" When told that was so, he demanded, "Make it speak to us."

What a message the eager missionary told as he read parts of the life of the Lord Jesus, and then went on to tell of His cruel death on Calvary's cross. It proved to be the power of God unto salvation, and Kajarnak became the first Christian Esquimaux in Greenland, preaching the gospel, which made him a new creature in Christ Jesus. So faith came by hearing and hearing by the Word of God.—From Words of Life.

JERUSALEM

Continued from page 227

which would be a visit by the Turkish foreign minister to Teheran to seek renewal of the Turko-Persian treaty of amity. The Soviet's leading role is considered significant in view of the forthcoming world disarmament conference. It is suggested that Moscow may be seeking to become the pivotal point in a new phase of balance of power."

Now, brethren, stop right here and read Ezekiel 38. How far off, think you, is its fulfillment? Watch Italy, France, and Russia. No doubt the three unclean spirits will go forth from these three nations. This year, I think, will mean much to Bible students.

Twenty-seven times (sieges) since Melchizedek blessed Abraham, Jerusalem has experienced. David, Nebuchadnezzar, Titus, Omar and Allenby, all victors! Don't talk to me about famous battles upon this hill. The greatest of them all has been fought. Here upon this holy hill the Jew for bravery has excelled them all. On the top of this hill, where their father Abraham offered up His son Isaac, thousands have stood and battled for its safety and its wonderful temples, against armies always outnumbering them.

Talk about the southern yell in the Civil War! Nothing compared to the Jews' fearful war cry that ran along its crooked and narrow streets, and upon its battlements, as the banner of David rose and fell in often a losing fight, till borne back and overwhelmed, leaving thousands of corpses as bloody testimonials of the desperate conflict. They at length yielded to numbers and Jerusalem fell. In my mind I can see the multitude of captives who graced the triumphal entrance of the victors into Babylon and later Rome.

Today the Jew in many minds is expressed by the rag-picker and Shylock, but few see him as Rebecca of Ivanhoe. But I thank God that the same spirit breathed in that wonderful one hundred thirty-seventh Psalm is still in the heart of the Jew. And soon Genesis 49:10, "The sceptre shall not depart from Judah, nor a lawgiver from between his feet, until Shiloh come: and unto him shall the gathering of the people be," will be fully realized.

Shiloh has come and wept over their city. Ah, yes, my heart is full as I write. His heart yearned over the "glory of the earth," and the daughter of Zion looked beautiful upon her throne of hills. As He thought of the past—of her toils and sufferings, of her former faithfulness and all that God had done for her—words of deepest love were heard to fall from His lips. But amid them was also heard the startling language, "Behold, your house is left unto you desolate." The decree had already gone forth, "Zion shall be ploughed as a field, and Jerusalem shall become heaps."

But, brethren, soon all will be changed, and the glorious banner of the greater David shall float triumphantly amid the chaos of a crumbling and defeated world. Then, and not till then, will Zephaniah 3:8, 9, be fulfilled and all shall call upon Him, to serve Him with one consent.

BELIEF

By Harry A. Sheets

IT IS not unusual for one to hear the expression: "It doesn't make any difference what we believe just so we live right." This sounds very commendable upon first thought because we do know that it does make a great difference what we do.

Every question has two sides. We can arrive at the truth only by studying all of the evidence available. With this thought in mind we would like to take the position that it does make a difference what we believe.

In Matthew eight we read of a certain centurion that had a servant "sick of the palsy and grievously tormented." This centurion came to Jesus and asked that He heal his servant. Jesus offered to go with him to see the sick one, but the centurion felt himself unworthy to have such a holy person enter his house, so he said: "I am not worthy that thou shouldst come under my roof: but speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed." Jesus turned to those with Him and remarked: "I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel." And Jesus said to the centurion, "Go thy way; and as thou hast BELIEVED, so be it done unto thee. And his servant was healed in the selfsame hour." Here a miracle was performed because of what one BELIEVED. Would the servant have been healed had the centurion not believed?

We find a very similar instance in the healing of two blind men. "Jesus saith unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this thing? They say unto him, Yea, Lord. Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it unto you." Matt. 9:28-29. Here, again, belief or faith was necessary to secure the blessing of healing.

Mark records the instance of a certain man that had a son that was afflicted with a "dumb spirit". (It is now thought that the child had epilepsy.) The twelve were unable to cure the child, so the father appealed to Jesus, asking: "If thou canst do any thing, have compassion on us, and help us." Jesus' reply is significant: "If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth." Healing depended upon belief. "And straightway the father of the child cried out, and said with tears, Lord, I believe." After this confession Jesus healed the child. It will be noticed that it was not just any belief, but a very definite belief that was necessary. He was asked to believe in the ability of Jesus to do this work of healing. Read the account in Mark 9:17-29.

Jesus declared that belief in the gospel was one of the requirements of salvation. "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. He that (1) believeth and (2) is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned." Mark 16:15-16. The Apostle Paul, who was sent to the Gentiles with the words of salvation, teaches in Romans 1:16: "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek." It is necessary to note that salvation depends upon belief in a very definite thing, namely, the gospel. Belief in a gospel will not bring salvation.

It is well for us always to keep in mind the warning of Paul regarding "another gospel". "I marvel that ye are so soon removed from him that called you into the grace of Christ unto another gospel: which is not another; but there be some that trouble you, and would pervert the gospel of Christ. But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we preached unto you, let him be accursed. As we said before, so say I now again, if any preach any other gospel unto you than that ye have received, let him be accursed." Gal. 1:6-9.

If the gospel is the power of God unto salvation, as Paul declares, then it is evident that another gospel would pervert the gospel and remove from God's grace those who accept it.

This same definiteness is evident in Hebrews 11:6: "But without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that cometh to God must believe (1) that he is, and (2) that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him." It will be noticed that it is impossible to please God without believing two definitely mentioned facts.

The relative value of works and belief is clearly set forth in Romans 4: "For if Abraham were justified by works, he hath whereof to glory; but not before God. For what saith the scriptures? Abraham believed God, and it was counted unto him for righteousness." That we gain righteousness in the same manner that did Abraham is evident from the further reasoning of Paul. "But to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness. He (Abraham) staggered not at the promise of God through unbelief; but was strong in faith, giving glory to God; and being fully persuaded that, what he had promised he was able also to perform. And therefore it was imputed to him for righteousness. Now it was not written for his sake alone, . . . but for us also, to whom it shall be imputed, if we believe on him that raised up Jesus our Lord from the dead." Again it is belief in something very definite that is imputed to us for righteousness.

We do not say that Christian works are not essential to salvation, for the Scriptures teach that they are, but we do wish to say that it does make a difference what we believe. If we are conscientious, our works will be the result of what we believe to be God's will. If our understanding is false, then it follows that our works will not be pleasing to God.

Eve believed Satan. The works that followed her false belief brought God's wrath upon her. Again, the Jews believed that Jesus was a blasphemer. They knew that blasphemers were to be put to death (see Lev. 24:16). Their belief caused them to "kill the Lord of glory".

Jesus sent His disciples out into the world with this warning: "These things have I spoken unto you, that ye should not be offended. They shall put you out of the synagogues: yea the time cometh, that whosoever killeth you will think that he doeth God service." John 16:1-2. It is evident from Christ's language that the killing was to be done by those conscientiously trying to serve God. Their murderous acts are purely the result of mistaken belief. They that kill and persecute are ignorant of the commandment of Christ: "But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you; that ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven." Matt. 5:45-46.

Jesus gave the parable of an evil servant who believed that his master would delay his coming. Because of his belief he began "to smite his fellow servants, and to eat and drink with the drunken." Jesus announces the result: "The lord of that servant shall come in a day when he looketh not for him, and in an hour that he is not aware of, and shall cut him asunder, and appoint him his portion with the hypocrites." Matt. 24:48-51.

God sent King Saul to destroy the Amalekites and all that they had. Saul thought it would please God if he saved the best of the cattle for an offering before God. He saved also King Agag. Samuel was sent to reprove him, and to deliver God's judgments. "And Samuel said, Hath the Lord as great delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices, as in obeying the voice of the Lord? Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams. For rebellion is as the sin of witchcraft, and stubbornness is as iniquity and idolatry. Because thou hast rejected the word of the Lord, he hath also rejected thee from being king." 1 Samuel 15:22-23.

Brethren and friends, it does make a difference what we believe. Therefore, "study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." 2 Timothy 2:15.

—Editorial in Church of God Bulletin.

SOWING AND REAPING

Sow hate, reap strife;
 Sow fear, reap cowardice;
 Sow armaments, reap war;
 Sow jealousy, reap distrust;
 Sow self-indulgence, reap suffering;
 Sow strong drink, reap misery;
 Sow lust, reap spiritual starvation;
 Sow love, reap love;
 Sow helpfulness, reap influence;
 Sow good will, reap friendliness;
 Sow forgiveness, reap forgiveness;
 Sow self-denial, reap strength;
 Sow service, reap confidence;
 Sow piety, reap peace;
 Sow spirituality, reap godliness;
 Sow prayer, reap power;
 Sow repentance, reap pardon;
 Sow faith, reap salvation.—Selected.

JESUS' PRAYERS WERE ANSWERED

By J. W. Burget

I BELIEVE that Jesus' prayers were always answered, because when Jesus raised Lazarus from the dead He prayed to the Father, and said: "Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me. And I knew that thou hearest me always." John 11:41, 42. Jesus would not be much of a Savior if His Father did not answer His prayers.

"Then cometh Jesus with them unto a place called Gethsemane, and saith unto the disciples, Sit ye here, while I go and pray yonder. And he took with him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, and began to be sorrowful and very heavy. Then saith he unto them, My soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death: tarry ye here, and watch with me. And he went a little farther, and fell on his face, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me: nevertheless not as I will, but as thou wilt." Matt. 26:36-39.

When Jesus prayed and said, "Let this cup pass from me," He was not on the cross. He was ten hours away from the cross. Therefore this cup was not the cup of the cross. This cup was the cup of suffering He was in at that time. Jesus was near death's door (Matt. 26:28), and there appeared an angel unto Him from heaven, strengthening Him. (Luke 22:43.) Therefore Jesus did not die in the garden. His prayer was answered, because the Father always heard Jesus.

"And being in agony he prayed more earnestly: and his sweat was as it were great drops of blood falling down to the ground." Luke 22:44. This is the cup that Jesus prayed to His Father, "If it be possible let this cup pass from me."

The great Apostle Paul tells us that Jesus' prayer was answered. Speaking of Jesus, he says: "Who in the days of his flesh, when he had offered up prayers and supplications with strong crying and tears unto him that was able to save him from death, and was heard in that he feared". Heb. 5:7.

Jesus did not die in the garden. He wanted to die upon the cross, and save us. Yes, I believe that Jesus' prayers were always answered. Praise His holy name!

WHAT is the real teaching of the "widow's mite" incident recorded in Luke 21:1-3? It is a withering rebuke to ostentatious giving. Those rich men were casting in large gifts, and evidently doing it in such manner as to attract attention to the amounts. They wanted praise from the public for their large gifts. It is safe to say that they got it. They "had their reward." The poor widow who cast in two mites, two-fifths of a cent, really gave more than they all. She gave all she had, all her living.—From Obedience.

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 124 N. Parkside Ave., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois

For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"THIS IS THE VICTORY THAT OVERCOMETH THE WORLD, EVEN OUR FAITH."—1 JOHN 5:4.

REASONS FOR THE ORGANIZATION

THERE has long been a lack of young people's work in the Church of God and of ways and means to interest the young people in the welfare of the church.

The Bereans are trying to fill that want and to provide a system of study and also to outline a plan of work that will be both useful and instructive.

If the young people know and feel that there is a special work for them to do and that they are being held responsible for its completion, they will manifest a greater interest than if they were working with the older members of the church.

Our plans are perhaps different than those of some other existing young people's societies, but our field of usefulness is also different.

We are, in fact, a non sectarian society although we are working auxiliary to the Church of God. Our reason for this is the lack of a young people's society in that church; the principles of that church also allow advancement and believe in reading and studying the Bible as it is written.

Our plan is, first, to educate the young people in the truths of the Bible by a systematic course of lessons prepared for regular weekly study; second, to provide for, and carry on a thorough distribution of tracts and leaflets. This work is to be done by every member of the society. We cannot all preach like Paul, but we can distribute tracts and some of them may prove to be "seed sown in good ground."

The future success and responsibilities of all churches depend on the young people of today. This present training and surroundings are developing the character of their lives.—From a pamphlet, The Bereans: Reasons for the Organization, published in 1900 by the Iowa State Berean Society.

"The Lord hath sent strength for thee."

Psalm 68:28, P. B. V.

THE LORD imparts unto us that primary strength of character which makes everything in life work with intensity and decision. We are "strengthened with might by his Spirit in the inner man." And the strength is continuous; reserves of power come to us which we cannot exhaust.

"As thy days, so shall thy strength be"—strength of will, strength of affection, strength of judgment, strength of ideals and achievement.

"The Lord is my strength" to go on. He gives us power to tread the dead level, to walk the long lane which seems never to have a turning, to go through those long reaches of life which seem to have no pleasant surprises, and which depress the spirits in the sameness of a terrible drudgery.

"The Lord is my strength" to go up. He is to me the power by which I can climb the Hill Difficulty and not be afraid.

"The Lord is my strength" to go down. It is when we leave the bracing heights, where the wind and sun have been about us, and when we begin to come down the hill into closer and more sultry spheres, that the heart is apt to grow faint. I heard a man say the other day concerning his growing physical frailty, "It is the coming down that tires me."

"The Lord is my strength" to sit still. And how difficult is the attainment! Do we not often say to one another, in seasons when we are compelled to be quiet, "If I could only do something!"

When the child is ill, and the mother stands by in comparative impotence, how severe the test! But to do nothing, just to sit still and wait, requires tremendous strength. "The Lord is my strength." "Our sufficiency is of God."

—The Silver Lining.

"Not until each loom is silent,
And the shuttles cease to fly,
Will God unroll the pattern
And explain the reason why
The dark threads are as needful
In the Weaver's skillful hand,
As the threads of gold and silver
For the pattern which He planned."

"BELIEVE God's Word and power more than you believe your own feelings and experiences. Your Rock is Christ, and it is not the Rock which ebbs and flows, but your sea."

—Samuel Rutherford.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

“But they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree; and none shall make them afraid: for the mouth of the Lord of hosts hath spoken it.”—Micah 4:4.

JESUS AND THE SAMARITAN WOMAN

ONE day, toward evening, Jesus left Jerusalem to go into Galilee. His journey led across a part of Samaria. Being very tired He stopped in Samaria to rest beside Jacob's well, while the disciples went on to the village to buy food.

As He waited a Samaritan woman came to the well to draw a jar of water. Jesus asked her to give Him a drink. She was greatly surprised, because she saw He was a Jew, and the Jews looked down on the Samaritans with great contempt.

She said, “How is it that thou, being a Jew, askest drink of me, which am a woman of Samaria?”

Jesus told her that if she knew who it was that spoke to her, she would ask of Him and He would give her living water.

She asked, “Why, you have nothing with which to draw the water, and the well is deep; how and where could you get it? Are you greater than Jacob?”

Jesus answered, “Whoever drinks of this water will thirst again, but whoever shall drink of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst.”

Of course, the woman wanted that kind of water, so she need never come to the well again. She did not understand that He meant eternal life if she would believe and obey.

Then Jesus told her things about her past life; whereupon she said, “I perceive that thou art a prophet.”

Jesus went on to say that the time would come when all might worship “in spirit and in truth.”

She cried, “I know that Messias cometh, which is called Christ: when he is come he will tell us all things.”

Then Jesus said, “I that speak unto thee am he.”

Imagine her astonishment! She left the water jug and hurried to the city, telling people to go see the Christ.

Many believed from what she told them and asked Jesus to teach them more.

He remained in Samaria two days, at the end of which time the Samaritans said, “Now we believe, . . . for we have heard him ourselves, and know that this is indeed the Christ, the Saviour of the world.”

ARE WE really asking for the “water of life”?

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Locate Samaria on the map; find where Jesus was.
2. Read about the Samaritans and why the Jews did not like them.
3. Read about Jacob in Genesis 27, 28 and 29.

WE BELIEVE that people who are raised from the dead will be joint heirs with Christ when He returns—“that we are the children of God: and if children, then heirs: heirs of God, and joint heirs with Christ: if so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together.”—Romans 8:17.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

“Thus saith the Lord God; Remove the diadem, and take off the crown: this shall not be the same: exalt him that is low, and abase him that is high. I will overturn, overturn, overturn, it: and it shall be no more, until he come whose right it is, and I will give it him.”—Ezekiel 21:26, 27.

WEEKLY BIBLE READING

January 22 to 28: Genesis 49 to Exodus 14; Matthew 22 to 28.

LITTLE FEET BE CAREFUL

I washed my hands this morning
So very clean and white,
And then brought them to Jesus
To work for Him till night.

Little feet be careful
Where you take me to,
Anything for Jesus
Only let me do.

I told my ears to listen
Quite closely all day through
For any act of kindness
Such little hands can do.

My eyes are set to watch them
About their work or play,
To keep them out of mischief
For Jesus' sake all day.

—Selected by Sr. N. S. Westfall.

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 4. — January 24, 1932

JESUS AND THE SAMARITAN WOMAN

John 4:1-42

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 55:1-7

GOLDEN TEXT

Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners. — 1 Timothy 1:15.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: The Water of Life.

Basic Truth: "Let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will, let him take of the water of life freely."—Rev. 22:17.

Outline: I. Out in the Desert. II. Poison Springs. III. Living Waters. IV. The Fountain of Life.

I. Out in the Desert. The condition of back-slidden Israel is likened to a desert. Having turned away into sin, God's people are left wandering in a parched and lifeless land. In holding out promise of deliverance to them Jehovah declares, "Behold, I will do a new thing; . . . I will even make a way in the wilderness, and rivers in the desert."—Isa. 43:19. Since the entire world is under the condemnation of sin (Rom. 5:18), all may be said to be suffering in the Desert of Iniquity. There is no relief possible out of Christ.

II. Poison Springs. A desert traveler, dying of thirst, sometimes comes to an inviting spring; but to his great disappointment he finds it marked with a signboard, "POISON!" In these days of false religious teaching an earnest seeker, thirsting after righteousness and truth, is sometimes allured by the pretensions of deceitful men into placing his hopes of salvation in vain promises. The result may be eternal loss. See 1 Tim. 4:1; 2 Tim. 3:13; 2 Peter 2:1, 2.

III. Living Waters. In the stagnant pool lurks poison; but in the constantly flowing fountain is life. The cold and formal observances of the Jews, as well as the false system of worship of the Samaritans, provided nothing but a lifeless image to satisfy the longings of mankind for God. Jesus in Himself is to His followers a never-failing Spring of living spiritual water. He lives in each responsive heart and life, and like "streams in the desert" preserves them blameless unto His coming. 1 Thess. 5:23; 2 Peter 3:14-18.

IV. The Fountain of Life. Not only does Jesus provide in Himself a perennial source of spiritual blessing for the constant needs of those who believe in Him; but He will in the future provide for their eternal requirements as well. The language of Paul in Romans 6:5 is being fulfilled today, in our present spiritual experience. "If we have been planted together in the likeness of his death (baptism), we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection." Following our symbolic death and burial, the symbol is maintained in our resurrection to a new life in Christ Jesus. "If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above . . . For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God. When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory."—Col. 3:1-4. Just as Jesus provides the water of spiritual life today, so will He provide the water of eternal life when He comes.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

WELL OF WATER:

It was at a well of water that Jesus met the Samaritan woman. She was drawing water; Jesus offered to give her water whereby she would not thirst any more, and the water which He would give would be a well of water springing up into everlasting life.

WORSHIP NECESSARY:

Worship is necessary in the life of every true disciple. The individual that doesn't worship God regularly and systematically is not following scriptural injunctions. Paul in his Hebrew epistle writes: "Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another and so much the more, as ye see the day approaching."—Heb. 10:25. Irregular worship is one of the surest ways of developing indifference, slothfulness, and a lukewarm disposition in Christian service. The occasional attendant at church (when it is possible to be regular) is never an enthusiastic worshiper of God.

SPIRIT AND TRUTH:

The two words above describe the necessary requirements for acceptable worship. We must possess the spirit and be in the spirit of God before we can render true worship to God. If a person comes to church with an ugly, hateful, or revengeful spirit, can that person truly worship the Father? Can a person really possess the spirit of God when he is fulfilling the lusts of the flesh? Gal. 5:15-25. Truth is the second essential condition. This thought is further emphasized in John 8:32: "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." If you would be well-pleasing to the Father, buy the truth and sell it not.—C. E. R.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT

How Jesus Deals With Sinners

The great principle that motivated Jesus in His dealings with sinners was revealed to Joseph in a dream: "Thou shalt call his name Jesus, for he shall save his people from their sins."—Matt. 1:21. Jesus was ever true to that God-given principle, as is evident in Luke 9:51-56. The Samaritans had rejected Jesus, and their actions were very displeasing to James and John. They came to their Master and asked: "Lord, wilt thou that we command fire to come down from heaven, and consume them, even as Elias did?" But Jesus

"turned and rebuked them, and said, Ye know not what manner of Spirit ye are of. For the Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them."

This manner of dealing with sinners is further illustrated in Christ's dealing with the woman taken in adultery. He did not uphold the sin, but He was unwilling for the woman to be killed as the law of Moses demanded. (Lev. 20:10.) A dead person cannot repent or accept the gospel. And while God is very merciful to us in this dispensation, we must not be deceived into believing we can be saved regardless of what we may do. The salvation of the cross will end, and Jesus will come "in flaming fire taking vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ: who will be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power; when he shall come to be glorified in his saints."—2 Thess. 1:8-10.

Remember, "the Lamb of God" is merciful, but "the Lion of the tribe of Judah" will rule with a rod of iron.—H. A. S.

PRIMARY CLASS

Topic: Jesus Talking With a Samaritan Woman.

Memory Verse: John 4:14.

Tell the children something of the historic and religious reasons for hatred between the Jews and the Samaritans. And tell them why wells in that desert country are important resting places.

Jesus was resting beside a well that Jacob had dug in Samaria. The trees made a pleasant shade. His disciples had gone into the city to buy food. A Samaritan woman came to draw water, and Jesus asked her for a drink. She was surprised and said, "You Jews hate my country so; why do you ask me for a drink?" Jesus answered, "If you knew who I am, you would have asked me for a drink." She thought He was boasting, for she saw He had nothing to draw water with. She said to Him, "Do you think you are greater than Jacob, who dug this well?" Then Jesus explained to her that she must do the will of God and she would have everlasting life. It was the teachings of Jesus, not water, that He wanted her to drink of. (Explain to the children the common phrase, "Drink in his words.") He went on, and ended by telling her that He was the Savior. She went back to the village and told her friends about Jesus, and they asked Him to stay with them for a while. Many of them became His disciples.

Make it clear to the children how they may "drink of the living water." If possible, let them act out the story.—G. M. M.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

PLUM RIVER SERVICES

Next Sunday is the regular time for services with the brethren at the Plum River (Illinois) church. Bro. C. E. Lapp will be the speaker, and we urge a full attendance at both services, morning and evening. Sunday school opens at ten o'clock.

AT WCMA

Definite information is not at hand as to who will be the speaker at WCMA, Culver, Ind., for next Sunday, the 17. We understand that our ministers will broadcast from this station throughout January and February. But none of the Oregon groups being able to get WCMA clearly last Sunday, we do not have this information to give our readers.

ONCE MORE

Will you please look at once at the label on the wrapper of your Herald? If you find your subscription in arrears, will you not send us the amount necessary to put it in the "paid in advance" class? If you are not able to do so at once, please let us know just when you will. Otherwise we may be forced to discontinue many subscriptions. Do not postpone this! Thank you.

NIAGARA FALLS AND FONTHILL

The Falls' Bereans spent a very pleasant social evening together recently.

The many friends of Sr. Angeline Lent will be sorry to learn that she has had a stroke. She is however progressing quite favorably.

Elder William Moore of the Falls church has suffered considerably lately from a car-buncle.

Last word of Bro. Rennard was to the effect that his neuritis is being helped some by certain baths he is taking.

Quite a large gathering of the Fonthill members spent a very enjoyable New Year's Eve at the home of Bro. and Sr. Randall.

ELDORADO, ILLINOIS

Regular church services were held at the Eldorado church, Saturday and Sunday evenings, and Sunday morning, Jan. 2 and 3, by Bro. C. E. Lapp, the sermons being three of the best that have ever been delivered at this place.

Bro. Lapp arrived Thursday morning, but his coming was not much announced until that evening, when a group of church friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shain to usher out the old and welcome in the new year, a pleasant surprise, I'll say. The evening was well spent and a devotional service was held during the midnight hour.

The little church paper, being edited by our pastor, proved to arouse a lot of interest, not only in our church, but in other churches as well. On the back of the paper some items, "How to Kill Your Church," were read before the Methodist Sunday school here last Sunday.

Last month Bro. Lapp was accompanied by Bros. LeCrone and Smead, which was greatly appreciated by all, especially by the young folks (we are all young). Come again, boys.

We are expecting and planning to have our building wired and the lights connected by our next monthly meeting, which will be a great help in our work here.

Juanita Shain Loyd.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

After the Christmas rush was over the pastor was confined to bed for over a week with the most serious illness for many years. He is thankful to be up and going strong again now, however. Bro. Courson very kindly filled the pulpit on Jan. 3.

The installation service for the new officers had to be postponed. The present plan is to hold it Sunday morning, Jan. 17.

On Jan. 6 the pastor was called to conduct the funeral of Mrs. Eltha Mervau at the Dutton church. Mrs. Mervau had lived neighbor to the church and been well known by our people for many years, and the building was crowded full in her honor.

Bro. Townsend has been working his wits out trying to arrange places and seating for the Sunday school classes. Having grown now to fourteen classes, and some of them very large it is surely some task in our size building.

1932 is heading out well, and we expect it to be a splendid year in our church work.

F. E. Siple, Pastor.

COMMUNICATION

Dear Brothers and Sisters: We hear folks often speak of rally day. Well, dear ones, there is one thing we must rally to, and that is to the support of The Herald. It carries the gospel message near and far and the good news of our soon coming Lord. How we thank the writers for their untiring labor. We can send the peeper to our friends and they, too, can learn. We are to sow the good seed and God will give the increase.

Did you ever stop to think God did not say we should convert anyone? But He did say we should teach, and He also said that if there is no work done there is no reward. Oh, how we do rejoice in our hope of the great reward! And we should, but it is promised on conditions. Our blessed Lord will do His part, and He expects us to do ours.

I do hope that all who can will help with the dollar-a-month club. It is your chance and my chance to help sow the good seed. I need not tell you the time is short in which we have to work. The signs are speaking louder and louder that we are near the end of the race.

Your sister in Christ,

Mrs. W. H. Eidemiller.

CONTRIBUTORS TO DOLLAR-A-MONTH CLUB AND OTHER PHASES

Elizabeth Ordnung; Mrs. Julia Ordnung; W. A. Reid; Mrs. Rush L. DeNise; Mrs. F. A. DeCamp; Mrs. Chas. Harris; Ida F. Orem; Marian R. Richards; Elder G. A. Brown; Mrs. Diana Murphy; Lillian Greiner; Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Kirkpatrick; W. E. Boyer; Leland and Mary Hanson; Dorothy Krogh; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Netts; Mrs. David Beck; Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Austin; Lawrenceville Church and Sunshine Class; Conrad Dickel; N. Goodreau; Mrs. Faye Brown; Mr. and Mrs. Howard; Frances Wynne; Vivian Magaw; Dorothy Magaw; Leila E. Whitehead; Mrs. Anna Wertz; Mary M. Renner; Mrs. R. A. Robinson; Leota Hanson; Florence Hanson; Mrs. Arra Hanson; Harold and Esta Starbuck; Kathryn Lansbery; Mrs. Martha Walls; Marjorie Mogle; Mrs. Nora Johnson; Mrs. Thos. Savage, Sr.; Sadie Savage; W. M. Bowers.

REPORT FOR DECEMBER

Sermons: Pleasant View, 2; Rensselaer, 2; Culver, 1; Plymouth, 1; North Salem, 1; Hillisburg, 2; Lakeville, 3.

Money received: Pleasant View, $27.00; Rensselaer, $30.00; Plymouth, $15.00; North Salem, $6.00; Sr. Porter, $2.00; Dale Rouch, $1.00; Ernest Logan for Lakeville, $11.00; others for Lakeville, $1.50; Burr Oak, $8.32; Hillisburg, $15.00; Due from Conference Board, $3.18. Expense, $21.00.

Note: We had the pleasure of preaching the truth to the people of Lakeville for three evenings. Bro. Ernest Logan secured the Christian church for the services.

J. H. Anderson.

HERALD HELPING FUND

Miss Mary Doll	$1.00
M. A. Woodward	.50
Jesse Harrold	1.00

HERALD RECEIPTS

M. A. Woodward (for others); Mrs. Mattie Scott; Jesse Weaver; Helen Porter; E. E. Mills; Mrs. F. A. DeCamp; T. F. Elliott; H. W. Patterson; Mrs. Rush L. Denise; Mrs. G. R. Booth; Mrs. Lydia Gelletly; Dorothy Magaw; Elizabeth Louise May; George M. Siple; M. C. Brake; Nora Johnson; Mabel Drummond; George Finney; Mrs. Lillian Dauntler; Mrs. Anna Wertz; Miss Mary Doll (for self and others); Jesse Harrold; Belle McCandless; Mrs. Faye L. Brown; George Jones; Alta King; George Rennard; Mrs. E. Engbretson; E. R. Chandler; Mrs. W. B. Houston; V. C. Railsback.

SISTER JESSIE L. FISH

Sr. Jessie L. Fish was born on October 18, 1856, in Springfield, Ohio, and died in this same city on November 14, 1931. She was the youngest daughter of Bro. and Sr. Wm. Fish, who were the first of the faith in Springfield. She was baptized by Elder D. C. Robinson and remained faithful until death. She was survived only by nephews and nieces, among whom were Sr. Mamie L. Kauffman of Springfield, who cared for her before death, and Sr. Jessie Kauffman of Riverside, California.

Funeral services were conducted by the writer on Tuesday, Nov. 17, at her home in Springfield, after which she was laid to rest in Ferncliff cemetery, there to await the coming of the Lord.

Sydney E. Magaw, Pastor.

JAMES JEFFREY

James Jeffrey, son of Peter and Mary Petigrew Jeffrey, was born at Mt. Carbon, Ill., on March 7, 1869, and died at his home in Herrin, Ill., on Dec. 23, 1931. His death came as a great shock to the city in which he lived and to his many friends elsewhere, as he was apparently in his usual health until a few hours before his death from heart trouble.

"Jim" Jeffrey, as he was familiarly known to his many friends, is said to have been the best known mine man in the Herrin district, having been engaged in mining operations since he became old enough to do so. He became a licensed hoisting engineer when twenty-one years of age, and held other mining papers and was experienced in many angles of the mining business. He was associated with his father, Peter Jeffrey, and other prominent coal men in the Jeffrey mine project, and a member of the company that sunk that mine. He was also connected with other mining properties in that vicinity, and was vice-president of the Carterville-Herrin Coal Company.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME—

In 1890 he was united in marriage with Miss Ella Lewis, of Murphysboro, to which marriage three children were born, one of them dying in infancy. His wife died in 1896. In 1898 he was united in marriage with Miss Ida Elles, of Carterville, to which union three children were born, one of whom died when eighteen months old.

At his death he left surviving, of his immediate family, his wife, Mrs. Ida Jeffrey, four daughters, Mrs. Ed. Foehr, Mrs. B. T. Houlihan, of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Loran Margrave, of Herrin, and Miss Valita Jeffrey, teacher of music in Winona State Teachers College at Winona, Minn., with one sister, Mrs. James Donaly, of Carterville, three brothers, Peter, of California, Albert of Orient and John, of New Athens, and two grandchildren, Mary Elizabeth and Edward Foehr, of Detroit, Mich.

He was a man of sterling qualities, honest and dependable, generous and of cheerful disposition, highly respected by his neighbors and business associates and loved by his chums on hunting and fishing tours—his pastime recreations. The great number of business associates, neighbors, and friends who attended the last sad rites at the home and grave, and the profusion of beautiful floral pieces gave silent testimony of the love and respect in which he was held by those who knew him.

After appropriate memorial services he was laid to rest in Tower Hill cemetery, in Murphysboro.

L. E. Conner.

MRS. J. A. SQUIRES

Libbie Dolling was born on April 3, 1860, and fell asleep in Jesus on December 31, 1931. She was married to J. A. Squires on June 23, 1878. She, together with her husband, was baptized into the saving name of Jesus fifty years ago by Bro. S. C. Oliver. She spent the greater part of her married life in Harper and Ford counties, Kansas; came to California in 1923 and lived at Lynwood since then. She has always been a faithful member of the family of Jesus; seldom did a service find her absent. She entered into efforts to spread the gospel in Lynwood by holding a meeting at her home to which she invited her friends and relatives.

She was the mother of eight children, and had many grandchildren, and several great-grandchildren, who with her husband survive to mourn her loss. The church in southern California and her many friends will miss her greatly.

Services were conducted at the Neel Parlors at Compton; the pastor, assisted by Brothers J. E. Hammond and C. E. Hatch, conducted the services both there and at the mausoleum. Interment was made at the Angeles Abbey at Compton, California, where she awaits the call of the Lord. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord; yea, saith the spirit, that they may rest from their labours."

"Mother, thou wert mild and lovely,
Gentle as the summer breeze,
Pleasant as the air at evening
As it moves among the trees.

"We will miss thee, yes, we'll miss thee,
While you take your gentle rest,
But we know that we will meet you
In the land among the blest."

Norman John McLeod.

Bro. Austin was a welcome caller at headquarters one day during the past week, coming for some of his books which he was not able to take with him last fall. He looked very natural in the old surroundings. Come again, Bro. Austin.

Those within driving distance of the Dixon church remember that there will be services each evening this week and perhaps longer, beginning at 7:30. We pray that during these meetings the Dixon brethren will be greatly strengthened and some will make their decision for Christ.

Sr. F. L. Austin, who so generously sent scores of those little "drop-a-dime" bags to brothers and sisters and friends all over the country, requests that they be returned to Miss Elizabeth Ordnung, Oregon, Ill., instead of to her. Sr. Ordnung is the treasurer of the Oregon church, and as the proceeds of these bags are devoted to the building fund, they must needs be sent to her finally. This will save double handling. Thank you.

Twelve individuals received pins for a year's perfect attendance at Sunday school at Oregon, Ill. Enthusiasm has been stirred up, and several more have started out the new year with the intention of receiving pins at the end of 1932. Among the twelve are Sr. Elsie Cullen and three of her young sons, which we think is a fine record for one family.

We regret to learn that Bro. George Renard of our Niagara Falls church is still suffering with neuritis and hasn't been able to work for four months. Bro. Wm. Moore, their first elder, submitted to a minor operation last week, and Sr. Angeline Lent suffered a stroke on Dec. 27, but is at present slightly improved. Let us remember these dear ones in our petitions to our heavenly Father.

Our aged brother, N. H. Geiselman, of Tampa, Florida, is still strong in service for the Master. Last Sunday the "Lynn Avenue Church," with which he is associated, held dedication services. Bro. Geiselman spoke at the afternoon service on the problems of governments, both human and divine. Bro. Geiselman has suffered much because of death's hand upon his loved ones and financial reverses, but is still strong in faith.

Sr. R. A. Robinson, Clyde, N. Carolina, is one of the most faithful members of our dollar-a-month club, contributing not from her abundance, but sometimes "all her living". She says she finds much help in bearing her burdens by reading the pages of The Herald. Let us remember her, too, with others who need our prayers.

Our editor, Brother G. Eldred Marsh, desires to express in these columns his deep sympathy with Brother J. A. Squires of Lynwood, California, in his recent bereavement. In the death of Sister Squires the Los Angeles church has lost a most faithful and useful member, and the community in which she lived a splendid neighbor and friend. The Squires home has been thrown open for years as a meeting place for the friends of truth. Through the untiring efforts of Brother and Sister Squires an interest was built up in Lynwood that will result in lasting good. We shall meet again when the Master comes.

Sr. Lucille LeCrone, former student in the N. B. I. Training Class, has been engaged to speak each Sunday morning for the brethren at Blair, Nebr. We look for reports of some good work done for the Master by Sr. LeCrone.

Bro. Sydney E. Magaw, in sending the obituary of Sr. Jessie L. Fish, found in this issue, requests your pardon for its late appearance. The reason for this was that it was first lost, then forgotten, and finally rewritten.

Because of the fact that he was called to Cleveland to conduct a funeral, Bro. Conner requested Bro. Marsh to open the series of meetings at the Dixon church on Sunday the 10th. Bro. Paul C. Johnson conducted the services at Oregon in the morning and Bro. Richard LeCrone, in the evening, both giving some good food for thought.

From Bro. H. A. Sheets' church bulletin we learn that Bro. S. E. Boyer, one of Virginia's most loyal workers, is not in his usual good health. Bro. Sheets is searching for an appropriate name for his little church paper. We suggest, "The Virginia Lookout". Bro. Sheets includes good words for The Restitution Herald, which he says should be in every Church of God home.

We wish to express our hearty thanks to Sr. Jessie W. Donaldson, of Baldwin, N. Y., for her gift of that valuable little publication, "Words of Life". Throughout the year we will be aided again and again in seeking thoughts and in using extracts for the pages of The Herald. Thank you, Sr. Donaldson.

One by one the members of the Training Class are finding their places of service in the Master's vineyard. Bro. Cecil Smead did not return to class after the holidays, being engaged permanently as pastor by the Burr Oak brethren. While we miss this good student from the classes, yet we rejoice in his broader field of labor and pray that God's directing hand will be with him in all his efforts.

Dear Editor, Bro. Marsh: Will you please express my sincere thanks to the dear brothers and sisters of The Restitution Herald for their kind letters and tokens of love and the lovely Christmas cards? This is an answer to all their letters and cards and to Bro. Lyman Booth. His letter to me was a real gospel sermon. I received in all from old acquaintances and dear neighbors and others of our faith and other Christian denominations, 110 letters and cards. It is impossible in these hard times to reply, but I will not forget one of you in my prayers and ask you all to pray for this old sister in Christ.

Mrs. E. Pendleton,
1132 Third St., Webster City, Iowa.

To The Restitution Herald and to all the brothers and sisters of the household of faith in Christ:

I am still strong in the faith and looking for our Redeemer and King. It seems that we are in the last days and that the time is about ripe for His coming. So I am watching and waiting for His return. I will be eighty-six years old in February and very poorly. I feel as though my days are about over. So I ask the prayers of the household of faith that I may stand firm to the end.

Jesse Harrold.
Blythedale, Missouri.

WE'RE BROADCASTING

By Ida Lapp

"And the prisoners heard them" (R. V., "were listening").—Acts 16:25.

BECAUSE of their preaching at Thyatira and because of their casting out an evil spirit from a damsel who was bringing much gain to her masters, Paul and Silas were brought into court, beaten with many stripes and then cast into prison. In order to carry out the orders which he had received, the jailor "thrust them into the inner prison and made their feet fast in the stocks." There in that position and under those circumstances, at midnight Paul and Silas began praying and singing "praises unto their God; and the prisoners heard them."

Mocking birds sing at night, but jailbirds seldom sing. Heavenly strains rang out through the jail, the walls of which, no doubt, were accustomed to the re-echoing of profanity and vile words. However, here was a new experience taking place in the dark dungeon. Men singing and praising God at midnight, while they were held uncomfortably in wooden stocks, and the prisoners "listening in"! As Paul and Silas continued, there was a great earthquake; the foundations of the prison were shaken; the prison doors were opened; and the chains of iron fell from the hands of the prisoners.

The prison keeper, hearing the commotion, seeing the prison doors open and supposing the prisoners all to have fled, drew out his sword ready to kill himself, when Paul cried out unto him, "Do thyself no harm; for we are all here." Then trembling and falling down before Paul and Silas, the jailor said, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?"

Such bold witnesses! Paul and Silas in prison, in shame and disgrace, in stocks, with bleeding backs, and singing praises unto God, at midnight! Did they, in body, feel like singing under these circumstances? Were they not in misery and pain through dark, dismal hours of the night? Had anyone bathed their wounds and put them into snowy white beds for rest? Nevertheless through it all they could shout and sing, for they reckoned that the sufferings of this present time were not worthy to be compared with the glory which should be revealed in them, when their Savior and King should return in all His glory.

It sometimes seems that Christ has done very little for some of us. We are unable to stand the least persecution for His sake. We go about with a gloomy look on our faces, even fearing to mention to our closest friend or relative that hope which we hold most dear in our lives, thinking they will laugh at us or think us queer. We grumble and complain over this thing and that, and the unbeliever sees that we are "down in the dumps" most of the time.

We, as followers of Christ, are constantly "broadcasting" by our words and actions, and someone—possibly a prisoner of sin—is "listening in". What kind of impressions are you and I making in this world? Do the messages that we send out cause any to ask, "What must I do to be saved?" Oh, where are the Christians who, like Paul and Silas, can sing in the dark hours when everything seems against them? Where are the Christians who always have their lights burning brightly, guiding men upward to God? Jesus said, "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven."

THE TEST OF DISCIPLESHIP

By Lydia A. Railsback

EVERY true Christian is a disciple of Christ, but all do not stand the same test. For instance, Judas betrayed his Master; Peter denied Him; John always clung to Him; others deserted when the test came. Just so with Christians today. Some are much stronger in faith and live close to the Father and His dear Son, while others scarcely live within the realm we call Christianity.

Matthew tells us (10:32, 33) that "whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also before my Father which is in heaven. But whosoever shall deny me before men, him will I also deny before my Father which is in heaven."

There are different ways of confessing or denying. The old saying that "Actions speak louder than words" is just as true in confessing or denying Jesus as it is in any other way. Many times I fear that the gayeties of the Christmas season deny the Christ more than they acknowledge Him by the nature of the entertainment. There are times that we possibly really deny the Savior by just keeping still and not upholding His name.

One may be quite sure of himself in thinking he will always be true and serve the Master, and yet in an unguarded moment he may be like Peter. At one time Peter said, "Lo, we have left all and followed thee"; then when the multitude came to take Jesus, he was so enthusiastic about defending Him that he cut off the ear of one of the number. On another occasion Peter said to Christ, "Though I should die with thee, yet will I not deny thee"; and that very night when the test came, he even swore and cursed and said, "I know not the man". Poor Peter, how sorry he was for what he had done when he realized the situation!

Paul admonishes the Corinthian brethren, 10:12, "Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall"; and 'tis many times the case when we think we are all right, just at that moment we are off our guard and are apt to fall by yielding to some temptation. Let us be constantly on our guard and profit by Paul's admonition so that when the test comes we may not be "weighed in the balance and found wanting", but true to the Father and His dear Son. May we hear the "well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, JANUARY 19, 1932

NUMBER 16

THE ONLY TRUE GOD

By G. Eldred Marsh

"He that cometh to God must believe that he is."—Hebrews 11:6.

HIDDEN within the secret chambers of every human heart is an inborn consciousness of God. Men may deny his existence; they may not believe in His providence; they may ridicule His Word; but they cannot entirely escape from the insistent testimony of their own hearts that God is! Without a prophet, church, or Bible, the world would, and the world did, believe in God.

The imprint of His creative hand is seen everywhere. In the depths of the ocean, on the snow-capped mountain peaks, in the winding paths of the rills and rivers, throughout the wide expanse of the heavens, and in the dense fullness of the earth the Creator has left traces of His presence! "If I ascend up into heaven, thou art there; if I make my bed in hell, behold, thou art there. If I take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea; even there shall thy hand lead me, and thy right hand hold me."—Psalm 139:8-10.

It is this universal consciousness of God that prompts man to worship and indicates his innate spiritual capacity. Further, it is this spiritual capacity that lifts him above the brute creation and gives him "dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth."—Genesis 1:28.

Such general acknowledgment of God, however, is not sufficient to satisfy the spiritual cravings of men; nor does it supply an adequate basis for faith in Him. The Master asserted that "this is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent."—John 17:3. To know the only true God means more than simply to believe that there is a God. One must have sufficient knowledge of facts concerning Him to establish confidence in His goodness, power, and wisdom. Paul brings this thought out very clearly when he asserts that "he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him."

To conceive of God other than as a person, an individual, would be not only exceedingly difficult but unscriptural as well; for throughout the Bible the Supreme Being is described as possessing bodily characteristics and functions. He is said to have sight, hearing, feeling, etc., and to experience the emotions of "love," "mercy," and even "hatred" and "jealousy." Of course, such terms when applied to God under some circumstances have a different significance from what the same terms do when applied to man.

To know the only true God in the sense in which Jesus uses the expression requires belief in His unity. It is necessary that we should know that there is only one true God. To believe otherwise is unscriptural; therefore, un-Christian. When "one of the scribes came, and . . . asked him, Which is the first commandment of all? Jesus answered him, The first of all the commandments is, Hear, O Israel, the Lord our God is one Lord."—Matt. 12:28, 29. In making this response Jesus but echoed the teaching of Moses and the prophets. "Have we not all one Father? Hath not one God created us?"—Mal. 2:10. "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth . . . So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them."—Gen. 1:1, 27.

One God created us in the image of Himself. Was man created in the image of an invisible principle? Was he made in the likeness of an immaterial force? Can one conceive of an image being made of something that does not possess substance? that cannot be seen?

Paul, in perfect agreement with the Old Testament writers, declares, "There is none other God but one . . . . To us, there is but one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we in him." 1 Cor. 8:4, 6. According to this inspired statement, the Christian does not recognize a Deity composed of more than one individual; that is, God, the Father." This is the God whom we worship.

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

"Ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, from your vain conversation received from your fathers; but with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot."

The Editor's Prayer

OUR FATHER: Inspire us, we pray, with a realization of our sacred duty unto Thee; that we are not our own; that all we are and have are Thine to use in whatsoever way and place as may best advance Thy cause. Forgive our rebellion against Thee, and make us ever submissive to Thy will. Amen.

The Greater Task

CONSTANT pressure is being brought to bear by certain agencies to induce the minister of the gospel to open his pulpit to the discussion of various questions having to do with political and social reform movements such as prohibition, social purity, and the restriction of the use of narcotics.

The purpose back of each of these organized efforts is, no doubt, most praiseworthy. No thoughtful man or woman would deny the great desirability of freeing our own country and all the world from the fetters of intemperance and vice. These social evils are apparently increasing rather than diminishing, and anything that Christian people can do to stem the tide should be encouraged.

On the other hand, the Captain of our salvation has assigned a task to His people for their accomplishment which is so great in conception, and so far-reaching in results, that it dwarfs into comparative unimportance any purpose that the world can name.

The work of the church is neither reformatory nor political. It is first destructive, and then recreative. It does not seek to reform or remake the sinner: the gospel of Jesus Christ destroys him; it causes him to die unto sin. His death to sin having been brought about, the gospel becomes "the power of God unto salvation," and raises him out of his dead condition to a new life of spiritual service.

Its creative energy does not end here. It continues to stimulate his new-found spiritual faculties to constant activity. He grows "in grace" from day to day. He becomes ever more like His Master in thought and deed. He is moved by the pulsing force of the spirit of truth to present his body "a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God," and to consider such complete consecration but a "reasonable service."

The force which the church has put into operation by the will of God increases in potency throughout the believer's life, and when death claims him it does not lose its power, but will bring him forth "at the last day."

To transform is better than to reform. To make a "new creature" is better than to improve an old one. To provide men with eternal life is better than to prolong their natural lives. To aid them to gain a home in the kingdom of God is better than to furnish them with a home today.

The first great task of the church of God is to preach the gospel, and that is the greatest and most important work in the world. Nothing else can be compared with it. Nothing else must be permitted to take its place as the chief objective of God's people.

The Trinity

THE following comments on the Trinity will be of interest to our readers:

"So far as the formulated doctrine (of the Trinity) is concerned, . . . it is of course not essential to salvation; for comparatively few Christians even, to say nothing of mankind in general, know anything about this or any other doctrine."—Dr. Robert V. Foster, D. D., Professor of Systematic Theology in the Cumberland Presbyterian Theological Seminary, in his work on Systematic Theology.

"None of the early fathers were Trinitarians. . . . Theodosius, the tenth, professedly Christian emperor of Rome (379 A. D.), was the first baptized in the faith of the Trinity."—N. Summerbell, in his Discussion on the Trinity.

Theodosius, mentioned above, suffered a severe illness following a difficult but successful military campaign, "and, in the belief that his end was near, received baptism at the hands of Ascolius, the orthodox bishop of Thessalonica. His baptism was followed, February 28, 380, by an edict which imposed the Nicene Creed (Trinitarian) on his subjects as the faith of the land."—McClintock and Strong, Cyclopaedia of Biblical, Theological, and Ecclesiastical Literature.

Summerbell continues, "At that time (380 A. D.) all Christian nations rejected it (i. e., the Trinity). Of forty-five councils held in the fourth century, embracing the largest councils held in the early ages, only thirteen of the smaller ones held the Trinity, while thirty-two opposed it."

THE GOSPEL

By George B. Alldridge

AFTER reading the article, "Authority", by Brother Marsh, this paragraph arrested and held my attention: "The instructions of Paul and of the other apostles and of the Lord Jesus Christ, have been recorded for succeeding generations in the Bible. From this Book of divine origin we are able to secure all the information needed to transmit to the world the 'truth that saves'."

Paul says, "But if our gospel be hid, it is hid to them that are lost; in whom the god of this world hath blinded the minds of them that believe not, lest the light of the glorious gospel of Christ, who is the image of God, should shine unto them".—2 Cor. 4:3, 4.

I turn back to Matthew 4:16, 17 and read: "The people which sat in darkness saw great light; and to them which sat in the region and shadow of death light is sprung up." Note the following: "From that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand."

In the face of these words I read in 1 Corinthians 9:16, "For though I preach the gospel, I have nothing to glory of: for necessity is laid upon me; yea, woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel."

What is this gospel then, which Paul says, if it is hid, it is hid unto them who are lost? Well, Paul makes it very clear in 1 Timothy 1:10: "But is now made manifest by the appearing of our Saviour, Jesus Christ, who hath abolished death, and hath brought life and immortality to light through the gospel."

Then the gospel is that Christ came to save men's lives. Never mind, brethren, about the King, His associates, His capital, the subjects, and the territory that will constitute His kingdom. For discussion of these interesting questions, I must refer you to the intellectuals of our number. What the writer wishes to broadcast and write about is, that men are dying, that when they are dead, they are dead, and have no hope of ever obtaining life again—except only by a belief in the gospel.

This question Jesus asked: "For what would it benefit a man, if he gain the whole world, but should lose his life? or what will a man give in exchange for his life?" Matt. 16:26, Farrar Fenton translation.

In Matthew 18:11 we read, "For the Son of man is come to save that which was lost." In Luke 9:56, "For the Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them."

What, then, was that? Adam our forefather by disobedience forfeited or sacrificed his life unto sin. Listen to these words, "Because, as by one man sin entered the world, and through the sin the death, and thus death passed into all men, supposing indeed that all sin."—Romans 5:12, F. F. translation.

Now, brethren, God does not condemn the sinner on account of Adam's sin, but because of sin, mortality or mortal beings cannot escape death, for all are sinners. I wish to make this point very clear. Romans 6:23 reads: "For the wages of sin is death: but the free gift of God is eternal life in Jesus Christ our Lord."—F. F. God is a just and holy God. Hence all sinners are entitled to their wages, and that is death. God cannot do otherwise and be just and holy.

I wish to quote a few scriptures. Isaiah 3:11: "Woe unto the wicked: it shall be ill with him: for the reward (note, reward) of his hands shall be given him."

1 Corinthians 6:9: "Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived; neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind."

Galatians 6:7: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption: but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting."

Revelation 21:8: "But the fearful, and unbelieving, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone: which is the second death."

Brethren, this question of life and death is a very serious question. Jesus thought, taught, and acted so, and so should we. Listen to this: "Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat. Because strait is the gate and narrow is the way which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it."—Matt. 7:13, 14.

Note 1 John 5:19: "And we know that we are of God, and the whole world lieth in wickedness." Solemn words are these, brethren. Do we realize that men are lost and that the means of saving them, or rather the source of information, if they will heed and obey, rests in our hands?

Paul says, using simple language, "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek. For therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith to faith; as it is written, The just shall live by faith."—Rom. 1:16, 17.

Continued on page 250

AN EXHORTATION

By John L. Wince

Have your lamps all trimmed and burning,
Filled with love and holy yearning,
Waiting for your Lord's returning.

Gird yourselves, and be in waiting,
Nothing from your zeal abating,
Worldly pomp and glory hating.

Be ye patient and forbearing,
In reproaches, meekly sharing,
In the right, be brave and daring.

Poor in life and low in station,
Mind it not, for your relation
Is by faith, in God's salvation.

Things are waxing old and hoary;
Soon will dawn the promised glory,
Burden of the prophet's story.

In the East, the light is breaking;
Palestine to life is waking;
European thrones are shaking.

Soon, ah, soon the heavens rending
Will reveal the Lord descending
To a reign of peace unending!

A MIXED MULTITUDE

By C. E. Lapp

*"And a mixed multitude went up also with them;
and flocks, and herds, even very much cattle."*

—Exodus 12:38.

WE ALL remember the story, as related in Exodus, of the children of Israel being led out of the land of Egypt, and it is a common thought that only the chosen people came out of the land. If we will examine the text a little more closely, we will find, in Exodus 12:38, that there went out with the Israelites "a mixed multitude". A number of the happenings that befell the Israelites can be more readily understood, when we take into consideration the people that were with them.

As we follow them on their trip from Egypt to the promised land, there are many times when they show a great lack of faith in God. Let us consider Numbers 11:4, and see if there is a reason for this. It says, "The mixed multitude that was among them fell to lusting: and the children of Israel also wept again, and said, "Who shall give us flesh to eat?" Because of the sin of the other people and because of their own lack of faith, the Israelites began to turn away in doubt and question whether God would be able to fulfill the promises He had made.

They had seen the mighty acts of God and all of His wonderful miracles, and yet when these people started to sin and to doubt God's power, the Israelites fell in with them and began also to sin and doubt. Because of their unbelief and doubt, God finally destroyed them in the wilderness, except for those under twenty years of age at the time of the Exodus.

A multitude of people are being taken out of the world to become the bride of Christ, and they are not traveling alone. Christ plainly warns us to beware of false prophets which come in sheep's clothing. Somehow our eyes have become so hardened that we think little or nothing about them. False teachers are coming into the church and telling us that everyone will eventually be saved; they are taking away the true value of the Savior and leaving in our minds doubt. Christ said, "By their fruits ye shall know them."

Therefore, when men teach that the reason for the non-acceptance of Christ in this present time is misunderstanding and not because of sin, we can know of a surety that they are opposing the teachings of Christ, which were made very plain. He very plainly stated that: "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, and he that believeth not shall be damned."

In 2 Peter 3, we find that scoffers will come and say, "Where is the promise of his coming?" They are willingly ignorant of the fact that God created the heavens and earth; that He also once destroyed every living creature on the earth by a flood, and is going to repeat judgment on the earth again, but by fire.

We are living in days such as are spoken of by Paul, when he said that Christ should not come unless there come a falling away first. Surely we can see the falling away on every hand, and we can also see the tottering governments of all nations, all of which things foretell the end of the age.

Now is the time when we should be true. Now is the time we should test every spirit to see if it be of God or if it be the spirit of antichrist. Now is the time to set our affections on things above and not on things on earth. Now is the time when we should take the Bible as absolute truth and stand on its precious promises, regardless of what any man shall tell us. Now is the time to heed the exhortation of our Savior when He said, "Watch and pray."

A mixed multitude is marching on to the end of the age. Like the Israelites of old, the true followers of Christ have foreigners amongst them that are continually pointing out supposed flaws and defects in the Bible. Shall we take the words of the Master when He said, "Enter ye in at the strait gate," and live a consecrated life, or shall we listen to all the false teachers and the doubting Thomases and go into the wide gate that leadeth to destruction?

T I M E

---

By Norman John McLeod

---

TIME is a peculiar thing. Along with such things as truth and space, it cannot be defined. Like other things that involve the infinite, it frustrates investigation. Just what does our clock or our calendar tell us?

The Romans began their year on the fifteenth (ides) of March. Why was that not thought a good place by Caesar when he changed the official year to the solar year? Why must we begin our year on the first of January? To me it is most mysterious. Why should a year begin any particular time? How did men find out the solar year?

Away back at the dawn of history the Egyptians found out about the solar year by calculations of the floods of the Nile. Later they calculated the solar year by means of the great pyramid of Khufu, by sighting across its summit to the head of the Great Sphinx. They found that it took 365 $\frac{1}{4}$  days for the sun to return again to the same position. With slight changes introduced by Julius Caesar and Pope Gregory XIII, we still use the Egyptian calendar. Both Julius Caesar and his nephew Augustus deranged the calendar by taking days from February and adding them to July and August. The Egyptians did not use the system of leap days that we use, but let those days accumulate. Consequently, their year changed seasons through the course of years.

On January 1, 1933, all the members of the Pan-American Union and of the League of Nations expect to adopt a new calendar. This calendar will have thirteen, twenty-eight-day months. Each month will begin on Sunday and close on Saturday; the last day of the year will be called "year day", and will not belong to any month; every fourth year a "leap day" will follow this "year day" and will also not belong to any month; the new month, called Sol, will come between June and July. This new calendar will do away with the continual wonder as to whether a date falls on some particular day of the week: it will always be on the same day of the week.

From the Hebrews and related races we received our hours, weeks, minutes, and seconds. Time was recorded by dials, and hour glasses, or by the dripping of water. The Romans invented the first clocks run by water power; the most famous of these is found on the face of a cliff in a town in southern France.

India decries our "clock civilization." The Hindu says that the clock is an infernal machine which ruins our nerves. Our leisure is destroyed, they say, by worry about wasting time, or fear of being late. Sometimes it seems the Hindu is correct. We kill ourselves in our hurry to meet appointments; or in our zeal to accomplish much in a short time. Do we really do any more than our more leisurely friends of Europe and Asia?

How futile all our calculations of time seem! How much like beating the air! We come to the point of dividing of time for the new year, but it is just the same as any other time. To God time is not reckoned. And because of the passing of our age into eternity, the second coming of Christ will see the end of time.

"And the angel which I saw stand upon the sea and upon the earth lifted up his hand to heaven, and swore by him that liveth for ever and ever, who created heaven and the things that therein are, and the earth, and the things that therein are, and the sea, and the things which are therein, that there should be time no longer".—Rev. 10:5, 6.

"O God, our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come,
Our shelter from the stormy blast,
And our eternal Home!

"Before the hills in order stood,
Or earth received her frame,
From everlasting Thou art God,
To endless years the same.

"A thousand ages in Thy sight
Are like an evening gone;
Short as the watch that ends the night
Before the rising sun."

---

THERE are fifty-five American embassies and legations. There are also three hundred forty-five American consulates in foreign countries.

---

OUR COMMANDER'S SIGNALLED PROMISE

---

IN Sherman's march from Chattanooga to Atlanta and the sea, General Johnston was removed from his command by the Confederates and his army given to the impetuous General Hood. Hood at once marched to the rear of Sherman, threatening his communications and base of supplies at Allatoona, which commanded the pass through the mountains. Sherman sent an order to one of his lieutenants, Corse, to proceed to Allatoona. He himself went as far back as Kenesaw Mountain, and from that eminence on the clear October day could see plainly the smoke of battle and hear the faint reverberation of the cannon. His flag officer at length made out the letters which were being wigwagged from the garrison at Allatoona, "Corse is here." This was a great relief to Sherman, who then heliographed his famous message, "Hold the fort, I am coming." Among the soldiers in Sherman's army was a young officer, Major Whittle, who related the incident to P. P. Bliss, the famous evangelist. Taking this incident as his inspiration, Bliss wrote the once well-known hymn, "Hold the fort, for I am coming." The hymn thus inspired has genuine Christian truth in its lines. The church is to occupy until Christ comes.—Christ Life.

"TAKE TIME TO BE HOLY"

By Ida Lapp

"And, since you delight in obedience, do not shape your lives by the cravings which used to dominate you in the time of your ignorance, but—in imitation of the holy One who has called us—you also must be holy in all your habits of life. Because it stands written, 'You are to be holy, because I am holy.'"—1 Peter 14:16, Weymouth.

IF WE were each one to stop and measure himself by this, God's standard, how many of us would fall short! We are to be holy because He is holy. We are to be obedient children, not shaping our lives according to the desires we once had for sin and the things of the world, when we were in ignorance, before we knew Christ as our Savior; but now we are to set those things aside and go on to perfection.

It seems that we, as members of the Church of God, have many lessons yet to learn. We have the truth as revealed in God's Word, but how about the many practical applications of it we are neglecting to make each day in our own lives? Are we leading others into this great walk? Are we walking closely each day to our Master? Are we teaching our children to reverence the house of the Lord? Are we teaching them to worship Him—our Creator and His Son—our Savior? Are we teaching our boys and girls to pray and to live holy lives before Him?

I have been so impressed, of late, with the seeming neglect of the children and of the young people. Have you ever noticed how many (or I might say, how few) of our children ever attend the Sunday morning worship? Have you noticed how many children appear at the weekly prayer meeting? There are very few, and the question comes back, "Why?"

"Oh," you say, "the children are too small; they don't understand and they get so fidgety in church, it is better for them to run on home." You say they are too young and do not understand what the pastor has to say; but I am sure any pastor would be only too glad to present his sermon in such a way that even the child of eight or ten could understand much of it. And more than that, any pastor who is at all interested in the young of his flock—and I believe most all are—will occasionally preach a message directly to and for the children, putting the gospel message in their language, so that they can understand and grasp it. For, they are soon to become the church—the ones to carry on what has been started by you. They are soon to be the leaders, and Solomon said, "Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it".

Another vital step in the life of every child is to teach him to pray, and the best time to begin is when he is young—when he first learns to talk. It is so much easier for the children to learn this great lesson of faith, if they are taught to trust in their heavenly Father when they are mere children. It will help them in every walk of life—even in their play—if they learn to pray.

I am reminded of an incident which happened not so very far from here. A young man was to open an evening service, but he could not pray. So he asked three of the older members of his congregation to lead in prayer, each one refusing him. Finally one member consented to do so, providing Bro. B—— did not come; but if he came the young man was instructed to call on him instead. What a sad condition—a church, but no one who could pray! This young man had never been taught to pray; probably he had never prayed at home; how could he be expected to pray in public, before everyone, not knowing what to say or how to approach the Throne of Grace?

By praying and only by praying much, do we come in vital contact with our heavenly Father and become more like Him. Only by constant communion with Him and earnest study of His Word do we become holy, even as He is holy. And, as we draw closer to Him, He will draw closer to us, revealing His divine will to us and ever molding us day by day more into His likeness.

May we this year draw closer to our heavenly Father. May we strive more earnestly to forsake the world and the things of the world, teaching our little ones the first steps in a holy life—talking with their heavenly Father—that they may live fruitful lives, growing up for Him; that they may know how to draw nigh unto God and be holy, even as He is holy.

THE name "potter's field", a burial ground for the poor, has its origin in Matthew 27:7, where it is described how the chief priests took the thirty pieces of silver, the price Judas received for the betrayal of Christ, and "bought with them the potter's field to bury strangers in." It is believed this field was the site of a potter's workshop, such as is mentioned in Jeremiah 18:2-6, or a place where the potter obtained his clay.—S. E. Haney.

SPARKLING UNDER WATER

A JEWELER gives as one of the surest tests for diamonds the water test. He says, "An imitation diamond is never so brilliant as a genuine stone. If your eye is not experienced enough to detect the difference, a simple test is to place the stone under water. The imitation diamond is practically extinguished, while a genuine diamond sparkles even under water, and is distinctly visible. If a genuine stone be placed beside an imitation one under water, the contrast will be apparent to the least experienced eye."

There are some who seem confident of their faith so long as they have no trials, but when the waters of sorrow overflow them, their faith loses all its brilliancy. It is then that the true servants of God, like Job, shine forth as genuine jewels for the King.—The Sunday at Home Magazine.

CHARITY

By Lyman Booth

PAUL taught the Corinthian brethren that of all graces charity is the greatest. It is the mainspring that sets in motion all Christian virtues. It partakes of the divine nature, for God is love, and they who are the most charitable are the most godlike. Charity reaches out and embraces all round about us. It embraces and involves our highest affections and directs those affections first in an effort to serve God, and second it expands with an absolute continuance toward all other moral beings. Charity is the father and mother of all other virtues because it contains all others. It, being the "greatest", is the sum of them all.

Charity is humble, truthful, and patient. It holds the reins of the temper and all evil passions. It possesses the spirit of forgiveness, every excellence that exalts, and every trait that adorns the Christian character and makes its possessor lovable. It is the sweet and salutary bond that binds all Christians into one great family. Without it the wealthy man is poor; with it the poor man is rich.

Amidst adversities it is ever patient; always patient in prosperity; strong while suffering grievous wrongs; cheerful in all good works. It is given to hospitality. It is joyous among true brethren and patient with the false. "It suffereth long and is kind." It holds anger in check, and is not hasty to punish or to revenge. It is active in dispensing benefits, watches for an opportunity to help others in distress.

"Charity envieth not." Envy is the basest of all human passions. It is charity's strongest foe. Envy gives nothing and changes happiness into wormwood. "Charity is not puffed up" with pride. Every breach of love is more or less due to pride, a vain show outwardly, while within all is deceit. "Charity seeketh not her own." Selfishness is the root of moral depravity. It is to love one's self supremely, to make self the center of all aspirations and thoughts.

"Charity thinketh no evil." It is ever opposing and counteracting the advice and influence of envy, revenge, and greed. It would make the miserable happy, and the happy more so. It would make the rich richer, and give plenty to the poor. Universal charity "beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things", and as a result will achieve a rich reward and blessing in all things.

"Charity never faileth", but abideth forever. It is eternal. All human achievements, intellectual mysteries, scientific and miraculous exploits, and earthly knowledge are passing away. They continue but a short time until the coming of that which is perfect, when in the fullness of vision the charitable shall see "face to face," and in the sweet fragrance of that love that "passeth understanding", they shall know "as they are known."

THE COMING ARMAGEDDON

By Stanley H. Frodsham

THE third chapter of Joel shows plainly that "all nations" will be in the coming conflict at the end, and we can hardly expect that this nation will be excluded, Ramsey MacDonald, Great Britain's premier, stated at a meeting in favor of peace and disarmament last July. "The great Armageddon struggle must come at last, and the end will not be cheers of victory, but the silence of exhaustion. Mankind will be—I was going to say almost wiped out—mankind is to be exhausted, and all his works of civilization annihilated. We are to strive—and this meeting is gathered here for the purpose of demonstrating our determination to strive—against the final chapter ever being written." The final chapter will be written despite the resolution adopted at that meeting.

The hearts of men are failing them in many places these days, and this is specially true among the Jewish people. The following is from the Daily Express of London: "The dramatic results of the German general election have aroused the gravest anxiety among Jews, and have emphasized their fears, current for some time, that there is a manifest recrudescence of anti-Jewish feeling world-wide in extent. In five different countries widespread hatred of the Jews has already shown itself by attacks on individuals and on synagogues, by social ostracism, and by restrictions on business activities. More than 6,400,000 Germans voted for the National Socialists—in whose policy one of the cardinal and openly-declared aims is anti-Semitism. The German Fascists—in support of their violent anti-Semitic campaign—have launched the most fantastic charges against the Jews of Germany. The five hundred thousand German Jews have been accused of responsibility for Germany's three million unemployed and the low wages of the German working class. Germany's present position of economic difficulty and her political troubles are alleged to be caused by a great and mysterious 'international Jewish conspiracy.'"

Mr. Bendor Samuel, a converted Jew, has written the following: A world campaign against the Jews is what we expect, according to the Scripture; it will be fully developed under the man of sin, and the world is being prepared for it. While the time of Jacob's trouble in its greatest severity will be in Palestine, as we learn from such passages as Isaiah 29:1-6; Ezekiel 22:19-22; and Zechariah 14:1, 2, we gather from other portions of God's Word that just prior to their restoration the Jews are to pass through terrible times of persecution. See Ezekiel 20:35-38. 'Like as I pleaded with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so will I plead with you, saith the Lord God. And I will cause you to pass under the rod . . . and I will purge out from among you the rebels, and them that transgress against me; I will bring them forth out of the country where they sojourn, and they shall not enter into the land of Israel.'—The Pentecostal Evangel.

THE CRUCIFIED ONE

Have you caught a glimpse of the crucified One,
Who died to set you free?
With nail-pierced hands and thorn-pierced brow,
As He suffered on the tree?

Have you caught a glimpse as they laid Him away
In the grave beyond the tomb?
Enshrouded in linen by tender hands,
When all about was gloom?

Have you caught a glimpse of the risen Lord—
As He appeared that day?
When the angels sat in the empty tomb,
And the stone had been rolled away?

Have you caught a glimpse of the Savior and Lord,
Who will wash your sins away?
Have you heard His voice as Mary did,
On that glad resurrection day?

Then thanks be to God for His wonderful Gift,
Sent down as the Savior of men;
Who suffered and died and rose again,
To claim you as His own.

—Dessie M. Bridges.

“BEFORE US, even as behind, God is, and all is well.”—
Whittier.

TESTS OF FRIENDSHIP

HEARING a person tell how greatly he felt for another who was in distress and needing assistance, a Quaker quietly asked: “Friend, has thee felt in thy pocket for him?” This was the application of the acid test. The feeling which did not result in action in such a case would be but a poor display of friendship.

Christ mentioned the case of a man who failed in friendship, though he reluctantly yielded to importunity by arising from bed and giving his friend what bread he needed. Dr. J. H. Jowett had the rare faculty of putting sermons in sentences. On one occasion he said: “Friendship is never really noble, ripe, and mutual, until on both sides it becomes unconsciously sacrificial. A real friend bleeds for a real friend and never sees the blood.”

An African missionary tells of two suggestive words, and defines them thus: “The ‘mununuri’ is one who will give of his property to help a friend out of trouble; but a ‘semukuru’ is one who will even suffer physical pain to free another from guilt.” This is indeed a strong test of friendship; yet Jesus long ago said: “Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.”—William J. Hart, in Christian Herald.

GOD'S JUST JUDGMENTS

By Samuel E. Haney

“Their bows also shall dash the young men to pieces; and they shall have no pity on the fruit of the womb; their eye shall not spare children.”—Isaiah 13:18.

A MODERN version, including verse nineteen, makes our text more salient, thus: “Bow and spear in hand, fearful, ferocious young men they cut in pieces, maids they massacre, a child they never spare, on babes they have no mercy. So shall Babylon, the splendour of empires, the proud glory of the Chaldeans, fare as Sodom and Gomorrah fared when God overthrew them.”—Moffatt.

It should not be incongruous to associate this whole chapter with Daniel 12:1; Matthew 24:19-22, and Revelation 18. God, by the vicarious death of His Son, accomplished many things, especially three, namely, mercy for the human family in general while yet in its fallen state (John 3:16); appropriated ways and means for individuals to obtain, through cooperation, redemption from the fall, and to become more special recipients of His mercy.

We shall see that the degree and the duration of God's mercy are governed by time and circumstances. David says, “O give thanks unto the Lord; for he is good; because his mercy endureth for ever.”—Psalm 118:1.

But the phrase, “for ever”, applies only to the righteous, namely, “But the mercy of the Lord is from everlasting to everlasting upon them that fear (‘revere’, Roth.) him.”—Psalm 103:17.

Again we read, “His mercy is everlasting; and his truth endureth to all generations.”—Psalm 100:5.

Note the progressive trend toward stability: “For I have said, Mercy shall be built up for ever: thy faithfulness shalt thou establish in the very heavens.”—Psalm 89:2.

God's everlasting mercy shall be permanently established after the discrimination between the righteous and unrighteous, setting forth a special mercy toward those who fear (revere) Him. “He (now) maketh the sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and the unjust.”—Matt. 5:45. But these temporal blessings are gratefully received only by the “good and just”. The evil and unjust of the Christian era antitype the typical Jew, namely, “Yet this folk is at heart restless, rebellious; they swerve aside defiantly. They never say to themselves, Come, let us fear the Eternal our God, who sends the rain in spring and autumn due, and brings our harvest in its season true.”—Jer. 5:23, 24, Moffatt.

God has been patient with the race in general and His children in particular, as Peter explains, “The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness; but is longsuffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance.”

While there are many minor instances recorded of the withdrawal of God's mercy toward nations and individuals, there have been but three major outbreaks of His wrath, namely, Noah's and Lot's days, and the Jew's time of trouble in 70 A. D. All these absent periods of divine mercy and the great epochal events are recorded as the Christian's danger signals.

God has promised to respond only to that faith which is produced by and rests upon His Word; and where there is not that faith, God's merciless and irrevocable wrath ever pends.

The generations of Noah and Lot were very wicked, too wicked to live, as recorded, "And God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually ('every day', margin). And it repented ('grieved', Roth.) the Lord that he had made man on the earth, and it grieved him at his heart. And the Lord said, I will destroy man, whom I have created, from the face of the earth".—Genesis 6:5-7.

Of Lot's day God's investigation and decision reads: "And the Lord said, Because the cry of Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and because their sin is very grievous; I will destroy them now, and see whether they have done altogether according to the cry of it, which is come unto me; and if not, I will know."—Genesis 18:20,21.

God's decision: "For we will destroy this place, because the cry of them is waxen great before the face of the Lord; and the Lord hath sent us to destroy it".—Genesis 19:13.

These two peoples of these epochal periods were too wicked to live on the earth even during satan's regime, and can God, without rescinding His universal, eternal sovereignty, reverse His decision and attitude toward them from grief and wrath to mercy and pity? And can He tolerate them in His stainless kingdom in the face of His attributes and the holiness of His kingdom?

"For ever, O Lord, thy word is settled in heaven". "But the word of the Lord endureth for ever" (Psa. 119:89; 1 Peter 1:25). "A stainless highway shall appear, its name 'The Sacred Way'; no soul unclean shall tread it, no impious foot shall wander o'er it; no lions shall ever haunt it, no wild beast shall leap on it; but on it the redeemed shall walk, those whom the Eternal has set free: they come home to Sion singing, crowned with an unending joy; joy and gladness overtake them, sorrow and sighs forsake them".—Isa. 35:8-10, Moffatt. Read again Habakkuk 1:13; Hebrews 10:31. Jesus' mediation will have ended.

We all know how rampantly weeds grow in gardens, choking and destroying the vegetable plants, if not frequently removed. In like manner history proves that the injurious weeds of sin, if allowed to multiply through succeeding generations, will finally cause God's wrath to be displayed in various ways—by fire, water, famines, pestilences, etc., causing havoc to the whole of man, body, soul, and spirit. Jesus explains a case of cause and effect with the Jews in Matthew twenty-three—note verse thirty-six: "Verily I say unto you, All these things shall come upon this generation".

A mental survey of the deplorable plight of the human race in general and Christendom in particular should convince the most obtuse that history is glaringly repeating itself; and to the Bible student it should enhance stress upon current events, as he sees daily events synchronizing with prophecy and chronology, thus strengthening his conviction that the end—the great time of trouble—is incipiently in evidence.

It is frequently stated by Bible students that a nucleus of the race will survive the pending trouble, Daniel 12:1, but does the Word warrant such an inference? Is it in accord to "the law and testimony", Isaiah 8:20?

Let us go to the Source of infallibility and the Fountain of all knowledge, Jesus, who likens the condition and outcome of the world's pending catastrophe to that of previous examples of God's wrath, namely, "As it was in the days of Noe, so shall it be also in the days of the coming of the Son of man. They did eat, they drank, they married wives, they were given in marriage, until the day came that Noe entered into the ark, and the flood came, and destroyed them all. Likewise also as it was in the days of Lot . . . . But the same day that Lot went out of Sodom it rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all. (Italics mine.) Even thus shall it be in the day when the Son of man is revealed."—Luke 17:26-30.

The astute, unbiased Bible student should know that all events fulfilling prophecy follow in their proper sequence.

Again Jesus says, "For then shall be great tribulation such as was not since the beginning of the world to this time, no, nor ever shall be. And except those days should be shortened, there should no flesh be saved ('not a soul would be saved alive,' Moffatt): but for the elect's ('chosen,' Diag.) sake those days shall be shortened".—Matt. 24:21, 22.

No mercy to be shown for unrepentant (unprepared) souls; the "shortening" of these days being specifically for the elect (chosen). Read again 2 Thessalonians 1:7-10. Here are the two leading characters of the New Testament, telling the same story in their respective way. Jesus' summation of the greatest of all problems is "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God."

Twenty-six hundred and forty-four years ago God through Isaiah began His inculcation in behalf of His children who would be living in our day and generation: "Depart ye, go ye out from thence, touch no unclean thing; go ye out of the midst of her; be ye clean, that bear the vessels of the Lord." 52:11.

This command is repeated by Paul in 2 Corinthians 6:14-18. And now, at the threshold of the downfall of the nations and civilization, the final announcement is being promulgated by the modern "Noahs": "And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues."—Rev. 18:4.

The last plagues are to fall upon Babylon, and those who do not come out will receive them. God, in this time of trouble such as never was, will be as merciless to the unregenerate as He had been merciful.

THE GOSPEL

Continued from page 243

Ah, here is the key that unlocks the door to salvation or the very essence of the gospel! "But what saith it? The word is nigh thee, even in thy mouth, and in thy heart; that is, the word of faith, which we preach: that if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation."—Rom. 10:8-10. Wonderful words!

Now faith in itself does not save us, but what faith does save us? James 2:14-24 clears up this point. After a man hears the story of God's love expressed in His only begotten Son Jesus Christ, his heart is touched and faith begins to exercise itself. It is from the heart he believes unto righteousness.

So John says, "Little children, let no man deceive you; he that doeth righteousness is righteous, even as he is righteous." What, then, characterizes righteousness? We answer, obedience. What is the characteristic of sin? We answer, disobedience. Obedience leads to life; disobedience leads to death. How did Christ reveal His righteousness? "Knowing that Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over him. For in that he died, he died unto sin once: but in that he liveth he liveth unto God."—Rom. 6:9, 10.

Now if we wish to live, that is, obtain God's free gift of eternal life, we also must die this same death. "For in that he died, he died unto sin once." How is this manifested on our part? "So many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death." Rom. 6:1-4.

Let me repeat. Faith is only recognized from the things it causes the man who believes to perform. If he truly believes, he becomes sick of sin and its consequences. His mind is changed. This is repentance; he desires to obey God. The first step is baptism. Peter says, "The like figure whereunto even baptism doth also now save us (not the putting away of the filth of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience toward God) by the resurrection of Jesus Christ."—1 Peter 3:21.

Can you change what Peter says? It is not the putting away of the filth of the flesh. It is an act of the conscience—of a renewed mind, an act of faith from hearing the Word of God. It is by this act that God has appointed that we shall show our willingness to accept that which the race in Adam threw away.

Why was it that death could not hold Christ in its grip as it can all the rest of the human family? Acts 2:24 is the answer. "Whom God hath raised up, having loosed the pains of death; because it was not possible that he should be holden of it." He had no wages coming to Him because of sin.

"And ye know that he was manifested to take away our sins; and in him is no sin."—1 John 3:5.

"But we see Jesus, who was made a little lower than the angels, for the suffering of death, crowned with glory and honour; that he by the grace of God should taste death for every man. For it became him, for whom are all things, and by whom are all things, in bringing many sons unto glory, to make the captain of their salvation perfect through sufferings. Forasmuch then as the children are partakers of flesh and blood he also himself likewise took part of the same: that through death he might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the devil." Heb. 2:7, 8, 9, 14.

This then is the epitome of the good news of the gospel.

"But the fact is, Christ has been raised from the dead, a Forerunner of the sleepers. For since by man death exists, by man a resurrection from death also exists. For as in Adam all die, so also in Christ all will be revived. But each in his own order, Christ a Forerunner, then those in Christ at His appearing. Then will be the perfection, when He delivers up the kingdom to the God and Father, after He has destroyed every dominion, and every authority and power: for He must reign until He can put all these enemies under His feet. The last enemy to be destroyed is death. For He will subdue all things under His feet. But when He said, All are to be subdued, it is clear that he excepts Him who subdued all things to Him. But when He has subjected all to Him, then the Son Himself also will be subjected to Him who subdued all things to Him, so that God may be All in All."—1 Cor. 15:20, 28, F. F. translation.

THE NAZARENE

He told us everything He could
About the lilies, and the way
The shepherds carry home the lambs
Within their arms at close of day;
How we within our Shepherd's fold
Are ever safely housed and fed,
And all who walk with tender love
Like little lambs are gently led.

E'en as a hen beneath her wings
Shelters her tiny trembling brood,
He would have gathered in His arms
The world, had they but understood.
He spoke to all the humble folk
And told them just such lovely things,—
Of how the Father guards and guides
Even the sparrow's drooping wing.

He told them of a son who left
His home and wandered hungering
And who, on turning back, had met
Such joy and happy welcoming.
He told them Love is ever Love,
And falls on all like gentle rain;
He told them everything He could,
Then turned and blessed, and blessed again.

—Marion Susan Campbell.

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 325 N. Austin Blvd., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois
For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"YE ARE THE SALT OF THE EARTH."

GRAND RAPIDS, MICHIGAN

THE Grand Rapids Berean society is continuing its Thursday evening meetings into the new year of 1932 with new officers and some new methods, but with the same unwavering enthusiasm and purpose. Brother Fred Hall is our new leader. He is following the custom of last year by asking each of the different classes in turn, to prepare a special number for each meeting. This provides much enjoyment for both young and old.

The adult class is following the course of Berean lessons, very ably taught by Brother Frank Siple. Recently we studied and discussed a subject that should, we feel, be prayerfully and thoughtfully considered by every Christian during these trying times. The text of this subject is found in the words spoken by Jesus, as recorded by Matthew 5:13, "Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be salted? it is thenceforth good for nothing but to cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men."

We, as Christians, are the salt of the earth. Just as God would not destroy the wicked city of Sodom while one righteous person remained in it, so He will preserve this disobedient world from divine wrath as long as the salt remains in it. Do we Christians appreciate fully and thank God enough that He has called us to be the chosen ones of the earth?

Do we realize our responsibility? Jesus says, "If the salt have lost its savour, . . . , it is thenceforth good for nothing". When Lot's wife was led from the city of Sodom, instead of keeping her eyes on the Lord, she turned them toward the worldly glitter of the city she had left. Immediately, she was turned into a pillar of salt. The pillar that she became was the literal picture of the condition of her heart, for she had turned from God to the lust of the flesh and the pride of life.

So we as Bereans today must search our Scriptures, prayerfully, thoughtfully, and continually, that we, among the salt of the earth may not lose our savour, or in other words, the abounding joy and peace that comes only when our hearts are right with our heavenly Father. We can keep them right by keeping our eyes continually fastened upon Him, asking for strength and grace. He will give them abundantly if we earnestly try to be the good "salt of the earth."

Martha Doan.

An active faith can give thanks for a promise, though it be not as yet performed, knowing that God's bonds are as good as ready money.—Matthew Henry.

"Passive faith accepts the word as true —
But never moves.
Active faith begins the work to do,
And thereby proves."

"I will make thee a new sharp threshing instrument."
Isaiah 41:15

A BAR of steel worth five dollars, when wrought into horseshoes, is worth ten dollars. If made into needles, it is worth three hundred and fifty dollars; if into pen-knife blades, it is worth thirty-two hundred dollars; if into springs for watches, it is worth two hundred fifty thousand dollars. What a drilling the poor bar must undergo to be worth this! But the more it is manipulated, the more it is hammered, and passed through the fire, and beaten and pounded and polished, the greater the value.

May this parable help us to be silent, still, and long-suffering. Those who suffer most are capable of yielding most; and it is through pain that God is getting the most out of us, for His glory and the blessing of others.—Selected.

"Oh, give Thy servant patience to be still,
And bear Thy will;
Courage to venture wholly on the arm
That will not harm;
The wisdom that will never let me stray
Out of my way;
The love that now afflicting knoweth best
When I should rest."

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

“And Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst.”

JESUS FEEDS THE MULTITUDE

How many people are five thousand people? How much bread would you buy to feed them? How much would it cost?

Jesus healed so many sick people in Galilee that great crowds followed Him. One day, not long before the pass-over feast, He crossed the Sea of Galilee, the crowd following along the shore.

Jesus went up into a mountain and sat with His disciples. At sight of the crowd, probably very poor people, Jesus thought of food for them. He knew how He could provide it, but He wanted to see how much His disciples had learned of His power; so He said to Philip, “Whence shall we buy bread, that these may eat?”

Now the disciples had so little money that Philip replied: “Two hundred pennyworth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one of them may take a little.”

At this Andrew said that there was a little boy among them with his lunch, but that it contained only five barley loaves and two small fishes. These loaves were scarcely more than crackers and that would not be much help.

However, Jesus told the company of five thousand men to sit down on the grass. Then the little boy was called and his lunch given to Jesus. The Master broke the little loaves and said thanks to God, just as we should do before we begin to eat. To each disciple He then gave parts of the bread and fish, and they, in turn, gave to each of the five thousand. Can you see the food grow in their hands? Each person ate all that he wanted and yet had some left.

Now Jesus was orderly, and did not leave the refuse of the lunch on the ground as some careless picnic people do. Instead, He told the disciples to gather up the remains. And, what do you think? The part that remained filled twelve baskets—more than there was in the beginning. How could that be? Was it God’s power through Jesus?

Well, the people were so astonished that they said, “This is of a truth that prophet that should come into the world.”

ARE WE accepting Jesus as the Bread of Life? Do we have faith that we can be fed as were these five thousand?

WE BELIEVE that Israel (the Jews) will go back to Palestine and live there forever—“And I will bring again the captivity of my people of Israel, and they shall build the waste cities, and inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyards, and drink the wine thereof; they shall also make gardens, and eat the fruit of them. And I will plant them upon their land, and they shall no more be pulled up out of their land which I have given them, saith the Lord thy God.”—Amos 9:14, 15.

Are the Jews not doing this today? Are these “signs of the times,” also a picture of the future?

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Reckon the amount of bread and fish this crowd would ordinarily have required.
2. Read 1 Corinthians 10:11, 10:16-17, Matthew 26:26.
3. Which particular disciples are named in this story? In what way?

A PICTURE OF THE FUTURE

“The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb; and the leopard shall lie down with the kid, and the calf and the young lion; and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them.”—Isaiah 11:6.

WEEKLY BIBLE READING

January 29 to February 4:—Exodus 15 to 30; Mark 1 to 7.

WESLEY'S HYMN

Loving Jesus, meek and mild,
Look upon a little child!
Make me gentle as Thou art,
Come and live within my heart.

Take my childish hand in Thine,
Guide these little feet of mine.
So shall all my happy days
Sing their pleasant song of praise;
And the world shall always see
Christ, the holy Child, in me!

—Abridged.

“And, lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was.”

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 5. — January 31, 1932

JESUS FEEDS THE MULTITUDE

John 6:1-71

Devotional Reading: Psalm 34:3-11

GOLDEN TEXT

Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst. — John 6:35.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: Jesus Provides for the Hungry.

Basic Truth: "I am that bread of life."—John 6:48.

Outline: I. The Hungry Multitude. II. An Abundant Supply. III. All May Partake. IV. The Bread of Life.

I. The Hungry Multitude. Looking into the future the prophet Amos foresaw a time in which God would "send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the words of the Lord."—Amos 8:11. While this prophecy does not find its literal fulfillment perhaps until the "time of trouble," there is a sense in which it is being accomplished now. The vast majority of mankind has no knowledge of the gospel of Jesus Christ which is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth."—Rom. 1:16. They are seeking for something to satisfy their spiritual hunger, but are not finding it in any of the false religious systems of today.

II. An Abundant Supply. In the gospel of the kingdom Jesus provides an ample supply of spiritual food for all who will receive it through faith. It meets the requirements of humanity in every way, holding out the promise of " manifold more in this present time, and in the world to come life everlasting."—Luke 18:30.

III. All May Partake. "Whosoever" is the emphatic word in the gospel invitation. Jesus is "the propitiation for our sins: and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world."—1 John 2:2. John was writing as to his fellow Jewish Christians, and recognized with Paul that "both Jews and Gentiles"—the world at large—"are all under sin", Rom. 3:9; and that Christ provides salvation to all who believe "in every nation". Acts 10:35. In our lesson Jesus fed all who would accept the blessings He freely offered. He makes His proffer of salvation equally inclusive, and declares that "him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out."—John 6:37.

IV. The Bread of Life. Jesus is the "bread of life."—John 6:48. To partake of that bread means to draw upon the truth of Jesus to supply our spiritual needs, to feed upon His word, and to build up our strength in Him. In doing this we "may grow up into him in all things" (Eph. 4:15), and come into full possession of the Christ spirit and the Christ life, which will assure to us the fruitage of such unity, which is eternal life, when He comes.

To impress upon the pupil the importance of feeding constantly upon the Lord Jesus Christ is the central purpose of this lesson.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

THANKS:

The feeding of the five thousand by the Master establishes a precedent which all Christian people should follow—namely, giving thanks for food. Of course we should not stop with the daily manna, for "every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning."—James 1:17. We ought to give thanks in everything, for this is the will of God.

MURMURINGS AND UNTHANKFULNESS brought about the destruction of many of the children of Israel in the wilderness. We should be careful lest we sin the same way. 1 Cor. 10:10.

SAVING:

Wastefulness is a sin. When the multitude had finished eating, Christ instructed the disciples to gather the fragments that nothing be lost. Foodstuffs that are wasted annually, and money that is lavishly spent for the frivolous and unnecessary things of life would solve the problem of caring for the poor, if some way could be conceived whereby this unrighteous squandering could be stopped and the savings used in providing for the unfortunate. Christian people should always oppose waste and set examples in conservation.

TRUE MANNA:

Jesus is the true Manna. The manna which the children of Israel had in the wilderness was but a type of the true Manna which, if a man eat of it, shall save him from the second death. As the manna in the wilderness saved Israel from the Adamic or first death, so Christ, the antitypical Manna, keeps us from dying the second time. Israel would have starved without the manna. People are starving today for that spiritual food. Blessed is the man that findeth and eateth of the Manna from heaven.—C. E. R.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

"I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst."—John 6:35.

The multitudes were following Jesus, not because of the miracles that had been performed, but because they had been supplied with food to relieve their hunger. Jesus wanted to teach them that He meant much more to them than just the supplying of food. He wanted them to realize that His was spiritual food and drink, and that it lasted through eternity.

In His sermon on the mount Jesus said, "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled." This is the kind of hunger and thirst that counts for life, and the kind that Christ meant when He said, "I am the bread of life." If we feed on His Word, truly we will never hunger nor thirst.—L. A. R.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT

Jesus the Bread of Life

Bread is the food that is used universally to symbolize that which keeps alive.

When the Israelites were slaves, they ate the food furnished by their masters. After they had passed through the Red Sea, they no longer had access to that supply, and God gave them manna from heaven. This "spiritual" bread gave them the strength necessary to reach the land of promise. "These things are written for our admonition upon whom the ends of the world are come."—1 Corinthians 10:11.

When we are under the bondage of sin, we must eat the bread of the world; but when we pass through our Red Sea (baptism) we must eat the bread furnished by God—and that bread is Christ. "Take, eat; this is my body."—Matt. 26:26. "The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ? . . . For we are all partakers of that one bread."—1 Cor. 10:16-17.

Jesus is our only Source of life. He is our Strength. Let us not reject our "spiritual bread," as did Israel.—H. A. S.

INTERMEDIATE CLASS

Topic: The Sympathy of Jesus With Human Need.

Two stories of intense human interest are found in John 6. Be able to tell them, noting especially verses 5, 6, 11, 12 in the first story, and 19, 20, 21 in the second. What effect did the first miracle have on the people? V. 15. Notice how Jesus drew a lesson for those about Him from the everyday things of life. The people had been hungry, in need of bread, and after He satisfied their hunger, He explained to them that "man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God"; also that He is "the bread of life." In what way is He that? How is it true that "he that cometh to me shall never hunger"? You remember He told the Samaritan woman in last Sunday's lesson that, "whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst." Can you explain that?

The wonderful thing about Jesus is that He not only cares for and sustains us today, but He will also care for us eternally, which is much more important, if we will only let Him.—M. G.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

AT WCMA

Bro. F. L. Austin will speak at WCMA, Culver Ind., on Sunday morning, Jan. 24, from 6:30 to 7:30. On Jan. 31, Bro. J. H. Anderson will speak at the same hour. Watch these pages for future announcements of the broadcasts from WCMA.

BURR OAK, INDIANA

The radio broadcasting is meeting with much favor according to letters received by Sister Louise LaMunion, who has charge of the programs, the correspondence, and the finances. The voices of our ministers are reaching to distant states far beyond the expectations of those who are sponsoring the programs. South Carolina, Louisiana, Nebraska, Minnesota, and others far away are getting the programs. It is quite possible for California to get this station if the weather conditions are favorable. So, listen in, California! The radio is a splendid way of spreading the gospel and of reaching our own isolated ones. A word of encouragement to Sister LaMunion at Culver, Ind., would be sincerely appreciated. The brethren are asked to remember that if this work is to be kept up in the future it will need the individual financial backing of all those who desire to have it continue. Send in your verdict.

At the close of the morning service, Dec. 27, two young ladies offered themselves to the Master, Mrs. Rebecca Bartlett and Miss Lavonda Hatten. They were baptized by Bro. Austin in Lake Maxinkuckee. Sr. Bartlett is making her home at Burr Oak, and so she and Sr. Maxine Shafer, who was baptized recently, were received into the local flock on Jan. 3. Sister Hatten has returned to her home in Wyoming. May the Lord preserve them all blameless until His coming.

The church has enjoyed very much the privilege of entertaining the visitors who have come to broadcast. Bros. Austin, Magaw, and Siple have spoken in the local church while here.

The local church is sponsoring an hour over WCMA every Monday evening from 10 to 11. This is entirely independent, financially, from the Sunday morning broadcast, being in fact due to the kindness of the station. It is called "The Truth Seeker's Hour," and is conducted by the writer.

The local church installed a bell in the cupola recently, and January 10 it was pealing out its first invitation to come and worship. It was an old bell, formerly used in the North Union church, which burned. The bell is a good one though, one of the best in this section, and we rejoice to place it once more in the service of the Lord.

The young people's Berean class on Friday evening is taking up "The Romances of the Bible," under the tutelage of Sister Louise LaMunion.

A series of Sunday evening lectures on the Wilderness Tabernacle are being given by the writer.

The writer was appointed pastor of the Burr Oak church, Jan. 4, to remain permanently. It is with regret that I leave the Training Class, and yet with rejoicing to be of more service to the Master. I ask your prayers that I may be faithful and true to the trust laid upon me,

Cecil Smead.

NOTES FROM BLAIR, NEBR.

Sr. Thos. Bates, who has been ill for some time, is slightly improved but will be in bed several weeks yet. The cards and letters sent by the brethren are greatly appreciated.

"Grandma" White, who was seriously ill last fall, is able to be out again, and enjoyed Christmas day at her daughter's home.

Election of Sunday school officers resulted as follows: Bro. Harvey Krogh, Sr., superintendent; Bro. Howard Appleby, assistant; Bro. Russell Johns, secretary-treasurer.

THE MEETINGS AT HAMMOND, LA.

A most successful series of meetings was brought to a close at Happy Woods church, near Hammond, La., Sunday, Jan. 10. The writer has never conducted a series more enjoyable or encouraging. Weather conditions during the first week were ideal, and during the second week very good, with only two or three rainy nights.

Attendance throughout, and from the first day, was excellent, and it was consistent. During the second week we held a Bible class daily in the Blood River district, which met at the home of Sr. Adam Lobell. It was organized for the instruction of baptismal candidates, and averaged about fifteen in attendance. It was an extremely enjoyable class, and the thing that made it so much worth while was the genuine interest taken by all.

On the afternoon of Jan. 10, under a warm sun, we gathered on the sandy beach of the Natalbany River to witness the obedience of ten young people in baptism: Elmer Lobell, Brunette Lobell, Josephine Shandor, Bessie Richardson, and Annie Hutchinson, Hammond, Rt. 1; Lucille Foster, Wadesboro; Millard Hutchinson, Peter Hutchinson, Kevlyn Reid, and Orion Anthon, Hammond, Rt. 3.

All of these are young people of around high school age. It was an inspiring thing to see them seated all together, filling two benches, at the communion service which followed the baptisms, and realize they were bringing the strength of their youthful lives to lay it at the feet of the Master.

A second baptismal service was held Tues., Jan. 12, at which Miss Margaret Bylsma was inducted into the name of Christ. Sr. Bylsma is a young business woman of Hammond, and an unusual Bible student. She studied the Scriptures long and carefully before coming to her decision. We rejoice with her in her new found hope.

We commit these all to the Lord Jesus, praying they may ever walk worthy before Him, and receive the crown of life.

Following the close of the Happy Woods meetings, we remained over by request two days to preach for the Blood River brethren. Splendid audiences greeted us both nights in spite of stormy weather. One encouraging feature of our work here was the organization of a Berean society on the last night we were there. There is a splendid group of young people at Blood River, filled with interest and enthusiasm. A wonderful opportunity is in their hands.

Thus, with their newly remodeled church building, and with a twenty percent increase in membership, the Hammond church enters the new year with very encouraging prospects, and we pray the Father's blessing may lead them to still further rich fruits in the gospel harvest field.

M. W. Lyon.

A NEW TRACT

Bro. J. H. Anderson's new tract, "The Great Sabbath or What Jesus Will Do When He Comes and Restitution Begins," may be obtained from the author, Michigantown, Ind., or from J. H. Stepp, Dana North Carolina. Price, 15 cents each.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

Most of the ones of our number who have been sick are better at this writing and are enjoying the mild weather which would do credit to a Florida or California winter resort.

The pastor and his load returned from the Indiana broadcasting trip on Jan. 10, in time for the evening services at the home church, a little tired but none the worse for the trip. Our elder, Bro. Skeels, presided at the morning service, and a "Gideon" gave a very interesting Bible talk.

Bro. Townsend called a meeting of the Sunday school teachers and officers on Jan. 13, and plans were worked out for the Sunday school during the coming months. Three more classes have been added, and everything possible is being done to handle the classes in comfort.

The pastor was called upon to officiate at the funeral of Miss Irene Croft, of Lowell, a former attendant of our Sunday school, on Jan. 11, and of Mr. Geo. Timm, son-in-law of Sister McCroden of Dutton, on Jan. 13. Every possible effort is being put forth to make the church fill the place in the life of the community that it ought to fill.

F. E. Siple, Pastor.

ARKANSAS CITY, KANSAS

Sister Jennie Waters, wife of Bro. George Waters, underwent a major surgical operation last Saturday morning. Reports from Newkirk say that while she is a very sick woman, the doctor says she is doing as well as can be expected. Church of God people, pray for her speedy recovery. The prayer of the righteous availeth much.

Word has been received here that Sister Fannie LeCrone's home near Helena, Oklahoma, was destroyed by fire on the afternoon of Dec. 26. Sister LeCrone has been in ill health for quite a while, and this blow will be keenly felt by her. She, too, needs our prayer for sustaining grace.

On Jan. 3, a few of the church folks here heard Bro. Magaw's sermon broadcast from Culver, Ind., and Jan. 10, we heard Bro. Siple's prayer and Scripture reading, but could not hear his sermon because of a station in Texas interfering. We believe that much good will be done by these broadcasts, for many hear them who could not be reached in any other way.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE

Quarterly Conference of the Churches of God in Iowa will be held in the basement of the new church at Waterloo, beginning with Saturday evening services on January 23, and continuing through Sunday, the 24th. Brethren from over the state are cordially invited by the Waterloo and Cedar Falls brethren to come and see their new church home. The conference board and nearby brethren have put in much hard work and prayerful planning to get this building ready for the Master's use and they are anxious that the brethren throughout the state shall feel the joy and gratefulness they feel when they step into the plain, neat little room for services. Come and be encouraged, and give encouragement to the local church to grow spiritually and in service to its community that more may know about the Savior who is able to meet all need.

Bro. J. W. Williams will be the speaker. When he was in Waterloo last he preached two sermons of unusual strength, one on forgiveness and one on present fulfillment of prophecy. We hope he will have something equally as good for quarterly conference, for as never before the called ones need the Savior's unmistakable voice to prepare and keep them for Himself.

Entertainment will be furnished free by the local brethren. If convenient, please drop a card to Sister Florence Allard, Cedar Falls, Iowa, Route 2.

The local church plans to continue services during the week following quarterly conference. A good meeting on Sunday will be a big help and encouragement. Alta King.

NEWS FROM LOS ANGELES

The death of Sr. J. A. Squires has brought the Lynwood meetings to a close. Bro. Squires is living with a daughter, Mrs. Tout, 124 Spring St., Compton, and will rent his home in Lynwood. Sr. Squires will be greatly missed by the church as well as the family.

Bro. S. J. Lindsay made a visit to Los Angeles and vicinity over the holiday season, holding meetings in Pasadena and in Long Beach. His Long Beach meetings resulted in the baptism of three, Mr. Leslie Rich, and daughter, Mrs. Judan, and Mrs. Easton.

The annual business meeting of the church and Sunday school was held on Jan. 3. In the election of officers for the Sunday school Bros. Ward and Cripe changed places, with Bro. Ward for superintendent and Bro. Cripe, assistant, Sr. Martha Hammond continuing as secretary-treasurer.

The church officers are elders, Bros. Railsback and Hammond; deacons, Bros. Crundwell and Rahn; secretary, Emma Railsback; treasurer, Bro. C. L. McCallister.

Sr. Emma Railsback is leading a Bible class at the home of Sr. Ora Knott, 1459 Rose Ave., Long Beach, taking up the study of the book of Acts. Among those attending are Sr. Brandt and mother from Washington, Sr. Gould, Bro. and Sr. Cline, and Bro. Rich and family.

The Los Angeles Berean class held an election on Jan. 6, and by unanimous vote elected Bro. A. Leonard Brady, president; Bro. G. J. Rahn, vice president; and Mrs. Gertrude Martin, secretary-treasurer. The attendance numbered twenty-five, including the junior class which is being looked after by Bro. McLeod.

Bro. Austin Scroggs has purchased a ranch in southern Oregon, and he and his parents are moving there the fifteenth inst. Sr. Jessie will remain at her work with the telephone company for a brief time, and then will join the rest of the family for a more free and independent life. Their address will be, Rt. 1, Box 50 Murphy, Oregon.

Sr. Agnes Murray of Pasadena has been suffering much distress for the past three weeks, dropsical condition causing shortness of breath and inability to lie down.

Sr. Ida F. Orem of Redlands is visiting in Los Angeles and attending Dorcas society meeting and church services. We wish she might come oftener.

SPECIAL OFFERINGS

Blessed Hope Church (Niagara Falls, N. Y.) for Training Class	$ 8.92
Mrs. Etta Loudenslager	10.00
Lottie E. Young (quarterly contribution)	25.00
Mrs. Eva Phelps (Helping Fund)	1.00
Chas. E. Anderson (Helping Fund)	2.00
	<hr/>
	$46.92

MOOREFIELD, NEBRASKA

Pastor's Report for 1931

Sunday school is held every Sunday morning at 10 a. m., morning worship at 11, evening service at 7:30 and prayermeeting on Wednesday evenings. At Sunday school there was an average attendance of 125; average offering; $4.95. Morning worship and evening services were well attended; interest good; sacrament the first Sunday morning of each month.

Prayer meeting report: first six months, 27 meetings, average attendance 27. Last six months, 26 meetings, average attendance 30. Total number of sermons, 91. Baptisms, 23.

Salary promised $920.00; received $885.00. Balance due, $35.00. E. E. Giesler, Pastor.

CONTRIBUTORS TO DOLLAR-A-MONTH CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Bell; Grand Rapids Bereans; Grand Rapids S. S.; Mr. and Mrs. M. Fetters; Mrs. Eva L. Page; Ella Siple; Albert Siple; Fred C. Smith; Etta L. Elton; Samuel J. Smith; Lillian Railton; Carol Wilson; J. M. Boyer; Mrs. M. Shea; Ellison Shea; Mrs. Sarah Emms; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Sheets; Mrs. J. H. Adams; Lucy B. Groat; A. L. Corbaley; Virgil Claypool; Mrs. Tennie

Long; M. A. Woodward; Mrs. Gladys French; Eva Underwood; Lottie E. Young (for self and 13 others); Mrs. H. C. Starbuck; Mrs. Earl Thayer; L. L. Burnett; Ruchie Alexander; Anna Hammond; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Railsback; Mildred Stantial; Mrs. Calkins; Esther Holmes.

HERALD RECEIPTS

H. S. Bell; Miss Helen Porter; Mrs. Edith Burchell; Selma Peterson; J. C. Smith; I. E. Arnold; J. A. Squires; Clindt Scott; Mrs. A. M. Linsenmeier; T. J. Ellis; Mrs. Eva Phelps; Miss Iola Martin; Mrs. Gilbert Bottolfs (for another); W. J. Halls; A. M. Jones; Mrs. Joseph Hanka; Mrs. Chas. Moore; Leota B. Hanson (for another); H. A. Sheets; Lucille LeCronc; Emma Murray; Stephen Walker; Leland Hanson; Mrs. C. Seely; Anna D. Springer; S. H. Overton; W. H. Norris; Mrs. M. L. DeCounter; Sarah E. Smith; Carrie Taylor; Lottie Young (for others); Mrs. David Long (self and others); Mrs. Margaret Donaly (for another); Perry J. Thompson; Wm. Platts; E. L. McDaniel; Lucy B. Groat; Mrs. H. C. Starbuck; Mrs. M. E. Perkins; W. H. Klindt; Frank Laning; Mrs. A. Balch; Chas. E. Anderson; Richard W. Lake; A. L. Corbaley; Glenn Corbaley.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME—

Notice the change of address of the Berean editor, Sr. Margaret Lyon. It is now 325 N. Austin Boulevard, Chicago, Illinois.

We are sorry to report that Sr. Alice Cryler of Golden Rule Home, has not been as well as usual the past ten days, being confined to her room most of the time.

Your attention is directed to the interesting news contained in the notes by Bro. Smead of the Burr Oak church. The brethren there are forging ahead under the leadership of their new pastor.

Despite rather unfavorable weather conditions, interest in the meetings which Bro. Conner is conducting at the Dixon church, is very good. There will be services each evening throughout the week, except Saturday, and all finding it possible to attend will be benefited by doing so.

The church at Oregon, Ill., held its annual business meeting on Jan. 14, at which plans were made for the ensuing year and officers elected. Bro. B. H. Carpenter was reelected trustee, Sr. Ruth Gesin, secretary, and Sr. Elizabeth Ordnung, treasurer. The deacons are Bros. Paul C. Johnson, G. M. Siple, Chas. Gesin, and Frederick Claussen; deaconesses, Mrs. Mina Knodle and Elsie Cullen; organist, Sr. Bernice Rogers. The Sunday school officers are as follows: superintendent, Bro. Paul C. Johnson; assistant superintendent, Bro. Delos Andrew; secretary Sr. Mary Reynolds; treasurer, Bro. Frederick Claussen; pianist, Sr. Alice Gesin. The choice of Sr. Ruth Gesin as president of the Bereans was approved by the church.

A special campaign will be organized by the treasurer to urge every member of the church to contribute regularly, as able, be the amount large or small. The work is going forward nicely under the able leadership of the pastor, Bro. Marsh, and all feel encouraged to renewed effort for the Master.

All will rejoice with the brotherhood at Hammond, La., because of the valuable additions to the membership there, during the meetings just closed by Bro. M. W. Lyon. How fine to see youth giving itself to the service of the Master! May they prove faithful to the end, is our prayer.

Former attendants at Illinois Conference and Bible school who are acquainted with Sr. Rachel Etnyre will be grieved to learn that she has recently lost her daughter by death. Our aged sisted made her home with her daughter in Peoria, Ill., and her future home is now uncertain.

Sr. M. A. Woodward, of Golden Rule Home, sustained injuries in a fall in her room last Saturday evening. She is being given the very best care, and the doctor's verdict is that her injuries are not serious. We trust she will soon be her usual active self. However, her cheerful outlook upon life has not been impaired in the least. She was expecting to give on last Sunday the first of a series of Sunday morning talks to the juniors, in the basement of the church at Oregon, during the opening exercises upstairs. The prospective attendants at "junior church" were disappointed and are anxiously awaiting her complete recovery, as we all are.

A very interesting letter, accompanying her remittance for The Herald, was received at headquarters last week from Mrs. Charles Moore, 820 Stanton Ave., Elizabeth, N. J. Sr. Moore is nearing eighty years of age, but is still very active, assisting in the care of her husband who is a partial invalid. Sr. Moore is the daughter of the late John O. Woodruff, well known among the older brethren, and an author of note of several books on our teachings. Sr. Moore mentions Golden Rule Home in a very commendable manner, having had correspondence with some who have visited there. Write again, Sr. Moore. Your letter is much appreciated.

PAUL THE APOSTLE

By Cecil Smead

BEFORE his conversion Paul was the most energetic, the most active of the adherents of the law and consequently of the persecutors of the early Christians.

The picture we have of him in The Acts is a picture of a young man "breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord," of a young man who "made havock of the church, entering into every house, and haling men and women committed them to prison." In the later years of his life he is filled with remorse at his terrible actions, and for that reason he calls himself "the least of the apostles, that am not meet to be called an apostle, because I persecuted the church of God."—1 Cor. 15:9.

His zeal for the law was at white heat, and under the stress of that fervor he stopped at nothing to enforce it. In his letter to the Galatians, Paul says, "For ye have heard of my conversation in time past in the Jew's religion, how that beyond measure I persecuted the church of God, and wasted it: and profited in the Jew's religion above many my equals in mine own nation, being more exceedingly zealous of the traditions of my fathers."—Galatians 1:13-14.

No work was too hard, no journey too long, no sacrifice too great, if he thought it was of service to the law. His sensitive soul could not bear criticism against the law. He slept, woke, and ate for the law alone. He did all that because he wanted to serve and obey Jehovah, and he thought that active, ardent support of that law of Jehovah was positively the greatest thing he could do for his God.

But, as the pendulum of a clock in its swing, so he went to the opposite extreme when he realized his mistake, and that God had a greater law than that of Moses—the law of love, and faith, and the grace of God. So he changed from the law's most ardent disciple to its most active opponent, from Christianity's bitterest enemy to its greatest leader and the founder of its theology.

All this was brought about because God took a hand in Paul's affairs and showed him the law greater than the Mosaic. But where his antagonism of Christianity had seemed to be cruel and bitter, his opposition to the law was only love and good will. His desire was that all men should be freed from bondage. So he did not persecute or bitterly condemn, but he simply, though ardently and joyfully, proclaimed to a sin-cursed world freedom by the grace of God from the dire consequences of sin.

Is it any wonder that God could use such a man as that, a man who devoted his every ounce of energy to what he was convinced was right? Is it any wonder that Christ said to Ananias, "He is a chosen vessel unto me, to bear my name before the Gentiles, and kings, and the children of Israel"? God can always use a man who desires with every fiber of his being to serve Him, and who is willing to sacrifice everything for that service.

His complete change from the law to the principle of the grace of God through faith is shown in the first great controversy that shook Christianity to its very foundations. The early Christians, being mainly Jews, observed the old Mosaic law along with their faith in Christ. But when Gentiles became Christian, the question immediately arose—Should they also be commanded to obey the statutes of the law? And it had to be answered before Christianity could progress.

In the controversy that arose, a man of Paul's foresight and conviction was needed to settle the question aright. Had the question been decided in favor of the law, it would have been like a wet blanket upon the spread of Christianity. It could never have been more than a mere Jewish sect. If the very chosen people of God, the Jews, could not bear up under the burden of those awful edicts from the smoking mount, how could the poor despised Gentile be expected to carry it? But Paul stood firm, and the result is that Christianity has spread like wildfire to every quarter of the globe. It was the hand of God directing freedom from the law of stone, the hand of God choosing that the proper vessel might carry the glorious gospel of the grace of God to all.

As we go further along the road of life with Paul, we see him standing confident and undaunted before kings and rulers. We hear him proclaim in triumphant tones, "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth"—Romans 1:16.

We see him stand for his Master in the face of the Jews of Asia and Europe, though it meant stoning, beating, imprisonment, though it brought him privation, danger, shipwreck. At the last we see him standing alone, forsaken by all but Christ, in the little prison cell at Rome, waiting for the lion's mouth to close upon him. He had given his all for Christ, and in the face of that unrighteous Roman judge, Nero, he could cry in triumph, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day: and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing."—2 Timothy 4:7, 8.

ANNUITY BONDS

For information regarding the advantages of Annuity Bonds over Wills in the making of final gifts for the furtherance of our Gospel labors, address,

NATIONAL BIBLE INSTITUTION
OREGON . . . . . ILLINOIS

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, JANUARY 26, 1932

NUMBER 17

A Loving Father and a Beautiful Plan

By F. E. Siple

IN this world of human relationships there are none of us who have not at times been brought to have the deepest of admiration and respect for certain parents and for their kindness and consideration for their children. It is one of the richest sights that life presents. More genuine unselfish sacrifice and service are prompted by parental love, perhaps, than by any other motive that actuates men along life's way.

This being true, the reason begins to dawn upon us why it is possible to get our best conception of God by considering Him in the role of Father. We then appreciate His purposes. And so the Bible presents to us our great Creator and Guide as a loving and tender parent, anxiously considerate for the welfare of His children.

The fatherly love of Jehovah is shown to us in so many ways that the thoughtful person cannot help feeling somewhat as the most of us come to feel—but often too late in life—when we look back upon the things our fathers and mothers did for us. God gave to us life itself and has surrounded us with loved ones and comforts which we enjoy day by day. He protects us from dangers and diseases and wards off evils from our lives and homes. He tempers our sorrows and gives us strength to bear up through the hard places in life.

But the real love of our heavenly Father is best demonstrated by the beautiful plan which He has made for His children. Any parent's best love and wisdom will be most readily seen in his plans for the family welfare.

The opening of human history gives to us the pretty story of an innocent man and an innocent woman, created in the likeness of their Father. Just as the great Creator had control over the forces of nature, so He gave to man to have power and dominion over the various things upon mother earth. Not only does Moses so record matters in the first chapters of Genesis, but Paul in Hebrews, chapter two, verse seven, says "Thou madest him a little lower than the angels; thou crownest him with glory and honour, and didst set him over the works of thy hands: thou hast put all things in subjection under his feet."

When a child today has a parent who is handsome, attractive, and honorable, how proud that person is to point to such a parent and say, "That is my father!" And if, perchance, there is a marked resemblance in looks or actions so that others comment on the likeness, how happy he becomes.

On this same principle think what it meant for the first members of the race to be created in the image of God, Himself—their Father in the fullest sense of the word. Several thousands of years later Jesus was born, both the Son of man and the Son of God. He bore the physical make-up of a man and yet the great Apostle Paul commented upon Him in Hebrews 1:3 by saying, "Who being the brightness of his glory and the express image of his person," etc., showing very plainly by the language the tremendous honor man holds in the very form of his being.

And man not only had been given this honor in physical form, but, far more important, he had been still more strikingly made in the likeness of his Father by being given authority and power. All things else were under their control. They could command and be obeyed. They could make their own decisions. All things were, indeed, at that time under the feet of man. That is the beautiful picture, but only for so brief a time! Suddenly from all his independence and beauty of position man was dashed to the ground, humiliated and disgraced because of disobedience. His power was fled; his dominion was lost.

High had been his position, low indeed his fall. Great had been his honor and trust; how humiliating now his dishonor and disgrace! In human experience it seems it must be always thus; the higher the position, honor, or trust that man rises to, the more outstanding the disgrace if he falls therefrom.

The time when a parent is most needed, however, is when the child is in distress. It is then that the wisdom and dependability of a father are really proved. How

Continued on page 266

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

"We have also a more sure word of prophecy; whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn . . ."

The Editor's Prayer

OUR FATHER: We lift our hearts in thanksgiving unto Thee for the light of the glorious gospel of Thy Son, which points out clearly the dangers of the world in which we live, and assures us of the coming of the grand new day of eternal peace. Amen.

The Moslem Menace

SINCE Mohammed proclaimed his "holy war" the religion of which he was the originator has been carried forward with a most aggressive and indefatigable spirit. Education, propaganda, coercion, and military force have been employed to extend the teachings and influence of Islam throughout the eastern world. And even today the Moslems are the most energetic, in the furthering of their cause, of all the false religious systems extant.

At the present time Mohammedanism is penetrating into every part of the Dark Continent and successfully advancing throughout the entire East. Outwardly its adherents are contenting themselves with making progress by peaceful means, but it is apparent that it is not their intention to continue long in this pacific manner. A recent editorial writer says, "Their message is one of war and not of peace. Any day every Moslem may be called to a 'holy war' against both Christian and Jew." (Pentecostal Evangel.)

According to Mr. E. E. Helms, writing in the Presbyterian, "Ten million Moslems are packed in and around Palestine. Nearly three hundred million are within cry and call. The Arab sees, in the incoming of the Jew into Palestine, his outgoing. Therefore, while the Jew is enthusiastic to make Palestine his national home, the Arab is enthusiastic to make it his national cemetery. Three hundred million Moslems await the call, and when the call comes, the Arab in Egypt will strike for national freedom from England, and the Arab in Syria will strike for national freedom from France, and the Arab in Palestine will strike for freedom from the Jew and the British. And then the dark sons of India will strike for home rule, and the dark-skinned millions of China and Japan will likely join those other dark-skinned millions—and when that hour strikes, if it strikes, may a God of pity turn a compassionate face upon the white race."

Falling Away

THAT the "falling away" of which Paul speaks in second Thessalonians the second chapter applies to the church—the true church of God—is evident. The same spirit of unbelief, however, that was to be, and now is, manifested in the church, will operate to the detriment of all religions, Christian, pseudo-christian, and non-christian.

In addition to the enormous decline in church membership in the United States among Protestant bodies during the past decade, the Roman Catholic Church confesses that it, too, is suffering in the same way. The following from the Catholic Union and Times of December 24, 1931, is of illuminating interest in this connection:

"A Catholic magazine of note" says "the loss of members of the Catholic church in the United States approximates a half-million souls each year." Commenting on this statement the paper confesses that it "sees no reason to deny the accuracy of it. That the loss is large is now readily admitted."

Seeking to account for this alarming loss in membership, the Union and Times suggests the following: "Several reasons are advanced for this shrinkage. Mixed marriages take away a notable number. Birth control finds adherents among certain Catholic wives too busy to carry on the responsibility of motherhood. Luke-warmness and indifference due to the improper planting of the seed of faith are another cause. Secular education is too often still another.

"No one notices the gradual disappearance of a family here and a family there . . . and no one notices the wearing away of Niagara Falls, yet such a process occurs at the rate of a foot a year. Probably American Catholics will not have the loss of numbers forcibly driven home until a calamity happens to awaken them from their lethargy."

What is said of Catholic "lethargy" and indifference may be said with equal truth concerning the nominal Protestant. The entire religious world is due for a rude and dreadful awakening in the near future. The development of anti-religious sentiment everywhere is taking place with astonishing rapidity. "Therefore let us not sleep, as do others; but let us watch and be sober" (2 Thess. 5:6), as we await the culmination of the end of godlessness and the ushering in of eternal righteousness at the coming of our Lord!

PATIENCE

By George B. Alldridge

"Take, my brethren, the prophets who have spoken in the name of the Lord, for an example of suffering affliction, and of patience. Behold, we count them happy which endure. Ye have heard of the patience of Job, and have seen the end of the Lord; that the Lord is very pitiful and of tender mercy."—James 5:10, 11.

How often in the Scriptures we are exhorted to have patience, that is, to endure without murmuring or complaining, to forbear and keep on day by day along the lines suggested by Paul in Philippians 3:13, 14: "But this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus".

Paul had only the Old Testament, and Jesus and His apostles likewise. What an effect their knowledge of these scriptures had on their daily lives! How often and note how appropriately they quote them. Paul in Romans 15: 4, 5, makes this point very clear. "For whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning that we through patience and comfort of the scriptures might have hope. Now the God of patience and consolation grant you to be likeminded one toward another according to Christ Jesus."

No man has ever seen God, but many saw His Son, who was God manifest in the flesh. (1 Tim. 3:16.) I sometimes think that it was owing to Christ's clear knowledge of God, acquired from the Scriptures, that He sought to exemplify in His daily life and conversation, His glorious character and attributes. Note these significant words: "Philip saith unto him, Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us. Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? He that hath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, Shew us the Father? Believest thou not that I am in the Father, and the Father in me? the words that I speak unto you I speak not of myself; but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works. Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me; or else believe me for the very works' sake".—John 14:1-11.

How was God manifest in the flesh? We answer, by words and works displayed in the life of Jesus. Upon another occasion He said, "It is written in the prophets (note His authority, the prophets), And they shall be all taught of God. Every man therefore that hath heard, and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me. Not that any man hath seen the Father, save he which is of God, he hath seen the Father." John 6:45, 46.

Dear brethren, the Scriptures simply fascinate my mind! How easily we can understand them, if we follow Paul's rule of 1 Corinthians 2:12, 13.

How was God seen and known in the days of Jesus and

His apostles? We answer, by their words and works. How is God seen and known today? We reply, by the words and works of His ambassadors. 2 Cor. 5:21.

What is an ambassador? We answer, the representative of one sovereign at the court of another. Who is our sovereign? None other than God. At whose court do we represent Him? The princes of the world. "But we speak the wisdom of God in a mystery, even the hidden wisdom, which God ordained before the world unto our glory: which none of the princes of this world knew: for had they known it they would not have crucified the Lord of glory."—1 Corinthians 2:6, 7.

Turn to 1 Cor. 4:9. Here is a very significant verse: "For I think that God hath set forth us the apostles last, as it were appointed to death: for we are made a spectacle (margin, theatre) unto the world and to angels, and to men." Now brethren, let us be honest with each other. In this theatre Paul is talking about, are we spectators or are we actors?

Every tenth year in the little village of Oberammergau, Bavaria, since the year 1633, the humble hard working people present a play known and seen by millions of people from all over the world—The Passion Play. They try to reenact the scenes of Calvary and thus give an object lesson of God's love to humanity. The late great editor William T. Stead, who went down in the Titanic, truly called this play, "The Story That Has Transformed the World."

Spectators who have seen it tell us that men and women who make no profession of religion sit trembling with emotion, great tears rolling down their faces. The music, the portrayal of the characters of Christ and His associates, during the last week of His life upon earth, are so real and vivid. Men and women's hearts are made tender and for a time responsive to a better understanding of the world's Redeemer.

Three years before each presentation the leading characters are chosen. From this time on their minds become obsessed only with the thoughts pertaining to the character they are to portray. The leading characters, Christos, Mary, John, and others, it is said, are so transformed in word, likeness, and deportment that many see in them what artists and historians have tried to depict. What a lesson for us who profess to be Christ's representatives today! Are we with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord? Are we changed into the same image from glory to glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord? (2 Cor. 3:18.) Why? "That ye may be blameless, and harmless, the sons of God without rebuke, in the midst of a crooked and perverse nation, among whom ye shine as lights in the world." Philippians 2:15.

How much we need patience, so that each day the transformation work may go on! Ah, yes, "Wait on the Lord: be of good courage, and he shall strengthen thine heart: wait. I say, on the Lord."—Psalm 27:14.

"Wait on the Lord, and keep his way, and he shall exalt thee to inherit the land; when the wicked are cut off, thou shalt see it."—Psalm 37:34. And then the climax

Continued on page 266

THE JEWISH PILGRIM

Are these the ancient holy hills
 Where angels walked of old?
 Is this the land our story fills
 With glory and with gold?
 For I have passed by many a shrine,
 O'er many a land and sea,
 But still, O! promised Palestine,
 My dreams have been of thee.

I see thy mountain cedars green,
 Thy valleys fresh and fair,
 With summers bright as they have been,
 When Israel's home was there;
 Though o'er thee, sword and time have passed
 And Cross and Crescent shone,
 And heavily the chain hath pressed,
 But thou art still our own.

Thine are the wandering race that go
 Unblest through every land,
 Whose blood hath stained the polar snow
 And quenched the desert sand.
 And thine the homeless hearts that turn,
 From all earth's shrines to thee,
 With their lone faith for ages borne
 In sleepless memory.

For thrones have fallen—nations gone,
 Before the march of time,
 And where the ocean rolled alone
 Grow forests in their prime,
 Since Gentile plowshares marred the brow
 Of Zion's Holy Hill.
 Where are Roman eagles now?
 Yet Judah wanders still!

And hath she wandered thus in vain,
 A pilgrim of the past?
 No! long deferred her hope hath been,
 But it shall come at last;
 For in her wastes a voice I hear,
 As from some prophet's urn;
 It bids the nations build not there,
 For Jacob shall return.

—Selected

THE BOOK OF REVELATION

"THE Apocalypse . . . is the only authentic document of the older apostles. . . . No book has been more misunderstood and abused; none call for greater modesty in interpretation."—Philip Schaff.

"As many words as many mysteries."—Jerome.

"Nobody knows what is in it."—Luther.

WHEN GOD WINKED

By Norman John McLeod

"And the times of this ignorance God winked at; but now commandeth all men every where to repent."

PAUL, while waiting for his companions to come to him, is here at his usual task of preaching the gospel. This time he is speaking to Gentiles rather than Jews as was his rule. Let us examine his line of reasoning.

He told the Athenians that God, who made the world, is different from any of the gods that they were worshipping; if He was powerful enough to make the world, He does not need gifts from men; He made men; therefore, He is not like gold, silver, or stone, made into statues by men. These beautiful statues all around in Athens were not real representations of God, for God is greater than man's art.

So far the reasoning is easy to follow: you are worshipping God ignorantly and, therefore, not properly. Man, un-instructed, will always do things incorrectly. Much more is that true of worship. That is a fleshly tendency. Even when men are properly instructed they tend to lapse into wrong habits.

But Paul's next statement is not so easy: "And the times of this ignorance God winked at:—". None, I think, would take that statement literally. God did not actually wink. What are we to gather from the statement? Does it mean that God, previous to Paul's time, did not care what men did, but all of a sudden changed His purpose? That hardly agrees with the rest of the ideas presented in God's Word.

"And also the Strength of Israel will not lie nor repent: for he is not a man, that he should repent."—1 Samuel 15:29. God did not say to men at one time that He did not care what they did through ignorance. He has never been careless of what men do. Before Adam was created He looked forward, and in His mercy planned to sacrifice His Son.

Then later when Abraham sought the way of God, the latter did not look with indifference upon him, but chose him from all people to be the "father of the faithful". The rest of mankind was not forbidden to come to God. They could seek Him just as Abraham did: a notable example is Cornelius the Centurion. We are further told by Paul that the Gentiles who had not the law were a law unto themselves.

What are we to gather from Paul's language? What does he mean by God's overlooking of the bestial ignorance of the Gentiles? If we examine Paul's whole doctrine, as explained also in other places, he is presenting another idea. God at first chose the natural descendants of Abraham from which further to choose His royal family, His nobility, His priesthood. Because Israel failed to produce enough people to fill up the number of the royal priesthood, God, after the ascension of Christ, turned to mankind as a whole in order to complete the number. The making up of a definite number by selection from a larger group seems to be the process of God's plan.

When man was first created God told him and his wife to be fruitful and multiply, to replenish the earth. But after Adam and Eve had sinned, God in pronouncing His curse said to Eve: "I will greatly multiply thy sorrow and thy conception"—Gen. 3:16. As sin entered, in order to produce the seed it was necessary to increase the number of Eve's descent. So when Israel failed to make up the number of those fitted for the high callings, God opened the way to all men.

The sum of the matter so far is this: God always did want all men to repent from their sins; and, if any man so did, he would be acceptable to God.

Repentance is one of Paul's most emphasized points. What does he mean by repentance? What is true repentance? What shall we do to get away from our sins?

Many mistaken concepts of repentance have been held throughout the ages, and have led to peculiar practices. Most people mistake penance for repentance; but penance is an outward display. During the Middle Ages if a man sinned, he had to perform some painful or humiliating thing under order of an ecclesiastical authority; sometimes it was to deny self of a pleasant thing. We are reminded of the Hindu lying on his bed of spikes; or the Buddhist with his many forms of mild torture; or of Cardinal Mercier of Belgium who endured the discomfort of having no fire in his room to warm himself; or of the one who keeps Lent by refusing to eat candy. But such things may not have any deeper significance than self-righteousness.

Repentance is often confused with remorse. We are often sorry for what we have done, but do the same thing over again. Always sinning and repenting!

True repentance is none of these things. It is far deeper than penance and remorse. Neither of the latter need be especially a Christian process; but repentance is an inward Christian remorse, a godly sorrow for sins. Not a leaning on the arm of flesh; not an outward display of self-righteousness. But repentance is more: it involves a complete transformation of attitudes and habits; a complete conviction based on a real appreciation of Jesus.

Peter is a notable example of true repentance. He had made the confession which gave him the surname, Peter: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." And then Jesus tells him, when he should become converted, to strengthen his brethren. The rock upon which the church was founded was not Peter, the man; it was not his statement alone; but it was the experience of Christ which had transformed his inner life: true repentance. When repentance enters into a man's life, he becomes a consecrated individual to whom Christ is the most important fact in the world; as Paul stated:

"For I am determined not to know any thing among you, save Jesus Christ, and him crucified."—1 Cor. 2:2. Oh, that we might feel even as Paul, and consecrate ourselves as did Peter to the work of Jesus the Christ.

MODERNISM IN THE PULPIT

By Arlen Marsh

"PREACH THE BIBLE! NOTHING ELSE CAN MATTER!" For two thousand years this cry has risen from a multitude of throats. Its clamor has continued until today the expression finds utterance on the lips of the majority of those old in the faith. Blindly do certain of the younger ones seize firmly on the exclamation and promulgate it further. The close of the Age of Man is being marked by an apparent full-hearted adherence to the faith by many of the Church of God.

But is this plea all that first glance would seem to indicate? "Preach the Bible!" Yes, that is good; no one can dispute with it. "Nothing else can matter!" A superficial consideration would certainly put the stamp of approval upon this. The books, the plays, the motion pictures, the sciences, the arts that permeate the sermons and writings of the so-called "ultra-modern" religious teacher are subjected to scathing denunciations. "These are worldly; these have no place in Christian doctrines," runs the plaint.

Denouncements such as these come only from the bigot and the fanatic. Those unable to find anything of interest in world affairs, those who cannot see the value of present day developments, are the authors of this unreasonable plea for, "Bible—nothing else!" Only the one too narrow to see anything but evil in modern device and custom would offer such a cry. Such a one has not even the poor excuses of the cynic, for the cynic at least applies some reason to his doubt.

Civilization, Christian and temporal, has advanced. People have progressed beyond the iron-clad dogmatism of the nineteenth century. Education now holds sway. Ten years from the date of this writing, the normal congregation will consist almost entirely of high school and college graduates. To a large extent, this is already true, especially in our cities. Then, too, the pastor of today faces an audience of far more mixed interests than ever before. Doctors, lawyers, laborers, farmers—all classes meet in the church auditorium.

This evident heterogeneity in humanity demands treatment vastly different from that which was accorded our fathers. For the older generation, the Bible may have been sufficient to establish their religion (although, in view of its present vacillations, we wonder whether it was); but the modern youth and the modern business man demand proof of the Bible's inspiration—proof that the Bible cannot contain within itself. Contemplation of geology and its kindred sciences, comparisons of biblical statements with the facts of history, astronomy, etymology, and archaeology must be called on by the speaker to furnish evidence acceptable to his hearers of the inspiration of God's Word. 2 Timothy 3: 16 will not do.

Nor is this all. The speaker must offer something which attracts. Encyclopaedic utterances and unadorned repetitions of biblical quotations hold no appeal for the one who is outside the pale of Christianity. So the well-informed minister reaches into the novels, the plays, and the arts of those of the world, to draw therefrom material that can be applied to his religious work and by which he can obtain the attention of a nodding congregation.

Paul was faced with a problem similar to that just described when he addressed the Greeks on Mars' Hill, "For in him (God) we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring."—Acts 17:28. Not even the divinely inspired Apostle to the Gentiles hesitated to appropriate to his own purposes the apothegms of the heathen philosophers. No more should the teacher today hesitate to employ every opportunity to use the writings of modern thinkers. Current theories and events, current books and plays, all can properly be made grist in the mill of the preacher.

History, say many, is an unnecessary subject for the student minister. Without knowledge of history—knowledge of the details of history—interpretation of prophecy would be impossible. Daniel would be a closed book; Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and the minor prophets could not be understood. The entire defence of the martyr Stephen was history, and Paul followed his example at Antioch in Pisidia. History is certainly as vitally important today as in 45 A. D.

And why, ask these critics of secular study, is English necessary; why should the speaker spend long years learning to use correct speech? This is not the question of the educated man, but of the unprogressive. The Bible can never reach the educated successfully until it is presented in an educated way. The youth of the times is too critical to listen to faulty pronunciation, poor diction, and worse grammar. The story of God deserves the best—the best in study, work, and word.

But there should be temperance in all things. The pastor should not forget his Bible in favor of extraneous matter. The sciences, arts, and books of the world should be made a means to an end, and not the end itself. Final appeal should always be made to the Scriptures. The Word of God should remain the basis of every sermon, of every lesson, and every article.

Many of the complaints regarding the introduction of temporal material into the church come from those made blind to modern conditions by love of precedent. Nothing could be worse than adherence to old customs simply because our fathers had them. There is a name for that—Shintoism, ancestor-worship. Never should it be that Henry Van Dyke's immortal words could be rightly applied to the methods of the church:

"The past is too much with her,
And the future looking back."

—o—

"There is no finer chemistry than that by which the element of suffering is so compounded with spiritual forces that it issues to the world as gentleness and strength."

A TIP FROM SOLOMON

By C. E. Lapp

"A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving favour rather than silver and gold."

WHEN gold was discovered in California in 1849, hundreds, yes, thousands of people from every walk of life left home, friends, loved ones, and everything that life held dear and started west. For what reason? That perchance they might be fortunate enough to bring into their possession some of that yellow metal so precious in the eyes of all mankind.

Many of those who started turned back; others were massacred by the Indians; while still others left their bones to bleach beside the way or in some wilderness. Those who did reach their destination were not altogether successful. Some gained great wealth, but it soon became of no value when life was past.

There is a record in God's Word of a man that came to Jesus seeking eternal life. He had gained great earthly wealth and vast possessions, and he came to ask for life. Jesus told him to keep the commandments, and He was informed that all had been kept from youth up. Then Jesus said, "Go and sell all that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven and come follow me." And the young man went away sorrowful, for he had great possessions.

The wise man says, "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches". Christ told the young man to follow Him, but he chose the riches instead. If the young man had forsaken all and followed Christ, he would have been in position to receive eternal life.

In this world there is only one Name that is above all others. There is only one Name that can be taken with hope of future reward, and that is the Name of Christ our Savior. Are we seeking to take unto ourselves that good Name, or would we rather have the riches of the world?

The wise man also said, "and loving favour rather than silver or gold." From the beginning of time God has been showing loving favor to all those who would be obedient to His will. In John 3:16, we find the highest point of favor of all times. Wonderful and far-reaching is this divine love shown to all mankind. God allowed His only Son to be born into the world, to be beaten and spit upon, to be called an imposter and heretic, and finally to be crucified—for all who would accept the "favour". "For by grace are ye saved through faith."—Eph. 2:8. Loving favor? Yes. And many times more precious than silver or gold.

Solomon knew what he was talking about, because he had great riches and could see the vanity of having them. Many today cannot see the truth in the proverb he gave. Sad as it may seem, there are people like the rich young ruler in the church of today. They have plenty of this world's goods, yet they are selfish and inconsiderate of anyone but themselves and their own immediate benefit. They can think only in terms of dollars and cents, just as the rich young ruler did, and they forget about the Name under which they stand daily. They also forget the admonition of Paul in Colossians 3:1, when he said: "If ye then be risen with Christ seek those things which are above."

Yes, we still have gold diggers who are like the Pharisees. They live according to the letter of the law given by Christ, but they do not obey the spirit of it. The spiritual things of life always receive second thought in their hearts and lives.

Let us carefully weigh values, and choose that "good name" rather than great riches, and the "loving favour" of God rather than this world's silver or gold.

---

WATERS OF LIFE

---

By Richard LeCrone

WHEN we stand beside an artesian well, we cannot but wonder at the amount of power which is manifest, and the inexhaustible supply which causes such large volumes of water to rise continually from somewhere in the heart of the earth. We can only account for the fact that the water rises of its own accord by assuming that by some means, invisible to us, it is connected with a source of supply higher than the well.

When, as is frequently the case, these wells are found in a barren country, they are invaluable as a source of supply for irrigating the land and making what would otherwise have been mere waste land, unprofitable to man. In deserts these wells have been found only a few feet beneath the surface. The wonderful gift of God sometimes lies dormant for centuries, awaiting only someone to sink a well and put the water to use.

What bearing does all of this have upon Christianity or the Word of God? For the sake of the Christian who habitually attends church twice each Sunday I have prepared some statistics. I am assuming that he attends church regularly and is a regular attendant at Sunday school. If the figures do not fit your case, you may alter them to your own needs. During the course of the year that person would be present at

100 sermons
50 hours of Sunday school
50 prayer meetings
50 Berean classes
20 special meetings
20 hours of conference work

---

290 hours of religious instruction per year

If computed in the terms of eight hour days, that makes thirty-six days of each year that are spent in studying the gospel. Add to that the time spent in private study and meditation, and we shall find that out of each year we spend well over a month in accumulating a knowledge of the gospel of Christ.

Since the gospel is, as Paul says, "the power of God unto salvation", we each have stored up in us a great deal of power. What are we going to do with it? "Counsel in the heart of man is like deep water; but a man of understanding will draw it out."—Prov. 20:5. May we not then compare this power which we have stored up within us to the power which supplies the artesian well? In what form is this power manifested? "The words of a man's mouth are as deep waters, and the wellspring of wisdom as a flowing brook."—Prov. 18:4.

The Master Himself compares the gospel to a well of water. Hear Him: "But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life."—John 4:14. It becomes the glorious privilege of the Christian to carry these waters to a dying world.

"The God of our fathers hath chosen thee, that thou shouldest know his will, and see that Just One, and shouldest hear the voice of his mouth. For thou shalt be his witness unto all men of what thou hast seen and heard."—Acts 22:14, 15. The above is the Apostle Paul's commission, received after that he had learned of the things concerning Christ and the kingdom of God. He was not permitted to store these things up within him and to withhold them from those who were thirsting for the truth. It is the will of Christ that every Christian should in one way or another put his Christianity to work for others and not keep it selfishly within himself. It is his task to pour the waters of salvation upon the desert life that it might blossom and become fruitful unto God. That is God's will, for He says, "For I will pour water upon him that is thirsty, and floods upon the dry ground: I will pour my spirit upon thy seed, and my blessing upon thine offspring: and they shall spring up as the grass, as willows by the water courses."—Isaiah 44:3, 4.

Having done this, we shall meet the Lord with confidence when He comes, and shall sing with the Prophet Isaiah, knowing that we have pleased God, "O Lord, I will praise thee: though thou wast angry with me, thine anger is turned away, and thou comfortedst me. Behold, God is my salvation; I will trust, and not be afraid: for the Lord JEHOVAH is my strength and my song; he also is become my salvation. Therefore with joy shall ye draw water out of the wells of salvation."—Isaiah 12:1-3.

---

"Don't look for the flaws when you go through life,—
And even when you find them,—
It is wise, and kind, to be sometimes blind;
So look for the virtues behind them!

"The kiss of the sun for pardon,—
The song of the birds for mirth,—
One is nearer to God in a garden,
Than anywhere else on earth."

—Selected by A. Leonard Brady.

THE MORNING COMETH

We wait, O blessed Jesus,
 For yet a brighter hour,
 Though clouds of sorrow linger,
 And Satan wield his power.
 Hope anchors on the promise;
 God's Word can never fail;
 The truth shall surely triumph,
 The light shall yet prevail!

Night must give place to morning;
 The Sun of suns shall rise,
 And flood the world with radiance,
 Too bright for sinful eyes.
 And when the royal Bridegroom
 Comes forth to claim His bride,
 And on the clouds of heaven
 In majesty doth ride,
 Then shall Thy waiting children
 Adore earth's rightful King,
 Angels shall swell the anthem,
 While woods and mountains sing.

Return in all Thy beauty,
 Messiah! Lord of life!
 Begin Thy reign of glory,
 And end this mortal strife!
 —Christ's Coming Kingdom.

? ? ?
 ? EXHIBIT ?

- WHEN? Next August.
- WHERE? At the General Conference, Oregon, Illinois.
- WHY? For mutual help in all departments of our religious work—Church, Sunday School, Berean class, Ladies' Aid.
- WHAT? Any device that you use and find helpful in any phase of the work that may give some one else an idea.
- WHO? YOU. Will you help gather this material?
- THANK YOU.

The last General Conference appointed a committee to collect material and prepare an exhibit for the next conference gathering.

A circular letter is being mailed that will further explain concerning this purposed exhibit.

Your cooperation will be appreciated.

- Committee: Mrs. F. L. Austin, Chairman, 5439 Ohio St., Chicago, Ill.
- Mrs. Nellie M. Halls,
 742 E. 126th St., Cleveland, Ohio.
- Mrs. Esta L. Starbuck,
 624 Grove St., Rockford, Ill.

THE UNMERCIFUL SERVANT

By Lyman Booth

"Then came Peter to him, and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me: and I forgive him? till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, Until seven times; but, Until seventy times seven."

THE Rabbis limited forgiveness to three repetitions of an offence, but Peter seemed to think the rule should be enlarged to seven as the limit. Christ's reply, "seventy times seven", refuses to give any limit. While living under grace, one should exercise grace, as we depend upon it without limitation.

Peter's question embodied a fundamental error, for when he proposed a limit beyond which forgiveness should not extend, he implied the idea that a person in forgiving gave up a right which he might exercise under other circumstances. Our Lord's reply made it clear that when God requires one to forgive he does not surrender a right, but that he has no right in the matter to exercise, because in asking for forgiveness for himself, he has virtually bound himself to forgive and to show mercy to others. God never grants anything but full pardon; He forgives the greatest as well as the least debt.

The duty of forgiving injuries has no limit. No matter how frequently one is injured, if real penitence and contrition follow the offence, a Christian is always bound to forgive. Though our Lord bade His followers to forgive their enemies seventy times seven, the Christian has hitherto suffered very little by too much forbearance. Where the spirit of forgiveness is lacking there can be no harmony, no unity of action, and the spirit of brotherly love will wither and die.

In this beautiful parable it is presupposed that God's mercy toward us and His forgiveness of us go before our forgiveness of each other. The description, as given in Matthew 25:14-30, of the servant who owed the talents does not properly apply to a true child of God, but only to a professing Christian. In this parable our Lord sought to teach, not merely the duty of forgiveness, but that forgiveness which springs from the heart. It shows one's utter want of love in not forgiving the offending party, and represents such an one as ungracious and insensible of the benefits he himself receives from the Master.

IDEAS are like babies. You can present them in their original freshness, smooth and naked and natural; or you can swaddle them in layers of subtlety and qualification. You can so nearly smother them in a succession of "wooly" words and involved phrases that the original sense has only the slightest chance of peeping out or wriggling a tiny finger to attract attention.—Printer's Ink.

TO OUR BROTHERHOOD

---

I AM coming to you with an appeal, not because it is pleasant to do so, but because it is necessary. The National Bible Institution is an institution organized for the purpose of securing the cooperation of our people in carrying on and expanding our religious activities, as is well understood. It had been our hope that the different departments of our work could be made self-sustaining. This hope, however, has not yet been realized.

The publishing department has always operated at a loss, as such enterprises usually do. When THE RESTITUTION HERALD was published separately, before it was taken over by the N. B. I., it was run as economically as was possible to do, and yet there was a deficit of several hundred of dollars each and every year. Those deficits were made up each year by a number of us paying an average of fifty dollars each year and starting the next year clear of all debt, no mention of it being made in the paper. This, of course, could not continue indefinitely, but it did continue until the N. B. I. was organized and took the publishing plant over and expanded its operations by publishing Sunday school and other literature.

Everyone who has had experience in these things knows that publications of this character, that carry no advertising, cannot do business on subscriptions at $2.00 per year alone, especially with the limited number that we have; and the Sunday school literature that we publish, at the price we must put it out, does not pay its proportionate share of overhead expenses of the plant. This increases the annual deficit. Then the fact that a large number of subscribers allow their subscriptions to drift along without paying does not assist much in reducing these deficits.

We also have Golden Rule Home department, one of the splendid features of the N. B. I. If we had two or three more residents in the Home it would be about self-sustaining. The overhead—heat, light, insurance, taxes, repairs, etc.—are just as high with it half filled as when full. The Home, therefore, has been operated thus far with monthly deficits. The greenhouse was added with the hope that the returns from that activity would assist in making up the deficits. This, however, did not prove out as we had hoped. The depression came on, and the greenhouse became a heavy liability instead of an asset. We have reduced the overhead and running expenses to the lowest possible point and still keep it operating, and are trying to make it break even—the best we can hope to do under present conditions.

We are asked why we don't sell the greenhouse. There are several reasons. First, we could not sell it during this depression for one-half its real value; second, we could not make a good title to it until the mortgage bonds that have been issued against it have been lifted and cancelled. Others have said: Close it up and stop expenses if it is not paying expenses. Were this done our insurance would become void, unless a watchman were kept on the job; and glass houses that are vacant serve as good marks for boys, and not a few men, that are inclined to throw stones for the thrill of hearing the jingle of falling glass.

The best that we are able to see to do, therefore, is to carry on as best we can, with the least possible expense of operation, and work through to better times and conditions.

Another embarrassing thing with us is the fact that our securities and property are subject to the same laws of fluctuation that have been so disastrous in their effects upon securities and properties of all enterprises, of whatever character they may be. But the interest on our indebtedness has not decreased, and must be paid.

Numbers of our subscribers, both for THE RESTITUTION HERALD and also the "Dollar-a-Month Club" are saying: "We cannot keep up our subscription and pledges."

Now, the question I must ask you is: What are we to do in this matter? Are we to suspend our activities in these lines, cash in on our securities at whatever they may bring to secure money to meet obligations that we are compelled to meet, and hope to start again when the depression lets up? Or shall each one who is interested in the work we are carrying on make some sacrifice, if need be, and thus enable the N. B. I. to work on through whatever may be before us? This is the question that seems to confront us!

The facts are: Very few, if any of us, have been sacrificing any of the real comforts of life for supporting, with our means, the cause of our Lord. We may have denied ourselves a few luxuries, but really, is that not about the extent of our financial sacrifices?

Some, no doubt, will say: "Well, if the N. B. I. management had conducted its business differently from the beginning things might be different now." That may all be true, but don't overlook the thought that if you, and I, and all of us had applied ourselves and conducted our businesses differently during the ten years just past, it might be quite different with us, individually. Turning the searchlight upon ourselves frequently should have a tendency to modify our criticisms of others in their business efforts and conduct.

Anyway, whatever of criticisms we may have to offer, that won't pay bills, nor provide means to carry on the work in which we are interested. How are we to carry on this work? Answer me that! And please answer me in terms that I can understand. I am not highly developed in optimistic theory, and in explaining how to pay interest and debts, and how to keep up expenses in conducting the business in which we are engaged. Simple terms that refer to something of a material nature and that is near at hand—not too far off—will be most appreciated. This depression, or something, has made me "nearsighted" in business matters.

Most all institutions of the character of the N. B. I. have endowments of many thousands of dollars in properties or securities to draw from in emergencies; but the N. B. I. has nothing of this kind, and must depend upon the many small contributions of our people to keep it going.

I shall offer a suggestion. Let those of our number who may have employment, and have not heavy taxes and interest on debts to pay, and those who have incomes sufficient to provide absolutely necessary expenses, make some extraordinary contributions to assist us in this work while passing through these times of depression. Some who have been very liberal supporters heretofore have been so hard hit—farmers with heavy debts and high taxes, and others with a lot of heavily taxed property that is practically non-productive, cannot be expected to help so much as they otherwise would gladly do.

Many of our young people are teachers on salary, and others have jobs in offices and stores and business houses, and if they can each one assist a little, we can continue to carry on. I cannot enumerate the many places in connection with this business that demand money, but they exist, and are legitimate, and if the business is to go on with hope of success, they must be met. At headquarters we are reducing expenses of operation to the minimum that will allow us to run at all. General overhead expense is about the same, whether we do little or much business. Heat, light, insurance, taxes, and other general up-keep, etc., are necessary, and publishing 100 papers costs almost as much to issue as 5000 would cost.

It is therefore up to our brotherhood to determine the course that we take. Many institutions, with much brighter prospects and many times larger resources than the N. B. I. has ever enjoyed have gone down during this general depression, and the emergency that has come to us is not exceptional.

If there is any information of a special character that any of our people desire, and that I might be able to give, kindly write me and I will do my best at answering your inquiries.

L. E. Conner, Manager.

---

PATIENCE

---

Continued from page 259

which makes us old folks feel good: "But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint."—Isaiah 40:31.

Many years ago these words, at the time I was out of work and in trouble, were stamped indelibly upon my mind and they are a blessing to me yet. We have need of patience.

We do not know how to wait. We are like children who stamp at the least delay. Our wills have, in the ardor of their exactions, all that they want in earnestness and persistency. As soon as he is kept in suspense, the child loses all zest for his toy. It is by his slowness in answering us, that God would transform our wishes into purposes. Patient expectation is a sign of spiritual vitality. He who knows not how to wait, is not worthy to obtain.

A LOVING FATHER AND A BEAUTIFUL PLAN

---

Continued from front page

comforting it is, therefore, to find that at this crucial moment in the life of man, the heavenly Father came immediately forward to reveal the next step in His plan. Showing that He had not in any sense been surprised or forestalled, He began at once to explain the necessary steps for man to escape the curse, and He announced the coming birth of His Son to engineer redemption's scheme.

It becomes an interesting thread of teaching, then, throughout the Old Testament books, of how this King should be born and should accomplish the Father's purpose. The story of God, clothing the first nude pair with the skins of animals, was an illustration of how the undone condition of man could be covered successfully only by the clothing provided through the death of the Innocent One.

Adam and Eve first attempted to clothe themselves, but the kind of clothing they were able to provide was not adequate for the need. Life had been forfeited by the great sin, and it required the sacrifice of innocent life for atonement to be made. The object lesson given here was evidently learned by Abel later, for he brought for a sacrifice an innocent animal which was fully accepted by Jehovah.

Many of us still today, however, try to patch up a covering for our sinful and undone condition by splicing together works of our own hands as Adam and Eve sewed together fig leaves. If we could only learn the lesson and apply the covering which Jesus provides for us in His death, how much better off we all would be!

Faithful patriarchs throughout the ages placed their whole confidence in the fulfillment of God's promises. Noah built an ark that was a plain type or figure of the church, its one door representing Jesus Christ, the only entrance, and its salvation of the faithful from the flood representing plainly the salvation of the faithful in the church from the world's troubles, when Jesus comes. Our Savior Himself stated this comparison in Matthew 24:37 by the following words: "But as the days of Noe were, so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be."

Noah lived in a careless age when men paid little heed to things sacred or eternal, but lived wholly for selfish enjoyment. What a comfort it is at such a period of time to find a man like Noah, full of faith and unafraid of all that others might say or do. He gives to us a wonderful example of belief in God's promises, and the whole story of salvation from the flood is a clear illustration of the salvation which Jesus will bring to His people from the great judgments soon to come upon this world of careless and thoughtless sinners. We of today, surrounded by so much of worldliness, would do well to remember the days of Noah and the rich reward to the man of faith.

Abraham still later showed his understanding of the whole plan by not being discouraged when God failed to fulfill in his temporary lifetime the promise which had

Continued on back page

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 325 N. Austin Blvd., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois
For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"GOD GETS HIS BEST SOLDIERS OUT OF THE HIGHLANDS OF AFFLICTION."

"I will cause thee to ride upon the high places of the earth"
Isaiah 58:14

THOSE who fly through the air in airships tell us that one of the first rules they learn is to turn their ships toward the wind and fly against it. The wind lifts the ship up to higher heights. Where did they learn that? They learned it from the birds. If a bird is flying for pleasure, it goes with the wind. But if the bird meets danger, it turns right around and faces the wind in order that it may rise higher; and it flies away toward the very sun.

Sufferings are God's winds, His contrary winds, sometimes His strong winds. They are God's hurricanes, but they take human life and lift it to higher levels and toward God's heavens.

You have seen in the summer time a day when the atmosphere was so oppressive that you could hardly breathe. But a cloud appeared on the western horizon and that cloud grew larger and threw out rich blessing for the world. The storm rose; lightning flashed; thunder pealed. The storm covered the world, and the atmosphere was cleansed; new life was in the air and the world was changed.

Human life is worked out according to the exact principle. When the storm breaks the atmosphere is changed, clarified, filled with new life; and a part of heaven is brought down to earth.—Selected.

OBSTACLES ought to set us singing. The wind finds voice, not when rushing across the open sea, but when hindered by the outstretched arms of the pine trees, or when broken by the fine strings of an Aeolian harp. Then it has songs of power and beauty. Set your freed soul sweeping across the obstacles of life, through grim forests of pain, against even the tiny hindrances and frets that love uses, and it, too, will find its singing voice.—Selected.

"Be like a bird that, halting in its flight,
Rests on a bough too slight;
And feeling it give way beneath him, sings,
Knowing he hath wings."

"THERE is no music in a rest, but there is the making of music in it." In our whole life melody the music is broken off here and there by "rests", and we foolishly think that we have come to the end of the tune. God sends a time of forced leisure, sickness, disappointed plans, frustrated efforts, and it makes a sudden pause in the choral hymn of our lives: and we lament that our voices must be silent, and our part missing in the music which ever goes up to the ear of the Creator. How does the musician read the "rest"? See him beat the time with unvarying count, and catch up the next note true and steady, as if no breaking place had come between.

Not without design does God write the music of our lives. Be it ours to learn the tune, and not be dismayed by the "rests". They are not to be slurred over, not to be omitted, not to destroy the melody, not to change the key-note. If we look up, God Himself will beat the time for us. With the eye on Him, we shall strike the next note full and clear. If we sadly say to ourselves, "There is no music in a 'rest'," let us not forget that "there is the making of music in it." The making of music is often a slow and painful process in this life. How patiently God works to teach us! How long He waits for us to learn the lesson!

—Ruskin.

ILLINOIS STATE BEREAN REPORT

November and December

Rockford: Membership, 21; average attendance, 19; interest, very good. The classes meet each Friday night at 1904 North Main Street.

Dixon: (Senior) Membership, 15; average attendance, 12; interest, very good.

(Junior) Membership, 10; average attendance, 9; interest, good.

(Primary) Membership, 7; average weekly attendance, 5; interest, good.

The different classes meet at the church each Wednesday night at 7:30.

Elizabeth Ford, Sec.

Salem: The Salem Berean society has been discontinued due to lack of interest of the members.

Edith Hendrix, Sec.

Elizabeth Ford, State Sec.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

THE SLAVERY OF SIN

"Be careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God. And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus."—Philippians 4:6, 7.

"Well, how was the New Year party?"

"Oh, so funny! Jack is always so funny when he has had a few drinks! And Marie is funnier yet!"

Now, do you think they really had fun—funny fun? Could there possibly be real humor in the antics of someone not himself, or fun in seeing another ill? Or, were they trying to think it was all fun because, apparently, "the gang" thought so. Were they afraid to say "no" when "the gang" said "yes"? If so, they are slaves to "the gang".

Can you believe anyone liked his first drink or cigarette? No, but he was afraid someone would say, "Sissy" or "Carrie Nation", and would go ahead. Finally, he or she became a slave to the habit.

Just so it is with any kind of sin—it fastens itself upon you until you are held more firmly than with chains. "The gang" tried to believe its members were wild and free—wild, perhaps, but not free. They would have to pay for their so-called freedom—and quite often the price is very high.

The only freedom is happiness—the "peace of God which passeth all understanding"—a mind with no regrets, and a well body.

Matthew gives the following illustration: A master goes from home and leaves a wise servant to look after his household. Now, when the master returns he will reward or bless the servant if he be found faithful. He will make him ruler over all his goods.

But, if the servant will say, "The master does not return," and hurts other servants, and becomes drunken, the Master will come unexpectedly and then —. The evil servant will be discharged and punished. In his unhappiness there will be "weeping and gnashing of teeth."

John gives us the words of Jesus to the Jews which believed in Him: "If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed. And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

These Jews said, "We be Abraham's seed, and were never slaves. What do you mean?"

Jesus replied, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whosoever committeth sin is the servant of sin. And the servant abideth not in the house forever: but the Son abideth ever. If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed."

Now, which freedom do you prefer? When tempted, stop and think, "Will it pay? Does it pay to sell myself to an unworthy master? Why ruin my chances for lasting happiness? Surely, I will hold fast to Jesus, for He, alone, can make me free."

WILL YOU choose the freedom of happiness in clean Christian living?

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Read Intermediate Class by M. G. in your Truth Seekers' Quarterly.
2. Learn the verse at the close of the Primary section by G. M. M.
3. Read Matt. 24:42-51; 1 Sam. 24:1-11; and Jer. 35:5-14.

WE BELIEVE that there will be a literal resurrection of the dead—"The Lord Jesus Christ who shall change our vile body that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body according to the working whereby he is able even to subdue all things unto himself." Phil. 3:21.

WEEKLY BIBLE READING.

Feb. 5 to 11: Ex. 31 to Lev. 6; Mark 8 to 14.

TRUTH

"The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God."—Psalm 14:1.

TAKE THE BLAME

When you've made a foolish error,
Or have failed to play the game,
Do not try to "stand from under";
Only cowards shift the blame.

Face the world and say you're sorry;
Do not whine at error's plight.
Other people will respect you
If you try the wrong to right.

It takes nerve to face the scornful,
And apology to make;
But your conscience will acquit you
If the blame you bravely take.

—Nina Willis Walter.

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 6. — February 7, 1932

THE SLAVERY OF SIN (TEMPERANCE LESSON)

Matthew 24:45-51; John 8:31-36

Devotional Reading: Romans 8:1-10

GOLDEN TEXT

Whosoever committeth sin is the servant of sin. — John 8:34.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: Jesus Liberates the Slaves of Sin.

Basic Truth: "The Lord hath . . . sent me to . . . proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound." —Isaiah 61:1.

Outline: I. Enslaved by Sin. II. The Taskmaster of Habit. III. Jesus the Emancipator. IV. Glorious Liberty.

I. Enslaved by Sin. Many non-Christians have the idea that Christianity is primarily a matter of restricting men's action, of limiting their pleasures and enjoyments. In reality the greatest bondage is that enforced by worldly lusts. One never consciously struggles to "break away" from a good habit. It is only the bad ones we strive to overcome. Hence the forming of evil habits enslaves its victim. He seldom realizes the extent of his bondage to the use of tobacco or liquor, to gambling, to dancing, or to any other sin, until he is held in their grasp.

II. That Taskmaster of Habit. Bad habits are the most relentless and merciless slave-drivers in the world. When habits of evil gain complete control over the victim, even when he comes to abhor them, he is forced against his desire, against his better nature, against his sense of right and truth, to yield to their insistent demands. He is driven in thought and word and action to do and say those things which he detests. "The good that I would I do not: but the evil which I would not, that I do," cries the Apostle Paul in Romans 7:19.

III. Jesus the Emancipator. Pondering on the hopeless condition of the one enslaved by sin, Paul again exclaims, "O wretched man that I am! who shall deliver me from the body of this death?" —Rom. 7:24. He immediately answers his own question most impressively and joyfully: "I thank God through Jesus Christ our Lord." —Rom. 7:25. "For sin shall not have dominion over you: for ye are not under law, but under grace." —Rom. 6:14.

IV. Glorious Liberty. Even in this present the disciple of Christ is freed from the thrall of temptation in that "God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; and will with every temptation also make a way of escape, that ye may be able to bear it." —1 Cor. 10:13. While in the age to come, owing to his changed and glorified nature, sin will be impossible to the child of God.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

Intemperance always brings slavery. The intemperate person enslaves himself to that force or evil power which tempts him and which temptation he does not resist. Every person not freed by Jesus Christ is a slave of and to sin. Peter says: "Of whom a man is overcome, of the same is he brought into bondage." A few of the things which man is in bondage to are enumerated below. Discuss these things impartially and add others to the list. Surely we do not want to be in bondage to any other than Jesus Christ.

Tobacco	Temper
Liquor	Dances
Passions

LIBERTY:

"If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed." Here is liberty for the one in Christ. However, this liberty must not be used for an occasion of the flesh. Discuss how far a person can go in participating in the pleasures of the world and still not go outside of the liberty which is in Christ. Do you think a person should attempt to go as near the border line between righteousness and unrighteousness as possible, or should we strive to get as far away from the appearance of evil as is possible?

Discuss the method which Christ uses in liberating people from sin. What is one's condition, if after he has been liberated by the gospel, he is again entangled in the sins of the world? 2 Peter 2:20-22.—C. E. R.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

"Whosoever committeth sin is the servant of sin." —John 8:34.

"Know ye not, that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness?" —Rom. 6:16. "No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon." —Matt. 6:24.

The drinking person is the servant of sin; for no righteousness is connected therewith. "The wages of sin is death," and no drunkard inherits the kingdom of God. What a vast difference there is between being the "servant of sin" which leads to death, and being "obedient unto righteousness" which leads unto life!

It is so easy to sin and become a servant thereto. It takes effort to live the Christ-like life, but it pays an hundredfold in this life and in the world to come, life everlasting. —L. A. R.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT

Slavery or Freedom

"Know ye not, that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness?" —Romans 6:16.

Paul recognizes that we must either be the servant of sin or the servant of righteousness. If we serve sin, we are said to be under bondage; but if we serve righteousness, we are said to be free. This freedom has reference to the coming judgment, freedom from the reward of unrighteousness, and freedom to accept the reward of righteousness.

We should not be deceived by the words of the ungodly. "For when they speak great swelling words of vanity, they allure through the lusts of the flesh, through much wantonness . . . While they promise them liberty, they themselves are the servants of corruption: for of whom a man is overcome, of the same is he brought in bondage." —2 Peter 2:18-19. God will punish the servants of sin in due time.

He has given us our choice. We are free to serve sin or to serve righteousness. But if we are wise, we will accept the advice of the great Teacher: "Enter ye in at the strait gate," for "strait is the gate, and narrow is the way which leadeth unto life." —Matthew 7:13-14.—H. A. S.

PRIMARY CLASS

Topic: Whom Shall We Serve?

Memory Verse: "Whosoever committeth sin is the servant of sin." —John 8:34.

Let the teacher and children discuss what "servant" means. Call to their attention the fact that all homes of the better class in that country had many servants. Explain to them how these servants were acquired. Make it plain to their minds that the servant who pleased his master most was the one who did things most like the master.

Now we may choose for ourselves whether we will be the servants of Jesus or not. If we try to serve Jesus, whom will we be like? What are some of the things we will do? Do you know a man who seems to be very, very wicked? What does he do? Could you be a good servant of Jesus and do the things this man does? Jesus told His friends that they could not serve two masters who were so different, for they were sure to love one more than the other. Which sort of master had you rather serve?

Ask the children to bring you pictures to illustrate good things to do, and bad things to do. (E. g., cigarette smoking, as opposed to Red Cross work.)

Have the children memorize:

"My body is a temple,
To God it does belong;
He bids me keep it for His use,
He wants it pure and strong."

—G. M. M.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

AT WCMA

Bro. F. L. Austin will speak from WCMA, Culver, Ind., next Sunday morning from 6:30 to 7:30.

ACTIVITIES AT DIXON

On January 10, 1932, the Dixon Sunday school held its annual election. The following officers were elected for the year 1932: William Ford, superintendent; William Eckert, assistant; Frances Rossiter, secretary; Mrs. Agnes Eckert, treasurer.

On Sunday, Jan. 10, a series of meetings was started. We are giving the public some basis upon which we construct our religion. Bro. Conner is able to do this in a very interesting manner which is shown by the attendance. It is greatly anticipated that we may cause many to see the truth as the Bible teaches it and give their hearts to Christ.

Frances Rossiter, sec.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

On January 17 the morning service took the form of a consecration service for the officers who are to carry the responsibility this year. Scriptures dealing with qualifications and requirements were read, and all were urged to help hold up the leaders' hands. Earnest prayers arose for God's guidance through the year's work. All officers were present except Bro. Richardson, one of the elders, who was not well enough to be there.

Quite a bit of minor illness has prevailed throughout the community, but in the main our folks have been greatly enjoying the balmy weather which has prevailed up till this writing—a kind of winter never before heard of in the annals of Michigan history.

Labor conditions are still difficult, but perhaps the financial hardships through which we have been passing have been working a blessing in making us all more humble and bringing us closer to God and to each other.

F. E. Siple, pastor.

NEWS FROM ST. CLOUD

We have experienced the highest attendance in Sunday school on Jan. 10, reaching up to 76, which is more than double since our coming here. We have a fine general superintendent, Mrs. Geo. Savage, who is of the old stock. Three repentant souls found their way back to the Lord with a desire to live a better life.

Election of officers is over, or mostly re-election, which I think shows that good work has been done by them. The material needs of the congregation are in good condition, considering the times we are living in. The folks are a loyal group of people, anxious at all times to supply the needs of the community.

Bro. John Denchfield visited us Sunday evening. It was a blessing to have him with us for that service.

Bro. Thomas Savage, Sr., is like an old battleship, ready to give of his best to the Master. His kindly words of encouragement are inspiring to each one of us.

Our vision is a greater work for the Master during 1932, that more folks may know the teachings of the Church of God according to the inspired Word. Then we have another vision, which I'm sure will be a reality, "The Lord draweth nigh."

Yours for the Master,

Adna E. Hoskins.

OREGON IN THE WEST

Sr. Anna Cady, of Corvallis, celebrated her seventy-fifth birthday anniversary on January 6. Many more happy birthdays, Sr. Cady!

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur H. Tremaine, formerly of Hollywood, Calif., arrived in Corvallis several weeks ago. They will reside four miles north of the city where they will operate the Hogue Dairy. Sr. Flora Hogue and her husband will move to Corvallis. Sr. Tremaine will be remembered as Sr. Lulu Taylor and a daughter of Sr. Hogue.

Election of church officers at Corvallis on Jan. 10 resulted as follows: elder, Bro. H. B. Hathaway; treasurer, Sr. Flora E. Hogue; secretary, Sr. Lulu Tremaine; trustees, Bro. D. H. Hathaway, Bro. A. N. Harlan and Sr. Minnie R. Kerr.

Sr. Ethel Ebi, accompanied by her niece, Sr. Evelyn Kerr, has returned to her home at Hood River. Sr. Ebi came to Corvallis on a visit to her brother and sister, Bro. Bruce Morgan and Sr. Kerr.

We were very much saddened upon hearing of the death of Sr. Hannah B. Cramer who passed away several weeks ago at her late home in Portland. Sr. Cramer was a firm believer in the gospel. She sleeps awaiting the call of the Master whom she served so faithfully.

The quarterly meeting of the Northwestern Conference of Oregon and Washington will be held March 4 to 6, 1932, at Corvallis, Oregon. Meetings will begin on Friday evening and last until Sunday evening. It is our prayer that each member will take it upon himself to make this meeting interesting and worth while. Bring your friends and neighbors. It is not hard to find people in the highways and byways. Bring them. Has it occurred to you to tell the transients who call for food, of Jesus your Savior? Remember, it is the interest that you show in the meetings that makes for success or failure. The teachers and ministers need your help. Remember them in your prayers and show your interest by attending each meeting. Read carefully 2 Corinthians 4:3-5 and Romans 13:11-14.

SPECIAL CONTRIBUTIONS

Amy L. Young	$10.00
Margaret M. Ellis	3.00
G. A. Carpenter	1.00
D. B. Jackson	8.00
Mrs. A. Turney	1.00
Total	$23.00

HERALD RECEIPTS

Helen M. Porter; Emma Niesley; Levi Gabrielson; D. B. Jackson; Mrs. Jesse W. Lovett; Mrs. Frances M. Gillespie; Mrs. C. J. Lamberson; A. K. Richardson (for others); G. A. Carpenter; Mrs. Edward Twibell; Levi Coffin; Elizabeth Louise May (for another); Lee Sutherland; Anna E. Sleight; Mrs. John Seegar; James T. Fox; C. H. Munch; Elna Schafer; Mrs. R. Overholt; Mildred R. Stantial; Vernon Chaplin; Mrs. Lilian Railton (for another); Mrs. Ella Skeels; Zenas Murphy; Mrs. James Kincheloe; Walter Koontz; Robert McInturff; Mrs. Clara Stewart; Fred M. Brough; Mrs. Wm. Ling; S. E. Boyer; Mrs. Edith Burke; Fred Shain; Alice V. Blakesley.

HOLBROOK, NEBRASKA

Herein is a report of the activities of the Church of God at Holbrook for the year beginning January 4, 1931, and ending January 4, 1932.

Bro. Arthur Hornaday who has served so faithfully as Sunday school superintendent and also conducted the Bible study classes ever since the church building was erected in 1928, has conducted thirty-six Bible lessons the past year.

Bro. Grover Gordon, since his return here about a year ago, has been filling the pulpit every Sunday morning and has delivered forty-five sermons. He is also leader of the Berean class.

In February Bro. Almus Adams made us a visit, delivering five sermons. In March Bros. J. W. Williams and O. J. Allard were here, at which time Bro. Williams gave us six sermons, Bro. Allard two. Again in June they were here at which time they preached four sermons in all.

Sister Eva Phelps also has conducted several Bible studies.

Besides these services we had our conference which lasted nine days. Bro. L. E. Conner of Dixon, Ill., was the principal speaker and Bible teacher. Bro. Clarence Lapp gave us two sermons, Bro. Harvey Krogh one, Grover Gordon two.

All in all we feel we have had a very profitable year. During conference three young men were buried in the likeness of their Master, being baptized into His death. Since that time one young lady has also taken the name of her Savior by baptism.

The encouraging part is the interest that has been manifest by all, especially the young people, in all of the different activities of the church.

CONTRIBUTORS TO DOLLAR-A-MONTH CLUB

F. L. Austin; Inez and Frances Sheets; Graytown Ladies Aid (Clear Lake, Wis.); Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Engebretson; Mr. and Mrs. G. Eldred Marsh; Wayne Thompson; Mrs. Georgia Thompson; Mrs. A. M. Siple; Mrs. Lilian Railton; Mr. and Mrs. John E. Miller; Zenas Murphy; Mrs. James Kincheloe; Margaret M. Ellis; Leona Lathrop; Mr. and Mrs. George Rahn; Jessie W. Donaldson; Lydia Railsback; Lois Hunt.

ORLO R. JONES

As a result of an auto accident, when a passenger train struck his automobile, Bro. Orlo R. Jones of Waterloo, Iowa, son of Bro. Arthur Jones of Eagle Grove, died a few hours later on Dec. 28, 1931.

Orlo R. Jones was born April 17, 1905, at Eagle Grove, Iowa, where he received his education. He married Miss Jeanette Lucille Turnbull on June 11, 1920, at Eldora, Iowa. The couple moved to Waterloo shortly after their marriage where they had since resided nearly all the time. Surviving besides the widow are three children, Theodore, 10; Helen, 8; and Glen, 5; his mother and father; a brother, Francis; and a sister, Mrs. Jack Burnham, both of Fort Dodge, Iowa; and a half brother, Delbert Jones.

He was baptized about twelve or thirteen years ago by Bro. G. Eldred Marsh, at Waterloo, and in talking with his father less than a week before his tragic death, he revealed that his faith still held firm. Burial was made in Elmwood cemetery at Waterloo.

The sympathies of the brethren who are acquainted with Bro. Arthur Jones of Eagle Grove, Iowa, will be with him in the sorrow that has come to him as a result of the tragic death of his son.

ELIZA RAHE OLIVER

Mrs. Eliza Rahe Oliver fell asleep in death on Dec. 24, 1931, aged 89 years and 19 days, after an illness of 19 days, in the home of her daughter, in Blackwell, Okla., which has been her home for 34 years. She was a native of Pennsylvania. She learned the truth as it is in Christ Jesus, and put on Christ by baptism many years ago, was a great Bible student, and lived in longing expectation of the Savior's soon return to rule the earth in righteousness, when all things will be restored or made new. She has left us a wonderful heritage of love, devotion, and a Christian life, with the knowledge and meaning, reverence and appreciation of that sacred word—Mother.

She leaves three children: Harvey L. and Percy E. Wile, Tonkawa, Okla., and Carrie Wile Chambers, Blackwell, Okla., besides other relatives and many friends. We laid her to rest in Blackwell cemetery, where she sleeps, waiting the Master's return and call to resurrection.

Mother rests in peaceful slumber,
In her little narrow bed,
Waiting for the Savior's coming,
When He shall raise His sleeping dead.

She is resting by the roadside,
With loved ones waiting there,
Longing for the Savior's coming,
That they may meet Him in the air.

But her rest will soon be ended,
For the Savior's coming is nigh,
And the trumpet call awakes her,
As He is returning from on high.

Till then we must bid farewell,
When Jesus comes to claim His own,
When there shall be no more partings,
And we shall know, as we are known.
Carrie Wile Chambers.

WALLACE W. UPTON

Wallace W. Upton was born near Cleveland, Ohio, and died Jan. 8, 1932, in the sixty-fifth year of his age. When a young man he was united in marriage with Miss Jessie Elton, to which union two daughters, Iley and Libbie, were born. His wife died in December, 1930.

They were residing in the Collinwood district, now a part of the city of Cleveland, when the terrible Collinwood school fire occurred in March, 1908, in which 172 pupils and three teachers perished, and which many readers of The Restitution Herald will remember, which disaster caused a general revolution throughout the country in the construction of school buildings, with out-swinging doors, fire escapes, etc. Bro. Upton was the hero of the tragedy. He was one of the first to arrive after the fire got well under its death-dealing way. He rushed into the building and rescued 17 of the entrapped pupils, working in the deathly heat and smoke until he fell exhausted, and would have perished had he not been dragged out and rescued by others who had arrived to assist. Although a strong man, and at that time in the vigor of his manhood, it is said that he never fully recovered from the effects of that awful experience. The parents of a number of those pupils being at the time subjects of the French government, in recognition of Bro. Upton's heroism, had his name inscribed upon the rolls of heroes in all the public schools of France.

For thirty years or more he was a faithful member of the body of Christ. He was honest and upright in his dealings, a true friend and neighbor, and his death brings deep sorrow to those who knew him well.

He left surviving, of his immediate family, the two daughters, Mrs. Iley Upton Barch and Mrs. Libbie Upton Hicks, with two brothers and three sisters.

A number of years ago he selected the scriptures he desired to be used at his funeral services, which desire was faithfully complied with accordingly. We laid him to rest beside his beloved companion in life, to await the dawning of the promised new day.

L. E. Conner.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME—

Your attention is directed to Bro. Conner's message to all, which will be found on page 265. Read it carefully and prayerfully.

Bro. Harry Gockler, of Marshall, Ill., arrived at Oregon on Monday morning and has enrolled as a student in the N. B. I. Training Class. A warm welcome is being extended to him by teachers and Class members and the local church.

We are grieved to note the very serious illness of Sr. Alice Crysler of Golden Rule Home during the past week. Many prayers have ascended to the Father in heaven for her. She suffers very much, but is receiving the very kindest of care and attention from the matron and members of the Home.

Bro. Austin was called to Oregon in consultation with Bro. Conner and Bro. Marsh on important matters relative to the financial and religious work of the N. B. I., during the past week. The members of the church, assembled at prayer meeting on Thursday evening, enjoyed and benefited much from the lesson he gave us at the request of Bro. Marsh.

The article on front page by Bro. Siple is a resume of the sermon which he broadcast from WCMA, Culver, Ind., on Jan. 10. Those who listened in and were disturbed by other stations will be glad of the opportunity of reading it, and those who heard clearly will also enjoy a review of it, we know.

Pastors Adna E. Hoskins, St. Cloud, and John Denchfield, Eden Valley, Minn., are now issuing church bulletins each week for their respective localities. These are done on a mimeograph and the pastors work together on it. We are sure they will assist greatly in building up an interest in all services and in uniting the members in a closer bond of fellowship. The following churches now have bulletins, as far as we have been informed: Fonthill and Niagara Falls, Virginia, Cleveland, St. Cloud, Eden Valley, Plum River, Eldorado, and Ripley, Ill. Oregon, Ill., will soon have a bulletin also. If there are others, we will be glad to know of them.

Students of the Training Class have just completed their semester examinations in history and English. In history, they have been studying the progress of education and the rise and fall of the papacy during the Middle Ages. In English, word study has been undertaken with a view to obtaining a vigorous and descriptive vocabulary; Scripture memory work, studies from the life and writings of the Apostle Paul, themes on a wide variety of biblical topics, impromptu talks, practice sermons have been some of the assignments. During the second semester the Class will study Bible history, including map study. Definite progress has been made by all, but more application to study has been apparent on the part of some of the class, as is the case with all groups of students. Those who prepare themselves will be ready when opportunity knocks.

At the service on Sunday evening last at the Dixon church, six young people came forward and took their stand for Christ. Bro. Conner is continuing his series of meetings at least over the 27th, when it is hoped more will make the great decision. All will rejoice with the Dixon brethren.

We glean from Bro. Randall's church bulletin that the three members of Niagara Falls church, Sr. Lent, Bros. Moore and Rennard, are recovering nicely, for which all will rejoice.

The name of Bro. Earl Thayer, pastor of the Rockford (Ill.) church was unintentionally omitted from the ministerial list recently published in The Herald. We regret this omission and trust Bro. Thayer will pardon it. The list will be republished in the near future, and if there were any other omissions, please call them to our attention. Thank you.

The death of Sr. Eliza Rahe Oliver, for many, many years a faithful and devoted follower of the Lord, leaves her daughter, Sr. Carrie Wile Chambers, very lonely. The prayers of the brotherhood arise for Sr. Chambers in her sorrow, and we trust that she may be spared to continue her labor for the Master until His return.

The reader will peruse with interest the editor's page this week, in which Bro. Marsh tells us of general conditions prevalent among other organizations and other religions today. All such information serves not only to keep the Christian posted as to what is going on in the world of affairs, but aids him in further determination to resist the onslaughts of the enemy and remain faithful to Christ.

We have a budding poet in the Training Class, who gave the following answer to a question in a recent test:

"The schoolmen declined
I know not why;
But this I know—
Before I die
I hope that those
Who follow me,
Will not be asked,
And what did He?"

From an interesting letter written by Sr. Elizabeth Louise May of St. Catharines, Ontario, we pass on to our readers the following: "I sent a copy of the Christmas Herald to a very old friend who wrote me that he enjoyed it so much. He said that there was much in it that sent his thoughts back to a sunny December day when he lingered long in quaint Bethlehem in the great Church of the Nativity, at the little chapel, traditionally the scene of the wondrous birth 1931 years ago, and over the hills, among the shepherds and their flocks, very similar to those of that far-away time, I presume." Thank you, Sr. May, for passing on to us the commendatory remarks of your friend. Sr. May has sent a six months subscription to The Restitution Herald to this friend.

A LOVING FATHER AND A BEAUTIFUL PLAN

Continued from page 266

been made to him. Paul, in commenting upon the matter generations later, said, "For he looked for a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God."—Hebrews 11:10. Abraham had not misunderstood the literalness of God's promises to him. When the Father promised the land of Palestine to him and to his seed for an everlasting possession, he believed, and he lived his life through without wavering in that faith.

It was hundreds of years afterward that Paul explained in the third chapter of Galatians that the Father had reference to ONE of his seed, that is Christ; but Abraham believed even though the explanations had not all yet been made as to how these matters would be done. This is why we all bow in respect before the memory of Abraham. He believed God's promises literally and looked forward to their fulfillment, but was never impatient that matters did not mature during his lifetime. He knew that God's great plan required time, and he wanted to be worthy of having a proper place in it when it should finally be completed.

The Sweet Singer of Israel showed his comprehension of the Father's plan and of the redemptive work Jesus would perform when he sang in the seventeenth Psalm the words of verse fifteen, "As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied when I awake with thy likeness."

Still others of the Psalms give graphic pictures of the coming kingdom when God's plan shall be completed. Harken, for instance, to these beautiful words from the seventy-second Psalm:

"He shall judge thy people with righteousness, and thy poor with judgment.

The mountains shall bring peace to the people, and the little hills, by righteousness.

He shall judge the poor of the people, he shall save the children of the needy, and shall break in pieces the oppressor.

They shall fear thee as long as the sun and moon endure, throughout all generations.

He shall come down like rain upon the mown grass: as showers that water the earth.

In his days shall the righteous flourish; and abundance of peace so long as the moon endureth.

He shall have dominion also from sea to sea, and from the river unto the ends of the earth."

Farther down the stream of time the great prophet Isaiah painted lovely word pictures to show his comprehension of how the Father's plan would work out. Listen to these words of Isaiah 11:1-4:

"And there shall come forth a rod out of the stem of Jesse, and a Branch shall grow out of his roots:

And the spirit of the Lord shall rest upon him, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the Lord;

And shall make him of quick understanding in the fear of the Lord; and he shall not judge after the sight of his eyes, neither reprove after the hearing of his ears:

But with righteousness shall he judge the poor, and reprove with equity for the meek of the earth."

And later he drew the picture of the coming kingdom conditions in chapter thirty-five as follows:

"The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them; and the desert shall rejoice, and blossom as the rose.

It shall blossom abundantly, and rejoice even with joy and singing; the glory of Lebanon shall be given unto it, the excellency of Carmel and Sharon, they shall see the glory of the Lord, and the excellency of our God.

Strengthen ye the weak hands, and confirm the feeble knees.

Say to them that are of a fearful heart, Be strong, fear not: behold, your God will come with vengeance, even God with a recompence; he will come and save you.

Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped.

Then shall the lame man leap as a hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing: for in the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert."

The New Testament, of course, is an account of the birth of the long-promised Redeemer and of the mission He performed in presenting His Father's plan to the race. We see Him mortal and subject to temptations and trials so that man can have an approachable Savior, one who has been tempted in all points like as we are, yet without sin. (Hebrews 4:15.)

We see Him healing the sick, opening the eyes of the blind, and feeding the hungry, so that His preaching of the Gospel of the kingdom might become real to them and they would understand that these blessings which He was bringing then in a limited way would become general and universal in the day when His kingdom should in fullness be ushered in.

We see Him lifting the dead back to life, Jairus' daughter here, Lazarus there. And we catch the spirit of Him who is the resurrection and the life and realize that eventually "all that are in the graves shall hear his voice; and shall come forth." John 5:28, 29.

From our standpoint of today, then, we look forward to the beauty of the finished picture which God has promised us. We see a Redeemer coming in power and great glory to roll from mother earth the curse which has lain as a great cloud of stain upon it for ages. We see the vegetation perfect once more, the mountains, hills, and rivers rejoicing and even the desert blooming like a rose. (Isaiah 35.)

We see the dead rising from the graves where they have been held so long and clasping each other in the glad reunion of the ages, as the saints all join in the song of victory, and it is proclaimed that death is no more.

We see the Father wiping the last tear from the eyes of man as eternal joy settles its smiles upon the faces of the redeemed.

We see a smiling and victorious Son standing by the side of His loving Father as the two of them survey with kindly eyes the finished work—the Father's plan at last completed.

Can we help worshiping such a loving Father with such a beautiful plan?

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, FEBRUARY 2, 1932

NUMBER 18

THE MILLENNIAL AGE

IN the trail of sin, from the gates of Eden down to our own time, we find marked evidences of God's displeasure and judgment. Where once flourished magnificent cities, we find unparalleled desolation, "a habitation for dragons and a court for owls." Where once stood beautiful palaces, we find "nettles and brambles in the fortresses thereof" and the "wild beasts of the desert meeting with the wild beasts of the island." Where once existed a land flowing with milk and honey, blessed beyond measure with corn and wine and fruits, we find a dry and barren desert, where death has succeeded life, and barrenness, profuse vegetation. Even at the very vestibule of man's creation we see him standing in the presence of an offended Creator, listening to the awful sentence: "Cursed is the ground for thy sake".

In the economy of God, then, we see that physical and temporal evils have followed in the wake of sin. It has ever been so. Reasoning from this standpoint, if we had no revelation to guide us, might we not conclude that with the banishment of sin and a restoration of righteousness, will come the banishment of the curse and a restoration of Edenic beauty and loveliness, such as existed on the earth ere the blighting touch of sin was felt? But we are not left to conjecture on a matter of such importance. The testimony of the Scriptures is clear and explicit.

Referring to this wonderful transformation, the Prophet Isaiah says: "The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad, . . . and the desert shall rejoice, and blossom as the rose. It shall blossom abundantly, and rejoice even with joy and singing; the glory of Lebanon shall be given unto it, the excellency of Carmel and Sharon."

So abundant will be the harvest, and so prolific the vintage in those coming happy days, that the "plowman shall overtake the reaper, and the mountains shall drop sweet wine, and all the hills shall melt."—Amos 9:13, and Joel 3:18.

The Psalmist, also, looking forward to the time when the Lord shall judge the people righteously, and govern the nations upon earth, declares that "then shall the earth yield her increase; and God, even our God, shall bless us."—Psalm 68: 4, 6.

Ezekiel, also, foreseeing the same glorious time, says: "There shall be showers of blessing, and the tree of the field shall yield her fruit, and the earth shall yield her increase."

And the people of Israel, restored to the land of promise, will no more be disturbed by cruel invaders and persecutors, nor by wild beast of the field or forest. Neither will famine overtake them, but all will be peace, happiness and contentment under the protecting care of the world's great King—Jesus. See Ezekiel 36:30; Hosea 2:21, 23.

The foregoing testimonies prove that the blessing of abundant harvests, profuse vegetation, and a prolific yield of fruits will surely accompany the reign of Christ on earth, and the barren and desolate places will be restored to great fertility and yield an astonishing increase. Not only will these blessings be realized, but others, equally great, are promised.

A season of uninterrupted peace and security will succeed the successive tides of war and desolation which have so often swept over the earth, all implements of war being converted into useful implements of agriculture; the earth will no more be reddened with the blood of her slain; and never more will the piercing cry of the widow, or the sorrowful moan of the orphan ascend up to the ears of the Lord of Sabaoth. Instead, the heavens will ring with the joyous mirth of earth's inhabitants, all of whom will bask in the sunshine of God's love and long enjoy the work of their hands.

What a wonderful change this will be! The longevity of antediluvian days will be restored, and a person dying at one hundred years of age will be reckoned as a mere child; the measure of a lifetime will be the measure of a tree's life, some of which endure nigh a thousand years—the oak, for instance. At present the life of man is compared to the grass, and the flower of the field, which today is, and tomorrow is cast into the oven.

One of the great physical changes which will take place

Continued on page 282

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

"When they shall say, Peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them, . . . and they shall not escape."

A Prayer for any Congregation

OUR FATHER IN HEAVEN: We thank Thee for the blessed privilege of assembling here to learn more of Thee that we may better prepare for the coming of Thy Son.

May Thy peace rest upon us in this Thy house.

Give us the strength and will to do Thy will with a oneness of purpose that will make this church a witness for Thee wherever its influence may be felt.

Help us to be loyal to each other, and to our officers, having respect for their authority, helping and encouraging them that they may find joy in Thy service.

Grant that we may be free from all prejudice or love of personal gain or power, that all we do may be done humbly for the sake of Him who sacrificed all for us.

In Jesus' name we ask it.

The above appealing invocation was submitted by Sister Grace Skinner, of St. Cloud, Minn., and as its title suggests, is suitable for any congregation, for the needs it presents are common to all.

World Armament Conference

AS THIS paper is issued today, February 2, 1932, delegates representing sixty-three nations are assembling in Geneva, Switzerland, for the world conference on armaments.

According to World's Work, "the purpose of this conference is to reduce the burden of armaments which now cost the nations of the world $4,157,000,000 annually, enough to build twenty railways across the continent of Asia or sixteen Panama Canals."

The questions to be considered by the conference have nothing to do with the morality of war nor with the physical suffering and loss of life which war brings, but with the economic problems presented.

At the close of the Great War the leading states, with the exception of our own country, entered into the League of Nations, the chief object of which was the prevention and eventual abolition of war.

In August, 1921, President Harding at the demand of Congress issued an invitation to the principal governments to meet in Washington and confer on the limitation of naval armaments.

In 1922 the United States ratified the "Four-Power Pacific Treaty" with Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan.

In February, 1927, President Coolidge submitted memoranda to Great Britain, France, Japan, and Italy, suggesting a conference to consider further reductions in armaments. This gathering was held in Geneva.

The Reparatory Disarmament Conference of the League of Nations met in the same city in 1929, for the consideration of the problem. By invitation of the League, the United States was represented by a delegation headed by Hugh S. Gibson, our Ambassador to Belgium.

A further effort to promote peace was made in 1929 in the ratification of the "Kellogg-Briand multi-lateral treaty renouncing war as a national policy," between this country and France. Later similar treaties were consummated with more than fifty other governments, including Great Britain and Japan.

History indicates clearly that treaties are effective just so long as the nations making them are willing to abide by their provisions, and no longer! In spite of the efforts put forth world peace seems as far away today as it was in 1914.

Moved by the highest of altruistic motives our rulers cry, "Peace, peace; when there is no peace." Trusting to their assurances, "we looked for peace, but no peace came; and for a time of health, but behold trouble."—Jer. 8:11, 15. The inspired writer declares that there is "a time to love, and a time to hate; a time of war, and a time of peace."—Eccl. 3:8. This, it seems, is the time when hatred and warfare must prevail, a time when "the ambassadors of peace shall weep bitterly."—Isa. 33:7.

As the world Armament Conference meets in Geneva today the guns are belching forth their terrible messages of destruction in Manchuria; the streets of Shanghai are running red with blood; while out in the harbor the Japanese armada, anxiously watched by warships of the United States, Great Britain, and France, drop their deadly missiles into the Chinese city!

Yet in spite of these obvious failures of men to usher in the reign of everlasting peace among the nations, peace is coming! It will not and cannot come as a result of the weak and faltering efforts put forth by the nations; nothing but "the zeal of the Lord of hosts will perform this."—Isa. 9:7. Soon He who is to come will come to reign "from sea to sea, and from the river unto the ends of the earth," and then, and then only, shall the nations of the earth "learn war no more."

THE DESIRE OF NATIONS

THE Jews expected anxiously, and from day to day, the Great Deliverer of whom their prophets had spoken; and the precise fore-calculations of the Prophet Daniel had given them to know that the time of His coming was near. This occasioned great uneasiness between Herod and his subjects; his subjects wanted no king, until their Messiah should come to take the throne of His father David, and lead them forth conquering and to conquer, bringing all the Gentiles to His feet. Full of these magnificent ideas of their King Messiah, they failed to recognize the promised Deliverer in the One who came to deliver them, not from the Romans, but from their sins; whose kingdom was not to be of this world, and whose reign, not over lands and territories, but in the hearts of men.

Nor was He expected only by the Jews. He was the Desire of Nations. There were strong pulsations of the universal heart in expectations of some great change (as there is today in the midst of this present era), of the advent of some distinguished personage who should bring in a new order of things of some kind or other, and who should work such deeds and establish such dominion as never before existed. It was even expected that this great personage should issue from Judea; an expectation which was probably derived from the more distinct anticipation of the Jews, if not partly from the more remote glimpse at the meaning of these prophecies which referred to Messiah, and which many educated persons must have read in the Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures, with dreams of a universal temporal empire which the expected Messiah was to establish. As however the Hebrews had not the strong national interest in the expectation of a conquering king, they clung with less tenacity than the Jews to this notion of His functions, although blinded by it, they were for awhile as unable as the Hebrews to recognize the ANOINTED OF GOD in the infant of Bethlehem.

The prevalence and character of this expectation account for the watchfulness of Herod and for the horrible peremptitude with which he ordered the massacre of all the infants of Bethlehem, as soon as inquiries of the Parthian magi gave him cause to suspect that the King of the Jews had been born there.

The history of the life of Christ by the four evangelists is simply a record of what He said and did, and His character is illustrated by His words and actions alone. Christians have often tried to delineate it; and if in the attempt their thoughts have harmonized with the divine records, their hearts may well have then, as it were, the impression of that divine image after which man was at first created. But a divine character, such as was Jesus Christ, is such as none but a divine hand could draw; and seeking in the prophecies what the Messiah was to be, we read what Jesus was while He dwelt among men.

The death of Christ was as unparalleled as His life, and the prophecies are as minutely descriptive of His sufferings as of His virtues. His growing up as a tender plant; His riding in humble triumph into Jerusalem; His being betrayed for thirty pieces of silver, and scourged, and buffeted, and spit upon; the piercing of His hands and feet, and yet every bone of Him remaining unbroken; the last offered draught of vinegar and gall; the parting of His raiment, and casting lots on His vesture; the manner of His death and of His burial, and His rising again without corruption—all were minutely predicted and as literally fulfilled.

But already, far beyond the conception of man to have harbored the thought, hath the Light which has come out of Judea enlightened the nations: already have the Scriptures been made known in a tenfold degree more than any other book; long has He been a Light to the Gentiles, and long have kings seen and risen and princes rendered worship to Him whom man despised and whom the Jewish nation abhorred.

The Christian faith made at first its bloodless way throughout the world. And though many a conspiracy has been formed and many a bloody warfare waged against it, it not only stands unsubdued and unshaken after every assault, but the vain rage of its adversaries has been subservient to its extension and its triumph. As a matter of history, the progress of Christianity is at least astonishing and as the fulfillment of many prophecies, it is miraculous.

Why, then, were so many prophecies delivered? Why, from the calling of Abraham to the present time, have the Jews been separated as a peculiar people from all the nations of the earth? Why was the book of prophecy sealed for nearly four hundred years before the coming of Christ? Why, from the age of Moses to that of Malachi, during the space of a thousand years, did the succession of prophets arise, all testifying of a Savior that was to come?

Why is there still to this day undisputed, if not miraculous, evidence of the antiquity of all these prophecies, by their being sacredly preserved in every age, in the custody and guardianship of the enemies of Christianity? Why was such a multitude of facts foretold that are applicable to Christ and to Him alone? Why?—but that all this mighty preparation must usher in the gospel of righteousness, and prepare the way for the kingdom of God; and that Christians also, in every age, might add to their peace and joy in believing, the perfect trust, that however great the promises of God may be, they still are sure; and that He who spared not His own Son, but gave Him up for us all, will with Him also, if His we be, freely give us all things.

None surely would any longer wilfully refrain from searching the Scriptures to see how they testify of Jesus, or from seeking the words of eternal life which may be found in them, were they to lay to heart the thought that the second coming of Christ to judge the quick and the dead, is as certain as that the prophetic tidings of His first advent—once heard afar off—have already proved true.—Selected by Elizabeth Louise May from An Illustrated History of the Holy Bible by John Kitto.

CROSSING BRIDGES

By Lottie E. Young

HERE is an old and very true bit of advice which says, "Don't cross the bridge until you come to it", but I wonder how many of us heed it! Let us think of the year 1932 as a bridge between what has been and what may be, and resolve that it shall not be crossed except day by day, or, better still, moment by moment.

Many of us love the "King James" translation of the Bible, made three hundred years ago, with its familiar phrasing, better than the "Revised" of 1881. But Matthew 6:34, with its, "Take no thought for the morrow", is greatly improved to my way of thinking by its newer form of, "Be not therefore anxious for the morrow", or, to put the thought into two words, "DON'T WORRY".

I am certain Jesus did not mean we should be wasteful with food or clothing, as He gives us a wonderful lesson in economy, when after the feeding of the 5000, He said, "Gather up the fragments that nothing be lost". But He did want to emphasize the thought, "If God so clothe the grass of the field, shall he not much more clothe you"?

"Man's extremity is God's opportunity", and my idea is to do your best as long as possible, and then trust your Father for daily strength for daily needs.

There are two "Don't Worry" chapters in the Bible. One is the thirty-seventh Psalm with its oft repeated "Fret not", and the other is Matthew six, or part of the longest recorded sermon falling from the lips of Jesus. But aside from these is the phrase, "Fear Not", which runs through the whole book.

Worry is not a modern disease, as we read in the Old Testament how the Children of Israel when journeying through the wilderness worried as to where their food was coming from. While in the New Testament we have the query of the women as they approached the sepulchre on that first Easter morning, "Who shall roll away the stone?" in order that they might embalm the One whom they thought was sleeping therein.

Sometimes worry is carrying tomorrow's load with today's strength. There are just two days in the week about which we need not bother—yesterday, whose cares and trials are past, and tomorrow, which may never come. So today is the only one about which we have to think.

Let us learn to "Build a little fence of trust around today,

Fill the space with loving work, and therein stay.
Look not through the sheltering bars upon tomorrow,
God will help thee bear what comes of joy or sorrow."

Someone may say "We know all that to be true, but how are we going to stop worrying?" The Apostle Paul, who surely had enough trials and afflictions about which to "worry", gives us three simple rules in Philippians 4: 6, 7. The first is, "Be anxious for nothing." Deliberately refuse to think about annoying things, especially after you go to bed, when you are apt to have a wakeful time, if you persist in "crossing bridges."

The second rule helps to carry out the first—"Thankful for anything". When you feel the worry mood creeping on, sing something which tells about Jesus. "Praise God from whom all blessings flow", is a fine one for driving away worry.

The third rule helps to make both the first and second effective—"Prayerful about everything." We often sing, "We should never be discouraged; take it to the Lord in prayer." After we take our trials and temptations to Him, let us be sure to leave them with the Burden Bearer and not bring them back for further worry. There is a version of 1 Peter 5:7 which reads, "Unloading your anxiety upon Him" and then believe He wants to help you bear all the ills of life—little and big.

Did Paul follow his own rules? For his first work in Philippi he was given a prison cell, while his letter to the Philippian church was written when he was a prisoner in Rome. But the keynote of this epistle is not patience or longsuffering, but JOY. May we imitate his example, remembering that God lives; God cares, and DON'T cross the bridge until you come to it.

GENERAL BOOTH AND MARGOT

GENERAL William Booth prayed as naturally as a child appealing to its father. He was not self-conscious when he prayed. He never mumbled, as so many do, but spoke out bravely whatever was in his heart.

King Edward once boasted that he would rather have General Booth pray for him than any minister in the kingdom. It was his sincerity that conquered.

One time when the General was going down to Bristol a very charming lady stepped into the compartment. Her name was Margot Tennant, and this was at a time when social gossip was linking the name of that vivid personage with rival gentlemen named Balfour and Asquith.

The moment she saw the General she smiled and entered into conversation with him, and he, quick as a flash, said, "God bless you, Margot. May you make a wise choice."

She was full of questions. How did we reach the people who had never had contact with the churches? How great was the need of such an organization? As the General unfolded his story, tears began to course down her cheeks.

The young society woman had to change trains at Swindon and arose to arrange her luggage. The General, rising also, placed his hand on her arm and gently said: "Before you go can we not have a little prayer?"

The two then knelt in the railway compartment and prayed. As they got to their feet and Margot prepared to leave she suddenly exclaimed:

"General, I see now the secret of your power. I know why you have myriads of followers. You believe in what you preach."—Evangeline Booth.

"IN CHRIST"

By M. W. Perrine

THIS is a Bible phrase, and it means something. Yes, it has a world of meaning in it. It means just as much to this generation as "in the ark" did in the days of Noah. After the ark was prepared, Noah preached to that wicked generation with a view to inviting them to take refuge in it. But God foreknew that none would take refuge in the ark but Noah himself and his family, because of unbelief.

Now the Scripture doesn't inform us as to whether Noah's sons and their wives really believed all that Noah preached about righteousness in the days "while the ark was a preparing." But this we know, that when the ark was finished and the time came that God should open the windows of heaven and pour the flood of waters upon the world of the ungodly, they willingly and obediently went into the ark, and God shut them in, and they were safe, providing they should abide in the ark. The whole world then that was outside the ark perished.

Now what do we learn from this figure? God is preparing an ark to the saving of our souls. "I go to prepare a place for you," said Jesus and Peter says, "The like figure whereunto even baptism doth also now save us."—1 Peter 3:21. Jesus, who is the Savior of all them that believe, who is God's only begotten Son, whom God sent into the world to bring life and immortality to light through the gospel, is the Ark God has prepared for the salvation of all that will come unto Him.

The figure teaches that we must get into Christ if we would be saved. How? Paul says in Galatians 3:26-27, "For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ, have put on Christ. And if ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise."

Baptism puts you into the Ark. Peter says, "Not the putting away of the filth of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience toward God, by the resurrection of Jesus Christ."—1 Peter 3:21. And Paul says, "Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death?"—Rom. 6:3.

So we see that baptism is the means or method of inducting us into Christ, the great antitypical Ark of safety. Baptism places us in that condition of both mind and heart that we are said to be in Christ Jesus, in a saved condition, if so be that we abide in Him. "And now, little children, abide in him; that, when he shall appear, we may have confidence, and not be ashamed before him at his coming."—1 John 2:28.

It is at His appearing that the deluge of fire (trouble) is to be precipitated upon the world of the ungodly. "And at that time shall Michael stand up, the great prince which standeth for the children of thy people: and there shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation even to that same time: and at that time shall thy people be delivered, every one that shall be found written in the book. And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt."—Daniel 12:1, 2. "For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him. For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven . . . and the dead in Christ (in the Ark) shall rise first: then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord."—2 Thess. 4:14-17.

The point is this, that the dead in Christ and the living in Christ—next to our Lord—at all times have the pre-eminence. Paul's statement is, Romans 8:1, "There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus".

The safest place then is in Christ Jesus. But how get into Christ? Will baptism alone place you in Christ, saved? What saith the Scripture? "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned." So we see that faith is necessary. And all of these without repentance would fail. That means a complete turning about from our old or former condition—putting off the old man, and putting on the new, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness.

Such are the ones that have part in the first resurrection. "Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection: on such the second death hath no power, but they shall be priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand years."—Rev. 20:6.

In Christ we have a refuge from the storm of trouble that is coming upon all the world. Hear the Prophet Isaiah, as he beholds the Lord coming out of His place to punish the inhabitants of the earth for their iniquity. "Come, my people, enter thou into thy chambers, and shut thy doors about thee: hide thyself as it were for a little moment, until the indignation be overpast."—Isa. 26:20. In Christ you will find a sure abiding place. Take refuge in Him, because He loves you, and gave His life for you. "But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. Much more then, being now justified by his blood, we shall be saved from wrath through him. But if, when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more, being reconciled, we shall be saved by his life. And not only so, but we also joy in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we have now received the atonement."—Romans 5:8-11.

And now being at one with God we are in harmony with Christ, and we can say with Jesus, as He said of the Father, "I in Christ, and Christ in me, the hope of glory."

—o—

THE dynasty of the Japanese empire claims an unbroken reign of twenty-six centuries.

HISTORY IN ADVANCE

By Richard LeCrone

“And such as do wickedly against the covenant shall he corrupt by flatteries: but the people that do know their God shall be strong, and do exploits.”

ONLY GOD can write history in advance. In the above verse He is telling us of the methods to be used by the antichrist in wooing people away from God. “Such as do wickedly against the covenant shall he corrupt by flatteries.” Since none of us have any desire to belong to that class, we shall pass over that part of the statement with but a glance. We are, however, for the opposite reason, intensely interested in those that shall know their God, and “be strong and do”.

Since the secret of their success seems to be the fact that they know God, our question becomes one of “How can we know God?”

Let us draw an example from our own time. I read in the daily papers that President Hoover is making certain plans, the carrying out of which concern me. Do I know Mr. Hoover? Then I read a biography of his life and learn all of the facts about him. Do I know him now? If, however, I can arrange to meet him and to talk with him, then I shall know him and be able to receive from him an explanation as to the working of his plan, and my part in it. No matter how much I may know about Mr. Hoover and his plans, I do not know him until I have had personal contact with him.

That is the plan which Daniel followed in the interpretation of the plan of God. First he studied, and then he went to God directly that he might know Him. In Daniel 9 we find him at his studies. “I Daniel understood by books the number of years, whereof the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah the prophet, that he would accomplish seventy years in the desolations of Jerusalem.”—Dan. 9:2. Daniel could have said, “I’m pretty clever to figure that out. Now that I know what is to come to pass, I’m all right.” Then he would have gone his way and that would have been the end of the matter as far as Daniel was concerned.

This is what he did, as told in his own words: “And I set my face unto the Lord God, to seek by prayer and supplications, with fasting, and sackcloth, and ashes: and I prayed unto the Lord my God, and made my confession, and said, O Lord, the great and dreadful God, keeping covenant and mercy to them that love him, and keep his commandments; we have sinned . . .” Having discovered that he and his people were concerned in God’s plan, he talked it over with God. And because Daniel came to Him, God sent an angel to explain still further. Daniel knew God. We have only to read his personal history to know that Daniel was strong and that he drew his strength from God.

The study of prophecy is necessary, if we are to know God’s plan concerning us. But let us not be content with knowing about God and His plans. We know enough of His plans to realize that we needs must know Him, if He is to strengthen us that we might be among those that know their God and are strong.

The attitude in which Daniel wrote the advance history of God is the attitude in which we must interpret it.

CISTERN OR FOUNTAIN

By Harry Goekler

A CISTERN or fountain both serve the same general purpose—that of furnishing water. But there is a great deal of difference in the method of securing this water from each one. In order to secure water from the cistern it is necessary to pump it. On the other hand, a true fountain flows continually, and all we have to do is to partake of its constant stream. In the first instance, artificial means were required to procure the water; in the second, just the natural act of drinking was all that was necessary.

We can apply the same comparison to the human race, or to be more specific, to the great mass of professed Christians. On the one hand we find persons professing Christianity who, although having good intentions, never carry them out until forced to do so by some external power. They must be “pumped” before they can do works of service. Then on the other hand, we find a certain group of Christians who, day after day, month after month, and year after year continually serve their Lord and Master through word and deed. They do not need others to force, to coax, to urge them to do better things because they strive always to please Him. They are living fountains of service.

This style of constant service is exemplified very forcefully by Daniel. It will be remembered that Daniel, from the time of his captivity until his death, never ceased to worship and serve the one true God. No doubt constant pressure was brought upon him to renounce Jehovah and accept the religion of his captors. But in spite of all threats and promises, Daniel and his three companions never once lost faith in Jehovah. Finally, Daniel, because he refused to pray to any but the true God, was cast into the lions’ den. Early the next morning, King Darius, who had spent a sleepless night, hurried to the den and cried out to Daniel, saying, “O Daniel, servant of the living God, is thy God, whom thou servest continually, able to deliver thee from the lions?” What a tribute! What a testimony of Daniel’s life were the words, “whom thou servest continually.” Can others say the same of our lives?

In Jeremiah 2:13 we find the Lord speaking to Jeremiah these words, “For my people have committed two evils; they have forsaken me the fountain of living waters, and hewed them out cisterns, broken cisterns, that can hold no water." Had the Jews as a nation been willing to serve as faithfully as did Daniel and other individuals, their history would have been quite different.

The verse we have just quoted brings us to another thought which we shall briefly consider. A fountain must be fed by a constant source of water, otherwise it would be no fountain. The same is true of the Christian. Until he knows and understands the source of mercy and service, his efforts are weak and spasmodic.

Jesus, in His memorable conversation with the Samaritan woman at the well, said, "If thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me to drink; thou wouldst have asked of him, and he would have given thee living water."—John 4:10. Then in the fourteenth verse He adds, "But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life."

Jesus is the living water from which we are to draw our works of service. Jesus is the One to whom we must go and serve before we can be "living fountains" ourselves. Unless we keep in constant touch with our Source of life we shall, like the Jews, "dig cisterns that hold no water."

Are you a cistern, drawing from the source of supply only at spasmodic intervals? or are you a fountain, constantly giving out to those about you service and love, and just as constantly renewing your supply from the "fountain of the water of life"? May God help each of us to be more worthy of the name Christian.

---

HAVE FAITH IN GOD

---

By Ida Lapp

---

"So Daniel was taken up out of the den, and no manner of hurt was found upon him, because he believed in his God."—Daniel 6:23.

IN this day and age it seems man has taken practically everything into his own hands and has failed to learn the great truth which helped Daniel so much in his life—that of believing in God.

As we study the book of Daniel we are deeply impressed with the great spirituality of his life and his love and devotion to the God of his fathers. No doubt, he had read and studied much of God's Word spoken by the patriarchs before him. In Daniel 1:4, we read that the king desired children to be fed and nourished "skilful in all wisdom, and cunning in knowledge," and of this group which was later to stand before the king, Daniel was chosen as one.

Daniel also showed his uncompromising spirit and his desire to please God rather than man. He believed what God said when He spoke through His servant David these words:

"The angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them" (Psa. 34:7), and he was ready and willing to trust Him.

Rather than defile himself with the king's meat, he believed God would deliver him and provide for him. God not only gave him favor in the eyes of the prince of the eunuchs, but at the end of the time appointed, Daniel and his companions appeared fatter and fairer than any of those who had eaten the king's portion.

Again we see Daniel's faith tested in Daniel 6:7-10. When after King Darius had made a decree that none should ask a petition of any other than himself for thirty days under threat of being cast into the lion's den, Daniel "went into his house; and his windows being open in his chamber toward Jerusalem, he kneeled upon his knees three times a day, and prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he did aforetime."

Daniel believed and trusted in his God, and even though a threat of death was placed upon him by man, he believed his God would deliver him. Such daring and uncompromising faith!

No sooner had Daniel prayed unto his Maker than envious princes hurried to the king, bearing to him the news that Daniel had disobeyed his command. The king was very sorry and tried to deliver Daniel, but these evil men held him to the decree he had made; therefore Daniel was cast into the lions' den, and a great stone laid upon the mouth of the den.

But Daniel had believed in his living God, and while the king passed a sleepless night in his palace, Daniel perhaps spent the night praying and praising his God for sending the angel and shutting the lions' mouths. Early the next morning the king hastened to the den, and then Daniel was given the opportunity of again praising his God.

Surely there is a lesson in this for us. Why are we unable to trust God? Don't we believe in Him? We say, "Of course we believe in God". But I wonder again do we really believe in Him? If we do believe in Him, why do we worry so about every little thing that comes up? Why do we fret about this and that, and even grumble and complain to those about us?

Oh, dear ones, let us read God's Word and His great promises over and over again. Then as Daniel of old, let us pray, pray, pray—yes, three times a day or more—that we may learn this one lesson, to believe in our God and trust Him. Paul wrote of Him that He is "able to do exceeding abundantly, above all that we ask or think". In Jeremiah 33:3, the Lord has given us this invitation: "Call unto me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."

Do we dare trust Him?

---

"For all things cannot be in man, because the son of man is not immortal, and they are delighted with the vanity of evil."—Ecclesiasticus 17:29, 30. Ecclesiasticus is an apocryphal book in the Protestant Bible, but a regular book in the Catholic Bible.

THE SECURITY OF THE NEW MAN

By Samuel E. Haney

"Thus saith the Lord; Cursed be the man that trusteth in man, and maketh flesh his arm, and whose heart departeth from the Lord. For he shall be like the heath in the desert, and shall not see when good cometh; but shall inhabit the parched places in the wilderness, in a salt land and not inhabited".—Jeremiah 17:5, 6.

A MODERN version, with the addition of verses seven and eight, should simplify our text and assist in our grasping its symbolic and spiritual imports, that is, "This is the Eternal's word: a curse on him who relies on man, and leans upon mere human aid, turning his thoughts from the Eternal! He is like some desert scrub that never thrives, set in a dry place in the steppes, in a salt, solitary land. But happy he who relies on the Eternal, with the Eternal for his confidence! He is like a tree planted beside a stream, reaching its roots to the water; untouched by any fear of scorching heat, its leaves are ever green; it goes on bearing fruit in days of drought, and lives serene."—Moffatt.

David epitomizes the whole eight verses by the use of twenty-one words, namely, "A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come nigh thee".—Psalm 91:7. Yes, the wily enemy (1 Peter 5:8) is causing myriads to fall under God's execration. James classifies them as "hearers of the word, and not doers" (1:23)—compromisers, conceders. The average professing Christian does not take his religion seriously—merely as a makeshift in case of serious accidents or illness; just as it is the part of wisdom to keep a few tallow candles or an old kerosene lamp on hand should the electric or gas lights fail. Normally, little or no thought is wasted (?) on spiritual matters.

We are shown by these eight verses the inevitable effect of sin and the counter effect of righteousness. Verses five and six portray man in his fallen state, swayed by the flesh in which "dwelleth no good thing". They depict him ever descending with increasing speed and amid greater darkness, as he approaches the gapping abysmal plunge—his finale.

But what a bright, luminous picture we get from verses seven and eight! We see man, ever contented and living serenely, ever growing, and appearing more like the "vine" of which he is a "branch". Swayed by the Holy Spirit, he has ceased groveling in the world's spiritual miasma. And as we gaze the whole picture brightens; the liberated man becomes more tranquil and restful.

There are brief biblical ways of describing these two positions, namely, the flesh versus the spirit, the old man versus the new man, the natural (Adamic) creation versus the new creation. Self is the prevailing characteristic of the flesh. It insists upon having first consideration, while the new creature in Christ Jesus delights in giving Jesus first thought, others next, and self last.

Being "heirs according to the promise" (Gal. 3:29), our subject has to do with our ever unfailing birthright, which is made valid upon certain conditions, primarily by setting our "affection on things above, not on things on the earth."—Col. 3:2. Esau's experience is akin to that of ours (Gen. 25:29-34). His inconsiderate deal was a laudable transaction compared to that of many Christians of today who foolishly jeopardize their birthright through the machination of the old man—the flesh. The cause of Esau's irrevocable loss was confined to a gnawing, empty stomach. But myriads of professing Christians, during these perilous times, are permitting their birthright to slip through their fingers by allowing their insatiable self—as did mother Eve—to reason with their subtle enemy. The fatal deal is consummated when self eventually becomes master and controls the entire being—body, soul, and spirit; virtually hypnotized. And while in this illusive state they sing, "All of Christ, and none of self". But their actions and speech declare the reverse, "All of self, and none of Christ". They delight to use the personal pronoun, "I". Being obsessed by the spirit of self-righteousness, self-abnegation does not appeal to them. And when self once reigns supreme, pride, vanity, hypocrisy, and idolatry coordinate.

Is there any way of destroying this self-centered attitude, one that will produce the happy condition described in verses seven and eight? Yes, Paul explains it thus: first, by the death of the old Adamic man—self; and second, by making the new creature-man a living sacrifice, thus: "Surely you know that all of us who have been baptized into Christ Jesus have been baptized into His death! Our baptism in His death made us share His burial, so that, as Christ was raised from the dead by the glory of the Father, we too might live and move in the new sphere of life. For if we have grown into Him by a death like His, we shall grow into Him by a resurrection like His, knowing as we do that our old self has been crucified with Him in slavery to sin (for once dead, a man is absolved from the order to crush the sinful body and free us from any further claims of sin). . . . Well then, my brothers, I appeal to you by all the mercy of God to dedicate your bodies as a living sacrifice, consecrated and acceptable to God; that is your cult, a spiritual rite. Instead of being moulded to this world, have your mind renewed, and so be transformed in nature, able to make out what the will of God is, namely, what is good and acceptable to Him and perfect."—Romans 6:3-7; 12:1, 2, Moffatt.

Thus we are given to understand that this sinful, hereditary, mortal man must be reckoned as dead that the new man begotten of the Spirit of God may have control of that which Christ purchased by His precious blood, namely, our potential immortal souls and bodies (Luke 21:28, and Romans 8:23).

Fallen nature (flesh or self) is governed by what it comprehends by its senses, but the new creature is governed by the pure Word of God. Nothing short of this will enable us to experience and enjoy the sweet sentiment expressed by David, "The Eternal shepherds me, I lack for nothing; He makes me lie in meadows green; He leads me to refreshing streams, and revives life in me. He guides me by true paths, . . . . . ; my road may run through a glen of gloom, but I fear no harm, for thou art beside me; thy club,—thy staff—they give me courage. Thou art my host, spreading a feast for me, while my foes have to look on! Thou hast poured oil upon my head, my cup is brimming over; yes, and all through my life goodness and kindness wait on me, the Eternal's guest, within His household evermore".—Moffatt.

The man who is "buried with Christ by baptism into his death", is alive unto God. And henceforth by carrying his cross, he is dead to the world, and the world is dead to him. He has surrendered himself unconditionally to God, allowing Him to control his mind and lips; and so far as possible he follows Peter's advice, namely, "Let all your anxieties fall upon Him, for His interest is in you".—1 Peter 5:7, Moffatt.

Thus he leaves the world and self behind him, ever clinging tenaciously to his birthright, secured by his unwavering faith in the precious blood of his Redeemer.

---

A REMARKABLE BIBLICAL DISCOVERY

---

FEW things stir the imagination more than a discovery that is likely to shed fresh light on the Bible. Such a discovery has just been made. One is not surprised to learn that it was made in Egypt, a land that has preserved so many documents of antiquity, and may well have many more secrets to disclose in years to come. The present find consists of a group of Greek biblical papyri, about one hundred ninety leaves in all, which have been acquired by Mr. A. Chester Beatty, a well known collector of manuscripts. The exact spot where the discovery was made has not been disclosed.

MANY BOOKS REPRESENTED

Among the leaves, "the most remarkable addition to the textual material of the Greek Bible that has been made for many a long day," nineteen books of the Bible are represented, nine of the Old Testament and ten of the New; and not the least interesting part of the whole collection is a considerable section of the Greek text of the apocryphal Book of Enoch. The amount of the various books preserved varies from forty-four leaves of one manuscript of Genesis to a portion of a single leaf in the case of Jeremiah. The manuscripts derive their value and interest in large part from their early date. They include the earliest manuscripts of the Greek Bible so far known! The earliest of them "can be assigned with confidence to the second century of our era, and not to a very late period in it." Most of them seem to belong to the third century, and one considerable part to the fourth. The portion of Enoch belongs seemingly to the late fourth or early fifth century.

Until the fourth century most literary works were in the form of rolls, but all the manuscripts now discovered are codices—that is to say, they consist of sheets and pages after the manner of a modern book. "This find carries back the use of the codex to an earlier date than has previously been known." Indeed the interest of the find is to no small extent bibliographical.

As regards the Old Testament, no portion of the material now discovered equals in interest the thirteen leaves of the Book of Daniel. Unfortunately some part of each leaf is missing. It is a well known fact that the Septuagint translation of Daniel was superseded by one made by Theodotian in the second century of our era. So completely did Theodotian's version of Daniel supplant the Septuagint version that hitherto only one copy of the latter has been known, a manuscript of the eleventh century. Now we possess a copy of the Septuagint version of a large portion of Daniel that is far earlier, for the newly discovered manuscript is not later than the first half of the third century.

PARTS OF THE GOSPELS AND ACTS

In the New Testament one of the codices contains parts of the four gospels and of the Acts of the Apostles. The interest here is largely bibliographical, for it has hitherto been an article of belief with students of the text of the New Testament that before the fourth century the four gospels were never found together in one volume, inasmuch as they were written on rolls. This supposition has had, of course, a bearing on the study of the text. Here, however, is a codex which cannot have been written later than the third century, but which, when complete, contained the whole of the four gospels, as well as the Acts of the Apostles! This new witness to the text of the gospels and Acts is, apart from tiny fragments, perhaps a hundred years earlier than any other copy we possess. The type of text represented is that which Canon Streeter believes to have been the text current in the church of Caesarea even before Origen arrived there.

Another item in the find consists of nine leaves from a codex which originally contained all the epistles of St. Paul except the Pastorals. These few leaves that have survived contain portions of Romans, Philippians, Colossians, and a tiny scrap of First Thessalonians. The writing is good. One leaf was reproduced in the Times (London), and the Greek was perfectly legible. There are also ten leaves of the Book of Revelation. These belong to the latter part of the third century, and are written in a rough hand.

The importance of the new material now brought to light will be recognized by all who are interested in the study of the Scriptures. We must be as patient as we can until it is made available for us.—Prof. J. Hugh Michael of Emmanuel College. Selected by Lilian Railton.

---

"ONE resolution I have made, and try always to keep, is this: To rise above little things."—John Burroughs.

THE MILLENNIAL AGE

Continued from front page

is predicted by Zechariah (14:4-11). The Lord is represented as standing upon the Mount of Olives, which is before Jerusalem on the east, and "The mount of Olives shall cleave in the midst thereof toward the east and toward the west, and there shall be a very great valley, and half of the mountain shall remove toward the north and half of it toward the south."

The details and results attending this sudden splitting of Mount Olivet and the opening of a great valley which will reach unto Azal (or Ascalon) on the Mediterranean coast, are too numerous for an article of limited space. Suffice it to say, that the great valley spoken of will connect the Mediterranean Sea with the Dead Sea, and then will take place a change resulting in the healing of the waters of that monument of God's anger, which is supposed to cover the cities of the plain—Sodom and Gomorrah. Now no living thing exists in its waters; but then, owing to the entering in of the Mediterranean flood, by way of the connecting great valley, myriads of living fish will sport in its depths, and fishermen will stand on its banks "from Engedi even unto Eneglaim" (Ezek. 47:10), spreading their nets and catching fish, of which there will be an abundance. Not only so, but it is stated on good authority, that there is a valley—an old bed of the Jordan—now filled with loose sands of the desert, which reaches from the southern extremity of the Dead Sea to the Gulf of Akaba, an arm of the Red Sea.

The Dead Sea has a depression of thirteen hundred and eight feet below the Mediterranean, and when the torrent of living waters rushes in, it will not only become alive with fish, and its banks lined with fishermen, but it will become the great pool of Jerusalem, and a harbor for the commerce of the world. The first rush of waters from the Mediterranean will enter the Dead Sea at an angle, and the tumultuous flood, finding no other outlet, will rush down the Jordan's old bed, cleansing it thoroughly of its vast accumulation of sand, and forming a continuous water channel between the Mediterranean and Red Seas. This will obviate any necessity for the Suez Canal, which was built for a like purpose through the ingenuity of man.

Jerusalem will thus be reached from all parts of the world by a splendid waterway, accessible to ships of the largest tonnage, bearing their treasures and tribute to the metropolis of the world—"the city of the Great King."

The land of Israel, also, will be divided, and the promised inheritance, as allotted to each tribe, will far exceed their former possessions. Moses, in Exodus 23:31, partly delineates the future boundaries of their inheritance. But in Deuteronomy 11:24, we have an enlarged description given by the Lord God Himself. This sweeps in the whole of Arabia down to the Sea of Oman. The Mediterranean and Sea of Oman are its boundaries, north and south, and the River Euphrates, Persian Gulf, and the Red Sea, on the east and west.

After the King of the whole earth is seated on His throne in Jerusalem, and the wheels of His matchless government are in motion, one of the customs will be that all the nations shall be represented year by year in acts of worship before the King, Jehovah of Hosts, going there to keep the feast of tabernacles.—Zech. 14:16.

Satan, also being bound for a thousand years, his influence for evil will not be exercised among the inhabitants of earth for that period, and the effect of his withdrawal from active interference in the affairs of men will contribute largely to the increase of temporal and physical blessings everywhere.

Then all will call upon the name of the Lord, and serve Him with one consent. Unanimous worship, and all in one tongue or language, which the Lord will give! What a glorious day that will be, dear reader, when a whole world will raise its voice of melody in worship of Him who hath wrought such wonderful changes in their behalf!

In conclusion, we have briefly enumerated some of the physical and temporal blessings which shall cover the earth when the Lord has returned to Zion and reigns before His ancients gloriously. In imagination our minds look forward to the day when all these promises shall be realities. Then the whole earth will yield abundantly her fruits and grains, as well as flowers of richest hue and sweet perfume, to gladden the heart of man; long life shall succeed the few brief, sorrowful years which are now allotted to a sinful race. The earth will no more vibrate under the tread of mighty armies, nor the air be dimmed by the smoke of battle, but peace and security will be shared by everyone.

The physical changes, converting the desert into a place of Edenic beauty and opening up channels and waterways which shall transform the Sea of death into a Sea of Life, and create a highway to Jerusalem for the ships of all nations, will revolutionize the commerce of the world, and all the earth will become tributary to the King of kings and Lord of lords, sitting upon the throne of His father David in Jerusalem, the metropolis of the whole earth.

Truly, the prospect is glorious, and the consummation is approaching! Already may we discern the light of that day of bliss streaming over the eastern hills, and soon the Sun of Righteousness will arise and deluge the earth with His glory. Blessed day! Soon may it come! Amen.—Selected by R. A. Curtis from The Last Days.

---

THE COST OF WAR

---

THE world expenditure on all arms is now five billions of dollars yearly, an increase of 70 percent over that previous to the Great War. We stand today with nearly 5,000,000 men actively under arms, and 20,000,000 more in reserves. Because of fear and inability of nations to cooperate in mutual reductions, these vast forces, greatly exceeding those of the pre-war period, still are to be demobilized, even though twelve years have passed since the Armistice was signed.—President Hoover, May 4, 1931.

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 325 N. Austin Blvd., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois
For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"WE ARE MADE PARTAKER OF CHRIST, IF WE HOLD THE BEGINNING OF OUR CONFIDENCE STEDFAST UNTO THE END."—HEBREWS 3:14.

NEW SOCIETY AT SPRINGFIELD, LOUISIANA

FOLLOWING in the steps of the Hammond young people, who organized a Berean society at the close of their annual meetings last year, the young people of the Blood River district, near Springfield, Louisiana, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Fauntleroy on the evening of January 12, and organized.

The meeting was called just preceding the preaching service, which was held in the neighborhood, and about fifteen or so were present. A constitution modeled upon the Hammond constitution was adopted at this first meeting, and a temporary president elected. Permanent officers were to be elected at the following meeting, which was set for Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Several who will become members were not able to be present at this meeting, and so the enrollment will no doubt be more than appeared on the first list.

The Hammond Bereans, who had just that week finished Book 1, kindly donated their books to the new society. These people live about fifteen miles from Hammond, and most of them have no way to get into town, and so this new organization makes it possible for them to have the advantage of Berean study in their midst. The interest of the young people in this class is very keen, and we hope that much good will result from this new effort for the Master, and that many will be built up in the knowledge of the Scriptures which leadeth unto life eternal.

M. W. Lyon.

"All things are against me."—Genesis 42:36.

"All things work together for good to them that love God."—Romans 8:28.

FROM time to time it has been requested that contributions to the Berean page be sent directly to the Berean editor, and not to The Restitution Herald. There are evidently some who have overlooked this though because we continue to receive copy forwarded from Oregon. We would like to call attention likewise to the editor's change of address; the new one will be found in the heading of the page.

"Consider the lilies, how they grow."—Matthew 6:28

"I NEED oil," said an ancient monk; so he planted an olive sapling. "Lord," he prayed, "it needs rain that its tender roots may drink and swell. Send gentle showers." And the Lord sent gentle showers. "Lord," prayed the monk, "my tree needs sun. Send sun, I pray Thee." And the sun shone, gilding the dripping clouds. "Now frost, my Lord, to brace its tissues," cried the monk. And, behold! the little tree stood sparkling with frost, but at evening it died.

Then the monk sought the cell of a brother monk, and told his strange experience. "I, too, planted a little tree," he said, "and see! it thrives well. But I entrust my tree to its God. He who made it knows better what it needs than I do. I laid no condition. I fixed not ways or means. 'Lord, send what it needs', I prayed, 'storm or sunshine, wind, rain, or frost. Thou hast made it and Thou dost know'."—Selected.

"We trusted."—Luke 24:21.

I HAVE always felt so sorry that in that walk to Emmaus the disciples had not said to Jesus, "We still trust", instead of, "We trusted." That is so sad—something that is all over.

If they had only said, "Everything is against our hope; it looks as though our trust were vain, but we do not give up; we believe we shall see Him again." But no, they walked by His side declaring their lost faith, and He had to say to them, "O, fools, and slow of heart to believe!"

Are we not in the same danger of having these same words said to us? We can afford to lose anything and everything if we do not lose our faith in the God of truth and love.

Let us never put our faith, as the disciples did, in a past tense—"We trusted." But let us say, "I am trusting."

—Crumbs.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

"Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped."—Isaiah 35:5

JESUS AND THE MAN BORN BLIND

ONE day as Jesus was walking with His disciples in Jerusalem He saw a poor, blind beggar—one who had never seen a flower, a tree, a cloud, not even his own people. The disciples asked who was to blame that the man was born blind. Jesus answered that his blindness had not been caused by sin; but that through his cure the power of God might be shown.

Jesus said that He, Himself, was the Light of the world, and that He must do the work God had given Him to perform now, because a time would come when this particular work could not be done. So He went to work.

Taking up clay from the ground, Jesus put it on the eyes of the blind man, and told him to go wash in the Pool of Siloam. The beggar did so, and immediately he could see. Jesus had brought him light out of darkness.

The neighbors could hardly believe that the healed man was the one who had been blind, but he said, "I am he", and told them just what had been done. They wanted to know where Jesus was, but he could not tell them.

Then the man was taken to the Pharisees, who, after hearing his story, said Jesus must be a very bad man if He did things like that on the sabbath. They did not want to believe even when the blind man's parents said his story of healing was true.

Now the parents were no doubt glad for the miracle, but were afraid they would be put out of the synagogue if they confessed Jesus to be the Christ. So they said, "Call the one who has been blind."

He was not afraid. When the Pharisees tried to convince him that Jesus was a sinner, he answered that God did not hear sinners. At this, the men grew so angry that they cast the lone man out.

However, he had one friend—the One that was most worth while. When Jesus heard of his sad plight, He went to him. He asked, "Do you believe on the Son of God?"

The man replied, "Who is he, Lord, that I might believe on him?"

And how glad he must have been when Jesus said, "You have seen him; . . . it is he that is talking to you."

Anyhow, the healed one said, "Lord, I believe," and worshiped Jesus, accepting Him as his true Light.

ARE OUR eyes open?

DO WE believe?

WEEKLY BIBLE READING

February 12 to 18: Leviticus 7 to 22; Mark 15 to Luke 5.

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Learn John 8: 12.
2. Did Jesus profane the sabbath?
3. Find stories of other blindness cured.

WE BELIEVE the dead shall rise again and be made immortal.

"In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed. For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality".—1 Cor. 15:52, 53.

AS LITTLE CHILDREN

Matthew 18:1-10.

A LITTLE CHILD'S HYMN

Thou, that once, on mother's knee,
Wert a little one like me,
When I wake or go to bed,
Lay Thy hands about my head;
Let me feel Thee very near;
Jesus Christ, our Savior dear.

Be beside me in the light,
Close by me throughout the night;
Make me gentle kind, and true,
Do what mother bids me do;
Help and cheer me when I fret,
And forgive when I forget.

Thou art nearer when we pray,
Since Thou art so far away;
Thou my little hymn wilt hear,
Jesus Christ, our Savior dear,
Thou that once, on mother's knee,
Wert a little one like me.

—Francis Turner Palgrave

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 7. — February 14, 1932

JESUS AND THE MAN BORN BLIND

John 9:1-41

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 42:1-7

GOLDEN TEXT

I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life. — John 8:12.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: Jesus the Light of the World.

Basic Truth: "To give light to them in darkness and in the shadow of death."—Luke 1:79.

I. Darkness Prevails. "What that blind man needed was not light but sight," someone has observed with penetration. He was in darkness not because of a lack of light, for the sun had shone as brightly before the miracle restoring his sight had been performed as it did afterward. But he did not know of its existence. He could even feel its warmth but knew nothing of the source from whence it came. So it is with the man whose carnality blinds his eyes to the reality of God. He feels that God is; he enjoys the blessings God sends "on the just and on the unjust"; but he is unable, because of his sin, to see the One who provides for all his needs.

II. The Light Comes. In another miracle of a similar nature which Jesus performed in Bethsaida (Mark 8:22-26), the Lord led the blind man out of the town, and having anointed his eyes with spittle He questioned him concerning his ability to see. The blind man said, "I see men as trees, walking." His sight was not fully restored at first. So it was with the spiritual understanding of the man who was born blind. At first he saw in Jesus the One who gave him physical vision, and that was all. But when the Master had sought him out again and questioned him the second time, he cried, "Lord, I believe!" It required a second questioning by Jesus to fully restore the sight of the man in Bethsaida, so that he "saw every man clearly." It is often necessary for one to be repeatedly instructed, led slowly from truth to truth, before he can fully comprehend the glorious possibilities held out in the gospel.

III. Fulness of Faith. The man in our lesson had never seen the light: neither the physical nor the spiritual light which was to come to him through the Lord Jesus Christ. And at the first he glimpsed it but dimly in the act of physical healing, and then it burst upon his spiritual vision in glorious radiance. So it is with humanity everywhere. Men can be led at the first to see only the material aspects of the gospel, the richness and prosperity of the future kingdom of God. But after they have grasped these lesser things they may be led into the glorious realities that follow complete union with the Eternal Father through Jesus Christ His Son.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

WORKS:

The great Example of the church of God said: "I must work the works of him that sent me." What a militant body the church would be if they followed the example of Jesus. It can be said of Jesus that,

He Was Always

- about His Father's business;
- loving in all His labors;
- considerate of the feelings of others;
- a true representative of the Father.

If all the members of the church of the living God were as energetic, Loving, and faithful in their labors to the Father as Christ was in His, do you think they would have much time to be overcome by the pleasures of this life? Another question that is provocative of much thought is this: If the church pursued its labors in the same spirit as the Master, would there be the spirit of bigotry, unreasonableness, hatred, and contention that is so often manifest in daily pursuits?
NIGHT:

Our lesson reveals the truth that all are aware of, yet so often disregard or at least give little thought to. "The night cometh, when no man can work." The time when man is able to work is very short. Like the prodigal son, we spend much time in riotous living or at least wasting our time upon things of life that produce nothing worth while. Many great lessons are taught us in Scripture about the profitable use of our time. It is sinful to waste the worth while and usable things of life, even though they can be replaced. How different with Time! It is a necessity; it can never be replaced. Surely it is a sin to waste time.

"Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might."—Ecclesiastes 9:10.—C. E. R.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

"I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life."—John 8:12.

Jesus' "I AM" is peculiar to John's gospel. He expresses Himself in seven different ways in this gospel. Two weeks ago we had, "I am the bread of life"; today, "I am the light of the world"; in two weeks more it will be, "I am the resurrection and the life"; then in 14:6, we find, "I am the way, the truth, and the life"; 15:1, "I am the true vine"; "10:7, "I am the door of the sheep"; and 10:11, "I am the good shepherd."

When we see Christ in these different capacities, how can He be otherwise than "the light of the world"? In all these ways He truly sheds light to those about Him. The sheep follow the Good Shepherd and are protected. We should walk in the light and follow our Leader. Some men love darkness rather than light, because their deeds are evil, but not so with true Christians. They have fellowship with Christ and walk in the light that leads to life.—L. A. R.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT

"In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." There was no life on the earth; it was void. God purposed to create life, but no life can exist in darkness. So the next thing created was light. Gen 1:3. This principle should constantly be kept in mind—no life without light. Jesus had this in mind when He said, "I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life."—John 8:12. Darkness is death: "For if ye believe not that I am he, ye shall die in your sins."—John 8:24.

"Light" is used as a synonym for knowledge or understanding. Thus we speak of the "enlightened" age, and explain things in the "light" of modern science. People are living longer today because of the greater "light" of our doctors. People are spared much suffering from epidemic diseases because of the "light" or knowledge of germ diseases. Light precedes life. The typical slum child, surrounded with greed and crime, receives light when he is taken out of those conditions and taught the better way of life. Again, light precedes life. Read Isaiah 59. Notice Isaiah adds, "We wait for light." V. 9. Jesus was the Light that came into the world to "save his people from their sins."—Matt. 1:21. The light that Jesus gave to the world is the greatest ever given to any people by any person. The individuals or nations that have accepted His light are the happiest and most progressive of any people on the earth. They will profit more than in this life alone, for Jesus is the "light of (eternal) life."—H. A. S.

PRIMARY CLASS

Topic: What Jesus Did for a Blind Man.

Memory Verse: "I am the light of the world; he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life."—John 8:12.

Have the children close their eyes tightly, and then begin to tell them of a pretty picture or flower that you hold in your hand. As their eyes open in curiosity, talk with them of what actual blindness would mean to them.

In the country where Jesus grew up there were many people who had been blind from babyhood. Now, a doctor can sometimes help people to see; but in those days the doctors had not learned to do such fine work. When Jesus found these blind people, He felt sorry for them. If you feel sorry for mother when she is ill, what do you do for her? Now Jesus could do more than we can for sick people. What was it? No wonder He is sometimes called the Great Physician! —G. M. M.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

AT WCMA

Bro. Sydney Magaw, pastor at Brush Creek, Ohio, will speak at WCMA, Culver, Indiana, (1400 kilocycles), on Feb. 7, from 6:30 to 7:30 a.m. Bro. Magaw's subject will be, "That Blessed Hope". Some have reported that Bro. Magaw's voice has carried best of all heard so far. Tune in on Feb. 7.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

The custom is followed in our Sunday school of presenting a Bible to any student in the Junior department who has a perfect attendance record for the year. For the year 1931 there were seven. One of them, Gladys Granstrom, has not missed a Sunday for two years. Since she received a Bible last year, she was given a book this time. The ones receiving Bibles for 1931 were, Stella Wheppler, Marcella Conrad, Phyllis Van Portfleet, Phyllis Jenkins, Gladys Jenkins, and Martha Townsend.

In the senior department Mrs. Townsend was the only one there every Sunday. Mrs. Jenkins missed only one and would have been there then except that she misunderstood a quarantine order last fall. Several others had almost a perfect record. This kind of faithfulness is one of the reasons why we have a good Sunday school.

Attendance at church services recently has taxed the seating capacity of the house, for which we are thankful. F. E. Siple.

NIAGARA FALLS AND FONTHILL

Last Sunday evening S. J. Shean of Toronto, spoke in interest of the Ontario Prohibition Union.

Bro. and Sr. Arthur Gilbey and Clarke visited at Fonthill over the week end of 22 to 24. They were called back by the death of an aunt of Bro. Gilbey's.

Sr. Railton has been visiting in Toronto. Her mother, living in that city, has recently had a stroke.

Grandma Keenon spent a week in Hamilton visiting with her son just recently.

The annual business meetings of the Falls and Fonthill churches proved to be very harmonious and were very inspirational from a business standpoint. The financial obligations of both churches have been promptly cared for during the past year. We are very grateful to our heavenly Father for this blessing. It is most encouraging when times are so stringent.

GENERAL CONFERENCE ANNOUNCEMENT

The General Conference of the Church of God will convene (D. V.) at Oregon, Illinois, from August 2, 1932, to August 14, 1932, inclusive. It would be well for state conference boards to take into early consideration the appointment of a delegate or delegates to represent the membership of the several states. Churches unassociated with state conferences are also urged to take action for the appointment of delegates. Matters of unusual importance will be presented for the consideration and action of the brotherhood at this meeting. The counsel and support of the Church of God everywhere is needed in the furtherance of our mutual effort.

(Signed) G. Eldred Marsh,
Secretary

KENNARD, NEBRASKA

We have started an adult Bible study class here in Kennard, which meets on Friday night. We have met twice now. The first time there were only seven, and ten last time. Two of them said when they left they were surely coming back and bring someone else.

There has been about three feet of snow on the ground, but we had a good meeting at Blair last Sunday, with 28 present in spite of bad weather and sickness.

Mrs. Wm. Nelsen of Omaha, who recently underwent an operation is recovering nicely and has returned home.

William Patterson and Kenneth McIntosh, who have been regular attendants at all church services held in Blair for some time past, have returned to their homes at Page, Nebr. We certainly missed them Sunday.

The Bereans enjoyed a very pleasant evening, on Friday, Jan. 22, at the farm home of Howard Appleby. The time was spent in sled riding.

A series of evangelistic meetings are being held by the Pentecostal people in our church at Blair, consequently the Bereans were unable to hold their regular Sunday night meeting at the church. They met at the Thomas Bates home at Kennard.

In the Master's service,

Lucille LeCrone.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME—

We are glad to be able to tell you that Sr. Crysler, at Golden Rule Home, is improving nicely, but sorry to report that Aunt Mary Renner is not as well as usual.

Sr. Agnes Murrey of Pasadena, California, died on Jan. 13. Funeral services were conducted on the 16th by Bro. S. J. Lindsay, assisted by Bro. McLeod.

Turn to the back page and read about the two booklets we are offering you at low cost. You will appreciate these, both for your own benefit and to loan to a friend.

The Training Class has been enjoying a thorough study of the Book of Daniel, in Bro. Marsh's class, and two of the articles in this issue portray some of their impressions of that prophet. Bro. Harry Goekler has been a member of the class only a week. We predict good work from this student.

Sr. Olive Wood, of Riverside, Calif., is at present in feeble health because of a recent attack of the flu. Sr. Wood accompanied Bro. Marsh and family east this past summer, attended General Conference and renewed old friendships in and near Chicago. We pray for her full recovery to health.

Sr. M. A. Woodward is gaining each day and is now able to take a few steps with crutches. Her Sunday school class of boys, age 8 to 11, met three or four times in her room and learned the books of the New Testament in song, and they gave it in fine style at Sunday school a week ago. They are anxiously awaiting their teacher's return.

Because Bro. Marsh was suffering from a cold, his son, Arlen, spoke to the Oregon congregation on Sunday morning last. He gave them some very valuable thoughts on prayer, and all present were deeply impressed with the service. The pastor was able to speak in the evening and gave a stirring sermon on "Frozen Assets". Sunday evenings' attendance has been very gratifying, both as to membership and friends outside the church. Bro. Marsh has been giving a series of sermons, portraying the momentous events in the East in the light of God's Word, and interest deepens with each sermon.

We are rejoicing with the brethren at Rensselaer, Ind., in their Sunday school work there. They recently sent for thirty Truth Seekers' quarterlies. Our prayers are with them for steady growth and development in all departments.

Bro. James Rogers, who has been a student at the University at Tucson, Ariz., returned to his home here, arriving last Sunday evening. He will finish the present school year at "Illinois".

Bro. Cecil Smead, pastor at Burr Oak, reports increased interest in all of our churches holding services in Indiana. This new enthusiasm has been attributed by many to the radio broadcasting from WCMA, by our ministers. May the good work grow!

The prayers of the brotherhood are sorely needed by Bro. and Sr. B. F. Cook, 2201 Lake St., San Francisco, Calif., as Bro. Cook has been very ill for the past three months. Bro. and Sr. Cook have long been faithful and loyal supporters of the N. B. I. Let us not forget them in our daily petitions.

We have been mailing extra sample copies of The Herald to Bro. John Denchfield, pastor at Eden Valley, Minn., and last week he sold ten of them at five cents each, remitting us the proceeds. He says it is fairly easy to sell a copy at five cents, but difficult to obtain the price of a year's subscription. He leaves a copy at the public library, hotel, depot, etc., thus sowing the good seed wherever opportunity presents.

A letter full of cheer was received at headquarters from Sr. Fannie LeCrone, of Helena, Okla., who just the day after Christmas lost her home by fire! I wish that all of us who murmur because of the hardships imposed on us by the depression, could peep over my shoulder, as I read Sr. LeCrone's letter. Only a few possessions were saved, and Bro. LeCrone, now past 80 years, has been under the doctor's care, but they still find much for which to thank their heavenly Father. Surely, He tenderly cares for us in all circumstances of life.

AT ELDORADO, ILLINOIS

Saturday evening and Sunday, Feb. 9 and 10, is the regular appointment at Eldorado. Bro. C. E. Lapp will be the speaker, and a full attendance is urged.

AT PLYMOUTH, IND.

A card from Bro. Cecil A. Smead announces regular preaching services each Sunday morning at Plymouth, according to present plans. The speaker's name was not given, however. This is a step forward for the brethren at Plymouth, and we pray God's blessing on their effort, and trust that all will cooperate to the fullest extent.

NOTICE OF MEETING

The Los Angeles church has been contemplating having special meetings every three months for the purpose of taking up prophetic subjects, applicable to present day conditions, and Bro. W. R. Young of 3688 Mountain View Drive, San Diego, Calif., editor of "The Anti-type", an undenominational paper devoted exclusively to expositions of chronologic prophecies and signals of the approaching end of Gentile times, has promised to be with us on Feb. 14, to give us a discourse along these lines. His advancer years and the urgency of his editorial work make it inadvisable for him to attempt to speak twice in one day.

It has been decided to omit the afternoon and communion services on the first Sunday of February, and instead hold all these services on the 14th, which is the second Sunday. There will be a picnic dinner in South Park and a number of short talks in the afternoon. All those in southern California who are interested in these matters are urged to assemble and commune with us and enjoy the light of God's Word, as expounded by this aged brother, who has long been a deep student of God's prophets. Let us heed the admonition of the apostle in Hebrews 10:25, for surely, "the Lord is at hand".

Emma C. Railsback, Sec'y.

CONTRIBUTORS TO DOLLAR-A-MONTH CLUB AND OTHER DEPARTMENTS

Mrs. Edith E. Miller; Mrs. Wm. Lansbery; Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Cook; Jennie Salisbury; Ethel Walrath Chesnut; Ruchie Alexander; Mr. and Mrs. Glyn Starbuck; Mrs. Herbert Kasper; Mary E. Carter; Mrs. Fannie Le-Crone; Mrs. Mary Calkins; Mrs. A. Moreland; Maurertown, Va., Sunday school.

HERALD RECEIPTS

Helen Porter; Mrs. Fannie Le-Crone; J. D. Jeffries; Mrs. Georgia Hoskins; Mrs. Chas. Dupree; Mrs. Edith E. Miller; Dr. H. M. Gale; Jessie M. B. Kauffman; Emma C. Railsback (for others); Mrs. A. Moreland; Mrs. Lucy Robinson (for another); Wm. G. Ford; Mrs. S. J. Stedman; Ethel Walrath Chesnut.

"THE HEBREW PEOPLE"

The new Junior Berean Book, "The Hebrew People," is now ready for distribution. The price is 30 cents for single copies; 27 cents each for 5 to 25 copies; 25 cents each for 25 or more copies. This book contains an illustration of the finding of the baby Moses.

Send all orders to National BEREAN Society, Oregon, Illinois.

THE GREAT SABBATH

"The Great Sabbath, or What Jesus Will Do When He Comes and Restitution Begins" is the title of a new and interesting tract of 28 pages by Elder J. H. Anderson. This excellent little work presents the Sabbath question from a new and refreshing viewpoint. For sale by the author, Elder J. H. Anderson, Michigantown, Ind., or J. H. Stepp, Dana, North Carolina, at Fifteen Cents per copy, postpaid.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

Published by
National Bible Institution
Oregon, Illinois

Subscription Rates.—51 issues per annum, $2.00; 6 months, $1.00; 3 months, 50 cents. Sample copy, Free.

Change of Address.—When ordering change of address be sure to send us both old and new addresses.

Receipts.—The change of date on your address label is your receipt. If date is not changed in two weeks after payment of subscription, please notify this office.

The RESTITUTION HERALD advocates: the near return of Christ, Acts 1:11, and life only through Him, Col. 3:3; the literal resurrection of the dead, John 5:28; the immortalization of those in Christ, 1 Cor. 15:53, 54; the final restoration of Israel as the kingdom of God under the kingship of Christ, Luke 1:32, the church to be joint heirs with Him, Rom. 8:17, and Israel to be made head over Gentile nations, Isa. 60:13; the "restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began", Acts 3:21. It also firmly advocates repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, Acts 2:38, and a consecrated life as essential to salvation.

ANNUITY BONDS

There is no better way to preserve one's capital for use during life and at the same time dedicate it to the Master's use after one's death than by a National Bible Institution Annuity Bond. Write NATIONAL BIBLE INSTITUTION, Oregon, Illinois, for information.

Any Amount - Much or Little

TRACTS AND BOOKS

TRACTS

Name	Pages	Dozen	100
The Reasons Why	2	$0.05	$0.30
Essential Truths	1	.05	.30
God's Promises, by Anna E. Drew	2	.05	.30
The Resurrection, by S. J. Lindsay	2	.05	.30
Obedience	2	.05	.30
The Baptist Confession of Faith	2	.05	.30
Who Owns the Wool?	4	.05	.30
The Coming of Christ, S. J. Lindsay	2	.05	.30
What Is a Christian, J. W. Williams	4	.10	.60
Where Do We Go When We Die?	4	.10	.60
Immortality of the Human Soul	4	.10	.60
Shall Never Die	4	.10	.60
The Voice of Prophecy	4	.10	.60
Immortality	4	.10	.60
Did Christ Pre-exist? R. H. Judd	4	.10	.60
The Thief on the Cross, F. E. Siple	4	.10	.60
What Do the Scriptures Teach? Judd	6	.15	.90
What Must I Do to Be Saved?	4	.10	.60
Hell, What Is It	8	.20	1.25
The Coming of Christ, R. A. Curtis	6	.20	1.25
The Rich Man and Lazarus, F. E. Siple	8	.20	1.25
A Few Thoughts	8	.20	1.25
Baptism, S. J. Lindsay	8	.20	1.50

Name	Pages	Each	Dozen	100
God, R. H. Judd	16	.04	.30	1.75
The First Resurrection, Wm. Leask	20	.05	.40	3.00
A Letter to a Friend	32	.10	1.00	8.00
Where Are the Dead?	36	.05	.50	4.00

Name

Pages Each Dozen

The Resurrection, J. L. Wince
(For cost of Postage) 32 .03 .12

BOOKS

Name

Pages Each Per 6

Death Reigned from Adam to Moses, paper cover	58	$0.10
Sin, A. H. Zilmer, paper covers	84	.25
Destiny of Russia and Signs of the Times, W. H. Wilson, board cloth	96	.25	$1.25
Book of Revelation Made Easy to Understand, W. H. Wilson, board cloth	96	.25	1.25
Ancient Mysteries, George Johnston	116	.50
Christ in the Old Testament, R. H. Judd, paper	88	.40
The Way of Life Eternal, Lyman Booth, paper	88	.40
Student's Text Book, Wilson, board cloth	200	.45	2.60
The Visitor, Boice, paper	212	.50
The Mystery of Iniquity, Booth, paper	220	.75
Pine Woods Bible Class, Wilson, board cloth,	480	.85	5.00
Emphatic Diaglott, Benjamin Wilson
Neatly bound, and in clear type,			2.50

THE GOSPEL IN SONG

A Book of 287 well-printed Gospel Hymns

	Each	Per 10	Per 100
	Postpaid	Postpaid	Not Postpaid
Manila	$0.40	$3.60	$30.00
Flexible Cloth	.45	4.00	33.00
Board Cloth	.50	4.50	40.00

F E A R

By C. E. Randall

WE are living in a time when men's hearts are failing them for fear and for looking after the things coming on the earth. People cannot see into the future and discern peace and prosperity. Fear is gripping the world. Civilization is rapidly crumbling; society is so filthy that it is rotting; nations, states, cities, and towns are in or near bankruptcy because of political corruption and graft. It is no wonder that people are revolting against such an order. However, one sin does not right another.

With this political, social, and religious revolt we find in its wake a social order of free love; a religious system that is anti-religious, and a political regime that spreads the seeds and doctrines of hell everywhere; ruthlessly stamping out every form of that which is true and righteous. From a worldly standpoint surely there is cause for fear.

But we are not of the world. The Psalmist has well advised: "Fret not thyself because of evil doers, neither be thou envious against the workers of iniquity. For they shall soon be cut down."—Psalm 37:1, 2.

The devil and all his forces are working night and day, it is true—so is GOD. God has promised never to leave nor forsake us. He has always kept this promise if we were true to Him—He always will. "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose."—Rom. 8:28. Sometimes it is hard to see the truth of this in our everyday affairs but time always proves it true. "If God be for us, who can be against us?" Rom. 8:31.

No matter how heavy the clouds, just trust God. Perhaps the clouds are better for you than the bright sunshine. Trust your all in His hand. Don't worry, fret, or murmur; but TRUST. I like the words of David in Psalm 37:25: "I have been young, and now am old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread." Wait on the Lord, keep His way, and He will guide your footsteps along still ways.—In Church of God Messenger.

FIRST PRINCIPLES—

The following works on the great essentials of salvation are recommended for general distribution.

THE WAY OF ETERNAL LIFE

BY LYMAN BOOTH

About one hundred pages of vital Bible truths! "We have known the author for many years. In all his writings he is sound in doctrine and thorough in his exposition of the Scriptures . . . We commend it to those who are Bible students because it will serve them as a compendium of facts in connection with the gospel, and to those who have not so great an acquaintance with the Scriptures because it contains in terse form that which it is necessary for them to understand to place them in the way of life eternal."—S. J. Lindsay.

Price, postpaid . . . 40 cents.

A LETTER TO A FRIEND on the Covenants of Promise—

BY MRS. C. C. WOODRUFF

A thirty-page booklet that has passed through repeated editions and is still in great demand. This little work is written in a free and intimate manner, as a plain and simple letter from one friend to another. It is sound in doctrine and attractive in style.

Sent postpaid for ten cents each or one dollar per dozen.

Make money orders payable to

NATIONAL BIBLE INSTITUTION

Oregon, Illinois

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, FEBRUARY 9, 1932

NUMBER 19

Living Stones in God's House

By Emma C. Railsback

DAVID desired to build a house for the Lord. He was informed through the prophet Nathan that his son was to build the house "unto the name of the Lord". Jehovah had covenanted with David that He would set up his seed after him and would establish the throne of his kingdom forever. Solomon was the immediate seed referred to, who built the typical house of the Lord. 1 Kings 6:7: "And the house, when it was in building, was built of stone made ready before it was brought thither: so that there was neither hammer, nor ax, nor any tool of iron, heard in the house while it was in building."

But the greater Son of David is the Savior, our Lord Jesus Christ; and it is He that is building the house of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth. (1 Tim. 3:15.) The church is, therefore, "my father's house", to which Jesus refers in John 14:2, in which He says there are many mansions or abodes or permanent places. The Greek word, monē, is found only twice in the New Testament, in John 14:2 and 14:23. In verse 23, it is translated "abode", and the concordance gives "permanent place" as the thought of the word.

In Hebrews 3:5, 6, we read, "Moses verily was faithful in all his house, as a servant". Moses' house was the nation of Israel. "But Christ as a son over his own house; whose house are we", said the Apostle, "if we hold fast the confidence and the rejoicing of the hope firm unto the end." Christ, the greater Son of David, the Son of God, is building the household of God upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, "Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner stone; in whom all the building fitly framed together groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord: in whom ye also are builded together for an habitation of God through the Spirit."—Eph. 2:20, 21.

The stones for this antitypical house of God are being taken from every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation, by the gospel message, and are made ready for the house of God by rebukes and chastenings of the Lord. The assembling time is very near, when these lively stones shall be assembled with the Living Stone, which was disallowed of men but chosen of God and precious, to offer up spiritual sacrifices unto God and to become a royal priesthood.

Dear reader, dear moral man, dear friend (of whom I have many still out of Christ), why do you procrastinate in such a vital matter? Can you not see that Jehovah's warnings are in the earth? that the eleventh hour is rapidly drawing to a close? that men's hearts are failing them for fear? that evil men and seducers are waxing worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived? that the inhabitants of the earth are becoming as corrupt as they were in the days of Noah? Oh! Why will you remain out of the House of God, out of the ark of safety and neglect so great salvation? You have heard the good news of the kingdom of God and the things concerning the name of Jesus Christ, and you know that there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved. Why do you not yield obedience while there is yet opportunity? The way is plain—hearing, believing, repenting, and obeying,—entering into the typical death, burial, and resurrection, to walk a new life, the begotten, spiritual life in which the flesh is crucified daily and a growth in grace and knowledge is experienced. Then and only then have you the promise of a spiritual birth in the first resurrection or a change from mortality to immortality, from corruptibility to incorruptibility when the Savior comes. Why do you not flee from the wrath to come? For it surely is coming and that right soon.

Many who are totally ignorant of the Holy Scriptures are now realizing that conditions cannot continue much longer as they are at present, and to them the future is dark indeed. But those who love the Lord Jesus Christ and have made their calling and election sure are rejoicing because they know that the Sun of Righteousness is about to rise with healing in His wings, that a brighter day is just ahead, that Jesus is so coming in like manner as He went away to reward every man as his works shall be.

Even so, come Lord Jesus, and come quickly!

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

"Blessed are the eyes that see the things that ye see: for I tell you, that many prophets and kings have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them."—Luke 10:23, 24.

The Editor's Prayer

OUR FATHER: At this time we would ask Thy special blessing to attend those who are endeavoring to lift up their voices in warning to the world, and in admonition to Thy people, concerning the portentous events that are now transpiring.

Give unto them, we pray, an appreciation of the serious responsibility that rests upon them as "watchmen on the walls of Zion." Impress upon them the sacredness of their obligation to Thee and to all mankind. Enable them to see clearly, to analyze correctly, and to present understandingly and impressively the truth of the prophetic Word, together with its definite application to the times in which we live, that their hearers may be moved to faith in God, repentance from sin, and obedience to the gospel. Amen.

He Cometh!

MORE than a hundred years ago, Krummacher, one of the most eloquent preachers Germany ever produced and a thoughtful student of the prophecies, cried to the slumbering church of his day:

"Never did the church witness such a constellation of signs of the near coming of Christ as now. 'The branches of the fig-trees are full of sap; and the summer is at hand.' Assuredly I am not ignorant that a portion of the church has become gradually weary of the long tarrying, and has fallen into doubt. You also shake your head, and are of opinion, that we have long talked of 'the last time.' Well, use this language, and increase the number of the existing signs by this new one. Add that of the foolish virgins, who shortly before the midnight hour maintained 'the Lord would not come for a long time.' They ate; they drank; they wooed and were wooed, and inscribed over the festivity-decorated gate of their dwelling, 'Peace! Peace! There is no danger!' But then, however, the depths suddenly burst open, and the floods rushed forth at the command of eternal wrath. Only Noah and those with him watched, and were preserved; upon every one else destruction came with the swiftness of a whirlwind. The Lord cometh! O, were He already here! How do we long for His revelation in these dark times!"

Should this writer, whose quaint language we have quoted at considerable length, have been permitted to live to the present in the land of his nativity, how much more insistent would have been his cry, "The Lord is at hand!"

Could he have witnessed the happenings of the past few years, the increase of godlessness, the decline of religious interest, and the multiplying of the anti-christian spirit in Germany and throughout the world, he would have been moved to even greater fervency, and with much stronger reason to declare that "never did the church witness such a constellation of signs of the near coming of Christ as now!"

Recently one of our younger preachers, Brother Richard LeCrone, remarked thoughtfully, "How thankful we should be that we are living in these significant days!" We are reminded of the Master's words directed to those who were privileged to witness the events of His day, and we find them remarkably applicable to ourselves: "Blessed are the eyes which see the things that ye see: for I tell you, that many prophets and kings have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them."

Christian Emphasis on Death

REFERRING to the intermediate state of the dead in his work on The Christian Faith, Dr. Olin Alfred Curtis insists that "the doctrine must be so constructed as to protect the awful Christian emphasis upon death."

An important principle of Christian teaching is involved in the conclusion of this eminent Methodist theologian. The Bible stresses most earnestly the dreadful reality of death. It is presented throughout the Scriptures as the most fearful, the most horrible, and the most repellent of all experiences and conditions.

The reason why so much emphasis is placed upon its appalling nature is apparent to the thoughtful student of God's Word. According to Inspiration, death is the natural result of sin, and the divinely appointed punishment for sin; therefore its frightful character must be clearly revealed, that men may be induced to flee from it.

It is exceedingly significant that Christianity alone places this "awful emphasis upon death." Other religions endeavor to minimize its terrors by teaching that death is not a reality, that it is but a delusion of the human mind. Stephen Phillips voices this widely prevalent but altogether unchristian idea thus:

"The delusion of death shall pass;
The delusion of mounded earth, the apparent withdrawal.
Ye shall shed your bodies and upward flutter to freedom."

The Hope of the Gospel

By George B. Alldridge

WE should at all times avoid indulging in controversy, that is, if it is contrary to the spirit of Eph. 4:15. It is human, or rather fleshly, to desire to get back at the other fellow who may differ with us. This is not the spirit of Christ and we should ever be alert that we are not enslaved by this method. But Jude warns us: "Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you that ye should earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints." And quoting Paul, 1 Cor. 9:23, I may say, "And this I do for the gospel's sake, that I might be partaker thereof with you".

In The Golden Age of January 20, 1932, under the caption, "First Resurrection and Better Resurrection", we read, Page 250,

"David will never get to heaven; neither will John the Baptist, nor any faithful prophet and servant of God preceding John's ministry, for none of them will be members of the kingdom of God. Jesus settled that point when He said; 'Among those that are born of women there is not a greater prophet than John the Baptist: but he that is least in the kingdom of God is greater than he'. Luke 7:28. It must be, then, that though John the Baptist and all his fellow prophets may be resurrected, it will not be in the first resurrection or to a life in heaven. This raises the question: what kind of resurrection, then, will they have?"

The writer then quotes 1 Corinthians 15:40, 44, seeking to prove that there will be a resurrection of beings who will be spiritual and immortal, and a resurrection of perfected human or natural beings, mortal, but who will enjoy eternal life. In other words, all who died prior to the resurrection of Christ—the patriarchs, prophets, and saints of God, from righteous Abel down to John the Baptist, including of course Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob—will be raised flesh and blood creatures. Quoting 1 Corinthians 15:50, the writer tries to prove by these words, "Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God," that it excludes all prior to Christ's resurrection.

To point out what a serious position the writer of the above occupies, I will refer you to Revelation 22:19; Deuteronomy 4:2; Proverbs 30:6; Deuteronomy 12:32.

Listen to these words, "And I say unto you, That many shall come from the east and west, and shall sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of heaven."—Matt. 8:11. Whom must we believe, the editor of The Golden Age, or Jesus? Jesus, brethren, every time! Why? Here is the answer, "God, who at sundry times, and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also he made the world."—Heb. 1:1, 2.

The writer knows only but one true gospel, taught and revealed to him in the Scriptures. Paul, in Galatians 1:8, says, "But though we or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed."

What gospel did Paul preach? Let me quote Acts 28:23, "And when they had appointed him a day, there came many to him into his lodging; to whom he expounded and testified the kingdom of God, persuading them concerning Jesus, both out of the law of Moses, and out of the prophets, from morning till evening."

Let us turn to Galatians 3:8. We read, "And the scripture, foreseeing that God would justify the heathen through faith, preached before the gospel unto Abraham, saying, In thee shall all nations be blessed." In verse 16, we read, "Now to Abraham and his seed were the promises made. He saith not, And to seeds, as of many; but as of one, And to thy seed, which is Christ." And verse 29, "And if ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise". Read also Genesis 12:1-7; 13:14-17; 15:13-18; 17:1-8; 22:15-18.

On Page 251, The Golden Age quotes Hebrews 11, pointing out who these ancient worthies are, who, he says, are to be raised to the plane of human perfection, receiving an earthly reward, not like the saints to a heavenly reward and existence. Let us see what their faith led them to believe they would receive.

"These all died in faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them, and confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth, . . . But now they desire a better country that is, an heavenly; wherefore God is not ashamed to be called their God; for he hath prepared for them a city."

The writer in The Golden Age, quoting and naming Abraham until he reaches Moses, quotes verses 24, 25, then quotes only part of verse 26, leaving out the part that condemns his theory: "Esteeming the reproach of CHRIST greater riches than the treasures in Egypt; for he had respect unto the recompence of the reward." This is a willful twisting of the Word of God!

Jesus said, "Your father Abraham rejoiced to see my day; and he saw it and was glad."—John 8:56. Now let us read Hebrews 11:18, 19: "Of whom it was said, That in Isaac shall thy seed be called: accounting that God was able to raise him up, even from the dead from whence also he received him in a figure." I wish that I could see as clearly as Abraham did all that was involved in the death of his son, Isaac, in figure.

Did Moses see Christ's day and was he glad? "The Lord thy God will raise up unto thee a prophet from the

(Continued on back page)

ACCORDING TO THY LOVE

LORD, these for whom we are so bound to pray,
How can we know the secret springs that move
Their lives; how know just what we ought to say?
Answer us, Lord, according to Thy love.

We bring Thee needs of which we do not know,
And problems that we cannot understand.
We feel so powerless. We can only go
In faith and lay them in Thy loving hand.

We pray for folk we love the best, and these
Are dumbest cries of all the prayers we pray.
Into Thy care we cast the broken pleas,
Into Thy love the words we cannot say.

We bring thee our own souls. We do not know
Just what is worst in us or what is best,
Or where we lack. We come and tell Thee so,
And wait Thy judgment. And Thou givest rest.

We bring our prayers. So tremulous their wings,
So tossed by thoughts that this way, that way, move;
Nestle about Thy heart the fluttering things,
Answer not them, dear Lord, but Thine own love.
—From "Words of Life".

—o—

"THE purposes of the Almighty are perfect and must prevail, though we erring mortals may fail to accurately perceive them in advance."—Abraham Lincoln.

—o—

OIL ON TROUBLED WATERS

By Arlen Marsh

FOR almost two thousand years the church of God has been promulgating the gospel, alleviating the suffering resulting from a valetudinary moral sense, struggling to correct the evils of a world indifferent to God. Obstacles apparently insurmountable have been conquered, to be replaced by obstacles far greater. As the centuries have progressed, the resistance to the teaching of the Messiah has become stronger, while the replies to the mordacious arguments of the agnostic and the atheist have come to be less powerful than ever before. In the United States, the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism (known familiarly to its members as the "Four A's") is exerting more and more influence on the lives of the nation's citizens. Conditions similar or worse prevail in other lands.

When faced with such a firm entrenchment of the doctrines of those opposed to God, the Christian must prepare himself for battle. Those who have answered the invitation to immortal life through belief and baptism should endeavor conscientiously to assist in the furtherance of the work of Jehovah, even as they confirm the tenets of their faith by renewed zeal in study. Particularly today the disciple of the Christ should emulate the ancient Bereans who won a just commendation from Luke: "These were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the scriptures daily, whether those things were so."—Acts 17:11.

Times like these cannot successfully be met with a divided front. As an entity, the Chinese Empire existed in the form of a mighty monarchy for nearly four thousand years; today, the disunited dominions of the Tsings fall weakly, though protestingly, before the onslaught of combined Japanese forces. Success came to the Allies only when they copied the combined armies of the Central Powers. Internal decay has been the cause of the destruction of almost every power the world has ever known. Persia, Macedon, Rome, the Moslem caliphate, and Spain bowed to their conquerors in turn only as the dry rot of disintegration inter se weakened or destroyed them. Thus must the church of God unite against the militant coalescence of unbelievers; thus must it avoid the weakness of divisions in itself. Disunion cannot but fail.

This strength from union is not a problem for the irenic theologian. The abolition of sects, of creeds, and of dogmas would lead to vacillation and weakness; yet with all these retained, the churches could not become a single organization. Development of power to combat the contentions of the "godless societies" must come from some other source than idealistic theories. Each individual must remain loyal to his own denominational beliefs, and his denomination must cling closer to the doctrines of "one faith, one Lord, one baptism"—the gospel of Jesus Christ as preached by the Apostle Paul.

Certainly, union such as that now needed can never be obtained so long as the members of this and every other church persist in nugatory disputes which end in nothing but mordantly personal controversies. All too frequently do arguments over non-essential problems degenerate into quarrels, and just as frequently do such arguments result in irreparable schisms. Paul was indeed correct when he addressed his warning to Timothy: "But foolish and unlearned questions avoid, knowing that they do gender strifes".—2 Tim. 2:23. Divisions in the church are too dangerous to be permitted to result from contentions regarding minor points. Above all, personal antagonisms should be forgotten: sarcasm is proof of nothing; it has no place in the religion of love.

So, then, every individual of every church should use as his guide the divinely inspired command of the Apostle to the Gentiles: "Flee also youthful lusts: but follow righteousness, faith, charity, peace, with them that call on the Lord out of a pure heart. And the servant of the Lord must not strive; but be gentle unto all men, apt to teach, patient, in meekness instructing those that oppose themselves; if God peradventure will give them repentance to the acknowledging of the truth; and that they may recover themselves out of the snare of the devil, who are taken captive by him at his will."—2 Tim. 2:22, 24-26.

THE PERSON OF GOD

By C. E. Randall

“Will ye accept his person? will ye contend for God?”

CHRIST in speaking to the woman at the well said: “Ye worship ye know not what”. This is quite true of Christendom of today. They worship God but have a very little idea of God. They know not what they worship. Surely we have a right to search for the answer to the question, “What is the Almighty, that we should serve him?”—Job 21:15.

The quotation at the head of this article is an interrogation by Job. It is not merely a question for information, but is in the form of a positive affirmation of the fact that God is and has a person. To deny the person of God is to deny God Himself. The question is a challenge to the followers of God to accept as a fact and reality the person and being of our God.

Several of the writers in THE HERALD have asserted that the usage of a word determines its meaning. To this, we can agree. “Person” in the quotation comes from the Hebrew word panim. We cite a few quotations showing how the word is used:

“That thou go to battle in thine own person.”—2 Sam. 17:11.

“Shall not regard the person of the old.”—Deut. 28:50.

“Ye shall not respect persons in judgment.”—Deut. 1:17.

It will readily be seen from these quotations that the usage of the word has to do with the bodily make-up or corporeal being of the individual and nothing whatever to do with character or attribute. It is used thus in nineteen instances. This same Hebrew word is translated “face” three hundred fifty times and in the majority of instances it is applied to the face of the corporeal being. We do not question the person of man. Why should we question the person of God? There is as much Bible evidence to prove the person of God as there is to substantiate the person of man. The same words that are used to describe the face, eyes, ears, hands, and feet of man are used to describe the same parts of God.

We have collected a few of the hundreds of scriptures that speak of the different parts of God’s person. They read as follows: “For the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open unto their prayers.”—1 Peter.3:12. “Thou canst not see my face: for there shall no man see me and live. And the Lord said, Behold, there is a place by me, and thou shalt stand upon a rock: and it shall come to pass, while my glory passeth by, that I will put thee in a cliff of the rock, and will cover thee with mine hand while I pass by: and I will take away mine hand, and thou shalt see my back parts: but my face shall not be seen.”—Ex. 33:20-23. Italics are used to emphasize the different parts of God’s corporeal being.

We have the face, hand, and back parts of God mentioned here. And the back parts imply front parts. Some may say, “I don’t think that was God—it was His angel.” “No man can look upon my face and live.” This is not true of angels, for man has seen angels on numerous occasions. Neither is it true of kingdom conditions, for in the kingdom God is going to dwell with His people and they shall see Him face to face. Man in his sinful and mortal state is barred from seeing God.

We are told in Genesis that man was made in the likeness and image of God. “So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them.”—Gen. 1:27. “In the day that God created man, in the likeness of God made he him.”—Gen. 5:1. If the usage of the word “image” is traced through the pages of Holy Writ, it will be discovered that the word is preponderantly used of the physical being—the corporeal body. The largest usage of a term, not only in number of occurrences, but also in its application, is always the basic meaning. A good illustration of the usage of the word, image, is to be found in Daniel 2:31-35. “Image” in these verses represents the metallic statue, the man of Nebuchadnezzar’s dream. It is also thus used of man—he is the statue and likeness of God’s person.

When it is contended that God has a body composed of all the component parts found in corporeal man, John 4:24 is generally cited as evidence to the contrary: “God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth.” This scripture does not preclude God’s having an immortal body. Neither does it prove that God is composed of spirit, nothing more or nothing less; any more than 1 John 4:8 proves that all there is of God is love or Hebrews 12:29 that God is only a ball of fire.

Let us carefully compare these scriptures:

“God is Spirit.”

“God is love.”

“God is fire.”

We have omitted the indefinite article “a” as it is supplied in our text, not being in the original tongue. Each one of these statements contains truth, but no one of them contains all of the truth. A figure of speech is used here, by which an attribute of God is spoken of as God. Spirit is a part or an attribute of God, as is love. Spirit and love, like everything else, must have an origin and this origin is always a corporeal body.

The corporeal being of God is necessary in order to establish the intelligence of God. “Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh.”—Matt. 12:34. Words are conceived and brought forth from the mind, the seat of all intelligence. The mind cannot be disassociated from the corporeal being, because it is a part of that being. When that being ceases to function the mind stops working. This law of the mind connected with a corporeal being is as true of God according to His Word as it is of man. The wisdom and intelligence of God proceed from the mind of God, as do all His words. “O the depth of the riches both of wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out. For who hath known the mind of the Lord?”—Rom. 11:33, 34.

It can readily be seen from this scripture that the wisdom and knowledge of God emanate from the mind of God. The mind operates only in conjunction with the senses of seeing, feeling, hearing, etc. These senses are located in the corporeal being. God watches over us because He sees us, and He sees us because He has eyes. He answers our prayers because He has ears to hear us. Affections such as love, longsuffering, sympathy, and compassion are produced through the physical being whether mortal or immortal. It is through this medium that God is touched with the feeling of our infirmities. "Will ye accept his person?"

---

WHY CHOOSE THE MINISTRY?

---

By Harvey Krogh

THERE are many different reasons why a person finds himself at middle age working at a certain occupation. It has been said that a life work is one of the two things into which men drift. Though a very large number of people are thrown into their certain line of work mainly by circumstances, yet there are those who definitely and wisely choose their occupation while they still have that opportunity.

Most young men have the ambition to become a person of some note, one who makes a mark in the world, which of course is a very worthy ambition. There are those who are well satisfied with life if they have a comfortable living and enjoy a common life. All are seeking happiness and satisfaction, and there are many different ways and places in which these may be found.

Let us consider the young man who has the worthy desire of really being somebody in the world. There are several occupations which he might choose—for instance, in the realm of science. Great opportunities lie in store for the youth who studies science and learns how to use the great laws of nature for humanity's welfare. A very comfortable living may be afforded and the work is honored. Engineering of some kind might be attractive to some as a professional work. This also will bring suitable returns and there is usually occasion for advancement and for authority.

A more commendable work than these is the medical profession. The person who studies medicine and surgery, if he is successful, will always have a handsome income. He will be doing a noble work for mankind, and his position is respected above that of the average citizen.

The highest calling that anyone may answer is that call to be a Christian. The successful minister may rise to a much higher plane than any other man in the world. He is allied with the Great Potentate who made all that we are and all that we can see. He is the one man in all the world who can master the great things in life. The true minister who affiliates with the infinite God is endowed with wisdom, that power to use all knowledge to the benefit of all.

Some may say that ministers seldom make anything above a fair living and not often become famous. This may all be true, but money and fame often do not bring happiness. True happiness comes from that peace we have with God that "passeth all understanding". Who could ask for more than true happiness?

Someone else says that a minister has many trials and his work is often hard. If people only knew it, they could see that the trials that a Christian has only add to his peace and contentment. The man who lives in comfort soon forgets that he is living in comfort; but if he lives in poverty for a change, he appreciates the better condition. The man who is working hard is the one who is most contented; while the one who does not work gets nowhere.

The joys and pleasures that come to a true servant of God are so superior to the little trials and sufferings that the whole life is sweeter. Then, with that blessed assurance that God is caring for him and all will be to his welfare as long as he is serving faithfully, life is never a burden, but joy, peace, and contentment reign. Before you decide what you want to do, consider your Creator and ask Him what He wants you to do.

---

IMPORTANCE OF BIBLE STUDY

---

By Dorothy Krogh

"Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth."—2 Timothy 2:15.

THE Bible is probably the oldest book in existence today. It is certain that it is the most widely circulated book and has had a greater and a more important influence on the lives of a larger number of people than any other book ever written. The reason for this is very evident. It is the Word of God written by holy men of old through divine inspiration.

Before the Bible was written, it pleased God to make His will known to man verbally in a direct and personal manner. It appears that He first instructed man concerning many of the laws which were afterwards embodied in the Pentateuch, such as the sabbath (Gen. 2:3) (hence the fourth commandment, "Remember the sabbath day to keep it holy) and the institution of marriage (Gen. 2:24).

Verbal instruction concerning offerings and sacrifices must also have been given from the very beginning, for we read in Genesis 4:4, that Abel "brought of the firstlings of his flock and of the fat thereof", and Noah also took a number of "clean" beasts into the ark (Gen. 7:2) for sacrifice (Gen. 8:20). God also talked with Abraham, instructing him in all that He would have him to do throughout his life. Isaac, Moses, and others of the prophets were spoken to by God.

But God has ceased to speak directly to man in this manner revealing Himself to us now through the Bible, which He provided for this purpose and has preserved throughout the ages. Indeed, the very existence of the Bible today is in itself a standing miracle. The enemies of the Jews have always been enemies of the Bible, and in all the dreadful Jewish persecutions from Antiochus Epiphanes on, the chief aim of the persecutors has been to destroy the Book that made the Jews what they were.

Infidels have, from time to time, tried to destroy the Bible, and Rome did her best to burn it and its readers out of existence. Yet it rises up from each attack as unharmed as were Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego by Nebuchadnezzar's fiery furnace. Indeed, the Bible is very much like the Irishman's wall which was built four feet wide and three feet high. When asked why he had so foolishly made the wall wider than it was high, he replied that he had built it that way so that if a storm should come and blow it over, it would be higher afterwards than before. And so it is with the Bible! In spite of all the storms of persecution and criticism it holds a higher place today than ever before.

Sydney Collett in his book, All about the Bible, says that the British and Foreign Bible Society alone since its establishment in 1804, has issued over two hundred twenty-nine million Bibles; while in the year 1910 alone, nearly seven million copies were issued in over four hundred languages.

Voltaire, the noted French infidel, who died in 1778, said that in one hundred years from his time, Christianity would be swept from existence and would pass into history. But only twenty-five years after his death the above society was founded. His printing press, with which he printed infidel literature, has since been used to print copies of the Bible, and the very house in which he lived has been stacked with Bibles by the Geneva Bible Society. It has been truly said that we might as well put our shoulder to the burning wheel of the sun and try to stop it on its flaming course as to attempt to stop the circulation of the Bible.

But how many of these millions of Bibles have been studied as the Word of God ought to be? Bullinger in his book, How to Enjoy the Bible, says, "The root of all evils which abound in the spiritual sphere at the present day, lies in the fact that the Word and the words of God are not fed upon, digested, and assimilated as they ought to be."

It is recognized that the condition of bodily health is largely determined by the attention paid to the laws of nature in regard to suitable diet. So it is with our minds! The mental condition is determined to a great extent by what we feed our minds. In order to develop spirituality we must feed our minds on the Word of God.

If we will glance for a moment at the life of Jesus, we will find that He had a comprehensive knowledge of the Scriptures from which He drew His answers when questioned on many occasions. For example, in the scene of temptation in the wilderness, Jesus had fasted for forty days when the tempter came to Him, suggesting that He turn stones to bread. Jesus answered, "It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God," quoting from Deuteronomy 8:3. Again the tempter suggested that He manifest His sonship by casting Himself down from a pinnacle of the temple. Jesus' reply again drawn from Scripture was, "It is written, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God."—Deuteronomy 6:16. A third time the tempter tried to allure Him with a promise of the gift of all the kingdoms of the world and the glory of them, if He would only fall down and worship him. Again Jesus replied, "It is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve."—Deut. 10:20.

The conversation of Jesus with the two disciples on the way to Emmaus, Luke 24:27, also plainly shows that He had studied well the sacred writings, and His own experience was an example of the lesson He taught the unbelieving Jews in John 5:39, "Search the scriptures, for in them ye think ye have eternal life and they are they which testify of me." The Jews thought that they could gain eternal life through the Scriptures, but if they had searched them without prejudice and with a desire to know the truth they would have known that Jesus was the promised Messiah for whom they were looking.

But they were blinded as to the events of His first coming, even as people today are blinded to the events of His second coming, although both are plainly foretold in the Scriptures. The injunction to "search the scriptures" is needed now as much as it ever was. A good many people read the Scriptures but do not "search" them, that is, they do not study, examine, and analyze them to find their true meaning. The weeks, months, and years that men frequently spend in scientific research, and the persevering industry with which they follow their studies up, should be a burning rebuke to those who professedly believe the Bible but do not investigate its pages to find what it really teaches.

The Bereans of old were commended as being "more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind and searched the scriptures daily, whether these things were so."—Acts 17:11.

There is a rich mine of treasure in the Scriptures for those who will diligently and prayerfully seek it. The Psalms are brimful of assurances of God's goodness and of exhortations to trust in Him and rejoice. The New Testament epistles contain instructions and admonitions for every child of God, whether he be newly converted or well grounded in the faith.

Robert McLauchlan in his Addresses and Miscellaneous Papers on Bible Themes, says, "The light of God's prophetic Word, can dispel the mists and darkness of error and delusion as no other means can. Scripture teaching can alone give more just conceptions of the Almighty and of His beneficent plans and purposes toward men and nations, than that which now prevails: without a knowledge of which we cannot render to Him the loving and intelligent homage of sons and daughters who shall reflect His image, and this is the homage which He desires."

It is the holy Scriptures which are able to make us "wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus."—2 Timothy 3:15.

HE LEADS US ON

By Alice B. Curtis

He leads us on!
Through all life's changeful years,
Through toil and danger, and through joy and fears,
In quiet ways where the still waters flow,
Or when through swelling Jordan we must go,
He leads us on.

He leads us on!
We need not walk alone
Life's rugged pathway, to us all unknown;
He cares for us; His good Word is the light
To lead us from the gloom of error's night,
To Truth's bright day—

He leads us on!
In paths of righteousness,
He knows our trials and our weariness,
He is our help and our sufficiency,
And as our day we know our strength shall be,
When led by Him.

He leads us on!
And His all-seeing eyes
Have traced the pathway that before us lies,
A path that shall grow brighter day by day;
And blessed is the man that walks that way,
The way of life.

He leads us on!
Soon may the glad day come
When we shall see the shining hills of home,
When Zion's King shall reign from sea to sea,
Ruling the earth in truth and equity;
Lord, lead us home.

THE LORD'S SUPPER

By Lottie E. Young

FOR ages the Jews celebrated the Feast of the Passover in remembrance of their wonderful deliverance from Egypt on that awful night when the death messenger visited every Egyptian home, but passed over the dwellings of the Israelites who had obeyed the command of Moses. At this feast they ate a lamb and remembered as they ate it that they owed their deliverance in Egypt under God to the blood of a lamb which had been spread on their doorposts. The lamb eaten at every Passover table pointed back to the one whose blood had been shed in Egypt for them, and it also pointed forward, though they did not apparently understand it, to the Lamb of God, who was one day to be slain and whose death would result in a more wonderful deliverance—the deliverance of the world from the power of sin.

When Jesus went to Jerusalem the last time, He knew that He was to be put to death at the time of the Passover and that He was the chosen One to effect a reconciliation between God and man. We can picture Him and the twelve disciples gathered in the upper room to celebrate the Passover, the last time they would celebrate the rite of the Old Testament faith together. The church of the New Covenant was now to be set up, and it was meet that it should have a rite answering to the Passover of the Old, and so we read, "As they did eat Jesus took bread and blessed, and brake it, and he gave to the disciples, and said, Take eat; this is my body. And he took a cup, and gave thanks, and gave to them, saying, Drink ye all of it."

The Lord's supper is a memorial of Christ's death, which the Master established for the purpose of keeping the benefits of His death in the minds of His followers, and of helping us to grasp and use them. A Christian should not live in the past, but he can never look back too often at the cross and what it means to mankind. The bit of bread and sip of wine are to help us to see it and to bring before the mind's eye the Lamb of God.

The Savior, however, did not dwell on the intense sufferings He was so soon to endure, giving instead a forward look to His followers, when He said He would no more take of the "fruit of the vine" until He would "drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom." We love to have dear ones sit at our table and enjoy fellowship with them even as we eat, but can we begin to imagine the closeness of the communion we will have in the good time coming, or, as a loved friend often says, "when I can talk things over with Jesus."

The partaking of the supper should have a personal meaning for us. If we were to lay a loaf of bread on a shelf and look at it three times a day, or fall down and worship it the same number of times, would it do us any good? We all know that bread not only has to be put in the mouth but chewed, digested, and passed into the fibers of our body before it does its part in making us stronger. In the same way Jesus tells us that He has given Himself as bread. He says to us, "Take, eat; if you will feed on Me, I will give you nourishment and strength. I will build up the tissue of your spiritual being."

If I want to get the strength of a slice of bread I must give it the right of way in my body. So if I want the strength which Jesus has for me, I must open up my whole being to Him. I cannot say I am willing He shall control my conduct in certain things, but not in others. That I am willing to obey Him today, but wish to have my own way during the vacation season; that I am willing to be guided by Him as long as His commands appeal clearly to my reason and judgment, but no longer. If we want to be like our great Example, we must completely surrender ourselves to Him and let His way be our way in all things.

He said, "My yoke is easy and my burden light." Shall we resolve now to assume them?

"The March of Eleven Men"

By Jas. A. Patrick

WHEN I read the foregoing caption to an article in the Christian Herald, I thought it was the title to a football story; but it had nothing to do with football.

As I read the article, my mind went back nearly two thousand years to the little land of Palestine, to about the time Caesar Augustus issued the decree that all the world should be taxed. If we look back to that time and let our imaginations work, we will be able to see caravans moving hither and yon across this little country; for every person was journeying to the city or village of his nativity.

I seem to see one caravan as it nears the little village of Bethlehem. Among those traveling in this caravan, I see two people, one a man leading a small donkey on which sits a fair young woman. A close observer would notice that the journey, to her, has been a very weary one; she seems almost ready to drop from the little beast, as they reach the inn for shelter. And then they are told that there is no room in the inn! But they make their way to the stable, and there in the manger they find rest.

Did you ever stop to think what that meant? the noise of the eating animals; men moving to and fro; the foul stench! And under these conditions a babe was born, wrapped in swaddling clothes, and laid in the manger. Millions and millions of other children, born under such conditions of poverty, only begin to live, to sink into utter oblivion.

And now if we go forward in our imaginations about thirty years, we see a man named John, preaching to the people, telling them to repent and prepare for one to come. Then he takes them into the river Jordan and baptizes them. As these things are taking place, a Man comes down to John and asks to be baptized; and John says, "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world". This is the babe, grown to manhood, that we saw swaddled in the manger.

From this time forward things happen with great rapidity. This man begins to preach and say that the kingdom of heaven is at hand, and tells people to prepare for its reception. He calls to His cabinet twelve men who go about with Him and are taught by Him. His words are like salt in wounds to the self-satisfied scribes, Pharisees, and priests. He lashes them into a frenzy. They decide that He must be gotten rid of, even if they have to kill Him. And so they set about the nefarious business. With the help of one of His cabinet, they take Him and crucify Him. Then the traitor goes out and hangs himself. And there are now eleven.

When He is apprehended His followers become like shadows flitting from one hiding place to another, and so we can hear them whispering among themselves something like this: "Well, I guess we have been fooled. We thought He was a King who would some day overthrow Rome and rule the world. He could do such wonderful things—heal the sick, make the blind to see, and the deaf to hear, and even raise the dead. Why do you suppose He let the Romans kill Him? Surely with all His power He could have prevented that. Well it's done and our hope is lost."

And so we see them gathered on the seashore, dejected, broken in spirit. I hear Peter say, and it seems that I can hear the despair in his voice, "I go a fishing", and the others say, "We also go with thee." They couldn't seem to realize that He was alive, and so they went back to their various vocations of life. Is that the end? Are we to have no New Testament? Is Peter to go on fishing to the end? Is Matthew to go back to his tax gathering till he dies? No, thank God, no! What happened? They are finally convinced that He is really alive and will in due time do the things He said He would do. The fact of His resurrection finally dawns upon them. He tells them, "Be not faithless, but believing." So they return from their fishing and tax gathering.

Now the eleven begin their march; and what a march! They march into the staid formalism of Jewry and into the pleasure-loving, sensuality of Rome. And now others join hands with the eleven. Soon Stephen is preaching, and his words sting like the bites of scorpions, and Jewry is much disturbed. These fanatics must be stopped at any cost. So they stone Stephen; and as they stone him, they lay their clothes at the feet of a young Jew, who stands and gloats over what he thinks is a good deed well done.

But as he goes on his way to Damascus to carry on the persecution, the Lord meets him in the way and speaks to him, and then he joins hands with the eleven. Now their numbers grow, and the persecution grows hotter. Many like Stephen go down in death; but they are like the Scottish clan, fighting with their chieftain, and when he is wounded unto death, they begin to waver. But with the last of his fast failing strength, he raises himself on his elbow and cries, "Close up the ranks, men, I am looking at you"; and they close up the ranks and fight on to victory. So those fighting on with the eleven hear His words, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." And they close up the ranks and march on.

Has that march meant anything to the world? Do we owe anything to the marchers and their Captain? We have schools, colleges, hospitals, homes for orphans and aged ones, and all kinds of benevolent institutions. Some would ask, "What has this to do with the march of the eleven men?" Well, go to India, China, and darkest Africa where these marchers have not gone, and do you find such benevolent institutions? Do you find people as favorably situated as they are in the lands where the marchers have gone?

In India today when a girl is born into a home, there is mourning in that home; she is unloved at the time of

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 325 N. Austin Blvd., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois

For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"HE GIVETH QUIETNESS."—Job 34:29.

"I will be as the dew unto Israel."—Hosea 14:5.

SPRINGFIELD, LOUISIANA

THE dew is a source of freshness. It is nature's provision for renewing the face of the earth. It falls at night, and without it the vegetation would die. It is this great value of the dew which is so often recognized in the Scriptures. It is used as the symbol of spiritual refreshing. Just as nature is bathed in dew, so the Lord renews His people. In Titus 3:5 the same thought of spiritual refreshing is connected with the ministry of the Holy Ghost—"renewing of the Holy Ghost."

Many Christian workers do not recognize the importance of the heavenly dew in their lives, and as a result they lack freshness and vigor. Their spirits are drooping for lack of dew.

Beloved fellow-worker, you recognize the folly of a laboring man's attempting to do his day's work without eating. Do you recognize the folly of a servant of God attempting to minister without eating of the heavenly manna? Nor will it suffice to have spiritual nourishment occasionally. Every day you must receive the renewing of the Holy Ghost. You know when your whole being is pulsating with the vigor and freshness of Divine life, and when you feel jaded and worn. Quietness and absorption bring the dew. At night when the leaf and blade are still, the vegetable pores are open to receive the refreshing and invigorating bath; so spiritual dew comes from quiet lingering in the Master's presence. Get still before Him. Haste will prevent your receiving the dew. Wait before God until you feel saturated with His presence; then go forth to your next duty with a conscious freshness and vigor of Christ.—Pardington.

"Drop Thy still dews of quietness,
Till all our strivings cease:
Take from our souls the strain and stress;
And let our ordered lives confess
The beauty of Thy peace.

"Breathe through the pulses of desire
Thy coolness and Thy balm;
Let sense be dumb, its beats expire:
Speak through the earthquake, wind and fire,
O still small voice of calm!"—Selected.

On January 17, a group of people of the Blood River section of the Happy Woods Church of God, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Fountleroy for the purpose of organizing a Berean society.

Brother Warren Landry, of the Hammond Bereans, lead the lesson on "The Gospel". It proved to be a very interesting lesson, in which nearly everyone took part.

A business meeting was called to order by Sister Brunette Lobell, and after informal discussion it was moved and seconded that a Springfield Berean Society be organized to be affiliated with the National Berean Society of the Church of God.

It was moved and seconded that the officers be a president, vice president, and secretary-treasurer. The first officers of the Springfield Berean Society are:

Mrs. Sherman Fountleroy, president; Annie Hutchinson, vice president; Ophie Fayard, secretary-treasurer.

The place for the following week's meeting was set at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lobell, with Mrs. Sherman Fountleroy as leader. The president appointed Lula Mae Richardson and Bernard Lobell as a membership committee to obtain new members. The officers will meet on Tuesday of this week to make a program for the following lessons.

Thus ended a successful first session. The meeting adjourned at about 4:30 p. m., closing with the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth verses of Jude as a closing prayer.
Ophie Fayard, Sec.

SAINT CLOUD, MINNESOTA

The following report of the Saint Cloud Berean society since the beginning of the year is submitted:

Membership, 17; average attendance, 14; interest good. The class meets every Sunday evening in the church annex.

Newly elected officers are, Herman Erdmenn, president; Lola Skinner, vice president; Irene Sheldon, secretary-treasurer; Bernice Johnson, organist.

The young people provide the music for the morning worship, with Mrs. T. M. Savage, Jr., as leader.

John Savage.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want."

JESUS THE GOOD SHEPHERD

IN PALESTINE there are many, many sheep. The shepherds who care for them know all the sheep in their flocks and call each one by its name.

Let us visit a sheepfold on a sunny hillside in Palestine. There is only one narrow door in the rough stone wall of the fold. What shall we do if the door is shut? Some small boy will answer, "Climb over the top." Impossible! The tops of the walls are covered with tree branches, prickly brambles, and sharp thorns. Even a wolf coming to steal a lamb doesn't dare jump over. Only a half-starved lion or leopard will leap over the wall and risk getting torn on those thorns.

There! The door of the sheepfold opens and out comes the shepherd. His rough sheepskin mantle is thrown over his shoulders. As the day is hot, he wears the fleece outside. Tonight, if he sleeps on the hillside, he will turn his mantle inside out and wear the woolly side next to him. He carries a sling, a queer looking wallet filled with coarse food, and a long crook or staff.

One by one the sheep come through the gate and follow the shepherd. He knows where there is a fine pasture filled with tempting grass. A sparkling stream of cool water gurgles its way across the green field. It is a long way to the pasture. The sheep will have to travel through a lonesome, rocky valley before they reach it. But the shepherd goes before them. Now and then he calls a straying lamb, and the lamb hears and trots obediently after him.

But the pasture is reached at last! and my! oh my! what a frolic the lambs are having! They kick up their heels and skip about as though they were happy children.

At last the shepherd looks at the sky and calls to his sheep. They are a long way from home and the fold. It is late afternoon and a storm is coming. Off they move homeward. Again they pass safely through the rocky valley.

The gatekeeper opens the door of the sheepfold when he sees them coming. The shepherd stands by the open door with his rod raised. One by one, the sheep and lambs pass under the rod and through the gate into the fold. Hear the shepherd counting the sheep as they pass in, "ninety-seven, ninety-eight, ninety-nine—;" then he drops his rod and exclaims, "Only ninety-nine sheep! One must be lost. I had a hundred with me this morning."

Do you suppose he says, "One sheep doesn't count for much, I have ninety-nine in the fold, and that is enough." Indeed not! At once he does what we all do when we lose something. We go out and hunt for it until we find it.

Off the shepherd goes in the darkness and storm, calling the missing sheep by name as he feels his way along the rough valley. He stops. A faint "ba-a-a" reaches his ear. The lost sheep must have taken shelter in some cave among the rocks. The shepherd follows the sound of its voice. Yes, there it is looking out from between the rocks, and crying "ba-a-a" every time it hears its name called. The shepherd seizes it, throws it across his shoulders, and starts for the sheepfold. He cannot afford to lose one of his sheep. To the shepherd each sheep and each little lamb is valuable and important. As soon as the shepherd reaches the fold in safety, he calls his friends together, crying, "I have found my sheep! I have found my sheep!" And his friends are glad and rejoice with him.

Jesus liked to watch the sheep. He knew that a good shepherd loves each one of his flock. So one day when the scribes and Pharisees complained because the Master talked and ate with sinners, Jesus said, "The shepherd hunts the lost sheep, not those that are safe in the fold. Sinners and people who are ill are like lost sheep. They are the ones who need to be helped and they are the ones I came to help." Thus Jesus is our Good Shepherd, and looks after us.—Seymour Loveland in Bible Story Book—New Testament.

ARE WE taking Jesus for our Good Shepherd and helping others to find Him?

ARE WE trying to find salvation through Him, as THE DOOR?

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Read about "the door" at top of Page thirty-three in the Truth Seekers' Quarterly.
2. Also read all of Page thirty-five.
3. Be sure you understand what "the door" means.
4. Learn the twenty-third Psalm.
5. Draw pictures to illustrate it.

WEEKLY BIBLE READING

February 19-25: Leviticus 23 to Numbers 11; Luke 6 to 12.

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 8. — February 21, 1932

JESUS THE GOOD SHEPHERD

John 10:1-42

Devotional Reading: Psalm 23

GOLDEN TEXT

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. — Psalm 23:1.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: Jesus the Good Shepherd.

Basic Truth: "Our Lord Jesus, that great shepherd of the sheep."—Heb. 13:20.

Outline: I. The Lost Sheep. II. False Shepherds and True. III. The One Fold.

I. The Lost Sheep. "All we like sheep have gone astray," declares Isaiah (53:6), and while his words are addressed first to "Judah and Jerusalem" (1:1), they are applicable to all races today, in that the scope of God's salvation is now extended to all men everywhere. We are told that when He "saw the multitude, he was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd."—Matt. 9:36. In our lesson He declares that in addition to "the lost sheep of the house of Israel" (Matt. 10:6), whom He would seek out and save, there were "other sheep" which claimed His sympathy, and them also must He seek.

II. False Shepherds and True. Jehovah pours out His righteous indignation upon the false shepherds of Israel in Isaiah 34:1-8. "Woe be to the shepherds of Israel that do feed themselves! should not the shepherds feed the flocks? . . . My flock was scattered upon all the face of the earth, and none did search and seek after them." The false shepherds of Israel led their flock in treacherous paths of sin, and there deserted them to their fate. Such false leaders are now found within the church of God itself. See 2 Peter 2:1, 2; 2 Timothy 4:3.

Jesus is the "chief Shepherd" of the spiritual flock of God. He has issued the following instructions to His under-shepherds through Peter: "Feed the flock of God which is among you, taking the oversight thereof, not by constraint, but willingly; not for filthy lucre, but of a ready mind; neither as being lords over God's heritage, but being examples to the flock."—1 Peter 5:1-4.

III. The One Fold. The fold of which the Son of God is the Great Shepherd embraces all who will submit themselves through faith and obedience in baptism and in service to His control. "There can be neither Jew nor Greek, there can be neither bond nor free, there can be no male and female; for ye are all one man in Christ Jesus."—Gal. 3:28, A. R. V.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want."—Psalm 23:1.

Jesus is not the only one that was called a Shepherd. In our text it is the Lord, Jehovah, whom David calls his Shepherd. He it is that is the Great Shepherd. It is He who provides all. David could well say, "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want", for He well knew it was the Lord, Jehovah, through whom he was led in paths of righteousness, and by whom he was comforted.

We look to Jesus as our Shepherd. We are the sheep of His pasture. Since we are His sheep, we will follow Him, for He says, "My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me: and I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand."

The natural shepherd provides food and drink for his flock and protects them in every way. They do not lack for anything. Just so with the Good Shepherd! His sheep are just as carefully provided for or more so, than the natural sheep. He gave His life for the sheep, and so they will not want.—L. A. R.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

The plan of salvation is very plainly set forth in the parable of the sheepfold. The outstanding points of the parable and the lesson that follows are set forth in the following sentence sermons:

JESUS

- is the Door;
- is the only true Shepherd;
- is a good Shepherd;
- gave His life for the sheep;
- leads His sheep into bountiful pastures;
- protects His sheep from all enemies;
- names His sheep and is known by His voice.

Mankind is likened to sheep. This great flock of sheep has gone astray. The great Shepherd is seeking for them. He is calling. Those He has found have been named by Him. It was the custom of Eastern shepherds to name their sheep, and when the name of a sheep was called it would immediately come to the shepherd. Likewise, the great Shepherd names His sheep, and when He calls them by name they know His voice and come at His call. Another custom of the shepherds was to search the pasture fields and pull up the poisonous weeds before leading their sheep out to feed. How true this is of the true Shepherd! He never leads His sheep where they are going to get anything that will poison their minds or bodies, but always leads them into pasturage where they can feed upon that which will build them up spiritually, morally, and physically.

We can readily tell by asking ourselves a few questions whether we are sheep of His flock. Ponder well the following questions:

- Has He named me?
- Do I know His voice?
- Am I following Him wherever He leads?
- Am I deaf to the voice of strange shepherds?—C. E. R.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT

The shepherds of Israel are noted for their love and devotion to their flocks. The shepherd leads his sheep to the pastures, and then searches the grass for snakes, and the bushes for beasts of prey. When satisfied that no danger is near, he allows them to feed while he searches another pasture. At night he leads them to the sheepfold where they are safe. He then lies down in the doorway to sleep during the night. None can enter without his permission. His body becomes the door to the sheepfold. He must be destroyed or put out of the way before they can be harmed.

With this explanation we can see our need of Jesus, the good Shepherd. He gave His life for His sheep. He is now the Door of the sheepfold. No harm can come to us, unless Jesus is first destroyed. The Son of God cannot be destroyed any more; therefore we are safe if we will hear His voice. Note Paul's confidence: "For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."—Rom. 8:38-39.

Let us turn to our Shepherd, for He alone can give us life.—H. A. S.

PRIMARY CLASS

Have your class memorize and say for the school the whole of Psalm 23.

You have all seen sheep in our own country. Tell how the large flocks are cared for. In the far West hundreds of them are cared for by one man with his dogs. But these shepherds in our own country treat their sheep quite differently from the shepherds of Jesus' country. There the shepherd loves each sheep much as you love your own pet dog or cat. He has each one named and teaches them to come when he calls them by name. He will carry the tiny lamb for hours, if it grows too tired to follow the flock. And at night all the sheep are driven into a large fold. There is a high wall all around the fold, with only one door. The shepherd lies on the ground in front of this door all night. If any animal tries to come through the door to kill the sheep, it wakens the shepherd. And if a thief tries to call them the sheep will not follow, for they know it is not their shepherd's voice.

Jesus is just such a Shepherd to us. If we listen to His teachings, and go where He leads us, and do as He tells us, He will watch over us every day to keep us from sin and harm. Sometimes we forget to listen to His voice. Then what is likely to happen? Have the children draw a picture of a sheepfold and show where Jesus stays to watch.—G. M. M.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

AT WCMA

Bro. Jas. A. Patrick of Ashland, Ohio, will speak on Feb. 14, from station WCMA, Culver, Ind. (1400 kilocycles) from 6:30 to 7:30 a. m. Tune in and enjoy Bro. Patrick's message next Sunday morning.

GOOD MEETINGS AT WATERLOO, IOWA

From Jan. 24 to 31 believers in Waterloo and Cedar Falls, Iowa, enjoyed a season of special fellowship and communion together and with our Lord and Savior. He was brought very near to us by the spoken word, and by the spirit of prayer that was manifest in quiet, sincere seeking for guidance and strength, and in outflowing thanksgiving before each service. This spirit of prayer, and Jesus Himself as He came to us through quiet conviction and assurance of Bro. Williams' sermons, were the two outstanding features of the meetings. Perhaps as never before we felt the surety of our Savior's power and wisdom and unflinching love, and feeling this we were drawn to Him. May this nearness so cleanse our lives of selfishness, and self-will, and pride that His love and wisdom and righteousness shall shine through us, His living epistles, to others bringing them into the light and joy of His life. Bro. Williams' thorough and well-balanced knowledge of the Scriptures enabled him to speak to us words of exhortation and rebuke, hope and confidence, and righteousness, and we are grateful to our Father that He has reserved some of the world's students to the study of His Word. There are many such thus fulfilling the Father's purpose, and there is a wealth of unifying light in store for man through their mutual cooperation and helpfulness.

We are sure the services have made some points of contact with the community in which our new church building is located. Both Bro. Williams and Bro. Howe made personal calls at the nearby homes, and Bro. Hedrick, already a believer in Jesus as the Savior and in many doctrines we as a people teach, has expressed his desire to work with us in service to our Master. We welcome him, knowing that he can help us and we him into closer fellowship with Jesus. Bro. and Sr. Phillips were our chief missionaries, since they brought more friends and relatives to services than all the rest of us put together.

The first Sunday was Quarterly Conference, and on that day we enjoyed the fellowship of Sr. Esther Sealine and four of the young folks from Stanhope, and Bro. and Sr. Rhinehart from Gladbrook. The severity of the weather prevented a larger attendance from over the state.

So closed a week of praise, and worship, and mutual strengthening, and we are looking forward to another such season in the near future. Our share in spreading light and truth to dispel darkness and ignorance of God the Father may be small, but it is a gladsome service.

SPECIAL CONTRIBUTIONS

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Kirkpatrick	$25.00
E. T. Renner	25.00
Mrs. Belle Hartman	3.00
Leta and Arthur Johnson	1.00
A Friend in Vancouver	1.00
Leota B. Hanson	9.00
Elder G. A. Brown	50.00
Total	$114.00

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH

With the closing days of January winter came on, and the first week in February has been seasonable weather, which many believe will be more healthful than the mushy weather preceding. Quite a bit of mild sickness has been prevalent, and at this writing Grandma Watts, 1840 Union Blvd., S. E., is lying critically ill.

Quite a bit of interest is being aroused by the special numbers planned for the church services each Sunday. A different person is responsible for each Sunday to see that specials are provided for both morning and evening.

The church is working along quietly and earnestly, and a number of people who are not members are attending regularly.

F. E. Siple, pastor.

A BEAUTIFUL SERVICE AT ST. CLOUD

Sunday we will listen to a musical given by our adult choir, with Mrs. Roy Palmer, director, its theme, "Eventide". This is to be in honor of three birthdays that are close together, Bro. Thos. Savage, Sr.; Bro. Frank Noyes, and Bro. Chas. Thoms. These good men have spent their time and efforts for a number of years in this congregation in hard labor for God and His church. We love them and cherish them. Their silvery hair speaks a life of purity, and consecration to God. They have passed the three score years and ten, and we trust that God will spare them for a continued service for many years.

I note the financial difficulty you are having, and wish I could do something for our work at Oregon, but that doesn't pay the bills. Let us look to God in prayer; perhaps He will show the way.

I was thinking perhaps if a contest for more subscriptions could be had it might help. Why not do this: each state be a group and each group endeavor to double its subscription list to The Herald between now and General Conference. At that time reward the winning state or group for showing the largest percentage of subscriptions, or return to the state a certain percentage of cash subscriptions as a premium. I know it is hard to sell these days. But why give up because of difficulties? Let us work harder, and it can be done. Suppose a business concern would say, "Oh! what's the use?" Instead they demand results from their men; therefore they put it over. Perhaps we preachers are preaching too many hard time sermons, and not enough of the kind that will leave the hearers a happiness that will carry them along. True enough, we are living in strenuous times, but I believe that many are thinking of their own selfish needs too much, and not enough of a sacrificial life. May God help us not to hoard up the wealth of this old world, for we are sure to lose our own souls through our fleshly desires.

I trust that we can, as a people in St. Cloud, do more than we have, and that those of other congregations will do their very best is our prayer.

On Feb. 12th, the Day of Prayer, the churches of this city will meet with us for an all-day service. The ladies will serve a hot lunch at noon. Service will begin at 9:45 a. m. You are invited.

Adna E. Hoskins,

NEW EFFORT AND INTEREST AT RENSSELAER

Bro. J. H. Anderson began a series of meetings at Rensselaer, Indiana, on Sunday Jan. 10, and continued over a period of three weeks, closing on Sunday evening, Jan. 31.

The attendance and interest were good during the entire meeting. Bro. Anderson gave us wonderful sermons, and the audience listened eagerly for every word spoken. As a result seven people were added to the church, namely, Mr. and Mrs. Korah Eldridge, Mrs. Mae Magnus, Howard L. Parks, Oka Jane Halstead, all of Rensselaer, and Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn Newton of Bloomington, Indiana.

The church at Rensselaer was made sad by the loss of Sisters Harris and Prior, and we gladly welcome the brothers and sisters who are just enlisting in the Master's work.

A Sunday school was organized and opened for work on Sunday, January 31, with an attendance of thirty-six; also a class of splendid young people was organized for Sunday evening study. We ask an interest in your prayers that the Master may bless the work at Rensselaer.

Mattie Scott.

REPORT FOR JANUARY

Sermons: Pleasant View, 2; Culver, 2; Plymouth, 1; North Salem, 1; Rensselaer, 22. Money received: Pleasant View, $20.00; Plymouth, $15.00; North Salem, $6.00; Rensselaer, $65.00.

Expense: $11.00.

Due from Conference Board for December, $3.18; for January, $5.00.

Baptisms: 6.

Note: We have just closed one of the most successful meetings we ever held. For the past three weeks the members of the Rensselaer church have been working for the success of the meeting. As a result six were baptized and a Sunday school was organized, with 33 present the first Sunday and 36 on the second Sunday.

My tract, "The Great Sabbath, or What Will Jesus Do When He Comes and Restitution Begins", may be ordered of J. H. Stepp, Dana, North Carolina, or myself.

J. H. Anderson,

Michigantown, Indiana.

CONTRIBUTORS TO DOLLAR-A-MONTH CLUB

Mrs. W. H. Eidemiller; Silas M. Claypool; Mrs. C. H. Bassett; Norman J. McLeod; C. E. Randall; Leland and Mary Hanson; Hilda Fetters; Ruth M. Bauserman; Vivian Magaw; W. A. Reid; Frances Wynne; Forrest Long; H. J. Stadden; H. W. Stadden; Ethel Stadden; Alice Lindstrom; Leota B. Hanson; Mrs. Arra Hanson; Florence Hanson; Conrad Dickel; Golden Rule Berean Society; Intermediate Class of Golden Rule S. S.; J. W. Lent; Harvey Krogh, Sr.; Mrs. Julia Ordnung and Elizabeth; Mrs. Ray Maysilles; Eva H. M. Fletcher; Helen M. Chisholm; Ida Vogel; Dorothy Magaw; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Williams; Mrs. Ida Jeffrey; W. E. Boyer; Jessie M. Wilson; Elsie M. Moore; Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Savage, Sr.; Wm. Bowers; Sadie Savage,

JULIA ANN BARBER

BETWEEN YOU AND ME—

Do not fail to notice the pamphlets which we have listed on back page of this issue. These are low in cost and will prove to be a great aid to the Bible student.

Do not overlook "Exhibit", found opposite the Berean page in this issue. And we enlist the earnest cooperation of all, churches, Sunday schools, and individuals, in this worth while effort which is being put forth by Sr. F. L. Austin and her committee.

By invitation at the Pine Creek Christian church near Oregon, on the evening of Feb. 5, members of the N. B. I. Training School, ably assisted by Sr. Marsh at the piano, gave a musical program which was very well received. Bro. Marsh gave an address on, "The Home Beautiful", which also was much appreciated by those in attendance. Solos, duets, quartet and sextet numbers, as well as a cornet solo and duet comprised the program. This was sponsored by a Sunday school class of this church.

Members of Golden Rule Home who have been ill are a little improved at this writing. Colds are prevalent there as elsewhere, but you will be glad to learn that Aunt Mary Renner, who has been quite ill, is a trifle better; Sr. Crysler rests more easily than she did; Sr. Woodward's smile did not suffer in the least by her accident, and she moves about in her room by the aid of crutches. Bro. Marsh held communion service for them on Sunday afternoon. We are looking forward to the time when these dear ones will be able once more to attend services at church. Bro. Brown, the oldest of Golden Rule Home family, was the only one able to attend last Sunday.

"Importance of Bible Study" found in this issue, is the substance of a sermon which Sr. Dorothy Krogh very ably delivered before the Training School at one of their regular Friday sermon sessions.

Read again the poem entitled, "He Leads Us On", by Sr. Alice B. Curtis. Isn't it beautiful and doesn't it express some of the inmost thoughts of our hearts, which most of us are unable to put into words? Certainly our own poet, Sr. Curtis, ranks with many of the recognized poets of today.

Our hearts are rejoiced to note increased interest at many of our churches over the country. In the several reports in this issue and in those of recent date, we read between the lines, and we see that the hearts of our people are being drawn closer to our heavenly Father, and they are reaching out to bring His truth before those out in darkness during these troublous days. May all efforts be put forth not for the praise of men, but for the glory of God.

Bro. Adna E. Hoskins has been sending us a copy of his weekly church bulletin, which is an interesting sheet and improves with each issue. We note that his sermon topics for Sunday, Jan. 31, were "God's Plan Through the Jew" and "The Seed of the Woman". So we see that Bro. Hoskins is endeavoring to instruct his hearers in the truth in God's Book placed there for just such times as these. Notice in the St. Cloud report Bro. Hoskins' suggestion for enlarging our Herald family. What do you think of his plan? We will be glad to hear from you.

Julia Ann Barber, oldest daughter of J. W. and Catherine Barber, was born in McLean County, Illinois, on October 6, 1849. She died at the McPherson hospital, Thursday, October 22, 1931.

At the age of six years she moved with her parents to Harrison County, Missouri, where she spent her young womanhood. She proved a great help to her mother while her father and a brother Charles served in the Civil War. Three years after her mother's death in 1874, the family moved to McPherson County, Kansas. After the death of her father in 1905, she made her home with her brothers and sisters, returning to the east three years ago from Oregon.

At the age of twenty years she joined the Christian Church of Eagleville, Mo. Later she was baptized and united with the Church of God of the Abrahamic Faith.

She leaves to mourn her departure one brother, Bro. John G. Barber of Harper, Kansas, and five sisters, Mrs. J. I. Shirley of Enid, Oklahoma; Sr. Sarah E. Smith of Portland, Oregon; Mrs. Mary C. Joseph, of Salina, Kansas; Sr. Rachel M. Burton and Sr. Clara M. Hunt of Conway, Kansas. Four brothers and one sister who preceded her in death are: Charles, Lewis, William, James, and Ada W., the two latter dying in infancy.

She had been a great sufferer the past year, but she bore her suffering with patience and Christian fortitude. The kind care of the doctors and nurses was of no avail. The enemy has triumphed, death has gained the victory, but Paul has said, "The dead shall be raised incorruptible," and then the saying shall be brought to pass, "O death where is thy sting? O grave where is thy victory."

Funeral services were held in the Methodist Church at Conway, Kansas, on October 24th, Rev. J. H. Anderson of the Christian Church at McPherson in charge. Interment was made at Wheatland Cemetery.

—From "The Bethany Republican".

TRACTS AND BOOKS

TRACTS

Name	Pages	Dozen	100
The Reasons Why	2	$0.05	$0.30
Essential Truths	1	.05	.30
God's Promises, by Anna E. Drew	2	.05	.30
The Resurrection, by S. J. Lindsay	2	.05	.30
Obedience	2	.05	.30
The Baptist Confession of Faith	2	.05	.30
Who Owns the Wool?	4	.05	.30
The Coming of Christ, S. J. Lindsay	2	.05	.30
What Is a Christian, J. W. Williams	4	.10	.60
Where Do We Go When We Die?	4	.10	.60
Immortality of the Human Soul	4	.10	.60
Shall Never Die	4	.10	.60
The Voice of Prophecy	4	.10	.60
Immortality	4	.10	.60
Did Christ Pre-exist? R. H. Judd	4	.10	.60
The Thief on the Cross, F. E. Siple	4	.10	.60
What Do the Scriptures Teach? Judd	6	.15	.90
What Must I Do to Be Saved?	4	.10	.60
Hell, What Is It	8	.20	1.25
The Coming of Christ, R. A. Curtis	6	.20	1.25
The Rich Man and Lazarus, F. E. Siple	8	.20	1.25
A Few Thoughts	8	.20	1.25
Baptism, S. J. Lindsay	8	.20	1.50

Name	Pages	Each	Dozen	100
God, R. H. Judd	16	.04	.30	1.75
The First Resurrection, Wm. Leask	20	.05	.40	3.00
A Letter to a Friend	32	.10	1.00	8.00
Where Are the Dead?	36	.05	.50	4.00

Name

Pages Each Dozen

The Resurrection, J. L. Wince (For cost of Postage)	32	.03	.12
--	----	-----	-----

BOOKS

Name

Pages Each Per 6

Death Reigned from Adam to Moses, paper cover	58	$0.10
Sin, A. H. Zilmer, paper covers	84	.25
Destiny of Russia and Signs of the Times, W. H. Wilson, board cloth	96	.25	$1.25
Book of Revelation Made Easy to Understand, W. H. Wilson, board cloth	96	.25	1.25
Ancient Mysteries, George Johnston	116	.50
Christ in the Old Testament, R. H. Judd, paper	88	.40
The Way of Life Eternal, Lyman Booth, paper	88	.40
Student's Text Book, Wilson, board cloth	200	.45	2.60
The Visitor, Boice, paper	212	.50
The Mystery of Iniquity, Booth, paper	220	.75
Pine Woods Bible Class, Wilson, board cloth, Emphatic Diaglott, Benjamin Wilson Neatly bound, and in clear type,	480	.85	5.00
			2.50

THE GOSPEL IN SONG

A Book of 287 well-printed Gospel Hymns

	Each	Per 10	Per 100
	Postpaid	Postpaid	Not Postpaid
Manila	$0.40	$3.60	$30.00
Flexible Cloth	.45	4.00	33.00
Board Cloth	.50	4.50	40.00

THE HOPE OF THE GOSPEL

Continued from page 291

midst of thee, of thy brethren. like unto me; unto him shall ye hearken".—Deut. 18:15, 18, 19. Did Job? See Job 14:1-15; Job 19:23-27. Now read Acts 2:25-28, and see how David felt about it; also Acts 3:19-25.

"And these all having obtained a good report through faith, received not the promise; God having provided some better thing for us, that they without us should not be made perfect."—Hebrews 11:39, 40. So then only Jesus so far has received the promise of "better resurrection" (1 Cor. 15:20), God having provided the better thing that at His coming we shall all be perfected together.

What is the hope set forth in the gospel? Brethren, I cannot find anywhere in the Scriptures that it is in going to heaven. In many places, though, I find that the conditions to be established upon this earth through the gospel will be heavenly. You know Jesus taught us to pray, "Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven." When that time comes, then conditions here upon earth will be the same as they are in heaven.

Let us remember always that "thus saith the Lord, The heaven is my throne, and the earth is my footstool",—Isa. 66:1, "and I will make the place of my feet glorious."—Isa. 60:13. No need for the children of men to go to heaven! God will make this earth glorious and a fit abode for those we read of in Revelation 5:9, 10, "And they sung a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof; for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation; and hast made us unto our God kings and priests: and we shall reign on the earth."

In conclusion, the words of the Psalmist in Psalm 115:16, are impressed upon my mind very forcibly: "The heaven, even the heavens, are the Lord's: but the earth hath he given to the children of men".

"Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth."—Matt. 5:5. "For the promise, that he should be the heir of the world, was not to Abraham, or to his seed, through the law, but through the righteousness of faith."

FIRST PRINCIPLES—

The following works on the great essentials of salvation are recommended for general distribution.

THE WAY OF ETERNAL LIFE

BY LYMAN BOOTH

About one hundred pages of vital Bible truths! "We have known the author for many years. In all his writings he is sound in doctrine and thorough in his exposition of the Scriptures . . . We commend it to those who are Bible students because it will serve them as a compendium of facts in connection with the gospel, and to those who have not so great an acquaintance with the Scriptures because it contains in terse form that which it is necessary for them to understand to place them in the way of life eternal."—S. J. Lindsay.

Price, postpaid . . . . 40 cents.

A LETTER TO A FRIEND on the Covenants of Promise—

BY MRS. C. C. WOODRUFF

A thirty-page booklet that has passed through repeated editions and is still in great demand. This little work is written in a free and intimate manner, as a plain and simple letter from one friend to another. It is sound in doctrine and attractive in style.

Sent postpaid for ten cents each or one dollar per dozen.

Make money orders payable to

NATIONAL BIBLE INSTITUTION

Oregon, Illinois

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, FEBRUARY 16, 1932

NUMBER 20

OCCUPY TILL I COME

By Sarah Manuwal

"He said therefore, a certain nobleman went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom, and to return. And he called his ten servants and delivered them ten pounds, and said unto them, Occupy till I come."

OUR LORD "added and spake a parable, because they were nigh to Jerusalem and because they thought that the kingdom of God should immediately appear." Christ's disciples had gathered from their Master's sayings that something remarkable was about to happen. They had a strong impression that one great purpose of His coming into the world was about to be accomplished—that the Old Testament prophecies of Messiah's kingdom and glory were about to be fulfilled.

It seems that they had concluded that then was the day and hour when the Redeemer would build up Zion and appear in His glory, when He would assemble the outcasts of Israel and gather the dispersed of Judah, when He would take the heathen for His inheritance and the uttermost parts of the earth for His possession, when He would reign in Mount Zion and in Jerusalem and before His ancients gloriously, when the kingdom and dominion and greatness of His kingdom under the whole heaven would be given to the saints of the Most High.

They did not realize that before the prophecies could be fulfilled Christ must suffer. They did not perceive that the sacrifices and ceremonies of the law of Moses were to receive their fulfillment in a better Sacrifice and a better High Priest and a shedding of blood more precious than that of bulls and goats.

They failed to comprehend that before the glory Christ must be crucified and an elect people gathered out from among the Gentiles by the preaching of the gospel. This was dark to them. They had in mind the crown and glory, but not the cross and shame. Such was their mistake.

Beware lest we fall in error parallel to our Jewish brethren and less excusable, because we have had more light than they. Beware lest we interpret the first advent literal and the second advent spiritual. I believe that we do not all understand "all that the prophets have spoken" about the second personal advent of our Lord, any more than the Jews did about the first. Let us beware how we use our pound.

It is time for Christians to interpret unfulfilled prophecy by the light of prophecies already fulfilled. The curses on the Jews were brought to pass literally; so will be the blessing. The rejection of Israel was literal; so will be the restoration. The first advent was literal, visible, personal; so will be the second. At His first advent the least prediction was fulfilled to the very letter; so also will be His second. The shame was literal, and visible; so will be the glory.

PRESENT POSITION OF OUR LORD

The parable in Luke 19, answers that question in the twelfth verse. "A certain nobleman went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom, and to return."

Like the nobleman, our Lord has gone into a far country to receive for Himself a kingdom. He has not yet received it in actual possession, though He has in promise. He has spiritual power and is King over the hearts of His believing people, who are His faithful subjects.

He is King of kings and Lord of lords, but His real, literal, visible, complete kingdom He has not yet received. For we see not yet "all things put under him". He sits on the right hand of the Father till His enemies are made His footstool.

The vast majority of the inhabitants of the earth choose worldly pleasures more than the things that please God. So fearfully true is it that the world is not yet the kingdom of Christ. The Lord Jesus during the present dispensation is like David between the time of his anointing and Saul's

Continued on page 314

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.
G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

"When the righteous are in authority, the people rejoice: but when the wicked beareth rule, the people mourn."—Proverbs 29:2.

A Prayer of George Washington

ETERNAL and everlasting God, I present myself this morning before Thy Divine Majesty, beseeching Thee to accept of my humble and hearty thanks, that it hath pleased Thy great goodness to keep and preserve me the night past. Direct my thoughts, words, and work; teach me how to live in Thy fear, labor in Thy service, and ever to run in the ways of Thy commandments. Preserve and bless our rulers in church and state. Bless the people of this land; be a father to the fatherless, a comforter to the comfortless, a deliverer to the captives, and a physician to the sick. Let Thy blessing be upon our friends, kindred, and families. Be our guide this day and forever; for Jesus Christ's sake. Amen.—From the manuscript, Prayers of George Washington.

The Prayer of the Patriot

WHEN considered in the light of Inspiration, patriotism assumes a meaning that is both profound and sacred. Interest in the welfare of our country becomes a matter of Christian obligation and of deep spiritual devotion.

Among the admonitions of Paul none are more emphatic than those which have to do with the Christian's attitude toward the government affording him freedom of worship.

"I exhort therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men; for kings, and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty."—1 Timothy 2:1, 2.

It is not only expedient, but a Christian duty, for the disciples of the Lord to carry the needs of the nation to the throne of grace in prayer. This was a regular practice of our first president. It is said of him that he never entered in any pursuit of serious import without first calling upon God for guidance.

The Scriptures clearly teach that in the fulness of time the kingdoms of this world shall become the kingdom of our Lord and of His Christ; but until that day shall dawn the faithful follower of Jesus Christ will continue to invoke God's blessing upon his nation, and upon its rulers, "for this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Saviour."

George Washington

MEN of almost every race and nation, political party and religious faith, unite in this, the second centenary of his birth, in acclaiming the name of the revered first president of the United States, George Washington.

Happy indeed is the people who can focus the light of world attention without fear upon the leading figures of their national history! To no people does such an opportunity come frequently, for there are but few men whose biographies are recorded in the annals of nations, whose lives will bear the revealing glare of public scrutiny. But Washington was such a man.

On the occasion of his death, which occurred March 4, 1797, John Marshall, then a member of Congress from Virginia, introduced a resolution in the House calling for an adjournment of that body in honor of him who "was first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen." The exalted position there ascribed to Washington has remained his crowning glory unto the present day.

The deeply religious character, manifested in so many ways by our first president, was not a mere form of words, not a pious gesture designed to appeal to the religious sensibilities of the people. It was a part of his innermost nature.

In the conclusion of his first inaugural address, delivered on April 30, 1789, the president said: "Having thus imparted to you my sentiments as they have been awakened by the occasion which brings us together, I shall take my present leave; but not without resorting once more to the benign Parent of the Human Race in humble supplication that, since He has been pleased to favor the American people with opportunities for deliberating in perfect tranquillity, and dispositions for deciding with unparalleled unanimity on a form of government for the security of their union and the advancement of their happiness, so His divine blessing may be equally conspicuous in the enlarged views, the temperate consultations, and the wise measures on which the success of this Government must depend."

Throughout his life he recognized and acknowledged the supreme authority of God over all men and over all nations. His respect for the Bible was unbounded. He accepted it as the veritable Word of the Almighty. Speaking of its value to humanity he said: "Above all, the pure and benign light of Revelation has had a meliorating influence on mankind, and increased the blessings of society."

THE CHURCH

By H. A. Sheets

INDIFFERENCE has caused us partially to turn our attention away from the world's most important organization. Few have studied about the church sufficiently to realize its importance. Long familiarity has caused this indifference. We accept the church as a heritage without seriously questioning its origin, purpose, or name.

In general the term church, means merely an assembly. We find the word so translated in Acts 19:32, 39, 41. In these three instances the church is not referred to. Stephen speaks of the encampment of Israel as "the church in the wilderness". (Acts 7:38.) In a specific sense the term, church, refers only to the body of baptized followers of Jesus Christ. With this understanding we approach the study of the church.

When we were convinced of our sins we repented and joined the church. That was easy. But we become members of the church only when we are selected by God. It is essential that we recognize this point. There are doubtless many whose names are on church records who were not called by God, and who, therefore are not members of the true church. This is evident from Matthew 7:21-23: "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven. Many will say unto me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works? And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity."

That God makes the final selection is evident from the following scriptures: "For the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call. And the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved". Acts 2:39, 47.

"Simeon hath declared how God at the first did visit the Gentiles to take out of them a people for his name".—Acts 15:14. "God is faithful, by whom ye were called unto the fellowship of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord."—1 Corinthians 1:9. "As the Lord hath called every one, so let him walk." 1 Corinthians 7:17.

God not only calls out those that He desires for His church but He places them in the church as it pleases Him. "But now hath God set the members every one of them in the body as it hath pleased him." 1 Corinthians 12:18. Jesus recognized the supreme authority of God in the matter of placement. James and John came with their mother and requested the privilege of sitting "one on thy right hand, and the other on thy left hand, in thy glory". (Mark 10:37.) Jesus' answer is well known: "To sit on my right hand, and on my left, is not mine to give, but it shall be given to them for whom it is prepared of my Father". Matthew 20:25. In John 14:2, we read: "In my Father's house are many mansions". It should be noticed that it is the Father's house (household).

When the Lord added to the church daily, to what church did He add? This question becomes more important when we stop to consider that today there are several hundred Protestant churches alone. The Scriptures state that He added to the church but that doesn't identify by name. The Scriptures give us the name: "Take heed therefore unto yourselves, and to all the flock, over the which the Holy Ghost hath made you overseers, to feed the church of God, which he hath purchased with his own blood".—Acts 20:28.

"Unto the church of God which is at Corinth".—1 Corinthians 1:2. "Give none offence, neither to the Jews, nor to the Gentiles, nor to the church of God."—1 Corinthians 10:32. "But if any man seem to be contentious, we have no such custom, neither the churches of God. Or despise ye the church of God?"—1 Corinthians 11:16, 22. "For I am the least of the apostles, that am not meet to be called an apostle, because I persecuted the church of God."—1 Corinthians 15:9. "Unto the church of God which is at Corinth".—2 Corinthians 1:1. "Beyond measure I persecuted the church of God, and wasted it".—Gal. 1:13. "For ye, brethren, became followers of the church of God".—1 Thess. 2:14." So that we ourselves glory in you in the church of God."—2 Thess. 1:4. "For if a man know not how to rule his own house, how shall he take care of the church of God? But if I tarry long, that thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself in the house of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth".—1 Tim. 3:5, 15.

In the twelve scriptures that have just been given we find that the church is given the name of the church of God. It is the only name that has been given to the church. If God is visiting the Gentiles to take out a people for His name (see Acts 15:14), should not we expect Him to give them His name? Can we claim to be Gentiles thus called if we refuse to take His name? Think on these things.

The churches are referred to in Romans 16:16, as "the churches of Christ". We find a very similar statement in Gal. 1:22, "the churches of Judea which were in Christ." We do not believe that the churches of Christ is a title, but more of a reference to the author of their faith. This would seem more evident from 2 Thess. 1:1: "The church of the Thessalonians in God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ." (See also 1 Thess. 1:1.)

The church is referred to as "churches of Galatia" (1 Cor. 16:1), "churches of Asia" (1 Cor. 16:19), "churches of the saints" (1 Cor. 14:33). It is evident that these are not names or titles of the church. There is but one name given and that is the church of God.

We find churches today that are named after men, methods of living, principles, ideas, etc. One says he is a member of this church, another a member of that church, and another a member of still a different one. This condition reminds us of the words of Paul: "For ye are yet

Continued on page 311

A PRAYER

Take my impatient, anxious spirit, Lord,
And bathe it in Thy seas of lasting calm,
And let its turbulence flow softly by,
As ebb and surge in waves of olden psalm.

Unravel, Lord, with loving touch and sure,
My heartstrings, tangled over many things;
Draw out the snarls and make a shining lute,
That thrills to angel note and waking sings.

O teach me how to build these shafts of pain
And sharp-barbed cares, into a trellis grown
With rose, and carpeted with white heart's-ease,
Where sorrowing souls may rest till grief has flown.
—Shirley Henderson

“Wait not to be backed by numbers. Wait not till you are sure of an echo from a crowd. The fewer the voices on the side of truth the more distinct and strong must be your own.”—Emerson.

IS SUDDEN DESTRUCTION COMING SOON?

By Mrs. H. H. Kent

“While they are saying, ‘Peace and safety’, then in a moment destruction falls upon them”.—1 Thess. 5:3 (Weymouth).

WE are in the midst of the greatest cataclysm that the world has ever known, outside of the flood of the Noachian period. There is trouble everywhere, for which there seems to be no solution. Will this trouble rock and shake the foundations of our present systems and prove to be the means that will lead to the destruction of all that which has not a foundation upon the Word of God? It looks as if it will, for the world is engaged in one of the most gigantic economic, political, social, and religious upheavals ever known. And it is those who have placed their faith in the present order of things who are on the anxious seat and who will go down when the crash comes.

In the midst of the greatest cries for peace that have ever been known, we are faced by what seems to be another world war. Peace conferences, peace treaties, and the efforts of the many organizations to keep peace which they have been stressing for some time, have not maintained peace. Those who are familiar with their Bibles know that peace can never be permanent except through the intervention of Divine Power. How could the kingdom come without the coming of the King? How can man who has made all this trouble bring peace? For mankind is to blame for our present conditions of distress, privation, and suffering. In fact, men are beginning to see it themselves quite plainly now, for they seem to be agreed that it must either be peace or chaos. The Bible says, “They (the nations) are saying peace when there is no peace.”

We are glad that nothing is hidden from God's eyes. He has seen the structure that would be built in human strength from the beginning, and the writers of the Bible who were inspired called it Babylon. There are three Babylons mentioned in the Bible, and the fate of the last one which is very near, is indeed bad. The Lord through Jeremiah says, “Spare no arrows”, but shoot at Babylon. Read Jeremiah 50:14. Its structure, which has been so magnificent to human eyes, is an abomination to God, and He has commanded all Christians to come out of Babylon, for its sandy foundation is to be completely destroyed. Revelation 18:4; 2 Corinthians 6:17. God is calling His children unto Himself and has long been doing so.

Our leaders, the greater men of Babylon, have forgotten God and they have, consequently, neglected their responsibility and duty to man. For most of them have feathered their own nests, and their extreme selfishness has led to great corruption in all worldly dealings.

This week news comes over the radio from Geneva, Switzerland, where they are holding a Disarmament Conference. The great need of peace is being discussed, and it has been announced that they have experts on peace from all over the world. They are sure that they can stop the trouble in China from being a world catastrophe, for they have representatives from about sixty nations who are interested. No war has been declared, but the greater nations are on the scene with all readiness, which they are trying to use as the “big stick” to keep peace; while at the conference arbitration is being used, and all the world is watching with great interest as they proceed.

God has been long-suffering these many years, which has meant salvation to many. He has watched over His own, chastening them and preparing those who permit Him, for His coming; while the rich and mighty of this earth have been permitted to carry out their own plans and desires without the guidance of God. They have been duped by Satan and have worshiped mammon instead of God. As a consequence, man has deceived himself into believing that to have and to hold is to be blessed. But the Bible tells us to withdraw from those who think that gain is godliness. Read 1 Tim. 6:15.

It looks as if the time is here when the long-suffering of God will be changed to wrath, which will be revealed from heaven upon all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men. (Rom. 1:18.) God is angry with those who have forgotten Him and in His justice, He could not let them go on corrupting the world as they have been doing, for we believe it is time for the kingdom to be established upon earth.

For some time, big business, big politics, and big religion have had about everything their own way. Perhaps the latter has just recently begun to show its earmarks, but the former have long been with us. Huge corporations and

Continued on back page

IDLE WORDS

By Arlen Marsh

"But when ye pray, use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do; for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking."—Matt. 6:7.

BY these memorable words in the sermon on the mount, the apostles were introduced to Christian prayer. Following His exhortation to secret and unassuming communion with God, the Messiah adjured His disciples to avoid the senseless tautology of the pagan. He pursued the thought further: "Be not ye therefore like unto them: for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him."—Matt. 6:8. Frequent reiteration of a single plea to Jehovah, the Christ declared to be useless, for He knew that the infinite wisdom of the Deity could foresee and comprehend man's problems long before man himself came to a realization of them. This fact is as true today as in A. D. 33: God does not change; He is immutable, "the same yesterday to day, and for ever."

Despite the command thus issued by its Founder, the church has used as an established ritual for nearly two thousand years the prayer taught by Jesus to the Twelve. Every Christian denomination in the world has employed the petition that has become known as the Lord's Prayer, which forms the only common ground upon which Catholic and Protestant, Jew and Gentile can meet. In fact, these words of the Messiah, many of them having been taken verbatim from an old Hebrew formula, have been so generally and so consistently employed that they have come to be in many instances the very thing against which the Savior warned. Although, as one eminent ecclesiastic recently declared, this is the only perfect prayer, nevertheless its constant repetition has caused a loss of meaning in its terms for many people: it has degenerated into another convenient form.

The prayer given the followers of the Christ by their great Teacher indicates clearly the relationship between God and man. It is not addressed to "My Father," but to "Our Father," and this form of salutation predicates a personal Deity who created us and our environment. Such an opening recognizes the interest of Jehovah in His children as represented in mankind; it acknowledges the parental authority of the Supreme Being; it establishes the succeeding paragraphs as the conversation of a son with his own Father, whom the son is honoring and revering by the expression, "Hallowed be thy name."

The second clause of the petition constitutes one of the oldest supplications in the world, a supplication that antedates all the other parts of the prayer. Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and all the other early fathers of Israel, sent up a plea for the establishment of the kingdom of God on earth. The woes of the world, brought upon it by man's sin, had created so great a desire for the setting up of the promised throne that by the time of the Christ, "Thy kingdom come," had become a fixed part of the Hebrew ritual. Jesus borrowed the term directly from an ancient prayer of Israel. "Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven," expresses precisely the same thought with an immediate application to passing events. God's will should be the satisfactory answer of every Christian's prayer.

Matthew 6:11 acknowledges man's dependence upon his Deity. Regardless of human discoveries and inventions, regardless of the superiority of the human mind over the brute mind, man is unable to exist without the action of Jehovah's laws. Everything we have comes from God; our very life and the things required to maintain it are derived from God. The tithes paid by the Israelites and by many followers of the Messiah are not gifts—they are debts, which belong, as does all the material we have, to the Lord. To God we can give nothing.

Verses 12 and 13 of Matthew 6 form an earnest plea for the remission of sins. Without the help of Jehovah, we can do nothing, least of all evade the multitude of temptations that stand in the way of every one. But this is not merely a request that the penalty for the breaking of God's law be removed; it is also a petition for guidance, in order that we may overcome the trials confronting us, in order that we may judge between good and evil, in order that we may have the strength to pursue the paths of righteousness. Beyond this, too, it is a statement that we forgive those who sin against us—and this is undoubtedly the clause that is least considered and least meant of all the parts of this wonderful prayer. Too often as we repeat these words do we forget the fact that, "if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses."—Matt. 6:15.

The last verse of the supplication contains recognition that God is, that He rules, and that His is the glory for every accomplishment. Even as these words are automatically conceived, many Christians are thinking of the honor they have won by their work in school or in business. Like Nebuchadnezzar, and with less reason, they proclaim themselves the rightful possessors of the honor and the creators of the works about them. The penalty is as great as that inflicted upon the Babylonian monarch, although it is postponed. This brief conclusion should, above all other sections of the prayer, be taken at its full value.

Repetition for the sake of repetition is useless. An empty form receives an empty answer. Only when it is truly meant, when it is inspired by actual devotion, should the Lord's Prayer be employed. It is all too easy to think of something else—the new neighbor, the new hat a friend has, the Japanese question—during the mechanical repeating of the words. The vain reiterations of the heathen should be avoided as the plague. Lightfoot's declaration that it is greater sin to offer an unmeant prayer than not to pray at all is undoubtedly true. Hypocrisy was ever condemned by the Messiah.

—o—

"To THE distinguished character of patriot, it should be our highest glory to add the more distinguished character of Christian."—Washington.

OUR BLESSED HOPE

By M. A. Woodward

WHAT is it, beloved? You have it; do you ever tell others what it is? Do you realize its blessedness enough to tell others what it means to you? Do you love it well enough to speak of it when you call on that sick neighbor? Do you leave that house with a feeling of joy that you have left comfort behind you? something to give them consolation in the thought of a soon coming Christ who will relieve them of all pain or heartache, and give eternal life with all its joys in place of present conditions.

We often hear it said, "Live right and you will be right." But we cannot live right unless we live with God's Word blossoming out in our lives. And the "blessed hope" is the sure remedy for living right. Right living means more than living at peace with our neighbors or attending church regularly. We all have a personal standard of what it might mean to live right; but God's standard is, "Love the Lord thy God with all thy heart." If we do that we cannot help but live with the "blessed hope" ever present in our thoughts and our lives. Then we will tell it to others, and they will rejoice in sickness or health, consecrating their lives to Him who gave us His dear Son to show us the path of life and help us to walk therein.

When we realize how few people out of the masses know of this hope, we should be very anxious to tell them, for Paul says that it is the anchor of the soul, and if we do not have the anchor to guide us we are lost and have no hope of a safe journey. How brave Paul was; he knew his message to the church was a very sacred thing and must be told, though he would be persecuted when the people heard it. "But I am not ashamed of the glad tidings; because they are the power of God for salvation to every one believing." (Diag.) He was talking where the enemies of the cross of Christ would hear and be angry with him when they heard him acknowledge his belief in this Christ; but he also knew that, "the wrath of God is revealed from heaven in regard to all impiety and injustice of those men who through injustice suppress the truth." (Diag.)

Men are suppressing God's truth yet, and teaching the old pagan doctrine of the immortality of the soul, when God has so plainly told us in 1 Timothy 6:15, 16, that the King of kings and Lord of lords is the only one possessing immortality. (Diag.) If He is the only one possessing that inestimable gift, how can we poor mortals ever receive it only at His hands and in His own good time at the resurrection? O how the world is deceiving itself by listening to the fables of men!

Paul dared to openly defend the gospel of Christ—the good spell, good news, God's gospel given to Christ to save men. What better news could we have had come to us or any weary traveler of earth, to any anxious learner of truth, than the blessed hope of Christ's soon return? This is indeed the "blessed hope" to all God's true loyal workers in His vineyard.

Sometimes we have to see things before we can believe. Jesus found this to be the case. While He was teaching in a certain place, having wonderful success, many believing on Him, this word came, "Lord, behold he whom thou lovest is sick." We would have expected Him to go with all haste to the sick one, but he tarried two days.

Then He said, "Let us go into Judea again." What could He mean? go back where they had tried to stone Him, do every mean thing they could to trap Him, and now going back! What could be His object? His object was to teach you and all mankind a wonderful lesson.

They had not reached the end of the journey when Martha met them on the way, and in much sorrow she said, "Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died."

Jesus gave her the only comfort she or anyone can have at such a time, "Thy brother shall rise again."

She answered, "I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection at the last day."

But Jesus assured her, "I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live," and they walked on until they reached the grave.

Mary had reached the sad place with her Jewish attendants, and she stood weeping. As Jesus met her, He groaned in spirit and was troubled; tears fell from His eyes, as He approached the grave. Why did He groan in spirit? Why did He weep? Was it not because He realized their unbelief? They knew their Deliverer was nigh, but they could not believe He could raise their brother when he had been dead four days. They had to see before they could believe.

Jesus said, "Take away the stone." And Martha still doubting began to caution Him. Hush, Martha, and listen. "Said I not unto thee, that, if thou wouldest believe, thou shouldest see the glory of God? She had to listen now, for He was praying. "Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me. And I knew that thou hearest me always: but because of the people which stand by I said it, that they may believe that thou hast sent me." And when He had finished praying, He cried with a loud voice, "Lazarus come forth." And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with graveclothes and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus said, "Loose him, and let him go."

They had seen and believed. Where did Jesus call that brother from, heaven, or the grave? Lazarus was where your beloved dead and mine are—in the grave waiting the Master's call. Are you still doubting? He that doubteth is damned, for whatsoever is not of faith is sin. If you still doubt God and His truth, read John 11:1-45.

What mattered the length of time the lad had slept, four days or four centuries? God's power is just the same. Why doubt such a God? It only took three words to make that household a happy one, "Lazarus come forth," and he stood before them alive and went home with them, for Jesus ate supper with them a little later. O how I wish the story had been just a little longer! I would love to hear their conversation on their way home. They must have wept for joy all the way, for he was their all. It meant so much to them to have the Master there that day.

Six days before the Passover He was there again at another supper and Lazarus was one that sat at the table with Him, and while there Mary took the box of oil of spikenard, very costly, and poured it on the feet of the Christ, wiping His feet with her hair. She was so grateful to the Christ for all He had done for them that she could show her gratitude in no better way. Judas reproved her for waste; but Jesus said, "Let her alone: against the day of my burying hath she kept this." What a beautiful illustration we have here of the hope of the resurrection! If Lazarus had not been a believer in Christ's love and power, he would not have been raised from the dead. For listen, "Said I not unto thee, that, if thou wouldest believe thou shouldest see the glory of God?"

Beloveds, if we believe God's Word we, too, will see the glory of God in bringing us to resurrection life. Dean Church of Oxford (as quoted in The Dawn) said that there are reasons for looking forward to the future with solemn awe. Signs are about us which mean something. We dare scarcely breathe. The only safe resting place these days is to be firmly grounded in a Savior's love and to build for time and eternity on the infallible Word of God. The times now before us will call on every ounce of faith and love and patience we may possess. And then, only with God's unfailing help, can we weather the terrible events upon us. But He has told us before they come to pass, that we might believe, and has said, "When ye see these things begin to come to pass, then look up and lift up your heads: for your redemption draweth nigh."

May God help us to be true and loyal to Him, always rejoicing in the "blessed hope."

---

THE CHURCH

---

Continued from page 307

carnal: for whereas there is among you envying, and strife, and divisions (margin says: factions, meaning sects), are ye not carnal, and walk as men? For while one saith, I am of Paul; another, I am of Apollos; are ye not carnal? Who then is Paul, and who is Apollos, but ministers by whom ye believed, even as the Lord gave to every man? I have planted, Apollos watered; but God gave the increase. So then neither is he that planteth any thing, neither he that watereth; but God that giveth the increase. Now he that planteth and he that watereth are one: and every man shall receive his own reward according to his own labor. For we are labourers together with God: ye are God's husbandry (tillage), ye are God's building".—1 Cor. 3:3-9. It is evident from Paul's reasoning that denominations are a sign of carnality. In the beginning there was but one church and that was the church of God.

Brethren, we have the scriptural name, but let us not be satisfied with that alone. It will require more than the name alone to acquire salvation for us. The name is important, and we should never be willing to exchange it for any other. Let us guard it zealously, and be proud of it.

Paul writes that the members of the church of God are those "that are sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints, with all that in every place call upon the name of Jesus Christ our Lord". He then adds his benediction: "Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ".—1 Cor. 1:2, 3.—In The Gospel Searchlight.

---

CURRENT EVENTS

---

By C. E. Randall

---

A GREAT disappointment is due the world. Millions are praying for disarmament and are anticipating that out of the present disarmament conference will come a new era of peace and righteousness. These fond dreams of universal brotherhood of mankind, peace and tranquillity among all, the beating of swords into plowshares and spears into pruning hooks will never come true in this age. These hopes are going to be blasted.

True hope is a wonderful thing; it is a mighty motivating force. On the other hand, false hope, when realized that it is false, is one of the most degenerating forces in existence. The hope of peace in this age is a false hope. It is established on false premises.

We are witnessing the greatest "peace and safety" cry of all time. This great peace movement is not due to memories of the trenches of the last great war with their mud and blood; but people see the imminence of another struggle mightier and greater than the last one. People do not cry for peace until they see trouble nearing. There is plenty of trouble ahead, yes plenty! "For when they shall say, Peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them".—1 Thess. 5:3.

It should be evident to all that carnal questions among carnal men cannot be settled with spiritual weapons and methods. It is useless to try and get a non-christian world to be guided in its dealings by Christian ideals. People must believe and live Christianity before they are going to employ its principles in their daily business affairs.

This is equally true of nations and individuals. As long as man is guided by carnal ideas, he is going to settle all his problems and disputes by carnal means. Instead of nations disarming and employing the golden rule in their international affairs, they are going to arm and prepare for war.

"Proclaim ye this among the Gentiles; Prepare war, wake up the mighty men, let all the men of war draw near; let them come up: beat your plowshares into swords, and your pruninghooks into spears: let the weak say, I am strong."—Joel 3:9-11.

“AS LITTLE CHILDREN”

“I’m too tired to trust and too tired to pray,”
Said one as the overtaxed strength gave way,
“The one conscious thought by my mind possessed
Is ‘O, could I just drop ALL and rest;’
But will God forgive me, do you suppose,
If I go to sleep as a baby goes,
Without even asking Him if I may,
Without even trying to trust or pray?”

Will God forgive you? Why think, dear heart!
While language to you was an unknown art,
Did a mother deny you needed rest,
Or refuse to pillow you on her breast?
Oh, no! but she cradled you in her arms,
And guarded your slumber against alarms.
And how quick was her mother love to see
The unconscious yearnings awake in thee.

When you’re grown too weary to trust or pray,
When your overwrought nature has given away:
Then just drop all! Give up and rest,
As you used to do on your mother’s breast;
He knows all about it; the dear Lord knows;
So just go to sleep as a baby goes,
Without even asking Him if you may,
God knows when His child is too tired to pray.

He judges not wholly by uttered prayer!
He knows when the yearnings of love are there.
He knows you do pray; He knows you do trust,
And He knows the limit of poor, weak dust.
Oh! the wonderful sympathy of Christ
For His chosen ones in the midnight hour tryst,
When He bade them sleep on and take their rest,
While on Him the guilt of the whole world pressed.
You’ve given your life up to Him to keep;
Then rest in Him and go to sleep!

—Selected

PIONEER WORK FOR CHRIST

ROBERT ARTHINGTON, of Leeds, a Cambridge graduate, lived in a single room, cooking his own meals, and he gave to foreign missions five million pounds on the condition that it was all spent on pioneer work within twenty-five years. A slip of paper was found after his death on which he had written these words: “Gladly would I make the floor my bed, a box my chair, and another box my table, rather than that men should perish for want of the knowledge of Christ.”

A little more faith in the literal truth of our Lord’s words would work a revolution. “When the Puritans made their fortunes,” Lowell remarks, “they lost their religion.”—Christian Life Missionary.

THE PERIL OF THE TIMES

By M. W. Lyon

WE are living in days of awful import. No man knows what the future will bring forth. The world of nations hangs between peace and war. And this at a time of all times when peace and reduction of armaments is imperative to relieve the crushing burdens of taxation under which every nation is already staggering. A great industrial panic which has thrown millions out of work, the most disastrous in the memory of living man—crime and violence increasing to such an extent that there is little security of life or property anywhere—flagrant flouting of the law of the land by small and great alike—courts of justice as well as administrative officialdom reeking with graft and corruption—is it any wonder men’s hearts are failing them for fear of the things that are coming on the earth? We are reminded of that poetic prophecy which seems to be startlingly significant today:

“Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth accumulates and men decay!”

Ye drunken lords of Babylon, take heed to an ancient writing, which once before warned a perishing civilization: MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN! It is written again today, “God hath numbered thy kingdom, and finished it. Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting.”—Daniel 5:22-28. Scorn not the handwriting which would warn you of coming doom, for ye have sown the wind, and ye shall reap the whirlwind (Hos. 8:7). Judgment lingers but a little, and will ye still defy the God of justice and decency?

And is there no deliverance? Ah, yes! But that Book which reveals the way to deliverance men have cast aside. They have turned a deaf ear to its counsels because it condemns their hard-hearted sins. But if we, like Jeremiah, must preach doom and not deliverance, let the events that shall come to pass judge which is the Word of God and which that of the false prophets.

“Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.”—Galatians 6:7. And, “All they that take the sword shall perish with the sword.”—Matthew 26:52. And again, “Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.”—Luke 13:3. O turn ye, O turn ye, for why will ye die? “Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near: let the wicked forsake his way and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him.”—Isa. 55:6, 7.

My dear friends, it is appalling when I see the sheer indifference of most people, and the carelessness of even the best, in the face of this great crisis, and almost despair of adequate words with which to warn you before it is too late! O hearken, ye men of much business, ye whose souls are wholly absorbed with the pursuits of things earthly, living carelessly without prayer, without the church, without Christ! "Thinkest thou this, O man, that thou shalt escape the judgment of God?"—Rom. 2:3-6.

Give ear, ye almost Christians, lingering these many years upon the margin of salvation, looking in through the gates but never quite ready to enter, intending but never performing, often wishing but still postponing, hoping without right to hope—the appeal is to you: "How shall ye escape, if ye neglect so great salvation?"—Hebrew 2:3. The gates of mercy are still open for you, but that they still will be for another year, or another month, or another hour, no man on earth or angel in heaven is authorized to promise. To your knees, then, to your Bibles, to the foot of the cross, while it is called today!

For "he that hath the Son hath (promise of) life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life."—1 John 5:12.—Editorial in Golden Rule News.

---

CHRISTIAN PERFECTION

---

By Harry Goekler

---

"Therefore leaving the principles of the doctrine of Christ, let us go on unto perfection; not laying again the foundation of repentance from dead works, and of faith toward God."—Heb. 6:1.

PERFECTION is that state or quality of a thing in which it is free from defect or redundancy. Its general meaning, from both the Hebrew and Greek, is completeness. God alone has completeness and perfection. (Matt. 5:48.)

There is what may be termed a present and ultimate perfection. Present perfection is relative and takes into account present knowledge, strength, and needs. Ultimate perfection is the final goal, the perfection of Christ. No Christian attains perfection in this life, that is, ultimate perfection. But each person may and should strive to attain present perfection.

You may ask how the Christian can expect to attain perfection in this present life amid all the surroundings of sin and temptation. With the exception of Jesus there has never been any person upon this earth entirely perfect, and consequently, when we speak of perfection, we mean just to the extent of our ability to attain perfection. Each of us should live true to our present light, turn from all known sin and use our full strength. Gradually we will attain a more perfect consciousness of sin and a greater bestowal of strength. What we should be will make us humble now. There will be no boasting of sinlessness, only the hunger to be more like Christ. He who lives according to his best strength, lives joyfully with his God, and his life will be more and more conformed to the likeness of Christ.

Those who have reached a stage of perfection above all others are mature, full-grown ones in contrast to babes and children. The Apostle Paul brings this thought out very clearly in Hebrews 5:13, 14, thus, "For every one that useth milk is unskilful in the word of righteousness: for he is a babe. But strong meat belongeth to them that are of full age, ('perfect', margin) even those who by reason of use have their senses exercised to discern both good and evil."

There are varying degrees in which a state of perfection may be attained. There is perfection of sincerity, whereby a man serves God without hypocrisy. There is also what may be termed comparative perfection, which is ascribed to those who are advanced in knowledge, faith, and sanctification, in comparison with those who are still infants and untaught. (1 John 2:13; 1 Cor. 2:6.) There is still another term which we may use known as evangelical perfection. The righteousness of Christ being imputed to the believer, he is complete in Him and accepted of God as perfect through Christ. (Col. 2:10.)

The individual who has become as nearly perfect as possible has reached that place in life which should be the goal of every Christian. He has attained what every human being should attain: to be a man in Christ. In this sense Paul, in Philippians 3:12-15, claimed to be perfect and in almost the same breath disclaimed the fact. "Not as though I had already attained, either were already perfect: but I follow after, if that I may apprehend that for which also I am apprehended of Christ Jesus. Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the . . . high calling of God in Christ Jesus. Let us therefore, as many as be perfect, be thus minded: and if in any thing ye be otherwise minded, God shall reveal even this unto you."

The verses just quoted bring out the thought also that there is no state of perfectness which excludes the possibility of advance; the full grown man is still in process of growth and like Paul, he will forget the things that are behind and press toward the high calling. Never get the idea that you have reached the limit of your efforts in Christian growth. There is always room for further advancement in all parts of Christian service.

Perhaps the best way of increasing our faith and righteousness is through constant works of love and service. Whenever the will of God is done, there is the growth. Ultimate Christian character is found supreme in Jesus Christ, and thus the daily striving to be like Him, with the whole nature open to God that He may give strength, is to know through experience the deep meaning and profound satisfaction of reaching Christian perfection.

Dear friends, it means a lot to know that our lives are fit examples of followers of Jesus. Let us all strive to reach a state of perfection and holiness such as Paul did. Let us always remember that, even though we fail to be absolutely perfect, there is a day coming when we shall all reach the goal of our desire, the perfection of Christ. Paul expresses this same thought in Ephesians 4:13, where he says, "Till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of Christ." What a happy day it will be when we reach the fulness of perfection in Christ!

OCCUPY TILL I COME

Continued from front page

death. He has the promise of the kingdom, but has not yet received the throne. He is persecuted by His enemies but is followed by a "faithful few" who will not be destroyed. His kingdom is not yet come; His will is not done except by a "little flock". But like the nobleman, He will return and demand His pounds. This same Jesus, which was taken up "into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven." His going was real and literal, and so His return will be as literal. Then and not till then will the complete kingdom begin.

He left his servants as a nobleman; He returns to His servants as King. He is now sitting at the right hand of the Father, interceding for His people and adding to their number "such as shall be saved."

PRESENT DUTY OF THE CHRISTIAN

There are few words more searching and impressive to the Christian than these found in the parable when the nobleman delivered the pounds to his ten servants and said, "Occupy till I come." They are spoken to all who profess His name. They should stir the conscience of every Christian. The Lord Jesus bids you, "Occupy", which means that you are to be a doer in your Christianity and not only a hearer and professor.

You are to "let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works". Have a real living faith that must work by love, and prove your love by keeping your pound. By this He means that He has given each one some opportunity; each one has his own sphere, the poor as well as the rich.

Our health and strength, mental gifts and capacities, money and earthly possessions, rank and position in life, our ability to read and hear and understand the gospel—all these are His pounds, our gifts from Him, which afford an open door to show forth His praise till He comes. You are to be like a man who never knows what a day might bring forth, and puts off nothing till a more convenient season. Rise and go forth in the morning, ready if need be to meet Christ at noon. You are to lie down at night ready if need be to be awakened by the midnight call, "Behold the bridegroom cometh." You are to measure all your ways by the measure of Christ's appearing, and to do nothing in which you would not like Jesus to find you engaged. This is to occupy till Jesus comes.

How instructive are His words to all who are troubled by doubts about mingling with the world and taking part in vain amusements. The question we should ask ourselves is this: Am I occupying as one who looks for Christ's return when I take part in these things? Should I like Jesus to return suddenly and find me at the race course, or in the ball room, or at the theater, or at the card table? Should I think I was in my right place and where my Lord would have me to be? This is the true test by which to try all our daily occupations and employments of time.

O that men might live as in the sight of Christ.

PERMANENT POWER

A MINISTER, when discussing some proposed change in a certain religious enterprise, said, "If this is done, such a one and such a one," naming some wealthy men, "will withdraw their influence from the society and cast it in another direction." The answer given was, "There are some things which money cannot buy;" and the subject was speedily dismissed.

Well has an eloquent writer remarked, "We are told that wealth is power; talent is power; and knowledge is power. But there is a mightier force in this world than either of these; a power which wealth is not rich enough to purchase, nor genius subtle enough to refute, nor knowledge wise enough to overreach, nor authority imposing enough to silence. They all tremble in its presence. It is truth! the really most potent element of social or individual life. Though tossed upon the billows of popular commotion, or cast into the sevenfold furnace of persecution, or trampled into the dust by the iron heel of force, truth is the one indestructible thing in this world that loses in no conflict, suffers from no misuse and abuse, and retains its vitality and strength after every assault.

This is the power in which the feeble are mighty; this is the strength in which the weak are strong. And if our feet are but set upon the firm foundation, this everlasting rock, we shall stand when the earth shall totter and abide when the heavens depart. God grant that we may believe and know and feel "the truth as it is in Jesus".—Selected by R. A. Curtis.

GRACE NOTES

GRACE notes are one of the embellishments of music. These little unexpected touches, not strictly necessary in the composition, add an interest and charm that is all their own. So in the song of life, the Great Composer has lovingly sprinkled little grace notes. Fortunately one need not be musically gifted to notice and be thrilled and cheered by these incidental and accidental (?) lesser happenings that would not have been missed had they never occurred. Though one may lack the fine ear for harmony of physical sound, he is not barred from these richer little thrills of melody that touch the spirit and cause the heart to sing. They reach us through every contact of our soul with life; through the glistening dewdrop, the mating butterflies, the whispering leaves, the murmuring brook, the infant's smile, the penitent's tear, the rose of dawn, and the purse of the setting sun. These and countless other incidents are grace notes in the psalm of life. Often they are the sweetest experiences of the day, and their musical echo may linger long in our memory.—Sunday School Times.

The little kindnesses which we extend to others serve not only as "grace notes" to them, but also to us. Service makes our own life's song sweeter.—E. H. A.

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 325 N. Austin Blvd., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois

For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"IN ALL THESE THINGS WE ARE MORE THAN CONQUERORS THROUGH HIM THAT LOVED US."

Have you heard the tale of the aloe plant,
Away in the sunny clime?
By humble growth of a hundred years
It reaches its blooming time;
And then a wondrous bud at its crown
Breaks into a thousand flowers;
This floral queen, in its blooming seen,
Is the pride of tropical bowers,
But the plant to the flower is sacrifice,
For it blooms but once, and it dies.

Have you further heard of the aloe plant,
That grows in the sunny clime?
How every one of its thousand flowers,
As they drop in the blooming time,
Is an infant plant that fastens its roots
In the place where it falls on the ground,
And as fast as they drop from the dying stem,
Grow lively and lovely around?
By dying it liveth a thousandfold
In the young that spring from the death of the old.

Have you heard the tale of the pelican,
The Arabs' Gimel el Bahr,
That lives in the African solitudes,
Where the birds that live lonely are?
Have you heard how it loves its tender young
And cares and toils for their good?
It brings them water from mountain far,
And fishes the sea for their food.
In famine it feeds them—what love can devise!
The blood of its bosom—and, feeding them, dies.

Have you heard this tale—the best of them all—
The tale of the Holy and True,
He died, but His life, in untold souls
Lives on in the world anew;
His seed prevails, and is filling the earth,
As the stars fill the sky above;
He taught us to yield up the love of life,
For the sake of the life of love;
His death is our life; His loss is our gain;
The joy for the tear, the peace for the pain.
—Selected.

REPORTS FROM ILLINOIS SOCIETIES

THE Rockford Berean Society meets each Friday evening at 7:45 at 1904 N. Main St. Membership, 21; average weekly attendance for January, 19; interest, good.
Marjorie Mogle, Sec.

The Ripley Senior Berean Society meets at the Ripley church. Membership, 21; average weekly attendance, 20; interest, good. Had three meetings in November and two in December.

Lorene Fey, Sec.
Florence Howell, Ass't Sec.

The Dixon Berean Society had one meeting during the month of January, as Bro. Conner, our pastor, was conducting special services each evening for the balance of the month. The majority of the Bereans attended these services and derived much good from the Bible truths presented.

Elizabeth Ford, Sec.
Elizabeth Ford, State Sec.

"A LIFE of love mirrors Christ."

BEREAN NOTES FROM GRAND RAPIDS

ON FRIDAY, January 29, a Berean class of girls (ages 7 to 11) enjoyed a party at the home of their teacher, Sister Ada Simpson, at Grandville.

Bible question games and others were played which all seemed to enjoy very much. Fourteen were present. The enrollment of the class is twenty and we have many interesting lessons each week. Girls of this age are the most interesting and well behaved.

Refreshments of popcorn, fudge, and apples were served. Judging from the shouts of laughter emanating from the kitchen, we'd say the "chauffeur fathers" enjoyed the party too.

"A MAN'S worst difficulties begin when he is able to do what he likes."—Huxley.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

"The mountains shall bring peace to the people, and the little hills, by righteousness."—Psalm 72:3.

JESUS RAISES LAZARUS FROM THE DEAD

Do you know what the shortest verse in the Bible is, and where it is found? "Jesus wept."—John 11:35.

And here is the story: About two miles from Jerusalem, in the little town of Bethany, lived three close friends of Jesus. They were Mary and Martha, and their brother, Lazarus. Jesus spent many restful hours in their company.

One day Lazarus became so sick that the sisters sent to Perea for Jesus. Their message was, "He whom thou lovest is sick."

However, Jesus waited two days before answering the sisters' summons. By that time Lazarus was dead.

Although no word had come of his death, Jesus knew; and He also knew why he had died—that the power and glory of God and His Son might be known.

Jesus said to His disciples, "Our friend Lazarus sleepeth: but I go, that I may awake him out of sleep."

The disciples thought he must be better if he slept; but Jesus said, "Lazarus is dead."

As they neared Bethany, Martha ran to meet Jesus, exclaiming, "Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died!"—but "that even now, whatsoever thou wilt ask of God, God will give it thee."

Jesus said, "Thy brother shall rise again."

She thought He meant at the resurrection, when everyone will be raised from the grave. But Jesus knew that she would soon be surprised.

Mary was then called, and she came with friends to meet Jesus. Like Martha, she exclaimed, "Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died."

When Jesus saw her and her friends weeping, He felt so sorry for them that He wept too—"Jesus wept." Some of the Jews, seeing His tears, said, "Behold, how he loved him! Could not this man have saved Lazarus?"

As the company reached the cave in which Lazarus lay, Jesus told them to take away the stone which closed the mouth of the grave. Because of the people standing by He said, "Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me"—always that little prayer first.

Then He cried in a loud voice, "Lazarus, come forth." And Lazarus, dressed in the graveclothes, came to life and came forth.

What a happy family that was then!

And just so will there be happiness at the great resurrection.

DO WE put as much faith in Jesus as these sisters did?

DO WE go to Jesus for comfort and help?

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Read of another resurrection in Luke 7:11-17.
2. Read of another resurrection in 1 Thessalonians 4:13-18.
3. Did Lazarus ever die again?
4. Tell this story to some one else.

WE BELIEVE that eternal life may be had only in Christ at His coming, "For as the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself."—John 5:26.

WEEKLY BIBLE READING

March 5-11: Numbers 8 to Deuteronomy 7; Luke 20 to John 2.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

"Thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I will take the children of Israel from among the heathen, whither they be gone, and will gather them on every side, and bring them into their own land."—Ezekiel 37:21.

THE LITTLE SHEEP OF BETHLEHEM

The little sheep of Bethlehem
Were not afraid that night,
When suddenly the gentle skies
Grew strange with song, and bright;
When swift their shepherds went away
And left them, small and still,
All huddled in a woolly heap
Upon a lonely hill.
A peace was on the earth that night,
Oh, very wide and deep,
Perhaps they knew they need not fear;
Those blessed little sheep.

—Elizabeth Thornton Turner

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 9. — February 28, 1932

JESUS RAISES LAZARUS FROM THE DEAD

John 11:1 to 12:11

Devotional Reading: 1 Corinthians 15:50-58

GOLDEN TEXT

I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. — John 11:25.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: Jesus the Life-Giver.

Basic Truth: "He that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live."—John 11:25.

I. Appealing to Jesus. Unlike Asa, king of Judah, who when "his disease was exceeding great, . . . sought not to the Lord, but to the physicians" (2 Chron. 16:12), Mary and Martha, when illness entered their home, sent at once to the Great Physician, Jesus Christ, who accomplished His miracles of healing by the power of God. John 5:19. When they had apparently exhausted all human means of relief, they turned to Him of whom they could say, "Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases" (Psa. 103:3) by the authority which God had given Him.

II. Delayed Answer to Prayer. We have never been commanded to pray to Jesus, but to the Father in His name, for the granting of our prayer is always in the hands of God. Mary and Martha sent to Jesus because in Him reposed the power of Jehovah, and the Father always heard His petitions. (V. 42.) The Lord delayed responding to their appeal for two days, and then proceeded but leisurely toward Bethany. When God does not answer our prayers immediately, we may rest assured there is a reason for it that is consistent with divine wisdom and for our good. What was the reason here?

III. Human Sympathy of Jesus. The Son of God was perfectly human in His attitude toward the emotions of men. He was always moved to "rejoice with them that do rejoice, and weep with them that weep."—Rom. 12:15. One of the most striking examples of Jesus' tender sympathy is found in this lesson: "Jesus wept!"

IV. Life From the Dead. The Bible recognizes the reality of death. It defines it in terms consistent with the conclusions of science, and with our own observations and experience. "Thou shalt die, and not live" (Isa. 38:1) is the definition of death given to Hezekiah, and which caused him to pray earnestly for deliverance from it. Death is the exact opposite of life. God brings to us through the resurrection of Lazarus a picture and a proof of the manner in which He will confer life everlasting upon His children, i. e., by a literal resurrection from the dead.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

JESUS BROUGHT COMFORT:

Jesus brought comfort to the sorrowing sisters when their brother had been felled by the enemy death. Jesus and the hope which He gives always bring comfort to those who trust in Him. No trouble so terrible or sorrow so great but what the promises of God's Word can comfort. In the case being studied today, Jesus comforted by removing the cause of sorrow. Many of the troubles of life which bring so much sorrow to the heart would be banished if we but came to Jesus with them.

One of the most comforting promises given us in the Bible is found in Matthew 11:28: "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." The trouble with most people is that they don't turn to Jesus only when trouble comes and then for only a short time, and the result is that they never get in close contact so they can really enjoy that rest and peace which He gives unto His own.

JESUS

- gives rest;
- bestows peace;
- comforts His own;
- delivers.

POWER OVER DEATH:

Jesus has conquered death, and through His victory He has received the keys to death and the grave. If Jesus had been present, Lazarus would not have died. When Jesus returns to earth He is going to destroy death, and then the inhabitant of that land shall not die. The resurrection of Lazarus was used to teach the resurrection at the last day. The lesson is full of hope, and if the teacher or pupil fails to find in this lesson the hope of resurrection, the central theme is lost.

JESUS

- will be death to death;
  - has promised resurrection;
  - will destroy the cause of death;
  - is the only hope of life beyond the tomb.
- C. E. R.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

"I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live."—John 11:25.

"He that believeth", to such are the promises made! The Father sent His Son that "he that believeth" might not perish. The gospel is the power of God unto salvation to him "that believeth". Jesus said, John 6:40, "And this is the will of him that sent me, that every one which seeth the Son, and believeth on him, may have everlasting life: and I will raise him up at the last day."

Jesus is the Resurrection and the Life. "For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first: then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord."—1 Thess. 4:16, 17.—L. A. R.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT

The Christian's Assurance of Immortality

The greatest argument for resurrection is the resurrection of Jesus. The greatest argument for the possibility of immortality is the immortality of Christ. But still the question might be asked: "Are we, if faithful, given any positive assurance of immortality?" Paul tells us to seek for glory and honor and immortality. (Rom. 2:7.) We would not be requested to seek for the impossible.

Again: "Behold, I shew you a mystery; we shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised, incorruptible and we shall be changed. For . . . this mortal must put on immortality; then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory. Oh death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?"—1 Cor. 15:51-55.

John writes: "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him."—1 John 3:2.

"For our conversation (polity) is in heaven; from whence also we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ: who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body."—Phil. 3:20-21.

It would seem from the above statements that immortality is assured those that are His at His coming.—H. A. S.

INTERMEDIATE CLASS

Topic: Jesus the Giver of Life.

What a wonderful Savior is Jesus! He is everything to us—Leader, Guide, Comforter, Friend, and even the Giver of life itself! A touching story is found in John eleven. Death had come into a home which Jesus loved and where He had often been cheered and refreshed. Read the story carefully and select those verses which show that the sisters had firm faith in their Savior; that they loved Him dearly; that they had learned many lessons from Him; and that He, in turn, loved them and had come to serve them just when they needed Him most.

Now read the account given of the raising of Lazarus, verses 38 to 45. Did Jesus have perfect confidence in His Father that He would answer His prayer and give Him power to awaken His friend?

Jesus is as much our Life Giver as He was that of Lazarus, and more so, for the life He will give us, if we are faithful, will be eternal. It's worth our every effort.—M. G.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

AT WCMA

Bro. Cecil Smead, pastor at Burr Oak, Ind., has been conducting the Truth Seekers' Class each Monday evening over WCMA (1400 kc), Culver, Ind., from 10:30 to 11:30 p. m. He has just finished a series on the Abrahamic promises and is now starting a series on the nature of man. Tune in on this class and enjoy the study with them. On Feb. 21, Bro. J. H. Anderson speaks from 6:30 to 7:30 a. m. A word to Mrs. Louise La Munion, Culver, Ind., telling her that you have tuned in on this station, will be much appreciated.

ACTIVITIES AT DIXON

It may be of interest to many of the readers of The Herald to know something of the progress of the Dixon church during the current year.

We launched the New Year by electing William Ford as our superintendent. Every one who knows him knows the attitude "Bill" takes. He is always thinking of some way to get new members, make lessons more interesting, etc. He has provided banners for attendance and new members. Each person is working vigorously to hang the banners in his class. February 7 was Promotion day. There were several members in our seven classes that needed to have the distinction of a higher degree. I am sure if we all cooperate with the superintendent, our Sunday school will proceed to grow larger than ever before.

The series of special meetings met with phenomenal success. These lectures were given by Bro. Conner, who worked very hard to obtain the simplicity that was found in his talks. He talked upon what he thought the Bible taught, and the visitors could not help but go away with splendid new thoughts.

These meetings were well attended each night, especially by our own people. Those who have cars called for those who do not, thus every one was in his or her regular place each night. Besides the music furnished by our own senior and junior choirs, members of other churches aided all they could by furnishing special selections.

On January 29 thirteen were baptized. Owing to the fact that we do not have a baptism in our own church, the Christian people very kindly opened their church for that purpose. On the evening of February 4 a fellowship service was held for the new members. A song service was first held in the auditorium; then every one went to the basement where the rest of the evening was spent in games and various other entertainment. Light refreshments were also served.

I will list the names of those who gave their lives to Christ, and if any of you would care to drop them a line, I am sure it would be appreciated. These names can be reached by just Dixon, Illinois.

Glen and Glea Rutherford; Robert and Alice Myers; Jean and Jane Ford; Darrell and Frederick Reis; Dale Drew; Loyd Wagner; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Pain; Mary Jane Eckert.

May God bless each one of these to walk closely by the Master's side. There seem to be so many things to interfere with this that at times it is quite hard to do. Strengthen them to overcome the vicissitudes of this life to gain the great reward of eternal life, is our prayer.

F. Rossiter, Sec.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICHIGAN

The program of having some one in charge of providing special music for the services each Sunday has started well. Some very fine numbers have been given already. This creates interest on the part of the workers as well as the audience in general, and sometimes talent is discovered which is not connected with any church work and can be directed toward ours.

Sister Rhoda Watts, a pioneer in the cause in Michigan, died on Feb. 8, and was buried on the 11th, with funeral services at the church. Obituary appears separately.

Quite a number of the Sunday school students have been suffering from the flu and similar ailments, but most of them are improving at this writing. F. E. Siple.

MOOREFIELD, NEBRASKA

Bad roads and sickness have kept many from attending the services for the last few Sundays. Only 97 were present at Sunday school last Sunday, February 7, and two Sundays before only 50. Attendance at prayer meeting has been rather low for the past few Wednesdays. We generally have from 30 to 40 in attendance.

Wilsie McKnight led the prayer meeting last Wednesday. His subject was, "The Nature of Man," and the Scripture reading, 1 Corinthians 15. Wilsie is a young man of about 17 years. He was baptized last summer one year ago, and is a devout student of the true faith which is all so new to him. Some of you Bereans drop him a line some time.

Miss Fern Hosick, 13, will lead prayer meeting on Wednesday evening, February 17.

Mr. Maurice Stephenson has organized a band at Moorefield, and they are making some real music. Maurice is now teacher for the young people's class, and they all like him and his method of teaching. Subject next Sunday morning: "Divine Love Covereth." 1 Peter 4:8, "Love covereth a multitude of sins."

E. E. Giesler, Pastor.

SPECIAL CONTRIBUTIONS TO N. B. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Siple	$150.00
Lawrenceville (Ohio) Church of God (monthly)	10.00
John Sweet	3.00
Leona Marsh	15.00
Mrs. E. Dauterich	5.00
Sarah Manuwal	10.00
Total	$193.00

CONTRIBUTORS TO DOLLAR-A-MONTH CLUB

Faye L. Brown; Mary M. Renner; Mrs. Robbins and daughters, Opal and Dollie Mae; Mr. and Mrs. M. Fetters; Mrs. Ida Marsh; Margaret J. Donaly; Mrs. Mae Mercer; Albert Siple; Ella Siple; Mrs. M. A. Woodward; Mrs. Gladys French; Loren L. Burnett; Mrs. Wm. Hanson; Louise Brewer; Paul and Ethel Johnson; Leila E. Whitehead; Virgil Claypool; Ruchie Alexander; R. H. Judd; Hilda Fetters; Mrs. R. A. Robinson; Mrs. M. Shea; Ellison Shea; Mrs. Sarah Emms; Marian R. Richards; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Netts; Mrs. David Beck; Sunshine Class of Lawrenceville (Ohio) Church of God; Harold and Esta Starbuck; Kathryn Lansbery; Mrs. Earle Mogle; Mrs. Martha Walls.

SERVICES AT PLUM RIVER

Next Sunday, Feb. 21, is the regular appointment at the Plum River (Ill.) church. Bro. C. E. Lapp will speak in the morning on, "What Must I Do to Be Saved?" His evening theme will be, "Man." Those living in the vicinity are urged to be present and hear the interesting messages Bro. Lapp has for you.

FONTHILL - NIAGARA FALLS

Bro. Wm. Moore, who suffered with a carbuncle and then underwent an operation at Memorial Hospital, is recovering nicely. We will rejoice when our senior elder is able to fill his place in our church work again.

We regret that we are unable to report Bro. Rennard as recovered from his stubborn attack of neuritis. He has been suffering for months and still is, and all efforts thus far on the part of the medical profession have failed to bring about a permanent cure. Sr. Rennard suffered with a light attack of pneumonia, but through the splendid care of her daughter Grace, she was able to smother the attack and is up and around again.

Sr. Tamma Davis of Norwich, Ont., is visiting at the home of Bro. and Sr. Weldon for a few weeks, and of course that means an extra worshiper in our Fonthill congregation.

Some of our "little women" of the Niagara Falls Sunday school have been the victims of various diseases. Shirley Yates has been in the pest house for several weeks with scarlet fever, Betty Peterson and Bernice Moore in darkened rooms with measles.

MRS RHODA WEST WATTS

Rhoda West, daughter of Thomas and Rhoda West, was born in South Butler, New York, on June 14, 1844, the youngest of thirteen children, and died on Feb. 8, 1932, the last of the family to survive, being eighty-seven years of age. On April 8, 1867, she was married to Chas. Watts, with whom she lived as a faithful wife and companion until his death on April 5, 1911. To this union two children were born, both of whom survive: Mrs. George Holly, of Grand Rapids, and Maurice, of Moline.

Sister Watts was of a devoted, religious temperament, and early in life gave her heart in service to her Lord. Throughout her long years she manifested a steadfast faith in God and in the coming of Christ.

After the death of her husband Sister Watts maintained her home in Moline alone, until six years ago when a stroke so affected her health that the home was discontinued. Since that time she has been carefully and tenderly taken care of in the homes of her daughter and her son. During the last several weeks she failed rapidly, and the end came quietly on Monday night, February 8, at the Holly home in Grand Rapids. She fell asleep in full assurance of the resurrection of the dead when Jesus comes.

Besides the two children there are five grandchildren and four great grandchildren who remain to respect her memory. Funeral services were conducted on February 11, by the writer, from the home and at South Lawn Park Church, after which she was quietly laid to rest in the cemetery near Dutton, to await the Savior whom she loved.

F. E. Siple.

SISTER DEBORAH PEARSON

Deborah Davis was born on September 25, 1849, near Reading, Pa. When three years of age she came with her parents to Miami County, Ohio, and resided near Frederick all the rest of her life.

In 1866 she was united in marriage to Davis Pearson of near Frederick. To this happy union six children were born, four boys and two girls—Emma, Fayette, and Calvin, who preceded their mother in death, Lanora May, Estey Clyde, Howard D., and Leslie Earl, all of near Tippicanoe City, Ohio.

In middle life she was baptized by Elder Davis into the Church of God, to which faith she remained a devoted member until death. Sister Pearson always took an active interest in the church activities, and in late years she entertained in her own home the weekly sewing circle.

Death came on Monday afternoon, February 8, as a result of a fall on the basement steps of her home. Following the fall she was unconscious only a few hours when death claimed her. Her husband, Bro. Pearson, preceded her in death in September of 1928. Besides the four living children there are twenty-seven grandchildren and eighteen great-grandchildren who survive Sister Pearson. A brother, John Davis, and a sister, Joanna Beard, both of Bradford, Ohio, are also left to mourn her death.

On Feb. 11th funeral services were conducted by the writer from her home and the Brush Creek Church of God, where for many years Sister Pearson had been a member. Portions of 1 Corinthians 15 were used for a scripture lesson, and the text was the words of David found in Psalm 17:15, "As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness, I shall be satisfied when I awake in thy likeness." Following the service Sister Pearson was placed at rest near the side of her husband in the cemetery at the Brush Creek church.

The church and community unite in sympathy toward the bereaved ones. We will all miss "Grandma" Pearson.

Sydney E. Magaw, Pastor.

HERALD RECEIPTS

Fred N. Patterson; Mrs. C. H. Bassett; Norman J. McLeod; Grover Gordon; Helen D. Porter; T. J. Stinnette; Otto M. Stinnette; C. H. Horton; E. T. Renner; Mrs. John Cochran; Mrs. E. Thorene; Elizabeth Louise May (for another); T. V. Blyth; Mrs. Albert Logsdon; H. W. Stadden; Angeline Lent; Arnold F. Sealine; Harvey Krogh, Sr.; Henry M. Daniels; Mrs. Belle Hartman; J. Arthur Johnson; Alma Orr; Mrs. L. H. Ralston; Mrs. H. M. McInturf; T. M. Savage; O. H. Berry; F. F. Upton.

Otto H. Momsen; Mrs. C. M. Southwick; Mrs. Amy Weaver; Mrs. Mary Calkins; Mrs. Frank Henry; John F. Williams; Helen D. Porter; Mrs. Helen Pier; J. H. Pier; Samuel E. Hane; H. W. Patterson; S. Logan; Leila E. Whitehead; John Sweet; Ada C. Simpson; Mrs. Isaac Fish; S. G. Elton; Mrs. A. T. Spindler; George O. Renner; Mrs. Ida Marsh; Alice B. Haupt (for others); James Moore (self and another); Albert Siple; Mrs. L. C. Margrave; Leona Sharp; Edwin Dopp; Sarah Manuwal.

THE GREAT SABBATH

"The Great Sabbath, or What Jesus Will Do When He Comes and Restitution Begins" is the title of a new and interesting tract of 28 pages by Elder J. H. Anderson. This excellent little work presents the Sabbath question from a new and refreshing viewpoint. For sale by the author, Elder J. H. Anderson, Michigantown, Ind., or J. H. Stepp, Dana, North Carolina, at Fifteen Cents per copy, postpaid.

GENERAL CONFERENCE
ANNOUNCEMENT

The General Conference of the Church of God will convene (D. V.) at Oregon, Illinois, from August 2, 1932, to August 14, 1932, inclusive. It would be well for state conference boards to take into early consideration the appointment of a delegate or delegates to represent the membership of the several states. Churches unassociated with state conferences are also urged to take action for the appointment of delegates. Matters of unusual importance will be presented for the consideration and action of the brotherhood at this meeting. The counsel and support of the Church of God everywhere is needed in the furtherance of our mutual effort.

(Signed) G. Eldred Marsh,
Secretary

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

Published by
National Bible Institution
Oregon, Illinois

The RESTITUTION HERALD advocates: the near return of Christ, Acts 1:11, and life only through Him, Col. 3:3; the literal resurrection of the dead, John 5:28; the immortalization of those in Christ, 1 Cor. 15:53, 54; the final restoration of Israel as the kingdom of God under the kingship of Christ, Luke 1:32, the church to be joint heirs with Him, Rom. 8:17, and Israel to be made head over Gentile nations, Isa. 60:13; the "restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began", Acts 3:21. It also firmly advocates repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, Acts 2:38, and a consecrated life as essential to salvation.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME—

A full report of the splendid addition to the church at Dixon as a result of Bro. Conner's recent series of meetings, is given in this issue. We rejoice with them in the blessing that will result from the cooperation of these new members. May they be the means of bringing still others to accept Jesus as their Savior.

"The Church of God Messenger", Bro. Randall's little church paper, tells us that Bro. Rennard is still far from well, and Sr. Rennard has been ill but is now improved. Bro. Moore and Sr. Angeline Lent are also much improved. Bro. Randall calls attention to our Dollar-a-Month Club in a very effective manner. His "Messenger" presents an attractive appearance.

All at Oregon are rejoicing over the gradual recovery of "Aunt Mary" Renner, of Golden Rule Home, who has been ill with an attack of appendicitis. Many were the prayers that ascended for Aunt Mary, now 88 years of age, who is dearly beloved by all. Other members of the Home who have been ill, Sr. Chaffee, Sr. Crysler, and Sr. Williamson, are also improving.

I wonder sometimes if some of us do not pass over the kindly, thoughtful things we have the opportunity of doing for each other as we rush along from day to day. Often we find that the busiest persons, the ones with the real burdens of life on their shoulders are the ones who take the time to do those little things that sometimes mean so much to a friend who is discouraged or ill or perplexed by the problems of life. Let's look about us and send a ray of sunshine into some one's heart today.

"Gospel Searchlight" is the name by which Bro. H. A. Sheets' church bulletin will be known, being chosen from among 17 different names which were submitted. We note that work in Virginia is taking on added interest and enthusiasm. A Sunday school has just been organized at Dry Run, and a Bible class at Maurertown, meeting every other week in the homes. The brethren at Maurertown are all subscribers to The Restitution Herald, and many are members of the Dollar-a-Month Club of the N. B. I., part of which may be attributed to the enthusiasm and hard work of Bro. Sheets, who, being a former member of the Training Class, is a booster for the N. B. I.

On a dark and dreary day last week, when it looked as though momentarily the skies would weep, a bit of the sunny southland found its way to the desk of your associate editor in the form of a beautiful bouquet of jonquils and roses. These were the kindly thought of our friend, Sr. Lou M. Lyon of Citronelle, Ala., gathered from her own lovely garden.

Sunday evening services find the church comfortably filled at Oregon. Bro. Marsh has been giving a very able series on current events in the light of God's Word. On Feb. 7 his theme was, "Out of the Dragon's Mouth," and on Feb. 14, "The Bear That Walks Like a Man," showing China and Russia in the plans of God. This series has created wide interest among friends of the church who have been attending regularly.

Your heart will be stirred by the article from M. A. Woodward on a subject so dear to us all, "Our Blessed Hope". We appreciate the messages from Sr. Woodward, because of their timeliness and the interesting manner in which she writes. May she live to add many more to her eighty-two years, in fact, until her beloved Master comes and says, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

From Bro. Lyon's "Golden Rule News", that neat four-page monthly church bulletin, we learn that the Sunday school at Cleveland has an orchestra of ten pieces, which, we are sure, adds much to the attractiveness of the opening services of the school. Have you ever noticed how children love an orchestra or a band? It's a great drawing card with them, and to be a member of an orchestra confers well deserved distinction. What other schools of our number have an orchestra?

We cannot refrain from quoting, in part, from a letter from Sr. E. Dauterich of Baltimore, Md., for she sends us such a fine message for these latter days. She says: "Gentile times are closing, and soon, yea, I believe, very soon, the King of Glory will come and deliver us from this present evil world and from this body of sin and death. What a blessed hope it is to be looking forward to such a glorious day to come. Whether we wake or sleep, if our names are in the book of life, all will be well". How fine it will be to meet with the faithful laborers in His cause on that day, at the feet of our beloved Master! May we prove worthy of that privilege.

IS SUDDEN DESTRUCTION COMING SOON?

Continued from page 308

mergers have so grown in extent that they now control almost everything in the business line that is of any value whatever. Business and politics usually go together. But since the depression, they tell us that most of them are facing bankruptcy. When the trusts first began, they were more or less independent of the government. In fact, it is said by some that the government tried to break them up at first, but not succeeding, they grew stronger and stronger, getting more and more control, until it was found that the same men who were controlling our government were the ones who were promoting these mergers. And it was also found that many of these financiers were at the head of our large institutions which control the smaller ones. Before the stock market crash, it is said that these leaders foresaw the looming up of the unemployment situation when the crash should come. But they did not see that it would lead to world-wide depression, if the wages of the consumers of their products were cut off. Hence, they did not see that the depression would reflect upon them, and if they did not change the conditions which they were responsible for that in time, they, too, would be put out of business because of overproduction and underconsumption.

Two cartoons in one of our dailies recently expressed the existing condition clearly, it seems. In the first picture, big business was represented by a proud gentleman living on an estate. His gestures to Uncle Sam were such that he wanted him to stay out of his business, possibly fearing that his corruption would be exposed should the government investigate affairs. In the second picture, "big business" was represented by the same man as in the first, only, he was shown with a look of terror on his face. The wolves were after him, and he fled, panic-stricken to Uncle Sam, who was waiting for him and was most willing to help him. And it is known that these corrupt corporations are in just such a condition today. In fact, it is so bad with them that our government has appropriated two billion dollars for the stabilization of industries, which includes the "poor" railroads, and other public utilities and banks, many of which are closing their doors. The taxes have not been coming in as they should since the depression. Many are losing their homes, and the salaries of our public officials and magistrates are at stake. Millions of dollars are needed in some of our larger cities in which the number of these who are destitute has run into the hundreds of thousands. In this emergency the rich will be called upon to give "until it hurts."

Should there be another world war, as it seems there will be (although real war has not yet been declared), there will be many problems added to our present distress. All nations have been so closely connected since the last war because of rapid communication that it would be impossible for any serious trouble to come up without all of them getting into it. It may be found out, as some statesman said lately, that the great wall of China may prove to be the Bolshevik army. It has long been said that it will be a serious time for the white-skinned races when the dark-skinned races awaken to civilization. It may also be a bad time for those who have money interests in the Orient. The population of China and India are each about three hundred fifty millions, and they outnumber the whites possibly ten to one.

Just recently, H. G. Wells, the world's greatest historian of modern times, said that if the ships of state (the governments) were still sailing in 1934, it would be a great surprise to him, for he thought they were headed for the rocks. This means something coming from a man like Mr. Wells, who is one of our best authorities on history and who has a keen business sense.

In November 1931, this following statement was made: "Unless drastic measures are taken to save it, the capitalistic system throughout the civilized world will be wrecked within a year. I should like this prediction filed for future reference." So wrote no less authority than Gov. Montague Collet Norman of the Bank of England to Gov. Clement Moret of the Bank of France several months ago.

And now if we did not see something very essential in the way of fulfillment of prophecy in the ecclesiastical world to substantiate our faith, we would not feel so sure that the end of all things were so close at hand. Big religion is also to play an important part in this last day program. We do not know how near we are to the end of this age, but surely it appears to be very close when all things are taken into consideration. For some time it has been evident that many of the churches are fast losing out with God, inasmuch as they are mixing more and more with the world, which the Bible calls spiritual adultery. James 4:4.

We are not altogether surprised, however, for there has been a tendency for some time to throw away all doctrinal truths and have union meetings of Catholics, Jews, and Protestants on certain occasions. The writer has noticed one thing about such meetings. Their main object is to promote a good spirit of fellowship, which they think is good for business. Religion has not mingled much with business until recently, when all the bars have been let down and everyone is welcome, no matter what he believes. A certain kind of modern religion is becoming very popular in commercial circles, for business and religion have locked arms.

As we near the end, we will notice that religion will become stronger in society. Modern preachers have to fit into society to hold their jobs. They have just enough truth to appeal to the masses to hold them, and plenty of error to please them. The modern preacher does not teach prophecy; hence the coming of the Lord to him and his flock will be a surprise and they will not be ready.

With the present perplexity of nations, their fear as to what is about to take place, the rich beginning to howl as James said they would, surely it is time for the Judge to stand at the door, and we should be ready for translation, if we will truly welcome the coming of our King.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, FEBRUARY 23, 1932

NUMBER 21

CONTACT WITH GOD

By Arlen Marsh

PRAYER is defined by James H. Hoppin, in his book on Pastoral Theology, as being "the drawing nigh to God for one's own spiritual guidance, health, and salvation. Prayer is the actual contact of the soul with God, with that divine personality who is the source of its life, from contact with whom springs new strength. Much has been written on prayer, but no one has ever solved its dynamics, for it belongs to the unrevealed mysteries of our relations with God; but, however mysterious, prayer is a real application of the soul to God for aid, with the perfect confidence of a child, laying open the most secret thoughts, the inmost wants, to the heavenly Father." Such an explanation, although remarkably complete, nevertheless leaves open the question of an accidental definition—a definition of the causes and effects of the "contact of the soul with God."

It has been said of Michael Angelo that he was one

"Who never moved his hand

'Till he had steep't his inmost soul in prayer."

Washington, whose second centennial we now are celebrating patriotically, was described as having entered no serious military engagement or as having made no important political decision without preceding his act with prayer. Lincoln, the great Emancipator, hero of many a boy, has been noted for the last six decades as a man who prayed. Nor were these the only famous characters of history who used communion with God as a method toward success; chronology records a multitude of them. Today, the Chamber of Commerce of Los Angeles is appealing to its members and to the citizens of the city to pray for the alleviation of the depression, declaring that man's sin is responsible for present conditions and that only God can remedy them.

If those ostensibly in the world find it advisable to pray to the God of Abraham, it is certain that there is some clear, logical reason behind their petitions. The modern business man is too efficient to waste his efforts in useless appeals to an unhearing Deity. Like the Bible characters of old—like Abraham, Joseph, David, Daniel, and Hezekiah—these men must expect some direct and literal benefit to result from their communion with Jehovah. The spiritual contacts resulting from such communion would be insufficient to cause them to spend hours before God; only the expectation of a tangible reply to their requests would lead to this.

Nowhere in the Scriptures is there any record of the Christ's having taught His followers anything that was not necessary for their own well-being and salvation. That Jesus would have taught His disciples to pray without good reason is inconceivable. If prayer did not bring about lasting, important, beneficial results, it would not have paid the apostles to have engaged in it; for their work of teaching was too important to be needlessly interrupted.

Andrew Fuller, eminent Baptist clergyman of the eighteenth century, once declared, "Leave not off praying to God: for either praying will make thee leave off sinning; or continuing in sin will make thee desist from praying." Both theoretically and practically, this statement of the doctor is undoubtedly true.

Perhaps the primary purpose of prayer is stated by David in the thirty-second Psalm, verses 5 and 6: "I acknowledged my sin unto thee, and mine iniquity have I not hid. I said, I will confess my transgressions unto the Lord; and thou forgavest the iniquity of my sin. . . . For this shall every one that is godly pray unto thee in a time when thou mayest be found." The Psalmist not only provides a purpose for prayer—petitioning for the forgiveness of sin—but further offers assurance that prayers for that reason will be answered.

But supplications for the remission of sins play only a small part in the entire act of prayer. In the words of the renowned John Lightfoot, as laid down in a sermon de-

Continued on page 326

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

“Therefore be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh.”

A Prayer for the Times

O God! Our Father—we are glad that we are Thy children, safe under our Savior’s atoning blood; but glad also that Thou hast called us into Thy wonderful service, given us a share in Thy eternal business; and we do pray that we may appreciate this privilege and be wise, faithful, and efficient servants. This up to date prophetic knowledge to be widely disseminated! This “meat in due season” which Thy family requires at this present time! We are so few, so weak, so incompetent; some of us so aged, worn out, failing in strength!

O Lord, raise up a band of younger, stronger workers; open their minds and hearts to understand, not only that the great deliverance is at hand, but that the time is fulfilled! Set them on fire with this timely message and send them forth as flaming torches . . . to set others on fire with the same great truths. Helpers are needed now, more than ever before. Courage and strength are needed; wisdom and opportunities are needed; money is needed; fresh fillings of Thy Holy Spirit are especially needed. Send these things, O our gracious God, in blessed fulness.

The above appealing petition, so timely in its nature, so deeply expressive of the desire of every faithful servant of God in these days, is abridged from the original in The Antitype.—Selected by Sister M. A. Woodward.

Challenge of the Times

THE stirring and significant events occurring throughout the world in these days present a powerful challenge to the Church of God to continue, and to greatly strengthen, its evangelistic efforts. First, because people are thinking about these things that are coming to pass on the earth, and questioning as to their meaning, and are, therefore, more ready to listen to the warnings of the prophets than ever before.

Second, because these events point unmistakably to the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, and we would be found zealously engaged in His service when the great call to meet Him in the air is issued. May God help us to make good use of our opportunity! The time is exceedingly short in which we may plead with the erring, warn the indifferent, and encourage the faltering ones to stand fast.

The Open Forum

AS ALL are aware who have attended the General Conference of the Church of God, an extended opportunity has been provided at each of these annual gatherings for the public presentation and open discussion of any and all biblical questions which any individual or group of individuals might wish to bring before that body.

Furthermore, it is also well known that no rules or restrictions have at any time been imposed for the governing of these open meetings, except such as had to do with the manner in which the discussions were to be carried on and the time that could be allotted to each speaker and to each subject.

As a result of this continued practice many interesting questions pertaining to the Bible and its interpretation, better methods of church work and organization, and problems of practical Christian conduct, have been considered with much profit to all.

While the results thus far attained have been satisfactory in a degree, even greater benefit could have been derived from them had more of our able students of the Word availed themselves of the opportunity to present the fruitage of their original researches in the Scriptures to the brotherhood in this way.

Ministerial Conference

MUCH interest is being shown by our workers throughout the country in the proposed ministerial conference, which in all probability, will be held immediately after the next General Conference, at Oregon, Illinois.

Nearly forty have responded to the circular letter which was addressed to all ministers of the Church of God whose names and addresses we had listed, and almost without exception they favor such a gathering.

That a meeting of leaders is desirable is apparent to all. There are certain questions which have to do especially with ministerial activity, questions which are of particular interest to active workers only, which should be considered carefully and prayerfully by those whose duty it is to direct the thought and work of the various groups of believers connected with the Church of God everywhere. Further developments will be announced from time to time.

THREE UNCLEAN SPIRITS

By George B. Alldridge

"Then I saw three foul spirits, resembling frogs, issue from the mouth of the Dragon, from the mouth of the wild Beast, and from the mouth of the false Prophets. For they are the spirits of demons working marvels—that go out to control the kings of the whole earth, to assemble them for the battle which is to take place on the great day of God, the ruler of all."—Rev. 16:13, 14, Weymouth. "And he said, Go thy way, Daniel, for the words are closed up and sealed till the time of the end".—Dan. 12:9.

A WRITER, who endeavors to explain prophecy, should never be ambiguous, but always express himself in words that convey his exact meaning; that whether he be right or wrong, his readers should be able to understand his meaning. A teacher should avoid details; the point he should endeavor to make, is to impress the mind of the student with given thoughts, that the student by the exercise of his own thinking faculties, should develop unto maturity. We note, that in the scriptures above quoted there are three sources from which these unclean spirits proceed. Who are they? Well as we look abroad over the whole world today, we observe there exist three divisions: The civil power—political; the ecclesiastical—hierarchical; the skeptical—anti-christendom. The Dragon—government, comprising, the executive, the judiciary, and the legislative. The Beast—the Roman Catholics, the Greek church, and Protestantism in general. The False Prophet—Mohammedanism, Buddhism, and Communalism. A careful study of Daniel, chapters 7 and 8, reveals who are represented by the two little horns. Today the papal and Mohammedan powers seem to meet the description outlined by Daniel, and which both secular and religious history corroborates.

It is a remarkable fact, amply confirmed by historical fulfillment, that both the papal and Mohammedan systems arose into power in the same era. Both being politico-religious systems, they have been for twelve hundred and sixty years contemporaneous, and strange to relate, loss of territory has been simultaneous.

A map lies before me, as I note the extent of the Turkish Empire in 1683, and her position among the family of nations today. I ask, who dare say that Revelation 16:12 is not fulfilled? As in my mind I review the power of the papacy during the medieval ages and even up to the year 1798, when Napoleon conquered Italy and Rome, the papal sun began to set. For in that year the pope was dethroned and expelled from Rome, and in the year 1870 his humiliation and loss of temporal power was complete, following the Ecumenical Council's confirmation of the dogma of papal infallibility. Are we not now on the eve of Revelation 16:17-21 being fulfilled?

In Revelation 5:6, there is a very significant statement,

"A Lamb as it had been slain, having seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven Spirits of God sent forth into all the earth." Why? To gather out of the earth a vast number of redeemed ones. Verses 9 to 11 will tell you who they are, and the message or power which gathered them. Revelation 16:14 reveals to us the counterfeit of this. These spirits also are to gather together; the seven gather unto the Lamb; the three to make war against Him. Hence then, "where sin abounded, grace did much more abound."—Romans 5:20.

God having in mind the class described in Psalm 50:5, lovingly in type intimates what He intends to do in the future, as the antitype is fulfilled. "Surely the Lord God will do nothing, but he revealeth his secret unto his servants the prophets."—Amos 3:7.

We go back to 1 Kings 22:20-38, where God asks, "Who shall persuade Ahab, that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-gilead? And there came forth a spirit, and stood before the Lord, and said, I will persuade him. And the Lord said unto him, Wherewith? And he said, I will go forth, and I will be a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets. And he said, Thou shalt persuade him, and prevail also: go forth, and do so." Read the following verses and see what happened to Ahab.

In Revelation 18:2 (resulting from these unclean spirits' activity among the nations) we read, "And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird."

This is getting interesting, brethren. What are these spirits like? The record says, "frogs". The plague of frogs back in Egypt was duplicated by Pharaoh's magicians (Ex. 8:7; 2 Tim. 3:8). What does Revelation 16:14 say? "For they are the spirits of devils, working miracles, which go forth unto the kings of the earth, and the whole world". Who deceived Pharaoh? His magicians! Who deceived the kings of the earth? Unclean spirits like unto frogs! We know about the three frogs upon the French standard; but we are now living in the year 1932, and so we must be up to date.

Open your Bibles, brethren, and let us read 1 Timothy 4:1, 2. "Now the Spirit speaketh expressly, that in the latter times (right now) some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils; speaking lies in hypocrisy; having their conscience seared with a hot iron."

May I ask again, when do you chiefly hear frogs? during the day? No sir, you hear them when the day is closing and the night is creeping in upon us. This reminds me that Zechariah 14:6 confirms this thought. "And it shall come to pass in that day, that the light shall not be clear, nor dark."

Speaking of this time God says: Blow the trumpet in Zion, sound an alarm in my holy mountain! Let all the inhabitants of the land tremble, for the day of the Lord cometh, a day of darkness and gloominess . . . And the

Continued on page 330

THE MASTER IS COMING!

The Master is coming! He's coming again!
Our Savior and Lord is returning to reign!
Then they who are waiting in faith shall rejoice,
And loved ones asleep shall awake at His voice.

As Lazarus came forth by the word that He spoke,
As the daughter of Jairus, the ruler, awoke,
As the son of the widow of Nain was restored,
So they shall revive at the call of their Lord.

The saints who are living, and those who arise,
All caught up together—with love-lumined eyes
Their King shall behold, in His beauty and grace,
And find in His presence, forever, a place.

When earth has been freed from its sorrow and sin,
The Golden Age promised so long shall begin,
When swords into plowshares the nations shall beat,
And peace open paths for the world's weary feet.

So then, as we know that our Lord shall appear,
To set up His standard of righteousness here;
Let us watch for the dawn of that glorious day,
And pray, as He taught the disciples to pray:

Our Father in heaven, may Thy kingdom come;
Thy will upon earth, as in heaven be done!
For Thine shall the power and the glory be then,
And Thine the dominions forever! Amen.

—G. P. M'Kay in Words of Life.

“THE SABBATH WAS MADE FOR MAN”

By Alexander D. Donaldson

IN THE twenty-seventh verse of the second chapter of Mark we have the above quotation. It was uttered by Jesus in answer to the taunts of the Pharisees regarding the plucking and eating of corn by the disciples as they passed through the fields on the sabbath day, an act that violated both the letter and the spirit of the fourth commandment.

The commandments were a purely Jewish institution, and Jesus was a Jew. But He was more; He was the Son of God, the Christ, the Redeemer of all those who would come unto God through Him. As Jesus, the mortal man, He fulfilled the law in every particular. Therefore He became altogether righteous, perfect and pure, and we, through faith, being covered by His righteousness and perfection, are not under the Jewish law, but under grace.

Being of Scotch extraction (perhaps that's the reason) I always have held Sunday in high reverence as a day of Christian worship. Please do not misunderstand me. I do not claim, nor do I think that we are commanded to observe Sunday in any particular way. As Christians, we are commanded to observe all days alike—that is, to honor and worship God every day. Still, Sunday is the day when business generally is suspended; churches are open for worship, and our minds more drawn to the things that are spiritual. We, therefore, will write a few lines on the above quotation, substituting the word, Sunday, for sabbath.

Yes, Sunday was made for man, the whole man, not only for that fraction of man that is most pleased with a bountiful dinner followed by a two hours' nap. The dinner is all right, and the nap cannot be found fault with, for man is a physical being, and Sunday should offer physical rest and renewal. But this physical rest should not be carried so far as to prevent him from meeting with the brethren and engaging in church services.

Man is part mental, and there should be provision on Sunday for mental enrichment. A part of the day profitably can be spent in reading anything that has an elevating tendency, such as poetry, history, biography, and above all, the Book of books. If on Monday morning we find our minds as sluggish and petty and poverty stricken as they were on Saturday night, then our Sunday has not been spent aright.

Man is part affection, and Sunday has been given us so as to keep our affections in good repair. On Sunday, usually, it is possible for father, mother, and the children to be together. Sunday is a day for strengthening family ties. When sons and daughters are away from home, what better way could one spend a few hours than in letter writing? On Sunday, if no other time is available, we can call upon the sick and suffering, offering peace and comfort in the name of the Master. When Sunday has been well spent, the world of Monday takes on a much brighter hue than had the world of Saturday. Being an isolated member of the Church of God, I am spending this Sunday afternoon writing to my friends—the readers of THE RESTITUTION HERALD.

But man is more than body, mind, and affection. Man was created by God and has a capacity for worshiping his Creator, for deepening acquaintance with God. If Sunday was made for man, then man does not spend it aright unless part of the day is spent in worship, and thanksgiving, and prayer, in thinking of God and the things of God, in reading and studying God's holy Word, in correcting the faults which such experiences reveal in our lives, in setting our course aright on the voyage of life.

A host of people who prate that “Sunday was made for man,” seem to forget that man's spiritual life is the most important, and therefore, on Sunday, worship and praise should have the right of way. It was Oliver Wendell Holmes who said, “The reason I attend church is because I have discovered that in my heart there is a little plant called reverence, which needs to be watered at least once a week.” The pity of it is that in the hearts of so many the “plant of reverence” seems withered nigh unto death, because they fail to remember that Sunday was made for man in the fullness and completeness of his being, and that it cannot be spent aright simply in selfish amusement and pleasure.

How shall we then spend Sunday aright? Not by a host of prohibitions and negatives, but by resolutely and positively putting first things first. On the first day of the week—on Sunday—put God first; with your brethren worship Him in the church; with the family praise Him in the home; consider the things pertaining to the “kingdom of God and the name of Jesus Christ” over an open Bible. And the way to spend the rest of the day very largely will take care of itself.

---

SHOUT FOR JOY

---

By Ida Lapp

---

“But let all those that put their trust in thee rejoice; let them ever shout for joy, because thou defendest them: let them also that love thy name be joyful in thee. For thou, Lord, wilt bless the righteous; with favour wilt thou compass him as with a shield.”

LEFT up your heads and rejoice, because “God that cannot lie” has promised. Who has promised? God in heaven. But, are we sure that He will keep these promises? In Titus 1:2 we read that He (God) cannot lie, therefore every promise that He makes to us must be true.

“But,” you say, “how can we be happy in such a time of trouble as this? How can we rejoice when destruction and hunger face us on every side? How can we rejoice when such depression is sweeping our land from coast to coast and we are facing perhaps another terrible war?”

Ah! dear ones, have we no faith in our heavenly Father? Is not God still on high, overseeing everything, or, is God dead? If we believe the Bible is God’s own Word to us and if we believe that God is alive, then we, as Christians, have every reason to rejoice and no reason to fear.

Isaiah in praising God said, “Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee; because he trusteth in thee.”—Isaiah 26:3. Are we in perfect peace or are we constantly worrying and fretting about something which may never come to pass? Why are we unable to have our mind stayed, or propped, or supported by God? Because we don’t believe His Word. However, when we come to the place where we will believe His Word, trust Him and depend upon Him, then we will have perfect peace. We will not fret about the little things which come before us, for we will have perfect confidence to leave them all in God’s hands and He will work them out for us.

Peter gives us this instruction, “Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God . . . casting all your care upon him; for he careth for you.” When we cast our care upon another are we still to carry it ourselves? No! If we still feel the burden heavily bearing upon our shoulders we have not cast all upon Him but have taken it to Him and then taken it back, to worry and fret over.

Oh, that we might all learn the lesson of trust as Hannah did. Sad of heart because she had no child, she prayed most earnestly unto God, that He would give her a son. And when she had poured out her heart’s desire to Him, “she went her way, and did eat, and her countenance was no more sad”. She had cast her great burden of sorrow off on Him and knew that whatever He willed to come to pass for her future would be best.

God has given us many promises which should cause us to rejoice. In Psalms we read, “The angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him and delivereth them.” If we fear God, in that we serve and reverence Him, we have the assurance that He has placed His angel round about us to deliver us from dangers. And many are the dangers on every hand, but if we are servants of God and really depend upon Him we know He will protect us even as He did Daniel in the lions’ den. How beautiful when we learn to fully trust Him to keep us even in times of danger.

Marion Eason Wakeman, a home missionary in the mountains of Kentucky, tells of her miraculous deliverance from danger by God. She lived in a small cottage alone and one night while writing letters great fear came upon her as if some terrible thing was going to happen to her. She dropped her pen and began singing songs of praise to God for deliverance. It was not long until this feeling of fear left her and she continued her writing.

The next morning when Miss Wakeman was making calls, two different women asked her what the lights were around her house the evening before. She said there were no lights around her house, but they both emphatically declared they had seen lights the night before, and that they were bright like stars. Upon further investigation, she learned that that night the young men had started to her house to “shoot the house all to pieces”, but upon seeing the lights, they turned and ran. One said he had never run so fast in his life before; and another said, “If you lay a finger on that woman God will strike you dead.” She learned that the lights had appeared at the very time when she had sought deliverance of God. How marvelous are the ways in which God protects His children.

Other promises which God has given to us for our encouragement and strength are these: “Many are the afflictions of the righteous; but the Lord delivereth him out of them all.”—Psa. 34:19. “I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee.”—Heb. 13:5. God has promised to always be near, in joy or sorrow, never forsaking us and leaving us alone.

“God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it.”—1 Corinthians 10:13.

These are only a few of the great provisions God has made for us in our everyday life, if we will but believe Him and accept them. As we meditate upon these great promises, then only will we realize what a loving Father we have and the real value of our inheritance as sons of God and then will we be able to rejoice and “shout for joy.”

CONTACT WITH GOD

Continued from front page

livered at St. Mary's, Cambridge, on February 24, 1655, "We had need pray because of our wants. This is the only way for our supply. This is the bucket to draw our water." The Lord's Prayer, the only common ground upon which all Christian denominations can meet, contains a petition for the daily necessities of life: "Give us this day our daily bread." Surely the Messiah would not have taught His followers so to pray if their petitions were not to be answered.

Jesus, moreover, did assert definitely that prayers for our personal needs would be answered; indeed, He said that prayers for every need would be answered. As recorded in John 16:23 and 24, He declared, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my name, he will give it you. Hitherto have ye asked nothing in my name: ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full."

Even as He taught them to pray, the Savior told His disciples, "Your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him."—Matt. 6:8. Lightfoot establishes three reasons for the necessity of prayer regardless of God's infinite wisdom, however. He believes that communion with Jehovah provides a means for offering the homage and respect due to Him, that it enables the petitioner to recognize his own limitations, and that it results in the spiritual development which every Christian must have.

The Oriental monarch caused his subjects to grovel on the ground as they approached him; the lords of mediaeval feudalism demanded a formal act of homage from their vassals; the entire nation bows in respect before the tomb of its first President, giving him the consideration that belongs to him as one of the country's fathers. Prayer furnishes a method by which the homage which is owed to God in far greater degree than homage is owed to any human being may be given Him. Spoken or unspoken, prayer conveys the thought of humbleness before the Almighty.

John substantiates Lightfoot's second reason for prayer by quoting Jesus in Revelation 3:17 and 18: "Because thou sayest, I am rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing; and knowest not that thou art wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked: I counsel thee to buy of me gold tried in the fire, that thou mayest be rich; and white raiment, that thou mayest be clothed, and that the shame of thy nakedness do not appear; and anoint thine eyes with eye-salve, that thou mayest see." All of these things come from answered prayer, prayer which is intended not so much to acquaint God with our problems as to make us comprehend them ourselves, and to recognize that in God alone lies the solution of them.

The definition of prayer already given from Hoppin presents the third reason for prayer as outlined by Lightfoot. As is said by The Universal Bible Dictionary, "The very act of praying brings us into communion with God, which is the best answer to prayer. By (it) we realize that God is a person, with love and will and mind, to whom we can be drawn by a companionship closer than that of David and Jonathan, whose 'hearts were knit together.'"

Robert Verrell Foster, in his Systematic Theology, comments, "Some have supposed there is a great 'hidden law' of miracle, and that under its provision prayer is answered by miracle whenever and wherever a miracle is needed. An ancient or modern Elijah prays for rain, and in answer to the prayer it rains when it would not otherwise have done so. This is the only miraculous feature present in this instance, for God does not cause it to rain out of a clear sky or independently of the usual natural processes. The laws are not violated or suspended, but used." He continues, "The question"—that of miraculous answers to prayer—"will probably never receive its final answer in this world."

Sometimes, however, we pray for something which is not good for us to have. Occasionally, even prayers such as these are literally answered, doubtless with the purpose of teaching us lessons. More frequently, they are answered in a different way from that requested, in a way that will be for our good. Since every true Christian prays with the thought Jesus held as He talked with His Father in Gethsemane, "Nevertheless not my will, but thine, be done" (Luke 22:42), such a reply, or no reply at all, is the answer to an apparently ignored supplication. God's will should be the satisfactory response to every Christian's prayer. Only those who do not accept His will as best believe that their prayers are unanswered when no indications of the particular things they desired are seen.

THE HOLY SPIRIT

By M. W. Perrine

WHAT does the Bible teach about this very important subject? Is the Spirit of God, spoken of in Genesis 1:2, which moved upon the face of the waters, and the Holy Spirit which was poured out on the day of Pentecost as a rushing mighty wind filling all the house, the same Spirit? Surely it is; for the Apostle Paul declares, "There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling." When Christ sent the apostles out to preach the gospel, the record declares that they went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them and confirming the word with signs following. From the evidence I get from the Word, I am forced to conclude that the power of God and that which is manifested in the miracles and signs all emanate from the same Source, one and the same Being, and that Being is God.

I will call your attention to one portion of Scripture to prove that God and His Holy Spirit are one and the same power, only this, that God is a person and the Spirit of God or Holy Spirit is the power that emanates from and is manifested as coming from God. I refer you to Acts 5:3, 4, "But Peter said, Ananias, why hath Satan filled thine heart to lie to the Holy Ghost? . . . Thou hast not lied unto men, but unto God", showing that the power all centers in one and the same personality, that is God.

Now with reference to the power conferred upon those baptized with the Holy Ghost, would it have been necessary for Peter or John on the day of Pentecost to have put up an argument to convince the people that were there and witnessed it, that they had received that wonderful power that was conferred upon them by reason of the baptism? The miracles, gifts of tongues, and wonderful works which they were able to perform, was evidence enough to convince the most skeptical.

Some churchmen today claim the same powers. A teacher in a popular Bible class only last Sunday made the statement that those powers and gifts of the Spirit could be received and manifested to the world, the same as at Pentecost, if we only believed and had the same faith. I said we evidently did not have the faith. He admitted that he had it. If we had the Spirit, the same cause would produce the same effect.

Do you doubt that if the Holy Spirit were poured out upon a company of believers today, as it was on the day of Pentecost, that it would be followed by the same demonstrations and that the same gifts and powers would be bestowed upon them? God is the same in all ages: "For I am the Lord, I change not".—Mal. 3:6. His Spirit has the same power today, when given in the same degree and in the same measure.

Jesus was given the Spirit without measure. That would give Him the same power that His Father had. Look at the wonderful power that Jesus possessed! He could cause the blind to see; the lame to walk; the deaf to hear; the dead to be raised to life, and could perform many other miracles. Some claim to have that power today. In all my long life of over fourscore years I have never witnessed a single demonstration of it, but I am open to conviction.

That God's Spirit is in His true church I verily believe. "But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you. Now if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his."—Rom. 8:9. God was in Christ reconciling the world unto Himself. "For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God."

The different manifestations of the Spirit depend upon the measure with which God gives the Spirit. Jesus received the Spirit without measure. God is holy; therefore His Spirit is holy, whether the measure be great or small. David said, Psalm 51:11, 12, "Cast me not away from thy presence; and take not thy holy spirit from me. Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation; and uphold me with thy free spirit." And we have no reason to doubt that it was holy.

The Holy Spirit was in God's prophets of old. "For the prophecy came not in old time by the will of man: but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost."

We have record of but two baptisms of the Holy Spirit, one at Pentecost upon the Jews, and one upon Cornelius and a company of believers, the first Gentile church. In His early ministry Jesus breathed on His disciples and said,

"Receive ye the Holy Spirit." That was not a baptism. We see the purpose that Jesus had in mind in conferring that particular gift upon them, as we notice in Mark 16:20, these signs and miracles were for the purpose of confirming the word and sealing it as the Word of God.

Now that we have God's Word, confirmed and sealed, which He declares is truth and is able to save our souls, is profitable for doctrine, reproof, instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be perfect, why pray for a baptism of it? When God's Word was completed and confirmed, and the disciples that were inspired passed away, then miracles ceased. (1 Cor. 13:10.)

I cannot conceive that it was in the purpose of God to confer upon men the power to ameliorate the condition of the members of the human family all down to the end of the age, since He had permitted sickness, disease, and death to afflict them for four thousand years. That is left for Christ and the saints to subdue and eradicate in the age to come. That will be accomplished by means of the powers of the world to come—thank God!

No doubt the completion of Joel's prophecy of a pouring out of God's Spirit upon His people will come in the latter days, as in Ezekiel 39:29, where God declares by the Prophet that He will pour out His Spirit upon the house of Israel, which will occur after He has gathered them out from the nations and the countries whither He had driven them.

If there is a baptism of the Holy Spirit promised to the Gentiles of this generation, we certainly would desire it and would not hesitate to pray for it. That there shall be wonderful manifestations of God's Spirit when our Lord is here in the earth, we are led to believe. In reading Joel's prophecy we can readily see that Pentecost was only the initial fulfillment of it, just a foretaste of what is to follow at the end of the age.

"I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, your young men shall see visions: and also upon the servants and upon the handmaids in those days will I pour out my spirit." But whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be delivered.

---

GROWING NEW WOOD

---

WHEN Longfellow was well along in years, his head was white as snow, but his cheeks as red as a rose, an ardent admirer asked him one day how it was he was able to keep so vigorous and write so beautifully. Pointing to a blossoming apple tree near by, the poet replied, "That apple tree is very old, but I never saw prettier blossoms upon it than those which it now bears. The tree grows a little new wood every year, and I suppose it is out of that new wood that those blossoms come. Like the apple tree, I try to grow a little each year." And what Longfellow did, we all ought to do. We cannot stop the flight of time; we cannot head off the one event that happeneth to all; but we can keep on "growing new wood," and in that way keep on blossoming until the end.—Selected.

MY STRENGTH

Lord, make me strong! Let my soul rooted be Afar from vales of rest,
 Flung close to heaven upon a great Rock's breast,
 Unsheltered and alone, but strong in Thee.

What though the lashing tempests leave their scars?
 Has not the Rock been bruised?
 Mine, with the strength of ages deep infused,
 To face the storms and triumph with the stars!

Lord, plant my spirit high upon the crest
 Of Thine eternal strength!
 Then, though life's breaking struggles come at length,
 Their storms shall only bend me to Thy breast.

—Dorothy Clarke Wilson.

PROPHECY

PROPHECY is the headlight of Christianity flashing its rays o'er the track of time. It is the lighthouse of faith sending its warning beams of light o'er the billows of humanity. It is God's fire alarm announcing the conflagration of the world. It is God's political weather bureau forecasting a coming storm. It is God's alarm striking the hour of judgment. It is a danger signal for the church of God to heed. It is the advance agent of restitutional glory. It is the herald note of the jubilee trumpet proclaiming liberty to the captive. It is the telescope of faith revealing the glories of the future world. It is the banqueting house of hope. It is the watch-tower of love. It is the Mount Pisgah of faith.

Prophecy is inspiration tonic for faint hearts. It is a staff for weary pilgrims to lean upon as they journey toward the kingdom. It is a pillow of comfort for sorrowing souls. It is the sword of truth for the Christian soldier in his battle with infidelity. It is the x-rays of Omniscience photographing history. It is the seal of inspiration. It is Divine eye-salve imparting sight to the blind. It is the handkerchief of consolation wiping away tears. It is the voice of God speaking through human history, for the voice of time is the voice of God. God always honors the man who honors His Word. The man who is interested in God's plan of salvation is interested in its consummation.

What the soldier is to his country, the watchdog to his master, and the police to the city, that prophecy is to the church—it is a protector. What the lighthouse is to the storm-tossed mariner, the red signal light to the engineer, and the alarm bell to the fireman, that prophecy is to the saint—it is a danger signal. What the lock is to the door, the fence to the field, and the wall to the park, that prophecy is to the people of God—it is a defence. What the anchor is to the ship, the brake to the car, and the bridle to the horse, that prophecy is to the true Christian—it is a check—it serves as a religious bridle. What the sun is to the day, the moon and stars to the night, and the electric lamp to the house, that prophecy is to the Bible student—it is a light-giver.

What rain is to the ground, tonic to the sick, and hope to the despairing, that prophecy is to the watching ones—it is a vitalizer. What the steam is to the engine, sails to the ship, and the mainspring to the watch, that prophecy is to gospel workers—it is a motor power. What a foundation is to a house, capital to a business, and facts to a proposition, that prophecy is to faith—it is a solid basis. What bread is to the hungry, water to the thirsty, and shelter to the outcast, that prophecy is to hope—it is an absolute necessity. What beauty is to the lover, money to the miser, and fame to the ambitious, that prophecy is to the genuine conditionalist—it is an object of love.

Prophecy stimulates ardor, fires zeal, kindles enthusiasm, and arouses activity. Prophecy gives an upward look and a forward look to humanity. The upward gaze is the largest and longest in its scope of vision. The earthward look is limited; the horizon shuts out the view. What a sweep of vision when you turn your face upward!

Utility is the watchword of our age. Use is governed by result. Profit regulates investment. Methods are judged by their effects. The "does it pay?" of the business world is echoed by the church. Methods have to pass muster. Inspiration is up before the bar of inspection. Reason criticises Revelation. The pew sends out its challenge to the pulpit. Doctrines are being dissected. Valuation gauges appreciation. The cry today is, "Save men!" and all methods to attain this end are open to criticism. Conditionalists have been denounced as unspiritual and lacking in evangelical zeal, because they devote their time to prophecy and its exposition, rather than to the modern methods of rescuing perishing humanity. Can they defend themselves from a Bible standpoint? Can they answer the cui bono of the public? We think they can.

There is a Divine utility in prophecy. The Bible, as a revelation from God, is an essential whole. An essential whole cannot be made out of non-essential parts. But prophecy is a part of the Divine revelation; therefore it is essential. Whatever is essential is useful. Infinite wisdom never devised an unessential thing. Omniscience reveals no useless truth. Deity is not engaged in building cob houses. Prophecy confirms Divinity, sanctions Inspiration, proves the Messiahship of Jesus, establishes faith, strengthens hope, quickens love, serves as a safeguard for Christians, a warning message to the ungodly, a cordial for sorrowing saints, and reveals the whole plan of salvation.

Just as we may learn from the architect's plan what the building will be when finished, so from prophecy we may discover what the finished work of redemption will be like. Amid the rush and bustle, the greed and strife of today, may reader and writer both be kept from being drawn away from the principles of the gospel of Christ, and be counted worthy of a home in the kingdom of God when Jesus comes, is my earnest prayer.—Selected from Words of Life.

EROS IS DEAD—MARS REIGNS

By Richard LeCrone

IN HIS tale of the Christ, "Ben Hur," Lew Wallace paints a picture of two lads in a Roman garden and permits us to listen to their conversation. As we listen we learn that formerly they had been close friends and that one of them, a Roman of noble birth, had just returned from five years of schooling at the imperial city of Rome. The other lad, his former companion, a prince of Judah, upon hearing of the return of his friend had called to renew the friendship, only to meet with bitter disappointment. The young Roman was no longer the loving companion that he had known as a boy. His schooling at Rome had made him proud and boastful, and where formerly he had revered Jehovah he now blasphemed and cursed. It soon became evident to the young Jew that his boyhood companion had changed and that they could no longer be the friends that they had formerly been. He sadly took leave of him, telling him that a true prince of Judah could not associate with those who blasphemed Jehovah. As the young Roman stood watching him departing, there gleamed for an instant in his eyes a wistful look which he quickly dispelled with a straightening of his back and a toss of his head, remarking as he did so, "Be it so. Eros is dead, Mars reigns."

In this young Roman, so recently returned from five years of schooling in the imperial city was mirrored the attitude of Rome itself. Let us examine his statement and see if we can discover from this remark the philosophy that Rome at the time of Christ was teaching to her young men.

Turning to our history we learn that according to the religion of Rome, Eros was the goddess of love. She it was who prompted man to love his fellows. To her the Romans attributed the promptings of pity and of tenderness. In short, according to their pagan religion, Eros was responsible for all of the deeds of charity and kindness which men did.

On the other hand, Mars was their mythical god of war. To Mars they attributed their success or failure upon the field of battle. Mars it was who prompted them to take the lives of their neighbors in order that they might gain thereby. It was Mars who instilled into their hearts the lust to kill and the desire for temporal power at the expense of the freedom and happiness of other men. To them Mars represented the force of arms and all that could be gained thereby.

Thus we understand that when the young Roman said so haughtily, "Eros is dead, Mars reigns," he was saying in effect, "Love no longer rules, force has taken its place." That, dear friends, was the philosophy of the world when Christ made His first appearance upon this earth. Such also is the philosophy which we may expect to see influencing the powers of this world when He appears the second time to set up the kingdom of God.

Do we see any evidence of such a philosophy at work in the world today? How many times have you heard some one say, "Business is business. Friendship is all right in its place, but I can't let friendship interfere with good business principles." Over and over again we have seen friendship and even love and all that it means sacrificed upon the altar of temporal gain. To allow friendship to in any way affect our financial standing is considered as highly unethical.

The Apostle Paul, in his letter to Timothy, warns of the philosophy which is to rule in the latter days in these words: "This know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come. For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, truce-breakers, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good, traitors, heady, highminded, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God; having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: from such turn away."—2 Timothy 3:1-5.

We have learned from our study of civics to expect that as the individual is so shall the nation be. Let us see. "And ye shall hear of wars and rumors of wars: see that ye be not troubled: for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom; and there shall be famines, and pestilences, and earthquakes, in divers places. All these things are the beginning of sorrows."—Matt. 24:6-8. In fact, Mars is to reign so completely that "except those days should be shortened, there should no flesh be saved: but for the elect's sake those days shall be shortened."—Matt. 24:22.

Into the very midst of the dominion of Mars is to come a new Ruler. "There shall be a root of Jesse, and he that shall rise to reign over the Gentiles; in him shall the Gentiles trust."—Rom. 15:12. In the heart of a kingdom of hatred and distrust He is to teach love and faith. Hear Him, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself."—Matt. 22:37-39.

For proof of the effect of such a creed upon those who accept it we have but to turn to 1 Thessalonians 2:8, where we find Paul speaking to those who he is training for a place in Christ's kingdom in this loving manner: "But we were gentle among you, even as a nurse cherisheth her children: so being affectionately desirous of you, we were willing to have imparted unto you, not the gospel of God only, but also our own souls, because ye were dear unto us." And in Romans 12:10, he admonishes, "Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love; in honour preferring one another."

By such shall the kingdom of God be ruled. "If we suffer, we shall also reign with him; if we deny him, he also will deny us."—2 Tim. 2:12. Men shall recognize the rulership of love as vastly more desirable than that of force and shall voluntarily place themselves under its protecting influence. "And many people shall go and say, Come ye, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem."—Isaiah 2:3. "And the kingdom and dominion, and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven, shall be given to the people of the saints of the most High, whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and all dominions shall serve and obey him."—Daniel 7:27.

Let us for a moment imagine ourselves in that glorious kingdom, and that Jesus Christ has already made us "kings and priests" unto God (Rev. 1:6), and "the kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever."—Rev. 11:15. Surely in the midst of such a kingdom of love we can say with confidence, "Mars is dead, Eros reigns."

"FOR him who feels not God in himself, and in all the spheres of life, you will not succeed in demonstrating God by proofs."—Rueckert.

THREE UNCLEAN SPIRITS

Continued from page 323

Lord shall utter his voice from Jerusalem: and the heavens and earth (political, of course) shall shake. For the Lord will be zealous for his land and pity his people".

We do not need to detour, dear brethren; the light is shining for us, and the road is clear before us. Note again in the type in Egypt: the frogs were ubiquitous, Exodus 8:3, 4, so in the antitype, "the whole world".

The Bible teaches three things, which, if men would heed and obey, would bring salvation. First, man's fall (Rom. 5:12); second, man's redemption (Heb. 2:9); third, man's restoration (Acts 3:19-21). These three lying unclean spirits are deceiving the nations by telling, for propaganda purposes, fearful lies: that man is an immortal being; that heaven, purgatory, or hell is his final destiny; that patriotism and nationalism are the chief duties of man.

The supreme court by a five to four decision confirms this statement, that patriotism is compulsory before we can obey our conscience respecting our duty to God and obligation to our neighbor. Wells and most all modern writers on political economy declare that the doctrine of nationalism is the curse of the world today and it is hastening toward the final cataclysm ending in Armageddon.

Note the effects of these unclean spirits, entirely anti-christian in character and propaganda, in China, Japan, Russia, India, Arabia, and Africa. Even before this is set up for printing, we may be plunged into war in the Orient. Germany refuses to pay her debts; other nations who are our debtors will do likewise. Then what? Japan took but a small part in the "Great War". She realizes the jealousy existing among the nations, their almost bankrupt condition, and the industrial depression. Great Britain is a friend of Japan; the United States, since the days of Secretary Hay, is pledged to "the open door" policy in China. Secretary Stimson is feeling out Great Britain regarding the use of her powerful navy in enforcing this doctrine. Suppose she refuses and isolates the United States.

Brethren, these frogs are croaking pretty loudly in the Orient, and are beginning to get quite noisy in Europe and America. The ecclesiastical is the greatest liar of all three, for man is immortal, they say, and can never die. Just now they are opposed to war, which does not mean anything. Paul had their measure when he wrote 1 Thessalonians 5:3.

The nations, including Japan and China, both signatory to the "Kellogg treaty", are having a lovely meeting in Geneva, similar, I suppose, to the Czar's peace meeting at the Peace Palace in 1908. Already statesmen see the handwriting on the wall: "God hath numbered thy kingdom, and finished it. Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting."—Daniel 5:26, 27.

And, brethren, what do we see as the outcome of all this? "In the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom, which shall never be destroyed: and the kingdom shall not be left to other people, but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand for ever."—Daniel 2:44.

During this time, while the unclean spirits are getting in their work among the nations, I hear the warning: "Behold, I come as a thief. Blessed is he that watcheth, and keepeth his garments, lest he walk naked and they see his shame."—Rev. 16:15.

Jesus comes for His own, it seems, during this period. And then follows: "And the seventh angel poured out his vial into the air." Why in the air? Just because the Bible is up to date, and God said, "Fear ye not, neither be afraid; have not I told thee from that time, and have declared it? Ye are even my witnesses. Is there a God beside me? Yea, there is no God; I know not any."—Isa. 44:8.

My learned brethren of a past generation taught that this meant a pouring out upon the governments. Well, for that matter so were the other vials. But you see, God, knowing the end from the beginning, knew all about airplanes and dirigibles. Even H. G. Wells in his "Coming War in the Air," saw this also. Read on, and if you can improve the language descriptive of a "bombing attack", verses 18 to 21, then you may take the head of the class. "In the air," this is the sphere of the final battle.

"For thus hath the Lord spoken unto me, Like as a lion and the young lion roaring (can you hear the motors?) on his prey, when a multitude of shepherds is called forth against against him, he will not be afraid of their voice, nor abase himself for the noise of them: so shall the Lord of hosts come down to fight for mount Zion, and for the hill thereof. As birds flying, so will the Lord of hosts defend Jerusalem; defending also he will deliver it; and passing over he will preserve it."—Isa. 31:4, 5.

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 325 N. Austin Blvd., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois

For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"FOR THE PROPHECY CAME NOT IN OLD TIME BY THE WILL OF MAN: BUT HOLY MEN OF GOD SPAKE AS THEY WERE MOVED BY THE HOLY GHOST."—1 PETER 1:21.

WHAT do great thinkers, statesmen, and writers have to say concerning the Bible? We have selected a few comments of men who are known to us all. Do you agree with them?

"The teachings of the Bible are so interwoven with our whole civic and social life that it would be literally impossible for us to figure what life would be if those teachings were removed. We should lose almost all the standards by which we judge both private and public morals; all the standards toward which we are now trying to raise ourselves. All these we owe to the Bible."—Theodore Roosevelt.

"Read your Bible, making it the first morning business of your life to understand some portion of it clearly, and your daily business to obey it in all that you do understand."—John Ruskin.

"We account the Scriptures of God to be the most sublime philosophy."—Sir Isaac Newton.

"Everything that I have written, every greatness that has been in any thought of mine, whatever I have done in my life has been simply due to the fact that when I was a child my mother daily read with me a part of the Bible and daily made me learn a part of it by heart."—Ruskin.

"I speak as a man of the world to men of the world; and I say to you, 'Search the scriptures'. The Bible is the Book of all others to be read at all ages and in all conditions of human life; not to be read one or twice or thrice through, and then laid aside, but to be read in small portions of one or two chapters every day, and never to be intermitted unless by some overruling necessity."—John Quincy Adams.

"We search the world for the truth; we cull

The good, the pure, the beautiful,
From graven stone and written scroll,
Immortal words to guide the soul;
And, weary seekers of the best,
We come back laden from our quest,
To find that all the sages said

Is in the Book our mothers read."

—John Greenleaf Whittier.

"If we abide by the principles taught in the Bible, our country will go on prospering and to prosper; but if we and our posterity neglect its instruction and authority, no man can tell how sudden a catastrophe may overwhelm us and bury all our glory in profound obscurity."

—Daniel Webster.

"In the Bible there is more that finds me than I have experienced in all other books put together; the words of the Bible find me at greater depths of my being; and whatever finds me brings with it an irresistible evidence of its having proceeded from the Holy Spirit."—Samuel Taylor Coleridge.

"The most original book in the world is the Bible. People imagine that the place that the Bible holds in the world it owes to miracles. It owes it simply to the fact that it came out of profounder depths than any other book."

—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

In his last illness Sir Walter Scott asked his friend, Lockhart, to read to him. "From what book shall I read?" asked Lockhart. "There is but one book—the Bible," Scott replied.

"It's the Bible's classic English that has given shape to American literature. Its spirit has influenced American ideals in life and government."—President Taft.

"The farther the ages advance in civilization, the more will the Bible be used."—Goethe.

"If all literature was to be destroyed, and it was left to me to retain one work only, I should save Job."

—Victor Hugo.

"It is impossible to mentally or socially enslave a Bible reading people."—Horace Greeley.

"The vigor of our spiritual life will be in exact proportion to the place held by the Bible in our life and thoughts."—George Mueller.

"There never was found in any age of the world either religion or law that did so highly exalt the public good as the Bible."—Lord Francis Bacon.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

“He shall judge the poor of the people, he shall save the children of the needy, and shall break in pieces the oppressor.”—Psalm 72:4.

JESUS WASHES THE DISCIPLES' FEET

JESUS had almost finished the work on earth, for which God had sent Him. However, there was one lesson yet which He wanted to teach His disciples; for He loved them very much.

Not long before, the question as to who should be greatest in the kingdom had arisen, and James and John had asked that they might sit, one on each side of Jesus in the kingdom. Jesus had replied that it “is not mine to give, but it shall be given to them for whom it is prepared”.

“Whosoever will be great among you, shall be your minister: and whosoever of you will be chiefest, shall be servant of all”, He also said.

Jesus chose the time of the passover feast, which He and the twelve observed together, as the time to show them an example of real loving service.

It was the custom in Palestine to wear sandals, and leave them at the door. Then a servant or child would pour water on the dusty feet of the guest.

Now, no disciple had performed this humble task. Each had waited for the other. So, when the supper was ended, Jesus arose, laid aside His outer garment, took a towel and “bason” of water, and began to wash the disciples' feet.

But when He came to Peter, Peter objected, saying, “Thou shalt never wash my feet.” He felt that he should be washing Jesus' feet instead.

Nevertheless, when Jesus said, “If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with me”, Peter immediately was willing to be washed all over, for he wanted to be with Jesus. He was to understand better at another time just what the cleansing was for.

Then Jesus gave them another thought. He said, “Ye are not all clean.” He meant there was one among them who did not have a clean heart. Who was it? Judas! Why? Because he was planning to sell Jesus to the chief priests.

After all the disciples' feet were washed, Jesus resumed His seat, and asked of those at the table, “Know ye what I have done to you?” In other words, “What lesson have I given you?”

The lesson was, “If I, then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet; ye also ought to wash one another's feet.” That is, people who are worth while or great, do not need to tell others how great they are; but they show their greatness by loving and helping others—even in the humblest service.

ARE WE trying to serve Jesus, even in a humble way?

WEEKLY BIBLE READING

March 12 to 18—Deuteronomy 8 to 23; John 2 to 9.

SOMETHING TO DO

1. Act out this story.
2. Where was Judas at this time?
3. Why did Peter object to Jesus washing his feet?
4. Read “Intermediate Class” in the Quarterly.

WE BELIEVE that we can get into Christ through belief and baptism—“He that believeth and is baptized, shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned.”
—Mark 16:16.

GOD

Jesus was like God—“Who being the brightness of his glory, and the express image of his person, and upholding all things by the word of his power, when he had by himself purged our sins, sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high”—Hebrews 1:3.

SNOWFLAKES

Soft white snowflakes are falling down
Through the darkness of the night,
Whirling swiftly 'round and 'round,
’Til mother earth is covered quite.
Filling the air, and on the ground,
Where tiny plants are sleeping sound;
They are making a blanket soft and warm
To protect them from the winds above.
The snowflakes falling one by one
Help to tell us of God's love.

—M. M. Moon.

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 10. — March 6, 1932

JESUS WASHES THE DISCIPLES' FEET

John 13:1-15

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 52:13 to 53:6

GOLDEN TEXT

The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many. — Matthew 20:28.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: Jesus Teaches Humble Service.

Basic Truth: "Whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant."—Matt. 20:27.

I. Pride versus Humbleness. The disciples and apostles of our Lord were human like ourselves. They were moved by ambition and worldly pride. The mother of two of the apostles in her natural love for them, desired the Lord to place her two sons in positions of honor in His kingdom (Matt. 20:20, 21); and Peter asked, "What shall we have?" Matt. 19:27. It was necessary to remove all carnal pride of position from the hearts of His apostles in order to prepare them for the world-service they were soon to render.

II. Humble Service. The washing of another's feet was the most servile task that could be assigned to anyone. Yet the Lord did not hesitate to perform that service. Whatever needs to be done is not too lowly for the greatest to undertake. "The true calling of a Christian is not to do extraordinary things, but to do ordinary things in an extraordinary way."

III. The Greatness of the Humble. True greatness consists in ability and willingness to accomplish any necessary purpose. Pride must be set aside if one would be really great. "Jesus has stooped lower than to wash our feet. The filth of the human heart is something unspeakably more offensive than any material defilement," and "the Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all."—Isa. 53:6. It is an indication of greatness of spirit to "condescend to men of low estate" (Rom. 12:16) and to engage in menial service for others.

IV. The Spirit Versus the Letter. Paul declared himself to be a minister of "the new testament; not of the letter, but of the spirit: for the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life."—2 Cor. 3:6. To recognize in the humble service rendered by the Master to His disciples nothing more than a formality would be to deprive it of its richest value. "There are two ways of imitating the example of a person. One is to imitate the form of his example. The other is to imitate his spirit."—Hallock.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

Nowhere do we find Jesus the Christ asking or demanding His disciples or any one else to do things for His personal comfort; but we do find the Son of man almost constantly doing something to alleviate suffering and distress. He did more for humanity than all humanity put together can do for Him. But that should not prevent people from doing what they can for Him; for He said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

He gave His life a ransom for many. The price was high, but He paid it, and had He not done so, there would be no life beyond the grave. He "gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and purify unto himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works."—Titus 2:14.—L. A. R.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

SERVICE:

It can be said of Christ that He came to serve rather than be served. No task needing to be done was too lowly for the Master. He was ever mindful of the needs of others. He was touched by the feelings of mankind's infirmities. His mission was to alleviate, to soothe, to save. We can truthfully say He

- came to bless;
- came to serve;
- showed that better way.

A RIGHT SPIRIT:

The spirit of the Master was an exemplary spirit. He treated all alike. He was not a respecter of persons. Wealth could not influence Him, prestige of the influential could not persuade or divert Him from duty's path. Indeed, the essence of truth found its full expression in His life, action, and conversation. He was the embodiment of all that was good. His work was largely with the poor, and it can be truthfully said of Him that He was a great social Worker, not like the majority of social workers of this day and age, who think because they are welfare workers they are Christian, but He was a welfare Worker because He was a Christian.

A RIGHT SPIRIT

- is never found in a brawler;
- is absent in the conversation of a bluffer;
- never interferes with other people's business;
- is not possessed by the man who is always right.—C. E. R.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT

Christianity can be summed up in one word—"love". "Owe no man anything, but to love one another: for he that loveth another hath fulfilled the law."

The greatness of love is again emphasized in Colossians 3:12-14. "Put on therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, meekness, longsuffering; forbearing one another, and forgiving one another, if any man have a quarrel against any: even as Christ forgave you, so also do ye. And above all these things put on charity (love), which is the bond of perfectness."

Peter admonishes the brethren in much the same way. "Seeing ye have purified your souls in obeying the truth through the Spirit unto unfeigned love of the brethren, see that ye love one another with a pure heart fervently: being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth for ever."

It is this love—the spirit of Christianity—that has caused the nations of the world to look to the United States whenever they are afflicted with famine, flood, or disaster. Unchristian India, China, or Africa turn deaf ears to the wail of their perishing numbers, but the nations that are classed as Christian always hear their cries and come with assistance. It is the spirit of Christ, even if it is called "love".

Paul taught that the church could be served by prophets, teachers, workers of miracles, and those possessing "tongues", but "yet shew I unto you a more excellent way." 1 Cor. 12:31. Then he follows with his most excellent lesson on charity (love). To further impress the greatness of love, he concludes: "And now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; but the greatest of these is love." —H. A. S.

PRIMARY CLASS

Picture: Christ Washing Peter's Feet.—Brown.

The teacher, by questioning, should teach the children that the one they like best is the one who does the most for them. Again, that the one who is most likely to be promoted at school is the one who has his lessons best. Show them that if they would have good friends they must do something for them—serve them. Mention how even John's pet dog serves by amusing John. In return, John serves by feeding the dog.

Jesus, although He was greater than any one else, spent all His life in serving others. He healed them; He told them how they might have eternal life; and He never asked for any more help than they had. But sometimes one disciples wanted more than another. They would argue about who would be closest to Jesus in the kingdom. So Jesus did a strange thing to teach them humility.

It was the custom in that country, when a guest arrived, to have a slave wash the guest's feet. After a long, dusty walk this was restful. On the last night that Jesus was to be with His friends, He washed their feet. Although He was greater than any of them, He did this for them just as though He were a common slave. And then He said, "Now, you know I am your Master. If I do such a lowly thing for you, don't you think you ought to help each other?" Should we always ask for pay when we do something for others? Should we refuse to let others have part of our candy because they have none to give us?—G. M. M.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

THE RADIO SERVICES

For the past two months the Church of God has been doing something it had never done before—it has been on the air. The voices of our own ministers have gone out with the glad tidings into homes which had never before heard the truth.

The extent of the broadcast has been much better than had been expected or even hoped for. The station, WCMA, at Culver, isn't a very strong station, but the hour is very favorable to long distance reception. Listeners have reported from New York, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Illinois, Arkansas, Wisconsin, Kentucky, Louisiana, South Carolina, Ohio, Indiana, Canada, and various other places. Not only have they heard, but the reception in general has been excellent. Of course at times weather conditions, radio interference, and other factors have prevented perfect reception.

The present contract will expire with the first Sunday in March. Shall it be renewed for another three months? We need right now the financial assistance of all interested in order to do this. Rather than make an appeal over the radio and thus use valuable time, we thought it better to advertise the need through The Restitution Herald and by letter. We appreciate the printing of this by The Herald, because we realize the N. B. I. itself needs more funds. But we are appealing to you who have listened in for your assistance over and above what you send the N. B. I. Help this as you would your local work or your evangelistic work. The isolated ones should be especially able to do this; and to those who are members of local churches, we wish to remark, has it not increased your own attendance?

We are thankful to those who have contributed so generously during the present contract—thankful to all whether your contribution has been money, time, or effort. In order that you may know it has been well spent we point out to you the facts. Many isolated ones have been enabled to hear again their own ministers; many shut ins have listened to the message of hope and cheer once more; by the grace of God lost ones away from the fold have heard the gospel of salvation and are being led to the Fountain of Life. I have only to refer you to Bro. Anderson and his recent experience at Rensselaer for proof of the last statement. You may know, this work is going to leave its mark on eternity.

Now if you want to see it continued for the next three months, send a contribution—large or small—so we can use it in the work at once. If you cannot send any right away, write and tell us what you can do, so that we may depend upon it. Address Mrs. Louise LaMunion, Culver, Indiana. May God bless whatever you do, whether it be large or whether it be small.

Cecil A. Smead.

SPECIAL CONTRIBUTIONS

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. H. Williams	$15.00
Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Austin	10.00
Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Railsback	10.00
A Sister from Vancouver, Wash.	1.00
G. E. Coats	3.00
Jessie W. Donaldson	1.00
Total	$40.00

MARRIAGE BELLS IN WASHINGTON

On January 26, 1932, at the home of the bride's mother in Wenatchee, Wash., occurred the marriage of Lyle Rankin, son of J. C. Rankin of Puyallup, and Joyce Chadbourne of Wenatchee. None but the immediate family of the bride and groom were present at the ceremony, but soon afterward, when the news had spread to nearby members of the church, they were greeted with hearty congratulations and well wishes for their future success and happiness. The intended marriage had been kept a secret, from even near relatives and friends. So it was a great surprise to all, although it was known that the event was in the near future.

Those who were present from Puyallup were Bro. and Sr. J. C. Rankin, their sons, Forrest and Earl, and the writer and wife.

After the ceremony a delicious wedding dinner was served in cafeteria style. On Thursday evening following, the young people of the Wenatchee church came to offer their congratulations to the happy couple.

On Friday they journeyed from Wenatchee over the beautiful mountain passes to the home of the groom in the Puyallup valley. Here they received a hearty welcome from the members of the Puyallup church. They are both earnest Bible students, and Lyle has been taking his turn in filling the home pulpit here in Puyallup, and is well versed in the Scriptures. Joyce was one of the leaders of the young people in the Wenatchee church, who will greatly miss her, as will her immediate family. All who know them intimately wish them happiness in this life, and an abundant entrance into the soon coming kingdom.

A. L. Corbaley.

OUR THANKS

To many who have so earnestly petitioned the dear heavenly Father on behalf of the sick and helpless ones at Golden Rule Home, we send this thank offering. And while they have prayed they have remembered us with flowers, oranges, and several other dainties, which have been greatly appreciated. We are glad to tell you that Aunt Mary Renner is now able to sit up a little each day, and she takes a few steps. Sr. Cryster is not gaining as fast as we could wish but is a little better than last week. Sr. Chaffee is up again, using her added strength for the good of others. What would I do without her to be feet for me? I am doing fine, and can now walk with one crutch, and if I had any pep, I might sew or patch, but it will come with added health. I am thankful my hip was only bruised and not broken.

So many things we have to be thankful for, among them our good, patient, Christian matron, Mrs. Johnson, who waits on each one so patiently. She has had five trays to bring upstairs for several weeks, and always now three trays, three times a day. But they come without a frown or complaint. May God bless her. We would not forget the splendid sack of English walnuts sent the Home by Bro. Woolf of Washington. O Bro. Woolf, they are good! Many thanks from each of us.

And now we ask the Father's continued love and care over the Home and its members who are all striving to please and worship Him.

M. A. Woodward.

REPORT OF MEETING IN LOS ANGELES

That the brethren are intensely interested in the subject of the soon coming of the Savior was proven conclusively on Sunday, Feb. 14, when Bro. W. R. Young of San Diego came to the chapel on Forty-second Street and held the interest of the audience for over an hour in an earnest effort to set forth the results of his study of the prophetic scriptures. Two dozen additional seats had been procured for the occasion, and yet some were compelled to stand for the service. A frail little man of eighty-four years in a very clear and concise manner, set forth his reasons for his convictions that the antitypical seven (year) days of Genesis 7:4, are rapidly drawing to a close.

Brother Young is convinced that Jehovah is giving him strength, clearness of vision, funds, and willing helpers to send out this message through the little paper he is editing. His last issue was for ten thousand copies, as different localities are asking for hundreds of them to distribute.

Long Beach was well represented at this meeting, there being sixteen present, including our recently baptized members, Bro. Rich and family; also Lynwood, Anaheim, Riverside, and Pomona were well represented. The Pasadena church dismissed their services in order to hear Bro. Young's message. After a picnic dinner which was held in the chapel, because of bad weather, an interesting meeting was held in the afternoon in which Bro. S. G. Elton gave an appropriate talk on preparation for meeting the Savior, followed by short talks by other members, including Bro. J. E. Hammond, Sr. Jessie Kauffman, and Sr. May Moore. Bro. N. J. McLeod, our pastor presided at all services and directed our minds to the coming of the Savior in the communion service.

Altogether it was a very profitable meeting. Anyone desiring to learn what Bro. Young is teaching can obtain copies of the "Antitype" for the asking by sending their address to W. R. Young, 3638 Mountain View Dr., San Diego, Calif. There never was more urgent need to search the Scriptures to learn what they reveal of the "times and seasons" and we are hoping to have another prophetic meeting in the near future.

Sr. Mildred Stantial who has been ill for the past two weeks was able to attend services again on Sunday.

Mrs. Mabel Ward, wife of Bro. W. B. Ward, is convalescing at their home in Compton, having recently undergone an operation at Sea-side Hospital, Long Beach.

Sr. May Moore, of Bartley, Neb., has been spending the winter with a friend in Long Beach.

Sr. Elizabeth Frier of Long Beach and Bro. D. B. Jackson of Los Angeles were prevented from attending the prophetic meeting by failing health and unfavorable weather conditions.

Norman John McLeod, Jr., began attending church services on Feb. 7th, age 2 weeks and 3 days. His parents believe in following the advice of Solomon in Proverbs 22:6, and he seems to appreciate their efforts.

Bro. J. A. Squires, who has been in feeble health for some time, was able to attend services on the fourteenth.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME—

The Oregon brethren were very happy indeed to have among their worshipers last Sunday morning and evening their beloved former pastor and wife, Bro. and Sr. F. L. Austin of Chicago.

Present members of the Training School of the N. B. I. are frequent contributors to the columns of our paper for two reasons. One is that a theme is required on each Friday as part of their English work, and the second is that some of these themes are too good to be regarded merely as assignments. It is part of your associate editor's duties to make up the "dummy" for The Herald, and if you find occasionally that in your opinion the themes of the students occupy too prominent a place, please blame her, not our editor-in-chief. But, they are good, now, aren't they? If young people of the ages from 18 to 25 can write as they do about prayer, God's promises to His faithful, His warnings to us in these latter days, we may expect a bounteous harvest from their labors ten, twenty or more years hence, may we not? Let us pray that they may always be faithful laborers in His vineyard, forgetful of self, giving the glory to God.

Readers of The Herald will be glad to see once more the name of Alexander D. Donaldson among our contributors. Bro. Donaldson was at one time editor of the young people's page of The Herald, and he will be very kindly remembered by those of us who were young, as well as the older ones of that time. Read his message to you; you will find it of much value. Come again soon, Bro. Donaldson.

Again we desire to thank those who have been sending in renewals for their own subscriptions to The Herald, as well as many who are paying for the paper to be sent to friends whom they wish to interest or who are unable to remit for themselves. Will the rest of you please look at your labels again? If you are in arrears we will appreciate a line from you with your subscription, or just tell us when you think you will be able to remit. Thank you.

As you drive along the highways of your own state or another, have you ever read with interest a sign by the side of the road advertising the services of a certain church a few blocks away? Hasn't your interest been caught, as you read, and haven't you decided that sometime you would visit a church that felt its services worthy of such notice? Our Grand Rapids enterprising church folks are planning for just such a medium to arrest the eye of the public. It pays to advertise.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICHIGAN

A church business meeting was held on Tuesday night, Feb. 16, with large attendance. A number of matters relative to the welfare and growth of the church were discussed, and committees were appointed to consider a proper sign on Division Avenue directing to the church, also to investigate the possibility of getting new song books, and to arrange for a musical evening soon.

Following the business meeting a social period was spent in the basement, closing with a delicious oyster stew which had been prepared by our gentlemen chefs.

Plans are being made now for a full day on Easter, honoring our risen Lord.

F. E. Siple, Pastor.

CONTRIBUTORS TO THE DOLLAR-A-MONTH CLUB

Mrs. Seraphine Cleek; Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Marsh; Mrs. Geo. Siple; Mrs. Eva L. Page; Mrs. J. H. Adams Ethel Johnson; Mrs. Mary Doll; Mrs. Tennie Long; H. S. Bell; Mrs. H. S. Bell; Jessie W. Donaldson; Lois Hunt; Lydia Railsback; Mrs. F. L. Austin; Samuel J. Smith.

MINISTERIAL LIST

THE following ministers, upon request, have been officially recognized by the General Conference of the Church of God.

ARKANSAS

Humphreys, R. A., Bear.
Jones, Owen, Driggs.
Weaver, C. E., Havana.

CALIFORNIA

Hammond, J. E., Anaheim, 735 Zeyn St.
McLeod, Norman John, Pomona, 1105 Val Vista St.

FLORIDA

Geiselman, N. H., Tampa, 312 W. Hillsboro Ave.

ILLINOIS

Austin, F. L., Chicago, 5439 Ohio St.
Johnson, J. Arthur, Oregon.
Johnson, Paul C., Oregon.
Lapp, C. E., Oregon.
Pope, E. Cedric, Cortland.
Conner, L. E., Dixon, 610 N. Brinton Ave.
Hatch, Paul M., Harvey, Rt. 1.
Marsh, G. Eldred, Oregon.
Thayer, V. Earl, Rockford, 2626 Knight Ave.
Woodward, Mrs. M. A., Oregon.

INDIANA

Anderson, J. H., Michigantown.
Smead, Cecil A., Culver.

IOWA

Eychaner, A. J., Cedar Falls.
Howe, C. W., Waterloo, 1036 Newton St.

Jones, A. M., Eagle Grove.
Williams, J. W., Gladbrook.

MICHIGAN

Siple, F. E., Grand Rapids, 50 Cherryvale, S. W.

MINNESOTA

Daubanton, Fred W., St. Cloud, 1434 Breckenridge Ave.
Denchfield, John, Eden Valley.
Hoskins, Adna E., St. Cloud, 12 Eleventh Ave., N.
Savage, Thomas W., Waite Park.

NEBRASKA

Cowles, J. E., Ogallala.
Giesler, E. E., Moorefield.
Krogh, Harvey, Blair.
LeCrone, Richard, Omaha, 2813 Ruggles St.
LeCrone, Lucille, Kennard.
Gordon, Grover, Holbrook.

NEW YORK AND ONTARIO

Randall, C. E., Fonthill, Ontario.

OHIO

Lyon, M. W., Cleveland, 13705 Diana Ave.
Magaw, Sydney E., Tippecanoe City.
Patrick, Jas., A., Ashland, Orange Road.

OREGON

Darby, A. W., Portland, 834 Gantenbein St., N.

TEXAS

Stewart, E. O., Sweetwater.
Drinkard, T. A., Kennedale, Rt. 2, Box 99-A.

VIRGINIA

Sheets, H. A., Woodstock, Rt. 1.

LUKEWARM OR DEAD?

By C. E. Lapp

SUMMER brings us hot weather, and during the heat of the noonday sun we seek the shade. How refreshed and satisfied we feel when we can draw from the well clear, cold water to quench our thirst. A hot drink on a similar occasion will sometimes produce the same degree of refreshment. But let us take a drink of tepid or lukewarm water, and our whole being rebels against it. Why? Because it is neither cold nor hot; it is neither cooling nor invigorating, and we immediately throw it away.

In Revelation 3:16, there is a similar condition re-enacted in God's message to the church of Laodicea. He said they were neither cold nor hot; and because they were neither cold nor hot, but lukewarm, God said, "I will spue them out of my mouth." A good reason was given for this lukewarmness. The people said they were rich, and increased with goods, and had need of nothing; whereas God said they were wretched, miserable, poor, blind, and naked. The people felt that they were rich, when in God's sight they were poor and destitute. Because of their indifference to God, He threatened to forsake them entirely.

They were then counseled to buy riches that had been tested by fire and made pure. These were to be had from God, not from any works which they themselves might do. God told them to buy white raiment that they might be clothed and hide their nakedness. God also told them to anoint their eyes with eyesalve that they might see.

This church was rich in its own estimation, but very poor in the sight of God. Good works alone can so impoverish a church that it will die an untimely death, and when a church comes to the place where it needs nothing, such as the Laodiceans, we can readily see that its members are spiritually dead. They are clothing themselves in their own righteousness, which, God says, is filthy rags in His sight. They are told to get righteousness that is pure and white from Him and not of their own providing.

We are not entirely different from the Laodiceans in a great many respects. We have good works, but they only go to a certain extent. When we must sacrifice to the extent of doing without the things we desire, our good works cease. We also say of our faith that we have the truth on all of the great doctrines of the Bible. Christ said, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." Free from what? Free from sin and unbelief.

Oh, yes! We say we are rich in doctrine and truly we are, and we lean back in a self-righteous manner, pointing to our belief as the one thing necessary for the Christian, when in fact, we are miserable, wretched, poor, blind, and naked when it comes to spiritual things. We have good things, but they do not affect our lives in a practical way.

Throughout the entire Bible, God has given us precious promises which we will receive if we only ask for them under the proper conditions. He is able and willing to make our religious life something to be enjoyed rather than endured. How are we to get these blessings? There is one way, and that is to be an overcomer.

"He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son."—Rev. 1:7. How can we be an overcomer? Simply by earnest, honest consecration and close communion with God. How can we have close communion with God? The key to the whole situation is prayer. True prayer will draw us nearer to God and draw Him nearer to us. When we pray, then our eyes will be opened, and we will be able to see how self-righteous we are. We will be able to see our spiritual nakedness and wretchedness before God.

Are we lukewarm? Then let us do as Paul said in Hebrews 6:1—leave the principles of the doctrine of Christ and go on to perfection. We have good doctrine. Why not go on to perfection and get some of the blessings that are waiting for us, if we but ask?

WHY DELAY?

IF IT is right to seek salvation at all, it is right to seek it today. If it is right to be a Christian on a death bed, it is right to be a Christian now. If it is right to do this, it is wrong not to do it. And if it is right to be a Christian now, it is wrong to defer it for a single hour.

God calls for men to come to Him today. When a parent calls a child, every moment of useless delay in answering or obeying is a moment of impudence and disrespect. So every hour you delay your obedience is an hour of insult, presumption, and sin.

Why dream of tomorrow? Tomorrow is an unseen, unknown, and uncertain period. Where is tomorrow? Who will ever see it? What if tomorrow is your day of death? What if it proves to be the day of judgment? But tomorrow may rise calm and shine brightly, and you may see it. What then? You will have one day more to repent of, and one day more to repent in. You will be one day further from God, and one day nearer perdition. With such a prospect, dare you take the fearful risk?

Today is not your best time to seek salvation; that time has forever passed. It is not the best time you ever have seen; but it is the best time you ever will see, even if you were to live on earth a thousand years. And today is God's time, His appointed, chosen, precious hour of grace. You have His warrant, His command, His special invitation to come today and find eternal life.

Do not neglect, nor despise, nor refuse the gracious call: "To day, if you will hear his voice, harden not your hearts." When the judgment trumpet sounds, men will decide quickly; but, alas! they will decide too late.

"No more shall bold blasphemers say,
Judgment shall ne'er begin;
No more abuse His long delay,
To impudence and sin."

—Selected by R. A. Curtis from Readings for Leisure Moments.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, MARCH 1, 1932

NUMBER 22

PROPHET, PRIEST, AND KING

By Lottie E. Young

THE Prophet, Priest, and King of the Holy Scriptures is emphatically Jesus, the Christ. There are many of each office mentioned in the Bible, but He is the only One who has immortality, and it is interesting to note that He assumes these offices in precisely the above order.

From the day of His baptism in the waters of Jordan until the moment of His death on the cross, our Lord was in the exercise of His prophetic office. This position He re-assumed for forty days after His resurrection from the dead. The prophets mentioned in the Bible, splendid servants of God as they were, were only sent to the people of Israel as a reminder that the "chosen of God" had departed from Him, and that they were His voice calling them back to their covenant obligations and privileges.

Their kingdom might be in an outwardly prosperous condition, as in the time of Isaiah, but such prosperity was but a covering for the rottenness of the religious system within, serving, however, to blunt the conscience and blind the eyes of Israel to that prophet's message. And in the Lord's time the deceiving fact was the presence of the revival of the Pharisees. No religionists ever worked harder in their day to get proselytes than did this sect, and their very strictness made them complacent and deaf to the greatest of all the prophets—Jesus Christ.

At the moment of His death our Lord took up His priestly office, offering Himself without spot to God, and this office He will hold until He assumes His kingly post at His second appearing. We know He is now in heaven, pleading our cause before the great Father of all, the Intercessor, the Mediator between God and man, the One who was tried in all points like as we are, and yet without sin. He alone is able to help in every time of trial.

When Stephen was being stoned, just before death came to his relief, he cried, "I see the heavens opened, and the Son of man standing on the right hand of God." He was not sitting, but standing, thus fulfilling one aspect of His great priesthood. As a Priest, after the order of Melchisedek whose mission was that of ministering to the servants of God, His work is never finished while His followers are in places of pain and suffering "for righteousness' sake", and Stephen saw Him standing to minister to him in his hour of extreme agony and need.

His kingly office is yet in the future, but it is one which shall know no end. Thousands of kings have reigned on this earth, but the record of all is, "and he died". When the last and greatest of all comes there shall be no more death. He shall reign as King-Priest a thousand years, until the last enemy—death—is destroyed, as we read in Revelation in the vision given to the Apostle John and in Paul's letter to the Corinthians.

The Old Testament predictions concerning a suffering Messiah had been explained away by the rabbis so that the Jewish people were looking only for a glorious and all-powerful Messiah. A like process, but with a precisely contrary result, has been used in the Protestant profession. The churches nowadays teach the literal truth of the Lamb of God led to the slaughter with the sins of the world upon Him, but the part magnified by the Jews of His kingly office is almost forgotten. Few tell of the time when He shall sit on the restored throne of His father David, executing judgment and justice on the earth. And yet passages so stating this fact are to be found in many parts of the Bible, notably second Samuel, Psalms, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Luke, and Acts, which are to be taken literally and not figuratively.

Jesus was crucified under the inscription, "King of the Jews", but He also embodied His other offices. On the way to the cross the Prophet said, "Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me, but weep for yourselves and for your children." On the cross the Priest said, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do", while the King promised life to the penitent thief when He comes in His kingdom.

Let us thank God for this One who lived and died as none other and whose promise is, "I will come again."

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

"I charge thee therefore before God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall judge the quick and the dead at his appearing and kingdom; preach the word."

The Editor's Prayer

GRACIOUS GOD our heavenly Father: with gratitude we approach Thee to pour out our hearts in thanksgiving for the warnings and admonitions Thou hast given us in Thy Word. May we receive them as the promptings of divine love. Give unto us, we pray, a clear understanding of the deplorable moral and spiritual condition of the world today. May this knowledge incite us to greater activity in Thy service, that we may continue to "reprove, rebuke, exhort with all longsuffering and doctrine." In Jesus' name. Amen.

He Lingered

"HE LINGERED!" So Moses records the action of Lot in the city of Sodom. Gen. 19:16. The divine warning had reached him of the city's awful doom, but he lingered! Though his godly heart was sickened "with the filthy conversation of the wicked", he lingered! Realizing the vileness of the people around him, Lot, "that righteous man dwelling among them, in seeing and hearing, vexed his righteous soul from day to day with their unlawful deeds."—2 Peter 2:7, 8. Nevertheless he lingered!

The virtue of his daughters, the spiritual well-being of his entire family, the very lives of his loved ones were threatened, but Lot lingered within that iniquitous city of doom! It was not until an angel's hand was laid on his, and he was forcibly led without the walls, that Lot ceased to linger in Sodom.

Our Savior predicted that "as it was in the days of Lot, . . . even thus shall it be in the day when the Son of man is revealed."—Luke 17:28, 30. Some living in this, the time mentioned by our Lord, will resemble in their actions the man who lingered in the city of Sodom. Beholding and deploring the godless conduct of their associates, their souls "vexed" with the depravity, the shame, and the unbelief they observe on every side, these "righteous" ones will continue to linger in their midst.

The time has come when the warning of Paul must be solemnly repeated: "Come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing: and I will receive you, and I will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty."—2 Corinthians 6:17, 18.

The Master Is Come

THE words were spoken softly by a voice choked with tears: "The Master is come, and calleth for thee."—John 11:28. The heart of the speaker had been recently touched by the sorrow which death alone can bring. Four days since she had walked with faltering steps at the side of her sister Mary to the silent resting place of the dead where they had left their brother with a great stone to shut him away from the light of day.

How many times, during those long days of anxious watching at the bedside of their beloved, had the troubled sisters said one to the other, "O, if the Master were only here!" When they could bear their burden no longer alone they "sent unto him, saying, Lord, behold, he whom thou lovest is sick." But even then Jesus "abode two days still in the same place where he was."

And when at last the parting came, when their hearts were wrenched and torn by their awful loss, how frequently had they cried, "If the Master had been here our brother had not died!"

Now He has come! Too late to stop the progress of the disease that has laid hold upon the weakened body of their beloved! Too late for even the great Physician to work His healing power! Lazarus is dead! A stone now marks the place of his burial. Jesus has arrived upon the scene too late!

But listen! What is it that He says, as He stands before that silent sepulchre? "Lazarus, come forth!" And he that was dead comes forth, wrapped hands and feet in graveclothes. "Loose him, and let him go!"

Too late? No! It is never too late when the Master comes! Some one will say again tomorrow—or the day after—or in just a little while—"The Master is come, and calleth for thee!" And it will not be too late, for you, for me, or for the uncounted millions of the friends of Jesus who rest beneath the sod! We shall all hear His voice, the living and the dead, and come forth to meet the Master in the glorious dawning of God's New Day!

"In the crimson of the morning, in the whiteness of the noon,

In the amber glory of the day's retreat,
In the midnight, robed in darkness, or the gleaming of the moon,

I listen for the coming of His feet!"

BE YOURSELF

By Richard LeCrone

“YOUTH is a comparatively new discovery. That is to say, that where formerly youth and his right to recognition as a character of importance was submerged in that of the adult, it is now being recognized and encouraged.” The above is an indirect quotation from a recent lecture by Dr. H. W. Willett of the University of Chicago, delivered before a group of school teachers. He further stated that “we are beginning to realize that the consciousness or spirit of youth is not something which must be overcome and put down, but something with which we must cooperate.”

Dr. Willett was not introducing something new; he was simply voicing an established fact. Educators are no longer attempting to pour all of the youth of the nation into one mold nor to produce them all in the same pattern. They tell us that the best results can be obtained by developing the individuality of youth. Hence, not only are they themselves allowing the young people of the land more freedom than they ever enjoyed before, but they are encouraging their parents to do the same, with the result that more than ever before boys and girls are thrown upon their own choice of activities. They must be free to develop their character. It would seem however that in some instances their intentions are misunderstood by the subjects of the experiment.

“Individuality” has become the watchword of modern youth. “Be yourself” is their war cry. Some of them have added, “Obey that impulse”, under the impression that in order to “be themselves” they must obey every impulse, good or bad which comes to them. Against such misunderstanding the youth of Christianity must be warned. They must be made to understand what it means to “be themselves”.

“Be thyself,” says Nietzsche, “but be worthy to be thyself.” Since the development of our character is to be left so much in our own hands, it becomes our particular responsibility to see that that “self” is one that we shall be proud to present to Christ when He calls for us. It is for us to develop the best self which, with the help of God, we can possibly develop. One is just as certainly “being himself” when he consciously chooses which impulses it is wise for him to obey, as he is when he blindly attempts to obey all of them.

Zona Gale, one of our modern authors writes as follows: “‘Be yourself’ does not mean acting like a blind force; it bespeaks the fun of conscious choosing. But the moment one chooses, one admits standards of choice. One’s technique for exercising those choices will be dictated by the infinitesimal art—breeding.” As synonyms for “breeding” Webster’s International Dictionary gives “nurture”, and “education”. The choices of the Christian youth will be based upon his Christian education and training rather than upon blind impulses of the flesh. In being his best self he will call into play his best judgment and all of his knowledge of the wishes of Christ in the matter. In this manner he shall strive to be “worthy to be himself.”

Defining breeding, Miss Gale says: “Breeding is first, control; second, control; third, control. But when this a be of breeding has been learned, then it becomes something more. It becomes not alone control, forcing one to a choice, but second nature, so that one does not need self-control, but he himself voluntarily, as we say, desires and prefers beauty and order in word and act, and employs them as easily as another employs wit.

“How does breeding, in this sense, fit into the routine of the young person of today, bent on having experience? By cultivating control will one have lost the rich value of following impulse, no matter where it leads? Consider impulse in art. Imagine a writer beginning to write of a beach at the hour of bathing. Numberless impressions crowd upon his awareness—the day, the sun, the clouds; the bathers; the gay parasols, the woman in black and white, the girl in blue; the children with their pails; the board walk; the wheel chairs; the figures who ride and the negroes who push; the shop windows; the hotels—all these rush at him. He has an impulse to write them all.

“Now imagine him trying to give all these things equal value in his story. Suppose he cries out drunkenly, ‘I must write about it all.’ The result will be a medley overwritten, over-recorded. To be successful he must abandon and omit; he must stress wisely; he must select.

“Now imagine a human being confronted with a life to live. Countless choices face him. Imagine such a one saying: ‘I shall do all that comes my way. I shall live it all! The result will be a medley, over-wrought, under-lived. The one who lives his day must select his materials just as precisely as the one who writes a page. In both writing and living he must select.’ That is the solution to the question of being oneself according to the philosophy of Zona Gale.

The Christian youth of today has a double blessing—the freedom from sin through Christ, and the freedom to choose his own course of life, accorded him by those in temporal authority—and therefore a double reason for heeding the admonition of the Apostle Paul. “For, brethren, ye have been called into liberty; only use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but by love serve one another.”—Galatians 5:13.

The youth will also do well to remember the warning of Peter concerning those who place the wrong interpretation upon this liberty which he enjoys of being himself. “For when they speak great swelling words of vanity, they allure through the lusts of the flesh, through much wantonness, those that were clean escaped from them who live in error. While they promise them liberty, they themselves are the servants of corruption; for of whom a man is overcome, of the same is he brought into bondage.”—2 Peter 2:18, 19.

“Be thyself—but be worthy to be thyself.”

MY DAILY PRAYER

---

If I can do some good today,
 If I can serve along life's way,
 If I can something helpful say,
 Lord, show me how.

If I can aid one in distress,
 If I can make a burden less,
 If I can spread more happiness,
 Lord, show me how.

If I can do a kindly deed,
 If I can help some one in need,
 If I can sow a fruitful seed,
 Lord, show me how.
 —Grenville Kleiser

---

ONE STANDARD

---

By Arlen Marsh

---

"YES," a girl was heard to remark recently, "I dance myself—my father doesn't mind; but I'd feel ashamed if my minister or his family did it. They're supposed to be better than I. Anyway, they ought to set an example for the congregation: there are two standards, surely . . . Yes, I've been baptized."

No occupation is more difficult than that of the minister, and comments such as the one given are responsible for that fact. From the days of the apostles to the present time, the teacher of God's Word has been faced with the problem which many mediocre students have created for their own convenience, the so-called "double standard."

This plaint can serve only as a salve for the consciences of those too indolent to be active church workers. It is certain that the Christ did not classify His followers by instructing each to perform good works different from those done by the rest. James was addressing not only his fellow-teachers, but all disciples of the Savior, when he declared, "Faith without works is dead."—James 2:20. The standard for one Christian is the standard for all.

True, the minister occupies a position superior to that occupied by the members of his church in that he is a leader. His position is not, however, higher than that of an elder, whose counterpart he is, and who must be "of good behavior", "apt to teach", and of "good report of them which are without".—1 Tim. 3:1-7. Yet, despite all this, the one previously quoted, who is the daughter of an elder of this church, declared that her life and the life of her family are not required to conform to the high criterion set for the minister and his relatives! The inconsistency is obvious. Elder and minister, by occupying the same office, are bound to the same standard, together with their families.

Church leaders should set examples for their followers, but, rather than criticize them when they fail, the members of their congregations should recall that they are but human, subject to the mistakes and failings that accompany mortality. Every Christian should remove the moat from his own eye before describing to his fellow member the best methods for destroying the beam in his. Regardless of one's office in the church, this fact remains incontrovertible: the standard for one Christian is the standard for all.

The argument is made that ministers and their families exert more influence on the outside world than do the average followers of Jesus, and that they, therefore, should live better lives than those of the members of their congregations. But if those members do not emulate that example, they will give to their churches reputations so black that the best of teachers cannot overcome the effects resulting from them. The one who sits in a pew in justice can do no less than live as he expects his minister to live. The Messiah left but one standard.

A staff writer of The Lookout, on November 15, 1931, replied in answer to a question on the subject, "My opinion of card playing and dancing in general is that while not intrinsically evil in themselves, they have a paralyzing effect upon spiritual life and interest, and further because of the associations of these two forms of amusements, especially in these modern times, they are fraught with grave dangers to the morals of those who participate in them. But if we concede that most Christians can engage in these things without suffering spiritually or morally to even the slightest degree, due to their power of resistance, there is still to be considered the matter of their influence upon those who do not have this resistance and upon the unconverted.

"Card playing and the modern dance are generally considered as the devil's territory. When the unconverted see professed Christians engaging in such things they fail to see any difference in the church and the world. In such cases the Christian's conduct cancels his profession and his preaching in the eyes of the world. This is a fearful responsibility for Christians to treat lightly. Of course, the same thing can be said about many other things that professed Christians do that are just as inconsistent as card playing and dancing." The standard for one Christian is the standard for all.

James, apparently in response to some who had assumed that they could be saved by belief alone (the ultimate conviction of those who hold to a double standard), wrote, "Ye see then how that by works a man is justified; and not by faith only."—James 2:24. All Christians must set examples for the world and for each other. "One faith, one Lord, one baptism," can lead to but one thing—one standard.

Only between the world and the church should there be a distinguishable difference in mode of living. "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus."—Gal. 3:28. Minister and elder and member stand on an equal footing in the sight of God. The standard for one Christian is the standard for all.

WORKING OUT OUR SALVATION

By Samuel E. Haney

"And what I say unto you, I say unto all, Watch."

IN THE matter of importance to our salvation and an entrance into God's kingdom, our text is second only to that of the conversation of Jesus and Nicodemus as found in John 3:1-21.

The second advent is especially referred to in Matthew 24, Luke 17 and 21, and Mark 13. The concluding word, "Watch", of our text, which is the pivotal point of our Lord's talks on this subject is of momentous importance, and should be gravely considered and diligently obeyed.

But one might ask, Why watch, when, "of that day and that hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels which are in heaven, neither the Son, but the Father"? The answer is self-evident, the sentence being in the present tense. Dr. Moffatt begins the verse: "Now no one knows, etc."

We are not told to watch for clouds to separate revealing the Lord's presence, but to watch such current events as Jesus explains will be precursory of His return for His faithful followers, who shall have made themselves ready and worthy of the glorious rapture; both of the dead and the living (Rom. 14:8).

These presageful events are galore. Every day and in all nations they are in evidence. Note a few: "And ye shall hear of wars, and rumors of wars: see that ye be not troubled: for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be famines, and pestilences, and earthquakes, in divers places. And because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold. . . . And there shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars; and upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity; the sea and the waves roaring; men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming upon the earth: for the powers of the heaven shall be shaken."—Matt. 24:6, 7, 12; Luke 21:25 and 26.

There are other pertinent events for which we are instructed to watch and obey; particularly the following, "And he said unto them, It is not for you to know the times or seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power. But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me, both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost parts of the earth. And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations: and then shall the end come".—Acts 1:7, 8; Matt. 24:14.

Whether the individual Christian has observed, experienced, and obeyed the foregoing or not, two phases of these prophecies have been fulfilled, namely, the Pentecostal blessing (Acts 2) and the gospel of the kingdom has been preached, as a witness, unto all nations. "Then shall the end come". End of what? The world, "consummation of the age", Diag. See Matt. 24:3.

Peter says, "The end of all things is at hand" (1 Peter 4:7), referring to the nineteen hundred year gospel-age period. The Apostle made this statement four thousand years after the creation and fall of man. During nineteen hundred years of this period God had been dealing with Israel's typical people. Hence the interim between the first and second advents He denominates the end period, involving all things pertaining to professing Christian people's opportunities of redemption (or, recovery) from the fall and its sequence, everlasting death (2 Cor. 2:15, 16, Diag.), and the restitution (renovation) of the superficial phase of the earth from the devastation wrought by sin, thus carrying out God's original plans of having a glorified earth as the eternal abode of a glorified people: everything propitious of health, happiness, peace, and life for those having prepared themselves to be worthy of the new order of things, the "new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness".

Paul was given a visionary glimpse of this paradise restored; and he heard "unspeakable words, which it is not lawful for man to utter" (2 Cor. 12:1-5). In the reality of this vision the infinite wisdom of allowing sin to have temporary dominion over the race and the vicarious death of the Lamb of God will be understood and appreciated by all who shall have complied with God's conditions of salvation. And by the power of the Spirit and the Word we can even now have a photographic light of the perspective thrown upon the glory awaiting us just beyond the wilderness of sin.

From Abraham to the official presentation of the gospel by Peter to Cornelius, a Gentile, Acts 10, God limited His attention to a favored people, Israel. But since then Isaiah's and Joel's prophecies and Jesus' last message to the church have been operative. Read Isa. 55:1; Joel 2:28, 29, 32; Rev. 22:17.

Peter's "end of all things" involves still more, that is, the final of the seven chronological times (a time is 360 years) goes back to the reformation. During this time God has been making special efforts to enlighten peoples of all nations, relatively and preparatorily, of the approaching great time of trouble. Efforts to this end were in vogue in the beginning of the Christian era which was followed by the dark ages.

This work has been carried on progressively through local and foreign missionaries and the printing press. Paul refers to it in Romans 8:28 thus, "Them who are the called (or, invited) according to his purpose," namely, to promulgate the gospel, and James says in Acts 15:12-14, "Men and brethren, hearken unto me: Simeon hath declared how God at the first did visit the Gentiles, to take out of them a people for his name." Jesus designates these "called", invited ones, "porter", special watchmen, Mark 13:34. Reader, have you been observing these things?

Another important point to be watched is the tense of time. One might say that there can be no bride and bridegroom until after the marriage of the Lamb. Rev. 19:7.

And the same might be said, "of the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world". Rev. 13:8. But Jesus refers to the potential bride and bridegroom in the present tense, as an actuality, some nineteen hundred years before the "marriage of the Lamb is come and his wife hath made herself ready". John 3:29; Rev. 19:7. The paradox can be elucidated by Romans 4:17, "Even God, who quickeneth ('makes alive,' Diag.) the dead, and calleth those things which be not as though they were". When this new creation—immortalized human beings—is completed, made like Him and are with Him, time will cease to be a factor, as it is with God.

Reader, are you keeping an appreciative eye on these and many other scriptures germane to our day? for the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour; and, strange to say, often devoured by the very agencies the Christians are scripturally cautioned to guard against. Reflect upon the things of the inventive world which have come into common usage during the last time—things that would have been a blessing instead of a curse had they not been manipulated and augmented by the adversary. If you be a professing Christian do not entertain the mistaken idea that you can be partly saved in this age and finish working out your salvation in the next age. Read again Psalm 95:7, 8; Hebrews 3:14-19; John 12:48; 2 Corinthians 2:15, 16.

---

SEEK THE LORD WHILE HE MAY BE FOUND

---

By Elsie M. Bradley

---

THE LORD has extended an invitation to every one to come to Him, all that labor and are heavy laden, and He will give you rest. Take His yoke upon you and learn of Him, for He is meek and lowly in heart, and you shall find rest unto your souls. (Matt. 11:28, 29.) "Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool."—Isaiah 1:18.

The invitation is to rich and poor alike: "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come ye, buy, and eat; yea, come buy wine and milk without money and without price. Incline your ear, and come unto me: hear, and your soul shall live".—Isaiah 55:1, 3.

He bids us come, and we are either receiving His invitation or rejecting it. Which are you doing? "Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby ye have transgressed; and make you a new heart and a new spirit: for why will ye die?"—Ezek. 18:31. "As I live, saith the Lord God, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live: turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; for why will ye die?"—Ezekiel 33:11.

"Therefore also now, saith the Lord, turn ye even to me with all your heart, and with fasting, and with weeping, and with mourning: and rend your heart, and not your garments, and turn unto the Lord your God: for he is gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness."—Joel 2:12, 13. "The Lord is with you, while ye be with him; and if ye seek him, he will be found of you; but if ye forsake him, he will forsake you."—2 Chronicles 15:2.

The Lord says His spirit will not always strive with man. (Gen. 6:3.) There is coming a time, and it seems it is almost here, when it will be too late to turn and accept Him. "Behold, the days come, saith the Lord God, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the words of the Lord: and they shall wander from sea to sea, and from the north even to the east, they shall run to and fro to seek the word of the Lord, and shall not find it."—Amos 8:11, 12.

"Destruction cometh; and they shall seek peace (What are the nations of the world doing today?), and there shall be none. Mischief shall come upon mischief, and rumour shall be upon rumour; and they shall seek a vision of the prophet; but the law shall perish from the priest, and counsel from the ancients."—Ezekiel 7:25, 26.

"If in sin you longer wait,
You may find no open gate;
And your cry be just too late;
Be in time."

"Behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation."—2 Cor. 6:2. For those of us who have accepted Him, isn't it high time to awake out of sleep? Now is our salvation nearer than when we believed. The night is far spent and the day is at hand; let us cast off the works of darkness and let us put on the armor of light. (Rom. 13:11, 12.)

For we know that "the Spirit speaketh expressly, that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits and doctrines of devils."—1 Tim. 4:1. We have these very conditions in the church today. But let us not be of those who draw back or depart. "Now the just shall live by faith: but if any man draw back, my soul shall have no pleasure in him. But we are not of them who draw back unto perdition; but of them that believe to the saving of the soul."—Heb. 10:38, 39.

"Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you. Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up."—James 4:8, 10. Let us examine ourselves to see whether we be in the faith; prove your own selves. "Wherefore the rather, brethren, give diligence to make your calling and election sure: for if ye do these things, ye shall never fall: for so an entrance shall be ministered unto you abundantly into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ."—2 Peter 1:10, 11.

"Therefore we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should let them slip. How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation; which at the first began to be spoken by the Lord, and was confirmed unto us by them that heard him?"—Heb. 2:1, 3. May we be ready and watching.

THE STORY OF RUTH

(In the year B. C. 1426, 182 years after the passing of the Jordan.)

IT is about this time that the story of Ruth, which occupies a separate book in the Hebrew scriptures, is placed by Usher and other chronologers. Being episodal and only slightly connected with the historical narrative, we cannot follow the details of this beautiful story; but the intimations of the state of society and of the manners and ideas of the times which it contains, are, even historically, of too much importance to be overlooked.

The scene of the principal part of the story is in Bethlehem of Judea. A famine in the land drives an inhabitant of this town, with his wife and two sons, to the land of Moab, which, in consequence of the victories under Ehud, seems to have been at this time in some sort of subjection to the Israelites. The man's name was Elimelech, his wife's name, Naomi, and the sons, Mahlon and Chilion. The woman lost her husband and two sons in the land of Moab; but the childless wives of her sons remained with her. One was called Orpah, the other Ruth.

At the end of ten years, Naomi decided to return home, but with beautiful disinterestedness, exhorted the widows of her two sons to remain in their own land with their well-provided friends, and not to be partakers of her destitution. Orpah accordingly remained; but nothing could overcome the devoted attachment of Ruth to the mother of her lost husband. To the really touching representations of Naomi, her still more touching reply was: "Intreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following thee: for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God; where thou diest, will I die, and there will I be buried; the Lord do so to me, and more also, if ought but death part thee and me."

This strong and unmistakable expression of most beautiful and true affection could not be repelled by Naomi. They took their homeward way together. It was the barley harvest when Naomi and Ruth arrived at Bethlehem. Ruth, anxious to provide in any little way for their joint subsistence, soon bethought herself of going forth to seek permission to glean in some harvest field.

It happened that the field where she asked and obtained this permission from the overseer of the reapers, belonged to Boaz, a person of large possessions in these parts. Boaz himself came in the course of the day, to view the progress of the harvest. He greeted his reapers with the usual salutation, "Jehovah be with you," and they answered him, "Jehovah bless thee."

His attention was directed toward Ruth, for tradition says that she was a beautiful type of young womanhood. He enquired concerning her of his overseer, who told him that she was the Moabitish damsel that came back with Naomi out of the land of Moab, and related how she had applied for leave to glean after the reapers.

No doubt Boaz was a kindly and a just man, and the gleaners, who followed the reapers in the fields of barley and corn, found a very great deal of the standing corn and barley by following God's command regarding such.

Boaz then himself accosted her and kindly charged her not to go elsewhere, but to remain in his fields and keep company with his maidens till the harvest was over. He had enjoined his young men not to molest her. If she were athirst she might drink freely from vessels of water provided for the use of the reapers. Ruth was astonished at all this kindness and fell at his feet, expressing her thanks and her surprise that he should take such kind notice of a stranger.

But he said, "It hath been fully shewed me, all that thou hast done to thy mother in law, since the death of thine husband: and how thou hast left thy father and thy mother, and the land of thy nativity, and art come unto a people which thou knewest not heretofore. Jehovah recompense thy work, and a full reward be given thee of Jehovah, the God of Israel, under whose wings thou art come to trust."

She said in answer, "Let me find favour in thy sight, my lord; for that thou hast comforted me, and for that thou hast spoken friendly unto thine handmaid, though I be not like unto thine handmaidens."

When the mealtime of the harvest people came round, Boaz invited her to draw near and eat of the bread and dip her morsel in the vinegar with them. He also handed her some parched new corn, which was considered rather a luxury, and therefore Ruth reserved part of it for Naomi.

All these little incidents, beautifully descriptive of the innocent old customs of harvest time, bring strongly before the mind of one who has studied, the antiquities of Egypt, the agricultural scenes depicted in the grottos of Elettuias, in which so many usages of Egyptian agriculture are represented. There we see the different processes of cutting with the reaping-hook, and of plucking up the stalks; gleaners; water refrigerating in porous jars (placed on stands for the refreshment of the reapers); the reapers quenching their thirst; and women bearing away the vessels which had been brought to them at their labor.

When Ruth returned home in the evening with the result of her day's gleaning—an ephah of barley—Naomi was anxious to know how it happened that her labors had been so prosperous: and when she heard the name of Boaz, she remarked that he was a near relative of the family, and according to his wish she advised that Ruth should continue and confine her gleaning accordingly.—Selected by Elizabeth Louise May.

To be continued

BELIEVE GOOD THINGS OF GOD

---

When in the storm it seems to thee
That He who rules the raging sea
Is sleeping, still, with bended knee,
Believe good things of God.

When thou hast sought in vain to find
The silver thread of love entwined
With life's oft-tangled web, resigned,
Believe good things of God.

'Tis true thou canst not understand
The dealings of thy Father's hand;
But, trusting what His love has planned,
Believe good things of God.

He loves thee! In that love confide—
Unchanging, faithful, true, and tried;
And let or joy or grief betide,
Believe good things of God.

Thou canst not raise thy thoughts too high;
As spreads above the earth the sky,
So do His thoughts thy thoughts outvie:
Believe good things of God.

For know that what thou canst believe
Thou shalt in His good time receive;
Thou canst not half His love conceive—
Believe good things of God.

—William Luff.

---

CHOOSING A BRIDE

---

By Ida Lapp

---

ABRAMHAM, being old and well stricken in age, commanded his eldest servant to go into his own country and to his own people and take a wife for his son Isaac. Abraham assured his servant that the Lord would send his angel before him and give him favor of his kindred. So the faithful servant took ten of Abraham's camels, laden with jewels of silver, jewels of gold, and raiment, and departed to the city of Nahor in Mesopotamia.

As Eliezer drew up to the city of Nahor, he made his camels kneel by a well of water, and then he prayed to Abraham's God, "O Lord God of my master Abraham, I pray thee, send me good speed this day, and shew kindness unto my master Abraham. Behold, I stand here by the well of water; and the daughters of the men of the city come out to draw water: and let it come to pass, that the damsel to whom I shall say, Let down thy pitcher, I pray thee, that I may drink; and she shall say, Drink, and I will give thy camels drink also: let the same be she that thou hast appointed for thy servant Isaac; and thereby shall I know that thou hast shewed kindness unto my master".

As soon as Eliezer had finished speaking, a beautiful young damsel of the house of Bethuel, Rebekah by name, came to the well to draw water. The servant ran to meet her and asked that he might drink a little water from her pitcher. Immediately she gave him water to drink and also volunteered to draw water for his camels. Eliezer wondered at first and then turning to the maiden asked whose daughter she was, and if there was room in her father's house for him and his helpers. She told him there was plenty of room and feed for the camels as well, and then hastened away to her home to show her people the beautiful jewels, which this man had given her, and to tell them that some of their relative's servants were at the well.

Upon hearing the good news, Laban, Rebekah's brother, ran and invited Eliezer in for the night. After caring for the camels, they set food before Abraham's servant, but he refused to eat until he had made known the purpose of his mission. As was the custom, Rebekah was given by her father to be Isaac's wife, and Eliezer gave her precious jewels of silver and gold and also costly raiment to seal the engagement.

The next day, early in the morning, Eliezer left the home with Rebekah, the beautiful young maiden who was to become the bride of Isaac. And in my fancy I can see them as they journey home—Rebekah riding high upon the camel and Eliezer walking by her side, telling her all about Isaac, about his great wealth, and about the new home where she is to reign as queen, and of the blessing which God has pronounced upon Abraham as his seed, in which she will have a share.

After several days of travel, the camels again neared their master's home, and as Isaac walked in the field at eventide to meditate, he saw the camels approaching. As Isaac approached the caravan, Rebekah lighted down off her camel and came to him. He took her to be his wife and loved her, because she was a great comfort to him after his mother's death.

There is another servant, the Holy Spirit, which God has sent into a far country to choose a bride for His only Son, Jesus Christ. God, the Father, has great possessions and has no fear as He sends His Servant into the world to choose a bride for His Son but that the proper one will be chosen, one pure and undefiled. As the Holy Spirit passes far and near, wooing and winning hearts, one by one, for the Master, it brings to them the riches of their Father. It shows to them His great love, His great possessions, and His wonderful plans for His Son. It tells them of the love of the Son, that He gave His life for them, and of the great plans He has in store for them. How they, the bride, must rejoice as these wonderful words of love fall on their ears! And then, at the close of the day of preparation, at the end of a long and tiresome journey, they lift up their heads and they see their Bridegroom coming in clouds of great glory to meet them. Praise the Lord, for such a glorious hope!

VICTORY THROUGH CHRIST

By Lydia Railsback

"Thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

MAN of himself is as nothing. He is wholly dependent on the Father and His dear Son. "For in him we live, and move, and have our being."—Acts 17:28. Sin is rampant in the earth. "All have sinned, and come short of the glory of God". Man cannot lift himself out of sin; another must do that for him. Man needs and must have a Savior. Jesus, the Christ, is the one to whom we must look for salvation, "for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved".—Acts 4:12.

Jesus said, John 5:30, "I can of mine own self do nothing: as I hear, I judge: and my judgment is just; because I seek not mine own will, but the will of the Father which has sent me." If Christ could do nothing of Himself, what about Christians? Christ sought the will of the Father, and did it. Would it not be well for us to follow His example? We can do nothing short of that if we expect to win the crown.

On another occasion the Master said, "I am the good shepherd, and I know my sheep, and am known of mine. My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me: and I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my Father's hand."—John 10:14, 27, 28.

Christians, we have heard the call, but do we follow as closely to our Leader as it is our privilege to do? I fear many times we do not, but we have the assurance that we who have entered in by the door, shall be saved and go in and out and find pasture.

Then again, the Savior said, "I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life".—John 8:12. "But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanses us from all sin".—1 John 1:7.

Christ died for our sins, but death could not hold Him. He was brought forth on the third day, and because He lives, we shall live also. "Christ, the firstfruits; afterward they that are Christ's at his coming".—1 Cor. 15:23. "For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first: then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord."—1 Thess. 4:16, 17.

When this shall have taken place, and we are permitted to be among that number, then the victory will be ours and we can, and I hope we will say, "But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ".—1 Cor. 15:57.

A MESS OF POTTAGE

By C. E. Lapp

ALMOST four thousand years ago, Isaac, the son of Abraham, lived in the land of Canaan. While there, his wife gave birth to two sons, Jacob and Esau. Esau was a man covered with hair, but Jacob was of the opposite type. One day Esau had been out hunting, and he came home without anything for his effort. After all day in the field, Esau naturally came home very hungry; in fact, he was so hungry he was faint from lack of food.

When he arrived Jacob had just finished boiling a pot of stew and was preparing to eat. When the aroma of the pottage reached Esau, he became ravenous and asked that he might have some of it to eat. Jacob must have been a hard bargainer, for he immediately said he would give him some in exchange for his birthright. After very little consideration, Esau agreed, ate the pottage, and sold his birthright.

Little did Esau realize the import of the step he had taken. His birthright meant that, since he was the first-born, he should receive a double portion of the estate of his father, also his father's blessing. All these things did Esau ignore. They were things that money could not buy back after once being forfeited. Because Esau sold his birthright, Jacob received the blessing and also the best of the inheritance.

Another promise of blessing and inheritance is being given today. In 2 Corinthians 6:17, 18, God calls us to forsake idolatry and unrighteousness and follow Him. The promise is that if we separate from these things, He will be a Father to us and we shall be His sons and daughters. The eternal Creator of all heaven and earth is giving out the challenge, and we have so little to do in comparison with what He has already accomplished through His Son, Jesus Christ.

We also have the promise in Romans 8:13-17, that if we turn to God and are obedient to His Word, we become sons of God and are led by His Spirit. What a wonderful thing to be called a son of God, to know that He will give us power daily to overcome and endure unto the end, if we will but turn from unrighteousness. He does not stop there with the promise of the inheritance, but He says in the seventeenth verse: "And if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ; if so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together."

Will it mean anything to us to be heirs of God in the great and terrible day of the Lord, when He shall judge the world in truth and righteousness? Will it be worth while if we are joint-heirs with Christ during His reign over the earth, inheriting all things prepared of the Father from the beginning of the world? But there is a condition. We must suffer with Him that we may be also glorified together. If we refuse to constantly, day by day, crucify the sin that so easily besets us, then we can expect to have no part with Him.

Many are called to have a part in this great inheritance, but few are chosen. Why? Because we are selling our birthright of eternal life through Christ, day after day, for the pottage of sin, evil thinking, and worldly living. Esau sold his birthright for a mess of pottage and lost the blessing of his father. Just so will we lose the blessing of our God, if we sell our birthright for carnal and worldly things.

---

“THE law of the tithe, the tenth of gain, to be devoted to unselfish use and service, and the law of the Sabbath, the seventh of time, to be devoted to rest and worship, are both fundamental laws or principles, promulgated for the good of the race and are as old as the race—neither is statutory, legalistic or Mosaic.—How to Tithe and Why.”

---

MY MONEY CREED

---

I BELIEVE:

1. My money is mine only in trust. It belongs to God, just as I do.

2. This money is not filthy lucre. It is not the devil's coin. It is stored-up human power. It is so much of myself, which I can set at work in China or India or New York or Colorado.

3. God is counting on this money for His work. It is to build His churches and preach His gospel, train His workers and send them out, teach and heal and save His children, and help bring in a new kingdom of righteousness and brotherhood and peace.

4. To spend my income rightly is one of my first tasks as a Christian. Until I settle this, my prayers and confessions will be like saying, “Lord, Lord,” and not doing the will of my Father.

5. I should set aside a definite portion of my income for the church and the service of others. I do this in acknowledgment of God's sovereignty over all my material possessions. I do this to guard against my own selfishness. I do this because it is businesslike. Giving by impulse without system does not accord with the importance of this work.

6. The proportion to be set aside for these purposes should not be less than one-tenth of my income. The Old Testament enjoined the tithe in Israel, and surely I am receiving far more from God than did the men of any former generation. Nevertheless, one-tenth is not to be the limit of my giving. I should not begin with less than one-tenth. I ought to give more if I am able.

7. I should invest this money for God as carefully as I invest in my temporal business, and keep strict account of this fund. I should study the church work, that I may give wisely. I should give systematically. I should pray with my giving.—From Messiah's Advocate.

NEARING THE END?

---

By T. W. R.

---

“On the earth distress of nations, with perplexity.”

THE year 1932 is now well on, but who can tell what may transpire before its end? It is unquestionable that no year was ever entered upon with a more formidable array of problems to perplex and disturb the minds of all that have to do with the government and the business of the world. We need not stress the prominence of the above sign (one among the many given by our Lord to mark the nearness of His coming), because the facts are apparent to all that take notice of the times in which we are living.

It is perfectly evident with the breaking down of all human governments of the “clay-iron” type the world over, that the world is on the borders of some tremendous change, or that some great catastrophe is immediately in front of us which will shake the world to its foundations.

The world is crying out for “a man,” “a leader,” one who will be able to deliver it from the crushing burdens that weigh it down, and to emancipate it from its bondage of fear in regard to the future. For this “man” the world knows not where to look. A well-known writer in the daily press said recently: “What Europe lacks above all things is leadership—some prophet's voice is needed to rouse the Continent to its peril, and some strong hand, or, better still, some resolute companionship of linked effort, to swing the vessel out of the whirlpools into calm.”

With much of the above we agree. The world needs a Man, a Leader, and we as . . . . believers in the Bible are looking for “The Man.” Yes, “The Divine Man,” the “Lord Jesus Christ,” the One to whom all power has been given both in heaven and on earth; the One who has already been anointed to rule the earth, and to judge among the nations.

This Divine Man is “the Desire of all nations,” though they know it not, and He is the only One who is able to rule the world in righteousness. The Desire of all nations is coming, and the “signs of the times” are crying out with clarion tongue that this Gentile age is fast drawing to its close, and that our Lord the Divine “Stone” is near, even at the doors.

Will this year witness the fulfillment of 1 Thessalonians 4:16-17? It may well do so, that the way may be cleared for the fulfillment of those prophecies of judgment towards which an ungodly world is rushing; which will prepare the way for the everlasting kingdom of God to be set up.

“For thus saith the Lord of hosts; Yet once, it is a little while, and I will shake the heavens, and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land. And I will shake all nations, and the Desire of all nations shall come.”—Hag. 2:6-7.

—Words of Life.

---

“WIDE sympathies are greater wealth than broad acres.”

National Berean Department

Margaret Lyon, Editor, 325 N. Austin Blvd., Chicago, Illinois

OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BEREAN SOCIETY

Arlen Marsh, Secretary
Oregon, Illinois

M. W. Lyon, President
13705 Diana Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Miss Sybil Guthrie, Treasurer
Mullin, Texas

Berean Relief Committee, Mrs. Orpha Sanford, 5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois
For Berean Literature address, "The National Berean Society," Oregon, Illinois

"LET US OFFER THE SACRIFICE OF PRAISE TO GOD CONTINUALLY".—HEBREWS 13:15.

A MAN'S THANKSGIVING

GOD of common sense, I give Thee thanks for the heavy blows of pain that drive me back from perilous ways into harmony with the laws of my being; for stinging whips of hunger and cold that urge to bitter strivings and glorious achievement; for steepness and roughness of the way and staunch virtues gained by climbing over jagged rocks of hardship and stumbling through dark and pathless sloughs of discouragement; for the acid blight of failure that has burned out of me all thought of easy victory and toughened my sinews for fiercer battles and greater triumphs; of mistakes I have made, and the priceless lessons I have learned from them; for disillusion and disappointment that have cleared my vision and spurred my desire; for strong appetites and passions and the power they give when under pressure and control; for my imperfections that give me the keen delight of striving toward perfection.

God of common good and human brotherhood, I give Thee thanks for siren songs of temptation that lure and entangle and the understanding of other men they reveal; for the weaknesses and failings of my neighbors and the joy of lending a helping hand; for my own shortcomings, sorrows and loneliness, that give me a deeper sympathy for others; for ingratitude and misunderstanding and the gladness of service without other reward than self-expression.

—Arthur W. Newcomb.

BRUSH CREEK, OHIO

THE Brush Creek Berean Society met at the home of Brother and Sister Magaw on February 18, 1932. The social was postponed until a week later because of the death of our well-known sister, Grandma Pearson. The meeting was called to order by singing of several hymns. The minutes of the last social were read and approved. The meeting was closed by all repeating the Lord's prayer. The remaining part of the evening was spent in answering Bible questions and playing games. For refreshments, coffee, sandwiches, and cake were served. I'm sure all went home feeling well satisfied after the enjoyable evening they had spent.

Pauline Klepinger, Sec.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

THE senior class of the Brush Creek Berean Society held its annual election of officers on January 14, 1932. Officers elected are as follows: president, Floyd Kessler; vice president, Ralph Klepinger; secretary-treasurer, Pauline Klepinger; assistant secretary, Ira Lehman.

Pauline Klepinger.

A PRAYER

LET me do my work each day; and if the darkest hours of despair overcome me, may I not forget the strength that comforted me in the desolation of other times. May I still remember the bright hours that found me walking over the silent hills of my childhood, or dreaming on the margin of the quiet river, when a light glowed within me, and I promised my early God to have courage amid the tempests of the changing years.

Spare me from bitterness and from the sharp passions of unguarded moments. May I not forget that poverty and riches are of the spirit. Though the world know me not, may my thoughts and actions be such as shall keep me friendly with myself. Lift my eyes from the earth, and let me not forget the uses of the stars. Forbid that I should judge others, lest I condemn myself. Let me not follow the clamor of the world, but walk calmly in my path.

Give me a few friends who will love me for what I am; and keep ever burning before my vagrant steps the kindly light of hope. And though age and infirmity overtake me, and I come not within sight of the castle of my dreams, teach me still to be thankful for life, and for time's olden memories that are good and sweet; and may the evening's twilight find me gentle still.

—Max Ehrmann.

THE NEW JUNIOR BOOK

THE new Junior Berean Book entitled, "The Hebrew People," is now ready for distribution. It is a very neat book, easy to understand and of clear print. The price is 30 cents for single copies; 27 cents each for 5 to 25 copies; 25 cents each for 25 or more copies.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE

PREPARED BY LOIS HUNT

“For he shall deliver the needy when he crieth, the poor also, and him that hath no helper.”—Psalm 72:12.

JESUS COMFORTS HIS DISCIPLES

Do you have a playmate you like better than all the others? Would you be sorry if your friend moved away? You would probably plan to write letters to one another.

Just that way the disciples felt when Jesus told them that He was going away—only more so because there is no friend or playmate who could compare with Jesus.

The disciples had lived so closely with Jesus. They had seen all the wonderful things that He had done. They had witnessed His many kindnesses and learned to love Him. They were expecting Him to set up His kingdom at once.

And now His words: “I go unto my Father”, dispelled all their hopes. Their distress must have been very evident, for Jesus said, “Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me.” He promised He would return, and then they would always be together.

In God’s house are places for each member of His church, and these places Jesus is helping prepare. He said, “Whither I go ye know, and the way ye know.”

Thomas said, “We do not know where you are going, so how can we know the way?”

Jesus explained, “I am the way, and the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father but by me.” That is, there is no other way to get into God’s house or have a place in the church other than by baptism into Jesus.

He also told the disciples that if they had known Him they would know the Father: “From henceforth ye know him and have seen him.”

Philip again spoke up, saying, “Lord, show us the Father, and we will be satisfied.”

Jesus rebuked Philip, “Have I been with you all this time and you do not know me, Philip? He that hath seen me hath seen the Father, and now you say, ‘Show us the Father’. Do you not believe that I am in the Father, and the Father in me? All the words I say and the works I do are not mine, but the Father’s.”

Jesus had always given God the glory for the miracles He had performed. And what do you think? Jesus told these wondering friends that whoever believed on Him would be able to do things even more wonderful than He had done. Also, “Whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son. If ye shall ask any thing in my name, I will do it. If ye love me, keep my commandments.”

What a splendid privilege to be able to tell Jesus all our sorrows, and ask Him to help us in everything! How can we help loving one so generous and assuring?

He also said He would ask God to send the Comforter—the Spirit of Truth to dwell with His disciples forever. Today, when there is so much trouble in the world, and war clouds seem to be hovering near, let us remember the Savior’s words: “I will not leave you comfortless; I will come to you.”

Let us trust completely in Jesus, and ask Him each day to help us hold fast to our faith and help us keep up our courage. Let us live one day at a time, and that the best we know how, loving God and Jesus and keeping their law of love.

DO WE ask for the Comforter and depend on the promise Jesus left for those who love Him?

WEEKLY BIBLE READING

March 19 to 25: Deuteronomy 24 to Joshua 5; John 10 to 16

SOMETHING TO DO

Write the answers to these questions. Ask someone to help you.

1. In whom shall we believe?
2. What is God’s house?
3. What is the way?
4. Does verse three in John 14, mean that Jesus takes us to heaven?
5. How do we come to the Father?
6. How do we know God?
7. How had the disciples seen the Father?
8. How is Jesus in the Father and the Father in Jesus?
9. What promises did Jesus leave with His disciples?
10. How is this lesson comforting?

CHILDREN, read Matthew 19:13-15: “Suffer little children, and forbid them not to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven.”

With Our Sunday Schools

LESSON 11. — March 13, 1932

JESUS COMFORTS HIS DISCIPLES

John, Chapters 14 to 17

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 40:1-8

GOLDEN TEXT

Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.

— John 14:27.

A STUDY OF THE SUBJECT

Topic: Jesus Comforts His Disciples.

Basic Truth: "That they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us."—John 17:21.

Outline: I. Faith the Basis of Comfort. II. The Father's House. III. Dwelling in God.

I. Faith the Basis of Comfort. Possessions do not bring contentment or provide solace in times of distress. The rich are often as unhappy as the poor. Assurance of future well-being is essential to happiness. To "know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose" (Rom. 8:28) provides assurance under all circumstances and conditions.

II. The Father's House. Jesus was about to be separated from His disciples. He was going to the Father in heaven, and they could not accompany Him there. To comfort them He said, "If I go, . . . I will come again, . . . that where I am there ye may be also." Chapters 14 to 17 are devoted to the comforting of the disciples in still another way. In the Father's house, the church, are many abiding places, many places where His people can meet with God and God with them. There in the bosom of the church they can forever abide in Him and in His Son, as they await the Lord's personal return from heaven.

III. Dwelling in God. This splendid conception of the Christian's relation to God and to Christ is one of the richest developments of New Testament revelation. That a state of fullest and sweetest communion exists between all the members of the Christ body and the Eternal Father provides consolation and comfort throughout the long period of waiting for the Lord's return.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

HOP'E:

Our lesson theme for this week is, "Jesus Comforts His Disciples". It is not to the comforting that we wish to direct your attention, but to the way in which Jesus does comfort. Belief in God and Christ should prevent hearts from being troubled. This belief involves the hope that is in Christ. Christ sets forth, in the verses following verse one, the component parts of the hope which drives away all sorrow and care. All realize that where there is no hope there can be no comfort or peace. The following outline summarizes the main teachings in this lesson by the Master:

1. God's house of many abiding places.
2. Christ was to go and prepare a place for His own.

3. He will return to get His people.

4. Thereafter they will live together.

If you would find that comfort which Jesus gives, then you must embrace the hope which brings that comfort. After all, that is the end of all our teaching—to get people to embrace the hope that is in Christ. Our lesson for today would be far from complete if we failed to bring to the front the way that we can come into possession of this comforting and purifying hope which makes us pure even as He is pure. 1 John 3:3.

Jesus is —the Way;

—the Truth;

—the Life.

We must go through Jesus in order to reach the way, the truth, and the life. If we go around, we are shunted to one side and unable to reach our desired goal. The way is reached through Jesus; the truth through the way; and the life through the truth. Each is revealed by the preceding one. This way is Jesus' way, and happy is the man who finds it.—C. E. R.

THE GOLDEN TEXT

"Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."—John 14:27.

It was to the disciples, not the world, that Christ was talking when He gave us this golden text. Having been given to disciples, it reaches down to the present time and applies to Christians just as much as to those present with Him at the time He was speaking. This peace of God, which comes through the Son, passes all understanding, and will keep the Christian's heart and mind through Christ Jesus. "Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ."

To the one who experiences this peace, there will be no troubled heart; neither will he be afraid; for he has perfect confidence in the Father and Son so that he realizes that they "doeth all things well."—L. A. R.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT

Jesus Comforts His Disciples

Jesus comforted His disciples, not by promising them ease of life, but by promising them reward for loyalty. His promise was: "I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also."—John 14:2-3.

Jesus always warned those that were His that they must expect hardship. He said He was sending them as sheep among wolves. Again, "These things have I spoken unto you, that ye should not be offended. They shall put you out of the synagogue: yea, the time cometh, that whosoever killeth you will think that he doeth God service."—John 16:1-2. The prospect was not bright for this life, but there were promises for the life to come. Jesus told them that He was going away, but, "I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever."—John 15:16.

One of the great comforts was given by Jesus when He said: "Henceforth I call you not servants: but I have called you friends." What an honor! What a privilege! Is it any wonder that the apostles were willing to endure hardship? There was ever the stimulating memory: "He called me a friend." Oh, wonderful privilege! "Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you." We, too, may enjoy that privilege. "And, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."—Matt. 28:20.

Another great comfort for the apostles, and us, is: "I pray for them: I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me. Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word."—John 17:9, 20.—H. A. S.

INTERMEDIATE CLASS

Topic: Jesus Comforts His Disciples.

Do you have a friend to whom you can go whenever you are in trouble—your mother or father, your sister or brother, or perhaps someone who is not a relative, but just an understanding sort of person to whom you can pour out your whole heart? If you have, that is the one whom you think of first when you do not know just what to do, and the one who comes to you to help you when perhaps others turn away.

Just such a Friend was Jesus! He knew that soon He must leave His disciples to go to His Father in heaven. He knew that many problems would confront them after He was gone, many situations arise in which they would be puzzled as to what course to pursue. And so He gave them the parting directions and admonitions found in these three chapters of John. How they manifest His love for them and His solicitude for their welfare. Notice especially 14:14, 15, 21; 15:9-14; 16:33; 17:3, 9, 15, 20.

Earthly friends, no matter how dear, sometimes fail, or are removed from us by distance or by death; but Jesus never fails. Make Him your Friend today.—M. G.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

AT WCMA

Bro. Sydney Magaw will be the speaker at WCMA next Sunday morning, March 6, from 6:30 to 7:30 a. m. Tune in, and hear the message he has for you.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

Attendance at Sunday school for Feb. 21 was 261, the highest for this year. The audiences for church services are also very encouraging, the house being filled nearly always, and attentive listeners who are not of our membership are numerous. Perhaps the gospel truths appeal to honest, open thinkers more during these troublous times than usual.

A musical evening is being prepared for Friday night, March 4. These musicals have been found to have a beneficial effect in establishing relationships with the community.

An epidemic of influenza has been affecting many, and our own church folks have not altogether escaped. Gerald Thomas has been quite seriously ill, and Sister Townsend has also been indisposed the past week.

Every possible effort is being put forth by the members of our loyal group to advance the cause of truth and righteousness.

F. E. Siple, Pastor.

HOW I LEARNED THE TRUTH

I was born in a Methodist family, that is, my parents and grandparents on my father's side as well as on my mother's side were all Methodist Episcopal people, and at the age of fourteen I united with the same church. When I was about twenty years old I began to have serious thoughts as to what I was. I could not make myself believe I was a Methodist, even if I was a member of that church, and I drifted away out into the world until I told them to take my name off the church book, which they did after they saw I meant what I said. But God followed me by a still, small voice, saying, "Better not put it off, it may be too late." After I had been followed by that voice for twenty years, one day going out to get the mail, I saw a little medical book of a few leaves lying on the porch floor. I picked it up, and in reading the testimonials I found this man's name, S. E. Baird, Galesburg, Mich., and as my maiden name was Baird, I decided to write to S. E. Baird to learn if he belonged to my family. I received a very nice letter in answer, telling me what I wanted to know, as nearly as he could. Then I answered, and he began to write what I thought queer letters about the teachings of the Bible. He sent me some Restitution Herald and I became interested in them. I know God was speaking to me through these two agents, Bro. S. E. Baird and The Restitution Herald. I read and read, and it became interesting to me and I kept on. Think, dear ones, what a seemingly unimportant act will lead us to. I accepted the truth, the blessed truth. Will write more later.

Yours in the Master's service,
Anna D. Springer,

BRUSH CREEK, OHIO

The church work here is progressing normally. Attendance at Sunday school on Feb. 14, was ninety-two. With spring upon us, the attendance will surely soon average the hundred mark.

The recent death of Sister Deborah Pearson has left a certain sadness in the church, yet there is constant faith on the part of all and we know God will yet bless us in worship.

The Lawrenceville brethren, with whom we meet once a month, are well holding up their end of obligations, and though few in number they are always cheerful and eager in their services.

Sydney E. Magaw, Pastor.

FONTHILL - NIAGARA FALLS

The Annual May Meeting will be held the 27th to the 29th of May. Bro. Patrick has been secured as the visiting speaker. Every effort will be made to make this gathering the largest and best meeting ever held. We are urging our members to hold this effort up before the Throne of Grace.

The Falls Bereans held their annual meeting last Friday night and elected the following officers: Sr. Elsie Moore, pres.; Sr. Faye Brown, vice pres.; Sr. Grace Lent, Sec.; Sr. Henrietta Moreland, treas.; and Sr. Lida Sullivan, pianist.

Splendid interest has been manifested in the Bible studies at Fonthill of late. Prophecies relating to the nations of the world in Armageddon conflict have been studied. Attendance is increasing, which is very encouraging.

RELIEF WORK

Brethren: It is needless for me to say very much about the depression and unemployment situation of today, but I am wondering if you know on account of these conditions that we have families who are faithful members of the Church of God living in different parts of the country who are among the number of unfortunate ones who are in need and have never been in this condition before.

I am glad to be able to tell you they have been helped out of the donations given me for relief work, but the funds are getting low, and with other families to care for where there has been sickness and death and aged ones, it makes it necessary for me to ask for more financial help to carry on the work.

Knowing the needs of some of our families as I do and their appreciation of the help given them, I assure you that you cannot give to a worthier cause.

Easter will soon be here. Perhaps some of you are planning on making an Easter Offering to some good cause. If so, please help this relief work, as it is very much needed at this time, and I am sure it will be an offering to God.

Mrs. Orpha Sanford,
5424 Race Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

WHAT IS SISTER GESIN SAYING?

"If in your opinion the themes of the students occupy too prominent a place, please blame her, etc." Sure we would blame her, but every week I hear many exclaiming, "What good articles we are getting from the Training Class." They do not seem to run out of good thoughts. This week there is Bro. LeCrone and Bro. Arlen Marsh. There is Sr. Ida Lapp's, "Shouting for Joy," and that was just what we did when we read her article, just shouted for joy, it was so good. As Sr. Gesin well said, if these young people continue in the same ratio they are working now, the religious press will certainly have some good writers for the future. For that we praise God, for if the Lord still carries we will need more earnest zealous workers than ever for His work. We were so glad to see Bro. Donaldson's name in the paper again, and Bro. Perrine's, both with such good articles.

We read every word in The Herald every week and thank God for its blessed columns. We often wish the Lord had given us more money that we might spread His gospel into more homes. Then we think, perhaps it would make us proud or high minded seeing our cause prosper too much, and we try to be satisfied with what little we can do and pray for others more prosperous to use their money for the cause of truth.

How inspiring are Bro. Marsh's prayers in each week's paper! It must help others who read them to pray often and more earnestly for the advancement of His cause, especially for the young converts, that they may be so well instructed in the truth that they will never be drawn into error or doctrinal untruths, and especially that they may learn in early life to be earnest praying Christians. How careful teachers should be to instill in the minds of their scholars the thought of daily, yes hourly, prayer. If they could only realize that the dear Master is even now at the door and we must be ready when He comes! No time to get ready when the Master calls!

Can we imagine what it would mean to miss that marriage ceremony? Jesus says, "Come, for all things are now ready", and they that were ready went in with Him to the marriage and the door was shut. The sad part is when others came asking to be admitted the answer was, "I know you not". Let us watch, therefore, for we know not the day nor the hour when the Son of man shall come. Jesus said, "I go to prepare a place for you". Are we prepared for that prepared place? He has given so much time to prepare, and so many blessed promises to help us. One of the most helpful is the thought of His Holy Spirit to comfort and help, and if we are not helped by it, we do not get the comfort and help He has left for us. Jesus has left this to comfort us, "I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me; for they are thine and all thine are mine." What more could we ask of the Christ? only to take what is ours to have of His strength and apply it to our lives! Let us all remember if we have been planted together in the likeness of His death, we shall also be in the likeness of His resurrection.

May God help all of us to so live that we may be glorified when He calls for us.

In His name,
M. A. Woodward.

CONTRIBUTORS TO DOLLAR-A-MONTH CLUB

Anna Hammond; Mary Calkins; Mildred Stantial; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Railsback; A. J. Reynolds; Vivian Magaw; Mrs. Laura M. Pascoe; Miss Mary Hogarth; Mr. and Mrs. Glyn Starbuck; Mrs. H. C. Starbuck; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Birkey; Mr. and Mrs. Enos E. Elton.

SPECIAL CONTRIBUTIONS

A. J. Reynolds	$45.50
Mrs. Laura M. Pascoe	38.00
Miss Mary Hogarth	15.50
Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Sprinkle	1.00
H. H. Hawkins	3.00
Mrs. Lucy Robinson	1.00
Total	$104.00

MRS. GEORGE M. CLINE

Mary Ida Cline, daughter of Linos W. and Sarah E. Wright Norris was born near Marshall, Ill., on Feb. 8, 1869, and passed away at her home on Feb. 10, 1932. She was united in marriage to George M. Cline on Dec. 5, 1886. To this union seven children were born, one son and two daughters dying in infancy. Mrs. Cline was preceded in death by her husband some twenty-two years ago. Surviving are Walter E. Cline, Mrs. Maude M. Buckle, Mrs. Mabel M. Huffman, and Ora H. Cline; also eleven grandchildren; her aged father; two brothers, William F. and Chas. E. Norris of Lebanon, Mo.; one sister, Mrs. Emma L. Claypool of Chicago, Ill.; and a host of other relatives and friends. In early girlhood she united with the Church of God of the Abrahamic Faith, and lived a devout Christian life. Her entire life was spent in this community, enduring the trials and tribulations of life, ever true and kind to all.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.

EVANGELINE HARMON

Evangeline, daughter of Russell and Laura Harmon, was born May 30, 1922, and died in Lutheran hospital, Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 8, 1932.

Evangeline was an only daughter and was a very bright, beautiful, and sweet girl, and an exceptional favorite with the girls and boys with whom she associated in her neighborhood and school. The disease with which she became afflicted affected the brain, and she was soon removed to the hospital where every facility for ministering to her was available. A child specialist was summoned at the beginning of her sickness, and another was summoned from Chicago. Blood transfusion to provide more red corpuscles for the impoverished blood was resorted to, her father giving freely of his life blood to save his child, but in vain; the enemy's hand was too strong for mortal resistance, and she quietly fell asleep, leaving the home, to which she had added so much of interest and happiness, now sad and lonely.

Sr. Harmon, mother of Evangeline, is a daughter of our late Sister Musselman, a former matron of Golden Rule Home, so favorably remembered by many.

A large concourse of friends and neighbors, with sad hearts and tear-stained cheeks quietly assembled, filling a commodious church building in Columbia City, Ind., where appropriate services were held, after which tender hands laid away the flower and jewel of a home, to rest and wait for that day of all days, and the coming of the One who will bring comfort to the brokenhearted and will wipe away all tears from off all faces.

L. E. Conner.

MRS. GEORGE STONE

Joe Stone, daughter of Bro. and Sr. John Paek, was born on October 4, 1901, in Anderson County, South Carolina, and died near Pelzer, South Carolina, on January 28, 1932. Several years ago she and George Stone were united in marriage. Two sons were given them, Rudolph, age eleven years, and Wallace, age eight years. Bro. Stone and the two sons are left to mourn the loss of a loving wife and mother. Bro. and Sr. Stone were sound in the one faith, being members of the Guthrie Grove Church of God. We are not informed about the funeral, but presume Bro. Williamson, pastor of the church, conducted it.

J. H. Anderson.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME—

A little son came to live, on Feb. 3, with Bro. and Sr. Nello Hardacre, of Lanark, Ill. He will answer to the name of Nello Blaine, and we are glad that he will grow up under the influence of a good Christian home.

The Teachers' Training Class at Oregon, under the efficient leadership of Sr. G. E. Marsh, has been meeting every two weeks all winter, and we know, personally, much benefit has resulted to those in attendance. One teacher remarked at the last session that she had noticed such a decided advance in her Sunday school class that she could only conclude that the development had been in herself because of this course of study.

Along with many of the remittances for subscriptions to The Restitution Herald, come words of appreciation for the paper. Some say that each issue is better than the one before; that every word is read; and with the isolated, that it, with the Bible, is the only comfort they have. Thanks, brothers and sisters, it helps the editor and his helper, as well as our faithful contributors, and it is to these latter we are passing along these expressions of gratitude.

Last Sunday afternoon, Ogle County (Ill.) Sunday schools held a convention at Mt. Morris, at which meeting Bro. G. Eldred Marsh was a speaker, summarizing the plans and suggestions offered by the other speakers of the session. Sunday evening services at Oregon continue to attract a full house, and we pray that God's blessing will be upon the efforts put forth by Bro. Marsh to bring the light of God's Word to the darkness surrounding these latter days.

From a letter to the editor, we learn that the faithful band at Kokomo, Ind., is still "carrying on". Their Sunday school averages 60, divided into 5 classes. Bro. O. J. Parker and Bro. D. G. Harvey alternate with the Sunday evening services. Bro. Parker has been chosen as their pastor. Kokomo is a shining example of what may be accomplished by the untiring efforts of a faithful few. Do not think you are too few in number to do anything for the Master. Many congregations today look back with satisfaction to the efforts of one or two families.

The sympathies of all are with Bro. and Sr. Russell Harmon in the deep sorrow sustained by them in the death of their only child, little Evangeline, who was the sunshine of their home. May the Life Giver soon come and reunite these sorrowing ones, is our prayer.

Word was received from Oklahoma City that Sr. Hanna Barber of Pueblo, Colo., had been quite badly hurt in an auto accident at that city and is now in a hospital there. Her condition is not yet known, but we trust that it will not prove to be critical, and that she will not be detained in the hospital long.

The folks at Golden Rule Home are all improving nicely and getting anxious to get out into the beautiful sunshine, though Sr. Crysler is not as well as we would like to see her. She bears up patiently under the severe pain she suffers at times and is grateful for the kindly care she is receiving. A word or two from some of her Canadian friends each week would cheer her.

Members and friends of the Oregon congregation gathered on Feb. 26, at the home of their pastor and wife, Bro. and Sr. G. E. Marsh, to give Godspeed to Bro. and Sr. J. Arthur Johnson, who are leaving this week for their new home at Sac City, Iowa. We are sorry to part with these faithful members for a time, but pray God's blessings will follow them, and we know they will find another field of service in which to labor for Him.

We asked a while ago that the Sunday schools that have an orchestra tell us about it, and that busy superintendent at Grand Rapids, Bro. Townsend, you know, tells us that they have a 10 piece orchestra composed of 13 and 14 year old boys. Fine! Wish we could run over and hear them. They now have 15 classes, and some new teachers who are very zealous in their work, have been added to their faithful staff. Eleven classes, each having a separate room, hold session in the basement of the church. Their total enrollment runs well over 300, with a cradle roll of over sixty. When we think of some of the empty church buildings one sees over the country, we wish we could move one or two over to Grand Rapids and give them some additional room.

GENERAL CONFERENCE ANNOUNCEMENT

The General Conference of the Church of God will convene (D. V.) at Oregon, Illinois, from August 2, 1932, to August 14, 1932, inclusive. It would be well for state conference boards to take into early consideration the appointment of a delegate or delegates to represent the membership of the several states. Churches unassociated with state conferences are also urged to take action for the appointment of delegates. Matters of unusual importance will be presented for the consideration and action of the brotherhood at this meeting. The counsel and support of the Church of God everywhere is needed in the furtherance of our mutual effort.

(Signed) G. Eldred Marsh,

Secretary

HERALD RECEIPTS

Helen Porter; D. G. Harvey; D. E. Prutzman; Mrs. R. V. Gardner; H. W. Patterson; Osby Claypool; Mrs. Laura M. Pascoe (for others); A. J. Reynolds; Miss Mary Hogarth (for another); Clifford Wilson (for another); Mrs. Jennie McDonald; Elsie M. Bradley; H. H. Hawkins; Mrs. Bert Sheets; Mrs. Lucy Robinson (for self and others); Mrs. Frank Rogers.

Helen Porter; Mrs. E. F. Orchard; S. P. Dismukes (for another); G. E. Coats (for others); Mrs. L. E. Marston; Chas. Kelley; Mrs. Geo. Siple (for others); Mrs. C. A. Bartholomew; Anna E. Drew; Mrs. J. H. Andrews; R. C. Stilson; Mrs. Chas. A. Harris; Paul Overholser; Mrs. Cora Coles; Mrs. L. E. Lindsay.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

Published by

National Bible Institution

Oregon, Illinois

Subscription Rates.—51 issues per annum, $2.00; 6 months, $1.00; 3 months, 50 cents. Sample copy, Free.

Change of Address.—When ordering change of address be sure to send us both old and new addresses.

Receipts.—The change of date on your address label is your receipt. If date is not changed in two weeks after payment of subscription, please notify this office.

SOME TESTS OF CHARACTER

By Harry Goekler

BEFORE any new model of an automobile appears on the market it is taken to the testing ground of the company and put through the most rigid and trying tests known to its makers. This is done in order that any weakness or defect in the car may be discovered and corrected. The mechanics discover the worth of the car by its reaction to the various tests.

We can make the same application to the human race. Each individual, as he goes through life, is being tested constantly by others in regard to business, religion, politics, and other phases of his life. We very seldom realize this fact, but consciously or unconsciously, we are being judged daily by our very actions and attitude.

Perhaps the greatest factor of our lives which receives testing is our character. So many times when teachers, stenographers, and other office seekers apply for a position the first thing the employer wants to know is the character of the applicant. Oftentimes the applicant fails to receive the position because his character has been tested and found wanting.

There are a number of ways by which our character is tested. Our actions many times reveal our character. Our conversation may show wherein we are weak. Our work sometimes is the testing ground of others. And, strange as it may seem, laughter is also a test of character. When we know what a man laughs at, we know what he really is. Does he laugh at misfortune, at poverty, at honesty in rags, at industry without food, at the agonies of his fellow men? Does he laugh when he sees the convict clothed in the garments of shame, at the criminal on the scaffold? Does he rub his hands with glee over the embers of an enemy's home? Yes, laughter is indeed a test of character.

We are being tested every day as disciples of Jesus. Just as every word, thought, act, and deed tend toward the formation of character, so does every word, thought, act, or deed reflect upon the teachings and commands of Jesus. God tests His followers through trials and temptations. He tested Abraham by commanding him to offer Isaac as a sacrifice upon the altar. We are not required to sacrifice any human being to try our faith, but we do have trials and persecutions of various kinds that prove our loyalty to God.

As a general rule, the individual who has a good character has acquired it through certain outstanding traits of disposition or action. There once lived a young girl whose perfect grace of character was the wonder of those who knew her. She wore on her neck a gold locket which no one was ever allowed to open. One day, in a moment of unusual confidence, one of her companions was permitted to touch its spring and learn its secret. She saw written these words, "Whom having not seen, I love." That was the secret of her beautiful life. What a wonderful thing it would be if we could possess this same kind of love.

Recently a certain magazine conducted a contest among its readers on the best definition of character. The definition finally selected from among the hundreds submitted was this, "Character is what a man is in the dark." I do not believe any better definition could have been selected. When we consider that our character is tested by action, word, and deed among our fellow men and that even when we are alone our character is judged by God, it appears that we should strive to so shape our lives that when the final day of judgment comes our character will be spotless and clean.

TRUE WEALTH

WE HAVE passed through a panic, suffered from a crash on the stock market, and are now more than half way through the depression, and I am still rich. It may be true that I have much less to live on than I had a year ago, but it is certainly true that I have just as much as ever to live for. The real values of life are unshaken and solid.

The depression has not lowered the value of a single friendship. Neighbors still greet us in the same old cordial way; business associates believe in us; our sons hold us in high respect. The wife's welcome at the close of the day has not depreciated in the least, and our daughters continue to lavish their affection upon us with the same old extravagance.

My faith in the goodness of the universe is unimpaired. By that faith I am emboldened as I face defeat and despair. The prayers my mother taught me and the faith in God instilled in me by a devout father remain as priceless treasures no depression can touch.

No nation becomes great by becoming rich. Neither does a man find enduring satisfaction in life by owning something—only by becoming something. The most degrading poverty is that which results from killing the spirit that the body has served.

This depression is a challenge, not a catastrophe. A generation which has conquered the air and sent giant planes circling the globe, which has plunged into the deeps and disported on the ocean's floor, which has climbed above the clouds and lived in the stratosphere, is now faced with the challenge to rise above its dependence on mere things and seek an emancipation of the spirit of man.

The last six months have been for many men a thrilling spiritual adventure through which they have discovered their wealth. Bereft of dividends and profits, they are discovering the sustaining powers of a strong religious faith, the abiding values of courage, heroism, honor, charity, and trustworthiness.

A financial crisis can wipe out profits and bring business to a standstill, but character is beyond its reach. It can rob us of all we have, but it cannot affect what we are. The deepest satisfactions of life—those which come from sharing and serving—remain secure.

I am still rich because I am independently rich—none of my wealth depends upon business conditions or market reports.—Selected.

THE RESTITUTION HERALD

VOLUME 21

OREGON, ILLINOIS, MARCH 8, 1932

NUMBER 23

ANSWERING CHRIST'S CALL

By Harry Goekler

THE early life of Jesus was spent in preparation for the ministry which He realized He must soon take up. We find Him in the temple, at the age of twelve, talking with the wise men and astounding them with His wisdom. Although we have little record of His life from this event until His baptism, it is obvious that He must have spent a great portion of His time in prayer, study, and meditation. His knowledge and labors during His ministry show very clearly that the preparation for service had been complete and thorough. And when, at the age of thirty, Jesus requested John to baptize Him, He was merely taking the first important step for His life work. Following this act of obedience, Jesus went up into the wilderness where He suffered and conquered the evil pangs of temptation. With such a life of preparation and obedience to draw upon, Jesus entered into His work.

We find Him preaching alone for some time in Judea and then, hearing that John was in prison, He came into Galilee. One day, as He was walking along the shore of Galilee, He saw two men fishing. Jesus immediately said, "Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men." Then going on a little farther, He saw two other fishermen and He called them also. In both instances we find that the men responded immediately, dropping their nets where they were and following Jesus. The call to discipleship demands consecration and action, and it is evident that Jesus knew these lowly fishermen would respond to His call for service without hesitation.

One of the four disciples called was named Simon, better known as Peter. In choosing Peter as one of His disciples Jesus secured the services of a remarkable man. Peter has been styled the prince of the apostles, and he seems to have been their leader on every occasion. He was hopeful, bold, confident, courageous, frank, impulsive, energetic, vigorous, strong, and faithful to his Master, in spite of his one defection prior to the crucifixion. Was it any wonder that such a character, molded and developed under the teachings of Christ, should become such a power in defending and advocating the gospel? Christ evidently recognized the rich possibilities in Peter and gave him a definite call to fellowship and to service.

We have often marveled at the rise of Abraham Lincoln from log cabin to White House; but this was nothing compared to the promotion of Peter from a fisher of fish to a fisher of men. The opportunity of following the Master must have seemed a great privilege to Peter and the other disciples.

Peter's decision to forsake all and follow Jesus was not on "the spur of the moment" but was the result of previous experiences and associations. He had a good home and was well taught in the law and the prophets, as is evidenced by his discourses and letters. He was associated with John the Baptist and from him had learned the meaning of Christ's mission. Furthermore, he had heard and seen Christ Himself previous to his calling and had recognized Him as the Messiah, as is evidenced by John 1:35-42. Thus it was that he was well qualified to accept the Master's call and aid Him in His mission of love and service.

Perhaps the first tangible result of Peter's choice lay in the healing of Peter's wife's mother, who was sick with a fever. This miracle was not only an example of how Jesus blesses the home into which He goes as a guest but was also a lesson to Peter in sympathy and service. This was only one of the many lessons that Peter learned as a disciple of Christ, and these lessons must have had a profound influence on his character and life.

Yes, Peter heard and answered that call of Jesus so many years ago, and all down through the years of his life he heard that voice and felt the urge of the words of Jesus. Jesus still speaks, and His voice has the same power to move men to leave all and follow Him. Of course, we can't hear the voice of Jesus as Peter heard it, but the call is no less definite and powerful.

Continued on page 362

EDITORIAL

The Restitution Herald was entered as second class matter, October 16, 1911, at the Post Office at Oregon, Ill., under act of March, 1879.

G. Eldred Marsh, Editor

Mary A. Gesin, Associate Editor

"Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven, whose sin is covered. Blessed is the man unto whom the Lord imputeth not iniquity, and in whose spirit there is no guile."

The Editor's Prayer

MOST MERCIFUL GOD: with David Thy servant, we cry, "Have mercy upon us, O God, according to thy loving kindness: according to the multitude of thy tender mercies blot out our transgressions. Wash us thoroughly from our iniquity, and cleanse us from our sin. For we acknowledge our transgressions: and our sin is ever before us." Let us not be unmindful of our mistakes and of our weaknesses, that we may appreciate the more Thy wonderful grace in the pardoning of our many offenses, and strive the more earnestly to overcome temptation. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Friends of Jesus

WE ALL are in need of a friend: a friend who understands our necessities, who sympathizes with our misfortunes, and who has the wisdom and the power to lead us out of this maze of depression and uncertainty through which we are passing at the present time. The old adage is true: "A friend in need is a friend indeed". We are in need, and we are seeking for a true and a powerful friend.

We must not overlook the fact, however, that friendship is dual. We cannot have a friend unless we are willing to be a friend. Thus Jesus says, "Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you." John 15:14. In order that we may have Jesus for our Friend, we must be a friend to Him! The obligation is mutual.

Awakening Evangelism

IN AN editorial in his splendid local bulletin, the Church of God Messenger, Brother C. E. Randall of Fonthill, Ontario, remarks: "There seems to be an awakening among our people. A wave of evangelism sweeps over the country every few years. It is to be hoped we are entering such a period."

As editor of THE RESTITUTION HERALD our hand is on the pulse of the Church of God throughout the country, and we are glad to confirm Brother Randall's conclusion with regard to this spiritual renewal that is taking place, and which is giving birth to greatly increased interest in evangelistic work in all its branches.

One indication of this interest is the constantly growing demand for copies of THE RESTITUTION HERALD in quantities for general distribution. Several times of late we have been unable to supply the large number of papers desired for this purpose. Orders were received for more than two hundred extra copies of a single issue recently. One sister in Minnesota distributes seventy-five copies every week. Another active worker in the West has used hundreds of copies in the last few months. Brethren living in localities far removed from churches of our faith ask to have the paper sent to friends and neighbors, that they may be induced to believe the glorious tidings of God's coming kingdom on the earth.

The demand for tracts on the great fundamentals is also increasing. As these orders come from all parts of the country they indicate a most encouraging interest developing everywhere.

Destiny of the Earth

OF ALL subjects having to do with you and me, including that of our personal salvation, none is of greater interest or importance than is the destiny of the earth in which we live.

The reason for this is apparent to us all. The earth is our home! Here were we born; here have we lived; and here shall we die and return to the bosom of the earth from whence we came. The earth has been the place of our probation, the scene of our trials and testings. Here have we come to know the joys of friendship and the blessedness of love. All of our experience, pleasant and unpleasant, good and bad, has been within the boundaries of this old world.

Here is the place where God has revealed Himself to man. He did not call the prophets to distant spheres when He wished to make known to them His will. He spoke to them here, in the place He had given to be their home.

It was on this very earth that the Son of God was born. Here He suffered, and here He died for the sins of the world. And it was from an earthy tomb that He rose in glory for our justification.

But why continue? There is no other place promised; there is no other Homeland revealed to us with fulness of detail and with glory of description, save the earth as the Home of God's children in the past, the present, and the eternal future!

HOW TO STUDY THE BIBLE

By Wiley Jones

“Search the scriptures.”—John 5:39. “They received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the scriptures daily, whether those things were so. Therefore many of them believed.”—Acts 17:11, 12.

WE SHOULD study the Bible with delight. The holy writers, although endowed with inspiration themselves, used to take delight in studying the written Word. Thus Paul, “I delight in the law of God.”—Romans 7:22. And the Psalmist, “How sweet are thy words unto my taste! Yea, sweeter than honey to my mouth! O how I love thy law! it is my meditation all the day.”—Psalm 119:97, 103. “Blessed is the man whose delight is in the law of the Lord.”—Psalm 1:2. And even the great Redeemer Himself read the Holy Scriptures; it was “his custom.” Luke 4:16. Why then should not we delight in the study of that sacred volume?

It is commended to us as an able Word—“able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus. . . . Able to build thee up, and to give thee an inheritance among all them which are sanctified.”—2 Tim. 3:16; Acts 20:32. All through life it is a lamp to our feet and a guide to our steps. “Thou shalt guide me by thy counsel, and afterwards receive me to glory.”—Psalm 73:24. In earliest youth it comes to us with the timely exhortation, “Remember now thy Creator, in the days of thy youth.”—Ecl. 12:1.

In the feverish battle of life it gives many a cooling sip of “precious promises,” gently whispering, “The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms.”—Deut. 33:27. “The angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them.”—Psalm 34:7. “Be not weary in well doing, for in due season we shall reap if we faint not.”—Gal. 6:9. “The sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory that shall be revealed in us.”—Rom. 8:18. And at the closing scene of life, its holy pages furnish the dying Christian with that beautiful saying of triumphant faith: “Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.”—Psalm 23:4.

That the Bible is one of the greatest blessings bestowed on mankind is generally acknowledged by all who have taken the pains to acquaint themselves with the value and worth of it. I once heard a pious and learned young Christian say, “The more I study the Bible, the more I want to study it.” A celebrated scholar and linguist has said, “I have regularly and attentively read the holy Scriptures, and am of the opinion that this volume contains more true sublimity, more exquisite beauty, more pure morality, more important history, and finer strains both of poetry and eloquence than could be collected from all other books.” In whatever light we read the Bible, whether with reference to revelation, to history, or to morality, it is an invaluable and inexhaustible mine of knowledge and virtue. But we cannot briefly enumerate its countless benefits; and therefore, with these few seed-thoughts on its preciousness, I pass on to the second branch of the subject.

We should study the Bible with childlike submission to its dictates. The Bible is the sovereign test in all matters, whether of faith or practice. “To the law and to the testimony; if they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them.”—Isaiah 8:20. “Prove all things, hold fast that which is good.”—1 Thess. 5:21. An authoritative message has been sent from the throne of God, and therefore the formation of our religious creed is no longer left to the dreams of imagination or the speculations of philosophy; but it is to be deduced fairly and honestly from the written record alone. The apostles wrought real and true miracles in confirmation of what they said; and yet the Bereans examined even their teachings by the test of Scripture—they “searched the scriptures daily, whether those things were so. Therefore many of them believed.” And they were commended as “noble” for their conduct. How much more necessary then is it for us to examine what we hear (no matter who may say it), and to have a “Thus saith the Lord”, or a “Thus it is written”, for every article of faith and practice!

But many believers of error pride themselves on the witness of their own hearts, or the teaching of the spirit within them, as they call it. They ought to remember, however, that if the Spirit of God were in the heart it would not, in one jot or tittle, contradict the Spirit of God in the Bible, for His Spirit nowhere contradicts His Word. When Paul said, “The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God,” he was speaking of himself and those early disciples who, like him, had believed the gospel of the kingdom, and also had been immersed “for the remission of sins.” But I once heard a man who had neither believed that gospel nor received that immersion apply this language to himself as proof of his being a Christian; this, however, was a glaring misapplication and perversion of that scripture.

MY ROCK OF REFUGE

By N. H. Geiselman

When in affliction's darksome night,
I drift upon a troubled sea,
And waves of pain preclude the light,
And mists o'ershade the Rock to me,

Sometimes my pain like Boreas rules
To lay its burdens on my heart;
Storm-like raging billow gales
And tempest-tossed my little bark.

But in this lesson so severe,
My vision sees within the veil
A clefted Rock of strength and cheer,
To stay the tempest's angry gale.

So all is well; no pain, no tears—
These things are with the jarring throng—
For in God's kingdom, now so near,
We soon shall sing the victor's song.

So, clearly through the mist I see
An arm of strength, with wounded hand
Outstretched, with healing balsam free,
To guide me to that better land.

Then, Rock of Ages, Rock sublime,
Cleft for the aged, helpless, poor,
Serene in pain, unharmed by time,
I'll cling to Thee forever more.

THE GOOD FOUNDATION

By M. W. Perrine

IN THE construction of a building nothing is more important than the foundation. A good architect always looks well to the foundation, for if that be faulty the building soon goes to rack.

Peter's confession was: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God", and Jesus said to him, "Thou art Peter, and upon this rock will I build my church". Peter's confession, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God", is a sure foundation, which the gates of hades shall not prevail against. Jesus taught His disciples the folly of building a house upon the earth in Luke 6:48-49. It is even so with the church of God, God's temple.

The Apostle Paul says, Ephesians 2:19, 20, "Now therefore ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow-citizens with the saints, and of the household of God. And are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner stone." As lively stones they are built up into a spiritual house, a holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God by Jesus Christ. Then it becomes us to follow the Apostle Peter's advice to lay aside all malice, all guile, hypocrisies, envies, and all evil speaking and as newborn babes desire the sincere milk of the Word that we may grow thereby. (1 Peter 2:1.) Paul calls it putting off the old man and putting on the new, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness, thus giving us an idea of what true conversion means.

What use will God make of this building? "In whom ye also are builded together for an habitation of God through the Spirit."—Eph. 2:22. How careful then we ought to be not to defile the temple of God, neither outwardly nor inwardly. Christ being the Head and the church His body, we can readily discover that it is God's purpose to work in and through this body to the pulling down of the strongholds of sin, and the breaking up of the present order of things, the political and ecclesiastical bodies that are antagonistic to Him. But let us not get Japan's idea that this is to be accomplished in this present age. God has a set time in which He will favor Zion, and establish His kingdom. Hear David in Psalm 102:13: "Thou shalt arise, and have mercy upon Zion; for the time to favour her, yea, the set time, is come. For thy servants take pleasure in her stones, and favour the dust thereof. So the heathen shall fear the name of the Lord; and all the kings of the earth thy glory."

When the Lord shall build up Zion, He shall appear in His glory. He shall regard the prayer of the destitute. "Men's hearts failing them for fear," tells us the time is at hand. Soon the question will be, "Why do the heathen rage, and the people imagine a vain thing? The kings of the earth set themselves, and the rulers take counsel together, against the Lord, and against his anointed, saying, Let us break their bands asunder, and cast away their cords from us. He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh: the Lord shall have them in derision. Then shall he speak to them in his wrath, and vex them in his sore displeasure." And here is the reason, "Yet have I set my king upon my holy hill of Zion." The breaking in pieces will be of the heavens and earth that now are, and a new order of things will take their place. Isaiah calls it a new heaven and a new earth, when He creates Jerusalem a rejoicing and her people a joy. This must be during the thousand years, "For the child shall die an hundred years old, and the sinner, being an hundred years old, shall be accursed. And they shall build houses and inhabit them, and plant vineyards and eat the fruit of them." But we don't want to forget that the foundation upon which we build is not a man-made foundation, but the Word of God.

Remember that God is calling out this people to bear His name, Acts 15, not some man's name. Acts 15:14. The Apostle Paul tells us that many false teachers are gone out into the world. These false teachers are determined to crowd themselves and their ideas into the very foundation of our faith. We are warned to shun them. Paul wrote to Timothy to "preach the word", 2 Timothy 4:1, and Peter says, "This is the word which by the gospel is preached unto you."—1 Peter 1:25.

Then the Word is what must be believed if one is to be saved, and God's Word is the sure foundation, the Word by Holy Spirit handed down to us by the apostles and prophets and Jesus Christ. There is but one faith, and these alone can give it. Remember we are saved through faith by grace; it is the gift of God. "By grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God." Eph. 2:8.

Take God's Word as your foundation—the whole of it—rightly dividing it by comparing scripture with scripture, and you will be building for eternal life and upon that good foundation.

---

WHO IS SOVEREIGN?

---

By Harvey Krogh

---

"THE heaven is my throne, and the earth is my footstool". These are the words of our God, the Almighty who rules the universe. He is infinite in mercy, perfect in justice, supreme in power and unsurpassed in wisdom. Because of His wisdom, He created all things to have a part in His majestic plan of the ages.

His mighty hand is shaping the destinies of the nations. In Daniel 4:17, judgment is brought upon Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, "that the living may know that the most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will". Likewise it is repeated in the twenty-fifth verse, the thirty-second verse, and also in Daniel 5:21, that God rules in the kingdoms of men.

God is also watching over His scattered nation of Israel and is now arranging things that they may come back to the land which He promised them. He says, through the prophet Jeremiah, in the nineteenth verse of chapter fifty, "And I will bring Israel again to his habitation." In Ezekiel 11:17 He says, "I will even gather you from the people, and assemble you out of the countries where ye have been scattered, and I will give you the land of Israel." God's invisible power is directing His nation in the course that He has planned for it.

There is another class of people to whom God is devoting much attention, and over whom He is ruling. The church of the living God is being ruled by the great law of love. Jesus said, "If ye love me, keep my commandments."—John 14:15. God is building and developing His church today through His Son, Jesus Christ.

God is using all mankind in His work and there is a place for each individual. He is offering a reward to all who answer His call to repent of their sins and serve Him. He also uses, as He sees best, those who will not turn to Him, but He has offered no reward for such. In Daniel 4:

17, we have the reason for the judgment upon Nebuchadnezzar and the power exerted upon him: "that all may know that the Lord ruleth." God's desire is that all shall come to the knowledge of Him, and this will be the result of the working out of His plan.

Our great Creator is also using the wicked to further His plans. In Jeremiah 25:7-14, we read that God said that He would bring the families of the north and Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, down against Israel and the surrounding nations. The Israelites were in captivity seventy years, and then God said He would punish the king of Babylon and his nation for their iniquity.

Ezekiel tells us how God will bring the nation of Gog against Israel, that the heathen might know that God is God. (Ezek. 38:14-16.) Zechariah also prophesied, "I will gather all nations against Jerusalem to battle; and the city shall be taken, and the houses rifled, and the women ravished. . . Then shall the Lord go forth, and fight against those nations, as when he fought in the day of battle."

The godless nations who love war are going to be used to punish God's people, but God will punish these same nations for their iniquity and for their desire for strife. They are preparing for war, not because God called them to prepare but because of their own desires.

God has extended the invitation to all mankind: "Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you, and will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty."—2 Corinthians 6:17, 18.

Those who accept the call and are faithful will make up the body of Christ. He is purifying unto Himself a peculiar people zealous of good works. For those who are in Christ "walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit."—Rom. 8:1. And, "the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance: against such there is no law."—Gal. 5:22, 23.

God is offering a handsome reward to those who answer His call and obey His commandments. Are you developing the characteristics that please God and that will merit a reward of eternal life with joy and peace, or are you allowing your carnal nature to develop and kill out love, kindness, meekness, goodness, and faith?

"Many are called but few chosen."—Matt. 20:16. Are you living so that you may be chosen?

---

FROM Key to Original Gospels by George M. Lamsa, we learn that in the Aramaic language spoken by Jesus and His disciples, the idioms have often become confused by translation. For example, if an Easterner says in Aramaic, "Let me bury my father," his meaning in English is, "My father is an old man, over seventy years of age. I have to support him until he dies." He renders the Aramaic words, "Eli, Eli, Lama sabachthani," into English thus "My God, my God, for this was I kept—this was my destiny."—Adapted.

THE STORY OF RUTH

Continued from last week

SO RUTH gleaned in the fields of Boaz until the end not only of the barley, but of the wheat harvest. When the harvest was over, Naomi, who was anxious for the welfare of the good and devoted creature who had been more than a daughter to her, acquainted her with what had largely and lately engaged her thoughts. She said that Boaz was so near of kin that he came under the operation of the levirate law, which required that the first child born from this union should be counted as the son of the deceased and inherit as his heir. It was, therefore, no less her duty than a circumstance highly calculated to promote her welfare, that Boaz should be reminded of the obligations devolving upon him. But as it was not wished to press the matter upon him, if he were averse to it, it was necessary that the claim should, in the first instance, be privately made.

